American airmen rescued by Mihailovic's forces may also be requested as defense witnesses, but at present this is not part of the defense plans. The Government has already rejected a request of the American Government that some American soldiers be allowed to testify.

[Colonel McDowell, in a statement issued Tuesday in New York through the Committee for a Fair Trial for Draja Mihailovic, said the Germans got in touch with him in 1944 "for the purpose of discussing the surrender of German forces." He said Mihailovic was a "bitter anti-Nazi."]

Admits Seeing Nedic

Mihailovic declared that the late Milan Nedic, wartime puppet premier of German-occupied Yugoslavia, was "a man completely washed out mentally," but conceded that he held a conference with him in August, 1944.

Mihailovic denied the prosecution's contention that the meeting resulted in a promise of arms for his troops in exchange for an agreement not to use the arms against the Germans.

"It [the meeting] was without any results," he said. "It was an absolutely unnecessary meeting."

Nedic Reports "Imagination"

The court read the record of Nedic's interrogation, before his prison suicide last February 4, in which he gave details of the alleged agreement.

"I think all this which he says is only his imagination," Mihailovic commented.

He said he sometimes got material from Nedic when he sent men into Nedic units for short periods. "And then the men came back and we got material that way," he explained.

Mihailovic Given Rest

When the day's session was less than two hours old it recessed to give Mihailovic a rest.

When faced with a contradiction between the record of his prison interrogation and his present testimony, Mihailovic said, "There are moments with me when I am so tired I say yes when I mean no. Even now I can say yes."

Question: Are you tired now?

Answer: No . . . I don't want to impede the trial.

Nevertheless the president called a recess.

Nedic "Greatest Enemy"

But before the court recess Mihailovic insisted on the comment that Nedic was his "greatest enemy."

"Once as a colonel he sentenced me to 30 days in jail," he said.

Nedic was a general and Mihailovic a career officer in the Royal Yugoslav Army before the war.

When court was resumed he was asked if he issued an order in January, 1944, for his units in the Visegrad-Priboj sector of Bosnia and Croatia to join with Germans and Lejeticites (quisling militia) in an atack on the "2d Proletarian Division." Proletarian divisions were specially honored units of Marshal Tito's Partisans.

"Attacked By Partisans"

Mihailovic said he did not remember issuing such an order but admitted that his units did take part in the fight because "it was something I was forced to do. In this case I was attacked by the Partisans in an area that belonged to me and I had to defend myself."

Later he said that "when the Partisans did not attack me I fought against the occupier."

Why Germans Ignored Him

There was laughter in the hall when Mihailovic said the Germans did not attack him in 1944 because "it would not have paid them."

"Why would they not benefit by it?" the prosecutor asked.

"Because I was engaged in a struggle against Partisans," Mihailovic said.

Britain Denies Asking War On Tito

London, June 13 (AP)—The British Foreign Office said today a note had been delivered to the Yugoslav Government challenging it to prove the allegations at Gen. Draja Mihailovic's trial that a British liaison officer had advised him to fight against Marshall Tito's Partisans and the Communists.

The Foreign Office released statements by [illegible] named at the trial.

The Foreign Office, recalling that the trial opened with the Government indictment making allegations against Col. William Bailey, a Colonel Hudson and a Colonel Masterson, said the charge "implicates his Majesty's Government" and asked that "documentary evidence might at once be provided."

"Seems No Foundation"

The note suggested that Yugoslavia should have invited British comment before presenting the charges in court, and said "on the information at present available these allegations seem to have no foundation whatever."

Colonel Bailey was a liaison officer at Mihailovic's headquarters. Mihailovic testified yesterday that Bailey advised him to wipe out the Partisans to clear the way for a proposed Allied landing from the Adriatic. At present Bailey is assistant commercial attaché in Turkey.

Colonel Hudson, also a liaison officer, has not yet been identified by a first name. Neither has Colonel Masterson, but the Yugoslav indictment said he was in British Middle East headquarters at Cairo.

The Foreign Office said it had received the following message from Bailey:

"The possibility of Allied landings in the Adriatic and consequent necessity of liquidating the Communists was not mentioned by me to Mihailovic or to any member of his staff privately or officially at any time during my period of attachment to his headquarters, nor was the matter ever suggested to him indirectly. My instructions in this regard were unequivocal."

Bailey continued that far from encouraging Mihailovic in any anti-partisan activities, "my efforts and those of my staff were at all times directed in the contrary sense."

Denial By Hudson, Too

The Foreign Office also said that Hudson in an interview "categorically denies the statements attributed to him."

It added that the message he was stated to have given Mihailovic, namely, that the Chetniks should not fight for Russia, "was in fact delivered both to the Chetniks and to the Partisans, and was to the effect that the fight in Yugoslavia was one for Yugoslavia and should not be carried on on behalf of any other power, either Russia or Great Britain."

A Foreign Office spokesman added that "the words 'or Great Britain,' which are the important words, were omitted in the statement at the trial."

Greek Leftists Plan General Strike

Athens, June 13 (A. P.).—The leftist-dominated General Confederation of Labor called on workers today to stand by for a twenty-four-hour strike all over Greece in protest against the "dictatorial and fascist" regime which the Federation said the Government was trying to impose.

Albanians Fire at Turkish Ship

ATHENS, June 13 (AP).—It was officially announced here tonight that Albanian coastal batteries had fired unsuccessfully on the Turkish vessel Indie while the ship was passing through Corfu Channel.

Rom[illegible] Cuts Officer Staff

BUCH[illegible]ST, Romania, June 13 (AP).—[illegible] Ministry of War announced [illegible]ay a reduction of 40 per cent [illegible] the number of active officers [illegible]he Romanian Army. The red[illegible]n, made under terms of a special law, affects 5,000 officers, the ministry's communique said. A reliable private source said 8,000 officers were affected. The communique said the reduction was made because Romania was "going over to a state of peace."

Jackson Is Haakon's Guest

OSLO, Norway, June 13 (AP).—Justice Jackson had lunch with King Haakon at the royal palace today and then went pleasure driving in the late Vidkun Quisling's automobile. Justice Jackson is here on vacation.

Pravda Hits British Ambassador To Iran

Moscow, June 13 (AP)—The official Communist party newspaper Pravda asserted today that British Ambassador J. H. Le Rougetel recently exerted heavy pressure accompanied by threats on Iranian Premier Ahmed Qavam over politics in that recently occupied nation.

[In London, a British Foreign Office spokesman described the Pravda story "as a typical piece of U.S.S.R. propaganda."]

The article was dated from the Russian oil center of Tiflis and quoted an unidentified "informant passing through Tiflis."

TWO JEWS ARE DOOMED FOR PALESTINE INCIDENT

JERUSALEM, June 13—(AP) The Jerusalem military court today sentenced to death two alleged members of the illegal Jewish extremist organization, Irgun Zvai Leumi, who were found guilty of discharging firearms at British troops and depositing bombs in a raid on the Sarafand camp March 6.

These were the first death sentences passed under the new Palestine emergency defense regulations.

After the verdict was pronounced the two accused, Yousef Simkhon, 19, and Isha Michael, 24, joined with members of their families and numerous friends in singing the Hatikvah (the Jewish national hymn).

Kurdish Chief Sticks By Iran

Tehran, June 13 (AP)—Ghazi Mohammed, leader of the so-called Kurdish independent republic, and his followers have "pledged renewed allegiance to the Iranian Central Government," the Iranian Foreign Office announced today.

On Tuesday, the Foreign Office announced a settlement of the dispute with the self-proclaimed autonomous government of Azerbaijan province, in which the provincial regime [illegible] authority of the Tehran Government.

Agreement Details Undisclosed

The Tabriz radio said that agreements returning Azerbaijan to the Central Iranian Government at 8 P.M. tonight had been "officially signed." Details of the agreement were not disclosed.

Today's announcement said Ghazi Mohammed had "agreed to cast the lot of his followers with their Iranian brothers to create a unified nation." The Kurdish leader met with a Central Government commission at Tabriz, Azerbaijan capital.

Meanwhile, the Tubeh (Leftist) party newspaper Rahbar reported new details on the settlement of the Azerbaijan problem in Tabriz negotiations between Azerbaijan Premier Pishevari and Prince Mozaffar Firouz, Iranian Propaganda Minister. The Foreign Office had said agreement had been reached on the basis of Iranian Premier Ahmed Qavam's seven-point program announced some weeks ago.

Four Supplementary Decisions

Rahbar said there also were four supplementary decisions:

That the Azerbaijan governor general to be named by the Central Government would be chosen from a list of nominees submitted from Tabriz; the Azerbaijan "national parliament" would become a provisional council; owners of lands confiscated by Pishevari's government for division among peasants would be reimbursed from the provincial treasury, and that Azerbaijan irregular troops would be taken into the national gendarmerie for service within Azerbaijan.

[In Moscow the newspaper Pravda in a dispatch from Tiflis charged that the British Ambassador in Tehran had brought heavy pressure, accompanied by threats, on Premier Qavam, and that he had expressed particular dissatisfaction over the rapproachement between Qavam and the Iranian People's party. A British Foreign Office spokesman in London said the Pravda article was "a typical piece of U.S.S.R. propaganda."]

ARABS PLAN FOR PALESTINE

League Sending Protest Notes To Britain And U.S.

Bludan, Syria, June 13 (AP)—The Arab League passed secret resolutions threatening to arm Arabs in Palestine unless Britain disarms the Jews and providing means of halting illegal Jewish immigration "by force if necessary," an authoritative informant said today.

The secret resolutions were adopted along with a ten-point program on Palestine which was announced formally after a five-day meeting. These points included establishing [illegible] committees both in this country and within the Arab League, creation of a special fund for Palestine and measures to halt land sales to Jews.

Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, league secretary general, said notes also were being sent to the United States and Britain rejecting all ten recommendations by the British-American Committee of Inquiry on Palestine.

Declines Further Details

He declined to give further details, but it was reported one note asked the United States to withdraw from the Palestine case. The notes to Britain, it was said, declared the league would bring the Palestine case before the United Nations if new talks with Britain, before September, did not result in a satisfactory solution.

Azzam Pasha said, "We do not question America's right to seek peace and stability in the world, but when that effort for peace results in unrest and oppression for another people, we oppose it. There has never been a clash of viewpoints with America, and now we clash only with the Zionist voice in America."

He said the Mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin al Husseini, had had nothing to do with the matters the league discussed. The league last night had urged Arab factions in Palestine to unite under an executive committee headed by the Mufti.

The Ten-Point Program

The ten-point program of the league.

1. Constitution of a special committee called the Palestine Committee in which all Arab states represented would supervise all matters relating to Palestine.

2. Constitution of a supreme Arab body in Palestine composed of Jamal Husseini, Dr. Husseini Khalidi, Emile Ghouri and Ahmad Helmi Pasha.

3. Ask discharge of Zionist forces and their disarmament in Palestine.

4. Recommend that Arab states place criminal penalties upon persons selling land to Jews.

5. Act by all means to recover Palestine lands.

6. Recommend that Arab states issue special fiscal postal stamps to help Palestine Arabs.

7. Create a special fund for Palestine to which all Arab states will contribute.

8. Reorganize and strengthen propaganda.

9. Strengthen and enlarge the boycott against Jewish goods from Palestine.

10. Appeal to all Arab peoples to support Palestine Arabs and urge all Palestine Arabs to stand united in face of "Zionist invasion."

Mufti Not In Arabia

Cairo, June 13 (AP)—King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia telegraphed the Associated Press today in response to an inquiry that the Grand Mufti of Palestine was not in his land and that he knew nothing of his movements. The Mufti left France mysteriously on May 29.

ARAB FACTIONS TOLD TO UNITE BEHIND MUFTI

League Orders Dissolution of Higher Committee and Higher Front.

SETS UP 10-POINT PROGRAM

Threat to Arm Reported Ready Unless Great Britain Takes Guns Away From Jews.

Bludan, Syria, June 13 (A. P.).—Rival Arab factions in Palestine were directed by the Arab League today to reconcile their differences and unite under an executive committee headed by the Grand Mufti or Jerusalem, implacable foe of Jewish immigration into the Holy Land.

Closing an extraordinary five-day session here, representatives of the Arab League last night ordered dissolution of both the Palestine Higher Committee and the Higher Front, which was formed ten days ago as a dissident Arab faction.

New Group Created.

In place of these two bodies the league created an executive committee under the spiritual leadership of the Mufti, Haj Amin Effendi al Husseini, and composed of the following:

Jamal Husseini, nephew of the Grand Mufti; Dr. Husseini Khalidi, who formed the Higher Front; Emile Ghouri, and Ahmad Helmi Pasha, Jerusalem financier and a political independent. All four formerly were members of the Higher Committee.

The Higher Front was formed by a faction which contended that it was the job of Palestine Arabs alone, and not the Arab League, to take the Jewish immigration question before the United Nation.

Today the Arab League formally announced a 10-point program on Palestine and said some secret resolutions had been adopted. One of the secret provisions was reported reliably to be a threat to arm Palestine's Arabs unless Great Britain disarms the Jews. Another secret agreement reportedly provides means of halting illegal Jewish immigation by force if necessary.

Some points on the announced program included measures to enlarge funds to prevent sale of Palestine to Jews.

Other Action Reported.

The Arab group, in closing its session here, also was reported to have approved the texts of letters to be sent to the United States and Great Britain rejecting the recommendations of the British-American Inquiry Committee on Palestine, which advised immediate admission of 100,000 European Jews.

In addition the letters were expected to urge American withdrawal from the case, request further British-Arab talks and disclose plans for taking the matter to the United Nations.

Whereabouts a Mystery.

The whereabouts of the Grand Mufti remained a mystery today. In Paris an informant close to the Foreign Office said last night that it had been determined officially that the Mufti left there for Cairo May 29 by plane using a false passport. A Reuter's dispatch from Jerusalem quoted Dr. Izat Tannous, secretary of the Higher Committee, as saying the Mufti "is safe" and "probably is in Syria." British officials in Damascus, however, denied reports the Mufti had arrived there by plane.

FIGHTING SPREADS DESPITE TRUCE OF CHINESE FACTIONS

NANKING, June 13.—(AP) The battle-packed 15-day "truce" between China's warring Nationalist and Communist factions went into its seventh day today with both sides claiming new military successes.

The Government's Central News agency said Nationalist troops were driving ahead in Manchuria and had frustrated attempted Communist landings near Tsingtao, where U. S. Marines have one of their strongest North China garrisons.

The Communist New China News agency reported the recapture by Red forces of 10 villages northwest of Nanking from Government troops, who it said launched an offensive in that area.

A bright spot in the otherwise discouraging picture was a Communist announcement that Red Forces in Shantung province had been ordered to halt their attack on Tsingtao, where the presence of a large U. S. Marine garrison evoked fears of international complications.

Communist spokesman Wang Ping-Nan characterized Communist operations in Shantung as "self-defense" against aggressive moves by the Nationalists who, he said, were thrusting toward northern Kiangsu cities in six columns. Northern Kiangsu province is adjacent to the Shantung area.

While these and other reports of expanding hostilities seemed to reduce the 15-day truce agreement to a scrap of paper, General Marshall's headquarters said negotiations for a permanent peace settlement had not been halted.

An authoritative Government source, however, was frankly pessimistic in his estimate of the situation. He declared the Government was tired of continual delays and frustrations, and would rather "fight it out" with the Communists than extend the truce to prolong seemingly fruitless negotiations.

This source, who would not permit use of his name, said the economic drain of month after month of delay in reaching a settlement was "too great a price to pay for avoiding open conflict."

Reporting the Government's new drive in Manchuria, the Central News Agency said Nationalist forces had cleared the area between Changchun and the Sungari river of Communists troops and had captured three more towns identified as Nungan, Swatien and Swaiteh.

The Communist spokesman described Communist activities in Shantung as "self-defense," after denouncing Nationalists said to be advancing against Communist-held Kiangsu cities in six columns. Attacks by Nationalists on the Communist new 4th Army were declared to be under way around Hsiaohsien and Tungshanhsien, south of Hsuchow.

In Manchuria, the Central News Agency asserted Nationalist troops have cleared Communists north of Changchun and south of the Sungari River and have captured three more towns identified as Nungan, Swatien and Swaiteh. Some Communist troops were said to have surrendered to Gen. Tu Li-ming's new 1st Army, which has now crossed the Sungari in a push toward Harbin.

Situation In Tsingtao

Although the official Chinese Army spokesman General Kuo, declared the situation in Tsingtao was "critical," with its fate dependent upon the United States 3d Marine Brigade garrisoned there, competent foreign quarters tended to minimize the danger, saying clashes in the vicinity did not necessarily portend a Communist attack on the city itself.

American communications with Tsingtao, where about 8,000 Marines and sailors are based, were functioning smoothly. Admiral Charles Cooke, 7th United States Fleet commander, who paused at Nanking for a meeting with Marshall, was due to fly to Tsingtao.

Reports said the Communists had not yet attempted to crack the Nationalists' 5-mile "final defense" line guarding the seaport itself nor did danger of such an assault appear immediate.

Back in Nanking, Communist negotiator Gen. Chou En-lai said he had not asked extension of the truce as the price for continuing negotiations with the Government and Marshall. At the same time an authoritative Government source said the Nationalists "naturally want peace" but would prefer war to extending the truce.

China Truce 'A Scrap Of Paper'

China May Shift Koo To U.S.

Nanking, June 13 (AP)—A Foreign Office spokesman said today he was "practically certain" that Wellington Koo, Ambassador to London, would be appointed Ambassador to Washington in the near future. Koo is returning to London within the next few days to wind up his affairs there, the spokesman related.

NATS Makes 'Diaper Flight' From Guam

Honolulu, June 13 (AP)—Navy Air Transport Service scheduled a "diaper flight" today from Guam to Oakland, carrying two Missouri children to their mother who is critically ill.

Mrs. Newton S. Grindstaff, of Trenton, Mo., was flown to the United States five days ago aboard a navy hospital transport in critical condition.

Today Patricia, aged 2, and Arthur, aged 5 months, were on their way to her, accompanied by their father, an aviation torpedoman second class, of Trenton.

Fortunetellers Mad At Hoopiopio in Hawaii

HONOLULU, T. H.—(UP) When police court officials looked through the statutes to get the proper definition of the charges against three gypsy fortunetellers arrested for plying their trade on Honolulu streets, they had to look under "H."

There they discovered that "hoopiopio, hoounauna, hoomanamana or fortunetelling" is against the law and punishable by fines of $10 to $500 and a year imprisonment. The Hawaiian names were retained in the law when it was utilized extensively to check practitioners of kahuna-ism, ancient Polynesian witchcraft.

Blame Allies in Indonesian Riot

BATAVIA, Java, June 13 (AP).—Information Minister Mohammed Natsir, of the unrecognized Indonesian Republic, said today that recent anti-Chinese outbursts at Tangerang occurred because the Allies forced the Indonesian Army to leave a four-mile-deep No-Man's-Land west of the Tjisadana River. Natsir, just returned from a tour of the area, said it was impossible to maintain order there without troops. A partial casualty list on the disorders showed that 140 Chinese were killed, he said, forty others reported missing, and 2,000 "under protective custody of the Indonesian Republican Army."

Empire's Rise And Fall Traced At Trial Of Tojo

Tokyo, June 13 (AP)—The men whom the Allies charge with having flung the Pacific nations into war saw their ambitious bid for an empire paraded before them on huge fifteen-foot-square red-lined maps today as the prosecution opened its case before the International War Crimes Tribunal.

Wartime Premier Hideki Tojo and 25 others associated with him in the great Asian gamble watched intently as the maps charting Nippon's expansion and collapse in Manchuria, China, Southeast Asia and the South Pacific were unrolled.

Tojo studied each map with deep concentration. Each—on its great frame above and behind the rows of defendants—told a chapter of Japan's aggression and decline over a decade and a half.

Tojo Stares At Lap

At the start, Japan alone was lined in the red paint. Then with the succeeding years the red stretched out to the mandated islands, Manchuria, China, the Philippines, Thailand, Burma, New Guinea and the Malay Straits.

Then came the turn, the red lines shrinking as Japan lost the game for empire.

Tojo, without expression, turned from the final map and silently stared into his lap.

Of all the defendants, only Kenji Doihara, who was Japan's "Lawrence of Manchuria," and Mamoru Shigemitsu, who signed the surrender document for Japan aboard the U.S.S. Missouri, paid scant attention. Doihara shot a couple of quick glances at the Manchurian maps and Shigemitsu looked not at all.

Even Chief Judge Dozes

The big courtroom in the War Ministry Building was stifling hot throughout the day and after the unrolling of the maps the defendants and spectators alike dozed fitfully while Brigadier Henry G. Nolan, assistant prosecutor for Canada, droned for four an' a half hours through the prosecution's history of the Japanese Government.

Even Sir William Webb, tribunal president, dozed momentarily and snapped back to attention with an embarrassed look. Shortly afterward he halted Nolan and suggested he shorten the remainder of the report and present it Friday at the opening of the court.

It was announced that no sessions would be held on Saturdays.

Defense attorneys objected to introduction of the maps, but Webb replied they would be received "for whatever value they might have."

Broken Treaties Introduced

The first evidence introduced to the eleven-justice court was almost 100 historic documents—treaties and agreements which the prosecution charged Tojo and his fellow defendants violated.

Alan Mansfield, assistant prosecutor for Australia, opened the trial with presentation of the treaties.

Japan had formally approved many of the pacts, he noted, citing as one example The Hague Convention of 1907 requiring a declaration before beginning a war. There was no declaration or other warning before Japan's carrier force struck Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941.

The chief Allied prosecutor, Joseph B. Keenan, is in the United States seeking additional evidence and witnesses and is expected to return within four weeks.

The trial probably will require at least two months, headquarters officers here indicated.

Geisha-Girl 'Liberation' Drawback

Tokyo, June 13 (AP)—The geisha girls of Atami, a city southwest of here, were officially liberated yesterday, but today they found life much the same as usual.

The Government notified the geisha house owners that the girls' debts to the houses—totaling 660,000 yen ($44,000)—were canceled.

The girls had run up the bills for various reasons and otherwise they would have to keep on working until they were paid.

As the newspaper Yomiuri put it: "The bonds which had enchained those girls were immediately burned and reduced to ashes."

Then the girls realized that with this democratic boon from a government abolishing all manner of bondage they owed no further allegiance to the houses. But that meant they had no jobs.

They held a quick consultation, and voted to return to the same houses—as their own bosses.

From Seoul, Korea, it was reported barely sufficient food would be available for the summer and that imports would be necessary, but that use of some grain for alcoholic drinks was planned.

JAP PRESS WARNED TO FIGHT DICTATION

Tokyo, June 13 (A. P.).—Supreme headquarters told the Japanese press today that it must not permit dictation of editorial policies by "pressure groups," and that Allied "nursing of Japanese newspapers is at an end."

Marine Col. Donald Ross Nugent of San Francisco, chief of the Allied Civil Information Section, gave the warning to a meeting of Japanese editors and publishers and noted that headquarters "has power to take any action it sees fit" to enforce compliance.

Nugent declined comment when asked whether his statement of policy was aimed specifically at Yomiuri Hochi—whose managing editor resigned yesterday after labor unions prevented his firing a Communist editorial writer.

He added, however, that "we are very much concerned when any pressure group goes beyond the bounds of labor relations in an attempt to dictate editorial policy."

"Owners and publishers must have the courage to seek legal redress," he declared; "there are laws under which they may act" to bar pressure-group dictation."

Navy Kin Due In Japan June 22

Tokyo, June 13 (A. P.).—The first contingent of dependents of Navy and Marine Corps personnel stationed in Japan is due to arrive in Japan on June 22 aboard the U. S. S. Carroll, which sailed on June 8 from San Pedro, Cal. The contingent of twenty-two families is part of some sixty families for which application had been made.

Rule On Jap Aviation Work

Tokyo, June 13 (AP)—Australian Brigadier John W. O'Brien, chief of the Allied headquarters scientific and technical division, said today that under the directive banning Japanese activity in aviation, work with fuels, tires and similar allied products might be carried on, but no direct application could be made.

Eighth Army Hears War Crime Affidavits

Yokohama, June 13 (A. P.).—Introduction of affidavits in the war crimes trial of Lieut. Takeharu Hirata, commander of Fukuoka Prisoner of War Camp 23, started today before an Eighth Army commission. Hirata is charged with permitting subordinates to commit atrocities.

Pvt. Erwin J. Kilburn, Lake Placid, N. Y., testified he was refused medical aid and was frequently beaten after standing at attention for six hours because he had failed to report for sick call on the previous day.

Jap Food Supply One-Third Short

Tokyo, June 13 (AP)—Japan may be forced to live for the next three months on a two-month supply of food, Premier Shigeru Yoshida's new cabinet announced today as it took strong measures to ease the crisis.

Ordering creation of people's local committees to assure deliveries from farmers to consumers, the Cabinet also closed all first-class bars and restaurants to conserve scanty food stocks.

A cabinet announcement said schools might adopt longer vacations and cities might be evacuated to aid the "rice to Save the Nation" campaign.

The cabinet also promised a greater production of farm tools and said special awards of clothing would be given to farming communities producing the most food.

MacArthur Advises On Dealing With Japs

Tokyo, June 13 (A. P.).—Gen. MacArthur today advised representatives of foreign government missions in Japan to clear all official dealings with the Japanese Government through his diplomatic section or foreign liaison subsection.

The Supreme Allied commander also notified his staff sections not to employ any member of a group operating in Japan from a government other than the United States without approval of his chief of staff.

BY VOTE OF 53-11

JUN 14 1946

Ceilings on Eggs, Milk, Butter Also Would Be Lifted.

TRUMAN VETO IS HINTED

Dislikes Measure Already Passed by House, Barkley Reports.

WASHINGTON, June 13 — (AP) A rampant Senate tonight passed a bill slashing OPA down to a shadow of its wartime power and taking price ceilings off such market-basket items as meat, eggs, milk, butter and chickens.

The vote was 53 to 11.

The bill, which extends the life of the diminished price control agency for one year beyond June 30, amounts to a major defeat for the Administration.

Returns to House

It goes now to the House which has passed its own price control bill different in form but just as unacceptable to stabilization officials. A conference committee probably will get the job of reconciling the differences in the two measures.

OPA backers, fighting back angrily as new curbs were voted into the measure one after another, asserted that the legislation would "massacre and crucify" price control, and that the coalition which put it over would be sorry in six months.

Opponents of the agency's power that they were taking necessary steps to free business for production and full-scale reconversion.

Veto Is Hinted

Just before the final vote, Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) told the Senate that President Truman had advised he would be compelled to veto the legislation if it came to him in the form passed by the House.

"As to whether the Senate bill is better or worse than the House I pass no judgment at this time," Barkley added.

He expressed the hope that a Senate-House committee, working on the two bills, may draw up a measure "more satisfactory" than either.

Not to pass the bill, Barkley declared, would mean the end of all price control at the end of this month.

Senator Taft (R.-Ohio), who as a ranking Republican member of the Banking committee played a major part in framing the Senate bill, expressed conviction that it "preserves effective control of many prices" and an effective safeguard against the inflation he said might threaten if all controls were removed.

Tobacco, Oil Added to List

The measure as rewritten on the Senate floor adds tobacco and petroleum, and their products, to a list of major food items from which price controls would be lifted June 30.

It also forbids OPA to apply any ceiling price to any class of businessman — from manufacturer through retailer — which does not reflect pre-war profit margins.

The profit policy was extended to apply to all dealers and all items of merchandise, and the oil and tobacco ceiling provisions were inserted, shortly before the final vote.

Even before that was done stabilization officials had asserted that previously adopted provisions would make it impossible to hold the line against inflation.

Substitute Bill Rejected

Final passage was recorded only after the Senate rejected, 52 to 17, a complete substitute bill which would give OPA a simple seven months' extension without modification of its powers.

Also rejected, 50 to 15, was a proposal by Senators Cordon and Morse (R-Ore) to set up county boards to review OPA violation charges against retailers.

Senator Shipstead (R-Minn) offered a late amendment to remove the ceiling price on rye, but it was shouted down on a voice vote.

One of the last changes made was an amendment by Senator Wherry (R-Neb), approved 43 to 15, to alter an order of the Agriculture department which requires a farmer to sell half of any wheat he takes to an elevator for storage. Under the Wherry proposal, farmers could pick the future date of sale instead of receiving the price current on the day of delivery to the elevator. He would have to pick his date in advance.

Sees Climb in Prices

Senator Downey (D-Calif) predicted an end to meat ceilings will mean an immediate price rise of 20 to 30 cents a pound and an increase of 40 cents within 30 days later. Backers of the move contend it will take meat out of black markets and put it back in usual distribution channels. They argue that competition will soon take care of prices.

After adopting the new provision on dealers' profits, the Senate then turned down, 52 to 17, a complete substitute for the pending bill, by Senator Pepper (D-Fla). Pepper proposed to extend OPA for seven months, until Feb. 1, 1947, and give the President authority to lift controls from any article, at his discretion.

The profit amendment, by Senator Wherry (R-Neb) was voted 42 to 23. It prohibits imposition of any ceiling price which does not allow retailers and other distributors their costs plus "pre-war markup."

Similar provision for dealers in such "conversion" items as automobiles, refrigerators, and radios, which were in short civilian supply during the war, had been written into the bill earlier. On some of those items—notably automobiles—OPA had required dealers to absorb part of the price increases granted manufacturers to compensate for higher costs.

Yesterday the Senate had adopted an amendment by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) requiring that manufacturers' price ceilings reflect 1941 prices plus the industry's average cost increase since that time.

Republicans Almost Unanimous

With the exception of Senator Morse, Republicans voted solidly against the Pepper substitute.

At one point, Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) who voted with Pepper, pounded his desk and shouted that a majority of the Senate had decided to "massacre and crucify" price control. "Six months from now they'll be sorry," he asserted.

By voice vote, the Senate accepted an amendment by Lucas requiring the price administrator to obtain approval from the U. S. district attorney before instituting proceedings in any district for OPA violations.

The Illinois senator said the fault of OPA lay with the administration, not with the law.

He asserted that the Senate bill guaranteed "inflation in the very near future," and he told his colleagues that there was "going to be chaos and disorder in this country" which would make what we were "going through now seem infinitisimal."

Ball Opposes OPA

Senator Ball (R-Minn.) told the Senate he had voted for every amendment offered in hopes of "crippling OPA" and that he would vote against the resulting bill because he believed the "best thing that could happen" would be to let OPA die at the end of this month.

He said that recovery could not begin until controls were lifted.

Nearly two hours of debate, some of it angry, were required before approval by voice vote of a compromise amendment that would allow the Secretary of Agriculture to divert grain intended for foreign relief for use in areas in this country short of dairy and poultry feed.

New England and Pacific northwest senators had urged that the secretary be directed to purchase and distribute grains for feed.

Without even a roll call, the Senate voted in an amendment by Senator Moore (R-Okla.) to lift controls on petroleum and its products at the end of this month. Moore and other oil state senators argued that supplies were bigger than demand, leaving "no reason" for ceilings.

The Administration won one victory as the Senate tied restriction after restriction on the price agency. It beat back a sweeping amendment to take controls off virtually everything but rents and minerals.

Thirty Democrats, 20 Republicans and one Progressive joined to send down to defeat 51 to 21, this move by Senator Thomas (D-Okla.). Backing the Oklahoman's amendment were 11 Democrats and 10 Republicans.

Senate Votes OPA Ending All Ceilings On Meat by June 30

Provisions Of OPA Measure

JUN 14 1946

Washington, June 13 (AP)—Here are the major provisions of the OPA extension measure as passed by the Senate. It would:

1. Extend the price agency one year, until June 30, 1947.

2. Wipe out ceiliongs on all meat, poultry and dairy products by June 30 of this year.

3. Direct the OPA administrator to remove controls on all non-agricultural products not important in relation to business or living costs by the end of the year. This, presumably, would include luxury items and non-essential goods.

Nonagricultural Commodities

4. Order removal of controls over nonagricultural commodities of which the supply exceeds the demand.

5. Establish a three-member price-decontrol board with power to order removal of specific price ceilings if it finds appeals justified.

6. Give the Secretary of Agriculture the responsibility for designating agricultural products in short supply which should be kept under price control, and the authority to issue orders to OPA for lifting ceilings to stimulate production.

On Nonessentials

7. Instruct OPA, upon recommendation of the Secretary of Agriculture, to remove ceilings on nonessential agricultural products by the end of the year.

8. Cut Government subsidies for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1947, from approximately $2,000,000,000 to $1,100,000,000, with the stipulation that prices must be allowed to increase on commodities from which subsidy support is withdrawn or reduced. Food subsidies would be forbidden after May 1, 1947.

9 Abolish MAP—OPA's maximum average price order—which was designed to keep the production of low-priced clothing going at prewar rates.

Increases For Textiles

10. Grant a five per cent increase in maximum prices for cotton textiles to manufacturers who have met specified production goals.

11. Prevent OPA from ordering reduction of normal peacetime trade discounts and markups of wholesalers and retailers of "reconversion items" such as automobiles, radios and refrigerators which were in short supply on the civilian market during the war.

12. Froce OPA to add increased costs to prewar prices in fixing manufacturers' price ceilings.

Cigarettes And Gasoline

13. Remove controls June 30 on leaf tobacco and petroleum and their products, including cigarettes and gasoline.

14. Require the OPA to obtain consent of the United States District Attorney before instituting prosecution against price-control violators.

15 Force OPA to allow prewar profit margins above costs in fixing ceiling at wholesale and retail. This is similar to a provision voted earlier for manufacturers.

BOWLES SEES RISE IN COST OF LIVING

Stabilization Chief Says End of Price Control Would Bring Disaster.

WASHINGTON, June 13—(AP) Chester Bowles said tonight that living cost increases thus far are a "drop in the bucket compared to the deluge which will strike the American consumer" if price control changes proposed by Congress become law.

At the same time the stabilization director declared that price increases which have been granted have been "dangerously distorted and exaggerated."

Restaurant Rules Revised

Bowles made his comments in a statement a few hours after the OPA revised its restaurant controls to permit higher prices for meals when costs rise as the result of removal of ceilings on food items. OPA officials said the change means that prices for menu items probably will climb substantially if ceilings are removed on meat, poultry and dairy products.

Bowles said a "group of responsible statisticians" has estimated the effect of the bill already passed by the House would be to increase the cost of living 20 to 25 percent by next March. He added that this does not take into account "wage increases which would be forced by higher living costs and which in turn would be reflected in still higher prices."

Fears Senate Bill

Bowles said there is "general agreement" that the bill being considered by the Senate "would be perhaps more disastrous" than the House legislation. (He made this comment before the Senate had adopted its OPA bill in a night session.)

Bowles acknowledged that many recent price increases have "stemmed directly from the change in the wage-price policy" last February.

He said other increases were necessary to stimulate production on low profit items, and that some of those for food "were due to the need for increasing grain supplies available for shipment to starving people overseas and because of the clear intention of congress" to reduce food subsidies.

"Many of the reasons for the increases in the past few months are now behind us," Bowles declared. "With the re-enactment of the present price control act and with an adequate budget for its administration, I believe the cost of living for the next six to 10 months could be kept reasonably stable."

BARUCH MAY URGE U. S. RETENTION OF A-BOMB SECRET

Will Explain Stand to United Nations Commission

JUN 1 1946

DIFFERS WITH REPORT

Acheson - Lilienthal Study Proposed Release of All Data.

WASHINGTON, June 13—(AP) Senators said today Bernard M. Baruch has taken the stand that an international atomic energy control system can be set up with no necessity for the United States ever to reveal the final secret know-how of the bomb.

This position, they said, appeared at variance with the Acheson-Lilienthal report. That study proposed that all knowledge bearing on atomic energy be vested ultimately in an international atomic development authority. It said that "when the plan is in full operation there will no longer be secrets about atomic energy."

Backed by Austin

Baruch's decision, which may be inherent in a report he lays before a United Nations Atomic commission tomorrow, was understood to have the backing, in principle, of Senator Warren R. Austin (R-Vt).

Austin is delegate-designate to the World Security council, to which the commission of which Baruch is a member eventually will report.

Baruch sketched the broad outlines of his proposed recommendations at a closed meeting of the Senate's Special Atomic committee yesterday. Senators who cannot be named said today they expect the American representative to suggest a drastic system of controls for peaceful use of atomic energy under which any nation's refusal to permit inspection of its plants would be regarded as an act of war.

Controls Would Be Rigid

As Baruch outlined his ideas to them, these senators said, his plan called for the gradual disclosure to other nations under rigid control rules of the formula for creating constructive atomic energy.

But Baruch was represented as believing that an agreement to outlaw the use of the atomic bomb as a weapon must be reached by the participating nations. It was the supposition that under this agreement, the United States would destroy the bombs which it has manufactured.

The argument of those who support the reported Baruch theory is that if the bombs are outlawed and the United States destroys its atomic weapons, there would be no logical reason for giving the know-how to other countries.

As against this, the recommendations made in report by Undersecretary of State Acheson envisioned a gradual disclosure of the information until ultimately the full details of the bomb would be supplied—after absolute safeguards had been effected.

The Acheson report, prepared by a scientific group headed by David E. Lilienthal, argued that this country's "monopoly" on atomic information will vanish in time. It followed the view of most scientists that it would be better to give to all nations the full information—under iron-clad safeguards—than attempt to retain the bomb secrets and thus make the United States an object of suspicion and precipitate an atomic armament race.

McMahon Committee Split

These views reportedly have split the Senate's Special Atomic committee, with a majority reportedly on the side of keeping the bomb a secret and a minority favoring the international plan. Chairman McMahon (D-Conn) has indicated in his public utterances that he favors the latter.

As a temporary adviser who will become the new American delegate on the Security council after January 1, Austin may have a great deal of influence in determining this country's course in any international agreement.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, a member of the McMahon atomic committee, said this agreement must be wrapped up in a treaty from which no signatory nation could depart by the use of a veto.

"Any nation which doesn't want to be bound to comply fully with the control requirement need not sign the treaty if it doesn't want to participate in atomic energy developments, but once it signs it must be bound by that treaty," he told a reporter before his departure for Paris.

While a treaty of this nature probably would be made by the individual nations with the United Nations organization, rather than among themselves, it was Connally's view that the existing veto on the Security council would not interfere in any way with enforcement of atomic energy controls.

Baruch's reported suggestion that the refusal of any country to permit inspection of its energy-producing plants be regarded on its face as an act of war apparently split the special Senate committee.

Some senators said they regarded such drastic measures as necessary while others doubted that this country would be willing to join in an attack on a nation that refused an inspection but had made no other aggressive move.

Connally Insists Atom Accord Be In Treaty Form

JUN 14 1946

Proposal Would Take Rule on Control From U. N., Put It in Separate Pact

WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP).—Senator Tom Connally, Democrat, of Texas, said today that any agreement for international control of atomic energy must be bound up in a treaty from which no signatory country could deviate.

Senator Connally, who is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a member of the Senate's special atomic committee, told a reporter there must be no means by which United Nations inspection and other control measures could be halted once they are agreed upon.

"Any agreement that is made must be put in treaty form," he said. "Any nation which doesn't want to be bound to comply fully with control requirements need not sign the treaty if it doesn't want to participate in atomic energy benefits. But once it signs it must be bound by that treaty."

Senator Connally's views were expressed after Bernard M. Baruch, American representative on the United Nations Atomic Commission, reportedly told the Senate committee yesterday that this country is taking the position there can be no veto of enforcement controls similar to the veto authority which lies with the Big Five members of the U. N. Security Council.

The connally proposal for a separate treaty apparently would take away from the Security Council any authority to void or halt inspection or other control measures.

A majority of the members of the Senate's special atomic committee long have insisted no veto be allowed to operate against controls when this country yields up its atomic secrets.

Members of the special committee said Mr. Baruch's outline of policies followed in major respects the proposal submitted by Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson for world controls, based on recommendations made by a scientific group headed by David E. Lilienthal.

Atom Energy Diverted To Mankind's Benefit

JUN 1946

Government To Distribute Radioactive Substances To Schools, Hospitals, Science And Industry

gate tonight to the use of atomic energy for benefiting man instead of killing him.

Radioactive substances produced in the uranium ovens where the atomic bomb was born will be distributed for the first time to schools, hospitals and laboratories of science and industry, the Army's Manhattan Project announced.

Possibilities Outlined

The new program opens the way for the widespread use of substances which can be detected even though invisible and which therefore may:

Shed new light on the processes of human life, both normal and diseased.

Provide new information on animal and plant growth, and on the way the body uses food and medicine.

Help mankind further in making certain products and in tapping the resources of nature.

It also is possible, scientists said, that the substances may be used directly to treat disease.

Production To Be Increased

The announcement said that while present production would be increased as rapidly as possible, "it probably will be impossible to meet all the demands of the country until additional facilities are built specifically for (radioactive substance) production. This is not contemplated in the immediate future."

Declaring that approximately 100 different radioactive substances—materials that give off invisible rays—would be obtainable "in varying quantities," from the atom project, the War Department's statement asserted:

"They will be used in two important ways:

"First, as tracer atoms or 'tracers' for following the course of atoms in chemical, biological and technical processes.

"And possibly second, after considerable research, as therapeutic agents for treatment of certain special diseases."

Called Radioisotopes

The radioactive materials being produced by the bomb-makers are known as "radioisotopes"—that is, they are radioactive forms of common and rare elements produced in the atom pile by the action of atomic particles.

The reason they can be used as "tracers" in various scientific processes is that they can be mixed with the stable form of their own element and employed to trace the whereabouts of that element. The rays given off by the radioactive isotopes can be detected by sensitive instruments, even when the material is coursing through the human body.

Their role as possible thereapeutic agents in the treatment of certain diseases stems from the fact that they emit powerful rays which may prove to have a beneficial effect on diseased tissue.

Radium Not In Atomic Piles

Radium is an example of a radioactive substance that occurs in nature. Radium is not produced in the atomic piles.

Even before the war, various common elements, such as phosphorus and iodine, were made radioactive by being bombarded with high-speed atomic particles in an instrument called the "cyclotron"—or atom-smasher—but the quantities produced are extremely small.

Radioactive phosphorus already has been used in the treatment of leukemia, and radioactive iodine has been employed against disease of the thyroid gland.

But the Manhattan scientists declare the small quantities of isotopes produced by cyclotrons before the war limited the scope of research done and the number of persons using radioisotopes.

The A-bomb uranium ovens, they says, "far outdistance" the cyclotron in the production of certain elements; and, in the case of radioactive carbon, an important research weapon, they said the chain-reacting uranium atom pile can be made "equivalent in production to hundreds of cyclotrons."

Used To Trace Oil Pools

The Army's announcement only hinted at the possibilities of employing radioactive substances as aids to industry, but it's well known that such substances have been used to trace new oil pools, to study the "cracking" of petroleum, and to follow the course of gases through intricate systems.

Radioactive sulphur, another of the pile's products, conceivably may be used to trace the course of "sulfonamide" drugs through the human body, the army scientists declared.

And they said radioactive carbon "is expected to give great impetus to the study of all ogranc processes, including the mechanism and growth of normal and abnormal tissues and all plant and animal functions."

Carbon Principal Element

Carbon is one of the principal elements taking part in the working of the human body.

Through the magic of atomic alchemy, the products not in the making represent a radioactive version of virtually the entire table of elements.

Some of the products—such as the rare earths—were produced as actual byproducts of the splitting of uranium 235 in the atom pile. That is, uranium atoms, in splitting, formed entirely different elements. But these elements were not produced in the stable form in which they are found in nature; they were radioactive.

To Be Produced At Oak Ridge

Most of the substances to be available for national distribution will be produced at the Clinton laboratories at Oak Ridge, operated for the Army by the Monsanto Chemical Company.

The distribution of the supplies will be co-ordinated and supervised by an advisory committee on isotope distribution, members of which were appointed by Maj. Gen. Leslie Groves, the atom project chief, on the nomination of the National Academy of Sciences.

This advisory committee will have subcommittees on allocation and, on "human applications" to judge the merits of radioisotope requests and to recommend distribution.

JUN 1 41946

Science to Get By-Products of Atomic Output

Radio-Active Substances to Go to Hospitals and Schools, but Only in U.S.

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., June 13 (AP).—Radio-active substances produced in the uranium ovens where the atomic bomb was made will be distributed for the first time to schools, hospitals, and laboratories of science and industry, the Army's Manhattan project, which made the bomb, announced today.

The new program opens the way for widespread beneficial uses of substances which can be detected even though invisible and which therefore may:

1. Shed new light on the processes of human life, both normal and diseased;

2. Provide new information on animal and plant growth, and on the way the body uses food and medicine;

3. Help mankind further in making certain products and in tapping the resources of nature.

It also is possible, scientists said, that the substances may be used directly to treat disease.

Will Be Limited to U. S.

The announcement indicated that only institutions in this country will receive them. It said that it probably will be impossible to meet even all of these demands until additional production facilities are built, and "this is not contemplated in the immediate future."

A radio-active substance is one that emits atomic particles, or rays. Radium is an example of one that occurs in nature. Substances are made radio-active in the uranium ovens by being bombarded with atomic projectiles.

Although it said present production of the substances is limited, the War Department declared there is a prospect of "large scale" availability and that application for small amounts could be made immediately by hospitals, universities, industrial and non-industrial research laboratories and by clinical investigating groups.

The announcement gave details on the production of approximately 100 different 'radioisotopes" and said that among other products which will now be available in greater quantities than ever before are radio-active forms of phosphorous, sulphur and iodine.

Radio-active phosphorous, hitherto produced only in limited quantities by the cyclotron, has been used for leukemia— a disease affecting the blood cells—because phosporous has a tendency to concentrate in the blood-forming organs. Radio-active iodine is used to treat thyroid disease, because iodine concentrates in the thyroid gland. It can also be used as a "tracer" to determine whether iodine is actually getting to the thyroid gland. Radio-active sulphur—used with the sulfonamide drugs—is expected to play an important role in tracing the reactions of those drugs in the body and throwing new light on their action against germs.

Work Done at Oak Ridge

The radioisotopes will be prepared largely in the Clinton Laboratories at Oak Ridge—operated for the Army for the Monsanto Chemical Company.

"The (nuclear) bombardment facilities of the Hanford Engineer Works at Pasco, Wash., now operated by the du Pont Company and soon to be operated by the General Electric Company, will also be used in so far as the flexibility of that operation allows," the War Department said.

All groups using the isotopes for fundamental research or for applied science will be required to publish or otherwise make available their findings, to promote further applications and scientific advancces. A "reasonable charge" will be made to "cover the out-of-pocket" costs to the government.

Distribution will be co-ordinated and supervised by an advisory committee on isotope distribution, members of which were appointed by Major General Leslie Groves, the atom project chief, on the nomination of the National Academy of Sciences.

All requests must be addressed to the Isotope Branch, Research Division, Manhattan District, Oak Ridge, Tenn.

G. E. TO AID ARMY ON ATOMIC WORK

JUN 1 41946

San Francisco, June 13 (A. P.). —The General Electric Corporation will begin nuclear research at the Hanford, Wash., Atomic Laboratories on September 1, designed to "keep the War Department far out ahead" of the world, Ralph J. Cordiner, company vice-president, said here yesterday.

"Our No. 1 job is for the War Department," Cordiner said when asked by newsmen about the possibility of harnessing atomic energy for civilian needs. Harry A. Winne, G. E. vice-president in charge of engineering, will head the Hanford plant.

Cordiner expressed the hope that the atomic power question does not become a "political football," adding that "it is too vital to the world to have people taking pot shots at it."

General Electric will operate the Hanford plant for the War Department for $1 a year. It also will synchronize its research there with its operation at Schenectady, N. Y., and Oak Ridge, Tenn., Cordiner said.

The G. E. official is on a Pacific Coast business trip.

Byrnes Leaves D.C. For Russ Showdown

Washington, June 13 (AP)—President Truman sent the United States delegation off to the Paris peace-making today with a fervent wish for their "good luck" and a joking remark that he might be over later.

The last good-byes were spoken solemnly at the Washington airport. Secretary of State Byrnes and Senators Connally (D., Texas) and Vandenberg (R., Mich.) boarded the President's own plane for the journey to Paris and a showdown with Russia on European peace settlements.

Earlier, they had joked a bit as old friends will—all having served together in the Senate.

Jests: "I Might Do That"

"Get a special plane and come over and see us," Connally, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, invited the President.

"I might do that," the President responded, smiling.

Then, serious again, the President took Byrnes by the hand.

"Good-by, Jim," he said. "Good luck to you."

The President repeatedly has told newsmen he has no thought of leaving the United States again for postwar conference. He has taken the stand that the best interest for future peace lies in the solution of international problems through the United Nations and meetings of foreign ministers.

Only Joking, Ross Emphasizes

Back at the White House, Press Secretary Charles G. Ross emphasized that the President was joking when he made the remark about going overseas. Ross said there is not the slightest possibility of the President making a trip to Paris.

Senator Connally left behind him a statement saying it is unsound for the Big Four Foreign Ministers (Britain, France, Russia, the United States) to attempt to write the peace of the world.

Asserting that no veto by one Foreign Minister must be allowed to "upset the whole peace program," Connally said that unless the Paris conference brings about "a quick and definite agreement" it should "adjourn and call a peace conference of the 21 nations interested in these treaties."

Byrnes himself said earlier that the Paris session is a crtical one in which failure would be a disaster for mankind. He had asked for prayers for his peace efforts.

Draft Needed, Says Connally

Connally, who, along with Vandenberg, is an adviser to Byrnes, issued an appeal for passage of the draft extension act as he stepped aboard the plane.

It is needed, he said, "in view of our foreign commitments and our far-flung possessions."

"Good-by, Jim, good luck," the President called to his departing Secretary of State. "Good-by, Tom, good luck to all of you."

Flying by way of Stephenville, Newfoundland, the party is due to arrive in Paris about noon tomorrow. The new sessions of the Big Four Foreign Ministers are scheduled to open Saturday.

Departure Dramatized

This was the first time that President Truman has come to the airport to see Byrnes off on one of his foreign missions.

Some interpreted the President's action as dramatizing the importance of the task ahead of Byrnes and also emphasizing the friendship which exists between the two men.

Byrnes, Connally and Vandenberg talked with Mr. Truman at the White House before the drive to the airport.

Earlier Press Secretary Ross, denied a report, published in England, that Mr. Truman is considering a visit to Moscow for a heart-to-heart talk with Premier Stalin in the event of failure of the Paris meeting.

Such a report, Ross told his news conference, "is news to me; it is news to the President, and I haven't heard it discussed."

Mum On Bevin's Speech

Ross said Mr. Truman had no comment on the speech yesterday by British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin which strongly indicated British rejection of a recommendation by the Anglo-American commission for immigration of 100,000 Jews into Palestine.

Diplomatic authorities said there appears to be no doubt that the Big Four Foreign Ministers' meeting, opening Saturday, will prove finally whether the great powers are capable of settling the European peace in unity.

Wields U.N. Alternative

Byrnes's ace in the hole in trying to persuade Molotov to come to agreement on such critical issues as the disposition of Trieste and settlement of Italian reparations is an announced determination to carry the whole controversy to the United Nations in September if it is not settled at Paris.

American officials frankly regard this as a desperate move, justified only by the conviction here that conditions of peace must be at least partly restored in Europe by the end of this year.

BYRNES PROPOSES ARMY AID TO CHINA

JUN 14 1946

WASHINGTON, June 13 — (AP) Secretary of State Byrnes asked Congress today to provide a new program of military assistance for China.

Byrnes, who left today for the foreign ministers' conference in Paris, said in a letter to acting Senate President McKellar (D-Tenn) that it was "extremely important" that military assistance to the still embattled republic be continued without interruption.

He submitted a bill to authorize the President to provide training and instruction for military and naval personnel, plans and technical advice and information. China also could be furnished with arms, ammunition and other material.

The bill, which Byrnes said was prepared in collaboration with the War and Navy departments and had the endorsement of General C. Marshall, ambassador to China, was referred to the Senate Foreign Relations committee.

"I firmly believe," Byrnes letter said, "that the national interest, including this country's interest in the re-establishment and preservation of peace and security in Asia, requires that the United States give aid to the Republic of China by assisting that country to organize and maintain modern military forces of moderate size which will permit China to make a substantial contribution to peace in that part of the world."

He said that China had requested a military mission such as had previously been provided for Brazil, Colombia, Costa Rica and other nations.

BRITISH LOAN WINS BACKING IN HOUSE

Committee Approves Credit, 20 to 5—Early Ratification Seen.

WASHINGTON, June 13 — (AP) Prompt House ratification of the $3,750,000,000 British loan was predicted by both Democrats and Republicans tonight, after the House Banking committee approved it by a thumping 20 to 5 vote.

Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) told newsmen the loan legislation, already sanctioned by the Senate, 46 to 34, "will pass the House by a comfortable margin."

Predicts Approval

Rep. Wolcott of Michigan, senior Banking committee Republican, voted for the loan and predicted the House would approve it.

But the opposition led by three mid-west Republicans—Rep. Buffett of Nebraska, Miss Jessie Sumner of Illinois and Smith of Ohio—prepared to carry a slam-bang battle to the House floor. Rayburn said the debate would begin a week from Monday.

The committee vote came after month-long hearings, during which proponents contended the loan is essential to "unshackle" world trade. They said that without this help Britain cannot participate in the Bretton Woods world bank and fund, and such efforts at international economic cooperation would fail.

Would Balk Reds

The United States Chamber of Commerce said the loan would make Britain the bulwark against the spread of Communism.

Jesse Jones, Houston, Tex., publisher and former Secretary of Commerce sent the committee a new message insisting that the United States should require substantial collateral. The British, he said, should pledge "some of their profitable investments in this country."

His telegram arrived, however, five minutes after the committee approved the financial agreement. Announcing the vote, Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) told newsmen:

"The financial agreement is not a loan to Britain alone, but it is intended to do away with restrictive controls on foreign exports which have been so disastrous to our foreign commerce; to eliminate empire preferences; to prevent bilateral agreements; to eliminate the dollar pool in the sterling area and thus allow American producers to send their goods where they desire throughout the world."

JUN 1 41946

House Banking Unit Approves British Loan

Washington, June 13 (AP)—The House Banking Committee today approved legislation ratifying the $3,750,000,000 British loan. The vote was 20 to 5.

The legislation, already approved by the Senate, 46 to 34, now goes to the House floor, where opponents promised a stiff battle.

Committee members said the bill would probably reach the floor a week from Monday.

The vote came after long hearings, during which the Administration told Congress that the loan is essential to take the shackles off world trade, to encourage international economic co-operation and to aid world peace.

Proponents' Arguments

Without the loan, the proponents argued, Britain would be unable to participate in the Bretton Woods World Bank and Currency Stabilization Fund, and that this ambitious attempt at international economic co-operation would fail.

This view was supported by the American Bankers Association, the United States Chamber of Commerce and a number of other organizations and individuals.

The opposition was spearheaded by Jesse Jones, Houston (Tex.) publisher and former Secretary of Commerce. Jones wrote Banking Chairman Spence (D., Ky.) that the loan is "unbusinesslike," starts the United States on a road toward financial ruin, and would put this country in an exclusive alliance with Great Britain.

Wolcott Votes For Loan

Representative Wolcott of Michigan, senior Banking Committee Republican, said he voted for the financial agreement and would support it on the floor. His position is expected to influence other Republican House votes.

Administration leaders freely predicted a House victory, on the basis of the 4-to-1 committee vote.

Wolcott later said, "I expect the bill to pass, but the vote will probably be close."

In a second communication to the committee, which arrived just after the vote was taken, Jones again insisted that America should get real collateral for the loan.

Wants Surplus Provision

Asserting that "they are in a position to secure a very substantial part of the loan by pledging some of their profitable investments in this country," Jones said:

"For that part of the loan which is not so secured, I think the money should be spent in this country, principally for our surplus farm products, so that at least our farmers and workers will benefit by the loss our Government is certain to sustain.

"Otherwise, the money will be used against us in trading with other countries."

Provisions Outlined

The 50-year financial transaction provides:

1. Authorization for the Treasury to advance Britain up to the $3,750,000,000 during the next five years, with no interest during that time. Interest at two per cent would begin in 1951.

2. The British could obtain waiver of interest payments whenever their exports failed to exceed by 60 per cent those of the period immediatly preceding the war.

3. Britain, in return, proposes to attempt within a year to begin dissolving the wartime currency restrictions under which countries in the so-called "sterling bloc" sold goods to England and received credit which they could spend only for British goods and services.

Export-Import Loan Setup Assailed

JUN 1 41946

Washington, June 13 (AP)—A rare minority report of the House Appropriations Committee said today the Export-Import Bank has "become a means of avoiding" specific congressional approval for foreign loans.

Republican Representatives Jensen, of Iowa, and Ploeser, of Missouri, did not amplify their criticism of the $3,500,000,000 Government institution, one of several Federal corporations they censured in their dissenting report.

The bank has made multimillion-dollar loans in recent months to France, Poland, Holland and Norway and would provide the funds for any credit arrangement which might be worked out with Russia. But actual negotiations for a loan to the Soviet Union have not begun.

First Split Report In Years

The views of Jensen and Ploeser were attached to the full committee's report sending to the House floor of Government corporations appropriation bill for the fiscal year 1947.

It was the first time the operations of the 33 corporations were reviewed in a body by the committee—result of a 1945 law requiring them to submit their budgets annually to Congress for study.

It was the first time in years, too, that the committee sent a split report to the House floor. This presages a lively fight when the bill is debated tomorrow.

Liquidations Directed

While comparatively little cash is involved in the legislation, the agencies involved deal in billions of dollars a year, largely through loans and operating revenues. The committee estimated their cost to the Treasury during the next fiscal year at $4,020,135,206.

The committee directed the Tennessee Valley Authority, one of the corporations affected by the legislation, to amortize within the next 40 years its investments representing the cost of power-producing plants and facilities.

It called for early liquidation, without specifying any date, of various war programs financed through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Tighter Controls Urged

The minority report, in addition to criticizing the Export-Import Bank called for tighter restrictions on the far-flung financial operations of the corporations.

It also was critical of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for making public-works loans for programs not specifically authorized by Congress, asserted there was "confusion" in the veterans' housing program, and urged liquidation of the Inland Waterways Corporation.

The committee majority ruled against disposal of the waterways corporation, which operates barge lines in midwestern waters.

Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace, under whom the corporation operates, told the committee that sale of the corporation to private interests would be appropriate at this time. Wallace said he did not believe the Government "should compete with private business in any field unless there are conditions that justify such continuation."

House Group Finds No Need For Supreme Court Probe

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP) The House Judiciary committee held today it lacked jurisdiction now to investigate the Supreme court feud between Justices Jackson and Black but left the door open for action later if circumstances warrant.

Chairman Summers (D-Tex.) presented to the committee Jackson's statement critizing Black for sitting in a case in which Black's former law partner was involved. This was the first time the feud had come up for official congressional action.

Powers Limited

Sumners told reporters later that the committee's powers are limited to matters of legislation and impeachment. Therefore, he said, there is "no jurisdiction, so far as this committee is concerned, arising out of the letter (cablegram)." He added that there is "no determination at the moment to conduct an investigation."

One influential member of the committee told a reporter later that he believes Congress will do nothing about the case, unless there are new developments, giving the new chief justice an opportunity to reconcile his squabbling associates' differences before the court resumes its sessions in the fall. Fred M. Vinson has been nominated to head the court.

Another committeeman, who also asked anonymity, said he is hopeful the court will adjust the matter itself "for its own good." He said the court's reputation will be damaged further if an adjustment has to be forced by congressional action.

Receive Many Complaints

Rep. Walter (D-Pa.), a veteran member of the committee, said in an interview that "what the public may not realize is that almost every day members of the committee receive complaints from defeated litigants against judicial decisions in some court and ask for an investigation."

Walter said he feels however, that an investigation of the Jackson-Black feud might lead to constructive legislation on court procedure, but he added that after a study of the cablegram he agrees that the committee does not have enough to go on to assume jurisdiction.

Some committee members previously had said they thought an investigation might be justified on the ground that it might lead to corrective legislation on court procedure but they did not make any such motion in today's meeting.

Sumners said he had heard of no member of the House who planned to initiate impeachment proceedings, as any member is empowered to do. If an impeachment recommendation were made it would be referred to the Judiciary committee. By its decision today, however, the committee held there are no grounds for impeachment on the basis of evidence thus far received.

U.S. Gives Finland Additional Credit

Washington, June 13 (AP)—The United States today granted Finland an additional $5,000;000 credit to buy American surplus property in Europe for relief and rehabilitation purposes.

Thomas B. McCabe, foreign liquidation commissioner, announced the agreement which raises to $15,000,000 the total American credit to Finland for surplus property purchases. The first $10,000,000 credit was granted early this year.

No terms were disclosed. McCabe said in a statement that the credit was negotiated by John C. Virden, central field commissioner for the Office of Foreign Liquidation with headquarters at Paris.

NAVY'S PROPOSAL FOR G. I. TRAINING MEETS OPPOSITION

JUN 1 41946

WASHINGTON, June 13— (AP) Senator Saltonstall (R.-Mass.) told Navy officers today they were offering high school graduates "too much and asking too little" under a proposal to train future Navy officers in 52 civilian colleges and universities.

"This is too good a deal in my opinion," Saltonstall told Rear Admiral Felix Johnson, assistant chief of Navy personnel. The admiral had outlined for the Senate Naval Affairs committee a plan under which the Navy would pay: (1) four years tuition, (2) cost of books, (3) other education fees and (4) $50 a month to 4,150 high school graduates who agree each year to take the naval officer training course.

Johnson explained that after completion of this training course the junior officers would be required to serve at least 15 months.

If they quit after 15 months they would get a $500 bonus. This bonus would amount to $1,000 if they served three years. Those quitting or dropped by the Navy then must serve in the naval reserve until all service totals ten years from time of entry into the Navy.

Admiral Johnson pointed out that the proposed Navy offer was less attractive than schooling under the "GI bill of rights" by which former servicemen attending college get $65 monthly, with no obligation for active or reserve duty upon graduation.

Saltonstall suggested that the number of applicants and total students at government expense might be reduced if the Navy required a minimum of three years service upon graduation.

The committee is considering the Navy department request for a broad educational program, including expansion of the present naval academy at Annapolis, Md., and establishment of a $28,700,000 post graduate naval center at Monterery, Calif.

Chairman Walsh (D.-Mass.) said the Navy probably would have difficulty obtaining the 4,150 high school graduates annual even with the free college training offer. He said it would not attract youths who want to be doctors, lawyers, or scientists and that many young men would hesitate on any offer that would require up to three years service after graduation.

Finland To Pay Debt Installment As Usual

Washington, June 13 (AP)—Finland, the only country not in default on its World War I debt to the United States, will uphold its record by paying $166,479.74 in principal and semi-annual interest due June 15.

In response to a query, an official of the Finnish Legation said today the amount would be paid through the National City Bank of New York to the Federal Reserve Bank there one day in advance, since the fifteenth falls on a Saturday.

MACARTHUR ASSIGNMENT TO GERMANY SUGGESTED

WASHINGTON, June 13 — (AP) Rep. Dirksen (R.-Ill.) suggested today that General MacArthur be sent to Germany "to address his special talents to the restoration of stability" there.

Dirksen made his proposal in a House speech in which he also criticized Russia's actions in international affairs.

He declared that acts of the Soviet delegates at recent United Nations conferences had been characterized by "arrogance, sniping, lack of cooperation and exhorbitant demands."

Dirksen said the American people expect our delegates to future meetings to "face up" to the Russians "with firmness."

U. S. Frees Danish Assets

WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP)—Danish-owned assets in the United States were unfrozen by the Treasury today under an agreement with officials of Denmark. The assets were valued at $48,100,000 when the freeze was ordered by the United States on June 14, 1941, as France fell before the German armies.

Plans Kept Flexible

Devers said that the Army Ground Forces, which he commands, would figure as importantly as the Air Forces and the Navy in any future conflict and that commanders are keeping their planning flexible to make full use of scientific advances.

"We believe we might have to send in an airborne force to destroy an enemy's atomic plant, possibly sacrificing the whole expedition, Devers said. "Then the doughboys would have to go in and fight on the ground with modern weapons first, as they did in World War II.

"Artillery, as we know it, very probably will be replaced by some kind of a rocket. However, long-range guided missiles are not just outside the door. We think they are at least five years away, unless their development is hastened by emergency."

General Aurand Appointed

The War Department announced at the same time that Maj. Gen. Henry S. Aurand, former commander of the 6th Service Command at Chicago, has been named director of the general staff's new research and development division. He will read up all army research and will keep informed of atomic development without any specific directions of the Manhattan District, the atomic-bomb development agency.

Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves will continue as head of the Manhattan District, said Maj. Gen. Floyd Parks, chief of the Bureau of Public Relations.

Staying At Blair House

The Hungarians are staying at Blair House, just a hop, skip and jump from the State Department, and quarters for the most official of all official guests. They moved in as the President-elect of Colombia and Señora Ospina Perez packed their bags to go home.

At Blair-Lee House next door, home for not-quite-so-important visitors, is this miscellaneous gathering: A Guatemalan educator, a public health official from Iran, a woman university president from Mexico and the director of the National Library of Uruguay.

An Egyptian professor and four Belgian rectors moved out to make room for them.

A Polish Visitor

Tadeusz Komorowski is in town, too. He's easier to pronounce as General Bor, head of the 1944 Warsaw uprising against Germans in Poland. The General is making a series of speeches and has paid a call on General Eisenhower.

Before the Colombia President-elect, Blair House sheltered the Brazilian Minister of Marine, the President of the Philippines, the Prime Minister of Australia, and the executive secretary of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

Released On Bail

The new indictment covers and corrects the fourth count of the original indictment, dismissed last month by District Judge Lloyd L. Black, because it failed to name any person, and failed to state the name of the person whom Redin was alleged to have "induced."

Redin was originally arrested at Portland, Ore., last March and later charged in a five-count indictment. He posted $10,000 bail then, and was released on an additional $5,000 personal recognizance bond following today's new action.

Has Four Children

The Federal Bureau of Investigation office here and Pomeroy declined to comment on the part Kennedy played in the case against Redin.

Friends described Kennedy as a resident of the University district here, about 53 years old, with a wife and four young children. They said he was Scottish-born, but had spent most of his adult life in America and came here about four years ago.

He was described as a chief engineer or ships evacuating British and American civilians from France when the Germans overran that country and to have gone to work in a Bath (Maine) shipyard afterward.

Redin entered a new plea of innocence today.

The World And His Brother

Washington, June 13 (AP)—Well, look who's here. Everybody from the Prime Minister of Hungary to a librarian from Uruguay.

It's open season again for missions to Washington, in every language, size and nationality.

Leaf through the Government guest book. Those swirls and flourishes stand for recent visitors and their resounding titles from Brazil, the Philippines, Australia, Guatemala, England, Hungary, Colombia, Iran, Mexico, Uruguay, Belgium and Egypt.

Who were they? Well, for instance, there's the Hungarian Prime Minister, Ferenc Nagy. He and three aids are here to discuss postwar problems of Hungary and some more UNRRA aid for their country.

Cloth That 'Will Stop A Bullet' Announced By General Devers

Washington, June 13 (AP)—The Army has developed a protective cloth for soldiers that "will stop a bullet," Gen. Jacob L. Devers said today.

He predicted the cloth would "save a lot of casualties," especially those caused by glancing shell fragments. Other army officials said it is a step beyond the metallic body armor used by airmen and that the details might be disclosed later.

U.S. ARRESTS REDIN AGAIN

Russian Naval Lieutenant Named In Secret Indictment

Seattle, June 13 (AP) — Lieut. Nicolai G. Redin, of the Russian Navy, was rearrested today on a new secret indictment charging espionage against the United States. The true bill named Herbert Kennedy, a Todd Pacific shipyard engineer, as having been induced by Redin to obtain information about the destroyer tender Yellowstone built here.

Allan Pomeroy, Assistant District Attorney, said Kennedy, on vacation in Canada, would be produced in court June 25, as a Government witness against Redin.

COMBINES BEGIN ROLLING ACROSS U.S. WHEATLAND

JUN 1 4 1946

Bumper Harvest Under Way

Jets Swing Around U. S. in 11 Hours

But Army Flyers Get Real Thrill Riding Behind Motorcycle Escort After 478 M.P.H. Plane Trip.

March Field, Cal., June 13 (A. P.).—Pilots of three Army jet-propelled planes today held an unofficial record of eleven hours, nine minutes flying time for a round trip from March Field to Andrews Field, Md., a distance of approximately 4,550 miles.

Three of the four P-80 Shooting Stars that left here at 4:37 A. M. (Pacific standard time) yesterday were back at 7:21 P. M. One had to give up at Tinker Field, Okla., on the way east after accidentally dropping his wing tanks. Average speed west to east was 478 miles an hour, the average east to west 414 miles per hour, and the total average was 446 miles per hour.

One of the chief purposes of the round trip flight was to test pilot fatigue. The three who completed the trip, flight leader Col. Leon Gray of Casa Grande, Ariz., Major Robin Olds of Beverly Hills, and Lieut. Jack Richardson of Oklahoma City, showed little effects of the test. They had a 55-M. P. H. tailwind going east and a headwind of the same force coming back.

"The sun bothered us some coming back," said Gray, "but 10 minutes after we had landed we were O. K. We flew at 37,000 feet and it was very cold some of the way, but the most exciting thing was the motorcycle escort we had from Andrews Field to the Touchdown Club in Washington, a distance of about nine miles, and back to the field. Boy, that was some fast ride, and I've wanted for years to be behind those screaming sirens."

in Oklahoma, Texas and Kansas.

Hutchinson, Kan., June 13 (A. P.).—Combines (great harvesting machines) rolled across the plains country today as farmers rushed a better-than-average wheat crop amid growing resentment over the governmental price policy. As the harvest fanned out over Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, stories from the wheatland became more optimistic, with better yields than had been expected a few weeks ago.

Recent rains had helped, then a hot sun had spurred on the harvest a week or two ahead of schedule. Along the Kansas-Oklahoma border combining is in full swing.

The big question was how much wheat would be stored on the farms. At Garden City, Kan., Walt Mercer, a farmer, gave one indication.

Withholding of Wheat.

He delivered one bucket of grain to an elevator. The rest of his wheat, making twenty to twenty-five bushels to the acre, he is storing in bins on his farm to avoid, as he says, the necessity of selling 50 per cent to the Commodity Credit Corporation without the benefit of possible future price rises.

In Oklahoma, country elevator operators reported that farmers definitely are withholding wheat. After a check, they guessed that 45 to 55 per cent of the crop might be stored on farms.

At other points, there were indications that wheat was arriving at elevators. Farmers around Sherman, Tex., were reported to be planning to sell and at Wichita, Kan., Fred Burns, a milling company head, said: "We're getting more wheat than we had expected."

Equipment Is Big Problem.

Farmers are finding their equipment—it's a year older and there has been little or no new machinery for replacements—their biggest problem. There appeared to be plenty of labor and sufficient boxcars along the sidings, at the moment, at least. The Santa Fe Railway reported that it was bringing 300 cars daily from Chicago to handle the Kansas crop.

Yields of five to fifty bushels to the acre have been reported in Kansas, where the crop has been estimated officially at 186,720,000 bushels, 41,672,000 above the ten-year average, but well below last year's production of 207,917,000 bushels. Around Waco, Tex., farmers are predicting twenty bushels to the acre.

They say that spring rains and the lack of green bug infestations have boosted prospects. The official governmental estimate for Texas is 41,960,000 bushels, compared with 35,000,000 bushels on May 1.

Harvesting is under way on the rolling plains of Texas, and is moving north as the crop matures. Most Texas farmers report sufficient labor and at Plainview, Tex., the farm employment service office has warned against too many combine operators moving in there.

GANNETT OUTLINES 2 HOPES ON RUSSIA

Burlington, Vt., June 13 (A. P.).—Frank E. Gannett, newspaper chain owner, believes that "what happens in Europe in the next one, two or three years may determine whether we shall have another war." He told the annual meeting of the Burlington Chamber of Commerce last night that "the American people have no desire to fight the Russians, but if Communism does sweep across Europe, we in America will surely be in danger."

Gannett, one of a group of newspaper men who recently toured United States military zones in Europe under sponsorship of the War Department, said, "There are just two hopes for us."

"One is that Russia may change its present policies, abandon its idea that worldwide Communism is the only road to peace and decide to co-operate.

"The other hope is that within Russia the people may become dissatisfied with Communism, the low standard of living that now prevails there, the preparation for further war that now is going on, and revolt."

Gannett said that "until totalitarian government is ended, we shall not be safe." He advocated occupation of Germany for fifteen, twenty or twenty-five years.

Norwegian Lutherans Urge Taylor's Recall

JUN 1 4 1946

Minneapolis, June 13 (AP)—The Norwegian Lutheran Church of America at its biennial convention today approved a resolution demanding recall of Myron T. Taylor as President Truman's representative at the Vatican.

The convention, which opened Tuesday and closes June 18, has 2,000 delegates from the United States and Canada.

The resolution declared that the church considered the Taylor arrangement "un-American, contrary to the principle of separation of church and state and a violation of the practice of recognition of all religious faiths without preferential treatment."

they voiced hope that the A. V. C. could "supply a much-needed leadership to second world war veterans, not only on veterans' affairs but on national and international affairs."

2 Lieutenants Killed in Crash

TAMPA, Fla., June 13 (AP)—Among the Army fliers killed yesterday in the crash of a B-29 Superfortress, which crashed into a mountain peak in Tennessee were Second Lieut. John R. McElwee, 21 years old, whose mother, Mrs. Emily McElwee, resides at 167 Williams Street, East Orange, N. J., and First Lieut. Frederick Lee, 26, whose wife, Mrs. Addie Joe Lee, lives in Lockport, N. Y.

To Decommission 7 Cruisers

PHILADELPHIA, June 13 (AP)—The light cruisers Phoenix, Boise, Honolulu and St. Louis and the heavy cruisers Louisville, Augusta and Portland will be decommissioned at the Philadelphia Naval Base during the next two months. The new light cruiser Galveston, built here by Cramp's Shipyard, will also be assigned to the inactive Sixteenth Fleet.

Million Veterans Is Goal of A. V. C.

National Convention Is Opened in Des Moines

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 13 (AP). — The American Veterans' Committee tonight opened a national convention designed to furnish the keystone on which its sponsors could build a million-member organization of World War II veterans.

As delegates from forty-six states and overseas continued to arrive by plane and train, a preliminary session got under way to discuss procedure by which the group will adopt a constitution, a platform and a permanent name and insignia.

Charles G. Bolte, of Greenwich, Conn., chairman, said in an interview that more than 1,000 of the A. V. C.'s 60,000 members would be delegates to the session, which ends Sunday.

A proposed constitution, drawn by Judge Arthur P. McNulty, of New York City, at the direction of the A. V. C.'s national planning committee, and a proposed platform drafted by the Washington, D. C. chapter, have already been submitted.

Meantime, two A. V. C. sponsors, Franklin D. Roosevelt jr., and Oren Root jr., of New York City, joined in an interview at which

U. N. Group in Favor Of 'Small' Home Site

JUN 14 1946

World Capital in County May Cover Only Four Miles, Parley Told.

NEW HAVEN, June 13 — Members of the United Nations Headquarters commission, meeting here with Governor Baldwin and his state committee to cooperate with the U. N. in establishing the world headquarters in the Fairfield-Westchester county, area of Connecticut and New York, indicated they expect to select a much smaller site than the 42-square mile tract proposed by the original site commission.

During the meeting, which lasted slightly more than four hours, Charles Corbusier, French member of the U.N. commission, and considered Europe's foremost architect, discussing the proposed size of the headquarters site, said it would not be a 50 or a 40 square-mile project. He said it might be as little as four square miles, "the smaller the better" because the committee desired an area as "small as they could do with."

It was decided that Governor Baldwin would name two sub-committees to work with two sub-committees from the U.N., one to consider legal problems, the other to consider the actual site selection. This sub-committee will escort the U.N. Headquarters commission on a series of inspection tours of Fairfield county, it was decided, and give whatever aid is needed in helping the commission make its final selection.

During the meeting several possible sites were discussed but no actual agreement was reached or even mentioned, it was announced.

Representatives on the Governor's committee from Stamford and Greenwich, where much opposition to the location of the world capital in that area has developed, attended the closed meeting, as did representatives of the dissenting groups. An observer said, however, that no opposition was expressed during the discussions.

All members of the U.N. commission, headed by Sir Angus Fletcher of South Africa and the British Empire, attended the conference. They included Dr. Stoyan Gavrilovic of Yugoslavia, chairman of the former site committee, le Corbusier, representing France; Dr. K. W. Yu, China; Awnie Khalidy, Iraq; Jonkheer Jan De Ranitz, Netherlands; Juan F. Yriart, Uruguay; N. D. Bassov, Russia; and J. T. Lange, Australia.

EXHIBITS USE OF MADE FUEL

Navy Gives Demonstration Of Synthetic Oils Also

Annapolis, June 13 (AP)—The first practical demonstration of naval equipment using synthetic fuels and lubricants in United States history was held today at the Naval Engineering Experiment Station.

Executives of oil and engine firms and Government agencies watched jeeps, boats, bulldozers and amphibious craft operating with fuels and lubricants made from natural gas, shales and coal.

The exhibition, under the auspices of the Army-Navy Petroleum Board, demonstrated the practicability of developing synthetic fuels to make greater use of available sources in the nation.

Jets And Turbines Also

The synthetics also were shown powering turbo-jets, such as used in rockets and the experiment station's model gas turbine which is designed as a new source of marine propulsion.

Amphibious craft, for the first time in American naval history, were propelled through the water by synthetic fuels, unloaded jeeps powered by similar man contrived products, without any structural changes in the engines.

Besides the demonstration, the Army Headquarters Corps showed the visiting executives and military men an invasion type pipeline, a 3,000 gallon unit tank farm, a petroleum testing laboratory—all portable—and other equipment.

Other Features Included

The Navy exhibit included the German Jentzsch shipboard petroleum tester in operation, comparative low-temperature performance of synthetic greases, and crude products taken from various kinds of shales, and othe synthetic fuels and greases.

The Army-Navy show was a part of a two-day conference, the second of which is to be held in Washington tomorrow.

W. F. Joachim, superintendent of the internal combustion engine laboratory at the experiment station, said greater interest in these synthetics would "deevlop new industries and uses of natural and petroleum gases that are now wasted, as well as add greatly to our petroleum resources and supplies.

About 65 executives of petroleum companies and engine manufacturing firms saw the morning demonstration with Government agency representatives, and 250 other technical engineers and executives saw a repeat performance in the afternoon.

DOUGLAS CALLS U.N. WORLD PEACE HOPE

Albany, June 13 (A. P.).—Praising the United Nations as "the greatest step yet taken toward world peace," Associate Justice William O. Douglas of the United States Supreme Court, declared today, "Absolute sovereignty on the part of any nation bent on world domination might now be the doom of civilization itself.

"Absolute sovereignty, complete self-determination are outmoded in this atomic age," the jurist said in a commencement address at Siena College. "No nation-state can today be strong enough to protect its people against war."

He declared that the United Nations organization was "but the first step toward creating a system of law at the world level adequate to handle grievances and disputes between peoples."

"We must stand by the United Nations and seek to evolve through it the institutions of law adequate to control these new instruments of mass destruction," he continued. "World law is essential for world peace. The risks are far too great for us to intrust the cherished ideals of this great civilization to jungle technics."

British Loan, Palestine Pact Hit At Zionist Rally

New York, June 13 (AP)—Demands that the entire question of the British loan be re-examined and that Britain be asked to give up its mandate in Palestine were expressed last night by speakers at a Madison Square Garden rally of the American Zionist Emergency Committee.

The rally, which was called a week ago to protest the "stalling" tactics of the British Government in admitting 100,000 Jews into Palestine, turned into a denunciation of British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin who earlier in the day rejected the mass migration plan in a speech before a Labor party conference.

Assailed By Senator Johnson

"Britain has proved she is unwilling and unable to carry out her responsibility with respect to the Palestine mandate," declared Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Col.). "She is pressing us to assume all of the responsibilities. We should assume also the decisions."

He said Bevin's speech was a "gratuitous insult to the President and the people of the United States. I don't think the President will take it lying down."

Dr. Abba Hillel Silver, president of the Zionist Organization of America, asserted that Bevin had given his word to the Anglo-American Commission of Inquiry appointed to investigate the Palestinian situation that its recommendations, if unanimous, would be carried out. The committee recommended the migration of 100,000 Jews.

"Broken Pledges" Cited

"In view of this shocking record of broken pledges and repeated violation of solemn obligations, American citizens have the right to turn to their representatives in the Congress of the United States, who are discussing the granting of a loan to Great Britain, and inquire whether the Government of the United States can afford to make a loan to a government whose pledged word seems to be worthless."

Bartley Crum, a member of the Anglo-American commission, asked that the British turn over the Palestine mandate to the United Nations, and called upon the United States Senate to examine the feasibility of having America assume the mandate.

Redeployment Schedule

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three U. S. ports today await docking of six vessels bringing home 6,170 veterans.

Two west coast points are due to dock three ships with 3,085 men while the same number of men aboard an equal number of vessels, is due at New York.

West coast arrivals: San Diego, 1,621 personnel, one ship; San Francisco, two vessels, 1,464 returnees.

Ships Arriving Today

At New York

Miscellaneous troops on following vessels: Waterbury Victory from Bremen, 712; Westerly Victory from Le Havre, 929; Sea Devil from Le Havre, 1,444.

At San Diego

Communication ship Mt. Olympus from Shanghai, 621 Navy.

At San Francisco

Golden Gate, 1,340 Navy, 29 Marines; Andromeda, 94 Navy, one Marine.

Arrivals Yesterday

Miscellaneous on following: Tufts Victory from Le Havre, 977; Norway Victory from Bremen, 767.

Brazil from Le Havre, 408 war brides and children.

At San Francisco

Miscellaneous on following: Arthur Middletown, 975 Navy, 162 Army, 41 civilians; Gordonia, 33 Navy; Mariposa from Australia, 852 war brides and children; Acadia from Pearl Harbor, 80 Army, 256 civilians.

At Seattle

Goucher Victory from Yokohama, 821 Army, 22 Navy, eight civilians.

THE SUB-COMMITTEE HAD RECOMMENDED THAT THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY CALL UPON THE UNITED NATIONS FOR A COMPLETE BREAK WITH GENERALISSIMO FRANCISCO FRANCO IF HE STILL IS IN POWER IN SEPTEMBER. THE UNITED STATES MODIFICATION WOULD ALLOW THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY TO TAKE "SUCH ACTION" AS IT "DEEMS APPROPRIATE UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES AT THE TIME." ~~THIS WOULD LEAVE THE WAY OPEN FOR ACTION LESS DRASTIC THAN A DIPLOMATIC BREAK IF THE ASSEMBLY DECIDED UPON A MORE MODERATE~~

JOHNSON HAS BEEN WORKING DAY AND NIGHT AMONG THE DELEGATES TO OBTAIN A BASIS FOR ACTION UPON WHICH AGREEMENT MIGHT BE REACHED.

DR. EVATT STRESSED THAT "POSITIVE ACTION" WOULD BE RECOMMENDED BY THE COUNCIL AND DECLARED THAT THE UNITED STATES SUGGESTION WOULD MAKE THE SUB-COMMITTEE RECOMMENDATIONS MORE FLEXIBLE.

"IN THE OPINION OF THE SUB-COMMITTEE IT IS IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE FINDINGS IN THE CASE AND IT WILL MEAN NO DIMINUTION OF THE AUTHORITY OF THE COUNCIL," HE SAID.

BEFORE THE COUNCIL MET AT 10:40 A.M. E.D.T., CONSIDERABLE PROGRESS WAS REPORTED AUTHORITATIVELY AMONG COUNCIL MEMBERS ON THE COMPROMISE PLAN.

DEBATE ON THE ISSUE HAD BEEN POSTPONED TWICE.

JUN 1 4 1946

JOHNSON FOLLOWED EVATT WITH A STATEMENT THAT THE UNITED STATES HAD DISAGREED WITH THE ORIGINAL WORDING OF THE SUB-COMMITTEE REPORT SINCE IT MADE THE RECOMMENDATIONS TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY TOO SPECIFIC.

"MY GOVERNMENT IS NOT COMMITTED ON ANY POSITION IT WILL TAKE IN THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY," JOHNSON SAID.

DR. HAFEZ AFIFI PASHA, OF EGYPT, ANNOUNCED HE WOULD VOTE FOR THE MODIFIED RESOLUTION AND RESERVE HIS GOVERNMENT'S POSITION IN THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

ANDREI A. GROMYKO, SOVIET DELEGATE, SPEAKING FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE THE SUB-COMMITTEE MADE ITS REPORT, DECLARED THAT THE SUB-COMMITTEE HAD CONFIRMED THE EXISTENCE OF THE FASCIST REGIME IN SPAIN AND HAD FOUND THAT THE FRANCO REGIME CONSTITUTED A THREAT TO PEACE.

FOR THIS REASON, HE SAID, THE SITUATION IN SPAIN "CANNOT BE CONSIDERED AS A PURELY SPANISH PROBLEM."

THE PLAN, WHICH WAS SAID TO HAVE BEEN FAIRLY WELL ADVANCED IN THE INTENSE JOCKEYING AMONG THE DELEGATES, HAS TWO MAIN POINTS:

1. IT WOULD LEAVE TO THE DISCRETION OF THE ASSEMBLY IN SEPTEMBER WHEN AND IF TO CALL UPON THE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS TO BREAK RELATIONS WITH GENERALISSIMO FRANCISCO FRANCO.

2. FAILING A BREAK IN RELATIONS, IT WOULD LEAVE TO THE ASSEMBLY TO DECIDE WHAT ACTION SHOULD BE TAKEN AGAINST FRANCO.

THE REPORTED COMPROMISE DIFFERS FROM THE RECOMMENDATION MADE BY THE SECURITY COUNCIL SUB-COMMITTEE WHICH INVESTIGATED SPAIN IN THAT IT WOULD NOT BIND THE ASSEMBLY TO A RECOMMENDED DATE FOR BREAKING OFF RELATIONS.

THE SUB-COMMITTEE PROPOSED THAT THE ASSEMBLY CALL FOR A U.N. RUPTURE WITH FRANCO IF HE STILL IS IN POWER IN SEPTEMBER.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY AT ITS MEETING IN LONDON LAST WINTER CONDEMNED FRANCO BUT TOOK NO FURTHER STEPS AGAINST HIM.

NUMEROUS CONFERENCES HAVE TAKEN PLACE AMONG THE DELEGATES IN AN ATTEMPT TO FIND A WAY BY WHICH THE COUNCIL MIGHT DISPOSE OF THE SPANISH QUESTION TO THE SATISFACTION OF ALL CONCERNED.

IT WAS NOTED, HOWEVER, THAT A RUSSIAN SPOKESMAN INDICATED ANDREI A. GROMYKO, SOVIET DELEGATE, HAD NOT CHANGED HIS POSITION IN THE MATTER.

GROMYKO HAS BEEN REPRESENTED AS FEELING THAT THE SUB-COMMITTEE RECOMMENDATIONS DID NOT GO FAR ENOUGH. HE HAS CALLED IN COUNCIL DEBATE FOR A COMPLETE AND IMMEDIATE BREAK WITH FRANCO SPAIN, CONTENDING THAT THE EVIDENCE ALREADY PUT BEFORE THE COUNCIL SINCE THE QUESTION WAS BROUGHT UP IN APRIL HAS SHOWN CLEARLY THAT FRANCO IS A PRESENT MENACE TO WORLD PEACE.

THE BRITISH AND UNITED STATES DELEGATIONS HAVE INDICATED THEY BELIEVED THE RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE SUB-COMMITTEE WENT TOO FAR.

THE BRITISH DELEGATE, SIR ALEXANDER CADOGAN, HAD NOT RECEIVED HIS INSTRUCTIONS LATE LAST NIGHT. HOWEVER, HIS GOVERNMENT'S STAND WAS INDICATED WHEN THE BRITISH LABOR PARTY CONVENTION AT BOURNEMOUTH, ENGLAND, YESTERDAY REJECTED SANCTIONS AGAINST FRANCO AND TURNED DOWN A RESOLUTION CALLING FOR A DIPLOMATIC BREAK WITH FRANCO.

SIR ALEXANDER ON MONDAY OBTAINED POSTPONEMENT OF THE COUNCIL DEBATE BECAUSE HE HAD NOT RECEIVED HIS INSTRUCTIONS, EXPECTED TO BE FORMULATED AFTER THE LABOR PARTY CONVENTION.

THE SPANISH CASE IN THE COUNCIL GOES BACK TO APRIL WHEN DR. OSCAR LANGE, POLISH DELEGATE, FORMALLY CHARGED SPAIN WITH BEING A MENACE TO WORLD PEACE AND ASKED AN IMMEDIATE U.N. BREAK WITH MADRID.

THE QUESTION WAS TURNED OVER TO A FIVE-MAN SUB-COMMITTEE FOR INVESTIGATION AND THE SUB-COMMITTEE REPORTED MAY 31 AFTER MORE THAN A MONTH OF HARD WORK ON A MOUNTAIN OF TESTIMONY.

THE U.N. ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL IS SCHEDULED TO MEET IN THE HUNTER OLLEGE COUNCIL CHAMBER AT 2:30 P.M.E.D.T. THIS AFTERNOON TO TAKE UP THE REPORT OF THE SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON REFUGEES AND DISPLACED PERSONS.

THIS COMMITTEE, WHICH DISCUSSED THE PROBLEM OF MORE THAN 3,000,000 REFUGEES AND DISPLACED PERSONS THROUGHOUT THE WORLD FROM APRIL 8 TO JUNE 1, WAS UNABLE TO AGREE ON SEVERAL POINTS. THESE INCLUDED WHETHER ALL REFUGEES SHOULD BE FORCED TO GO BACK TO THE COUNTRY OF ORIGIN WHETHER OR NOT THEY DIFFERED WITH THE PRESENT REGIME, AND WHO SHOULD BE CONSIDERED REFUGEES.

THE UNITED NATIONS COMMISSION ON ATOMIC ENERGY WILL MEET FOR THE FIRST TIME TOMORROW AT 11 A.M. E.D.T. THE NATIONS REPRESENTED ON THE SECURITY COUNCIL, PLUS CANADA, MAKE UP THE ATOMIC COMMISSION. CANADA IS INCLUDED BECAUSE OF HER PART IN DEVELOPING THE ATOMIC BOMB.

Many of the 52 German defendants in the war crimes trial muttered curses against Goltz as he testified.

Describing himself as a "citizen of no nation", Goltz said 14,000 victims of Gestapo persecution were cremated at the camp during the 25 months he was an inmate, and that toward the end of the war "the crematory could not handle the bodies any longer and they were burned in an open fire place."

THE REJECTED MONARCH'S MOVES CAME AS PREMIER ALCIDE DE GASPERI WAS GRANTED NEW POWERS AS ACTING CHIEF OF STATE IN A TEMPORARY COMPROMISE SOLUTION OF ITALY'S POLITICAL CRISIS.

ADD ROME (UMBERTO) XXX PONE (BRIA)

JUN 14 1946

MILITARY PERSONNEL AT THE AIRPORT REFUSED TO DISCUSS THE KING'S DESTINATION BUT FAREWELLS, MARKED BY CHEEK-KISSING AND IN SEVERAL CASES TEARS, LOOKED FINAL.

QUEEN MARIA JOSE AND HER TWO CHILDREN WENT TO PORTUGAL ABOARD AN ITALIAN CRUISER LAST WEEK, SOON AFTER IT BECAME APPARENT THAT ITALY HAD VOTED TO OVERTURN THE ROYAL HOUSE OF SAVOY IN FAVOR OF A REPUBLIC. UMBERTO'S FATHER, TIRED OLD KING VITTORIO EMANUELE III, WENT INTO EXILE IN EGYPT ON MAY 9, CLEARING THE THRONE FOR HIS SON FOR A MONTH.

THE KING AND HIS PARTY LEFT THE PALACE IN FIVE AUTOMOBILES. A SMALL CROWD OF ABOUT 50 ITALIANS WAS AT THE AIRPORT. MANY WERE SOLDIERS AND SOME SHOUTED "LONG LIVE THE KING" AS THE PARTY DROVE ONTO THE FIELD.

EARLIER IN THE WEEK, BLOODY RIOTS HAD ERUPTED IN NAPLES, TARANTO AND ROME, PROVOKED BY UMBERTO'S RELUCTANCE TO QUIT THE THRONE UNTIL THE SUPREME COURT RULED ON PETITIONS CHARGING FRAUD IN THE ELCTION THAT DEPOSTED HIM.

JUN 1 41946

THE KING WORE A GRAY BUSINESS SUIT AND FLANNEL HAT AND CARRIED NO TOPCOAT. NOT ALL THE KING'S PARTY BOARDED THE PLANE. SOME BADE HIM FAREWELL AT THE SHIPSIDE.

DE GASPERI WAS AUTHORIZED TO TAKE OVER AS PROVISIONAL CHIEF OF THE ITALIAN STATE EARLY TODAY BY A CABINET ORDER WHICH AVOIDED ANY MENTION OF THE MONARCH'S POSITION. UMBERTO THUS FAR HAS DECLINED TO ACCEPT THE RESULT OF THE RECENT PLEBISCITE FAVORING ESTABLISHMENT OF A REPUBLIC.

TRANSPORT MINISTER RICARDO LOMBARDI SUGGESTED THAT THE CABINET -- HARRASSED BY BLOODY MONARCHIST DEMONSTRATIONS IN ROME, NAPLES AND TARANTO -- HAD ACTED WITH THE CONSENT OF UMBERTO, WHO, HE SAID, WOULD REMAIN AS NOMINAL HEAD OF THE STATE UNTIL THE SUPREME COURT OF CASSATION RULES ON MONARCHIST CHARGES OF IRREGULARITIES IN THE JUNE 2 BALLOTING WHICH OUSTED THE HOUSE OF SAVOY.

THE CABINET, MEETING FOR THE SIXTH TIME IN TWO DAYS, ADOPTED THE ORDER OF THE DAY GRANTING NEW POWERS TO DE GASPERI IN RESPONSE TO A LETTER FROM UMBERTO IN WHICH THE MONARCH REAFFIRMED HIS INTENTION TO STAND PAT UNTIL THE COURT'S FINAL DECISION.

NEITHER THE ORDER NOR THE LETTER HINTED THAT THE SOLUTION WAS A COMPROMISE, INTENDED TO END VIOLENCE AND BLOODSHED, BUT OBSERVERS EXPRESSED BELIEF THAT BOTH SIDES INTENTIONALLY OMITTED ANY MENTION OF SUCH A COMPROMISE AS A FACE-SAVING MEASURE. THERE WAS NO INDICATION AS TO WHETHER UMBERTO ACTUALLY DELEGATED ANY OF HIS AUTHORITY TO DE GASPERI.

THE CONCILIATORY TONE OF UMBERTO'S LETTER TO DE GASPERI LED SOME TO BELIEVE THAT THE KING WAS PREPARED TO RELINQUISH THE THRONE WITHOUT FURTHER OBJECTION IN EVENT THE COURT FINDS THAT THE RESULT OF THE PLEBISCITE -- WHICH GAVE THE REPUBLIC A WINNING MARGIN OF NEARLY 2,000,000 VOTES -- HAD NOT BEEN VITIATED BY MONARCHIST CHARGES OF VOTING IRREGULARITIES.

JUN 1 41946

THE LETTER EXPRESSED THE KING'S INTENTION OF ABIDING BY "THE WILL OF THE ITALIAN PEOPLE EXPRESSED BY THE VOTING ELECTORS AND CONFIRMED BY THE DEFINITE JUDGMENT OF THE SUPREME COURT."

DE GASPERI WAS REPORTED TO HAVE INFORMED THE CABINET PRIOR TO ITS ACTION THAT HE HAD RECEIVED VERBAL ASSURANCE FROM UMBERTO THAT HE WOULD LEAVE ROME UNTIL THE FINAL RULING BY THE COURT.

THE POSSIGILITY DEVELOPED, MEANWHILE, THAT THE COURT'S FINAL VERDICT, SCHEDULED TO BE HANDED DOWN NOT LATER THAN TUESDAY, MIGHT BE DELAYED BECAUSE MANY CLAIMS OF FRAUD REMAIN TO BE INVESTIGATED.

IN ANY EVENT, UMBERTO'S DEPARTURE FROM THE CAPITAL WOULD LEAVE DE GASPERI, FOR ALL PRACTICAL PURPOSES, AS RULER OF ITALY, EVEN THOUGH UMBERTO RETAINED HIS TITLE AS KING. PALMIRO TOGLIATTI, MINISTER OF JUSTICE AND COMMUNIST PARTY LEADER, INDICATED HE WOULD INSTRUCT THE COURTS TO ISSUE THEIR VERDICTS IN "THE NAME OF THE PEOPLE" INSTEAD OF THE KING'S NAME.

JUN 1 41946

BEFORE THE CABINET ISSUED ITS ORDER POLICE, BACKED BY CAVALRY AND TANKS, BROKE UP A MONARCHIST DEMONSTRATION IN ROME AND MANY WERE INJURED IN MONARCHIST-REPUBLICAN CLASHES. ONE OF THOSE HURT WAS C[illegible]

Jerusalem, June 13--(ap)--While the Jewish press assailed British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's stand on Palestine today, Jews joined Arabs in a colorful celebration of the birthday of the King of England.

Referring to Bevin's speech at Bournemouth, England, yesterday in which the foreign secretary strongly indicated British rejection of the recommendation for the immigration of 100,000 Jews into Palestine this year, the Labor Party newspaper Davar said Bevin acted "in order to save his own political career."

The newspaper Haboker accused him of trying to "gain the sympathy of the Arabs at the expense of the Americans."

British and zionist flags flew side by side over the Jewish Agency headquarters here. The Union Jack was flown in all main streets. Raf planes flew over a long military parade held to mark the birthday of King George.

TEHRAN, JUNE 13-(AP)-THE IRANIAN FOREIGN OFFICE ANNOUNCED TODAY THAT FOLLOWERS OF GHAZI MOHAMMED, LEADER OF THE SO-CALLED KURDISH INDEPENDENT REPUBLIC, HAD "PLEDGED RENEWED ALLEGIANCE TO THE IRANIAN CENTRAL GOVERNMENT" AT A MEETING IN TABRIZ.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT SAID GHAZI MOHAMMED HAD MET WITH A CENTRAL GOVERNMENT COMMISSION IN THE AZERBAIJAN CAPITAL AND "AGREED TO CAST THE LOT OF HIS FOLLOWERS WITH THEIR IRANIAN BROTHERS TO CREATE A UNIFIED NATION."

THE DEVELOPMENT FOLLOWED BY 48 HOURS ANNOUNCEMENT OF AN AGREEMENT UNDER WHICH THE SELF-PROCLAIMED AZERBAIJAN AUTONOMOUS GOVERNMENT RECOGNIZED THE AUTHORITY OF THE CENTRAL GOVERNMENT, THUS SETTLING A DISPUTE WHICH HAD DIVIDED IRAN SINCE LAST NOVEMBER.

THE TUDEH (LEFTIST) PARTY NEWSPAPER RAHBAR PUBLISHED A DISPATCH FROM TABRIZ GIVING ADDITIONAL DETAILS CONCERNING THE AGREEMENT REACHED BETWEEN AZERBAIJAN PREMIER PISHEVARI AND PRINCE MOZAFFAR FIROUZ, IRANIAN PROPAGANDA MINISTER.

THE SETTLEMENT WAS REACHED, THE DISPATCH SAID, ON THE BASIS OF PREMIER AHMED QAVAM'S SEVEN-POINT PROGRAM -- PREVIOUSLY OUTLINED HERE AND THE FOLLOWING SUPPLEMENTARY DECISIONS:

ONE:: THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNOR-GENERAL TO BE NAMED BY THE CENTRAL GOVERNMENT FROM A LIST OF NOMINEES SUBMITTED FROM TABRIZ.

TWO-- THE AZERBAIJAN "NATIONAL PARLIAMENT" TO BECOME A PROVINCIAL COUNCIL.

WASHINGTON, JUNE 13-(AP)-FIRST LT. JOHN H. LEIMS OF (5837 NORTH TALMAN AVE.), CHICAGO, A HANDSOME MARINE HERO OF BLOODY IWO JIMA, WILL BE AWARDED THE MEDAL OF HONOR BY PRESIDENT TRUMAN TOMORROW.

HE ARRIVED HERE BY PLANE LATE TODAY WITH HIS WIFE, JOYCE, AND HIS PARENTS, MR. AND MRS. AMBROSE LEIMS (2324 WEST AINSLIE ST., CHICAGO) FOR THE NOONTIME CEREMONY AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

LEIMS' CITATION HAS NOT YET BEEN ANNOUNCED, BUT HE TOLD REPORTERS HE BELIEVED IT WAS FOR ACTION IN A NIGHT ATTACK ON IWO JIMA ON MARCH 7 LAST YEAR.

THEN A SECOND LIEUTENANT IN THE 3RD DIVISION, HE RELATED THAT HE HAD BEEN ORDERED TO LEAD HIS MEN IN A DESPERATE EFFORT TO TAKE SOME HIGH GROUND FROM THE JAPANESE AFTER THE AMERICAN ADVANCE HAD BEEN STYMIED FOR THREE DAYS.

THE JUMPING OFF HOUR WAS SET FOR 5 A.M., BUT HE SAID HE WAS "SCARED TO TELL" HIS MEN UNTIL A FEW MINUTES BEFORE THE ATTACK.

THEY MOVED AHEAD ABOUT 300 YARDS, BUT THEN THE JAPS LAID DOWN A CONCENTRATED FIRE THAT "WAS MOWING DOWN" HIS MEN, LEIMS SAID. HE SENT TWO MEN, ONE AT A TIME, TO TRY TO ESTABLISH COMMUNICATIONS WITH TWO FORWARD PLATOONS, BUT EACH WAS KILLED.

NEW YORK, JUNE 13-(AP)-MAYOR WILLIAM O'DWYER TOLD A NEWS CONFERENCE TODAY HE "WAS ASTONISHED" AT THE REMARK BY BRITISH FOREIGN SECRETARY ERNEST BEVIN THAT NEW YORK "DID NOT WANT TOO MANY JEWS."

"WHAT RIGHT HAS HE TO SAY WHAT NEW YORK CITY THINKS OF ITS JEWISH PEOPLE?" ASKED THE MAYOR. "NEW YORK CITY IS VERY PROUD MF ITS JEWISH PEOPLE AND HAS REASONS TO BE."

NEW YORK, JUNE 13-(AP)-REQUESTS BY PROTESTANT GROUPS FOR THE RECALL OF MYRON C.TAYLOR AS PRESIDENTIAL REPRESENTATIVE AT THE VATICAN BLAZED INTO AN OPEN CLASH TODAY BETWEEN FRANCIS CARDINAL SPELLMAN AND BISHOP G.BROMLEY OXNAM, PRESIDENT OF THE FEDERAL COUNCIL OF CHURCHES OF CHRIST IN AMERICA.

THE COUNCIL TUESDAY REPORTED THAT PRESIDENT TRUMAN INFORMED A DELEGATION HEADED BY BISHOP OXNAM LAST WEEK THAT TAYLOR'S APPOINTMENT "WAS A TEMPORARY EXPEDIENT X X X THAT WOULD CERTAINLY TERMINATE WITH THE SIGNING OF THE PEACE TREATIES."

THE PROTESTANT GROUPS HAVE ARGUED THAT TAYLOR'S APPOINTMENT WAS CONTRARY TO THE AMERICAN PRINCIPLE OF THE SEPARATION OF CHURCH AND STATE.

CARDINAL SPELLMAN, ARCHBISHOP OF NEW YORK, SPEAKING YESTERDAY AT THE 101ST COMMENCEMENT OF FORDHAM UNIVERSITY, DECLARED THAT THE DEMANDS FOR RECALL MIGHT REPRESENT "THE ANTI-CATHOLICISM OF UNHOODED KLANSMEN SOWING SEEDS OF DISUNION WITHIN OUR TREASURED NATION."

"I BELIEVE IN AND PRACTICE TOLERANCE, FOR MY RELIGION TEACHES ME TO OPPOSE EVEN HATRED WITH CHARITY," CARDINAL SPELLMAN SAID. "BUT WHEN REUNIONS OF LARGE GROUPS OF RELIGIOUS LEADERS, WITH THE PRETEXT OF REPRESENTING THIRTY OR FORTY MILLION AMERICANS, SOW SEEDS OF DISSENSION AND DISUNION, I FEEL IT MY DUTY AS AN AMERICAN AND A CATHOLIC TO HELP DEFEND OUR NATION AGAINST SUCH REPRESENTATIONS."

HE SAID THAT ONE MEMBER OF THE PROTESTANT DELEGATION HAD CONCEDED IN PRESS STATEMENTS THAT TAYLOR'S MISSION HAD BEEN A "CONTRIBUTION TO THE PEACE" BUT WOULD BE ENDED WITH THE SIGNING OF THE PEACE TREATIES. HE CONTINUED:

JUN 1 41946

"SURELY THESE MINISTERS OF GOD KNOW THAT EVEN WITH THE SIGNING OF PEACE TREATIES, PEACE WILL BE DIFFICULT TO ATTAIN, YET THEY WISH WITHDRAWN FROM HIS MISSION A MAN WHO, BY THE STATEMENTS OF TWO PRESIDENTS, HELPED BRING SOME MEASURE OF PEACE TO THIS WAR-RIDDEN WORLD.

"WHAT REASON THEN HAVE THESE MEN OF RELIGION TO MAKE SUCH DEMANDS ON THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES? IS IT THE ANTI-CATHOLICISM OF UNHOODED KLANSMEN SOWING SEEDS OF DISUNION WITHIN OUR TREASURED NATION?

CARDINAL SPELLMAN, WHO SAID HE DID NOT CLAIM TO REPRESENT 25,000,000 AMERICAN CATHOLICS, DECLARED THAT TAYLOR'S DESIGNATION BY THE LATE

A63

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT WAS THE EIGHTH TIME AN AMERICAN REPRESENTATIVE HAD BEEN NAMED TO THE VATICAN AND WAS "NO MORE AGAINST THE AMERICAN PRINCIPLE OF THE SEPARATION OF CHURCH AND STATE THAN IS THE REPRESENTATION FROM THIS COUNTRY TO THE COURT OF ST. JAMES WHERE THE KING IS HEAD OF BOTH CHURCH AND STATE."

ASSERTING THAT MR.ROOSEVELT AND TAYLOR WERE EPISCOPALIANS AND PRESIDENT TRUMAN WAS A BAPTIST AND THAT TAYLOR WAS THE PRESIDENT'S PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVE RATHER THAN A GOVERNMENT REPRESENTATIVE, CARDINAL SPELLMAN SAID "THE SEPARATION OF CHURCH AND STATE IN THIS COUNTRY DOES NOT AND NEVER DID MEAN OPPOSITION ON HOSTILITY ON THE PART OF THE STATE TOWARDS THE CHURCH AND ITS POLICIES."

BISHOP OXNAM HEAD OF THE NEW YORK AREA OF THE METHODIST CHURCH, SAID IN A STATEMENT REPLYING TO CARDINAL SPELLMAN:

"IT IS TO BE REGRETTED THAT A DISTINGUISHED PRELATE SHOULD, IN REFERRING TO FELLOW CHRISTIANS, USE SUCH PHRASES AS 'BIGOTRY THRIVES ON IGNORANCE;' 'BIGOTS LAY FOUNDATIONS FOR FALSEHOODS,' AND ASK: 'IS IT THE ANTI-CATHOLICISM OF UNHOODED KLANSMEN?'

CARDINAL SPELLMAN KNOWS THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH DOES NOT BELIEVE IN THE SEPARATION OF CHURCH AND STATE. PROTESTANTS DO SO BELIEVE. WE [illegible] LIBERTY FOR EVERY ROMAN CATHOLIC, EVERY JEW, EVERY PROTESTANT. THE RESPECTFUL REQUEST FOR THE TERMINATION OF MR.TAYLOR'S APPOINTMENT AS A PERSONAL REPRESENTATIVE OF THE PRESIDENT TO THE POPE WAS MADE BECAUSE PROTESTANTS BELIEVE IT VIOLATES THE AMERICAN PRINCIPLE OF SEPARATION OF CHURCH AND STATE.

"IS THIS TO 'SABOTAGE THE GENERAL WELFARE' AND TO 'INCITE DOMESTIC STRIFE?' THE ROMAN CATHOLIC CHURCH INSISTS ON BEING A CHURCH AND A STATE. HOW CAN AN AMERICAN CITIZEN BE AT ONCE LOYAL TO HIS OWN COUNTRY AND HIS PRESIDENT, AND ALSO LOYAL TO ANOTHER POLITICAL STATE AND ITS POLITICAL RULERS, IF THE TWO STATES DIFFER IN INTERNATIONAL POLICY?

"IS IT NOT BETTER FOR A CHURCH TO BE A CHURCH AND NOT TRY TO BE A CHURCH AND A STATE? I, OF COURSE, DO NOT QUESTION THE PERSONAL PATRIOTISM OF CARDINAL SPELLMAN OR ANY ROMAN CATHOLIC. THOUSANDS DIED TO PRESERVE OUR FREEDOM. BUT I DO WANT THE FUNDAMENTAL ISSUE OF CHURCH AND STATE BROUGHT OUT. LET US REVEAL THE SPIRIT OF OUR LORD TOWARD EACH OTHER AND IN ALL MATTERS OF RELIGIOUS LIBERTY DO UNTO OTHERS AS WE WOULD BE DONE BY."

LEIMS SAID, "I COULDN'T ASK ANY MORE TO GO SO I TOOK SOME WIRE AND WENT MYSELF." HE WENT THROUGH, BUT LATER THE AMERICANS HAD TO DRAW BACK. HE RETURNED TWICE, HOWEVER, TO CARRY BACK WOUNDED COMRADES.

HE SUFFERED SHRAPNEL WOUNDS IN THE BACK AND BURNS ON THE FACE AND ARMS, BUT HE SAID THAT THESE WERE NOT SERIOUS AND HE WAS TREATED ON THE FIELD.

LEIMS SAID HIS COLONEL TOLD HIM AT THE TIME THAT HE WAS GOING TO RECOMMEND HIM FOR THE MEDAL OF HONOR, THE NATION'S HIGHEST MILITARY AWARD, BUT HE HEARD NO MORE ABOUT IT UNTIL HE WAS NOTIFIED AT HIS HOME MAY 22.

THE 25-YEAR-OLD MARINE, WHO WAS DISCHARGED DEC. 16 AFTER THREE YEARS AND TWO MONTHS IN THE SERVICE, TALKED WITH REPORTERS AT A PRESS CONFERENCE ARRANGED BY SENATOR BROOKS (R-ILL).

LEIMS SAID THAT BROOKS, A MARINE IN THE FIRST WORLD WAR WHO WAS WOUNDED SEVEN TIMES AND WAS AWARDED THE DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS, TALKED HIM INTO JOINING THE MARINES.

"YOU DON'T REGRET IT, DO YOU?" ASKED BROOKS. "NO, SIR," LEIMS REPLIED.

U. S. OFFERS TO YIELD ATOM SECRET IF LODGED IN WORLD CONTROL BODY

Demands Adequate Guarantees Weapon Will Never Be Used for War.

By D. HARRISON

NEW YORK, June 14—(AP) The United States today offered to destroy the store of atomic bombs and share the atomic secrets for peaceful use if the world would set up adequate safeguards to make sure this weapon never again could be used as an instrument of war.

These safeguards included:

1. Surrender of the veto power by the five major nations on all matters pertaining to atomic development.

2. Creation of an international atomic development authority with absolute power over atomic raw materials and production.

3. Adoption of international laws "with teeth" providing for severe punishment of violators on a basis to be determined by the United Nations.

Baruch Outlines Position

The United States position was outlined before the opening session of the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission by Bernard M. Baruch, U. S. representative on the 12-nation Security Council agency.

The white-haired 75-year-old Baruch made it clear in his historic statement that the United States would hold a monopoly in the atomic field until the conditions are met.

When that time finally comes, he said, the United States would be willing to agree that the manufacture of atomic bombs shall stop, all existing bombs shall be destroyed and the authority shall be given full information "as to the know-how for the production of atomic energy."

Baruch emphasized, however, that the United States would take these steps only after the nations had joined in a pact to outlaw the atomic bomb as an instrument of war and had ratified treaties for adequate control and punishment of violators.

This means that the United States would not yield her atomic secrets until the Senate approved by two-thirds vote all treaties embodying these terms. Thus, the Senate would be the judge of whether proper guarantees had been set up.

The delegations, seated at the crescent-shaped council table, listened solemnly as Baruch, pronouncing his words slowly and distinctly, laid down his proposals for outlawing the lethal atomic bomb and expressed hope that the commission eventually would be able to ban the use of other terrible weapons, such as gas and bacteriological bombs.

"Before a country is ready to relinquish any winning weapons," Baruch asserted, "it must have more than words to reassure it. It must have a guarantee of safety, not only against the offenders in the atomic area, but against the illegal users of other weapons—bacteriological, biological, gas—perhaps, why not?—against war itself."

After hearing Baruch and deciding that Australian delegate Herbert V. Evatt would serve as chairman for the first month under a rotation plan, the council adjourned until 3 p. m. next Wednesday.

Several delegates praised the declaration generally, but withheld comment on the detailed provisions pending further study and consultation with their governments.

Gromyko Is Silent

Soviet delegate Andrei A. Gromyko said "so far matters are going smoothly." He said Baruch's speech "was well written and well delivered," but added:

"I have no comment on the substance."

The session was opened by Trygve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, who spoke briefly emphasizing the importance of the work before the commission. At his suggestion Baruch became temporary chairman.

The meeting was held in the public council chamber at Hunter College. Except for a sprinkling of army and navy uniforms among the delegations, it appeared very much like a Security Council session.

Seven of the 12 men at the table serve both as members of the Security Council and its atomic commission. The delegations, however, included many world atomic authorities such as Maj.-Gen. Leslie R. Groves, who was in charge of the U. S. atomic projects during the war.

Reads Truman Letter

Baruch launched into his speech after reading a letter he received from President Truman. The President said:

"I ask you as the American representative on the United Nations atomic energy commission to express to the members my sense of the extraordinary importance of the work in which they are about to engage. Nothing concerns the whole world more than the achievement of the purpose that brings them together."

Baruch declared at the outset of his speech that the atomic energy commission had the task of providing "the mechanism to assure that atomic energy is used for peaceful purposes and precludes its use in war."

"To that end," he declared, "we must provide immediate, swift and sure punishment of those who violate the agreements that are reached by the nations. Penalization is essential if peace is to be more than a feverish interlude between wars."

He mentioned the subject of punishment for violators time and again throughout his speech. At one point he suggested that the United Nations could prescribe individual responsibility and punishment on the principles applied at Nuernberg in the war crimes trials.

He made it clear, however, that it would be up to the commission itself to decide what constituted crimes to be punished and what the penalties would be.

Want Enforceable Sanctions

"If I read the signs aright," he said, "the peoples want a program not composed merely of pious thoughts but of enforceable sanctions—an international law with teeth in it."

He declared that the question of punishment goes "straight to the veto power contained in the charter of the United Nations so far as it relates to the field of atomic energy."

"There must be no veto to protect those who violate their solemn agreements not to develop or use atomic energy for destructive purposes," he said. "The bomb does not wait upon debate."

Under the U.N. charter, any one of the five permanent members of the Security Council—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France and China—may veto any question of substance which comes before the council.

Baruch suggested several acts which the United States felt should be punishable by "penalties of as serious a nature as the nations may wish." These included illegal possession of an atomic bomb, illegal possession of atomic material suitable for use in an atomic bomb, seizure of any plant or other property belonging to the authority, willful interference with activities of the authority, or creation or operation or dangerous projects in a manner contrary to a license granted by the international control body.

Advance by Stages

Under the plan outlined by Baruch the control of atomic development would be adopted by stages. He said the United States at first would make available only information essential to an understanding of its proposals. Other facts will be supplied as the controls develop.

"My country is ready," he said, "to make its full contribution toward the end we seek, subject of course, to our constitutional processes, and to an adequate system of control becoming effective as we finally work it out."

Eventually, he said, if the U. S. plan is approved, the international authority would control virtually every phase of atomic development from raw material to production and distribution.

It would have authority to make inspections in any country without interference, have exclusive rights to develop atomic energy and direct strategic distribution of materials

Urges World Control Agency Backed By Law With 'Teeth'

New York, June 14 (AP)—The United States today proposed to the world the creation of an international atomic development authority to handle atomic energy and agreed to destroy its own stores of bombs and stop manufacturing them if an adequate control system is set up.

The United States made it clear that there must be no veto power in any part of the framework it was proposing for the development and peaceful use of atomic energy.

It called for renunciation of the atom bomb as an instrument of warfare and for a world security program "not composed merely of pious thoughts but of enforceable sanctions—and international law with teeth in it."

Plan Presented By Baruch

Bernard M. Baruch, 75-year-old financier who played a leading role in this country's victories in both world wars, presented the United States plan at the first meeting of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, on which he is the United States representative.

In a brief organization session the commission decided to rotate chairmen on the basis of the English alphabetical listing of the member countries. Dr Herbert V. Evatt, of Australia, thereupon took the chair for the first month's presidency. The commission adjourned until next Wednesday.

Baruch's Speech at Opening Session of U. N. Atomic Energy Commission

The text of Bernard M. Baruch's address before the Atomic Energy Commission of the United Nations follows:

My fellow-members of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, and by fellow-citizens of the world:

We are here to make a choice between the quick and the dead.

That is our business.

Behind the black portent of the new taomic age lies a hope which, seized upon with faith, can work our salvation. If we fail, then we have damned every man to be the slave of fear. Let us not deceive ourselves: We must elect world peace or world destruction.

Science has torn from nature a secret so vast in its potentialities that our minds cower from the terror its creates. Yet terror is not enough to inhibit the use of the atomic bomb. The terror created by weapons has never stopped man from employing them. For each new weapon a defense has been produced, in time. But now we face a condition in which adequate defense does not exist.

Will of Mankind Invoked

Science, which gave us this dread power, shows that it can be made a giant help to humanity, but science does not show us how to prevent its baleful use. So we have been appointed to obviate that peril by finding a meeting of the minds and the hearts of our peoples. Only in the will of mankind lies the answer.

It is to express this will and make it effective that we have been assembled. We must provide the mechanism to assure that atomic energy is used for peaceful purposes and preclude its use in war. To that end, we must provide immediate, swift and sure punishment of those who violate the agreements that are reached by the nations. Penalization is essential if peace is to be more than a feverish interlude between wars. And, too, the United Nations can prescribe individual responsibility and punishment on the principles applied at Nuremberg by the Union of Soviet Socialist Republic, the United Kingdom, France and the United States—a formula certain to benefit the world's future.

In this crisis, we represent not only our governments but, in a larger way, we represent the peoples of the world. We must remember that the peoples do not belong to the governments, but that the governments belong to the peoples. We must answer their demands; ye must answer the world's longing for peace and security.

In that desire the United States shares ardently and hopefully. The search of science for the absolute weapon has reached fruition in this country. But she stands ready to proscribe and destroy this instrument—to lift its use from death to life—if the world will join in a pact to that end.

In our success lies the promise of a new life, freed from the heart-stopping fears that now beset the world. The beginning of victory for the great ideals for which millions have bled and died lies in building a workable plan. Now we approach fulfillment of the aspirations of mankind. At the end of the road lies the fairer, better, surer life we crave and mean to have.

Peace Key to Democracy

Only by a lasting peace are liberties and democracies strengthened and deepened. War is their enemy. And it will not do to believe that any of us can escape war's devastation. Victor, vanquished and neutrals alike are affected physically, economically and morally.

Against the degradation of war we can erect a safeguard. That is the guerdon for which we reach. Within the scope of the formula we outline here, there will be found, to those who seek it, the essential elements of our purpose. Others will see only emptiness. Each of us carries his own mirror in which is reflected shope—or determined desperation—courage or cowardice.

There is famine throughout the world today. It starves men's bodies. But there is a greater famine—the hunger of men's spirit. That starvation can be cured by the conquest of fear, and the substitution of hope, from which springs faith—faith in each other; faith that we want to work together toward salvation; and determination that those who threaten the peace and safety shall be punished.

The peoples of these democracies gathered here have a particular concern with our answer, for their peoples hate war. They will have a heavy exaction to make of those who fail to provide an escape. They are not afraid of an internationalism that protects; they are unwilling to be fobbed off by mouthings about narrow sovereignty, which is today's phrase for yesterday's isolation.

The basis of a sound foreign policy, in this new age, for all the nations here gathered, is that: anything that happens, no matter where or how, which menaces the peace of the world, or the economic stability, concerns each and all of us.

That, roughly, may be said to be the central theme of the United Nations. It is with that thought we begin consideration of the most important subject that can engage mankind—life itself.

Let there be no quibbling about the duty and the responsibility of this group and of the Governments we represent. I was moved, in the afternoon of my life, to add my effort to gain the world's quest, by the broad mandate under which we were created. The resolution of the General Assembly, passed Jan. 24, 1946, in London reads:

Section V. Terms of Reference of the Commission

The Commission shall proceed with the utmost dispatch and inquire into all phases of the problem, and make such recommendations from time to time with respect to them as it finds possible. In particular, the Commission shall make specific proposals:

A. For extending between all nations the exchange of basic scientific information for peaceful ends;

B. For control of atomic energy to the extent necessary to insure its use only for peaceful purposes;

C. For the elimination from national armaments of atomic weapons and of all other major weapons adaptable to mass destruction;

D. For effective safeguards by way of inspection and other means to protect complying states against the hazards of violations and evasions.

The work of the Commission should proceed by separate stages, the successful completion of each of which will develop the necessary confidence of the world before the next stage is undertaken.

Our mandate rests, in text and in spirit, upon the outcome of the conference in Moscow of Messrs. Molotov of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Bevin of the United Kingdom, and Byrnes of the United States of America. The three Foreign Ministers, on Dec. 27, 1945, proposed the establishment of this body.

Their action was animated by a preceding conference in Washington, on Nov. 15, 1945, when the President of the United States, associated with Mr. Attlee, Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, and Mr. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, stated that international control of the whole field of atomic energy was immediately essential. They proposed the formation of this body. In examining that source, the Agreed Declaration, it will be found that the fathers of the concept recognized the final means of world salvation—the abolition of war. Solemnly they wrote:

"We are aware that the only complete protection for the civilized world from the destructive use of scientific knowledge lies in the prevention of war. No system of safeguards that can be devised will of itself provide an effective guarantee against production of atomic weapons by a nation bent on aggression. Nor can we ignore the possibility of the development of other weapons, or of new methods of warfare, which may constitute as great a threat to civilization as the military use of atomic energy."

Through the historical approach I have outlined, we find ourselves here to test if man can produce,

Truman Sends Message

Baruch spoke within a few minutes after the meeting opened, and before presenting the control plan read this message from President Truman:

"I ask you as the American representative on the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission to express to the members my sense of the extraordinary importance of the work in which they are about to engage. Nothing concerns the whole world more than the achievement of the purpose that brings them together. I speak for my fellow Americans in wishing them Godspeed."

Addressing himself to "my fellow citizens of the world," Baruch said the United States "proposes the creation of an international atomic development authority, to which should be intrusted all phases of the development and use of atomic energy. . . ."

Would Give Secret To U.N.

"When an adequate system for control of atomic energy, including the renunciation of the bomb as a weapon, has been agreed upon and put into effective operation and condign [suitable] punishments set up for the violations of the rules of control which are to be stigmatized as international crimes," Baruch said, "we propose that:

1. Manufacture of atomic bombs shall stop.

2. Existing bombs shall be disposed of pursuant to the terms of the treaty, and

3. The authority shall be in possession of full information as to the know-how for the production of atomic energy.

"My country is ready to make its full contribution toward the end we seek, subject, of course, to our constitutional processes, and to an adequate system of control becoming fully effective, as we finally work it out," Baruch said.

Penalties Vs. Veto Power

Baruch, whose proposal was one of the most remarkable documents yet laid before the United Nations, said the matter of punishment "lies at the very heart of our present security system."

"It might as well be admitted here and now," he continued, "that the subject [punishment of violators of the peace] goes straight to the veto power contained in the Charter of the United Nations so far as it relates to the field of atomic energy.

"The Charter permits penalization only by concurrence of each of the five great powers—Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom, China, France and the United States.

"There Must Be No Veto"

"I want to make it very plain that I am concerned here with the veto power only as it affects this particular problem. There must be no veto to protect those who violate their solemn agreements not to develop or use atomic energy for destructive purposes."

Baruch envisioned control of other weapons of war and perhaps of war itself.

Before a country is ready to relinquish any winning weapons, he said, "it must have more than words to reassure it. It must have a guarantee of safety, not only against the offenders in the atomic area but against the illegal users of other weapons—bacteriological, biological, gas—perhaps—why not?—against war itself."

A "Reasonable" Hope

"If we succeed in finding a suitable way to control atomic weapons," he said, 'it is reasonable to hope that we may also preclude the use of other weapons adaptable to mass destruction. When a man learns to say 'A' he can, if he chooses, learn the rest of the alphabet, too.

"Let this be anchored in our minds:

"Peace is never long preserved by weight of metal or by an armament race. Peace can be made tranquil and secure only by understanding and agreement fortified by sanctions. We must embrace international co-operation or international disintegration."

The Authority's Powers

In proposing the international atomic development authority, Baruch said that starting with raw material it should have:

1. Managerial control or ownership of all atomic energy activities potentially dangerous to world security.

2. Power to control, inspect and license all other atomic activities.

3. The duty of fostering the beneficial uses of atomic energy.

4. Research and development responsibilities of an affirmative character intended to put the authority in the forefront of atomic knowledge and thus to enable it to comprehend, and therefore to detect misuse of atomic energy. To be effective, the authority must itself be the world's leader in the field of atomic knowledge and development and thus supplement its legal authority with the great power inherent in possession of leadership in the knowledge.

"Treaty Not Enough"

Baruch told the commission that the "peoples we serve would not believe—and without faith nothing counts—that a treaty, merely outlawing possession or use of the atomic bomb constitutes effective fulfillment of the instructions to this commission.

"Previous failures have been recorded in trying the method of simple renunciation, unsupported by effective guarantees of security and armament limitation. No one would have faith in that approach alone.

"Now Is The Time To Act"

"Now, if ever, is the time to act for the common good. Public opinion supports a world movement toward security. If I read the signs aright, the peoples want a program not composed merely of pious thoughts but of enforceable sanctions—an international law with teeth in it."

He said that the peoples of the democracies gathered in the council chamber "hate war. . . . They are afraid of an internationalism that protects; they are unwilling to be fobbed off by mouthings about narrow sovereignty, which is today's phrase for yesterday's isolation."

List Of Bans Proposed

As for violations of the proposed control framework, Baruch said penalties of as serious a nature as the nations may wish and as immediate and certain in their execution as possible should be fixed for:

1. Illegal possession or use of an atomic bomb.

2. Illegal possession, or separation, of atomic material suitable for use in an atomic bomb.

3. Seizure of any plant or other property belonging to or licensed by the authority.

4. Willful interference with the activities of the authority.

5. Creation or operation of dangerous projects in a manner contrary to or in the absence of a license granted by the international control body.

Creation Procedure

Meanwhile, it was explained authoritatively that the procedure for setting up the authority, if the American plan is adopted, would be for the commission to recommend it to the Security Council and the Council to pass it on to the General Assembly. The General Assembly in turn would pass it on to the member nations in the form of treaties to be formally ratified by each country.

Baruch presented fourteen points representing the fundamental features of a plan that would give effect to the conclusions he had drawn. These included giving the authority complete control of atomic energy, exclusive rights to conduct research in the field of atomic explosives, and the right of inspections by qualified representatives of the authority.

He said the authority should have personnel recruited "on a basis of proven competence but also so far as possible on an international basis."

On Disclosure Of Secrets

On the matter of disclosing atomic secrets, Baruch said the United States is prepared to make available in discussions in the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission "the information essential to a reasonable understanding of the proposals which it advocates."

"Further disclosures must be dependent," he said, "in the interests of all, upon the effective ratification of the treaty. When the authority is actually created, the United States will join the other nations in making available the further information essential to that organization for the performance of its functions. As the successive stages of international control are reached, the United States will be prepared to yield, to the extent required by each stage, national control of activities in this field to the authority."

Invites Criticism

Baruch invited criticism of the United States proposals and plans from other nations.

In opening the first meeting of the commission, Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations, said that the "common people all over the world demand that atomic energy shall be made to lighten the drudgery of their working days rather than fill their lives with fear."

Lie said the commission is charged with the responsibility of serving the Security Council in its task of maintaining international peace and security.

"To a considerable extent," he said, "the entire cause of world peace will depend upon the success of this commission."

The Atomic Energy Commission is made up of the eleven nations on the Security Council [illegible] Brazil, China, France, Mexico, t[illegible]therlands, Poland, Egypt, t[illegible]ted States, the United King[illegible]ussia, Australia—plus C[illegible]anada is a member beca[illegible]elp in developing the ato through his will and faith, the miracle of peace, just as he has, through science and skill, the miracle of the atom.

Scope of Proposed Power

The United States proposes the creation of an International Atomic Development Authority, to which should be entrusted all phases of the development and use of atomic energy, starting with the raw material and including:

(1) Managerial control or ownership of all atomic energy activities potentially dangerous to world security.

(2) Power to control, inspect and license all other atomic activities.

(3) The duty of fostering the beneficial uses of atomic energy.

(4) Research and development responsibilities of an affirmative character intended to put the Authority in the forefront of atomic knowledge and thus to enable it to comprehend, and therefore to detect, misuse of atomic energy. To be effective, the Authority must itself be the world's leader in the field of atomic knowledge and development and thus supplement its legal authority with the great power inherent in possession of leadership in knowledge.

I offer this as a basis for beginning our discussion.

But, I think, the peoples we serve would not believe—and without faith nothing counts—that a treaty merely outlawing possession or use of the atomic bomb constitutes effective fulfillment of the instructions to this commission. Previous failures have been recoredd in trying the method of simple renunciation, unsupported by effective guarantees of security and armament limitation. No one would have faith in that approach alone.

Now, if ever, is the time to act for the common good. Public opinion supports a world movement toward security. If I read the signs aright, the peoples want a program, not composed merely of pious thoughts, but of enforceable sanctions—an international law with teeth in it.

We of this nation, desirous of helping to bring peace to the world and realizing the heavy obligations upon us, arising from our possession of the means for producing the bomb and from the fact that it is part of our armament, are prepared to make our full contribution toward effective control of atomic energy.

Proposals for Regulation

When an adequate system for control of atomic energy, including the renunciation of the bomb as a weapon, has been agreed upon and put into effective operation and condign punishment set up for violations of the rul of control which are to be stigmatized as international crimes, I propose that:

(1) Manufacture of atomic bombs shall stop,

(2) Existing bombs shall be disposed of pursuant to the terms of the treaty, and

(3) The Authority shall be in possession of full information as to the know-how for the production of atomic energy.

Let me repeat, so as to avoid misunderstanding: My country is ready to make its full contribution toward the end we seek, subject, of course, to our constitutional processes, and to an adequate system of control becoming fully effective, as we finally work it out.

Now as to violations: in the agreement, penalties of as serious a nature as the nations may wish and as immediate and certain in their execution as possible, should be fixed for:

(1) Illegal possession or use of an atomic bomb;

(2) Illegal possession, or separation, of atomic material suitable for use in an atomic bomb;

(3) Seizure of any plant or other property belonging to or licensed by the Authority;

(4) Willful interference with the activities of the Authority;

(5) Creation or operation of dangerous projects in a manner contrary to, or in the absence of, a license granted by the international control body.

It would be a deception, to which I am unwilling to lend myself, were I not to say to you, and to our peoples, that the matter of punishment lies at the very heart of our present security system. It might as well be admitted, here and now, that the subject goes straight to the veto power contained in the Charter of the United Nations so far as it relates to the field of atomic energy. The Charter permits penalization only by concurrence of each of the five great powers—Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United Kingdom, China, France and the United States.

Specific Veto Suggested

I want to make very plain that I am concerned here with the veto power only as it affects this particular problem. There must be no veto to protect those who violate their solemn agreements not to develop or use atomic energy for destructive purposes.

The bomb does not wait upon debate. To delay may be to die. The time between violation and preventive action or punishment would be all too short for extended discussion as to the course to be followed.

As matters now stand, several years may be necessary for another country to produce a bomb, de novo. However, once the basic information is generally known, and the authority has established producing plants for peaceful purposes in the several countries, an illegal seizure of such a plant might permit a malevolent nation to produce a bomb in twelve months, and if proceeded by secret preparation and necessary facilities perhaps even in a much shorter time.

The time required—the advance warning given of the possible use of a bomb—can only be generally estimated, but obviously will depend upon many factors, including the success with which the Authority has been able to introduce elements of safety in the design of its plants and the degree to which illegal and secret preparation for the military use of atomic energy will have been eliminated. Presumably no nation would think of starting a war with only one bomb.

This shows how imperative speed is in detecting and penalizing violations.

The process of prevention and penalization—a problem of profound statecraft—is,as I read it, implicit in the Moscow statement, signed by the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, the United States and the United Kingdom a few months ago.

Guarantee Is Essential

But before a country is ready to relinquish any winning weapons, it must have more than words to reassure it. It must have a guarantee of safety, not only against the offenders in the atomic area, but against the illegal users of other weapons—bacteriological, biological, gas—perhaps—why not?—against war itself.

In the elimination of war lies our solution, for only then will nations cease to compete with one another in the production and use of dread "secret" weapons which are evaluated solely by their capacity to kill. This devilish program takes us back not merely to the Dark Ages, but from cosmos to chaos. If we succeed in finding a suitable way to control atomic weapons, it is reasonable to hope that we may also preclude the use of other weapons adaptable to mass destruction. When a man learns to say "A" he can, if he chooses, learn the rest of the alphabet, too.

Let this be anchored in our minds:

Peace is never long preserved by weight of metal or by an armament race. Peace can be made tranquil and secure only by understanding and agreement fortified by sanctions. We must embrace international cooperation or international disintegration.

Science has taught us how to put the atom to work. But to make it work for good instead of for evil lies in the domain dealing with the principles of human duty. We are now facing a problem more of ethics than of physics.

The solution will require apparent sacrifice in pride and in position, but better pain as the price of peace than death as the price of war.

Fundamental Plan Outlined

I now submit the following measures as representing the fundamental features of a plan which would give effect to certain of the conclusions which I have epitomized.

(1) General — The Authority should set up a thorough plan for control of the field of atomic energy, through various forms of ownership, dominion, licenses, operation, inspection, research and management by competent personnel. After this is provided for, there should be as little interference as may be with the economic plans and the present private, corporate and state relationships in the several countries involved.

(2) Raw Materials—The Authority should have as one of its earliest purposes to obtain and maintain complete and accurate information on world supplies of uranium and thorium and to bring them under its dominion. The precise pattern of control for various types of deposits of such materials will have to depend upon the geological, mining, refining and economic facts involved in different situations.

The Authority should conduct continuous surveys so that it will have the most complete knowledge of the world geology of uranium and thorium. Only after all current information on world sources of uranium and thorium is known to us all can equitable plans be made for their production, refining and distribution.

(3) Primary Production Plants—The Authority should exercise complete managerial control of the control of the production of fissionable materials. This means that it should control and operate all plants producing fissionable materials in dangerous quantities and must own and control the product of these plants.

Research Monopoly Urged

(4) Atomic Explosives—The Authority should be given sole and exclusive right to conduct research in the field of atomic explosives. Research activities in the field of atomic explosives are essential in order that the Authority may keep in the forefront of knowledge in the field of atomic energy and fulfill the objective of preventing illicit manufacture of bombs. nly by maintaining its position as the best-informed agency will the Authority be able to determine the line between intrinsically dangerous and nondangerous activities.

(5) Strategic Distribution of Activities and Materials—The activities entrusted exclusively to the Authority, because they are intrinsically dangerous to security, should be distributed throughout the world. Similarly, stockpiles of raw materials and fissionable materials should not be centralized.

(6) Non-Dangerous Activities—A function of the Authority should be promotion of the peacetime benefits of atomic energy.

Atomic research(except in explosives), the use of research reactors, the production of radioactive tracers by means of nondangerous reactors, the use of such tracers and to some extent the production of power should be open to nations and their citizens under reasonable licensing arrangements from the Authority. Denatured materials, whose use we know also requires suitable safeguards, should be furnished for such purposes by the Authority under lease or other arrangement. Denaturing seems to have been overestimated by the public as a safety measure.

(7) Definition of Dangerous and Non-Dangerous Activities—Although a reasonable dividing line can be drawn between dangerous and non-dangerous activities, it is not hard and fast. Provision should, therefore, be made to assure constant re-examination of the questions, and to permit revision of the dividing line as changing conditions and new discoveries may require.

(8) Operations of Dangerous Activities—Any plant dealing with uranium or thorium after it once reaches the potential of dangerous use must be not only subject to the most rigorous and competent inspection by the Authority, but its actual operation shall be under the management, supervision and control of the Authority.

(9) Inspection—By assigning intrinsically dangerous activities exclusivel yto the Authority, the difficulties of inspection are reduced. If the Authority is the only agency which may lawfully conduct dangerous activities, then visible operation by others than the Authority will constitute an unambiguous danger signal. Inspection will also occur in connection with the licensing functions of the Authority.

(10) Freedom of Access—Adequate ingress and egress for all qualified representatives of the Authority must be assured. Many of the inspection activities of the Authority should grow out of, and be incidental to, its other functions. Important measures of inspection will be associated with the tight control of raw materials, for this is a keystone of the plan. The continuing activities of prospecting, survey and research in relation to raw materials will be designed not only to serve the affirmative development functions of the Authority, but also to assure that no surreptitious operations are conducted in the raw materials field by nations or their citizens.

(11) Personnel — The personnel of the Authority should be recruited on a basis of proven competence, but also so far as possible on an international basis.

(12) Progress by Stages—A primary step in the creation of the system of control is the setting forth in comprehensive terms of the functions, responsibilities, powers and limitations of the Authority. Once a charter for the Authority has been adopted, the Authority and the system of control for which it will be responsible will require time to become fully organized and effective. The plan of control will, therefore, have to come into effect in successive stages. These should be specifically fixed in the charter or means should be otherwise set forth in the charter for transitions from one stage to another, as contemplated in the resolution of the United Nations Assembly which created this commission.

(13) Disclosures—In the deliberations of the United Nations Commission on Atomic Energy, the United States is prepared to make available the information essential to a reasonable understanding of the proposals which it advocates. Further disclosures must be dependent, in the interests of all, upon the effective ratification of the treaty. When the Authority is actually created, the United States will join the other nations in making available the further information essential to that organization for the performance of its function. As the successive stages of international control are reached, the United States will be prepared to yield, to the extent required by each stage, national control of activities in this field to the Authority.

(14) International Control—There will be questions about the extent of control to be allowed to national bodies, when the Authority is established. Purely national authorities for control and development of atomic energy should to the extent necessary for the effective operation of the Authority be subordinate to it. This is neither an endorsement nor a disapproval of the creation of national authorities. The Commission should evolve a clear demarcation of the scope of duties and responsibilities of such national authorities.

Broad Criticism Invited

And now I end. I have submitted an outline for present discussion. Our consideration will be broadened by the criticism of the United States proposals and by the plans of the other nations, which, it is to be hoped, will be submitted at their early convenience. I and my associates of the United States delegation will make available to each member of this body books and pamphlets, including the Acheson-Lilienthal report, recently made by the United States Department of State, and the McMahon Committee Monograph No. 1 entitled "Essential Infirmation on Atomic Energy" relating to the McMahon Bill recently passed by the United States Senate, which may prove of value in assessing the situation.

All of us are consecrated to making an end of gloom and hopelessness. It will not be an easy job. The way is long and thorny, but supremely worth traveling. All of us want to stand erect, with our faces to the sun, instead of being forced to burrow into the earth, like rats.

The pattern of salvation must be worked out by all for all.

The light at the end of the tunnel is dim, but our path seems to grow brighter as we actually begin our journey. We cannot yet light the way to the end. However, we hope the suggestions of my Government will be illuminating.

Lincoln's Words Paraphrased

Let us keep in mind the exhortation of Abraham Lincoln, whose words, uttered at a moment of shattering national peril, form a complete text for our deliberation. I quote, paraphrasing slightly:

"We cannot escape history. We of this meeting will be remembered in spite of ourselves. No personal significance or insignificance can spare one or another of us. The fiery trial through which we are passing will light us down in honor or dishonor to the latest generation.

"We say we are for peace. The world will not forget that we say this. We know how to save peace. The world knows that we do. We, even we here, hold the power and have the responsibility.

"We shall nobly save, or meanly lose, the last, best hope of earth. The way is plain, peaceful, generous, just—a way which, if followed, the world will forever applaud."

My thanks for your attention.

Truman Did Not Read Baruch Speech

Washington, June 14 (A. P.)—President Truman said today he imagined that Bernard Baruch's statement on atomic policy before the United Nations Commission in New York followed his directive to Baruch. The President said at a news conference that he had not seen Baruch's actual speech, but, he said, he and Secretary of State Byrnes had given Baruch a directive on American policy and he imagined Baruch's statement followed it.

He was asked whether that policy was the policy contained in the Acheson-Lilienthal report on atomic energy control, which was released in late March by the State Department. Mr. Truman said no, that it was a policy outlined in the directive which he had sent to Baruch. The Acheson-Lilienthal report called for an international authority to supervise atomic developments.

Palestine Plan Action

By Wheeler

London, June 14 (AP)—Ernest Bevin, Foreign Secretary, had no idea of suggesting in his speech Wednesday that Britain would refuse to carry out the recommendation of the British-American Commission on Palestine, a Foreign Office spokesman said today.

The s[illegible] NIGHT [illegible] one of several devi[illegible] bearing on the Palestinian question. Others were:

Britain announced it would not decide whether to accept or reject the commission's recommendations until after a conference with an American committee.

It was learned Prime Minister Attlee would name a cabinet committee to negotiate a final agreement on Palestine with President Truman's advisory committee.

In Washington, President Truman said the United States still was urging immigration of 100,000 Jews into the Holy Land.

A senior Foreign Office spokesman, in an apparent effort to soften American criticism of Bevin's speech to the Labor party conference two days ago, emphasized that Britain had reached no decision on the inquiry commission's report.

Authorized Bevin Text

Bevin had said that "if we put 100,000 Jews into Palestine tomorrow, I ...uld have to put another division of British troops there. I am not prepared to do it." He also said that there had been "agitation in the United States, and particularly in New York, for 100,000 Jews to be put into Palestine. . . . They do not want too many Jews in New York."

The Foreign Office issued an authorized text of Bevin's extemporaneous remarks, but it did not differ essentially from published versions. The spokesman said there was no justification for any charge that Bevin had been misrepresented, but expressed regret that great emphasis had been put on certain portions of Bevin's 80-minute address.

Committee Choice Welcome

A communiqué declared the British "Government will await the results of the conversations between British and American officials before determining their policy in relation to the recommendations of the Anglo-American committee. But they are most anxious that no time should be lost in pressing on with a constructive solution of this most difficult problem."

The communiqué welcomed announcement of formation of President Truman's Cabinet committee. The United States is sending a delegation to London to confer with a British committee.

It was emphasized that these American officials, and their British opposite numbers, would explore technical aspects of the problem, along with Jewish and Arab comments, but would not have authority to negotiate on a political level.

Attlee's Cabinet committee, on the other hand, will be fully authorized to reach final conclusions whether Britain will go along with the United States to implement the recommendations on Jewish immigration, authoritative informants said. The Cabinet committee may include Bevin and George Hall, Colonial Secretary.

The Foreign Office read an official text of Bevin's speech, but the spokesman acknowledged that there was no essential difference between it and published reports of the address.

Bevin had said "if we put 100,000 Jews in Palestine tomorrow I would have to put another division of British troops there. I am not prepared to do it."

Bevin also had said "regarding the agitation in the United States and particularly New York for 100,000 Jews to be put into Palestine, I hope it will not be misunderstood in Ameria if I say, with purest of motives, that was because they did not want too many of them in New York."

The spokesman said there appeared to be no justification for any charge of misrepresentation, but suggested that the matter had been magnified beyond its intent.

Bevin's statement that he thought American pressure for immediate admission of 100,000 Jews to Palestine was partly caused by a desire to keep more Jews from coming to New York provoked considerable comment in the United States, including threats to try to defeat the pending United States loan to Britain.

Text of Communique.

The text of the communique follows:

"His Majesty's Government welcomes the decision of President Truman to form a cabinet committee of Palestine and related problems. They are glad to learn that a group of American officials, representing the President's committee, is about to arrive in London for discussions on the recommendations of the Anglo-American committee of inquiry, regarding the problems of European Jewry and Palestine.

"For the purpose of these conversations his Majesty's Government have nominated a delegation of British officials drawn from the departments concerned, under the chairmanship of Sir Norman Brook.

"The conversations will cover matters arising on each of the ten recommendations in the committee of inquiry's report. The two groups of officials will have before them, in the course of their discussions, the statements which have been invited from the Arab governments, the Jewish Agency and Palestine and other Jewish and Arab organizations.

"His Majesty's Government will await the result of the conversations between British and American officials before determining their policy in relation to the recommendations of the Anglo-American committee. But they are most anxious that no time should be lost in pressing on with a constructive solution of this most difficult problem."

Britain to Await Decision By New Palestine Committees

Foreign Office Explains Bevin's Remarks Were Offered as a Possible Solution of Jewish Problem.

London, June 14 (A. P.).—A Foreign Office spokesman said today that Foreign Secretary Bevin in his speech on Palestine Wednesday at Bournemouth merely sought to outline a constructive solution to the Jewish problem and had no idea of suggesting that Britain would refuse to carry out recommendations of the Anglo-American Palestine Commission.

The Foreign Office also issued a communique saying that Britain would await the outcome of a conference between British officials and President Truman's special advisory committee before deciding whether to accept or reject the Commission's recommendations.

[President Truman said at his press conference in Washington today that the United States was still urging the admission of 100,000 refugee Jews to Palestine and was sending a delegation to try to work out the problem. The President would not discuss British Foreign Bevin's statement about Palestine.]

The spokesman, commenting on American reaction to Bevin's speech before a Labor party conference, said that certain misunderstandings had arisen, possibly due to over-condensation of reports, and expressed regret that great emphasis had been put on certain portions of an eighty minute speech.

U. S. Urges Jewish Entry.

Washington, June 14 (A. P.).—The United States still is urging admission of 100,000 refugee Jews to Palestine, President Truman said today, and is trying to work out the problem with Britain.

He told the news conference that his special Cabinet committee of Secretaries Byrnes, Patterson and Snyder was sending a delegation to England to tackle the issues raised by the proposed immigration.

In London, the British Foreign Office announced today that Britain would await the outcome of these negotiations before deciding to accept or reject an Anglo-American commission's recommendation for admission of the 100,000 Jews to the Holy Land. British Foreign Secretary Bevin previously had indicated that the proposal would be turned down.

Asked for comment on Bevin's statement, Mr. Truman said he had not had any official word from England and could not discuss it.

A reporter suggested that perhaps more refugee Jews should be admitted to the United States. Mr. Truman replied by saying that the reporter presumably knew what the immigration laws were. There is no plan, he said, for seeking any change in those laws.

Army Officers in Group.

Later, the State Department disclosed that two of its officials and two Army officers left yesterday for London to serve as a group of experts to Ambassador W. Averell Harriman in his consultations with the British Government on the Palestine situation.

The State Department officials are Evan M. Wilson, Palestine expert in the Near Eastern division, and Lawrence W. Carmer, assistant director of the State-War-Navy Co-ordinating Committee's directorate.

The press officer said he did not know whether the deputies of the Cabinet Committee on Palestine, appointed Tuesday by President Truman, would go to London for consultations with British officials.

The Cabinet Committee is composed of Secretaries Byrnes, Patterson and Snyder. Byrnes appointed Dr. Henry F. Grady, former assistant Secretary of State, as his alternate, and Patterson has named Goldthwaite H. Orr, N. Y., attorney, as the War Department deputy.

The four men who will advise Harriman probably will make no decisions on Palestine matters until the committee of deputies begins to function.

CATHOLIC UPSWING IN EUROPE NOTED

London, June 14 (A. P.).—The influence of the Catholic Church is countering Western Europe's post-war trend to the Left, and four successive elections — in Belgium, Holland, France and Italy—have demonstrated, in rapid succession, the strength of Catholic leadership. In each election a Catholic party emerged as the strongest political unit. Catholic-sponsored parties also led in recent elections in Austria, South Germany and Luxembourg.

It is no secret campaign. On the eve of the recent French and Italian elections, Pope Pius XII appealed to the electors to vote "in the Christian way." When Catholic candidates led the tickets, the Vatican newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano, expressed hope that the results would prove "an efficacious counsel to other countries." In Holland, previously, the Catholic party leaders had declared: "For us, the Bishops' wishes are enough."

The upswing of Catholic parties in each country, welding divergent viewpoints into religious unity, is regarded as significant by continental leaders who express apprehension of Communism.

In Belgium the Christian Socialist (Catholic) party captured 344 out of 696 Provincial Council seats and a plurality in the Senate. Earlier, the Catholics had won ninety-two seats in the Chamber of Deputies, compared to seventy won by Premier Van Acker's Socialists.

In Holland the Catholic People's party won thirty-two seats in the House of Representatives, while the socialists won twenty-nine and the Communists ten. Next the Catholics won seventeen Senate seats, while the Socialists took ten and the Communists four.

In France the M. R. P. (Catholic) party won 160 seats in the Assembly, while the Communists took 145 and the Socialists 115.

In Italy the Christian Democratic (Catholic) party polled 7,876,874 votes for an easy plurality in the Assembly. The Socialists were a poor second with 4,606,509, and the Communists third with 4,204,741 votes. Apportionment of the Assembly seats will be announced later.

Soviet Historian Says U.S. Seeks Arms Control

London, June 14 (AP)—Dr. Benjamin Lan, Soviet historian, asserted in a broadcast control from Moscow today that the United States "is trying to establish control over the armaments of the Latin American countries under the guise of Inter-American military collaboration."

The broadcast, recorded by the Soviet monitor, said also that "Washington is not only trying to restore the old (pre-Roosevelt) order in Latin America but is also endeavoring to establish a similar order in the countries situated along the Western Pacific."

"While the United States is for one-sided action in Latin America," Lan continued, "she is for many-sided action in countries lying along the Western frontiers of the U.S.S.R. United States representatives insist that in Far Eastern questions their point of view must command unconditional preference as in Latin America."

SEES INFLATION OVER IN BRITAIN

Dalton Says Danger Passed Under Production Impact.

Bournemouth, England, June 14 (A. P.).—The danger of inflation in Britain "has largely passed away" under the impact of increased production of goods for home consumption, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Hugh Dalton, declared before the annual conference of the Labor party today. "We have reached a point where the production of goods for the home market is rapidly increasing and the fear of inflation is diminishing," he asserted.

Dalton observed, however, that "deflation may later on be a much greater risk than inflation." If a deflationary trend set in, he continued, the Exchequer will meet it by releasing increased quantities of purchasing power which it controls, "largely through tax rates and its power to release post-war credits of wartime savings."

Answering rank-and-file party criticisms that he had paid too much for the Bank of England—the first institution taken under public ownership—Dalton said that the bank "is worth a great deal more than the price which has been paid." The position of Bank of England stocks as "gilt-edged securities" made the bank a "very special case," he declared, adding that payment for other nationalized industries "will be different."

Dalton announced that the Government will not accept a House of Lords amendment limiting to five years its power to control the investment of borrowed money. The bill has been passed by both houses and now is back in the House of Commons for consideration of the Lords' amendment. The bill, Dalton added crytically, "is a useful little measure which will fit into its place in the scheme of things."

Dalton announced that he was increasing the flat exemption from death duties (inheritance taxes) from £100 to £2,000 ($8,000), which he said would free about 150,000 of each year's 200,000 taxable estates from taxes. "In spite of this, death duties are going to bring in £22,000,000 ($88,000,000) by grading up the larger estates to a maximum of 75 per cent on any one who may die worth £2,000,000," he said.

DROP RESOLUTION TO SHARE ATOM

Bournemouth, England, June 14 (A. P.).—A resolution calling upon the Government to bring about international sharing of all atomic knowledge was withdrawn today in the Labor Party conference after A. R. Blackburn, a member of Parliament, declared:

"At this particular moment I do not think we should share the secrets of atomic energy with anybody."

Blackburn said an atomic war is inevitable within ten years unless the United Nations control all uranium and thorium deposits.

LASKI THANKS PRESS FOR ITS ATTENTION

Bournemouth, England, June 14 (A. P.).—Prof. Harold Laski, retiring chairman of the Labor party, gaveled a party conference to a close today and joked about his frenuent appearances on front pages:

"I thank the journalists for the devoted attention they have given to my activities. Never in the history of mankind have so many followed just one. The skeleton now goes back to the cupboard."

DEADLOCK HOLDS ON PEACE TREATIES

U.S., Russia Reported Standing Firm as Paris Conference Reconvenes.

PARIS, June 14—(AP)—Principals in the foreign ministers conference arrived today amid reports in American circles that the United States and Russia were just as deadlocked on the peace treaties as when the ministers left here a month ago.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov arrived by planes to join French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault at the council table tomorrow at 4 p. m. (A.M.E.S.T.)

No Diplomatic Exchanges

Sources close to Byrnes said there had been no diplomatic exchanges between Washington and Moscow in connection with the peace treaties since the ministers recessed last month, and that if the Russians had relented in their stand it could be learned only after the conference reconvenes.

Since the recess late in May, the United States sent a draft of a proposed treaty with Austria to the other governments, but has received no answer from Moscow, American sources added.

Byrnes was represented as hopeful that an agreement could be reached here, but as prepared to carry his case to the United Nations Assembly in September if the Russians remained adamant.

Byrnes, accompanied by Senators Connally (D-Tex) and Vandenberg (R-Mich), Mrs. Byrnes and the senators' wives, arrived in the Presidential plane "The Sacred Cow" at 12:25 a.m. (6:25 a.m. E.S.T.)

U. S. Policy Stands

Sources close to Byrnes said there has been no announced change in American policy on the essentials of the European settlements. Washington still insists, they said, that Trieste should go to Italy, that the Balkans should be opened to Western trade and that Italy's war reparations should be scaled in accordance with her ability to pay.

The United States still wants to sign a 25-year pact with Russia, Britain and France to insure against German rearmament, and to provide for evacuation of foreign troops from Austria.

In talking with Byrnes at a social reception today newsmen received the impression he wants the American system of federalization in Germany extended to all zones, and progress made on an eventual settlement with the Reich.

Byrnes First Of 4 To Reach Paris

Paris, June 14 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes was the first of the foreign ministers to arrive today for the fateful four-power conference which is expected to decide whether Europe will be united or divided into eastern and western spheres.

V. M. Molotov was expected momentarily from Moscow and Ernest Bevin was to arrive during the afternoon.

Both Byrnes and Bevin have indicated the meeting starting tomorrow night might be the last attempt of the foreign ministers to resolve differences, and that the United States and Great Britain might execute separate peace treaties with defeated nations if they are unable to agree with Russia.

Quick Accord Or None Seen

Byrnes and his confreres, Senator Connally (D., Texas) and Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) all declined comment. All seemed in good spirits as they alighted from their plane at 12.25 P.M. (6.25 A.M., E.S.T.).

A member of the American delegation who reached Paris earlier said Byrnes would stand firm on American policy on disputed points in peace treaties and would maintain his position in the face of Russian opposition. The informant predicted a short and fruitless session unless Russia yielded.

Peace treaties must be drafted for Italy, Romania, Hungary, Austria, Bulgaria, Finland and Germany. One of the chief points at variance is the French insistence that the great industrial Ruhr Valley be internationalized.

The future of the Adriatic port of Trieste, claimed by Yugoslavia with Russian support, is one of the main stumbling blocks to a treaty with that new republic. Another problem is the continuance of large armies of occupation. (AP)

Most of the opening session will be devoted to preparing the agenda.

AURIOL TO HEAD FRENCH ASSEMBLY

PARIS, June 14—(AP) Socialist Vincent Auriol was elected president of the new French constituent assembly today by a vote of 466 to 28, and the assembly fixed next Wednesday for the election of a new president of the government.

Auriol, president of the old legislature, was the only candidate, but delegates cast votes for Francisque Gay of the MRP (Popular Republican Movement), and 13 for other deputies. Forty-two ballots were void.

Chance For Presidency

Some observers expressed belief Auriol had a good chance of being elevated to president of the provisional government if French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, MRP leader, should fail in his efforts to form a cabinet. The MRP polled the most votes in the last election.

Whether the Wednesday election takes place depends upon the Communist party, which has not yet taken a position on the future government. If the Communists refuse to enter an MRP-led government, the Socialists may reverse their decision against taking the power and put forward a compromise candidate like Auriol or Felix Gouin. Gouin was elected president of the resigned government under such circumstances.

Forty-Ton Arms Hoard Uncovered Near Bordeaux

Bordeaux, France, June 14 (AP)—A hoard of 40 tons of guns, grenades and cartridges has been uncovered by Bordeaux police in near-by Bujole and British police arriv[illegible] in an investigation.

Police were silent about the discovery, but it was learned the weapons bore British markings and had been deposited at Chateau Cambe June 2 in the guise of surgical medical supplies for the Red Cross.

In the absence of an official statement, various stories circulated about the countryside. The French press agency said eight trucks discharged cargoes on June 2 at Chateau Cambe, in Bujole—which it said was occupied by the Ort, a group sheltering Jews attempting to get to Palestine.

The agency said authorities, who investigated later, described the cargoes as 600 cases of arms and ammunition. The only keeper found at the chateau was detained.

French Pick Auriol

Paris, June 14 (AP)—French party leaders agreed early today on Socialist Vincent Auriol as president of the new Constituent Assembly.

Auriol, who was president—or speaker—of the old legislature, was to be formally elected later in the day.

The slate of Assembly officers included six vice presidents: Henri Teitgen and Fernand Bouxon, of the Popular Republican Movement; Jacques Duclos and Madeleine Braun, Communists; Joseph Laniel, Republican Party of Liberty, and Yvon Delbos, Radical-Socialist.

VON PAPEN OPENS BATTLE FOR LIFE

NUERNBERG, Germany, June 14.—(AP) Gray old Franz von Papen, German international politician from the days of the Black Tom explosion through the Hitlerian era, started his fight for life today and promptly was chastized by the war crimes court for verbosity.

Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence of the international military tribunal trying 22 Germans as war criminals listened for an hour while von Papen described how he gave up the German chancellorship to Hitler and joined the Nazi camp, before he announced impatiently:

"We have heard all this before, all afternoon, and many times before."

Son Joins Defense

Von Papen's son, Fran, Jr., 35, joined efforts of the defense counsel to show that his father was, as he claimed, an oldtime Prussian officer and son of an industrialist who represented "the old Germany" and not the Nazis.

The elder von Papen spoke bitterly of the Black Tom munitions explosion in New Jersey during the First World War, saying he was blamed for conspiracy in that matter "two years after I left the country." The plant blew up in 1916 and Von Papen and Karl Boy-Ed, German attache, were linked in reports that they had engineered the vast sabotage.

Counsel for Von Papen indicated only a fraction of his story had been told and promised "revelations" when the defense resumes Monday. The court will recess tomorrow.

Litchfield Officer Objects To Jurisdiction of Court

Cubage Says Impartial Review of Case Is Precluded

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany, June 14 (AP). — Lieutenant Granville Cubage today challenged the jurisdiction of the American military court trying him for alleged cruelty, and asserted that the present circumstances "preclude an impartial [illegible]."

The challenge came from his defense attorneys after testimony had been completed against the Oklahoma City officer, accused of practicing and authorizing cruelty to American soldier prisoners at the Lichfield detention camp in England. Lieutenant Colonel William E. Parker, of East Hampton, Mass., attorney for Cubage, did not explain his point. The court deferred action until tomorrow.

Parker said he would call a witness tomorrow in support of his charge, WAC Captain Mary Savage, who he said was sent here from Washington to help expedite the Lichfield trials, which the Army had previously complained were creating "bad publicity." Six officers and eight enlisted men are involved in the trials, now in their second half year. Three enlisted men have been convicted.

Corporal Ellis D. Adcock, of Hot Springs, Ark., another of the Lichfield defendants, went on trial simultaneously today and the prosecution completed its case against him in a single day. Nine witnesses testified they had seen Adcock "beat up" prisoners.

Cubage Blames His Superiors

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 14 (AP)—Lieut. Granville Cubage wound up his defense against brutality charges in the Lichfield trials today by informing a military court that "more and more I realize the responsibility of other people who gave me orders."

The defense rested its case at noon and [illegible] eight officers was expected to begin its deliberations before nightfall in the case of the 27-year-old Oklahoma officer who is accused of maltreating United States soldier prisoners in the wartime stockade at Lichfield, England.

The court's verdict will be the first in the trial of an officer. Three enlisted men have been convicted, another officer is on trial, and four other officers and seven enlisted men are awaiting trial.

Discipline Was "Severe"

Testifying all day yesterday and for an hour and one half this morning in his own defense, Cubage denied personal responsibility for what his attorneys conceded was "severe" discipline of Lichfield prisoners.

Cubage said his superior officers dictated guardhouse disciplinary policies, under which several witnesses testified prisoners were often kicked and beaten. No witness accused Cubage personally of striking any prisoner, but several former guards said he told them they could "beat men to the floor" with clubs.

Cubage denied using that phrase and categorically denied ordering any cruelties, but he said he had authorized the use of clubs to quell disorders and also agreed that he had permitted such punishments as forcing men to stand with nose and toes pressed against a wall, and making them double-time to and from work and meals.

The Defendant's Character

Character witnesses described Cubage as an excellent officer and "a born gentleman" whose "civil life was exemplary."

"Cruelty is foreign to his nature," said one testimonial read to the court. (AP)

G. I. in Reich Guilty Of Manslaughter

Frankfurt, June 14 (A. P.).—Pvt. Edison M. Understanding Crow, 25 years old, an Indian, of Ravinia, S. D., has been convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to three years' imprisonment in the death of two German children in an automobile crash, the United States Third Army said today.

Officers said testimony showed that the soldier had gone away without leave from a Military Government detachment, taken an Army vehicle without permission and crashed into a sidewalk bunker. Understanding Crow is a veteran of the Eighty-second Airborne Division and holder of the Purple Heart.

G. I. Broadcaster Shot in Germany

Frankfurt, June 14 (A. P.).—A soldier broadcaster of the Army's American Forces Network was wounded mysteriously on a lonely road outside Frankfurt last night by a pistol shot fired out of the dusk, the radio system announced tonight.

The soldier was identified as Pfc. Milton Schaefer, 19 years old, of Buffalo. Schaeffer was struck in the back by a bullet that went through his body and fractured the pelvic bone. Doctors were quoted as saying he would live.

BRITISH ZONE CURBS SOVIET REPORTERS

Berlin, June 14 (A. P.).—Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, Deputy Governor of the British Zone of Germany, announced today that correspondents of every country except Russia may inspect Britain's progress in denazifying its zone.

He told a press conference that the disarmament of German forces in the British Zone is complete, and that the elimination of German war potential is progressing on schedule. He challenged other occupying authorities to prove they have matched Britain's record, and likewise challenged them to allow free inspection of each zone by correspondents.

Specifically eliminating Soviet correspondents from looking over the British area, Robertson said: "The Russians will get the same facilities for the inspection of our zone as they give us. We don't consider that the facilities the Russians now extend in their occasional strictly conducted tours allow freedom of movement or observation."

DE GASPERI URGES UNITY

JUN 15 1946

Italian Premier Asks People To Forget Controversy

F. Brotto

Rome, June 14 (AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi, provisional head of state, called upon the Italian people [illegible] NIGHT conciliatory speech [illegible] rancors of the Monarchist-Republican controversy and unite behind the republic.

The words of the Christian Democratic leader were deliberately calm and soothing. They were even forbearing toward the exiled Umberto II, whom de Gasperi described as "the heir of downfall." They contrasted with the Cabinet's earlier sharp retort to Umberto's charges that appointment of de Gasperi constituted a "revolutionary action."

The speech, broadcast by radio, was intended evidently to placate rising Italian passions in a situation in which responsible persons had referred darkly to "revolution" and "civil war."

Sees Hard Task Ahead

De Gasperi told his countrymen: "We have an immense work of reconstruction before us. The climb is hard. Men of good will, give us your hand—whatever your vote has been—because otherwise without this common effort we will not succeed."

Partisans of the republic and the monarchy, grown tense under charges and countercharges provoked by Umberto's precipitate flight yesterday to Lisbon, seemed calm today. Few signs of trouble were reported anywhere.

Of Umberto the temporary head of the Italian state said:

"We can humanely consider the tragedy of this man. He was the heir of downfall and of terrible and fatal compromise with dictatorship."

Another Author Suggested

Previously the Government in a communiqué had referred to Umberto's proclamation to the Italians, made public five hours after he left, as "factious and mendacious."

De Gasperi, in his broadcast, suggested that its author might have been someone other than the King and said "it is distasteful for me to resume the argument."

He said that in his last encounter with the King yesterday Umberto's words of "discipline and accord" contrasted with the controversial and bitter tone of the proclamation.

He said that in the plebiscite, which eleven days ago gave the republic a majority of nearly 2,000,000 votes, all precautions had been taken to insure a free election. "And so it was," he added.

With the Supreme Court's announcement the interim regime could have been instituted immediately, de Gasperi said, "but we sought to avoid a clamorous break."

Sought to Keep Power

Umberto had sought to retain power until the court had completed an investigation of charges of fraud in the plebiscite.

"It is necessary to maintain order, it is necessary to work and produce," de Gasperi told the nation.

He concluded with an appeal to the Italians to demonstrate their unity "before those who have designs upon our dearest frontiers and who speculate upon our internal disagreements, and to confirm—in the view of the peace treaty—that the Italian people is resolved to defend its sacred rights and future."

A less conciliatory attitude was taken by Randolfo Pacciardi's Republican party, which attacked Umberto's proclamation as a document of "bad faith" which "incited to civil war."

Umberto In Lisbon

The Monarchist Italia Nuova devoted almost its entire front page to the King's proclamation and professed to see in his departure "a service to the fatherland."

Umberto, arriving in Lisbon after spending his first night of exile in Barcelona, declined to make any statement on the political situation.

"I am most anxious to join my family," he said. Queen Marie Jose and the four royal children had preceded him into exile last week, and Umberto gave thanks to the Portuguese authorities for the welcome extended to him and his family. They will stay at Quinta Dabela Vista—the mansion of the Nice View-in-Sintra, a suburb of Lisbon.

Republic Appeals For Italy Unity

JUN 15 1946

J. McBride

Rome, June 14 (AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi appealed to Italians today to support the new republic, regardless of how they voted in last week's plebiscite.

The P[illegible] addressed the nation by radio in an atmosphere of tension created by an acrimonious exchange between his Government and King Umberto II, who reached Lisbon today for his exile.

A manifesto issued last night in Umberto's name charged that the Cabinet had usurped the King's powers in a "revolutionary gesture" and added that he had left Italian soil only to avoid civil war. A royal aide said Umberto would consider himself king pending a formal court ruling on the plebiscite.

Links King To Dictatorship

De Gasperi, in a ten-minute broadcast, deplored "the tragedy of that man"—Umberto. De Gasperi said Umberto, "compromised with the dictatorship" and had attempted in the last few months to regain his power.

"He is part of the national catastrophe," de Gasperi said, asserting an expiation was due from Umberto, even as "we all must expiate."

The Premier urged Italians "to show the strength of unity" at a time when peace treaty negotiations are about to begin. "Let us show that the Italian people is resolved to defend its right to the future and its frontiers," he said.

Appeals To Opposition

"I wish to speak to you as man to man," he said. "I especially wish to speak to those of the opposition who are in good faith."

He said the procedure for the election which the republic won had been regulated by a law which King Umberto himself promulgated. A provisional government could have been established upon announcement of the result by the Supreme Court. But, said de Gasperi, he sought a final accord "to avoid a clamorous break."

Umberto Arrives At Lisbon

LISBON, June 14—(AP)—Exile King Umberto II of Italy arrived here by plane today from Barcelona, Spain, commenting only that "I am most anxious to join my family."

After being greeted by Portuguese officials at the airport, Umberto went immediately to Sintra, a resort near Lisbon, where the royal family is staying. The Queen and their children arrived several days ago aboard an Italian war vessel.

Acceptance Not Final

A traveling companion who arrived with Umberto said that "this flight does not mean the king accepts as final the voters' verdict" for the abolition of the Italian monarchy.

"By saving his life," the intimate of Umberto said, "we saved the monarchist cause."

Arriving with Umberto in Lisbon were his two aides de camp, Generals Graziani and Cassiani; the Duchess of Sorrentino; his secretaries, the Dukes of Duametti and Turconi; and some policemen.

An indication that the party cannot spend much money was furnished in a report that two other members of Umberto's retinue, the Dukes of Ancona and Genoa, tried to get rooms in Lisbon's least expensive hotel.

Arrives in Reich To Head AMG Jails

JUN 15 1946

Berlin, June 14 (A. P.)—Sydney Souter, former superintendent of the New Jersey Reformatory at Annandale, N. J., arrived here today to take up his duties as chief of the prisons branch of the Office of Military Government.

Pope Pius Envisions High Destiny For U.S.

Vatican City, June 14 (AP)—Pope Pius, receiving a group of American officers attached to Allied Commission headquarters here today, told them that "wealth and power and virtue inevitably impose the heavy duty of leadership" upon the United States.

In the group headed by Lieut. Robert Ro[illegible]mon, Ill., commanding officer of the 2675th Regiment to which American Commission personnel is assigned, were several officers about to return to the United States.

"You are going back to a great country," the Pope said in English. "We cannot forget our visit of ten years ago." (when he was Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state.)

"It is great in its incomparable industrial power, greater still in the whole-souled, unselfish generosity of its people, and great, too, one cannot but feel, in the high destiny God has assigned to it."

Collaboration with Enemy Is Admitted by Mihailovic

JUN 15 1946

W. King

BELGRADE, June 14—(AP) Gen. Draja Mihailovic admitted wearily today under questioning by the prosecution that he had collaborated personally with the enemy while commanding his Chetnik troops in Yugoslavia.

Earlier he testified that he had been promised United States support exclusively for his movement by the head of the American mission to his Chetnik headquarters.

Admits Letter Genuine

The bearded Chetnik leader, on trial before a Yugoslav military court on charges of both collaboration and treason, was confronted with a handwritten letter in which he had said "the Italians helped us well." He admitted the letter was genuine. It instructed Chetnik units to receive arms from the Italians.

"What do you call this?" demanded the prosecutor after reading the letter.

"Intrigue," replied Mihailovic.

"Is that collaboration?" the prosecutor asked.

"Yes," was the reply.

"Is that your collaboration?" the prosecutor pressed further.

"Yes," Mihailovic answered.

Obviously tired from his continual appearance on the stand since Tuesday, Mihailovic had testified also that he had told the British that he had enough of being a "fill-gap man in Europe," and that it was "up to us to tend towards the Soviet Union."

He said the Yugoslav government in London had intervened with the admonition "look westward" and he had accepted it.

Clad in U. S. Army pants and shoes and a nondescript coat, he said he had been given a promise of exclusive United States support by Col. Robert H. McDowell, head of the American mission to Chetnik headquarters in 1944.

He said McDowell had assured him "when the Russians reach the frontier the Red army will not enter Yugoslavia." Asked whether McDowell had told him "the Russians are practical politicians and would see the situation on the terrain," Mihailovic replied "yes, he did."

"Col. McDowell told me America would support me and my movement exclusively," Mihailovic asserted.

U. S. Against Communism

He said that McDowell also told him that "American youth is not fighting for Communism and does not want Communism in Yugoslavia," and that "your struggle against the Germans does not interest us. Your duty is to hold your people."

Mihailovic estimated that his forces rescued between 300 and 400 American fliers in 1944 "during the time they were flying over Yugoslavia to Hungary and Romania."

He said that in 1944 "we got in contact with the air corps in Italy through my stations. We had direct contact. Once 14 planes came in one day and took away fliers."

The Soviet-style legal system now used in Yugoslavia provides for preliminary cross-examination of the defendant on details of the indictment against him. The preliminary questioning of Mihailovic which started Tuesday is expected to continue until the week's end.

This will be followed by presentation of documentary evidence and witnesses by the prosecution. The defense then gets its opportunity to present statements in its behalf and possibly present witnesses.

Efforts to paint the British and Americans as enemies of the Tito regime, which is in line with much recent Yugoslav propaganda, have been clearly indicated thus far in the trial.

Believes Confidence Lacking

Today, telling of the departure of the British liaison mission headed by Brigadier Armstrong, Mihailovic said, "I think they did not have enough confidence in me."

He said the same plane which took the British mission away brought in two Yugoslav officers, Major Lukacevic and Bacevic, with a message from a British general named Masterson asking annihilation of the Communists.

"Lukacevic went to London," Mihailovic testified. "Bacevic went only to Cairo. They spoke to all important personalities. Bacevic spoke with Gen. Masterson and Gen. Masterson told him the Communists had to be annihilated and the situation in Yugoslavia would change in our favor."

(A statement issued in London yesterday said Masterson was a colonel, not a general).

Charges Absurd, Says M'Dowell

WASHINGTON, June 14—(AP) Col. Robert McDowell, wartime head of the U. S. military mission to Gen. Draja Mihailovic, said today testimony given by the Yugoslav Chetnik chieftain at his Belgrade trial "doesn't sound like Mihailovic."

He termed "absurd" a statement attributed to him by the general that the United States would support Mihailovic, his government and movement exclusively.

"That would be as absurd as another statement attributed to me that this country was not interested in the Yugoslav struggle against Germany," McDowell told a reporter.

"What I said was the United States was not concerned in the internal strife of Yugoslavia but with winning the war with Germany.

"I told him further that the Russians were not going to occupy Yugoslavia, but did not go so far as to say that the Red army would not cross the frontier in pursuit of the Nazi forces.

"I think there has been distortion of Gen Mihailovic's views in some way."

McDowell is on duty at the War department.

Chetnik Admits Collaboration

JUN 15 1946

Belgrade, June 14 (AP)—Gen. Draja Mihailovic wearily agreed with his prosecutors today that a letter produced in his treason trial amounted to his personal collaboration with the enemy.

The prosecutor produced a handwritten letter which Mihailovic admitted was genuine. It said, "Yesterday 22 (a code name for Italians) helped us well."

After reading it the prosecutor asked, "What do you call this?"

"Intrigue," Mihailovic answered.

Another letter, which instructed his Chetnik units to receive arms from the Italian occupation forces comprised his personal collaboration, Mihailovic agreed.

"Is that your collaboration?" the prosecutor asked.

"Yes," the general said.

Says [illegible] Begged Aid

Previously, the Chetnik chief told the Yugoslav military court that an American liaison officer had informed him in 1944:

"American youth is not fighting for communism and does not want communism in Yugoslavia."

The American officer, Col. Robert McDowell, also told him, Mihailovic said, that "America would support me and my government and movement exclusively."

He added that McDowell declared, "When the Russians reach the frontier, the Red Army will not enter Yugoslavia."

"Did he say whom he would help?"

"Me."

"I Want To Help You"

"Did he know that the (Tito) partisans carried out the fight against the Germans?"

30.24-3329

"He said to me: 'I want to help you.'"

"Did he tell you that the Russians are practical politicians and they would see the situation?"

"Yes, he did."

Mihailovic said he took McDowell seriously "because he was authorized and he would negotiate with the Germans."

Mihailovic said Lieut. George Musulin, of Pittsburgh, interpreter and liaison officer, arrived in Yugoslavia and was followed by McDowell about the end of July, 1944, after the departure that spring of a British liaison mission headed by Brigadier Armstrong.

He said the Armstrong mission left because "I think they did not have enough confidence in me."

Briton's Anti-Red Advice

He said the same plane that took Armstrong away brought in two Yugoslav officers, Majors Lukacevic and Bacevic, with a message from British Colonel Masterson at Cairo asking annihilation of the Communists.

"Bacevic spoke with Masterson and Masterson told him the Communists had to be annihilated and the situation would change in our favor," Mihailovic testified.

"I felt I had accepted the decision of my Government to lean on the Western democracies," the general continued.

Asked about contact with London after withdrawal of the British mission, Mihailovic said: "They gave nothing to us. They were accepting all the help we gave but sent us nothing."

Appearing in court in GI pants and shoes and a nondescript coat, Mihailovic declared he had saved from 300 to 400 American aviators in 1944. The resuces were made by his Chetniks, who took care of the crashed flyers until they could be flown back to their bases in Italy.

"In 1944 we got in contact with the air corps in Italy through my stations," he said. "We had direct contact. Once fourteen planes came in one day and took away flyers."

Signature "Falsified"

In another phase of his testimony, he rejected as "falsified" his purported signature on a letter addressed to the Italian occupation commander and couched in the friendliest terms. It said, "With the help of Italian arms we will clear the Communists from Montenegro."

"It is a falsified signature because my commanders falsified as well," Mihailovic declared.

"If it is falsified, the man who did it is very clear. Who falsified it?" the prosecutor asked.

"The one who needed it," Mihailovic answered.

"You say I did it then?"

"I am sure it was falsified."

Two Letters Produced

The prosecution attempted further to spread the net of accusation against Mihailovic by producing in the closing minutes yesterday two letters addressed to Ante Pavelic, the quisling chief of Croatia who is wanted as a war criminal, and Archbishop Stepinac, head of the Roman Catholic Church in Croatia. Stepinac in recent months has been subjected to a press campaign accusing him of collaboration with the Axis.

Mihailovic admitted that the signatures to the letters were his, but denied he had written the contents.

So far the prosecution has indicated a clear effort to discredit British and American motives in the partisan war, endeavoring to paint both countries as enemies of the Tito regime. This is in line with much of the past press propaganda in Yugoslavia.

Russians, Afghans Sign New Treaty

Moscow, June 14 (AP)—A new Russian-Afghanistan treaty announced today allots to Russia the Kushkan area in the northwestern border of Afghanistan bordering Iran.

Izvestia said the 1921 treaty on incorporation of the area into Afghanistan "lost power." The treaty was signed by Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Sultan Ahmed Khan, Afghan Ambassador, to revise the frontier in the wild region along the Amu Darya and Pyandzh rivers.

"This agreement once more shows the attentive respect which the Soviet Government pays to the rights and needs of small nations," Izvestia said.

Under terms of the new pact, the frontier will be midstream in the rivers, instead of on the Afghan river bank as before, Izvestia said. This will mean that numerous river islands which previously were Russian will become Afghan, the newspaper said.

Other points in the agreement, which was concluded yesterday, provide for Afghan use of water from the Kushka River and the building of a Soviet dam on the Murghab River.

BISHOPS ASK END OF POLISH STRIFE

Catholic Prelates Hold Nation Harmed by Wave of Unrest, Charge Curb on Liberty

By L. Allen

CZESTOCHOWA, Poland, June 12 (AP) (Delayed)—Poland's Catholic bishops formally deplored today a wave of unrest that they said was sweeping the nation and called for an end of violence, infringements on personal freedom and "murders without evidence of guilt in court."

Unless conditions are remedied, the situation "must unfavorably affect the fate of the entire nation," the bishops declared in their most outspoken statement since Poland severed last September the concordat with the Vatican.

The statement, issued at a meeting of the bishops here, was generally regarded as an indictment not only of terroristic, lawless bands but also of government agencies such as the Ministry of Public Security, which members of Vice Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk's Peasant party have accused of unwarranted shootings and imprisonments.

Some of M. Mikolajczyk's followers have warned that the nation is heading toward civil war.

The bishops' communiqué said in part:

"One of the matters requiring special attention is that of unrest in the country and the personal security of its citizens. Despite the termination of war activities, which in their nature caused death and maiming, today the lives of individuals and sometimes entire families are seriously threatened.

Children Called Victims

"Complaints are loud and universal about armed attacks, infringement of personal freedom and murders without evidence of guilt in court. Many persons, not excluding women and children, in entire villages are the subjects of these immoral illegalities condemned by God.

"This spreading of unrest is an infringement on man's dignity, of man's natural rights, and a degradation of human dignity that must unfavorably affect the fate of the entire nation.

"The clergy, together with the entire people, deeply regret these sad phenomena, and appeals to all responsible for these conditions, regardless of the motives which direct them, to remember God's words and discontinue these violences to avoid bringing further unhappiness upon the fatherland.

"The situation of imprisoned persons is very serious. They are often mistreated and are deprived of religious care, since chaplains are not permitted entry to those imprisoned. Many leave the world without sacraments. The bishops have decided to make every effort to bring religious help to these unhappy people."

The bishops lauded "the great and varied help" of the American clergy and members of Polish-American philanthropic organizations which made possible the amelioration of poverty and hunger among Poles. They declared that all Polish Catholics were deeply grateful for this benevolence.

The communiqué will be read by priests in the pulpits of all Catholic churches in Poland.

Stettin Pogrom Reported

JERUSALEM, June 14 (AP)—A Jewish Agency source said today that Jewish migrants from Europe had reported a three-day pogrom in Polish-held Stettin and that a new wave of anti-Semitism had swept over Poland.

The informant said the pogrom was caused in part by the repatriation of more than 100,000 Jews from Russia, 20,000 of whom were sent into Stettin without food or work. The source said many Jews were injured in Stettin and that thousands were hiding in cellars and stables in fear of new outbreaks. Many Jews were said to have been killed and wounded in other Polish towns and villages.

Stettin, a pre-war North German port, lies within the revised borders of Poland.

Lower Silesia Asks UNRRA Help

Wroclaw (Breslau), Poland (A. P.).—Newspapers say help of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration is urgently needed in Lower Silesia, reporting that there is only one cow to each 600 acres, and there is an acute shortage of horses and tractors.

Kirsten Flagstad's Husband Is Ill

Oslo, June 14 (A. P.).—Henry Johansen, husband of singer Kirsten Flagstad and in custody on charges of economic collaboration with the Germans, was in a hospital here today described as "seriously ill." Johansen was in jail when he was felled by disease, the nature of which was not disclosed.

Chief of Criminal Police L'Abee Lund said charges against him included war profiteering. He was accused of having made $1,500,000 building German barracks during the occupation. Johansen pleaded not guilty to the charges at a hearing last June 27 but is still awaiting trial.

Russian Demand Rejected

STOCKHOLM, June 14 (AP).—Sweden rejected today a Russian demand for the extradition of five Russian sailors accused of murder. The Russians came to Sweden during the war on board a minesweeper after killing their officers at sea in the Baltic, the Moscow government charged.

Turkish Newspapers Granted New Rights

Ankara, Turkey, June 14 (AP)—The Turkish National Assembly abolished today the Government's right arbitrarily to suspend without giving its reason any newspaper it considered had acted contrary to national interests.

Newspapers now will have the right to defend themselves in court and may be suspended only if the court upholds the Government charges.

2 Jewish Extremists Sentenced to Death

Jerusalem, June 14 (A. P.).—Two alleged members of the illegal Jewish extremist organization, Irgun Zvai Leumi, have been sentenced to death by the Jerusalem military court on charges of discharging firearms at British troops and depositing bombs in a raid on the Sarafand camp March 6.

The condemned men, Yousef Simkhon, 19 years old, and Isha Michael, 24, were the first to receive death sentences under the new Palestine emergency defense regulations.

IRANIANS REVEAL TEN-POINT ACCORD

Azerbaijan Gives Up Autonomy and Becomes Province Again —Pishevari Offers to Quit

By T. Allen

TEHERAN, Iran, June 14 (AP)—An official ten-point agreement for reincorporating the self-proclaimed autonomous Province of Azerbaijan back into the Iranian Central Government was announced simultaneously today here and in Tabriz.

[A Reuter dispatch from Teheran Friday said Jafaar Pishevari, Azerbaijan, had offered to resign as the agreement was announced but had been requested to remain until after the elections for a provincial council. The Shah is expected to set the election date Sunday or Monday.]

The Teheran-Tabriz agreement covers the governmental set-up, taxation, troops and land reform in a final settlement of the differences between the northwestern province and Teheran.

Ten Points Announced

The ten points, as officially announced, are:

(1) The Azerbaijan "national parliament" will become a Provincial Council.

(2) The Provincial Council will make four nominations for Provincial Governor-General, and the Central Government's Minister of the Interior will appoint one of them.

(3) The Azerbaijan Army will be incorporated into the Iranian Army, with a commission arranging details.

(4) Azerbaijan's irregular soldiers will become part of the national gendarmerie.

(5) The Provincial Treasury will receive 75 per cent of Azerbaijan taxes, with Teheran receiving the rest.

(6) Using Azerbaijan labor, the Central Government will build railways between Mianeh and Tabriz.

(7) The Teheran Government will assist in establishing a proposed Azerbaijani university.

(8) Persian and Turkish both will be recognized as official languages, and primary school instruction will be given in each language.

(9) The Government will pay for private lands confiscated by the Azerbaijan regime for distribution to peasants and will approve the distribution of public lands.

(10) Election laws will be revised to establish parliamentary representation on a population basis.

The announcement said that the Tabriz Municipal Council would remain as established pending election of the fifteenth Majlis or parliament.

AZERBAIJAN PACT CLAUSES SET FORTH

Tehran, June 14 (A. P.).—Simultaneous announcements in Tehran and Tabriz today said that the agreement on reincorporating Azerbaijan back into national unity with the rest of Iran was signed on the basis of the following ten points of agreement:

(1) The Azerbaijan National Parliament to become a provincial council; (2) The Provincial Council is to name four nominees for Governor General of the province from among whom the Minister of the Interior of the Central Government will make an appointment; (3) The Azerbaijan Army will be incorporated into the Iranian Army, a commission being authorized to arrange details of the assimilation; (4) the provincial irregulars will become part of the National Gendarmerie; (5) 75 per cent of Azerbaijan taxes will go to the Provincial Treasury, the balance to the Tehran Government; (6) the Central Government agrees to build a railway between Mianeh, the present terminal of the line from Tehran, to Tabriz, the capital of Azerbaijan, using Azerbaijan labor; (7) The Central Government will pay for the private lands that were confiscated by the Azerbaijan Government for distribution to the peasants and approves the distribution of public lands to the peasants; (8) the election laws will be revised to establish parliamentary representation on a basis of population; (9) Persian and Turkish alike are to be the official languages, and there will be primary school instruction in both tongues; and

(10) the Central Government will aid in establishing a proposed Azerbaijan university.

Tsingtao Threat Is Lessened

Tsingtao, June 14 (AP)—The likelihood of a Communist attack on Tsingtao, where perhaps 10,000 United States Marines and naval personnel are based, appeared to be lessening today, although American forces were still on the alert.

Following orders from Communist headquarters to new 4th Army field commanders to abate the threat on the Communist-held Shantung peninsula seaport, the situation has quieted around the villages of Hsia-chuang and Liu-ting, 12 miles north, which control the port's water system.

JUN 15 1946

Cooke Back In Shanghai

Admiral Charles M. Cooke, Jr., commander of the United States 7th Fleet, who briefly visited Tsingtao after conferring with General Marshall at Nanking, returned to Shanghai last night.

Cooke's subordinates said he was not perturbed over the Tsingtao situation and no decision would be required on whether to reinforce the present garrison or withdraw it. The Admiral made no public comment.

Yesterday, while tension was still high, Marines had prepared outskirt defense positions around the airport and on ridges north of Tsingtao.

The Question Of Sovereignty

A Communist headquarters statement in Nanking accused the Nationalist Government of using the question of sovereignty in Manchuria as a pretext for civil war. It added:

"Only foreign troops in China and permission granted to foreign ships for the use of inland rivers could bring up the problem of sovereignty."

The statement referred to the presence of United States Army and Marine forces in China and to recent Government permission for foreign shipping to use some inland ports to relieve seaport congestion and speed the distribution of imports.

What To Do, If Attacked?

While the 4th Marine Regiment dug in here, its top commanders conferred on the actiion to be taken in the event of attack.

Maj. Gen. Keller E. Rockey, commander of all Marine forces in China, talked the situation over with Admiral Cooke and Maj. Gen. Louis E. Woods, commander of the 1st Marine Air Wing.

Twelve Corsair fighters roared in from Peiping with 250-pound bombs and rockets in their wing racks.

The heavy cruiser Los Angeles and five destroyers lay at anchor in Tsingtao's harbor. The rest of the United States 7th Fleet was reported only as "at sea." A British cruiser was due from Shanghai.

Believe Danger Past

Admiral Charles M. Cooke, Jr., commander of the U. S. Seventh fleet, returning from a brief visit to Tsingtao after his Nanking conference with General Marshall, refrained from public comment on the situation. Sources close to him, however, said he was not in the least perturbed and found no reason to consider withdrawing the Marine garrison or reinforcing it.

The relaxation of tension over Tsingtao followed a Communist announcement in Nanking Thursday that Red forces in Shantung province had been ordered to halt their attack on the government-held seaport.

Previously reports of new clashes between Nationalist and Communist troops near the city aroused fears that 9,000 United States Marines and Navy personnel stationed there might be caught in a delicate position if the Red troops stormed the Government's inner defense lines.

At the height of the tension yesterday the United States Fourth Marine Regiment was reported to have prepared defense positions on the outskirts of Tsingtao. It was about this time that a Communist spokesman in Nanking announced that an emissary had been sent to Shantung to call off the Tsingtao attack.

The heavy cruiser Los Angeles and five destroyers are in the harbor. Twelve United States Corsair fighters roared in from Peiping Thursday. A British cruiser is due to arrive from Shanghai.

Chinese Government sources said that the Communists, who hold most of the shoreline of strategic Kiaochow Bay, had been driven from two villages twelve miles north of Tsingtao controlling the city's water supply. The city lies at the mouth of the bay.

over the size of slings to be used in unloading cement from a freighter.

The I. L. W. U. appealed to the governor to effect a settlement of the dispute, which involved the suspension of 230 union longshore members. Stainback seized the liner and pier unloading equipment for 24 hours under emergency powers given to him by a territorial act adopted shortly before the war.

JAPANESE DEVELOP PENICILLIN CULTURE

JUN 15 1946

Tokyo, June 14 (A. P.)—The successful culture of penicillin bacteria in specially prepared liquid obtained from the chrysalis of silkorms was reported today by the Jiji news agency, which said that the process was developed at the Ayabe laboratory of the Gunze silk-reeling works, and that, when simplified, the production of penicillin on a large scale would be possible.

There were no further details. Jiji said that a number of vitamin extracts had been manufactured from chrysalises at the same laboratory, and that further experimentation on silkworm by-products is under way.

Jap Label R[illegible]rning

Tokyo, June 14 (A. P.)—The "Made-in-Japan" label may reappear soon in American dime stores.

Allied headquarters said today approximately three tons of sample items, from bathtub toys and Christmas-tree ornaments to ivory carvings, would be shipped soon for display to American merchants.

It will be the first shipment of such goods since prewar days, although silk exports to the States have been under way for some time.

Proceeds from such sales will be placed in an account against which Japanese may draw for purchasing food and materials in America, headquarters said.

Union Acts Criticized

Tokyo, June 14 (AP)—Premier Shigeru Yoshida told a conference of prefectural governors here today that if the "destructive tendencies" of labor unions and mass movements in Japan continue, internal peace will be jeopardized and the social order demolished.

Yoshida advised the governors, now appointed, that under a reform bill soon to be presented to the Diet they would have to stand for election by popular local vote.

Emperor Plans Trip

Tokyo, June 14 (AP)—Emperor Hirohito today was tentatively scheduled to visit the farms, factories and fishing villages in the Shizuoka district, Japan's greatest tea-producing center 120 miles southwest of Tokyo, next Monday and Tuesday in a second trip to spur farmers into greater production.

Captives to Testify in Japan

TOKYO, June 14 (AP)—Eight Allied headquarters officers will leave by plane for the United States tomororw to question nearly 9,000 former prisoners of war whose answers may be used in Japanese war crimes trials here and in Manila. Approximately ninety former prisoners will return to give direct testimony, it was announced.

Peron Spurs Drive To Cut Living Costs

Buenos Aires, June 14 (A. P.).—President Juan D. Peron brought his Government's sixty-day campaign drive to reduce the national living cost before the people today, telling them that he was declaring a "war to the death against speculation." He added that he would deal severely with those failing to co-operate.

JURY DUE TO GET ROSE CASE TODAY

JUN 15 1946

MONTREAL, June 14—(AP) The case of Fred Rose, Communist member of parliament accused of conspiring to give wartime secrets to Russia, is expected to go to the jury sometime tomorrow.

The defense presented virtually its entire case today through nine witnesses whose testimony mainly related to close wartime co-operation between Canada and Russia. Chief Defense Counsel Joseph Cohen said he would have one more witness tomorrow, after which he would make his address to the jury. Addresses of the prosecution and the judge are to follow.

Today's witnesses included Laurent Beaudry, chief of the diplomatic division of the department of external affairs in Ottawa, who was subpoenaed to bring to court coupies of communications from the Canadian military attache in Moscow to the external affairs department in the Canadian capital from Jan. 1, 1945, to Sept. 15, 1945.

Instead he brought a declaration signed by Justice Minister Louis St. Laurent, now acting secretary for external affairs, saying that this information consisted of confidential reports and that their contents "cannot be disclosed without injury to the public interest."

Cohen said he wanted to show that it was normal for military attaches to send in code such reports to their home governments. In the so-called spy network with which Rose is accused of cooperating, documents from the former Soviet military attache in Ottawa, Col. S. Nicolai Zabotin, have played a prominent part in the prosecution case.

Judge Wilfrid Lazure remarked from the bench that Col. Zabotin was accused of directing an illegal espionage ring in addition to his normal work as military attache.

2-Zone Control Perils Korea, Pauley Asserts

JUN 15 1946

Seoul, Korea, June 14 (AP)—Edwin W. Pauley declared today that Korea would "miss its great opportunity for independence" unless the economic and political barriers of the thirty-eighth parallel dividing the United States and Russian occupation zones were removed.

The United States reparations commissioner told a press conference that Korea "must be politically and economically unified" in order to obtain the industrial equipment, such as machine tools, needed "for making finished products for their own civilian consumption and export."

Pauley's statement came as he prepared to leave later in the day for Mukden, where he will carry on reparations investigations in Manchuria for President Truman.

"We Don't Know," Russ Reply

The Pauley mission recently toured northern Korea, and Martin T. Bennett, Pauley's chief of staff, told newsmen the Russians merely answered "we don't know" when asked what use would be made of products being manufactured there.

Pauley said he was impressed on his trip into North Korea by the lack of mechanical facilities needed to make the divided nation more self-sufficient.

There are plenty of raw materials, he explained, but "during the Japanese occupation the finishing all was done in Japan."

Machine Tolls Needed

Korea, Pauley added, should get some of the machine tools which already have been earmarked for removal from Japan as war potential.

Pauley said he asked Col. Gen. I. M. Chistiakov, Russian commander in northern Korea, if any plants and equipment had been

Jap Constitution Quoted By Tojo Trial Prosecutor

JUN 15 1946

Tokyo, June 14 (AP)—The international war crimes prosecution today quoted the Japanese constitution to pin directly on war Premier Hideki Tojo and his associated war crimes defendants individual responsibility for the acts they committed in the name of the Emperor.

In an hour-long summation at the conclusion of the prosecution's two-day outline of the Japanese Government, Solis Horwitz, assistant United States prosecutor from Pittsburgh, told the international tribunal that Tojo and the 25 other defendants at the trial were the ones charged with planning and devising the war steps ordered by the Emperor.

From the constitution he quoted: "The respective ministers of state shall give their advice to the Emperor and be responsible for it."

Horwitz declared the Emperor acts only on the advice of a minister, hence "the scope of ministerial responsibility is as broad as the imperial prerogative over state affairs."

Function For Emperor

Later, in an attempt to fix responsibility on War and Navy Department officials and officers, he quoted again:

"The supreme command function, while resting, as all other Government functions in Japan do, in the Emperor, is in fact exercised by the chiefs of staff of the Army and Navy. Their power is grave and extensive."

At the conclusion of Horwitz's address, the prosecution introduced eight biographical sketches of defendants, but did not include Tojo in the list.

Court was adjourned until Monday.

DOCK STRIKE ENDS WITH LINER'S SEIZURE

JUN 15 1946

HONOLULU, June 14—(AP) Gov. Ingram M. Stainback seized the Matson liner Matsonia today in the name of the territory thus ending a sympathy work stoppage that had delayed unloading. The ship will sail for the mainland Saturday one day late.

The Matsonia docked Wednesday morning but members of the International Longshoremen's union refused to unload her cargo pending settlement of a waterfront dispute

Fear for Safety of Marines Stationed in Tsingtao Eases

NIGHT

SHANGHAI, June 14.—(AP) Concern over the possibility of a Chinese Communist attack on Tsingtao, involving U. S. Marines in the tangle of Chinese civil strife, ebbed today in the wake of new reports from the strategic Shantung seaport.

Reliable foreign sources in touch with developments there said the danger was considered definitely over.

Filipinos May Get Jap Hemp Fields

Manila, June 14 (A. P.).—President Roxas said today that special legislation to be introduced shortly in the United States Congress would permit the Philippine Republic to take over hemp plantations formerly owned by the Japanese on Mindanao Island and other alien property.

The legislation, Roxas explained to a press conference, is necessary because the Philippines never formally declared war against Japan or other Axis nations.

Board Clears 'Griping' Soldier

MANILA, June 14 (AP)—A review board of the Eigty-sixth Division, "while not condoning" the offense, set aside today the court-martial conviction of T/5 Clair Miller of Reading, Pa., which reduced him in rank to private for having aired "gripes" in a letters column of The Daily Pacifican. The board in a statement said the conviction had been abrogated because other soldiers previously had gone unpunished for similar acts and that Miller was unaware he was committing an offense when he wrote to the Army newspaper.

JAP MAJOR TO HANG

MANILA, June 14—(AP) Japanese Maj. Koe Mikami was sentenced to hang and 12 other Japanese were given prison sentences ranging from 10 years to life by a war crimes commission today. They were convicted of slaying six unarmed Filipinos, including three children, on Mindanao shortly after V-J day last year.

DR. HARRY F. WARD TESTIFIES FOR ROSE

H. Montgomery

Montreal, June 14 (A. P.)—The defense for Fred Rose, Communist Member of Parliament on trial for conspiracy to give unauthorized information to Russia, opened its case today with an attempt to establish that Canada and the Soviet Union had close and friendly relations as Allies during the period of the alleged conspiracy.

The first witness was Dr. Harry F. Ward, 72 years old, professor emeritus of Union Theological Seminary, New York. Now a resident of Palisade, N. J., Dr. Ward said he taught in Boston University from 1913 to 1918 and was professor of Christian ethics at Union from 1918 to 1941. The defense sought to put into the record Dr. Ward's opinions of the situation in Russia, which he visited in 1918-19, in 1924 and again in 1931-32.

Chief of defense counsel Joseph Cohen argued that even if a conspiracy were proved against Rose that it must also be shown that it was prejudicial to the interests of Canada. Prosecution objections to this were upheld by Justice Wilfred Lazure, who declared that "the question of sympathy wtih Russia has nothing to do with this case."

with him by telephone, the chief executive said he did not.

The President's disclosure to his news conference of these activities behind the scenes did not make clear whether Jackson actually received the Presidential advice before he acted and thus disregarded it. Due to the time difference between Washington and Nuerenberg, the interval between the time Jackson's statement reached the White House and the time it was made public might have been only a few hours.

In any case Mr. Truman made it clear that he disapproved of Jackson's action in dragging the dissension within the Supreme court into the open, but the President indicated that was the end of it as far as he is concerned. He said in answer to questions that he expects no resignations to result. Asked whether Black had threatened to resign if Jackson were appointed chief justice, the President said he had not discussed the chief justice vacancy with any member of the court.

Steelman is Named

Mr. Truman opened his conference by announcing that Dr. John R. Steelman will become reconversion director succeeding John W. Snyder, named secretary of the treasury.

In announcing Snyder's new appointment last week, the President had said that the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion would be terminated. But today he explained that all the cabinet officers, agency heads, and congressmen and other advisors thought it ought to be continued.

Steelman will continue to serve as special White House labor advisor. Apparently to quash reports that Steelman's activities in this capacity were resented by Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, the President said that Steelman's continuation in the post is at the secretary's suggestion.

The President next expressed confidence in settling the maritime dispute before the midnight strike deadline, and the questioning then ranged over these other topics:

Atomic energy—Bernard M. Baruch, special representative to the United Nations atomic commission, has been informed of the administration's policy for international control. Mr. Truman said he had not seen the proposals which Baruch submitted to the U. N. today but he imagines they follow the policy.

Follow's Directive

The President was asked whether Baruch's program follows the Acheson-Lilienthal report and he answered no, it follows the Presidential policy directive. Despite the direct negative, reporters took this to mean that the directive is the guiding factor, and not necessarily that it differs in important particulars with the Acheson study.

Vatican envoy—The president explained, in reply to questions, that it is not entirely correct to say that Myron C. Taylor will be recalled as representative to the Vatican, as Protestant church groups have demanded. He said that President Roosevelt originally sent Taylor there on a special mission to keep the peace, and that Taylor's mission now is to aid in making peace. When that is accomplished, he added, there will be no representative at the Vatican. He referred to world peace, he explained, not merely a peace treaty with Italy. And he could not say when that would come.

Refuses Comment

Mr. Truman declined to comment on:

The OPA bill, with its restrictions on price control powers which the Senate passed last night.

Prospects of an effort being made in Congress to revive the vetoed Case labor bill by attaching it to the emergency strike-control legislation which the President seeks.

The speech in which Foreign Minister Bevin said Britain could not shoulder alone the task of carrying out an Anglo-American commission's recommendations that 100,000 European Jews be admitted to Palestine. Mr. Truman added that he still is trying to gain the admission of the Jews.

Washington, June 14 (A. P.).—President Truman said today that Justice Robert H. Jackson had issued his statement criticizing Justice Hugo Black despite a presidential request for prior consultation.

At the same news conference, Mr. Truman declined comment when asked if he thought both Jackson and Black should resign "for the good of the country and the court," as a reporter phrased it.

As to whether either Jackson or Black had indicated an intention to resign, the President declared he had received no indications of that sort. He said that Jackson wired him on Sunday before the release of his statement in Nuernberg on Monday.

Black Makes No Comment.

Jackson's statement brought into the open a "feud" in the court and told of his objection to Black's participation in a case in which Black's former law partner represented the United Mine Workers who won a 5-4 decision. Black has not commented.

Mr. Truman said that when Jackson informed him of his intention, he suggested that the Justice talk over the matter with him before acting. In response to questions, the President said that Jackson had not done this.

Asked whether Black threatened to resign if Jackson were named Chief Justice, Mr. Truman replied he never discussed the Chief Justice vacancy with any member of the court.

Fred M. Vinson of Kentucky, Secretary of the Treasury, has been nominated for the high post.

Ask Both to Quit.

Westport, N. Y., June 14 (A. P.).—The resignation of two Associate Justices of the United States Supreme Court is proposed by the chairman of the Young Republican National Federation. Citing a public feud between Justices Robert H. Jackson and Hugo Black, Ralph E. Becker of Port Chester told the fourteenth annual convention of the State Association of Young Republicans last night:

"The washing of the dirty linen of the Supreme Court in public between the two justices was undignified. The court should not be wrecked in popular esteem by unwise action or passion on the part of its members."

Becker asserted that "Justice Jackson acted in poor taste and Justice Black with poor judgment." He asserted both "should resign as members of the Court."

Becker assailed what he termed "the incompetent Democratic administration" and praised the State administration of New York's Republican Gov. Dewey. He termed President Truman's veto of the Case Labor bill a "disappointing exhibition in the midst of our labor crisis."

U. S. MAY HELP CHINA TRAIN 60 ARMY DIVISIONS

JUN 15 1946

Plan Approved by Marshall Would Include National and Communist Troops.

RATIO WOULD BE FIVE TO ONE

Congress Must Give Its Consent—Request for Legislation Sent by Byrnes.

Washington, June 14 (A. P.).—The United States is ready to help train a Chinese Army of possibly 1,000,000 men, provided that Congress gives its approval.

The training would include both Central Government and Communist troops, in a ratio of five-to-one. The exact number of men still is uncertain, but Gen. George C. Marshall, special Ambassador to China, has approved a program developed by the State, War and Navy departments calling for an "effective small Army" of sixty divisions.

That description came from officials who said the objective is threefold:

1. To enable China to maintain her internal security.

2. To help preserve peace in Asia.

3. To co-operate in whatever way is necessary with United Nations' peace forces, yet to be organized.

Legislation Requested.

Secretary of State Byrnes sent Acting Senate President McKellar (D.-Tenn.) a request for the necessary legislation before he left yesterday for the Big Four Foreign Ministers' meeting in Paris. The proposal was referred to the Foreign Relations Committee for action.

"I firmly believe," Byrnes wrote McKellar, "that the national interest, including this country's interest in the establishment and preservation of peace and security in Asia, requires that the United States give aid to the republic of China by assisting that country to organize and maintain modern military forces of moderate size which will permit China to make a substantial contribution to peace in that part of the world."

United States Army forces in China now number only about 6,000 men, including both officer and enlisted personnel. This is all that remains of the once large American military establishment in eastern Asia.

However, long before the United States Army's Chinese theater passed out of existence on May 1, plans had been made for the eventual assignment of a military group of land, sea and air advisers to the Government of Chiang Kai-shek.

Some of the officers still in China are reported to have been held there in anticipation of such an assignment.

Goal of 60 Divisions.

The goal of sixty divisions, composed of fifty divisions of National Government troops and ten of Chinese Communist troops, was laid down by Marshall last January.

The proposed training program has been planned in expectation that Marshall's program for making peace between the two Chinese factions will go through.

But officials here expect that it will be carried out whether or not the peace efforts are successful, since the general belief is that should they fail the United States would have no alternative but to give Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek its full support in establishing a strong China.

At present, according to information in official quarters here, Marshall has American officers with the armed forces of the Communists as well as with those of the Chinese Government.

Several weeks ago the reportedly assigned eighty-seven advisers to the Communist headquarters. The declared purpose was to help the Communist leaders train and modernize their troops in anticipation of merging them with the American-trained regular Chinese divisions.

Officials said, however, that the assignment served the secondary purpose of furnishing the Communists with concrete evidence of Marshall's desire to help them as well as the Chiang Kai-shek forces so long as the common objective is a strong and unified China.

Truman Urges Liberty for Man All Over World

JUN 15 1946

Pins Highest Medal on Five; Asserts U. S. 'Can Fight and Defeat Any Dictator'

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP).—President Truman declared today that there will be no real peace until the individual is "safe in his liberties the world over."

Addressing an audience on the White House lawn, where he pinned the Congressional Medal of Honor on five war heroes, the President declared:

"The was is only half won. We haven't won it until we have won a peace which makes the individual safe in his liberties the world over.

"We are going to win the peace, and the reason we are going to win that peace is because the vast majority of our young men and women are made of the same material as these young men on whom I have pinned these medals."

The five, the President continued, are among the heroes who have shown that a peace-loving nation, "when it is pushed to the point of resistance, can fight and defeat any dictator that ever walked."

He decorated Marine Lieutenant John H. Leims, of Chicago, for action on Iwo Jima, and four Army enlisted men, the latter for bravery on Okinawa and Leyte. The Army men were Technical Sergeant Beauford T. Anderson, of Soldiers Grove, Wis.; Technical Sergeant John Meagher, of Jersey City; Sergeant Alejandro R. Ruiz, of Barstow, Tex., and Private First Class Dirk J. Vlug, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Truman Reveals Effort to Halt Jackson's Attack on Black

JUN 15 1946

WASHINGTON, June 14—(AP) President Truman revealed today that he tried to stop Supreme Court Justice Jackson from issuing his sensational blast at Justice Black but Jackson went ahead anyway.

Jackson sent the President an advance copy of his statement describing his "feud" with Black and assailing the latter's participation in Supreme court decisions in which his former law partner was interested. It reached the White House on Sunday, the day before Jackson released it at a news conference in Nuernberg and cabled it to the Judiciary committees of congress.

Suggests Delay

Mr. Truman shot a message to Jackson suggesting that the justice not release it until the two of them had a chance to talk it over. Asked whether Jackson then discussed it

JACKSON MADE BLAST DESPITE TRUMAN'S PLEA

JUN 15 1946

President Asked Justice to Consult Him Before Attacking Black.

NO RESIGNATIONS OFFERED

Chief Executive Says He Never Discussed Top Vacancy in Court With Any Member of It.

"It is always a pleasure to me on an occasion of this kind to be the President of the United States. It is one of the things that is really a pleasure to him. He doesn't have very many others.

"The greatest thing that can come to a man is to get the Congressional Medal of Honor. I think General Eisenhower and Admiral Nimitz, and everybody here, will agree with me in that statement.

"These young men have made a contribution to this great nation that is unequaled by any contribution any other man can make. They have shown that a peace-loving nation, when it is pushed to the point of resistance, can fight and defeat any dictator that ever walked.

"We are now fighting for peace. I want these young men to go back to their communities and do for peace just what they were willing and able to do to win a war for peace and prosperity.

"All these young men who have returned from the fighting are the welfare and interest of the country. They now must display the same ideals, the same bravery, the same sacrifice which they have made to win the greatest war in the history of the world.

"The war is only half won. We haven't won it until we have won a peace which makes the individual safe in his liberties the world over. We are going to win that peace, and the reason we are going to win that peace is because the vast majority of our young men and young women are made up of the same material as these young men on whom I have pinned these medals.

"Thank you very much."

BRITISH LOAN PROTEST MADE BY MINORITY

JUN 15 1946

House Group Says It Will Aid Anglo-American Imperialistic Elements

Washington, June 14 (AP)—Four members of the House Banking Committee today filed a minority report opposing the British loan, contending it "will give impetus to Anglo-American imperialistic elements."

On the other hand, Representative Wolcott, of Michigan, senior Republican on the committee, declared the $3,750,000,000 credit "will prevent Great Britain from having to affiliate herself with the Russian sphere of economic and political influence."

The committee approved the loan yesterday, 20 to 5, and sent it to the House floor where debate will begin a week from Monday. The Senate already has passed it.

To Offer Three Amendments

Meanwhile, Representative Jed Johnson (D., Okla.) announced he will offer three amendments. They would:

1. Offer credit instead of cash "to make sure that the British do not spend American money to buy Brazilian cotton, Canadian wheat, Argentine beef and other farm commodities in competition with American farmers."

2. Require that Britain give collateral in the form of Pacific bases "which have been fortified and improved by American taxpayers and which we will have to defend in event of any future conflict."

Interest Changes Suggested

3. Eliminate the moratorium on interest which would run until 1951 and increase the interest rate from two to four per cent, "the same rate as the Government is charging GI's for money loaned to them to buy farms and homes and to go into business."

Signers of the minority report were Representatives Buffett (R., Neb.), Smith (R., Ohio), Sumner (R., Ill.) and Hull (Prog., Wis.).

The claim that the loan would turn England from a trend toward socialism "is wishful thinking," they said, and the argument it is necessary for British participation in the Bretton Woods World Bank "seems to approach the infamous."

49 BILLION OUT IN LEND-LEASE

JUN 15 1946

Truman Cites High Cost of Moving Troops by Air.

Washington, June 14 (A. P.).—President Truman told Congress today that it cost the United States $300,000,000 to transport four Chinese armies by air to place them in position to disarm the defeated Japanese after V-J day.

The President disclosed this in his twenty-second report on lend-lease operations in explaining why it was deemed necessary to continue such aid to the Nationalist forces after lend-lease had been terminated for all other nations.

Total lend-lease aid to all countries from March 11, 1941 through December 31, 1945, amounted to $49,096,000,000, the President said.

In addition to the "gigantic lend-lease operation" of ferrying Chinese troops by air, Mr. Truman revealed that $68,000,000 in vehicles and $50,000,000 in ammunition were lend-leased to China from American Army supplies in the Far East.

"Two armies were transported by air from West and South China to the area of Shanghai," the President said, "and one of these was transferred further by air to Tientsin. Another Army was picked up at Hankow and transported by air to Peiping."

China Total, $1,335,632,000.

The President's report disclosed that this and other post-V-J-day aid more than doubled the total lend-lease assistance furnished China before that date. The total through December 31, 1945, now stands at $1,335,632,000.

More than 60 per cent of all wartime lend-lease went to the British Empire which got $30,753,304,000. Russia was next with $11,141,470,000, followed by France and its possessions with $2,377,072,000.

China ranked fourth, with a total of $1,335,632,000, followed by Brazil with $319,494,000; the other American republics $114,646,000; the Netherlands $178,064,000; Belgium $82,884,000; Greece $76,838,000; Norway $37,708,000 and other countries $100,186,000. An additional $2,578,827,000 in lend-lease aid was not charged to any foreign government.

In his report the President said that American military aid to China is "continuing beyond the period covered by this report" but recalled his statement of December 15, 1945, when he promised "United States support will not extend to United States military intervention to influence the course of any Chinese internal strife."

The statement disclosed that a total of $1,242,594,000 in American lend-lease was furnished American allies after V-J day. Reverse lend-lease from other countries to the United States amounted to $7,345,747,000, most of this from the British Empire, which supplied $6,306,149,000.

The President told Congress the United States had concluded final lend-lease settlements with the United Kingdom, Turkey, India, France and Australia, and said that negotiations going on with other countries "will be completed as early as possible."

M'NUTT NOMINATED ENVOY TO MANILA

JUN 15 1946

Will Be First Ambassador to Republic—Military Aid Bill Is Set, New Property Act Drawn

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—Paul V. McNutt, now High Commissioner to the Philippines, will be the first United States Ambassador there after the islands become a republic July 4. President Truman announced the designation at his news conference today, saying that the nomination would go to the Senate by tomorrow.

Mr. McNutt also was assigned by the President to represent him at the independence ceremonies. J. A. Krug, Secretary of the Interior, previously had been named for this position, but Charles G. Ross, the President's press secretary, said the shift would permit Mr. Krug to stay in the United States, "where he has a mountain of work before him."

U. S. to Instruct Troops

Soon after the President's announcement both houses of Congress passed a bill to provide military assistance to the Philippines. The House put in two minor amendments, but Representative Sol Bloom, Democrat, of New York, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, said he expected prompt Senate agreement, which would speed the measure to the White House.

The bill, providing for instruction of Philippine military and naval personnel by United States officers and the transfer to the Philippines of certain United States arms and equipment, was described by Carlos P. Romulo, Resident Commissioner of the Philippines, and by Representative Bloom as of "vital" necessity in helping maintain peace in the Philippines and the Far Pacific.

SENATORS HAND NAVY GO-AHEAD FOR A-BOMB TEST

JUN 15 1946

WASHINGTON, June 14—(AP) The Senate gave the Navy a go-ahead today for the atom bomb tests at Bikini despite the protests of two senators that the big blast might jar the nation's efforts toward world peace.

By a voice vote, the Senate approved legislation authorizing the Navy to use a large fleet of vessels for the tests in the Pacific early next month. The bill must go back to the House for agreement on a Senate amendment limiting to 33 the number of United States fighting ships which may be used. The House authorization placed no limit.

Plans Not Affected

The Navy said the amendment would effect no curtailment of its present plans, which also call for the use of smaller ships and enemy vessels.

At the same time, there was a chorus of congressional endorsement for the proposals for international atomic controls laid before the United Nations Atomic Energy commission in New York today by Bernard M. Baruch, United States representative.

Chairman McMahon (D-Conn) of the Senate Atomic Energy committee told a reporter that the United States has not only shown its "good faith, but an appreciation of the urgency of the situation" through the proposals.

Baruch's name echoed in debate on the test authorization measure.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill) said Congress was "weakening the hand of Barney Baruch" in the U.N. atomic conference. Senator Huffman (D-Ohio), who joined Lucas in opposition, said Senate approval of the test "is in discord with our every plea for the use of atomic energy for peaceful purposes."

Calls for Delay

Lucas said that even now with ships and scientists gathered in the Pacific for the first of three atomic tests, the President would aid world peace by calling off the whole experiment or at least delaying it.

"This is more of a naval display than an experiment," Lucas shouted, adding that other peoples of the world will misunderstand and accuse the United States of "double talk."

McMahon disputed Lucas' contentions, saying that the United States was using its own ships in areas it controlled and nations would understand. He added that the tests would provide some accurate data on value of naval craft, especially big battleships, in the atomic age.

Lucas said McMahon erred in believing that other people and nations of the world "understand us."

By-products of Atomic Energy Are Made in Oak Ridge Ovens

JUN 15 1946

Army Turns Out Materials Earmarked for Use of Science, Medicine and Industry in Peacetime.

Oak Ridge, Tenn., June 14 (A. P.).—The great shielded ovens that can make atomic bomb ingredients are pioneering today in a new job—producing materials earmarked to serve science, medicine and industry in peacetime.

The Army's Manhattan Engineer District, creator of the bomb, disclosed the production envisions nationwide distribution of radioactive substances made in the same furnaces that produced the essentials of the A-bomb.

The ovens, now producing limited quantities of these by-products of atomic energy, are being geared for the Army's objective of large scale availability of products which they declared may well have far-reaching importance in peacetime research in physics, chemistry, metallurgy and the medical sciences.

Hospitals to Benefit.

Meanwhile, the Army announced that hospital, universities and similar institutions or groups could make immediate application for the small quantities of materials available. A reasonable charge will be made to cover the out-of-pocket costs to the United States, the announcement said.

It added that while present production would be increased as rapidly as possible, it will probably be impossible to meet all the demands of the country until additional facilities are built specifically for production of radioactive substance. This is not contemplated in the immediate future.

Declaring that approximately 100 different radioactive substances—materials that give off invisible rays—would be obtainable in varying quantities from the atom bomb project, the War Department's statement asserted: "They will be used in two important ways: "First as tracer atoms or 'tracers' for following the course of atoms in chemical, biological and technical processes. And possibly second, after considerable research, as therapeutic agents for treatment of certain special diseases."

Called "Radioisotopes."

The radioactive materials being produced by the bomb makers are known as "radioisotopes" — that is, they are radioactive forms of common and rare elements produced in the atom pile by the action of atomic particles.

The reason they can be used as tracers in various scientific processes is that they can be mixed with the stable form of their own element. The rays given off by the radioactive isotopes can be detected by sensitive instruments, even when the material is coursing through the human body.

Their role as possible therapeutic agents in the treatment of certain diseases stems from the fact that they emit powerful rays which may prove to have a beneficial effect on diseased tissue.

The Army's announcement only hinted at the possibilities of employing radioactive substances as aids to industry, but it's well known that such substances have been used to trace new oil pools, to study the cracking of petroleum, and to follow the course of gases through intricate systems.

Radioactive carbon "is expected to give great impetus to the study of all organic processes including the mechanism and growth of normal and abnormal tissues and all piant and animal functions," they added. Most of the substances to be available for national distribution will be producted at the Clinton laboratories at Oak Ridge, operated for the Army by the Monsanto Chemical Company.

The distribution of the supplies will be co-ordinated and supervised by an advisry committee on isotope distribution, headed by Dr. Lee A. Dubridge, recently elected president of the California Institute of Technology. This advisory committe was appointed by Gen. Leslie Groves, the atom project chief, after nominations were made by the National Academy of Sciences

Atom-Power Plane Is Predicted

JUN 15 1946

San Francisco, June 14 (AP)—A prediction that atomic energy may some day power an airplane as big as a destroyer came from Dr. Luis W. Alvarez, University of California physicist, who helped develop the atomic bomb.

He said in a speech before the Pacific Coast Electrical Association convention meeting yesterday that the first commercial use for atomic energy likely would be in seagoing vessels.

Major Obstacles

The two major obstacles to be overcome for its use in commercial enterprises are corrosion and weight, he said.

Protective lead shields weighing many tons surround atomic energy plants. Alvarez said the problem of this weight may be overcome in the cases of ships by towing the atomic machine in the water, with the water serving as a shield.

Would Use Steam

The weight problem precludes the use of atomic energy in any type of airplane known today, the scientist said, but airplanes might develop to the point that the weight of conventional fuel reaches or exceeds the weight of an atomic power plant. Then, he said, steam generated by atomic heat might be used to turn the propellers.

Alvarez emphasized that he did not know how the problem of corrosion would be overcome but said he was "sure it would be licked."

REDS HARNESSING ATOM FOR WAR, SAYS PROFESSOR

JUN 15 1946

WHITEFIELD, N. H., June 14 (AP) A Harvard University government professor said tonight that "x x x Russia today is bending her energies x x x to building up sources for harnessing atomic energy to war."

Professor William Yandell Elliott told the 83rd quarterly meeting of the New England Council in a prepared address:

"Until Russia shows a more cooperative attitude toward the settlement of peace conditions on other terms than those of Russian dictation, neither loans nor scientific information should be given."

Work for Delay

Prof. Elliott declared that Russia does not want war "in the next few years" but added:

"Unless the Soviet system can be made to abandon an armament race that will include both atomic and germ warfare, armed conflict may be still to come."

Asserting that "the atom bomb has destroyed the possibility of an extended period of time in which nations could discuss their relations," he concluded:

"x x x Russia must show a willingness to live and let live, and to co-operate rather than dictate in international policy, and must cease fifth-column activities, if we are to do what we all wish to do— aid the Russian system in providing a tolerable living standard for the hundreds of millions of people who are now dependent on it."

not forecast when peace will be established.

A delegation representing a number of Protestant denominations visited the White House June 5 and presented their view that the Taylor mission violates the principle of separation of church and state.

Asked today whether he had told the churchmen that Taylor would be recalled, Mr. Truman replied that he did not believe he used the word recall. He said he had told the churchmen this:

Post Ends With Peace

That Taylor has a special mission to fulfill. He was sent to the Pope originally by the late President Roosevelt to aid in keeping the peace. Mr. Truman has sent him back to aid in making the peace. When that is accomplished, there will be no representative there.

Reporters then inquired whether the President meant, by making the peace, the Italian peace treaty. Mr. Truman replied that he meant peace in the world.

The Protestant demands that Taylor be withdrawn were countered Wednesday by Francis Cardinal Spellman who asked in an address at Fordham University, New York, whether the protest "is the anti-Catholicism of unhooded klansmen sewing seeds of disunion within our treasured nation."

In reply, Dr. Arthur Brunn, vice president of the Missouri Lutheran synod, said in a statement at River Forest, Ill., yesterday that the Cardinal "must know that there is no truth to his charge of Ku Klux influence."

Taylor to Remain at Vatican Until World Peace Is Secure

JUN 15 1946

WASHINGTON, June 14—(AP) President Truman said today that he plans to retain Myron C. Taylor as his special representative at the Vatican until world peace is secured, after which he will have no representative there.

War Dept. Orders Return Home of Non-Volunteer Enlisted Men.

WASHINGTON, June 14—(AP) The War department announced tonight that it had ordered the return from overseas of non-volunteer enlisted fathers and men with 12 months or more service.

The department also said it had authorized commanders in this country to discharge as surplus non-volunteer enlisted men with over 21 months service.

The dual action was taken, the department declared in a statement, prior to final decision of Congress on the selective service, in order not to interrupt the flow of men for discharge and to fill returning troop ships which now run on regular schedules.

The greater part of the non-volunteer fathers will be brought back to the United States by Aug. 31, the department estimated.

It said that the approximate number of non-volunteer enlisted fathers totals 133,000, situated as follows:

77,000 in Pacific areas, 28,000 in the zone of the interior, 18,000 in the European theater of operations and 10,000 in other overseas theaters.

A ban on inducting fathers is included in the compromise extension of selective service now pending before a House-Senate conference committee. The legislation also includes a provision that the service of any inductee shall be limited to 18 months.

The department had previously advised Congress that if selective service was extended and replacements authorized, it could arrange to bring home the fathers, and others with comparatively long periods of service.

MAY UP DRAFT AGE LIMIT TO 45 YEARS

JUN 15 1946

Senate, House Conferees Reported in Agreement on Proposal.

WASHINGTON, June 14—(AP) Agreement between Senate and House conferees to put the draft age limit back up to 45 years was reported today by Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) of the Senate Military committee.

Approach of a compromise on other differences between the two branches on legislation to extend selective service past its present July 1 expiration date was indicated.

Senator Gurney (R-SD) told a reported the chief point of difference—the drafting of teen agers—probably would be settled by a recommendation that 18-year olds be drafted only as a last resort and that they not be sent overseas until they reach 19.

The House, in voting to extend the draft until March, 1947, exempted 18 and 19-year olds. The Senate, voting to keep the draft alive until next May 15, included the teen agers.

Thomas said that in addition to agreeing to bring men above 29 years old back into the draft picture, the joint Senate-House committee agreed that officers and men being processed for discharge shall not be counted as part of the top limits placed upon manpower totals for the three armed services.

Gurney said the conferees will meet again Monday morning.

'Foreign Sweetheart' Bill Passes Senate

WASHINGTON, June 14—(AP) The "foreign sweetheart" bill passed the Senate today.

The measure, which now goes to the House, is designed to facilitate the admission into the United States of fiancees or fiances of members of the armed forces.

Until July 1, 1947, it would permit them to enter this country for a period of three months as non-immigrant temporary visitors in order to marry the citizens to whom they are betrothed. After marriage, they would be eligible to remain permanently.

Army Calls World-Wide Roll Of Its Forces

JUN 15 1946

Washington, June 14 (AP)—The Army called the roll all over the world at 11 A.M. (E.S.T.) today to find out just how many men it has.

Secretary of War Patterson ordered the inventory in every theater and department to list military personnel physically present as well as those remaining who are eligible for discharge by June 30.

The War Department said the action was taken to correct and improve its strength and accounting system as "some inconsistencies" had developed as a result of demobilization.

The muster is expected to show well under 2,000,000 in service. Results will be reported to the War Department in ten days, permitting a final tabulation by July 1.

More Food For Famine Relief Offered By Navy

Washington, June 14 (AP)—The Navy today offered an additional 38,000,000 pounds of food from its regular stocks to supplement the 237,000,000 pounds of surplus food it has made available for famine relief.

The new offer is in response to an appeal by the Agriculture Department to all Government agencies to make maximum quantities of food available for relief feeding during the next critical 60 days.

The 38,000,000 pounds are from the Navy's regular operating stocks and will have to be replaced. It includes 17,900,000 pounds of canned fruits, and vegetables, 500,000 pounds of coca, 1,000,000 pounds of cornmeal, 13,000,000 pounds of evaporated and powdered milk.

Surplus Army Rations Can Be Sent to Germans

JUN 15 1946

Purchasers to Pay $15 for 30-Pound Package; Navy Frees More Food

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP).—Thirty-pound packages of surplus Army rations may be delivered to specific individuals in the American occupation zone of Germany under a plan announced today by the War Department.

Under it a person in the United States pays $15 to the Co-operative for American Remittances to Europe, giving this agency the name and address of the individual to whom he wants to send a package. Delivery will be effected under military government supervision in Germany.

The Navy today offered an additional 38,000,000 pounds of food from its regular stocks to supplement the 237,000,000 pounds of surplus food it has made available for famine relief. The new offer is in response to an appeal by the Department of Agriculture to all government agencies to make maximum quantities of food available for relief feeding during the next critical sixty days.

The Senate Small Business Committee was informed today that Army occupation authorities in Germany have requested imports of 100,000 tons of food a month for the next harvest year ending Sept. 30, 1947. Colonel J. B. Gilchrist, chief of the economics and supply branch of the War Department's civil affairs division, said the request, chiefly for grain, was based on minimum needs to prevent disease and unrest.

The Agriculture Department said the United States has been supplying Mexico with abou t 1,000,000 bushels of wheat a month since Jan. 1 to help make up that country's deficit in its own production. Officials said this country felt obligated to supply Mexico with limited quantities of wheat because it has been a regular customer for years and because Mexico has been supplying this country with farm laborers since early in the war.

50% Fall in Wheat Seen

ALBANY, June 14 (AP).—Winter wheat production of about 4,853,000 bushels in New York State this year, a drop of nearly 50 per cent from 1945, was forecast tonight by the State Department of Agriculture. The department attributed the sharp decline to a reduction in acreage forced by a wet sowing season last fall and to "lower yield prospects this summer."

P. W. Promotions For Navy Vetoed

JUN 15 1946

Truman Assails Failure of Bill to Include Army

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP).—President Truman today vetoed legislation calling for promotion of Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard personnel who had been prisoners of war.

He told Congress in a message that the measure was "neither necessary nor in the national interest," adding: "The act does not include personnel of the Army, and it is my considered belief that any such law should provide a common policy for prisoners of war of all of the armed forces of the United States."

The legislation provided for promotion of personnel of the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard, Mr. Truman said, "without regard for the needs of the service, and with provisions for retroactive increases of pay and allowances."

He said that the Secretaries of War and the Navy made an agreement March 31, 1945, establishing a common policy "giving special consideration to the promotion of returned prisoners of war."

The two departments, he continued, are now promoting such personnel "to the rank, grade or rating and precedence which they presumably would have acquired had they not been captured."

The act contemplates expenditure "of large and indefinite sums" under retroactive features, he said. Army personnel who were taken prisoner far exceed those of the other services, and if the bill's benefits were extended to them, he said, it would involve expenditures far in excess of those contemplated in the legislation.

AID TO FILIPINOS VOTED

Citizenship and Ex-GI Relief Bills Passed by Senate

WASHINGTON, June 14 (AP)—A measure permitting Filipinos to attain United States citizenship was approved by the Senate today and sent to the White House.

The bill sets an immigration quota of 100 persons a year after July 4, and makes eligible for naturalization Filipinos resident in the United States and its possessions.

The Senate also passed and sent to the House a bill to provide relief for Philippine veterans of World War II, and another to return to the Commonwealth securities pledged to obtain a loan of military equipment in 1935.

Truman Too Busy To Ask Bank Fund

Washington, June 14 (A. P.).—President Truman said today that he has been so busy with other things he has not had an opportunity to carry out his intention to ask Congress for an additional $1,500,000,000 for the export-Import Bank.

Reminded at his news conference that he had indicated in February that he would make such a request, the President said he has not done so since he hasn't had the chance of getting around to it.

Jews Honor Eisenhower

Washington, June 14 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was presented today with the American Hebrew Medal for 1945 for promotion of understanding between Christians and Jews in America. The medal was presented at the War Department by Joseph H. Biden, publisher of the American Hebrew Magazine which established the award.

HOUSE REJECTS SENATE'S CURBS ON OPA POWERS

JUN 15 1946

Extension Bill Is Sent to Committee to Effect 'Harmonizing.'

Washington, June 14 (A. P.).—The House refused today to accept the Senate's drastic curtailments on OPA extension and sent the bill to a Senate-House conference committee for a "harmonizing" of differences.

There was widespread doubt on Capitol Hill, however, that the conferees will be able to write a compromise that will not run head-on into a presidential veto.

President Truman declined to commit himself when he was asked outright at his news conference whether he would sign the measure as it passed the Senate last night. Chester Bowles, Stabilization Director, has announced he will recommend a veto, if weakened OPA legislation is sent to the White House.

Representative Spence (D.-Ky.), chairman of the House Banking Committee, a leading advocate of continuing effective price controls, told reporters: "It's going to be very difficult to give the legislation any vitality. It's pretty sick, isn't it?"

On the other hand, Representative Wolcott of Michigan, senior banking committee Republican, said: "If we find either the House or the Senate has gone to such extremes as to destroy effective price control, we will make an endeavor to harmonize the two bills so as to keep an effective OPA and at the same time assure maximum production."

Spence and Wolcott will serve on the joint committee that will write a compromise measure.

Speaker Rayburn (D.-Tex.) appointed these House members to the conference committee Spence, Wolcott, Brown (D.-Ga.), Patman (D.-Tex.), Barry (D.-N. Y.), Crawford (R.-Mich.) and Gamble (R.-N. Y.).

The Senate approved a year's extension of OPA—shorn, however, of much authority and minus the right to keep price controls on meat, eggs, milk, butter and chickens. Reaction to the Senate bill was immediate on and off Capitol Hill.

OPA backers immediately raised a cry for President Truman to veto the emasculated measure. They predicted skyrocketing prices, and renewed reports circulated that both Bowles and Paul Porter, OPA chief, were ready to quit rather than try to administer it.

Sees Fall Election Vital

In a brief reference to the coming campaign, he said that the fall election was going to be "very important" and will decide "whether we are going to stand still, go back a little or forge ahead."

He asserted that if the Democratic party adhered to "the program of human rights laid down by President Roosevelt," a program which he said was now being supported by President Truman "I don't think we can lose."

Bowles Is 'Uncertain' Of Fate of OPA Agency

JUN 15 1946

Sees New Labor Troubles, Inflation if Bill Is Enacted.

OLD SAYBROOK, June 14—(AP) Chester Bowles, in his first appearance before Democratic leaders in his home state, where he has been the subject of speculation as a possible candidate for governor, asserted here tonight it was "hard to believe that Congress will vote for inflation."

The economic stabilization director said he hadn't "the slightest idea of what is going to happen" to OPA in Congress.

Hopes For "Miracle"

"We may by some miracle come out in good style," he added.

The Senate and House have adopted separate bills stripping OPA of most of its controls over prices, and a conference committee has been named to work on a compromise bill.

Tonight's meeting of the State Central committee was called by Chairman John A. McGuire to give Democratic leaders an opportunity to meet men mentioned as likely candidates for the party's ticket this fall.

Bowles, whose home is in nearby Essex, declined to attend in the role of a candidiate for nomination but accepted a later invitation to appear as a spokesman for the Truman administration.

Making no reference to reports he might seek the gubernatorial nomination, Bowles provoked laughter when he described Washington as a "pretty confusing and frustrating spot," and said "I shall be very glad when the time comes when I can get back."

Lieutenant Governor Wilbert Snow was the only potential nominee for high office this fall to attend tonight's meeting in that capacity. Joseph M. Tone of New Haven, a federal labor conciliator, and Thomas J. Dodd, of Lebanon, both mentioned as possible candidates, were unable to be present, Tone because of another meeting and Dodd because he is in Nuernberg, Germany, as a member of the War Criminals Trial prosecution staff.

Asserts People Favor OPA

In discussing the future of OPA Bowles asserted he believed that if Congress removed price controls it will "be doing so against the wishes of the majority of the people."

He said that if price controls were lifted the result would be price increases which would "open the way to another period of labor-management unrest."

Bowles declared with most of the major strikes settled the country now had a chance to embark on a period of industrial peace and could "get back on the right track."

If price controls were hastily removed, however, he contended, "that kind of progress will be impossible."

Snow said that the party was "facing a most difficult year" because, he said, the "tendency in the country is toward the right."

Cites Stassen Setback

He referred to the Nebraska primaries where, he asserted, the candidate of former Governor Harold Stassen of Minnesota was repudiated and said that the Republicans were endorsing a "back-to-r[illegible]alcy" policy.

Stassen, Snow said, ought be a Democrat and was one of the "few" Republicans with progressive ideas. The Republican motto now was, he said, "if you're not with us, you're a red."

The Lieutenant Governor said he believed that the great majority of men who served in the armed forces would favor the Democrats and he said that, unlike veterans of World War I, they did not feel that the United States should not concern itself with Europe's problems.

"They realize," he said, "that we can't be happy while the rest of the world lives in poverty and squalor and misery."

Although it had been anticipated in some quarters that the meeting would produce some discussion of possible nominees for high office this fall, no talk of that nature developed.

McMahon Predicts Victory

Senator Brien McMahon expressed confidence of a Democratic victory this fall because, he said, no "constructive approach to domestic and international problems" has come from the Republican party.

Representatives Geelan, Koppiemann and Woodhouse also spoke.

At a brief business meeting, a letter of resignation was read from Mrs. Eloise Brocunier of Middletown as state vice chairman. She said she was leaving the state.

No action on a successor was taken because of the proximity of the State convention, expected early in September, when a new state committee is to be elected.

State Comptroller Raymond S. Thatcher, who is chairman of the Jackson Day dinner committee, reported that function had yielded the party approximately $21,000.

A resolution was adopted honoring the memory of late State Comptroller John M. Dowe, who died suddenly shortly after the special session of the General Assembly opened.

SEES TROUBLE IF OPA DIES

Wallace Says Business Man, Farmer, People Would Suffer

ST. LOUIS, June 14 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Wallace said today "doing away with the OPA would be a grave and serious mistake and would result in great trouble for the business man, the farmer and the American people as a whole."

He told a press conference he saw "grave danger that the upward trend of prices might be greater than after the last war."

Asked to comment on the Nebraska primary, he said with a grin, "it showed once again that the Republicans are the Democrats' best friends. The Democratic party is progressive. The Republican party is conservative, and whenever the Republicans make such a bold display of conservatism as they did in Nebraska it helps the Democrats."

BAKERIES' SUGAR RATION SLASHED BY 14 PER CENT

JUN 15 1946

OPA Orders Cut to Reduce Output of Cakes, Pastries.

COFFEE FACES HIKE

Three to Five Cents Boost in Retail Price Is Indicated.

WASHINGTON, June 14—(AP) In a move to make more bread available by cutting down on cake and other pastries, the OPA today reduced the sugar ration of American bakeries about 14 per cent.

At the same time, there were these other developments on the food front:

1. An OPA official said the retail price of sugar soon will be raised 1-5 of a cent a pound—one cent on a five-pound package—to offset a wage boost for sugar refinery workers.

New Sugar Stamp

2. The agency will validate a second sugar stamp for home canning July 1. Spare Stamp 10 in family ration books will be good for five pounds through Oct. 31. The current coupon, Spare Stamp 9, also is good for five pounds through October.

3. The possibility arose that the retail price of coffee may be raised three to five cents a pound.

Effective during the July-September quarter, bakers will receive only 60 per cent as much sugar as they used during the corresponding quarter in 1941, OPA announced. They now are receiving 70 per cent.

The reduction, which places bakeries on the same basis as most other industrial users of sugar, was prompted by Agriculture department limitations on flour production.

Limit Up July 1

At present, mills may grind only 75 per cent as much flour a month as they did last year. On July 1 this goes up to 85 per cent.

OPA said that because of these limitations there no longer is any justification for bakers receiving more sugar for their products than other industrial sugar users do.

While the official announcement made no mention of it, OPA and Agriculture department officials said privately that the government is counting on the sugar ration cut to help stem diversion of flour from bread to pastries. In many cases, the official said, reports of acute bread shortages have been coupled with protest that flour is going into cake and pies.

Agriculture department officials said they were unable to estimate how deeply the sugar reduction may trim the output of pastries. They predicted that some bakeries may choose to eliminate altogether items which require large amounts of sugar.

Coffee Decision Awaited

As for coffee, officials who could not be quoted by name said the Office of Economic Stabilization will decide soon whether to allow a retail price increase of three to five cents a pound.

A subsidy of three cents a pound now being paid to coffee importers will expire June 30 unless renewed. A decision on whether to continue it will await final disposition of the price control extension bill, it was understood.

Officials said withdrawal of the subsidy probably would boost coffee prices three cents a pound, and that an additional two cent increase might be necessary to maintain shipments from Latin America.

STASSEN ATTACKS U.S. COMMUNISTS

JUN 15 1946

Tells Veterans Their Activities Have Been Harmful

Des Moines, Iowa, June 14 (AP)—Harold Stassen, former Minnesota Governor, struck out tonight at the activities of "Communists within this country" and "extreme reactionaries."

"It is my view that those who treasonably and persistently follow the line of some country other than their own do not serve the interests of either their country or mankind," he declared to the first national convention of the American Veterans Committee.

"Specifically, I believe that the activities of the Communists within this country since the end of the war have been harmful to the United States and also harmful to Russia and have injured the cause of world peace," he said. "They have added to the suspicions and the misunderstandings.

Have Fomented Distrust

"Equally the extreme reactionaries who have fomented distrust and distorted news, and brought out a stream of vilifications, have been a twin obstacle to the development of friendly relationships on a sound basis."

Stassen, regarded in political quarters as a possible Republican candidate for President in 1948, opened a forum discussion of the veteran's responsibility in the world. The A.V.C., one of the organizations which grew out of World War II, claims 60,000 members in 44 states.

Stassen urged that veterans as a whole "maintain an alert interest and come to grips with the most difficult problems of world policy."

Four Phases Of World Affairs

He particularly urged the A.V.C. to give attention to four phases of world affairs.

1. The development and strengthening of the United Nations and the use at an early date of the amending convention procedure included in the United Nations Charter.

2. The establishment of the control of atomic energy on a world-wide level "so that it may be a blessing to mankind rather than a curse."

3. The maintenance of friendly relations between the peoples of all the nations of the world.

4. The development of policies within each nation to contribute to the economic, social and cultural advances of the peoples of the world as a whole.

JUN 15 1946

Wherry Attacks Stassen

Omaha, June 14 (AP)—Senator Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Neb.), Senate Republican whip, hit indirectly tonight at Harold E. Stassen's "interference" in Nebraska's recent primary election.

The former Minnesota Governor actively backed Gov. Dwight Griswold in his unsuccessful attempt to wrest the Republican senatorial nomination from Senator Hugh Butler.

"You Nebraskans, by an overwhelming vote, gave your notice to the world that you could run your own affairs without interference from outside forces," Senator Wherry said.

erick Karl von Zedlitz, Argentinian representative of a German metal syndicate blacklisted by the British and American governments during the war.

"I have been writing to Count Zedlitz steadily," she declared. "I heard from him just the other day."

Miss Kellems, Connecticut industrialist who advocated a citizens strike against income taxes during the war, closed her case today. She contends that stories about her in the labor paper made her appear "traitorous," and caused her pain and embarrassment.

Quizzed About Correspondence

She was recalled to the stand by the defense and questioned at length about her stand on taxes and about her correspondence with the Argentinian.

She said she wrote to him quite regularly between April, 1941, and October, 1943, and had notified the Federal Bureau of Investigation she was doing so.

Asked whether she had not written von Zedlitz "confidential figures about shipments to the Soviet Union," she replied quickly:

"If they were confidential, I wouldn't be here. I'd be in prison."

Federal Judge Louis Goodman reserved decision on a defense motion to dismiss the case after her attorneys completed their initial presentation.

Miss Kellems, wearing a red jacket and flowered hat, with matching harlequin glasses, met defense questions about von Zedlitz with spirited answers, unhesitatingly expressing friendship and admiration for him.

She described one of his letters as giving what she considered "a masterly analysis of world conditions."

"I still think so," she added with a slight toss of the head.

She admitted referring in one of her letters to "the stupid British blacklist" when she learned his name had been placed upon it. He appeared some time later on the American list of South American firms with which United States firms were asked not to do business.

"If She Were Married To Him"

During a court recess, she told newsmen she met the count in this country in 1935. She denied he sympathized with the Nazis, saying his father had been "murdered by them."

Asked whether she had written von Zedlitz to the effect that if she were married to him she would "not only play a role in national affairs but international affairs," she answered smilingly that it was "quite possible."

Shortly before adjournment of court until next Tuesday for final arguments, defense attorneys introduced a deposition of the former Secretary of the Treasury, Henry Morgenthau, Jr., in which he testified that statements such as those made by Miss Kellems about taxes and Government were "quite harmful to the morale of the country."

Her Tilt With Morgenthau

The deposition also covered identification of newspaper clippings in which Morgenthau was quoted in New York in 1944 as saying Miss Kellems's refusal to pay taxes "smacks of treason." She countered, in an interview at that time in Arkansas, with the statement:

"If the Secretary regards it as reason, let him make the most of it."

Recalled by her own attorney to the stand, Miss Kellems stated she had never refused to pay taxes—she had always paid.

"And I never advised anyone to go on a tax strike," she said.

Earlier she had identified and not contradicted a newspaper clipping reporting a Kansas City speech in 1944 in which she was reported as asserting that she had not paid her taxes and calling upon "big and little business to join a tax strike."

Richard Gladstein, CIO attorney, stipulated that Miss Kellems had asked the Labor Herald for a retraction before she filed her suits. He reiterated that he did not consider the paper's statement as libelous, but as a characterization, or expression of opinion, which was not motivated by malice.

Charles L. Irvine, business manager of the Herald, was called as a witness by Clark, who was trying to determine the paper's ability to pay. Irvine produced a balance sheet for April 30, 1946, and testified it showed the paper's worth as $43,000.

German War Prisoner Escapes

CAMP KILMER, N. J., June 14 (AP).—A three-state alarm was issued for a German prisoner of war who escaped early today through a hole in the stockade fence, the Camp Kilmer provost marshal's office announced. The escaped prisoner was listed as Willi Gunster, twenty-six. He weighs 129 pounds, stands 5 feet 3¾ inches, and has a dark complexion, dark blond hair and a scar on right leg. The provost marshal's office said all prisoners of war held here were to be moved to Camp Shanks, N. Y., on June 19.

Redeployment Schedule

JUN 15 1946

At least 1,327 veterans of Pacific service are scheduled to debark from seven vessels at three West coast ports today. No troop-carrying vessels are due at New York.

West coast arrivals include: Seattle, Wash., 1,306 men, one ship; San Francisco, one ship, 21 men; San Diego, five vessels, no passenger information.

SHIPS ARRIVING

At Seattle

La Grande Victory from Jinsen via Yokohama, 1,272 army, 34 navy.

At San Diego

No passenger information on following vessels, all from Pearl Harbor: LCI's 1011, 1055 and 1067 and APC's 18, 42.

At San Francisco

Ada Rehan from Noumea, 21 army.

ARRIVALS YESTERDAY

At New York

Miscellaneous troops on following vessels: Waterbury Victory from Bremen, 712; Westerly Victory from Le Havre, 929; Sea Devil from Le Havre, 1,444.

At San Diego

Communications ship Mt. Olympus from Shanghai, 621 navy.

At San Francisco

Golden City, 1,340 navy, 29 marines; Andromeda, 94 navy, one marine.

Still Writing To Von Zedlitz, Miss Vivien Kellems Reveals

EARL G. HARRISON, CHAIRMAN OF THE ORGANIZATION'S COMMITTEE ON DISPLACED PERSONS, SAID THAT AFTER UNRRA AND THE ARMY HAD EXHAUSTED THEIR BEST EFFORTS, MORE THAN 1,000,000 HOMELESS PEOPLE WOULD STILL BE SEEKING REFUGE.

HARRISON IS DEAN OF THE UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA LAW SCHOOL AND FORMER U.S. IMMIGRATION COMMISSIONER.

THE PROPOSED AGENCY WOULD HAVE POWER TO "PROTECT, MAINTAIN, RESETTLE AND TRANSPORT PERSONS WITHIN ITS MANDATE; OPERATE A WORLD-WIDE TRACING SERVICE AND NEGOTIATE WITH GOVERNMENTS ON THE SETTLEMENT AND RESETTLEMENT OF STATELESS AND NON-PATRIABLE PERSONS."

NEUTRAL COUNTRIES AS WELL AS U.N. MEMBERS SHOULD PARTICIPATE IN ACTIVITIES OF THE AGENCY WHICH MUST BE "ADEQUATELY FINANCED" AND SHOULD HAVE "APPROPRIATE RELATIONSHIP" TO THE U.N., HARRISON'S REPORT SAID.

ATOMIC REACTION

BY LARRY HAUCK

NEW YORK, JUNE 14--(AP)-DELEGATES TO THE UNITED NATIONS ATOMIC COMMISSION TODAY GENERALLY PRAISED THE SPEECH OF BERNARD M.BARUCH

OUTLINING THE UNITED STATES POSITION BUT ALL RESERVED COMMENT ON ITS SUBSTANCE PENDING STUDY OF THE HISTORIC DOCUMENT.

THE VARIOUS DELEGATIONS TOOK IMMEDIATE STEPS TO CABLE THE FULL TEXT TO THEIR HOME GOVERNMENTS FOR COMPLETE EXAMINATION.

ANDREI A.GROMYKO, SOVIET DELEGATE TO THE SECURITY COUNCIL AND THE COMMISSION, SAID:

"SO FAR MATTERS ARE GOING SMOOTHLY. THE SPEECH WAS WELL WRITTEN AND WELL DELIVERED. I HAVE NO COMMENT ON THE SUBSTANCE."

DR.QUO TAI-CHI OF CHINA TERMED IT AN "INSPIRING" DOCUMENT AND SAID IT REPRESENTS "A CHALLENGE TO THE WORLD AND A WAY TO SALVATION."

SIR ALEXANDER CADOGAN OF GREAT BRITAIN SAID IT WAS "A GOOD SPEECH, JUST RIGHT." THE NETHERLANDS DELEGATE, DR.EELCO VAN KLEFFENS COMMENTED, "I THOUGHT IT A MARVELOUS SPEECH."

FROM CANADA'S REPRESENTATIVE, GEN.A.G.L.MCNAUGHTON, CAME THE COMMENT:

JUN 15 1946

"IT IS FAR TOO SERIOUS IN ITS IMPLICATIONS TO THE WORLD TO GIVE A QUICK OPINION."

DR.HERBERT V.EVATT OF AUSTRALI

, CHAIRMAN OF THE COMMISSION, SAID HE ANTICIPATED A SERIES OF REACTION SPEECHES ON THE REPORT AT THE COMMISSION MEETING NEXT WEDNESDAY.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

JUN 15 1946

(NY) THE NEW YORK TIMES EXPRESSED STRONG APPROVAL OF BERNARD M. BARUCH'S REPORT ON ATOMIC ENERGY CONTROL IN AN EDITORIAL DECLARING THAT "WE BELIEVE THE MASSES OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE, IF THEY THINK THE PROBLEM THROUGH, WILL AGREE WITH WHAT MR. BARUCH HAS SO MOVINGLY AND SOLEMNLY SAID."

"WHAT WE WHO HAVE THE BOMB ARE WILLING TO DO, WE ASK OTHER NATIONS NOT YET POSSESSED OF ALL THE SECRETS TO DO," THE TIMES EDITORIAL CONTINUED.

"FOR THE SAKE OF THE GENERAL SAFETY, WE SACRIFICE WHAT IN STRICT MILITARY TERMS IS A VAST THOUGH TEMPORARY ASSET. FOR THE FIRST TIME IN HISTORY, A NATION POSSESSING A UNIQUE AND DESTRUCTIVE WEAPON HAS OFFERED TO MAKE THE ESSENTIAL FACTS ABOUT THAT WEAPON GENERALLY AVAILABLE, AND THEN TO PUT A STOP TO ITS USE."

THE TIMES CONCLUDED: "BETTER FOREIGN INSPECTORS AT OAK RIDGE THAN FOREIGN BOMBS OVER OUR CITIES OR OUR BOMBS OVER FOREIGN CITIES. . ."

EMPHASIZING THE IMPORTANCE OF ENFORCEMENT PROVISIONS IN ANY INTERNATIONAL PROGRAM FOR THE USE OF ATOMIC ENERGY, THE BALTIMORE SUN STATED THAT BARUCH'S RECOMMENDATION FOR ABOLITION OF THE VETO POWER WAS THE VERY HEART OF THE WHOLE MATTER.

"IT MUST BE OBVIOUS THAT IF INTERNATIONAL CONTROL OF ATOMIC ENERGY IS TO BE BINDING, THERE CAN BE NO SUCH AVENUE OF ESCAPE BY WAY OF THE VETO POWER FOR A NATION WHICH MIGHT CHOOSE TO DISREGARD THE INTERNATIONAL AUTHORITY," THE SUN SAID. "ALTHOUGH IT IS UNDENIABLE THAT POSSESSION OF THE BOMB IS NO MORE THAN A TEMPORARY ADVANTAGE, THE ABANDONMENT OF IT WILL BE ONE OF THE HARDEST DECISIONS IN OUR NATIONAL HISTORY."

THE NEWARK (N.J.) STAR LEDGER DECLARED: "THE ATMOSPHERE OF SECRECY THAT HAS PREVAILED IN RUSSIA IS NOT AN ATMOSPHERE CONDUCIVE TO MUTUAL CONFIDENCE OR PEACE. IT MUST END. THE SHOWDOWN THUS IS COMING. AS THE RESULT OF REAC IONS TO THE BARUCH REPORT, THE NATIONS OF THE WORLD WILL EITHER MAKE COMMON CAUSE FOR PEACE OR GO THEIR DIFFERENT WAYS PREPARING FOR WAR XXX"

THE WORCESTER (MASS.) TELEGRAM COMMENTED: "TWO CONDITIONS ARE NEEDED FOR THE ENFORCEMENT OF ANY LAW -- ARMED FORCE SUFFICIENT TO COMPEL OBEDIENCE, AND A BODY OF PUBLIC OPINION SUFFICIENT TO UPHOLD THE USE OF THAT FORCE. THESE ESSENTIAL CONDITIONS ARE FOUND IN ALL ORDERLY STATES. THEY DO NOT YET EXIST IN THE SOCIETY OF NATIONS."

THE NEW YORK DAILY NEWS SAID: "XXX THE HIROSHIMA AND NAGASAKI ATOM BOMB EXPLOSIONS THREW SO MANY OF OUR LEADERS AND THINKERS INTO SUCH A PANIC THAT SOME U.S. MOVE TO SHARE OUR ATOMIC KNOWLEDGE WITH THE REST OF THE WORLD APPEARS TO BE INEVITABLE.

JUN 15 1946

"THAT BEING THE CASE, COCKEYED AND CRAZY THOUGH IT MAY BE, MR. BARUCH SEEMS TO US TO HAVE BEEN THE BEST MAN TO CHOOSE TO FIGURE OUT HOW THE THING MIGHT BE DONE. THE FAMOUS PARK BENCH ELDER STATESMAN IS A MAN OF THE HIGHEST PATRIOTISM, AND ONE WHO CAN BE TRUSTED TO LOOK OUT FOR HIS OWN COUNTRY'S INTERESTS FIRST..."

ASSERTING "IT WOULD BE FOOLISH TO IGNORE THE RISKS WE WOULD RUN" UNDER THE BARUCH PLAN, THE KANSAS CITY STAR SAID: "WE CANNOT HOPE INDEFINITELY TO HAVE SOLE POSSESSION OF THE ATOMIC BOMB . . . IT IS MANIFESTLY BETTER TO USE OUR CURRENT SUPERIORITY, TO SECURE AN EFFECTIVE SYSTEM OF INTERNATIONAL CONTROL, THAN TO WASTE IT IN PROVOKING AN ATOMIC ARMAMENT RACE. . ."

"MR. BARUCH IS RIGHT WHEN HE SAYS NOBODY SHOULD HAVE THE RIGHT TO DEFY THE REST OF THE WORLD," THE INDIANAPOLIS STAR DECLARED. "NOT ONLY SHOULD NO COUNTRY DO AS IT PLEASES WITH ATOMIC ENERGY, BUT IT SHOULD COOPERATE IN OTHER INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS...IT MAY BE DIFFICULT TO GET STALIN TO SEE THE LIGHT, BUT NO TIME SHOULD BE LOST IN MAKING THE EFFORT."

THE LOS ANGELES TIMES SAID: "REALISTS, SUCH AS THE RUSSIANS ARE PROCLAIMED TO BE, SHOULD RECOGNIZE THE FACT THAT THE UNITED STATES HAS THE BOMB. THE UNITED STATES HAS OFFERED TO DESTROY IT, IF IT RECEIVES GUARANTEES. IF THE RUSSIANS WANT THE BOMB AND THE THREAT OF IT ELIMINATED FROM THE WORLD, THEY CAN HAVE THEIR DESIRE BY WAIV-ING PART OF THEIR PREVIOUS VETO POWER, ALONG WITH OTHER MEMBERS OF THE U.N. COUNCIL, AND BY SACRIFICING A JOT OF THEIR SOVEREIGNTY, ALONG WITH THE REST OF THE WORLD."

ATOMIC (260)

LONDON, JUNE 14-(AP)-THE BRITISH PRESS TONIGHT REPORTED THE UNITED STATES SCRAP-THE-ATOMIC-BOMB PROPOSAL IN GLARING HEADLINES, BUT IN GENERAL RESERVED COMMENT AS DID GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS.

HOWEVER, THE LIBERAL NEWS CHRONICLE, THE FIRST LONDON MORNING PAPER TO EDITORIALIZE, SAID THE "AMERICAN INITIATIVE SHOULD START A WAVE OF HOPE IN EVERY HUMAN HEART" AND URGED "OTHER NATIONS TO BE QUICK TO EXPRESS OFFICIAL APPROVAL."

THE YORKSHIRE POST SAID AN "OFFER FULL OF PROMISE HAS BEEN MADE AND SHOULD BE EXAMINED IN THE SAME GENEROUS SPIRIT WHICH PROMPTED IT."

OFFICIAL BRITISH REACTION WOULD BE UNLIKELY BEFORE PARLIAMENT RECONVENES NEXT WEEK AND QUALIFIED SPOKESMEN WHO COULD BE REACHED AS THE LABOR PARTY CONGRESS BROKE UP WERE CHARY OF PREDICTIONS.

SOME DEGREE OF APPROVAL WAS CONSIDERED CERTAIN, HOWEVER, IN VIEW OF THE REPEATEDLY STATED BRITISH VIEW THAT THE UNITED NATIONS IS THE CORNERSTONE OF BRITISH FOREIGN POLICY.

THE NEWS CHRONICLE OBSERVED THAT THE PROPOSED ATOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY "MIGHT VERY WELL CLASH WITH THE SECURITY COUNCIL WHICH FUNCTIONS UNDER VETO RULE." THE POST SUGGESTED NO MORE THAN "EARNEST STUDY."

"AMERICA HAS MADE HER OFFER BECAUSE SHE PUTS ORDERED PROGRESS OF THE RACE AT THE TOP OF HER PRIORITIES."

THE POST SAID "SO FAR AS CAN BE SEEN NO POWER BY ACCEPTING THE U.S. PROPOSALS WILL PREJUDICE ITS INTERNATIONAL POSITION UNLESS INDEED IT IS PLANNING TO USE THE ATOMIC WEAPON FOR PURPOSES OF AGGRESSION AND AGGRANDIZEMENT."

JUN 15 1946

THE NEWS AGENCY SAID DR. MAULANA AZAD, PRESIDENT OF THE CONGRESS, IN A LETTER TO VISCOUNT WAVELL, VICEROY OF INDIA, WAS UNDERSTOOD TO HAVE BASED THE LEAGUE'S REJECTION ON THE GROUND THAT WAVELL INTRODUCED INTO ALL DISCUSSIONS THE EQUALITY OF REPRESENTATION EITHER BETWEEN THE CONGRESS AND THE MOSLEM LEAGUE OR BETWEEN CASTE HINDUS AND MOSLEMS.

THE CONGRESS SPOKESMAN DECLARED THAT CONGRESS LEADERS HAD DEFINITELY TOLD THE BRITISH MISSION THEY WOULD NOT ACCEPT ANY PROPOSAL FOR A PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT WHICH CONTAINED THE PRINCIPLE OF PARITY, REUTERS ADDED.

AZAD WAS UNDERSTOOD TO HAVE EMPHASIZED THE CONGRESS WAS READY TO CONSIDER ANY NEW PROPOSALS THE MISSION NOW MAY CARE TO SUBMIT.

REUTERS SAID IT WAS ALSO REPORTED THE BRITISH CABINET DELEGATION HAD POSTPONED ITS RETURN TO ENGLAND, PLANNED FOR SUNDAY.

BERLIN, JUNE 14-(AP)-A TWO-DAY MEETING HERE BETWEEN THE GERMAN STATE ECONOMIC MINISTERS OF THE UNITED STATES AND SOVIET OCCUPATION ZONES RESULTED IN AN AGREEMENT FOR A QUARTERLY EXCHANGE OF PRODUCTS AMOUNTING TO 100,000,000 REICHSMARKS ($10,000,000). IT WAS ANNOUNCED TONIGHT.

THIS AGREEMENT IS INTENDED TO SPUR THE COMPARATIVE TRICKLE OF TRADE BETWEEN THE ZONES.

JUN 15 1946

WHILE CHARACTERIZING THE AGREEMENT AS A STOPGAP, AMERICAN MILITARY GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS WERE OPTIMISTIC THAT IT WOULD BE FULFILLED.

THEY ESPECIALLY HAILED THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A PERMANENT JOINT COMMITTEE OF GERMAN ADMINISTRATORS TO SPONSOR EXECUTION OF THE PROGRAM AND TO FURTHER TRADE BETWEEN GERMAN MERCHANTS AND MANUFACTURERS IN EACH ZONE.

A PREVIOUS U.S.-SOVIET ZONAL TRADE AGREEMENT AMOUNTED TO ONLY 19,000,000 MARKS.

SPECIFICALLY THE NEW AMERICAN-SOVIET ZONE DEAL CALLED FOR EXCHANGE OF SUCH RUSSIAN ZONE PRODUCTS AS BUNA RUBBER, FILM, X-RAY BULBS AND TRACTORS IN RETURN FOR U.S. ZONE TIRES AND TUBES, DYES, GRAHITE ELECTRODES, STEELS AND ELECTRIC MOTORS.

ON A PROPOSAL FOR EXCHANGE OF FOOD PRODUCTS REPRESENTATIVES OF THE SOVIET ZONE WERE NONCOMMITTAL, AN AMERICAN SPOKESMAN SAID.

THE PREMIER SAID THE SUPREME COURT REMAINED FREE TO CONTINUE THE EXAMINATION OF ALLEGED ELECTION IRREGULARITIES BUT THAT THE GOVERNMENT "HAD THE DUTY OF TAKING A CLEAR STAND AS SPECIFIED BY LAW."

APPARENTLY REFERRING TO THE KING'S PROCLAMATION CHARGING THE GOVERNMENT WITH HAVING TAKEN "REVOLUTIONARY" ACTION, DE GASPERI ASKED:

"WHY DID THE KING'S COUNCILLORS LAUNCH SO BITTER A WORD TO THE COUNTRY?"

HE INTIMATED THE PROCLAMATION, RELEASED FIVE HOURS AFTER UMBERTO'S FLIGHT TOWARD PORTUGAL, MIGHT NOT HAVE BEEN WRITTEN BY THE KING. HE SAID HE FOUND IT DISTASTEFUL TO RENEW THE ARGUMENT, ESPECIALLY SINCE IN HIS LAST ENCOUNTER WITH UMBERTO, THE KING'S WORDS WERE IN CONTRAST WITH THOSE IN THE PROCLAMATION.

THE CABINET, IN ANSWER TO THE PROCLAMATION, SAID IT WAS A "PAINFUL DOCUMENT BASED ON FALSEHOODS" AND HINTED THAT IT MIGHT NOT HAVE BEEN WRITTEN BY THE KING AT ALL.

UMBERTO, WHO LEFT ITALY AFTER RULING FOR A LITTLE MORE THAN A MONTH, SPENT LAST NIGHT AT BARCELONA, WHERE HIS FOUR-ENGINE PLANE ARRIVED SHORTLY AFTER DUSK. HE WAS SCHEDULED TO RESUME HIS FLIGHT TO LISBON TODAY, TO JOIN HIS QUEEN AND THEIR FOUR CHILDREN.

THE ROYAL PROCLAMATION ASSERTED THAT THE CABINET HAD ACTED ILLEGALLY IN NAMING PREMIER ALCIDE DE GASPERI AS PROVISIONAL CHIEF OF STATE WHILE UMBERTO WAS STILL ON THE THRONE.

"I RAISE MY PROTEST AGAINST THE VIOLENCE WHICH HAS BEEN COMMITTED-A PROTEST MADE IN THE NAME OF THE CROWN AND OF ALL THE PEOPLE, BOTH HOME AND ABROAD," THE PROCLAMATION SAID.

"I HAVE CONFIDENCE THAT THE MAGISTRACY, WHOSE TRADITION OF INDEPENDENCE AND LIBERTY ARE ONE OF THE GLORIES OF ITALY, WILL BE ABLE TO SPEAK FREELY, BUT NOT WISHING TO MEET ABUSE OF AUTHORITY WITH FORCE I LEAVE THE SOIL OF MY COUNTRY IN THE HOPE OF SAVING ITALY FROM NEW GRIEFS AND NEW PAINS."

THE PROCLAMATION SAID UMBERTO WOULD RELEASE MEMBERS OF THE ARMED FORCES AND OTHERS FROM THEIR OATHS OF LOYALTY TO THE CROWN, BUT NOT OF THEIR LOYALTY TO THE NATION.

GEN. ADOLFO INFANTE, THE KING'S AIDE-DE-CAMP, SAID IN AN INTERVIEW THAT UMBERTO WOULD CONSIDER HIMSELF KING AND LEGAL CHIEF OF STATE UNTIL THE SUPREME COURT RULED ON MONARCHIST CHARGES OF FRAUD IN LAST WEEK'S PLEBISCITE. THE COURT IS EXPECTED TO ANNOUNCE ITS DECISION JUNE 18.

JUN 15 1946

INFANTE DENIED RUMORS THAT THE MONARCH HAD WITHDRAWN AT THE REQUEST OF ALLIED AUTHORITIES. U.S. ADM. ELLERY E. STONE, CHIEF ALLIED COMMISSIONER FOR ITALY, ALSO SAID REPORTS OF SUCH A REQUEST WERE "COMPLETELY FALSE."

THE CABINET'S STATEMENT, REPLYING TO THE PROCLAMATION, SAID THERE WERE RUMORS THAT THE DOCUMENT HAD BEEN LEFT BY UMBERTO IN OUTLINE FORM AND WAS COMPLETED BY OTHERS IN ROME.

THE STATEMENT SAID THE KING PERSONALLY HAD RECOGNIZED "MORE THAN ONCE THE CORRECT ATTITUDE" OF THE CABINET DURING THE NEGOTIATIONS, "WHICH IS SOMETHING THE WRITER OF THE PROCLAMATION SEEMS TO IGNORE."

THE CABINET REAFFIRMED ITS CONTENTION THAT THE REPUBLIC WAS CREATED AUTOMATICALLY LAST MONDAY WHEN MEMBERS OF THE SUPREME COURT PROCLAIMED THAT REPUBLICAN FORCES HAD WON THE PLEBISCITE BY CLOSE TO 2,000,000 VOTES.

WARSAW, JUNE 14-(AP)-THE NEWPAPER RZECZPOSPOLITA, STATING THAT SIX RUSSIAN ARMY OFFICERS WERE KILLED OR WOUNDED IN A RECENT PASSENGER TRAIN HOLDUP BY NSZ FORCES NEAR LUBLIN, WARNED EDITORIALLY TODAY THAT THE "INTERESTS OF POLAND MAY BE PREJUDICED" BY SUCH ACTS.

THE PAPER CAUTIONED AGAINST CREATION OF THE "IMPRESSION IN RUSSIA THAT HER SOLDIERS ARE NOT SAFE IN POLAND," AND COMMENTED THAT THE CITIZENS VOLUNTEER RESERVE MILITIA NOW BEING TRAINED "SOON WILL REACH 60 TOO 100 THOUSAND MEN."

A MILITARY COURT AT BIALYSTOK RECENTLY SENTENCED TO DEATH EIGHT MEMBERS OF THE NSZ (NATIONAL ARMED FORCES ALLEGED BY THE WARSAW GOVERNMENT TO BE SUPPORTED FROM ABROAD).

"WWE ALWAYS SAID THAT NONE OF THE PROPOSALS, WHATEVER THEY MAY BE, HAS SUFFICIENT FORCE TO CHANGE SPAIN'S INTENTIONS, BUT NOW OUR PEOPLE ARE BEGINNING TO TUNE THEIR HORSELAUGH TO THE LAUGHTER OF THE ENTIRE WORLD," SID ARRIBA. "IT IS TRUE THAT THE IMMENSE PAIN OF SO MANY COUNTRIES CUTS SHORT EVEN MOCKERY, BUT SPANISH TRANQUILITY PERMITS US TO LAUGH FREELY.."

THE CATHOLIC ORGAN, "YA" SAID:

"WE DEEPLY LAMENT ON BEHALF OF PEACE, ON BEHALF OF THE ENORMOUS CONFLICTS WHICH AWAIT A SOLUTION, ON BEHALF OF EVERYTHING THAT REQUIRES PRESTIGE AND EFFICIENCY ON THE PART OF THE UNITED NATIONS, THAT IT SHOULD HAVE RISKED IN MALEVOLENT, STUPID MANEUVERS AGAINST AN INDEPENDENT NEUTRAL COUNTRY THE PRESTIGE NEEDED AND THE EFFICIENCY REQUIRED BY THE URGENT NEEDS OF THE WORLD."

THE MONARCHIST "ABC," IN AN EDITORIAL HEADED "TO NOBODY'S TASTE," SAID: "IN ANY CASE, LONG OR SHORT TERM, RESISTING RECOMMENDATIONS OR SURVIVING COUNSELS, DEFYING ONE SANCTION OR ANOTHER, OUR PATH HAS BEEN TRACED FOR SOME TIME AND WE ARE UNFRIGHTENED AT FOLLOWING IT IN SOLITUDE."

TOKYO, SATURDAY, JUNE 15 (AP)-JAPAN'S MILITARIST HAD POWER TO RECKON WITH IN THE DAYS BEFORE SURRENDER.

THEY COULD MAKE OR BREAK CABINETS, ESTABLISH THEIR OWN POLICIES, AND ENJOYED A SUPERIOR RIGHT OF ACCESS TO THE EMPEROR, ASSISTANT PROSECUTOR SOLIS HORWITZ DECLARED IN OUTLINING THEIR TIGHT HOLD ON THE GOVERNMENT BEFORE THE INTERNATIONAL WAR CRIMES COURT TRYING HIDEKI TOJO AND 27 OTHERS.

THE PITTSBURGH, PA., ATTORNEY YESTERDAY COMPLETED AN ANALYSIS OF HOW THE JAPANESE GOVERNMENT WAS SET UP AND HOW IT RAN. HIS PRESENTATION WAS AN APPARENT EFFORT BY THE PROSECUTION TO ESTABLISH THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE DEFENDANTS FOR THEIR SHARE OF JAPAN'S AGGRESSIVE EXPANSION.

MOSTLY, HE SHOWED THE GOVERNMENT WAS CONCENTRATED IN THE HANDS OF A POWERFUL FEW WITH A DIVISION OF POWER NOT ALWAYS CLEAR.

HE MADE NOTE OF MINISTERS OF STATE DIRECTLY RESPONSIBLE TO THE EMPEROR, WHO UNDER THE STILL-EFFECTIVE CONSTITUTION IS HIMSELF "INVIOLABLE" WITH NO RESPONSIBILITY FOR HIS ACTS. HE CABINET LEGISLATES FOR THE EMPEROR, THEREBY ASSUMING "COLLECTIVE RESPONSIBILITY," AND HAS PERHAPS EVEN BROADER POWERS THAN THE DIET.

BUT IN MILITARY AFFAIRS THE EMPEROR EXERCISED HIS SUPREME POWER NOT THROUGH THE CABINET, BUT THROUGH THE MINISTERS OF WAR AND NAVY, THE CHIEF OF THE GENERAL STAFF, AND HIS OWN CHIEF AIDE DE CAMP.

THIS MILITARY CLIQUE CLAIMED THE RIGHT TO ADVISE THE EMPEROR AND FORMULATE POLICY ON SUCH MATTERS AS DECLARATION OF WAR, FOREIGN RELATIONS, TREATY NEGOTIATION AND RATIFICATION.

HORWITZ SAID MILITARISTS COULD PREVENT THE FORMATION OF A CABINET BY FAILING TO APPOINT THE WAR OR NAVY MINISTERS AND COULD FORCE THE RESIGNATION OF A GOVERNMENT BY COMPELLING WAR OR NAVY MINISTERS TO RESIGN THROUGH USE OF DIRECT ACCESS TO THE THRONE, HE ADDED, THEY HAVE BEEN ABLE TO ESTABLISH POLICY CONTRARY TO THE OPINIONS OF THE PREMIER AND THE REST OF THE CABINET.

NIGHT LEAD CHINA

BY JOHN M.HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, JUNE 14-(AP)-AN AMERICAN MOVE TO TIGHTEN MILITARY LINKS WITH CHINA COINCIDED TODAY WITH A REPORT FROM PRESIDENT TRUMAN TO CONGRESS THAT CHINA ALREADY HAS RECEIVED MORE THAN $1,335,000,000 IN LEND-LEASE.

COINCIDENTALLY SPECULATION INCREASED THAT MR.TRUMAN SOON WILL NAME LT.GEN.ALBERT C.WEDEMEYER AS HIS REGULAR AMBASSADOR TO CHINA BUT THAT GEN.GEORGE C.MARSHALL WILL REMAIN IN CHINA SO LONG AS THERE IS ANY HOPE OF BRINGING COMMUNIST AND NATIONALIST FACTIONS TOGETHER.

ALL OF THESE MOVES MADE OR IN VIEW ADD UP TO AN AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY DESIGNED TO MAKE CHINA A UNIFIED, MILITARILY COMPETENT POWER ON WHICH THE UNITED NATIONS MIGHT RELY FOR MAINTENANCE OF PEACE IN ASIA AND TO WHICH THE UNITED STATES PARTICULARLY COULD LOOK FOR SUPPORT IN MAINTAINING ITS OWN SECURITY.

THE NEWEST KEY PEICE IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF THIS POLICY IS A BILL WHICH THE STATE DEPARTMENT SENT TO CONGRESS LATE YESTERDAY WITH THE BACKING OF THE WAR AND NAVY DEPARTMENTS AND OF GENERAL MARSHALL, NOW IN CHINA AS SPECIAL AMBASSADOR. WITH RESPECT STRICTLY TO MILITARY SUPPLIES THIS BILL WOULD ALLOW THE UNITED STATES TO CONTINUE LEND-LEASE TO CHINA LONG INTO THE POST-WAR PERIOD.

SUCH ASSISTANCE IN MILITARY SUPPLIES WOULD BE DESIGNED TO HELP THE CHINESE DEVELOP AN "EFFECTIVE SMALL ARMY," AS ONE OFFICIAL PUT IT, OF ABOUT ONE MILLION MEN OR SIXTY DIVISIONS.

THE CHINESE ARMY WOULD BE TRAINED BY A SPECIAL GROUP OF LAND, SEA AND AIR OFFICERS WHOSE ASSIGNMENT TO CHINA THE BILL WOULD AUTHORIZE. AN AMERICAN MISSION IS NOW IN CHINA BUT UNDER PRESENT LAW IT WOULD HAVE TO COME HOME WITH THE END OF THE WAR EMERGENCY.

THE TOTAL COST OF THE PROJECTED PROGRAM IS NOT GIVEN BUT PRESUMABLY IT WOULD RUN INTO MANY MILLIONS OF DOLLARS.

A DESIRABLE PRELIMINARY TO THE PROGRAM, IN THE OPINION OF SOME DIPLOMATIC AUTHORITIES, IS THAT GENERAL MARSHALL SHOULD FIRST SUCCEED IN BRINGING THE CHINESE COMMUNISTS AND NATIONALISTS TOGETHER. AMERICAN OFFICIALS SAY THEY HOPE THEY WILL NOT BE FORCED BY EVENTS TO START THE PROGRAM FULLY WITHOUT UNITY. THE PLAN IS FOR 10 OF THE 60 AMERICAN-TRAINED DIVISIONS TO BE COMMUNISTS.

THE FIGURES ON ASSISTANCE TO CHINA COME FROM THE 22ND LEND LEASE REPORT WHICH PRESIDENT TRUMAN TRANSMITTED TO CONGRESS. IT SHOWED THAT TOTAL LEND-LEASE ASSISTANCE TO ALL COUNTRIES THROUGH DECEMBER 31 AMOUNTED TO $49,000,000,000 WHILE ASSISTANCE TO CHINA THROUGH DECEMBER 31 AMOUNTED TO $1,335,000,000. IT HAD COST THE UNITED STATES $300,000,000, HE TOLD CONGRESS, TO TRANSPORT FOUR CHINESE ARMIES BY AIR INTO JAPANESE HELD AREAS OF CHINA AFTER V-J DAY.

SINCE THE END OF THE YEAR LEND-LEASE SUPPLIES HAVE CONTINUED TO MOVE TO CHINA UNDER A SPECIAL PRESIDENTIAL ORDER BECAUSE OF THE NECESSITY FOR LIQUIDATING DEFEATED ENEMY FORCES.

GENERAL WEDEMEYER, WHO HAS BEEN PROMINENTLY MENTIONED AS AMBASSADOR FOR SOME TIME WAS RANKING AMERICAN OFFICER IN THE CHINA THEATER AND REMAINS TECHNICALLY AS HEAD OF THE HANDFUL OF AMERICAN ARMY FORCES WHICH REMAIN THERE. HIS POSITION OF AMBASSADOR TO THE GOVERNMENT GENERALISSIMO CHAIGN KAI-CHECK COULD NOT NECESSARILY CONFLICT WITH THAT OF GENERAL MARSHALL. THE LATTER IS SERVING AS A SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE OF PRESIDENT TRUMAN FOR THE SOLE PURPOSE OF TRYING TO RESTORE PEACE AND UNITY IN CHINA.

EXECUTIONS (200)

WASHINGTON, JUNE 14-(AP)-THE HANGING OF 28 NAZIS FOR WAR CRIMES AT THE DACHAU CONCENTRATION CAMP IN GERMANY LOST OUT TODAY ON ITS CLAIM TO THE DUBIOUS DISTINCTION OF BEING THE LARGEST EXECUTION IN AMERICAN MILITARY HISTORY.

LEAFING OVER OLD ARMY RECORDS, HISTORIANS FOUND THAT 38 INDIANS WHO TOOK PART IN THE 1862 SIOUX UPRISING IN MINNESOTA WERE HANGED SIMULTANEOUSLY AT MANKATO, MINN., ON DEC. 26 THAT YEAR FOR MURDER AND RAPE.

IN THE WAR WITH MEXICO A CENTURY AGO 50 AMERICAN DESERTERS WERE ROUNDED UP AND EXECUTED WHEN GENERAL WINFIELD SCOTT TOOK MEXICO CITY, BUT THE RECORDS ARE BLURRED ON THE POINT WHETHER THEY WERE HANGED EN MASSE.

THE SIOUX WENT ON THE WARPATH IN THE SUMMER OF 1862 WHEN THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT, BUSY AT THE MOMENT WITH TRYING TO HOLD THE UNION TOGETHER, FAILED TO PROVIDE SUFFICIENT FOOD AND FUNDS TO THE INDIANS. THEY KILLED MORE THAN 400 WHITES IN A FEW DAYS AND TOOK MANY MORE PRISONERS.

AFTER SUPPRESSION OF THE UPRISING, 306 WERE CONDEMNED TO DEATH AT MILITARY TRIALS, BUT PRESIDENT LINCOLN COMMUTED THE DEATH SENTENCES OF ALL BUT 39 AND ONE OF THESE WAS GIVEN A LAST MINUTE REPRIEVE.

LINCOLN MAINTAINED THAT THOSE ACCUSED MERELY OF HAVING FOUGHT IN OPEN BATTLE WITHOUT BEING INVOLVED IN MURDER OR RAPE SHOULD BE TREATED AS PRISONERS OF WAR.

AT THE TIME OF THE HANGING OF THE 28 NAZIS ON MAY 29, IT WAS ERRONEOUSLY THOUGHT THIS REPRESENTED THE LARGEST SINGLE EXECUTION IN ARMY ANNALS.

LAS CRUCES, N.M., JUNE 14-(AP)-A GROUP OF TOP-RANKING SCIENTISTS LEFT HERE TODAY AFTER WITNESSING AN UNHERALDED TEST OF THE GERMAN V-2 ROCKET, THE FOURTH IN A SERIES OF GUIDED MISSILE EXPERIMENTS, AT THE ARMY'S NEARBY WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUNDS.

THE HEIGHT ATTAINED BY THE ROCKET AND OTHER RESULTS OF THE TEST LATE YESTERDAY WERE NOT DISCLOSED. IN TWO PREVIOUS DEMONSTRATIONS THE 14-TON PROJECTILES HAVE SOARED BETTER THAN 70 MILES ABOVE THE EARTH'S SURFACE.

LAS CRUCES RESIDENTS, 28 MILES DISTANT AND ACROSS THE ORGAN MOUNTAINS, SAW A ROCKET VAPOR TRAIL ESTIMATED UNOFFICIALLY TO HAVE STARTED NEARLY 30 MILES HIGH AND EXTENDING ANOTHER 10 MILES INTO THE ATMOSPHERE.

FOUR MEMBERS OF AN ADVISORY COMMITTEE NAMED AT ORDNANCE DEPARTMENT REQUEST BY THE NATIONAL ACADEMY OF SCIENTISTS VIEWED THE TEST. THEY WERE DR. H. L. DRYDEN OF THE U.S. BUREAU OF STANDARDS, DR. H. B. RICHMOND, GENERAL RADIO CO.; DR. O.E. BUCKLEY, BELL TELEPHONE LABORATORIES, AND DR. V.K. ZWORYKIN, RADIO CORPORATION OF AMERICA.

Russia Is Held Key To Atom Control Plan

U. N. Commission Members Agree Approval of World System Will Be Long Process—Baruch Proposal Likely to Be Only One Offered

JUN 16 1946 Morrison

New York, June 15—(AP)—Members of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission generally agreed today that approval of an atomic control plan would be a long process and that Russia's attitude would be the key factor.

There also was agrement on another point: That the plan offered yesterday by U. S. Representative Bernard M. Baruch probably would be the only comprehensive plan submitted and that the other nations would merely offer amendments.

"Don't expect the plan to be approved next week or next month," said one delegate, who did not wish to be identified. "This plan is of tremendous importance. It is revolutionary. It raises many questions which will have to be answered."

Await Instruction

Members of the commission, awaiting instructions from their governments, indicated there was not likely to be any official comment before Wednesday, when the 12-nation body will meet to resume discussions.

Under the Baruch plan the United States would stop producing atomic bombs, destroy its stockpile of bombs and turn its atomic secrets over to an international atomic devlopment authority if the world would join in setting up safeguards to make sure that the lethal weapon would never again be used as an instrument of war.

Baruch insisted, however, that these steps would be taken only after the five major powers on the Security Council agreed to give up their veto rights on matters related to atomic energy and provided for suitable punishment of nations which violated strict control regulations.

British circles said Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, was ready to accept the plan as a basis for discussion, but he might propose some additional safeguards.

These sources said, however, that the Baruch report left unanswered a number of important questions such as the relationship of the Atomic Development Authority and the Security Council.

Soviet Views Unknown

What Russia's reaction would be still was undisclosed. Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, remained silent pending instructions from Moscow.

A delegate, representing one of the major powers, expressed belief that at least four of the five permanent members of the Security Council would be willing to surrender their veto power on atomic questions.

It was generally believed, however, that this would be the most difficult proposal for Russia to accept, in view of her previous insistence on broad veto powers. Russian refusal to surrender veto rights might block the entire plan.

Today's activities at the United Nations were confined to two meetings of the Economic and Social Council, in which Russia clashed with the United States and Britain over the handling of displaced persons in Germany.

Soviet Delegate Nikolai J. Feonov asserted that the refugee problem had "acquired a political significance" under United States and British administration.

John G. Winant, U. S. delegate, and Hector McNeil, British delegate, both expressed resentment over the charge. Winant declared the United States was motivated only by "humanitarian" aims.

The clash came during discussion of a Yugoslav proposal for a fact-finding body to study reports that the camps were harboring Quislings and permitting the training of units opposed to the Yugoslav government.

Meanwhile, delegates to the Security Council planned to meet at 2:30 P. M. (D. S. T.) Monday to try to dispose of Poland's charges that Franco Spain threatens world peace.

U. S. Scientists Approve

W. A. Higinbotham, chairman of the Federation of American Scientists, said today scientists "will heartily approve" the United States proposal for world control of atomic energy as a "starting point for the international negotiations."

Mr. Baruch has faced the problem fairly and squarely," Higinbotham said in a broadcast. The federation he heads was formed last year by scientists of Manhattan Project, which developed the atomic bomb. Other scientists now are admitted to membership.

"America is now pledged to make available the information necessary for the understanding" of the technical, political and economic problems involved in world control. Higinbotham said.

"This step is not in any sense a gamble, it is the only hope of humanity."

British Approval

Birmingham, England, June 15—(AP)—The British Atomic Scientists Association approved today Bernard M. Baruch's proposals for atomic controls.

The association, made up of 50 scientists, adopted this resolution:

"This meeting views with great satisfaction the report of proposals put forward by Mr. Bernard Baruch for the international control of atomic energy and hopes to see their early implementation."

Reaction To U.S. Atomic Plan Awaited

JUN 16 1946 Greenwich

New York, June 15 (AP)—Favorable reaction was shaping up today for the principals of the United States rigidly conditioned offer to scrap the atomic-bomb monopoly in exchange for a guaranteed world front outlawing the weapons of mass destruction.

Foreign capitals, however, reserved official comment until the governments have thoroughly reviewed the drastic political implications of the plan laid before the United Nations Atomic Energy Commisison yesterday by United States Delegate Bernard M. Baruch.

The first British press comment was favorable to the American plan and members of the United States Senate and atomic scientists gave it an enthusiastic reception.

Withholding Comment

Delegates to the twelve-nation Atomic Commission, while praising Baruch's presentation as a moving and historic document, indicated they would have nothing to say about its substance before the commission assembles again next Wednesday afternoon.

After listening to Baruch's proposal to establish an international atomic-development authority, but only after all the countries have met the iron-clad conditions laid down by the United States, the delegates dispatched the 4,500-word document to their home governments.

These conditions provide for the abolition of the Big Five veto power in relation to the operation of the Atomic Development Authority as an all-powerful agency in its field, armed with unprecedented authority of search, seizure and punishment.

Insistence On Guarantees

Baruch made it clear that the United States proposed to have guarantees meeting all the specified conditions before making the final bomb-disposal commitments. He emphasized the condition that the Big Five powers must yield their veto in the Security Council so far as it relates to the field of atomic energy.

"The (United Nations) Charter permits penalization only by concurrence of each of the five great powers—the U.S.S.R., the United Kingdom, China, France and the United States," he said. "There must be no veto to protect those who violate their solemn agreements not to develop or use atomic energy for destructive purposes."

Praise From Scientists

Among the first voicing approval of the American plan were atomic scientists and members of the United States Senate.

A group of American scientists including Nobel Prize Winners Arthur H. Compton of Washington University and Harold H. Urey of the University of Chicago, met immediately after Baruch's speech.

In a statement they praised the plan as "eminently sound and constructive."

The strongest indorsement came from Frederic Joliot-Curie, another Nobel Prize winner and head of the French scientific advisory group attending the commission meetings.

He told newsmen that if the United States plan is not accepted by the world "we scientists should feel called upon to discontinue our research in the field—to refuse to become a party to the prostitution of science."

U.S. Atom Stand Called A Bomb-For-Peace Swap

JUN 16 1946

New York, June 15 (AP)—An authoritative source suggested today that the United States is willing to trade its atomic bomb for a world government or security system that can and will keep the peace.

This source envisioned a guardian of world peace even higher and mightier than the United Nations Security Council if the council holds tight to the veto. Just what form it should take, he added, is under study.

Outlines Situation

The Security Council might conceivably become this powerful international guardian if the veto power is scrapped, this man said. He outlined the situation substantially as follows:

The United States has the atomic bomb. The United States wants peace and means to have it. The United States will sacrifice the atomic bomb if adequate world security and atomic energy controls are set up but the United States will not destroy one bomb until the nations of the world, including this country, of course, have set up this world organization by treaty.

Old-Fashioned Swap

Thus the United States was represented as being in a position to attain peace by an old-fashioned swap—the bomb for the peace.

Bernard M. Baruch, United States elder statesman, yesterday proposed to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission the creation of an international atomic development authority to control all phases of the development and use of atomic energy.

Baruch emphasized that the veto power must be scrapped as it affects atomic energy control.

One source suggested that the United States was in a position to go even farther—to lay the bomb on the table with the veto and agree to scrap the bomb if the big powers holding the veto would agree to scrap that in the world security setup.

This source pointed out that the United States has been through two world wars; that peace is the prime objective now, and the nations must find peace through whatever means that will work. If this idea does not work, others must be tried.

The Authority's Powers

It was suggested authoritatively that the atomic development authority proposed by Baruch might be given military authority.

Under the United Nations Charter, penalization of an offending nation may be undertaken only by concurrence of the five great powers—Russia, Great Britain, China, France and the United States.

It was pointed out that the Atomic Energy Commission now is the child of the Security Council and the Council can do whatever it likes with its findings. But if the American plan goes through and an atomic development authority is set up, it would be free of Council control and therefore free of Council veto on atomic energy matters.

American 'A' Plan Backed In London

JUN 16 1946

London, June 15 (AP)—A favorable reaction to the United States proposal for renunciation of the atom bomb was voiced in London's newspapers today.

The Foreign Office acknowledged that Britain was studying the American proposal with the greatest attention, but expressed no comment.

Reprieve For Civilization

The Star, meanwhile, observed editorially: "The United States has taken the lead which had to come from her, as the present custodian of the atom bomb. If the American plan is acted upon by all great powers, then civilization will have been reprieved.

"Certainly the American offer to yield her custody of the bomb to a world authority is one that must be welcomed by Mr. Bevin, Mr. Molotov and M. Bidault. For here, surely, is something at last upon which they can all agree without quibble or reserve."

The Evening News commented that when the four ministers resumed discussions in Paris today, the American statement on world control of atomic energy would stand uncompromisingly in the background of the conversations.

"The Dominant Factor"

"It is not on the agenda," the newspaper acknowledged, "but atomic energy is the dominant factor behind the conference.

"All the minor differences of diplomatic and strategic approach to the building of peace are relentlessly overshadowed by this single tremendous question mark."

British Press Lauds Baruch Atomic Plan

London, June 15 (AP)—London Sunday newspapers tonight hailed Bernard Baruch's atom control proposals with such phrases as "a magnificent gesture" nd "our guarantor against calamity."

Most publications expressed belief that the suggestions might, as the Sunday Times phrased it, "lessen suspicion and bring a new confidence" to the Paris Foreign Ministers conference.

Russia's "Mass-Produced Mind"

The conservative Sunday Dispatch, however, withheld direct comment on the merits of the proposal or its possible effects, asserting:

"It would be a striking gesture if, in response to the American offer, the Soviet leaders began to demobilize the store of ant-British and anti-American suspicion that they have thought it policy to create in the mind of the Soviet people."

The newspaper said the "mass-production mind of Russia's millions (was) a greater menace than the atom."

The Sunday Times said, "the preservation of unity may be helped."

"Will Russia Accept That?"

The Sunday Chronicle said atomic control by an international body, as Baruch proposed, was "an essetnial safeguard," and added:

"With the secret shared . . . the doors must be flung open, the iron curtain lifted. Will Russia accept that? There can little doubt that Britain will welcome it cordially."

The Observer said the proposal "may be the staff and prop of a tottering world order."

News of the World said of the proposal: "There could be more more powerful deterrent to any nations which may even now be planning world domination through the use of atomic power."

French Silent On A Plan

JUN 16 1946

Paris, June 15 (AP)—The French press failed to comment this morning on the United States proposal to scrap its stock of atom bombs in return for a world accord on permanent peace.

Only two of seventeen morning newspapers, Liberation and Combat, gave the story top play. Three papers failed to carry the story.

More U.S. Arms Held Need In A-Control Plan

Frankfurt, June 15 (AP)—Officers in Gen. Joseph T. McNarney's headquarters commented unofficially today that if atomic energy is to be internationally controlled, as proposed by Bernard M. Baruch yesterday, the United States "unquestionably" would have to increase its air and ground forces in Europe.

These officers suggested that American superiority of the atomic field made it possible to maintain fewer armed forces abroad at present than otherwise might be necessary.

There was no official comment from McNarney or his staff to the Baruch proposal for outlawing the atom bomb. Brig. Gen. George S. Eyester, public relations chief, said:

"The proposal is a highly governmental issue and we cannot make any statement."

Atomic Scientists Back Baruch Plan

JUN 16 1946

Chicago, June 15 (AP)—Atomic Scientists of Chicago, Inc., an organization of most of the men who worked on the atomic bomb at the University of Chicago, today pledged support "in the fullest measure" to Bernard Baruch's proposal for an international authority "which is to develop atomic energy and which is an essential first step in the prevention of war."

The group's executive committee in a statement said that "the proposal is based on recognition of the fact that the atomic bomb has placed the whole of humanity, ourselves included, in deadly peril from which we can escape only if we make the most sincere effort to work for unity between nations.

"Highly Gratifying"

"It is highly gratifying that the United States delegate should take the first forceful step toward establishing law to which all men should be subject so that all of us can live in freedom and in peace. Baruch's message [to the atomic commission of the United Nations yesterday] proposed a world authority; the authority's duties of inspection and control of atomic development are incidental to more positive activities. . . .

"Men from many walks of life who have been cognizant of the essential facts and who have studied the question have come to the conclusion that a plan such as this is necessary.

"Peace Or Destruction"

"We are confident that as other groups give serious consideration to the problem a general agreement will emerge. We recognize that any action in the international sphere is to some extent a gamble but we are all ready in this game where our only choice lies between destruction and peace."

Members of the executive committee who signed the statement are Edward Teller, T. R. Hogness, chairman; C. A. Hutchison, N. G. Mayer, Robert Moon, A. H. Jaffey, M. S. Freedman, Harrison Brown and Aaron Novick.

EUROPE'S CAMPS HIDE POLITICS, SOVIET CHARGES

JUN 16 1946

Yugoslav Demand for Probe of U. S. British Control Starts U. N. Clash

New York, June 15—(AP)—The United States and Great Britain clashed with Russia today in the United Nations Economic and Social Council in debate touched off by an assertion of the Soviet delegate that the refugee problem has "now acquired a political significance."

Nikolai J. Feonov, Russia's representative, implied that the United States and Great Britain did not want "certain facts" to come to light as he supported a Yugoslav demand for an on-the-spot investigation of the refugees' camps in Europe.

Interest 'Humanitarian'

John G. Winant, U. S. delegate, took the floor immediately to retort that "my country's interest in refugees is humanitarian and only that." And then added:

"We never used the plight of refugees for political motivation and I know the camps in the U. S. area have been subject to inspection from other countries involved, including all countries now occupying territory in Austria and Germany."

Hector McNeil, British delegate, followed this by declaring:

"There is nothing sinister in the attitude of my government. We don't object to inspections. We make no attempt to hide anything."

Then referring to the Soviet delegate directly, McNeil added:

"Feonov knows that provision is made for field inspections. We have precisely proposed machinery for inspections.

However, we think the distress and privations of people must come before police hunting. We must put our compassion before our anger."

Army Training Charged

Leo Mattes, Yugoslav delegate, had offered a resolution for a fact-finding body to look into his charges that the camps harbored quislings and condoned training of units of the Royal Yugoslav Army. He proposed naming representatives of the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France, Poland and Yugoslavia to the committee.

"I fail to see why it is dangerous to study conditions in these camps," Feonov said. "It is perhaps desired in certain quarters that certain facts not be brought to light. . . .

"I would like to know what are the motives of the countries opposing this inspection committee."

After being seconded by Russia, the Yugoslav plan was tabled to await its turn in the order of Council business as discussions continued on the report on refugees and displaced persons.

Molotov Yields To Add Austria To Big 4 List

JUN 16 1946

Reversal of Position Brings Optimism as Council Reconvenes—Molotov Urges Study of Unrest in Italy in Case Intervention Is Needed

Paris, June 15 — (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov agreed today to add Austria to the foreign ministers conference agenda, then insisted that the Italian political situation be watched to prevent a regrowth of fascism into full scale civil war, American and British informants said.

In a sudden and surprising concession as the ministers reopened their discussions on peace treaties with former enemy states, Molotov reversed Soviet policy as expressed throughout sessions last month and consented to study Austria as "a problem."

Molotov objected to confining the Austrian question to the American-sponsored draft treaty which Washington had circulated among the other powers—France, Russia and Britain.

He maintained that recent events in Italy reflected an attempt by monarchists and fascists to overthrow the republic, and cited the Declaration of Moscow in 1943 to justify Allied intervention in Italian affairs to prevent a rebirth of fascism, American informants said.

In 1943 the Foreign Ministers of Britain, the United States and Russia issued a declaration on Italy saying that fascism must be destroyed and the Italians given an opportunity to have representative government.

Step To Intervention

The Soviet Foreign Minister asked the council to add the Italian situation to the agenda as a preliminary to intervention if events justified such a course.

U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes replied that the United States had no objection if events really justified such action, but added that official information available to the United States showed that the Italian Government now had the situation in hand and was successfully upholding the republic, American sources said.

The suggestion to place Austria on the agenda as a "simple problem" was made by the French, and Molotov concurred. Austria was placed on the agenda for discusion after consideration of peace treaties with Italy, Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary, and a study of the German problems. The Italian political problem will follow Austria.

The ministers met for two and a half hours in their initial session, then adjourned until Monday.

Byrnes, author of the American proposals on Austria, suggested, as in the first half of the session, that Austria be included within the scope of the conference.

Hinting that he expected this session to be long and arduous, Molotov remarked that the council had many things to discuss which would take a lot of time.

Treaties Come First

He said the Russians preferred to wait until later in the session to see if the powers could agree on treaties, then take up Austria if there was sufficient time remaining, the American informant said.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin then said the conference should decide today on inclusion of Austria in order to remove all possible doubts and misunderstandings later as to whether Austria could be mentioned.

The French suggestion for consideration of the Austrian problem was finally accepted.

Molotov's concession on Austria, which the United States views as the key to a settlement in central Europe, injected an upsurge of optimism in conference circles.

The American informant said that at one point Molotov suggested that the conference ask the Italian government's opinion on economic clauses of the proposed treaty—that is, on reparations which Russia up to now has insisted should be heavy.

Byrnes commented that such a request might embarrass the Italian government at this time, and the conference decided to see the deputies' report on economic clauses first.

Molotov's actions caused speculation whether they constituted a prelude to a new Russian policy on Italy, involving a reversal on Trieste and Yugoslav boundary issues as well.

It was agreed that the deputies would meet Monday at 10 A. M. (6 A. M., D.S.T.) and the ministers at 3 P. M. (11 A. M. D.S.T.).

Move Rumored

As they began their conference some informants expressed the belief that the United States had prepared a dramatic move which would lead either to a satisfactory compromise or a complete break with the system of major power unanimity.

These sources said that if there was a break in the system of unanimity, which dates back to the Yalta and Potsdam conferences, it would entail federalizing the American, British and possibly French zones of occupation within Germany without Soviet participation, and an appeal from the ministers' council to the United Nations General Assembly to decide disputed treaty issues.

In Washington, French Ambassador Henri Bonnet has been called to Paris to assist the French delegation in the Big Four Foreign Ministers conference.

At Conference

Paris, June 15 (AP)—The Foreign Ministers of France, Great Britain, Russia and the United States resumed their efforts today to write peace treaties for Nazi Germany's satellite nations and to find a means of bridging the chasm between eastern and western Europe.

The four ministers, who with their expert advisers reconvened this afternoon at the Luxembourg Palace, are James F. Byrnes of the United States, Ernest Bevin of Britain, V. M. Molotov of Russia and Georges Bidault of France.

To Try To Break Impasse

They will attempt to break the impasse which prevented them from writing the peace treaties at their last session here, which lasted from April 25 to May 17.

Deputy Foreign Ministers have spent the last four weeks trying to narrow the disagreement between the "Big Four." The story of their lack of success is written in a long report, which they finished this morning.

Presentation Delayed

The necessity of proof-reading and typing the three-language copies of the document, however, precluded its presentation to the Ministers this afternoon. An American source said the Italian peace treaty would be the first item of business.

American circles said the Ministers were just as deadlocked today on how the peace treaties should be written as they were when they left Paris less than a month ago.

Sources close to Byrnes said that Washington and Moscow had not exchanged any diplomatic notes on the proposed treaties in the interim between the meetings.

Reds Ignore Austria Plan

The United States has sent a draft of a proposed treaty with Austria to the other governments, the American sources disclosed, but Moscow has not replied.

In the face of the apparent deadlock, it was problematical how long the session would continue.

To Demand Quick Action,

Despite recent accusations by Molotov that the United States and Britain had formed a bloc aimed at imposing their will on Russia, the two western nations were expected to press for quick action on peace treaties, freedom of transport on the Danube, evacuation of armies from Austria and the Balkans, and restoration of a semblance of Government in Germany without giving Germany a chance to menace Europe again.

Bevin has declared himself in favor of the prompt writing of peace treaties—perferably in agreement with Russia, but without Russia if necessary. Byrnes has said he would place the whole problem before the United Nations, if the Big Four fail to agree.

It seemed certain that Molotov would renew his demands that Trieste be ceded to Yugoslavia. Persons close to Byrnes, said that he would continue to stand pat on his assertion that Trieste must remain Italian. The United States also will renew its request for a four-Power pact to supervise Germany and to prevent the rearmament of that country, American spokesmen said. When Byrnes first proposed the treaty at the last Big Four session, he said it had been approved in principle by Stalin. Molotov, however, opposed the pact, and implied later that it was not now approved by Stalin, in its present form.

U. S., RUSSIAN ZONES SIGN TRADE ACCORD

JUN 16 1946

German Economic Chiefs Agree to Exchange of Products—Food Question Deferred

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, June 15—A two-day meeting here between the German State Economic Ministers of the United States and Soviet occupation zones resulted in an agreement for a quarterly exchange of products amounting to 100,000,000 Reichsmarks ($10,000,000), it was announced last night.

This agreement is intended to spur the comparative trickle of trade between the zones.

While characterizing the agreement as a stopgap, United States Military Government officials were optimistic that it would be fulfilled.

They especially hailed the establishment of a permanent joint committee of German administrators to sponsor execution of the program and to further trade between German merchants and manufacturers in each zone.

Previous Agreement Negligible

A previous United States-Soviet zonal trade agreement amounted to only 19,000,000 marks.

Specifically the new United States-Soviet zone deal called for exchange of such Russian zone products as Buna rubber, film, X-ray bulbs and tractors in return for United States zone tires and tubes, dyes, electrodes, steels and electric motors.

On a proposal for exchange of food products representatives of the Soviet zone were noncommittal, a United States spokesman said.

Europe Study Report Says Hitler Foresaw Allied Rift

JUN 16 1946

'Scorched Earth' Policy Was Scrapped to Save Plants

LONDON, June 15 (AP).—The International Committee for the Study of European Questions said today that Adolf Hitler quickly abandoned his "scorched earth" policy in 1945, in a belief that postwar political disagreement among the Allies would save German industry for the future. The committee, in a report, recommended internationalization of the Ruhr as a safeguard against future aggression.

The group, which is non-partisan, was formed eighteen months ago to co-ordinate the efforts of Allied governments and private individuals toward peace. The report, made public here, was submitted to the members of the current Foreign Ministers' conference at Paris. Primarily a private organization, its membership includes Conservative and Laborite members of the British Parliament, as well as continental political leaders.

The report made these further statements:

Before the German collapse, some kind of staff was set up by the I. G. Farben Industrie in a neutral country and this staff now is trying to control again the network of its agents throughout the world. This followed a plan formed by German industrialists in 1944.

Intelligence reports indicate that 652 economic leaders were ordered to leave Germany and seek work in neutral countries to prepare for rehabilitation of the Reich. Only a few of them have been captured, and the names of most are unknown.

CUBAGE FINED, REPRIMANDED

JUN 16 1946

Many Counts Again Lichfied Officer Stricken Out

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 15 (AP)—A military court today convicted Lieut. Granville Cubage of permitting "unauthorized punishment," including beatings with clubs, on American-soldier prisoners at Lichfield, England, fined him $250 and administered a reprimand.

The tall, blond, 27-year-old lieutenant from Oklahoma City, Okla., the first officer to be convicted in the Lichfield trials, flushed as the verdict was announced by Col. Mastin G. White, Tyler (Texas) court president.

But the former Oklahoma University student's relief became increasingly obvious as he heard the court strike out one after another of the original counts against him.

He had been accused of authorizing and permitting cruel and unusual punishment, including beatings of 38 specifically named prisoners.

The court which had deliberated for three hours, modified radically the original charge, eliminating all reference to cruel or unusual punishment, and clearing him personally of aiding in any improper punishment.

The court held him guilty of "wrongfully and unlawfully performing his duties as a prison officer, in that he authorized imposition of unauthorized punishment, which punishment consisted of striking prisoners with clubs, forcing them to stand with nose and toes against the wall for protracted periods and requiring them to endure silent mess."

Six officers and ten enlisted men were involved in the Lichfield trials. Three enlisted men have been convicted, with their sentences ranging from a $60 fine to a three-year prison term.

During Cubage's two-week trial 25 prosecution witnesses told stories of prisoners in the United States Army detention barracks at Lichfield being kicked and beaten with clubs, fists and rifle butts. The defense charged "interference" and "pressure" by high army officials, a high light was the refusal of nineteen witnesses to testify in protest against their treatment by the Army.

The trial produced no evidence that Cubage had personally administered any improper punishment. Much of the debate centered on the question of whether Cubage was responsible for the admittedly severe disciplinary methods employed at Lichfield. He denied ordering any cruelties insisting, like the three enlisted men convicted before him, that higher ranking officers dictated Lichfield policies. Col. James A. Kilian, former commander of the 10th Replacement Depot at Lichfield, is one of the defendants yet to be tried.

LICHFIELD OFFICER IS FINED $250

JUN 16 1946

Bad Nauheim, June 15 (A. P.),—Lieut. Granville Cubage of Oklahoma City was reprimanded and fined $250 today upon his conviction by an American military court of authorizing and permitting "unauthorized punishment" of American soldier prisoners at the detention camp barracks at Lichfield, England.

Cubage was the first officer to be convicted in the Lichfield trial which involve six officers and ten enlisted men. Three enlisted men have been convicted and their sentences range from a $60 fine to a three-year prison term.

Cubage had been accused originally of authorizing, aiding and permitting cruel and unusual punishments, but the court modified the charge in its verdict, eliminating all reference to cruel and unusual punishments and clearing the officer of giving personal aid in any improper discipline. He was held guilty of "wrongfully and unlawfully performing his duties as a prison officer in that he authorized the imposition of unauthorized punishment, which punishment consisted of striking prisoners with clubs, forcing them to stand with nose and toes against the wall for protracted periods and requiring them to endure silent mess."

Cubage denied ordering the cruelties. He insisted that higher ranking officers dicated the policies at the detention camp.

Cubage was "merely a messenger boy," argued his attorney, Lieut. Col. William E. Parker, of East Hampton, Mass.

"Cubage set in motion a system of brutality," charged the prosecutor, Capt. David M. Proctor, Jr., of Kansas City, Mo. "Whether he got that policy from his superiors is immaterial. An officer is not released of responsibilities for illegal acts because he acted under direction from above."

Border-Crossing Trial Slated For Fischer

Frankfurt, Germany, June 15 (AP). George Fischer, president of the Bavarian Communist party, has been removed from the German Government of Bavaria and will be tried on charges of illegally crossing into Soviet-occupied Germany, the Dana news agency reported from Munich.

Dana quoted American military government officers as saying Fischer and four other Communist party leaders crossed from American to the Russian zone without permission.

A Communist party statement said Fischer—who has been removed from his post as Under Secretary of the Ministry of Economics—crossed the border with his colleagues to attend a party meeting in Berlin. The party declared American authorities had refused him permission several times.

Exchange Of Displaced Germans Ends June 30

British Rhine Army Headquarters, Germany, June 15 (AP)—"Operation Honeybee"—the exchange of displaced Germans between Russian and British occupation zones—will cease June 30, it was announced officially today.

The exchange began last October, and up to June 6, 1,636,000 Germans from Soviet territory had entered the British zone, while 495,000 had moved in the reverse direction.

The heavier westward flow had its origin in the wartime evacuation of Ruhr industrial workers to the east to escape Allied bombing raids.

Justice Jackson Silent On Truman's Statement

Stockholm, June 15—(AP)—President Truman's statement on the Supreme Court controversy brought "no comment" today from Justice Robert H. Jackson.

The President, at a Washington news conference yesterday, said he had suggested that Jackson hold up his criticism of Justice Hugo L. Black until the President had a chance to talk to Jackson about the matter. Jackson, asked today if he wished to discuss this, said:

"I desire to make no comment at all."

Jackson, on vacation from the Nuernberg war crimes trial, was here as a guest of the Swedish minister of justice.

FRENCH MAY NAME AURIOL PRESIDENT

Paris, June 15 (A. P.).—The new French Constituent Assembly has fixed next Wednesday for the election of a President of France, with Socialist Vincent Auriol looming as a compromise candidate in the event that Foreign Minister Georges Bidault should fail to form a government.

Auriol, who was president of the previous assembly, was re-elected last night by a vote of 466 to 28. He was the only candidate, but Francisque Gay of the M. R. P. (Popular Republican Movement) received fifteen votes and other deputies won thirteen.

Whether the election of a new President actually will take place on Wednesday depends upon the Communist party, which has not yet announced its stand on participation in the new government.

If the communists should decline to enter a government led by the M. R. P., which emerged from the recent election as the dominant party in France, the socialists might reverse their decision against accepting power and put forth a compromise candidate such as Auriol, or perhaps Felix Gouin, the retiring president.

Communists Suggest Return to Tripartite Cabinet Under Socialist

Paris, June 15—(AP)—The threat of a serious new French political crisis developed today as the Communist Party gave signs of balking at a government headed by Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, whose Popular Republican Movement (MRP) holds the largest bloc of seats in the new constituent assembly.

Speakers at a meeting of the party's central committee advocated a return to the formula of a tripartite cabinet directed by a Socialist and raised a familiar Communist demand for one of three key ministries: foreign affairs, interior or national defense.

It was such a demand that precipitated a crisis last Fall when General De Gaulle was attempting to form a cabinet.

De Gaulle will speak tomorrow in Normandy at ceremonies commemorating his 1944 arrival in France, and there were rumors that he might break his silence on domestic political affairs.

If the anti-MRP sentiment is consolidated in a formal vote at the Communists' meeting tomorrow, two main courses will be left open to give France quickly a government she needs during the crucial foreign ministers' conference.

The Socialists may reverse their decision not to take the presidency and consent to mediate the crisis.

The MRP may try to govern with a wholly MRP cabinet.

The MRP's executive committee today reiterated its confidence in Bidault and expressed the hope that next Wednesday the assembly could unite behind his candidacy.

Bordeaux Arms Cache Is Probed

JUN 16 1946

Paris, June 15 (AP)—The Ministry of the Interior said tonight in a communiqué that apparently an international traffic in arms crossing France had been uncovered with the finding of 40 tons of guns and ammunition in a chateau near Bordeaux.

An inquiry, in which British police joined French officials, continued in an effort to determine the origin and the destination of the weapons.

So far only a grounds keeper at the chateau, Jean Boschwitz, has been held by police for questioning. The Ministry said that from his statements the cache appeared to represent international traffic in weapons.

A number of unconfirmed accounts, purporting to explain the cache, circulated. The newspaper Gironde Populaire hinted at an escape plot from a prison which confines members of the former Vichy militia. The Press Agency reported that the chateau was occupied by the ORT, a group sheltering Jews attempting to get to Palestine. It said that eight trucks delivered 600 cases of arms and ammunition there on June 2.

U.S. MIHAILOVIC WITNESSES OUT

JUN 16 1946

Testimony From Foreigners Is "Not Needed," Court Rules

Belgrade, June 15 (AP)—A defense request that American aviators be permitted to testify for Gen. Draja Mihailovic was refused by the military court today after the bearded Chetnik leader himself declared he did not agree "in principle" with such a move.

Mihailovic also repudiated his testimony yesterday admitting collaboration, telling the court today "I never collaborated with the enemy. That means agreement with the enemy. That was never."

He said he was exhausted when he answered "yes" to questions put to him by the prosecutor the day before.

Decision Is No Surprise

In an oral decision denying the request to summon the American witnesses, the president of the court trying Mihailovic on charges of treason and collaboration said:

"We have many documents and witnesses from our country and witnesses are not needed from foreign lands."

The court president asserted that men who were in Yugoslavia only a short time would not be as valuable witnesses as those who knew the situation thoroughly.

The decision was not a surprise, since the Yugoslav Government previously had turned down a request that Americans be permitted to testify as to the anti-Nazi attitude of Mihailovic.

American On Defense List

Defense Attorney Jovan Djonovic had proposed that the court summon as witnesses Capt. Walter Mansfield, of New York, a member of the United States military mission attached to Chetnik headquarters; Mike Merkur and J. K. Levin, airmen rescued by the Chetniks, and W. L. Rogers, president of the Committee for the Defense of Mihailovic. Mansfield was the first United States officer parachuted into Yugoslavia.

Under court questioning Mihailovic said he would "like time to consider" the proposal, but the court replied: "This is a matter which does not need reflection. Do you agree that these witnesses shall appear or not?"

"In principle I do not agree with the proposal," Mihailovic answered.

Prosecution Objects Vigorously

Later he declared that the prosecutor "used this opportunity to attack me. He should understand these men could bring much in my defense, but in principle I do not agree."

The prosecution, objecting vigorously to permitting the Americans to testify, declared that what they would have to say would be in contradiction to Mihailovic himself. The statement caused thunderous applause from the courtroom audience.

Mihailovic made it plain today that he did not feel that he could be accused of collaboaration even though commanders of his Chetnik units had pursued such a course.

"Through these obvious collaborations of your commanders did you feel that you also collaborated?" the defense asked.

"No," was the reply.

The Chetnik leader asserted that he had sought mediation by the Red Army in Yugoslavia just before the war's end and also in 1944.

The prosecution asked Mihailovic: "Did you fight against the National Liberation movement (of Tito) as a fight against communism or for some other reason?"

"I have nothing against communism," Mihailovic replied.

Mihailovic declared that the Germans had placed a price on his head "that was highest in 1943" and never ceased offering a reward for his apprehension. He said that he had given orders for the execution of several persons because they "worked for the Germans."

How He Was Captured Ruled Out

The court president prevented Mihailovic from answering a question as to how his capture took place—something that has not been disclosed.

"The defense is interested in knowing how you were captured," Mihailovic's attorney said to the defendant.

The court president interrupted, declaring: "If the defense is interested, let him bring it up at his private conference with the accused. It has nothing to do with the case."

Mihailovic Court Bars Calling Of U.S. Flyers

JUN 16 1946

Belgrade, June 15 (AP)—The Yugoslav military court trying Gen. Draja Milhailovic on charges of treason and collaboration refused a defense request today to call United States aviators as witnesses.

The request was opposed not only by the prosecutor, but by Mihailovic himself. "In principle, I disagree," Mihailovic said.

The court dismissed the proposals by saying to the defense, "Go on with your questioning."

Prosecutor's Objection

The public prosecutor, opposing the proposal, said that what the Americans would have to testify would be in contradiction to the testimony of Mihailovic himself.

The defense had proposed that the court call Capt. Walter Mansfield, of New York, a former member of the American military mission to Mihailovic; Mike Mekur and J. K. Levin, airmen saved by the Chetniks, and W. L. Rogers, president of the Committee for Defense of Mihailovic.

Questioned about the proposal, Mihailovic said: "I would like time to consider it."

"They Could Bring Much"

"This is a matter which does not need reflection," the court president said. "Do you agree that these witnesses should appear or not?"

"In principle I do not agree with the proposal," the defendant replied. Later he added: "The prosecutor has used this opportunity to attack me. He should understand that these men could bring much in my defense, but in principle I do not agree."

The courtroom rang with applause when the prosecutor said the airmen's testimony would contradict Mihailovic, and the president called for order.

Collaboration Disputed

The defense attorney said he had received a cable from the United States stating that the witnesses sought to testify that Mihailovic did not collaborate with the enemy. The message was sent from New York June 12 and received June 13.

Mansfield was the first American officer parachuted into Yugoslavia.

Mihailovic denied he had ever collaborated with the enemy.

The defense attorney said the airmen were ready to fly from the United States and could arrive in three days.

Letter From American

Mihailovic testified that at the time of his capture he carried on his person a letter from an American air force commander thanking him for saving airmen, and the defense asked that this document be produced.

"You had opportunity to examine the evidence," the court president said. "Why don't you produce it?"

"We did not have time," the defense attorney retorted.

The letter was not produced.

Mihailovic's Admission

Mihailovic yesterday admitted collaboration; today the defense said the admission, made during the latter part of a seven-hour court session, came "at a time of physical exhaustion." Today's testimony that he did not collaborate was given early in the session and he was calm, the attorney said.

"Today's denial," the prosecutor replied, "could not be taken seriously. We have documents in his own handwriting. His previous admission was not even necessary."

"I never collaborated with the enemy," Mihailovic told the court today. "Collaboration means an agreement with the enemy. There never was one."

Explains His Meaning

He explained that in his testimony yesterday he had used the term "war intrigue" in describing a letter he wrote in which he said "the Italians helped us well," to cover a time when "three enemy forces are in battle and sometimes two are on one side without any agreement."

"Through these obvious collaborations of your commanders did you feel you also collaborated?" defense counsel asked.

"No," replied the Chetnik leader.

On Contradictions

Mihailovic had admitted under questioning yesterday that he had collaborated personally with the enemy. In answer to a question at that time by the prosecutor as to whether he regarded the letter as collaboration, Mihailovic had answered affirmatively.

The defendant testified today that there were contradictions in his statements which he attributed to physical exhaustion.

"My exhaustion is expressed in my terminology but not in my yes and no answers," he said. "You can see by the record that there are contradicitions, which I don't like."

Anemia Reported

The point was brought out in questioning by Defense Attorney Jovan Djonovic, who also drew from the accused the statement that he is suffering from anemia.

The court interrupted with: "I don't see why you ask such questions."

"Because of his mental state," Djonovic replied.

"I don't see the reason for such questions, which have no connection with the matter under discussion," the court said. "It is not impossible that with such a great number of events you should make contradictory statements."

Italy's Crisis Gone In Wake Of King

JUN 16 1946

Rome, June 15 (AP)—As fast as it blew up, Italy's political crisis apparently had blown over today.

No new instances of disorder were reported, and the flight into exile of King Umberto II had ceased even to be a subject of frequent debate on Rome streets.

Apparently in deference to the wishes of Interior Minister Giuseppe Romita, there were no celebrations of the King's departure or of the defacto advent of the republic.

Even Press Calms Down

Even the tone of the press was more moderate today. Leftist newspapers yesterday [illegible] such epithets as "traitor" [illegible] the King. Today t[illegible]ly partisan com[illegible] Communist Un[illegible] headline about [illegible] Rebel Hunted Away [illegible]

In contrast was the tone [illegible] Socialist Avanti, which praised yesterday's unity speech by Premier Alcide de Gasperi and urged interparty harmony in the interest of the new republic.

Anders's Corps Swears To 'Continue Struggle'

Soon To Be Demobilized, They'll Fight On 'for Freedom'

ROME, June 15 (AP).—Members of the Polish 2d Corps took an oath today to "continue our struggle for the freedom of Poland," regardless of conditions in which we shall have to live and act."

Throughout Italy, at Polish cemeteries and camps, the members of the corps—who this month will begin their demobilization and transfer to Great Britain—held religious services.

Their declaration, signed by their commander, Lieutenant General Wladslaw Anders, was bitter toward what it termed "the Soviet occupation of Poland," and expressed disappointment at present Allied treatment of the corps, which, it said, "was not in accord with the spirit of alliance and friendship."

Spanish Border Parleys Reported

Madrid, June 15 (AP)—Authorized Spanish sources said tonight that negotiations were under way to reopen the French frontier, closed on French initiative since March 1, except for the month of April.

Spanish Government officials appeared pleased with the result of the recent French elections and interpreted the gains of the Popular Republican Movement party as a defeat of elements disposed to take unilateral anti-Franco action.

Negotiations to reopen the frontier have been rumored since the elections.

2 Spaniards Sentenced To Death In Bomb Case

Madrid, June 15 (AP)—A military court today sentenced to death two Spaniards charged with placing bombs in the German and Spanish information offices.

Ordered shot to death were Juan Léon Encinas and Julian Sanchez Fernandez, alleged leaders of a group of five Communists. Their sentences must first be approved by Lieut. Gen. Agustin Muñoz Grandes, captain of the general Madrid area.

Three others were sentenced to prison for terms of 12 to 25 years for complicity.

U.S. Is Dissatisfied With Romanian Reply

Bucharest, June 15 (AP)—United States and British diplomatic representatives here, acting on instructions from their Governments, have handed similar notes to the Romanian Government expressing dissatisfaction with Romania's reply to British-American protests of Romania's "non-fulfillment" of the Moscow agreement.

One source said the United States note declared the Romanian reply was "wholly inadequate" in view of the present situation in this country and "contains a number of inaccuracies."

Treaty With Russians Pleases Afghan Envoy

JUN 16 1946

Moscow, June 15 (AP)—Sultan Ahmed Khan, Afghan Ambassador to the U. S. S. R., said today the newly disclosed treaty revising the Russian-Afghan border, which cedes the Kushkan area to the Soviet Union, alloted to Russia a territory which "lies within the Soviet Union's natural boundaries."

"My country is happy over the agreement ending the discussion of this question," the Ambassador added.

Ahmed praised the attitude of Prime Minister Stalin and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov toward Afghanistan. He said Stalin was "most kind" when he received him June 6.

The new treaty recognizes Afghan rights to midstream boundaries along the hundreds of miles of the Amuarya and Pyandzh rivers and Afghan owenrship of numerous river islands previousl yconsidered under Soviet sovereignty.

British Stop And Search Ship For Jerusalem's Grand Mufti

JUN 16 1946

Robert Reit

London, June 15 (AP)—The British transport Devonshire was stopped and searched off Port Said in a determined British hunt for the missing Grand Mufti, of Jerusalem, an Admiralty spokesman announced tonight.

"The Government is taking all possible steps to prevent the Mufti, of Jerusalem, from reaching the Middle East, and the search of the Devonshire was one of the routine measures made necessary by the news that he escaped from France," the spokesman said.

Syrian Premier Spikes Rumors

In Syria, meanwhile, Premier Saadbullah Bey Jabiri, taking cognizance of widespread rumors that the Mufti, Haj Amin el Husseini, was in hiding there, announced that neither his Government nor any official thereof "has any knowledge" of the whereabouts of the spiritual leader of Palestine's Arabs.

NIGHT

Innumerable rumors followed upon the disclosure that the Mufti had disappeared mysteriously late in May from his place of exile in France, and there have been frequent reports that he had fled to Damascus at a time when the Arab League was meeting in extraordinary session on the Palestine problem. The Mufti is an outspoken foe of Jewish immigration into Palestine.

The Syrian Premier described as "particularly ridiculous" one recent report that the Mufti was hiding at the home of Syrian President Shukry al Kuwatly.

Premier's Denial Emphatic

"Haj Amin el Husseini has not landed at Mezze (Damascus) airdrome either officially or incognito," the Premier said. "He has not crossed the Syrian frontier at any frontier post, either officially or incognito. Upon that rests the honor of the Syrian Government."

The Admiralty spokesman declined to say whether any special information on the Mufti's whereabouts led to the search of the Devonshire.

"We don't think he was on it," the spokesman said, adding that after the search of the ship, which had come from Marseille, was allowed to proceed while the destroyer Virago, which had stopped her, dashed southward through the Suez Canal.

A senior British naval officer at Port Said refused to give out any information about the Devonshire, asserting that "this is now a priority secret."

"To Continue A Mystery"

Jerusalem, June 16 (AP)—Dr. Izzat Tannous, secretary of the Arab Higher Committee, said today he believed the whereabouts of the Mufti of Jerusalem "will continue to be a mystery. I believe the Mufti does not want anyone to know where he is—not even Arabs."

Asked whether the Mufti, Haj Amin El Husseini, might be in Saudi Arabia, Tannous replied: "That would be the safest place for him. At least there, any Jews who wish to do him harm could not reach him."

Tannous expressed belief that not even Jamal Husseini, the Mufti's cousin and reportedly his best friend, knew where the Mufti was.

Brought "Arab Unity Into Open"

He said also that he did not believe that any actions taken at the Bluden (Syria) conference of the Arab League this week were inspired by the Mufti's personal direction, but said the "news of the Mufti's escape was simply a great exciting event which brought (Arab) unity out into the open in the form of universal celebrations and displays throughout the Arab world."

It was unlikely, Tannous continued, that the Mufti's wife, who has remained in a simple home inside the walls of the Old City of Jerusalem since his exile in 1937, had received word of his whereabouts.

Praise For The Mufti

Tannous declared the Mufti "is truly a great and cultured man with the most charming personality I have ever known."

The Mufti now is 53, exercises daily and is lean and strong, he continued.

Tannous said that in Palestine alone the Mufti is considered by more than 90 per cent of Moslems as their spiritual leader. A small number are dissenters because of "personal differences and selfish reasons," he added.

Three hundred thousand Christian Arabs in Palestine also support the Mufti, Tannous said, because the Mufti believes there is no difference between Arabs whether they are Christians or Moslems. Tannous himself is a Christian Arab.

Grand Mufti Linked With Strange Meeting of British Transport and Destroyer.

London, June 15 (A. P.).—Reuters declared in a Cairo dispatch that the British transport Devonshire entered Port Said today with all troops wearing lifejackets and a considerable number of military police on board, after being delayed outside the harbor by unexplained incidents involving a British destroyer.

Refusing to give any information about the Devonshire, a senior British naval officer at Port Said declared: "This is now a priority secret."

When the Devonshire arrived off Port Said yesterday a British destroyer went out to meet her and what seemed to be a boarding party transferred to the transport. That event has been linked by persistent rumors with the movements of the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem who left Paris secretly in late May, Reuters added.

DAY

Voice From 'Damascus.'

Shortly after meeting the transport, the destroyer signaled for a senior British pilot and since none was available at Port Said, a pilot was "rushed up" from Ismailia, the dispatch declared, adding: "Immediately the pilot arrived, the destroyer was given first priority for passage southward down the Suez Canal. This meant that all ships in the canal had to 'tie up' while the destroyer dashed by at high speed.

"How the name of the Grand Mufti came to be linked up with these happenings has yet to be learned. The Reuters correspondent at Port Said received a mysterious telephone cal purporting to come from Damascus. The voice at the other end of the phone said: 'Have you any news of the Devonshire? This is the biggest story here for years.' Then the telephone went dead."

DAMASCUS, Syria, June 15 (AP)—The Premier of Syria, Saadallah al Jabry, announced today that neither his Government nor any official of the Government "has any knowledge of the whereabouts" of the Mufti of Jerusalem, who disappeared mysteriously from his place of exile in France.

The Premier said in an interview:

"Haj Amin el Husseini [the Mufti] has not landed at Mezze [Damascus] airdrome either officially or incognito. He has not crossed the Syrian frontier at any frontier post, either officially or incognito. Upon that rests the honor of the Syrian Government."

Numerous rumors of the whereabouts of the Mufti, spiritual leader of Palestine's Moslems, have placed him in Syria, where the Arab League Council in extraordinary session has been discussing the Palestine recommendations of the Anglo-American Committee of Inquiry on Palestine.

The Syrian Premier described as "particularly ridiculous" one recent report that the Mufti was hiding at the home of Syrian President Shukri al Kuwatly.

U.S. Gives Egypt War-Time Air Base

Cairo to Pay $10,000,000 for Other Surpluses

CAIRO, Egypt, June 15 (AP).—The United States today gave to Egypt its multi-million-dollar wartime air base near Cairo—Payne Field—and agreed to withdraw all uniformed American Army personnel from the country within six months.

In accepting the field, the Egyptian government agreed to the following conditions:

To make the field available to American military aircraft for six months, renewable as may be mutually agreed upon.

To designate the field as a civil airport available for use on a non-discriminatory basis.

To enter into a bilateral transport agreement with the United States "in accordance with the principles of the November, 1944, Civil Aviation Conference at Chicago."

To pay a price officially estimated at $10,000,000 for remaining American military and naval installations and surplus equipment in Egypt.

A joint communique said Payne Field was being made available to American military aircraft, so the United States could maintain communications with its forces in the Orient.

The agreements between the two countries, including the air transport clause, were signed by the Egyptian Foreign Minister, Lotfi El-Said Pasha, and S. Pinkney Tuck, American Minister to Egypt.

The terms provided that up to 50 per cent of the price Egypt will pay for American installations and surpluses will be used by the United States to purchase real estate or other property for the American Legation and Consulates in Egypt. The remainder will be paid in Egyptian bonds for use by the United States to meet expenses of its representatives here, to purchase Egyptian cotton and for other purposes.

'Last Word' To India

New Delhi, June 15 (AP)—The British Cabinet mission will announce tomorrow its "last word" on Indian independence, probably stating an "imposed peace" over the All-India Congress party's objections to the proposed composition of an interim government, an authoritative informant said today.

The Cabinet mission conferred for three hours today with Viceroy Lord Wavell after reliable sources said the Congress party had rejected British proposals for parity between the Hindus and Moslems in the interim regime.

The Congress party also was said to have objected to the compulsory grouping of provinces during the transition period and to the participation of European delegates in India's constitutional convention.

"Cannot Go On Indefinitely"

The informant declared that "once again Britain has been forced against its will to take decisive action. These weeks of misunderstanding and failure to agree (among the contending factions) cannot go on indefinitely."

The Moslem League, the other major Indian party, has accepted the British independence proposals, while making it clear that the league still sought its ultimate goal of a separate Moslem state (Pakistan).

Letters explaining the position of the Cabinet mission, which came here to arrange for independence, will be sent today to leaders of both the Congress party and Moslem League, the informant said.

Hints As To Wavell's Plan

Details of the new plan were not disclosed, but there were hints that Lord Wavell might either attempt the formation of a new government, or call upon an outstanding member of the Congress party to name Hindu members of a cabinet to serve with Moslems nominated by the head of the Moslem League, Mahomed Ali Jinnah.

C. Rajagopalachari, former Congress party Premier of Madras, conferred with the Congress party working committee today. He was invited here by Lord Pethick-Lawrence, head of the Cabinet mission, in what was believed to be the role of mediator.

It was understood that the British delegation, when meeting with the Viceroy, also made contact with Pirme Minister Attlee.

The Congress party working committee held a seven-hour session today, and Vallabhai Patel, of the committee, left for a conference with the Viceroy, taking a letter of undisclosed nature. The committee had been expected to set forth its position formally in a resolution, but it announced that none had been passed.

Letters detailing the British Cabinet mission's position in the deadlock were reported being transmitted to both the Congress and the Moslem League later today.

"Cannot Go On"

"Once again Britain has been forced against its will to take decisive action," on source said. "These weeks of misunderstanding and failure to agree cannot go on indefinitely."

It appeared unlikely that the Congress would drop its opposition to parity with the smaller Moslem League or would agree to the participation of European delegates in India's constitutional convention, another debated issue.

Session With Viceroy

Members of the cabinet delegation, here to help bring independence to India, met all morning with the Viceroy, Lord Wavell. The subjects of discussion were not disclosed, but were thought to include new supplementary proposals after contact with Prime Minister Attlee in London.

The position of the Congress party's working committee, although not announced formally, was understood to have been given the Viceroy in a letter from Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, party president, rejecting both parity for Moslems and caste Hindus and the compulsory grouping of provinces during the transition period leading to Indian independence.

Bombay, June 15 (A. Siamese Police Report King In Bed When Shot

JUN 16 1946

Bangkok, Siam, June 15 (AP)—King Phumiphon Aduldet presided today over the traditional seventh-day funeral rites for his brother, Ananda Mahidol, while police officials further sought to check whispers circulating in the capital concerning the late monarch's death last Sunday.

Priests intoned ancient Buddhist verses beside a golden urn bearing the remains of their former monarch, while members of the royal family and Government officials attended with traditional gifts of food and flowers.

New information concerning the royal tragedy came to light during an investigative hearing when Police Chief Phra Ramindra told Parliament that the fatal bullet pierced the King's head and pillow. It was the first disclosure that Ananda was reclining at the time of his death.

Report To "Settle The Case"

Officials said a forthcoming report would "settle the case once and forever." Officials who examined the body on the day the death occurred, called the affair accidental.

Police Chief Ramindra said tests of a .45-caliber automatic on a pig's head revealed no powder burns from distances of six inches or more, which, he declared, corroborated the accident theory.

The King's personal physician testified that Ananda already was bandaged when he arrived and all he did was to sew up the gaping head wound.

Looking In Barrel

London, June 15 (AP)—The Siamese Legation said today in a formal statement that King Ananda Mahidol of Siam apparently killed himself by accident last Sunday, while looking in the barrel of a pistol.

Commenting on a police communiqué issued in Bangkok, the legation said:

Because the King was well guarded, "assassination was unlikely," and because of his "constantly serene and happy disposition" there was no reason to assume he died by his own hand.

The legation said the King had been inspecting the gun with which he was killed, looking into its muzzle.

"It would seem that he had once more inspected this automatic in a similar manner, not checking first whether it was loaded or not, and that while doing so he must have touched the trigger and thereby shot himself accidentally in the forehead."

INDONESIANS WARNED ON TROOP MOVEMENT

BATAVIA, Java, June 15 (AP)—Concentrations in the Surabaya area will be liable to air attack unless Indonesian troop train movements cease in that locale by Monday, British military authorities warned today in leaflets dropped by plane.

The leaflets said Indonesian armed forces were being concentrated in the Surabaya neighborhood "contrary to the understanding by Indonesian leaders that Allied troops and Indonesians would do everything to avoid conflicts during negotiations."

A British military spokesman said that 250,000 Japanese had been evacuated from the Netherlands Indies, leaving 34,000. Of these, 7,000 will remain in Java for the time being as laborers.

Japs Abusing U.S. Aid, Reds Say

Moscow, June 15 (AP)—The Government newspaper Izvestia said today that Japanese landlords and speculators were getting rich by selling hoarded rice on the black market while United States occupation authorities imported food in an effort to relieve shortages.

The writer, V. Kudryatsev, said Premier Shigeru Yoshida was interested primarily in preserving the power of the wealthy classes and was using the food situation for the purpose, adding that the Premier's method was to convince General MacArthur that food imports were necessary to prevent "social unpleasantness."

Describing the Premier as a "wily reactionary," Kudryatsev said that in the meantime the Japanese militarists were regaining prestige and "becoming more villainous and dangerous every day."

Reform Declared Blocked

The writer accused Yoshida's government of blocking reform and preventing the peasants from acquiring land, and of strengthening the landlord classes and financiers by permitting black marketing. The solution, he said, lay in "a fierce policy with respect to speculators and all who are hiding big stores of rice," with public control of distribution until agrarian reform could be carried out.

Instead of this, the writer said, "the occupation authorities inspire in every way the importation of food into Japan from the United States," a policy which he said "contradicts the Far Eastern Commission policy."

6 Tojo Defenders Quit In Protest, Report Says

New York, June 15—NBC reported in a Tokyo broadcast today that six members of the Japanese war crimes tribunal defense counsel had resigned, charging they had not been given sufficient time to prepare their case and asserting that continuation of the trial under present conditions would be "a reflection on American justice."

The six attorneys conferred with General MacArthur last week in an effort to persuade him to intervene, but MacArthur refused to act on the grounds that a postponement is a matter for decision by the tribunal itself, the broadcast said.

Return To U.S. Scheduled

Arrangements for their return already have been completed, NBC said, and some of them will leave Tokyo Monday and others will leave by plane Tuesday morning.

The six have expressed an intention to urge a congressional investigation of the trial.

Those listed as resigning were Capt. Beverly Coleman, USNR, Washington, chief defense counsel; Norris H. Allen, St. Louis; Lieut. Valentine B. Deale, USNR, Cleveland; John Ruider, Littleton, N.H.; Lieut. Joseph F. Hynes, Cleveland, and Charles T. Young, Richmond, Virginia.

Matsuoka Sent To Hospital

TOKYO, June 15 (AP)—Former Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, who signed up Japan with Italy and Germany in the Tripartite Pact, was transferred today from Sugamo prison to Tokyo Imperial University Hospital. Suffering from a respiratory infection, he was committed to the hospital by the International Military Tribunal. He is one of twenty-eight major war crimes defendants.

Shidehara Heads Jap War-Probe Group

Tokyo, June 15 (AP)—Japan's own investigation of the war gained impetus today with the announcement of the appointment of former Premier Baron Kijuro Shidehara as president of the War Investigation Commission.

At the same time it was announced that Shidehara, who resigned the premiership last month under political pressure, had been named president of the newly-established demobilization board.

Dr. Hitosha Ashida, former Welfare Minister, was selected as vice minister of the War Investigation Commission. Members include Prof. Seiichi Tohaita, of Tokyo Imperial University; Tadao Ikawa, Co-operative party leader; Foreign Vice Minister Taro Tarazaki, Home Vice Minister Issei Ilmume and Agriculture Vice Minister Vyoshio Kusumi.

Tokyo, June 15 (AP).—Ever since the Americans came and began running the country the Japanese have been talking about their Emperor with unwonted candor.

Now, however, the chief imperial procurator, or prosecutor, is hot after a Communist poster writer and is bent on finding out where freedom of speech ends and lese majeste begins. Lese majeste is insult to the dignity of a ruler.

Chief Procurator Sato holds that Emperor Hirohito still is on the throne, the imperial system is still recognized, and hence lese majeste is both possible and punishable.

Consequently, Sato issued a warrant for the arrest of the Japanese Communist who dreamed up a poster that was flaunted in the May Day food demonstrations and which read like this:

"Imperial rescript: The national policy has been protected and preserved. We are eating to our hearts content. Yet our subjects starve to death."

It was signed "Japan Communist Party, Tanaka Precision Company Cell." Sato wants to get his hands on the author and prosecute him for lese majeste.

death.

It was signed "Japan Communist Party, Tanaka Precision Company cell." Sato wants to get his hands on the author and prosecute him for lese majeste.

Liberals Remonstrate

Three Japanese attorneys described as Liberals called on Sato yesterday and remonstrated: "Lese majeste is based on the spirit that the Emperor is inviolable. But this fundamental spirit is dead."

"The question," Sato replied, "is to what extent this sort of thing should be allowed and to what extent it should be controlled. A lot of newspapers and a lot of political speakers, too, are watching Sato with more than academic interest.

Jap Agrarian Reform Is Allied Council Topic

Tokyo, June 15 (AP)—The Allied Council will meet Monday in special session to discuss Japanese rural land reforms in response to a request from General MacArthur for delegates' comment on that topic.

Two council members, W. MacMahon Ball, representing the British Commonwealth, and Lieut. Gen. Kuzma Derevyanko, of Russia, have already entered proposals which conflict with those presented by the Japanese Government. The latter came in reply to a directive from MacArthur on December 9, 1945, asking the Japanese Government to submit a plan "to exterminate the pernicious ills which have long blighted the agrarian structure" of this nation.

Propose Lower Prices

Ball's and Derevyanko's proposals coincide in spirit. Both said when introducing their proposals that the Japanese Government plan was a failure and would not accomplish the aim of breaking up large holdings for resale to farmers. Both said Government-proposed prices were too high.

The Russian plan includes proposals to purchase all land owned by absentee landlords, to create a land reserve fund for farm loans on the purchase of land, and to limit landowners who actually farm their land to three chocho (about 7½ acres).

Only One Chocho

Ball proposed the "maximum average area of tenant-cultivated land which any "nonoperating landowner may possess should be reduced to one chocho" (2.45 acres).

The British delegate prefaced the introduction of his plan with a quotation from the directive, that "more than three fourths of Japan's farmers are either partially or totally tenants paying rentals amounting to half or more of their annual crops."

Japanese Power Company Yields

Tokyo, June 15 (AP)—The Japan Electric Power Company today granted 80 per cent of the 40,000,000 yen ($2,633,000) food allotment funds demanded by its workers, ending a three-week-old labor dispute and ending the threat of a nation-wide blackout from a strike.

Pacific Passport Ruling Relaxed

Tokyo, June 15 (A. P.).—Allied headquarters announced today that it had learned from the War Department that dependents of military personnel and War Department employees who applied to the State Department for passports need not have them in their possession to be cleared for travel to the Pacific theater. The announcement said that arrangements had been made to permit sailing if applications for passports had been filed with the State Department.

More Officers to Leave Japan

YOKOHAMA, June 15 (AP)—Officers with forty-one months' service as of Aug. 31 have been called to the Yokohama Replacement Depot next Friday for transfer to the United States as soon as shipping is available, the Eighth Army announced today.

Japan's 'CIO' Defies Government Dictum

Tokyo, June 15 (AP)—Japan's version of the CIO today defied the Government's newly-announced policy of cracking down on workers who seize and operate industrial plants in wage disputes.

The executive committee of the National Congress of Industrial Organization, modeled after the American CIO, instructed its 1,000,000 members to ignore any Government attempt to curb the workers.

Yoshida's Announcement

Premier Shigeru Yoshida announced Thursday that if workers persisted in taking over and operating plants the Government would step in and hand over operations to a neutral third party.

The committee agreed to inform member unions, Kyodo News Agency said, to avoid strikes at an hour when production is badly needed in Japan.

Right Reasserted

The committee in emergency session reasserted, however, that its members had a right to assume control and operate plants where management refused union demands, declaring that was the only effective weapon left to the worker.

Yoshida's statement of policy so far lacks any legal backing and no further steps have been taken as yet to outlaw the lockouts, which have been fairly common in Japanese industrial disputes.

NEW PACT CHECKS MANCHURIAN WAR; TSINGTAO NOW SAFE

Communists Announce A New Step Toward Peace

Nanking, June 15 (AP)—Diminishing strife in Manchuria and further relaxation of tension in strategic Tsingtao were reported today as Communists here announced the signing of a new truce-implementation agreement described as a "step toward a permanent cease-fire" in the northeast.

Communist headquarters said the new pact concerned establishment of the advance section of executive (Sino-American truce) headquarters in Changchun, Manchurian capital, and the assignment of field (truce) teams in various areas of the vast northeast territory.

It was signed, the Communist spokesman said, by United States General Marshall, Communist negotiator Chou En-lai and Government representative Gen. Hsu Yung-chang. These three constitute the committee of three formed to seek a settlement of China's prolonged civil strife.

Many Obstacles Seen

"We still have many obstacles and problems before final agreement," the spokesman said, "but the document . . . can be regarded as a concrete step toward a permanent cease-fire in Manchuria." He added that the agreement concerned only Manchuria and that fighting elsewhere in China was "another matter on which we are working."

Meanwhile, an Associated Press dispatch from Peiping reported Generalissimo Chang Kai-shek's Manchurian field commander as saying that serious clashes between Government forces and Communists there had ceased.

It quoted Gen. Tu Li-ming as saying in Changchun that Red forces had withdrawn from Lafachan, southeast of Harbin.

Marine Warning Reported

From Tsingtao another Associated Press dispatch reported categorical assurance against a Communist attack on the city had been given by the Communist field commander, Gen. Chen Yi, after a reported warning that United States Marines stationed there would fight if their positions were fired on.

The Communists had previously announced here on Thursday that an emissary was en route to Shantung with orders halting the Red advance on Tsingtao.

The dispatch said the reported Marine warning to Chen Yi was disclosed by a reliable informant who declined to be identified. This informant said the warning was conveyed by a high-ranking United States Marine officer who was flown to Communist headquarters at Lini, 140 miles southwest of Tsingtao.

In exchange for his categorical assurance Chen asked the Nanking Government not to make use of Tsingtao for Manchuria-bound Nationalist troops.

It was reported that Chen, in a conference with Marine Colonel Cal Larson at Lini, denied vehemently that his forces ever intended to assault Tsingtao. He said the increased Communist activity in towns which fringe the seaport was directed at former Japanese puppet forces.

In southern Hopeh Province the Government relinquished Yungnien to Red forces that had been besieging the city for nine months, Eleventh War Zone headquarters, an Associated Press dispatch from Peiping reported, ordered the Nationalist garrison to halt further resistance to prevent more suffering among the people.

East China Port to Be Held Against Communists, 12 Miles Away.

Tsingtao, June 15 (AP)—Chinese Communists operating twelve miles north of this east China port were reportedly warned today that United States Marines would fight if their positions here were attacked.

A reliable informant said the warning was conveyed by a high-ranking United States Marine officer who was flown to Communist headquarters at Lini, 140 miles southwest of here.

Wang Ping-nan, Communist spokesman in Nanking, meanwhile said Communist troops "do not intend to attack Tsingtao" and had taken only "defensive' measures. He predicted a speedy settlement of the Tsingtao question.

Tension In City Eases

Only minor skirmishes were reported around Tsingtao, meanwhile, and much of the tension inside the city had been eased.

Liberty was granted some marines and United States sailors and a number of Chinese Government troops were seen unarmed in the streets.

The United States consulate announced it had completed plans for protecting 150 Americans and 450 nationals of friendly nations in the event of attack.

A Sailboat Attack

A Chinese Government Central News Agency dispatch asserted without confirmation elsewhere that Communist troops in "several sailboats" tried to attack Tuantam Island near Tsingtao early Friday morning, but were repulsed. The news agency broadcast was heard by the Associated Press listening post in San Francisco.

Reports reaching here said the Chinese Communists' new 4th Army had cut off 45,000 Government troops at Tsinan, Shantung province capital west of here, and the railway city of Weihsien.

In Nanking, United States Envoy General Marshall continued meetings today with Communist General Chou En-lai and Government Ministers, without announced results.

Brig. Gen. Henry Byroade, director of operations at executive headquarters, and Communist Generals Wang Shou-tao and Li Min-jen, will return to Peiping and Changchun tomorrow.

Shanghai Ends 1937 Curfew

SHANGHAI, Sunday, June 16 (AP)—The curfew imposed on Shanghai's 4,000,000 inhabitants since the outbreak of Sino-Japanese hostilities in 1937 was lifted at midnight, but an order requiring all places of amusement to close by 11 P. M. was maintained. The curfew for Allied militay personnel also was lifted, except for the United States Navy, which has not yet acted.

Mukden, June 15 (AP)—United States Reparations Commissioner Edwin W. Pauley arrived here today to begin his survey of Manchurian industry. He was accompanied on the plane from Seoul, Korea, by U. T. Bennett, adviser; G. S. Cart, chief secretary, and American newspaper correspondents.

15 MORE DEAD, 5 INJURED IN LUZON BATTLES

Agrarian Commission Starts Investigating Continued Civil Fighting

Cabanatuan, Luzon, June 15—(AP)—While President Manuel Roxas' newly-appointed agrarian commission met here today in an attempt to discover the cause and remedy for Central Luzon's prolonged civil unrest, new reports of armed clashes were received—with 15 more peasants dead and five wounded.

Battles between anti-Roxas Hukbalahap guerrillas, civil guards and rival USAFFE guerrillas at the villages of San Felipe, Kabaulihan and Camadag—all within 25 miles of this Neuva Ecija provincial capital—were reported by Gov. Isabelo Casteneda.

He said municipal authorities reported 11 Huks slain at San Felipe. Three were killed, Casteneda declared, in a four-hour clash after 150 Huks burned a number of houses. The other fatality was a farmer killed when the Huks opened fire on his house demanding arms, the governor reported.

Some 6,000 members of the Philippine Church of Christ who fled here last month to seek protection from the Hukbalahap, whom they charged were persecuting them, were interviewed today by Buenaventura Lopez, head of the new government's agrarian commission.

The group said many of their number were ill because of congested conditions in their temporary haven in Cabanatuan's East Central School. They requested protection "if we return to the rice paddies."

The church spokesman, the Rev. Lucio Malgapo, said the refugees had eaten all their horses, hogs and poultry and that food supplies were running low. They saved their carabo (water buffalo) for "farming when peace is restored," he added.

Landowners for the church group opposed any plan for redistributing the haciendas among tenants and suggested instead a system in which farmers would be paid wages in place of taking 60 per cent of the crop, as under the present tenancy custom. They advocated use of unemployed on Government projects.

Forrestal Due At Bikini

Aboard U.S.S. Mount McKinley, Bikini, June 15 (AP)—Admiral Blandy, commander of Operations Crossroad, said today that Secretary of Navy Forrestal tentatively plans to arrive at Bikini June 28.

A radio message said the Secretary probably would be accompanied by an aide, Capt. William Smedberg, and not more than six other officers.

Forrestal was scheduled to leave Washington June 24 by air, arriving at Pearl Harbor on June 26 and at Bikini by way of Kwajalein two days later.

While no details were forwarded here it was assumed Forrestal probably would stay for at least the first test of the atom bomb. He will stay aboard the Mount McKinley, Blandy's flagship.

Meanwhile today it was revealed that the Superfortress crew commanded by 30-year-old Major Woodrow P. Swancutt will, barring accidents, drop the first bomb next month. The crew won this honor in grueling competition with four other crack teams at the Twentieth Bomber Command base at Kwajalein.

Brig.-Gen. Roger M. Ramey, commander of the Twentieth, made the recommendation, and Major-Gen. William E. Kepner, the Army's aviation chief at Bikini, said: "I will accept the selection after June 20, always considering as available the other crews if conditions necessitate a change."

Crew Selected To Drop First Bomb at Bikini

JUN 16 1946

Swancutt, Former College Boxing Champion, Will Probably Pilot Plane

ABOARD THE CROSSROADS FLAGSHIP, MT. McKINLEY, June 15 (AP).—Major Woodrow P. Swancutt, national intercollegiate middleweight boxing champion of 1939 and 1940, probably will pilot the atomic bomb plane in the first test at Bikini Atoll next month, under plans announced today.

The thirty-year-old ex-University of Wisconsin boxer and his Super-Fortress crew were recommended for the honor of dropping the bomb after grueling competition with four other specially picked teams of the 20th Bomber Command base at Kwajalein.

Brigadier General Roger M. Ramey, the 20th's commander, recommended Major Swancutt's crew to Major General William E. Kepner, Army chief of aviation in connection with the atomic tests.

General Kepner said he would accept the selection after June 20, "always considering as available the other crews if conditions necessitate a change."

Swancutt flew forty-nine missions in the China-Burma-India theater. In August, 1943, he piloted Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten, Supreme Commander for the Southeast Asia Command, from Quebec to Washington for a conference. His home is Rapid, Wis.

The crew, in addition to Swancutt, is composed of Major Harold W. Wood, thirty, bombardier, Bordentown, N. J.; Captain William Charles Harrison, twenty-five, copilot, Odessa, Tex.; Major Will Adams, thirty-one, navigator, San Bernardino, Calif.; Captain Chenchar, twenty-seven, radar operator, Rock Springs, Wyo.; Lieutenant Robert Glenn, twenty-four, flight engineer, Anderson, S. C.; Technical Sergeant Jack Cothran, radio operator, Gadsden, Ala.; Corporal Roland Modlin, nineteen, Franklin, W. Va., and Corporal Herbert Baker Lyons, twenty-one, Decatur, Ill., scanners.

Alternate crews, who General Ramey said would remain in condition to take over the assignment if they are called, are commanded by Colonel Paul Tibbett, of Orlando, Fla.; Lieutenant Colonel Jack Catton, of Los Angeles, and Lieutenant Clarence McPherson, of Oakmont, Pa.

The battleship New York, long delayed at Kwajalein by an outbreak of dysentery among its crew, arrived at Bikini today and took its station in the target fleet.

Admiral William P. Blandy, commander of the atomic test task force, said about eighty of the crew had been put ashore before the ship left Kwajalein but most of this was precautionary and only a few cases of actual illness were found among the group. All members were expected to join the ship later.

The admiral also said that illness had appeared on two other ships at Bikini, the repair ship Ajax and provision ship Quartz, but in neither instance was any appreciable percentage of the crew affected.

Liberty on shore was stopped for men aboard the two ships until all chances of an epidemic had passed.

The transport Burleson carrying live animals for the bomb test also anchored during the day. Admiral Blandy visited the ship where he said he was "very impressed" by the care being taken of the animals. The Burleson's passengers included about 4,000 rats, 200 pigs, 200 goats and some guinea pigs and mice.

The task-force commander jokingly told the Burleson's staff that if more rats were needed they could be caught aboard the half-wrecked Japanese battleship Nagato where rodents were becoming both plentiful and vicious because of the absence of food.

Colonel Thomas Betts, chief security officer, who boarded the McKinley today, said task-force headquarters in Washington had received about 5,000 protests against the use of animals, including a few letters from England, Canada, Mexico and Cuba.

Admiral Blandy told reporters that the use of animals was essential to safeguarding the armed forces and civilians in any future atomic war.

"There will not be any vivisection," the admiral said. "For such animals as live through the tests all efforts will be made to make them well again."

Admiral Blandy also said that James Forrestal, Secretaray of the Navy, tentatively plans to arrive at Bikini June 28.

A radio message said the Secretary probably would be accompanied by an aide, Captain William Smedberg, and not more than six other officers.

Secretary Forrestal was scheduled to leave Washington June 24 by air, arriving at Pearl Harbor on June 26 and at Bikini by way of Kwajalein two days later.

While no details were forwarded here it was assumed the Navy Secretary probably would stay for at least the first test of the atom bomb. He will stay aboard the Mount McKinley, Admiral Blandy's flagship.

Swancutt's Mother Proud

HEMPSTEAD, L. I., June 15 (AP).—The sixty-one-year-old mother of Major Woodrow P. Swancutt, Army pilot who was recommended to lead the atom bomb crew in the first test at Bikini atoll next month, received the news today with pride and happiness tempered by concern for her son's safety.

"It seems right now I can't say anything," said Mrs. Caroline Swancutt.

But then she laughed and added: "I'm so happy! This is what he wanted. The last time I heard from him he said that I should not worry, that he would be all right. But I can't help worrying. I just can't help it."

Mrs. Swancutt, of La Crosse, Wis., is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Ralph Sloan.

Shore Liberty Stopped

Liberty on shore was stopped for men aboard the two ships until all chances of an epidemic had passed.

The transport Burleson, carrying live animals for the bomb test, also anchored during the day. Admiral Blandy visited the ship, where he said he was "very impressed" by the care being taken of the animals. The Burleson's passengers included about 4,000 rats, 200 pigs, 200 goats and some guinea pigs and mice.

The task force commander jokingly told the Burleson's staff that if more rates were needed they could be caught aboard the half-wrecked Japanese battleship Nagato where rodents were becoming both plentiful and vicious because of the absence of food.

Protests On Animal Use

Col. Thomas Betts, chief security officer, who boarded the McKinley today, said task force headquarters in Washington had received about 5,000 protests against the use of animals including a few letters from England, Canada, Mexico and Cuba.

Blandy told reporters that the use of animals was essential to safeguarding the armed forces and civilians in any future atomic war.

NAVY TAKES DIM VIEW OF ROMANCE

Aboard the U. S. S. Appalachian, June 15 (A. P.).—There will be no frivolous personal messages sent by the 169 writers aboard this press ship bound for Bikini and the historic atomic bomb tests.

The Navy's anti-frivolity rule has several reasons, such as heavily-loaded transmission facilities and restrictions on the type of commercial messages that may be sent on Navy facilities.

On the first day, when writers were informed they could send personal messages, a number were canceled under the rules. One such was this: "Now two days at sea. Still love you. This expedition has 42,000 men and no women."

But the Navy won't ban such messages as this: "Send pair of shoes. Don't forget to pay taxes."

Durants Deny 'Criminal' Role In Jewel Theft

JUN 16 1946

Ask Army to State Charges 'If Any' in Hesse Gems Case or Else Free Them

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP).—Colonel Jack W. Durant and his wife, Wac Captain Kathleen B. Nash Durant, held in the Kronberg Castle jewel case, asserted today that they had admitted nothing "which they considered criminal" and demanded that the War Department release them or state its charges, "if any."

Held at an undisclosed Army post not far from Washington, the couple issued a statement through counsel assigned them by the military.

They were taken into custody a week ago at Chicago while on their wedding trip after the War Department had begun an investigation into the disappearance of the Hesse royal jewels and relics, valued at $1,500,000, from the German castle at which the Army said both had been stationed.

War Department officials said part of the missing gems were located at Hudson, Wis., and that most of the rest were found in a Chicago railway station locker after Colonel Durant had furnished officers with the key.

Captain Frank M. Bosworth, assistant staff judge advocate for the military district of Washington, serving as interim counsel for the Durants, said in his statement:

"Since being assigned as counsel to Colonel Jack W. Durant and his wife, Captain Kathleen Durant, I have conferred with them several times, and they have requested that I make a statement in their behalf. Neither has had any previous legal representation in this matter. Under normal circumstances I should have advised that no statement be made at this time, but because of the public interest that has been created, I have agreed with them that they are only reasonable in their desire to correct certain impressions that have apparently been created by information previously conveyed to the public.

"No Charges Preferred"

"Colonel and Captain Durant want it emphatically stated that they were at all times available to military authorities, and at no time did either do otherwise than to co-operate with the military to the fullest extent. Likewise, that any impression that has been created that they concealed their identity or whereabouts for any reason is entirely erroneous.

"It should also be pointed out that all information available up to present time has come from sources that are primarily interested in establishing that a fabulous amount of jewelry was removed from Germany under circumstances which amount to criminality. However, no charges have been preferred, and I have advised Colonel Durant action may be taken in the future Accordingly, it is not reasonable to expect any specific statement from either until they know of what they are accused. They have asked me, nonetheless, to correct any impression that either have admitted any act which they considered criminal.

"Both Colonel and Captain Durant have initiated requests within the last two days that Army officers of their own selection be designated as their individual defense counsel. It should be known in the near future whether the officers requested will be available, at which time announcement will be made.

"In the meanwhile, I have made a formal demand on behalf of both that copies of the charges, if any, be furnished to me; or in the alternative, that both be released from their present custody. Action on this demand is likewise expected in the near future."

Countess Won't Sell Gems

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 15 (AP).—The Countess Von Hessen, seventy-four-year-old granddaughter of Queen Victoria, said today she "certainly would not" accept an America's offer to purchase the crown jewels of the House of Hesse for $3,000,000.

Notified this morning that Jack M. Werat, a jeweler, of Dayton, Ohio, had cabled Princess Margarita of the Hesse family that a syndicate he headed was prepared to buy the jewels, the countess said there was "no question" of the gems being offered for sale.

"I couldn't sell them, the countess said, "because in the first place they do not all belong to me or any member of the family individually."

Canadian Red M. P. Is Convicted Of Plotting With Soviet Spy Ring

JUN 16 1946

By The Associated Press.

MONTREAL, June 15—Fred Rose, only Communist member of the Canadian Parliament, was convicted tonight on a charge of conspiring to communicate wartime secrets to Russia through a Moscow-directed espionage network.

A King's Bench jury deliberated only thirty-one minutes before reaching a verdict in the three-weeks-old case.

The court will sentence Rose next Thursday. He is liable to a maximum prison term of seven years.

The member of the House of Commons also is scheduled to stand trial next September on four counts of violating the Official Secrets Act in connection with the espionage case. Each count of violating the Official Secrets Act also carries a maximum sentence of seven years in prison.

During the trial the prosecution presented fifty witnesses and 175 exhibits against Rose.

The conspiracy charge accused Rose, among other things, of receiving from Dr. Raymond Boyer, a Canadian scientist, the secret formula for the super-explosive, RDX. Dr. Boyer also is under indictment as a co-conspirator.

The star prosecution witness during the trial was Igor Gouzenko, former code clerk in the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa. Gouzenko removed information from the embassy, which he turned over to Canadian officials and which resulted in discovery of the espionage ring.

RED CITES SLANDER

Toronto, June 15 (A. P.).—Ilya Ehrenburg, Soviet journalist, charges that "slander against Russia is unlimited" by persons who "already speak for a third world war."

Addressing a meeting of the National Council for Canadian-Soviet Friendship here last night, Ehrenburg urged that good relations between the two nations not be obscured by a "smoke-screen of slander."

In two days in Canada I have seen the good and the bad—the good is your people, and bad are your newspaper articles," he said. "There are papers who daily frighten their readers with the bogeyman of Russia. We know that the people are not guilty of these lies of slander. My people extend the hand of friendship to your people despite everything."

SAYS CANADA COULD MAKE OWN 'A' BOMB

JUN 16 1946

Ottawa, June 15 (A. P.).—Reconstruction Minister C. D. Howe said in the House of Commons yesterday that no one in Canada knows how the United States makes atomic bombs. But, he felt sure, if Canada found it necessary, she could make atomic bombs of her own.

"No one has asked the United States for the information," Howe told members considering his bill to establish an atomic energy control board in Canada.

"I am sure," he continued, "that if they did ask for it the information would not be given unless it was thought Canada needed it, which I do not think she does at the moment."

Then, he added: "I have no doubt that having the material, the explosive material which we make in Canada, our ordnance people could make a bomb of their own. I doubt very much whether they will do it, but that will be up to the military forces."

Hiroshima Safety Was Found Behind Three-Foot Wall

Los Angeles, June 15—(AP)—Three feet of concrete is protection against the type of atomic bomb dropped on Japan, says Dr. Verne R. Mason, of the University of Southern California faculty.

Dr. Mason, who studied effects of the bomb dropped on Hiroshima, told a civic group yesterday that 22 telephone operators who fled to a concreted shelter when the American plane approached, were uninjured although their dugout was directly under the main blast area.

He added his conclusions applied only to the type of bomb dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

ATOM PLAN LINKED TO PEACE TREATIES

JUN 16 1946

Senator Millikin Urges Signing Before Secret Is Shared—McMahon Disputes View

Washington, June 15 (AP)—Senator Millikin (R., Col.) today demanded speedy Allied agreement on the long-blocked peace treaties of World War II before the United States moves to intrust any atomic secrets to international control.

Millikin saw a definite link between the future work of the United Nations Atomic Commission in New York and the outcome of the reconvened "Big Four" Foreign Ministers' meeting in Paris, where a new effort is being made to end the stalemate on treaties.

McMahon Disagrees

Chairman McMahon (D., Conn.), Millikin's colleague on the Senate Atomic Committee, disagreed in a separate interview. He voiced the belief that atomic decisions reached in New York would have more bearing on future peace than agreements made in Paris.

Millikin, however, appeared to represent the majority trend of committee opinion at the moment. He said he and others want to be certain that the world atomic control plan proposed by Bernard M. Baruch to the United Nations group yesterday is fully tested before the United States surrenders to other hands the knowledge of atomic developments.

Millikin's Stipulations

"It seems to me that the basic requirement of any real program for international control will be the achievement of some fundamental tests of good faith and the determination of whether the world is really postured for peace," Millikin declared.

"The first of these tests should involve a speedy agreement with our allies on peace terms for our beaten enemies, and the second should be a better and more successful working of the United Nations organization itself."

Atom Pact's Influence

But McMahon indicated a belief that an atomic control pact would do much to hasten an agreement on the terms of formal peace treaties, adding that he is "hoping for speedy action" on Baruch's recommendations to the United Nations Atomic Commission.

Senator Johnson (D., Col.) said he agrees with Baruch that the struggle to eliminate the atomic menace is a struggle to eliminate war itself, adding: "If there is another war, atomic bombs are certain to be used unless a more destructive weapon is developed. World wars must stop."

In another phase of atomic discussion, Senators Huffman (D., Ohio) and Lucas (D., Ill.) told the Senate yesterday the forthcoming Bikini A-bomb experiment is creating the impression that the United States is not done with war. They argued unsuccessfully on this ground against a bill authorizing the use of the naval vessels to be bombed.

Senate Okays Ships' Use

The Senate passed the measure on a voice vote and sent it back to the House for action on an amendment limiting to 33 the number of combat vessels to be used in the test.

Lucas contended that by approving the experiment Congress would be "weakening the hand" of Baruch in the atomic conference. McMahon replied that he didn't think the test had any bearing on the atomic discussions because it is "not a demonstration to scare anybody."

But Lucas said he questioned whether this country would like it if Russia decided to hold an atomic bomb test in Aleutian waters and brought a huge fleet "into our backyard."

Plan To Merge Services With One Cabinet Head Offered By President

JUN 16 1946

Letter 'Deciding' Points at Issue Asks Congress Also to Give Air Force Large Responsibility—Compromise, Which Would Drop Navy Secretary's Post, Largely Army Victory—Would Retain Marines

Washington, June 15—(AP)—President Truman asked Congress today to merge the armed forces under a single cabinet officer and give the air forces more responsibility than the Navy wanted that branch to have.

The President, deciding a disagreement between the Secretaries of War and Navy over unification details, ruled generally in favor of the Army position on three points they told him they could not resolve. He went most of the way with the Navy on the fourth major point in dispute.

Along with the letter to Military and Naval Committee chairmen of the House and Senate setting forth the President's plan for the merger, the White House made public a letter to Secretaries Patterson and Forrestal advising them that the disagreements are "herewith decided."

Support Promised

Mr. Truman told the Congressional leaders that the two secretaries, together with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Army chief of staff, and Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, chief of Naval operations, had "assured me that they will support such a plan" as the one he offered.

His letter to the secretaries also mentioned his gratification over assurances that the service leaders would "give wholehearted support to a plan of unification no matter what the decision would be" on the disagreements.

Also made public was the report of the Cabinet members, made May 31, which set out their agreement on eight of the 12 points in Mr. Truman's proposal to Congress, and their varying positions on the other four.

The President's ruling for a single department under one cabinet head was strictly an Army victory.

"Only if there is this unity of structure, headed by an individual with power of decision," the War Department view said, "can we achieve action where there is now inaction, concerted policy where there is now disjointed policy, and economy of manpower, resources and money where there is now waste of them all."

Navy Objects

The Navy said it recognized the need for greater integration but that it favored unification "in a less drastic and extreme form." It said a single department would "involve sacrifices of sound administrative autonomy and essential service morale."

It added that the eight measures on which agreement was reached "would fully meet the needs of present conditions." It proposed that Congress put them into effect now and that further study be given to the remaining matters in disagreement.

The President came closer to Army desires than to the Navy's ideas also in his decision favoring three co-ordinate branches in that department—one of them for air—and each having a non-cabinet secretary. The Navy said it felt that national security "requires maintenance of the integrity of the Navy Department, headed by a civilian secretary of cabinet rank," with naval aviation integrated.

It said it thought similar integration of Army air and ground forces was in the best interests of security.

"However," it declared, "if the alternatives were three military departments or one, the Navy would prefer three departments."

As for aviation, the Navy said:

'One reason for the Navy's strong conviction against a single department is the continued efforts of the Army Air Forces to restrict and limit naval aviation. The Navy knows that these efforts, if successful, would seriously impair our sea power and jeopardize our national security.

Air Force Responsibilities

But again, Mr. Truman followed largely the recommendations of the Army that the air forces, with some exceptions, be given the responsibility for the development, procurement, maintenance and operation of the country's military air resources.

Only on the question of the status of the Marine Corps, did the President take the Navy's advice in preference to the Army's.

Under the President's ruling, air force personnel would operate land based planes for naval reconnaissance, anti-submarine warfare, and protection of shipping. The Navy would keep its own carrier, ship and water based craft, Marine Corps planes, and some others.

The Army proposed heavier restrictions than the Navy wanted on the use of Marines. Mr. Truman held, much in line with Navy contentions, that the corps should conduct limited land operations in seizing or defending advanced bases and prosecuting a naval campaign. It would be "maintained as a constituent part of the naval service."

Pleads for Unity

The President told the two secretaries that "there is no desire or intention to affect adversely the integrity of any of the services."

"They should perform their separate functions under the unifying direction, authority and control of the secretary of national defense," he wrote. "The internal administration of the three services should be preserved in order that the high morale and esprit de corps of each service can be retained."

"It is my hope that the Congress will pass legislation as soon as possible effecting a unification based upon these 12 principles," the President said.

As a concession to Navy objections, the new program drops the recommendation Mr. Truman made for a single military chief of staff in his message last December 18.

The President said that Secretary of War Patterson and Secretary Forrestal of the Navy had made "splendid progress" toward settling the controversy over unification, which has continued since V-J Day. He reported they had reached agreement on eighth important elements of unification and that "their differences are not irreconcilable" upon four on which they failed to agree entirely in a recent series of conferences.

In its major provisions aside from elimination of a single Chief of Staff, the new proposal coincides with legislation recommended in April by the Senate Military Affairs Committee.

That bill was offered by Senators Thomas (D-Utah), Hill (D-Ala) and Austin (R-Vt.)

The Senate Naval Affairs Committee has held hearings on it and Chairman Walsh (D-Mass) has announced any amendments which grow out of these will be offered when the measure reaches the floor.

In the House legislation much along the same lines is awaiting action by the expenditures committee, which has indicated it will hold off until the Senate moves.

Along with the letter to the committee chairman, the White House made public the report given to the President May 31 by Secretaries Patterson and Forrestal in which they set out their points of agreement and disagreement, and the President's reply to them dated today.

He noted that they agreed on creation of the council of common defense, a national security resources board, joint Chiefs of Staff, omission of a single military Chief of Staff, a central intelligence agency, procurement and supply, research agencies and military education and training. He termed their understanding a "significant accomplishment."

The President agreed with the cabinet members that a provision in the Thomas Bill for four assistant secretaries in the department of national defense was "unnecessary."

Text Of The Truman Plan

Washington, June 15 (AP)—Following is the text of President Truman's letter to the Senate and House Military and Naval Committee chairmen on the proposed army-navy merger:

One of the most important problems confronting our country today is the establishment of a definite military policy.

In the solution of this problem I consider it vital that we have a unified force for our national defense.

At my request the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy have made a sincere effort to settle the differences existing between the services on this question. They have made splendid progress.

They have reached an agreement on eight important elements of unification, and with reference to the four upon which there was not full agreement, their differences are not irreconcilable.

States His Position

On May 31, 1946, the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy delivered a report to me of the results of their efforts. I have replied to them today stating my position on those points submitted to me for decision.

I enclose herewith a copy of the report of the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy, together with a copy of my reply to them.

You will note that there are now presented twelve basic principles upon which the unification of the services can be based. They are as follows:

1. SINGLE MILITARY DEPARTMENT—There should be one Department of National Defense. It would be under the control of a civilian who would be a member of the Cabinet. Each of the services would be headed by a civilian with the title of "secretary." These secretaries would be charged with the internal administration within their own services. They would not be members of the Cabinet.

Autonomy Retained

Each service would retain its autonomy, subject of course to the authority and overall control by the Secretary of National Defense. It is recognized that the services have different functions and different organizations and for these reasons the integrity of each service should be retained. The civilian secretaries of the services would be members of the Council of Common Defense and in this capacity they would have the further opportunity to represent their respective services to the fullest extent.

2. THREE CO-ORDINATED SERVICES—There should be three co-ordinated services — the Army, Navy and Air Force. These three services should be on a parity and should operate in a common purpose toward overall efficiency of the national defense under the control and supervision of the Secretary of National Defense. The secretaries of the three services should be known as Secretary for the Army, Secretary for the Navy and Secretary for the Air Force.

3. AVIATION—The air force shall have the responsibility for the development, procurement, maintenance and operation of the military air resources of the United States, with the following exceptions, in which responsibility must be vested in the Navy:

(1) Ship, carrier and water-based aircraft essential to naval operations, and aircraft of the United States Marine Corps.

Naval Air Transport

(2) Land-type aircraft necessary for essential internal administration and for air transport over routes of sole interest to naval forces and where the requirements cannot be met by normal air transport facilities.

(3) Land-type aircraft necessary for the training of personnel for the afore-mentioned purposes.

Land-based planes for naval reconnaissance anti-submarine warfare and protection of shipping can and should be manned by Air Force personnel. If the three services are to work as a team there must be close co-operation, with interchange of personnel and special training for specific duties.

Within its proper sphere of operation, naval aviation must not be restricted but must be given every opportunity to develop its maximum usefulness.

Marine Corps Mentioned

4. UNITED STATES MARINE CORPS—There shall be maintained as a constituent part of the naval service a balanced fleet Marine Force, including its supporting air component, to perform the following functions:

(1) Service with the fleet in the seizure of defense of advanced naval bases or for the conduct of such limited land operations as are essential to the prosecution of a naval campaign.

(2) To continue the development of those aspects of amphibious operations which pertain to the tactics, technique, and equipment employed by the landing forces.

(3) To provide detachments and organizations for service on armed vessels of the Navy.

(4) To provide security detachment for protection of naval property at naval stations and bases.

Council Of Defense

5. COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE—To integrate our foreign and military policies and to enable the military services and other agencies of government to co-operate more effectively in matters involving our national security. The membership of this council should consist of the Secretary of State, the civilian head of the military establishment, the civilian heads of the military services and the chairman of the National Security Resources Board, referred to below.

6. NATIONAL SECURITY RESOURCES BOARD—To establish, and keep up to date, policies and programs for the maximum use of the nation's resources in support of our national security. It should operate under the council and be composed of representatives of the military services and of other appropriate agencies.

7. THE JOINT CHIEFS OF STAFF—To formulate strategic plans, to assign logistic responsibilities to the services in support thereof, to integrate the military programs, and to provide for the strategic direction of the United States military forces.

No One Military Chief

8. NO SINGLE MILITARY CHIEF OF STAFF—In the opinion of the War Department, the military establishment should contain a single military chief of staff, who would serve as principal military adviser, available to offer advice when differences of opinion arise among the military heads of the several services. The Navy feels that the joint chief of staff should be the highest source of military advice. The War Department is willing to omit the feature of a single chief of staff.

9. CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY—To compile, analyze, and evaluate information gathered by various Government agencies, including the military, and to furnish such information to the National Defense Council and to other Government agencies entitled thereto. It should operate under the council. An organization along these lines, established by executive order, already exists.

10. PROCUREMENT AND SUPPLY—There should be an agency to prevent wasteful competition in the field of military supply and procurement through joint planning and co-ordination of procurement, production and distribution.

Research Agency Wanted

11. RESEARCH AGENCIES—There should be an agency to co-ordinate the scientific research and development of the military services.

12. MILITARY EDUCATION AND TRAINING — There should be an agency to review periodically the several systems of education and training of personnel of the military services and to adjust them into an integrated program.

A plan of unification containing these twelve elements has my unqualified endorsement. The Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, the Chief of Staff of the Army and the Chief of Naval Operations have assured me that they will support such a plan.

It is my hope that the Congress will pass legislation as soon as possible effecting a unification based upon these twelve principles.

Very sincerely yours,

HARRY S. TRUMAN.

Patterson-Forrestal Statement

JUN 16 1946

WASHINGTON, June 15 (UP).—Following are the texts of the joint letter on Army and Navy unification sent to President Truman by Secretaries Patterson and Forrestal, and the President's reply to them:

31 May, 1946.

The President,
The White House.

Dear Mr. President:

Pursuant to your instructions, we have reviewed the major elements involved in establishing a greater measure of unification among our national security organizations, with a view to defining those matters upon which we agree and those upon which we differ. While we regret our inability to bridge completely the gap between us, we are pleased to be able to report a considerable area of agreement. Sincere efforts to expand it were made by both of us.

For your convenience, we outline below those matters upon which agreement exists and those upon which we are unable to agree. The order of presentation is not intended to indicate the relative importance of the various items.

I. Agreement exists on the following matters:

1. Council of Common Defense.

To integrate our foreign and military policies and to enable the military services and other agencies of government to co-operate more effectively in matters involving our national security. The membership of this council should consist of the Secretary of State, the civilian head of the military establishment (if there be a single military department), the civilian heads of the military services, and the chairman of the National Security Resources Board, referred to below.

2. National Security Resources Board. To establish, and keep up to date, policies and programs for the maximum use of the nation's resources in support of our national security it should operate under the council and be composed of representatives of the military services and of other appropriate agencies.

3. The joint chiefs of staff.

To formulate strategic plans, to assign logistic responsibilities to the services in support thereof, to integrate the military programs, to make recommendations for integration of the military budget, and the provide for the strategic direction of the United States military forces.

4. No single military chief of staff.

In the opinion of the War Department, the military establishment should contain a single military chief of staff, who would serve as principal military adviser, available to offer advice when differences of opinion arise among the military heads of the several services. The Navy feels that the joint chiefs of staff should be the highest source of military advice. The War Department is willing to omit the feature of a single chief of staff.

5. General intelligence agency.

To compile, analyze, and evaluate information gathered by various government agencies, including the military, and to furnish such information to the National Security Council and to other government agencies entitled thereto. It should operate under the council. An organization along these lines, established by executive order, already exists.

6. Procurement and supply.

There should be an agency to prevent wasteful competition in the field of military supply and procurement through joint planning and co-ordination of procurement, production and distribution. If there should be a single military department, this agency should be within the department.

7. Research agencies.

There should be an agency to co-ordinate the scientific research and development of the military services. If there should be a single military department, this agency should be within the department. The existence of such an agency would not remove the need for an over-all central research agency.

8. Military education and training:

There should be an agency to review periodically the several systems of education and training of personnel of the military services and to adjust them into an integrated program. If there should be a single military department, this agency should be within the department.

As to the agencies mentioned in 6, 7 and 8 above, the War Deparement believes that these agencies will not be fully effective except as agencies within a single department. The Navy, on the other hand, believes that they will be more fully effective under a co-ordinated organization than under a single military department.

II. We are unable to agree on the following matters:

1. Single military department

War Department view:

The military establishment should be set up as a single entity, headed by a civilian of Cabinet rank with authority and responsibility fcor the several services. The administration and supervision of the services should, however, so far as possible be delegated to their respective heads, in order that each service may have as much freedom of development as possible and in order that the traditions and prestige of each be not impaired.

(Only if there is this unity of structure, headed by an individual with power of decision, can we achieve action where there is now inaction, concerted policy where there is now disjointed policy, and economy of manpower, resources and money where there is now waste of them all. Any organization which does not facilitate prompt decision and prompt action thereon, totally ignores scientific development and the nature of modern war. The military security of the United States is a single objective. Accomplishment of this single objective with the greatest economy and efficiency demands unity of direction.)

Navy Department view:

The Navy favors unification but in a less drastic and extreme form. It believes that serious disadvantages will result from combining the military services into one department. It would involve sacrifices of sound administrative autonomy and essential service morale.

The Navy recognizes the need for a greater measure of integration than now exists, not only between the military departments, but among all agencies of government responsible for our national security. A single military department falls short of meeting these objectives.

While the Navy feels that the measures upon which agreement exists, as set forth above, would fully meet the needs of present conditions, it sees certain advantages in placing a Presidential deputy with clearly defined powers of decision over specified matters at the head of the Council of Common Defense. From this as a starting point, it should be possible to move forward such further measures of unification as become advisable, based on further experience.

The Secretary of the Navy recommends to the President, in view of the wide area of agreement which presently exists, that legislation be enacted at once giving statutory effect to these matters on which there is agreement. These steps will of themselves constitute a very substantial advance over our pre-war, and even our present, organization for national security. If these are put into effect it will be possible, in the opinion of the Secretary of the Navy, to meet the nine specific objectives set forth in the President's message to the Congress on Dec. 19, 1945. Further consideration and study can then be given to the remaining questions of which there is wide and general divergence of view between, and outside of, the military departments.

2. Three co-ordinate branches.

War Department view:

The military establishment should contain three co-ordinate branches—Naval, ground and air. Each should have a civilian head and a military command. These officials should have access to the President, but not Cabinet rank since this would be in derogation of the position of the civilian head of the military establishment. As was stated above, the three branches should be given as much autonomy as possible. (Our experience in the last war clearly indicates that parity for the Air Force and the operation of all three services as a team are essential to our national security. Everything that we know of the future points to an increase rather than a decrease in the decisive role of air power.)

Navy Department view:

The Navy feels that our national security requires maintenance of the integrity of the Navy Department, headed by a civilian secretary of Cabinet rank. Naval aviation, together with surface and subsurface components, have been soundly integrated within the Navy. The Navy feels that similar integration by the Army of its air and ground forces would be in the best interest of our national security.

However, if the alternatives were three military departments or one, the Navy would prefer three departments.

3. Aviation.

War Department view:

Responsibility for the development, procurement, maintenance and operations of the military air resources of the United States should be a function of the air forces with the following exceptions, in which cases these responsibilities should be vested in the United States Navy: (A) Ship, carrier and waterbased aircraft essential to Naval operations including those of the United States Marine Corps. (B) Land-type aircraft necessary for essential internal administration and for air transport over routes of sole interest to Naval forces and where the requirements cannot be met by normal air transport facilities. (C) Land-type aircraft necessary for the training of personnel for (A) and (B) above.

(The nation cannot afford the luxury of several completely self-sufficient services. The war demonstrated that they must be complementary — mutually supporting. With respect to land planes, there are no purely naval functions which justify uneconomical duplication of equipment and installations. For example, the air force already performs long-range reconnaissance for the ground forces and itself. The Navy's recognized requirement for the products of long-range reconnaissance can be effectively filled by the air force. As regards anti-submarine warfare, it is the view of the War Department that the experience of the Army Air Forces in the last war adequately justifies the belief that land-based planes operated by the air forces can meet this requirement.)

Navy Department view:

The Navy has no desire either to compete with, or to dictate to the Army Air Forces. On the other hand, the Navy feels that its experience qualifies it to judge its own aviation needs.

One reason for the Navy's strong conviction against a single department is the continued efforts of the Army Air Forces to restrict and limit naval aviation. The Navy knows that these efforts, if successful, would seriously impair our sea power and jeopardize our national security.

To accomplish its fundamental purpose the Navy needs a certain number of land planes for reconnaissance, anti-submarine warfare and protection of shipping. Experience indicates that such land planes, to be effective, must be manned by naval personnel trained in naval warfare. Lack of such aircraft under complete naval control as to design, procurement, operations, personnel, training and administration might be disastrous to our national security. Similarly the Navy must have air transport essential to its needs.

4. United States Marine Corps.

The Navy and the Army differ on the functions of the United States Marine Corps as follows:

War Department view:

JUN 16 1946

JUN 16 1946

There shall be maintained as a constituent part of the naval service a balanced fleet marine force including its supporting air component for

(1) Service with the fleet in the seizure of enemy positions not involving sustained land fighting and

(2) To continue the development of tactics, techniques and equipment relating to those phases of amphibious warfare which pertain to water-borne aspects of landing operations.

Navy Department view:

There shall be maintained as a constituent part of the naval service a balanced fleet marine force including its supporting air component for

(1) Service with the fleet in the seizure or defense of advance naval bases or for the conduct of such limited land operations as are essential to the prosecution of a naval campaign and

(2) To continue the development of those aspects of amphibious operations which pertain to the tactics, techniques and equipment employed by landing forces.

There is agreement upon the other primary duties of the Marine Corps, viz:

(1) To provide detachments and organizations for service on armed vessels of the Navy, and

(2) To provide security detachments for protection of Naval property at Naval stations and bases.

These matters have been explored by us with a sincere desire to comply with your wishes that the military services reach complete mutual agreement. Our failure to achieve complete unanimity is due to no reason other than that our respective views on the points of difference are as sincere as they are divergent. Faithfully yours,

ROBERT P. PATTERSON,
Secretary of War.
JAMES FORRESTAL,
Secretary of the Navy.

President Truman's Reply

July 15, 1946

Gentlemen:

I have read with care your joint report of May 31, 1946. It was also helpful to me to have the full oral presentation of the points involved, which you and the members of your department made to me on June 4.

I am pleased and gratified at the progress you have made. I feel that we have come a long way in narrowing the zone of disagreement which had previously existed between the services. The full understanding reached on eight vital aspects of unification is a significant accomplishment. These eight elements are Council of Common Defense, National Security Resources Board, joint chiefs of staff, omission of single military chief of staff, central intelligence agency, procurement and supply, research agencies and military education and training.

In addition to these eight points of agreement, I am advised also by representatives of both services that they are in accord in their attitude toward the provision in the Thomas bill, S 2044, which provides for four assistant secretaries in charge of research, intelligence, procurement and training, respectively. They believe that such assistant secretaries are unnecessary. I agree with their position that the presence of these four assistant secretaries is undesirable because they would greatly complicate the internal administration of the services and that such a plan would deprive the secretaries of the respective services of functions which are properly theirs.

Your report of May 31st listed four items upon which you were unable to gree. An analysis of your comments contained in your report, and in the lengthy discussion which we had, discloses that the services are not nearly so far apart in their attitude toward these points as had been reported. It is my firm conviction that the determination of these questions in the manner which I present herein will result in a plan which incorporates the best features offered by the respective services.

With reference to the points upon which full agreement was not reached my position is as follows:

1. Single military department.

There should be one department of national defense. It would be under the control of a civilian who would be a member of the Cabinet. Each of the services would be headed by a civilian with the title of "secretary." Hhese secretaries would be charged with the internal administration within their own services. They would not be members of the Cabinet. Each service would retain its autonomy, subject, of course, to the authority and over-all controls by the Secretary of National Defense. It is recognized that the services have different functions and different organizations, and for these reasons the integrity of each service should be retaianed. The civilian secretaries of the services would be members of the Council of Common Defense and in their respective services to the fullest extent.

2. Three co-ordinated services.

There should be three co-ordinated services—the Army, Navy and Air Force. The three services should be on a parity and should operate in a common purpose toward over-all efficiency of the national defense under the control and supervision of the Secretary of National Defense. The secretaries of the three services should be known as Secretary for the Army, Secretary for the Navy, and Secretary for the Air Force.

3. Aviation.

The Air Force shall have the responsibility for the development, procurement, maintenance and operation of the military air resources of the United States with the following exceptions, in which responsibility must be vested in the Navy:

1. Ship, carrier and water-based aircraft essential to naval operations, and aircraft of the United States Marine Corps.

2. Land-type aircraft necessary for essential internal administration and for air transport over routes of sole interest to Naval forces and where the requirements cannot be met by normal air transport facilities.

3. Land-type aircraft necessary for the training of personnel for the afore-mentioned purposes.

Land-based planes for Naval reconnaissance, anti-submarine warfare and protection of shipping can and should be manned by Air Force personnel. If the three services are to work as a team there must be close cooperation with interchange of personnel and special training for specific duties.

Within its proper sphere of operation, Navy aviation must not be restricted but must be given every opportunity to develop its maximum usefulness.

4. United States Marine Corps.

There shall be maintained as a constituent par of the naval serve a balanced fleet marine force including its supporting air component to perform the following functions:

(1) Service with the fleet in the seizure or defense of advanced naval bases or for the conduct of such limited land operations as are essential to the prosecution of a naval campaign.

(2) To continue the development of those aspects of amphibious operations which pertain to the tactics, technique, and equipment employed by the landing forces.

(3) To provide detachments and organizations for service on armed vessels of the Navy.

(4) To provide security detachments for protection of naval property at naval stations and bases.

It is important that the basic elements of the plan of unification be stated clearly. The eight fundamental points agreed upon and the four points which are herewith decided, constitute a total of twelve basic principles that should form the framework of the program for integration.

There is no desire or intention to affect adversely the integrity of any of the services. They should perform their separate functions under the unifying direction, authority and control of the Secretary of National Defense. The Internal administration of the three services should be preserved in order that the high morale and esprit de corps of each service can be retained.

It was gratifying to have both of you and General Eisenhower and Admiral Nimitz assure me that you would all give your wholehearted support to a plan of unification no matter what the decision would be on those points upon which you did not fully agree. I know that I can count upon all of you for full assistance in obtaining passage in the Congress of a bill containing the twelve basic elements set forth above.

Very sincerely yours,

HARRY S. TRUMAN.

The Honorable
Robert P. Patterson
The Secretary of War.
The Honorable
James Forrestal
The Secretary of the Navy.

BEVIN ACCUSED BY 2 SENATORS

JUN 16 1946

Wagner and Mead Brand Utterance 'Anti-Semitic.'

Washington, June 15 (A. P.).—Senators Robert F. Wagner and James M. Mead today accused British Foreign Minister Bevin of a "false and anti-Semitic utterance" in his recent speech on the Palestine immigration problem.

The two New York Democratic legislators released the text of a cablegram sent to Bevin which also charged the British Foreign Minister with echoing "Nazi dogma" and with "a gratuitous insult" to the American people. They referred specifically to a paragraph in Bevin's address of last Wednesday in which he said:

"The agitation in the United States and particularly in New York for 100,000 Jews to be put into Palestine—and I do not want the Americans to misunderstand me—is because they do not want too many of them in New York."

In their cabled protest to Bevin, Mead and Wagner said they were "shocked by your recent published statement." They added:

"We are amazed that this false and anti-Semitic utterance should come from a leader of the British Labor party whose policies we have always admired. This echo from Nazi dogma is a mockery of the decent principles for which our two peoples waged war.

"Such a gratuitous insult will not be excused or forgotten by the fair-minded people of our State and of every State—men and women of every creed, race and color who have shed their blood and participated in generous and comradely aid to Britain, in the common cause of winning the war and the peace.

"Nor can they square your repudiation of the unanimous recommendation of the Anglo-American committee of inquiry, itself established at Britain's suggestion, with your own earlier declaration to the committee in London that a unanimous report would result in the immediate implementation of its recommendation.

"The American people overwhelmingly believe that lame excuses and new conditions, inconsistent with the pledges of the mandate as well as the recent committee report, are especially unbecoming to those spokesmen like yourself who justly emphasize the integrity of international undertakings and the sanctity of human rights at the bar of international law and opinion. We submit that your statement was hardly compatible with the friendly understanding that should exist between our two peoples."

3d Loan Bid Ready for U.S.S.R., Economic Issue Is Still a Snag

WASHINGTON, June 15—The United States has drafted a third note to Moscow, inviting the Russians to begin negotiations for a requested billion dollar loan in mid-July.

Government officials disclosed today that the message had been drawn up and approved by Secretary Byrnes before he left for Paris Thursday. If the note had not already been sent, it would go out in a few days, they said.

The latest American contribution to this diplomatic exchange which began last December was said to outline the topics the United States thinks should be discussed concurrently with any loan conversations.

These officials closely connected with the negotiations said that despite Moscow's previously expressed reluctance to do so, the American Government was insisting on discussing economic conditions in Eastern Europe during any such talks.

Since this point had been the main stumbling block in previous exchanges, there was doubt in some quarters that the Russians would accept the invitation.

American Government officials are hoping to convince Russia that she should alter her trade policies in the Balkans, especially the five-year treaties of economic collaboration signed with Rumania and Hungary.

Bonnet Called To Paris

Washington, June 15 (AP)—French Ambassador Henri Bonnet has been called to Paris to assist the French delegation in the Big Four Foreign Ministers Conference. An Embassy spokesman said Bonnet would leave by plane for New York tonight and take off tomorrow morning for Paris.

Polar Expedition Plan Pondered By Air Force

Washington, June 15 (AP)—The Army Air Force is considering an expedition over the North Polar regions, the official publication, Air Force, reported today.

The magazine said it was expected that war-developed Loran radio directional equipment would be used but gave no additional information. Loran was used in "Operation Musk Ox" land expedition into the Canadian Far North.

Underscoring its interest in the Arctic short route between Europe and America, the Air Forces already have sent three converted B-29 weather planes to the region of the magnetic pole this year.

ARMY TO DISCHARGE 133,000 FATHERS

Washington, June 15 (A. P.).—The Army has decided to bring back from overseas all non-volunteer enlisted fathers and men with at least twenty-one months of service. At the same time, it has authorized the discharge of all non-volunteer enlisted men in this country who have twenty-one months or more in uniform.

The announcement last night estimated 133,000 fathers would be involved, including 77,000 in the Pacific, 18,000 in Europe, 28,000 in the United States and 10,000 in miscellaneous overseas areas. The plan is to have them all home by August 31.

War Department officials said that the non-volunteer enlisted fathers brought back from overseas would not necessarily be discharged immediately.

A conference committee of Senate and House ironing out kinks in a bill to extend the draft law plans to meet again Monday amid indications that a compromise is near. The biggest headache is over whether to draft teen agers, but Senator Gurney (R.-S. D.) told a reporter that that probably would be cured by recommending drafting boys of 18 only as a last resort, with the proviso they not be sent overseas before they are 19. The present draft law expires on June 30.

Rationing Return Held Unnecessary

JUN 16 1946

Washington, June 15 (AP)—Clinton P. Anderson, Secretary of Agriculture, declared tonight he does not believe a return to consumer rationing will be necessary to save peoples in other lands from starvation in the year ahead.

He said the United States no longer has the machinery for enforcing rationing and he doubts "Congress will wish to set it up again, at this point."

The Government is developing, the Secretary said, "a simpler form of rationing nearer the source—rationing of wheat and other short supplies to processors and distributors."

As an example, he cited an Agriculture Department order requiring millers to cut their distribution of flour for domestic consumption 25 per cent. from last year's level.

Crop Prospects Good

Anderson gave this view in a report prepared for a radio network program entitled "Can Famine Be Prevented?" Sir John Boyd Orr, director general of the United Nations food and agriculture organization, also took part.

The Secretary said American crop prospects are good, but he forecast short supplies of breadgrains, meats and fats for 1947.

Sir John, like Anderson, expressed belief that famine can be prevented during the year ahead if major producing countries will continue wartime controls, use high-extraction flour, price grain so as to discourage farmers from feeding it to livestock, and limit the amount of grain used for industrial purposes, including alcoholic beverages.

1947 Harvest Cited

"The world food situation will remain critical at least until the 1947 harvest," Anderson said. "And it will be years even after that before normal food production is restored."

Anderson said it may be necessary for the United States to continue a 25 per cent cut in flour supplies. He previously had said the reduction will be only fifteen per cent, beginning July 1.

Both Anderson and Sir John praised the action of a recent international food conference held which resulted in the creation of the International Emergency Food Council to supplant the wartime British - American - Canadian Combined Food Board in directing the attack on postwar famine.

This committee will hold its first meeting here Thursday. Twenty-two countries have been invited to become members.

Sees Russia Joining

Anderson, in reply to a question as to whether Russian participation would be essential, said:

"Yes, Russia is one of the great food-producing countries. I believe she will come in—but the Russians move very slowly. Meanwhile, we shall have to get along without them."

Looking beyond the postwar famine emergency, Sir John and Anderson said the world faces a long-term battle of solving what the FAO chief called the "twin problems of famine and surplus."

"It could happen again — surpluses in some countries and hunger in others—unless we plan the world's food distribution better," the Secretary declared.

Sir John said there should be an international "food bank" or "ever-normal-granary" system to bridge the gap between surplus and lean production years and between surplus-producing areas and hunger areas.

Meyer Leaves Famine Group

WASHINGTON, June 15 (AP)—President Truman today accepted the resignation of Eugene Meyer, editor and publisher of The Washington Post, as a member of the Famine Emergency Committee. Mr. Meyer is ending Government activities before assuming his duties as president of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

Bowles Predicts Great Flood Of Goods If—

JUN 16 1946

Washington, June 15 (AP)—Stabilization Director Chester Bowles today predicted a "flood" of consumer goods by Christmas if "we can prevent the kind of paralysis that comes when prices are too high."

Bowles, in a radio address, made no direct reference to the pending Senate and House price-control bills he had condemned as high-roads to runaway inflation, but he said:

"I only hope we can summon the courage, and have the vision and good sense to make the right decisions now to prevent an economic breakdown. The choice is up to all of us—and the next few days will decide."

Against Pending Bill

Legislation which extends OPA's life nine to 12 months beyond June 30, but sharply curbs its authority over prices, is now before a House-Senate conference committee. It is expected to be sent to President Truman shortly. Bowles has indicated he will urge that the bill be vetoed.

"Today more than ever," Bowles said, "we need stability to keep our excellent start on full production from going into a tailspin. If we can just hang on, production will continue to move up gradually.

"I believe by next Christmas you'll see a flood of goods that will amaze us all. Some shortages will still exist, but others will vanish and seem as remote as last year's cigarette shortage does now.

"There's just one question in my mind, and it's a big one. Will we prevent the kind of paralysis that comes when prices are too high, and everyone starts to hoard, and the economic machinery slows down?"

Reports Productive Progress

Bowles said that, "in spite of strikes and shortages, some remarkable progress has been made" on the production front. He said two principal reasons why scarcities still exist are:

"Everyone today is trying to satisfy the piled-up needs of four long years of war—when many civilian goods just weren't produced. . . . And the money that people have to spend it putting a lot of steam behind this terrific demand."

Bowles reiterated his prediction that the supply of men's shirts and other cotton garments will be larger by next month, but he said there won't be enough to meet demand "for some time yet."

On men's suits, Bowles said more are being made than before the war, but that demand is at a record high.

"In the old days," Bowles said, "you went looking for a suit maybe once a year, and on that day only a few people would be looking. Today millions of Americans are looking at once."

STRIPPED OPA EXTENSION BILL IS FACING VETO

JUN 16 1946

Conference Committee Has Only 10 Working Days to Reach Accord.

PRICE CONTROL ENDS JUNE 30

Washington Believes Congress Won't Be Able to Pass Law Over President's Head.

Washington, June 15 (A. P.).—A Senate-House conference committee discovered today it had only ten days—not counting Sundays—to decide on the final version of an OPA extension bill which now seems headed for veto by President Truman.

Senate majority leader Barkley, chairman of the fourteen-member group named to work out differences between the House and Senate versions of the bill, told reporters that absence of key House conferees made it impossible to hold the first conference before Tuesday. There is no certainty that the session will be held even then, he added.

The price control law expires Sunday, June 30, unless Congress acts and the President approves its action. Ten days remain between Tuesday and Saturday, June 29.

Meanwhile, an administration lieutenant with close White House connections reported privately that Mr. Truman would veto the measure if it reaches him in the form passed by the Senate. The President already has served notice he would disapprove the House version.

An official universally regarded by experienced Washington reporters as an accurate judge of legislative sentiment on Capitol Hill predicted that there was not a chance that Congress would override a veto of the price control bill. Declining to be quoted directly, he went even further to volunteer his opinion that Mr. Truman would not approve any subsequent stop-gap measure providing for only an extension of rent control. What might happen if Congress then decides to do nothing at all was something that defied predictions.

Sees Higher Prices.

The prospect of a veto was buttressed by Stabilization Director Bowles's declaration yesterday that he would recommend such action if the OPA bill reached the White House in the shape it passed the Senate. He said that current increases in the cost of living would be only "a drop in the bucket" if the pending bill became law.

Bowles predicted today a flood of consumer goods by Christmas if "we can prevent the kind of paralysis that comes when prices are too high." In a radio address, he made no direct reference to the pending Senate and House bills, but he said:

"I only hope we can summon the courage, and have the vision and good sense to make the right decisions how to prevent an economic breakdown. The choice is up to all of us—and the next few days will decide."

"Today more than ever," Bowles said, "we need stability to keep up our excellent start on full production from going into a tailspin. If we can just hang on, production will continue to move up gradually."

Bowles reiterated his prediction that the supply of men's shirts and other cotton garments will be larger by next month, but he said there won't be enough to meet demand for some time yet.

Sugar Rise Planned.

Meanwhile, an organization styling itself "The New Council of American Business" renewed an earlier request to President Truman that he veto the bill.

In the meantime, OPA is planning a higher price on sugar, and the cost of coffee may be increased 3 to 5 cents a pound soon.

With price rises authorized or already in effect for milk, bread, butter, cheese and some cereals, an OPA official disclosed that housewives will have to pay a penny more on a five-pound package of sugar. The price will be raised, he said, to offset wage increases to refinery workers.

Importers have been conferring with Bowles on the possibility of a price increase for coffee.

HOUSING PLAN DATA OUTLINED

JUN 16 1946

Details For Obtaining Loan Through GI Bill And FHA

Washington, June 15 (AP)—A veteran has to do several things before he can buy a home under the GI bill and the veterans' emergency housing law.

The Veterans Administration says there is one important thing he doesn't have to do but should do—take extra precaution to see that he is not paying too much.

A veteran, like other persons, must pay for his home. The GI bill and the Housing Act merely give him a chance to buy a house on favorable terms providing he has a job or income which indicates he will be able to repay a loan for up to 25 years.

50% Of Home Loan

There are two general plans for financing a GI home.

With Plan No. 1 the Veterans Administration, under certain conditions, offers to guarantee up to 50 per cent of your home loan, or up to $4,000, whichever is less.

With Plan No. 2, when the Federal Housing Administration has already insured a loan, VA guarantees a second loan up to twenty per cent but not more than $4,000 of the purchase price of a home.

Doesn't Lend Money

The guarantee is made to financial institutions to encourage them to make loans to veterans. The Veterans Administration itself does not make loans. If the Government pays the guaranteed part of the loan to the lender, the veteran is obligated to repay the Government.

An advantage of Plan No. 1 is that the maximum interest you pay is four per cent. On the FHA-insured part of the loan under the second plan, you pay four per cent interest plus one half of one per cent premium for FHA mortgage insurance.

May Buy Real Estate

An advantage of Plan No. 2 is that you may not need to use as much of your $4,000 VA guarantee allowance to obtain a desired amount of house loan and may use the rest to help buy real estate.

Suppose you find a $6,000 house you want to buy under Plan No. 1. You take your discharge certificate to a bank, trust company, savings and loan association or other lender. Your job indicates you can afford a $6,000 home. Perhaps you can borrow all the money you need to buy the house.

Will Pay 4%

But before the loan is made, the house must be appraised by an appraiser who has been approved by the Veterans Administration to see whether the purchase price is in line with the reasonable value. The Veterans Administration will pay four per cent on the part of the loan it guarantees, as a gift to the veteran.

Under Plan No. 2, you go to a home-financing institution which makes FHA-insured loans and ask to buy on the FHA plan. If you are buying a new home priced at $6,000 or less and it meets FHA standards, the lender can lend up to 90 per cent, which the FHA insures for the lender. On a $6,000 loan this would be $5,400.

Down Payments

Next, you may want to obtain a loan of $600 to cover the down payment of the $6,000 house. You borrow $600 secured by a second lien guaranteed by the Veterans Administration.

Under the Housing Act, the Housing Administration may prescribe mortgage amounts up to $8,100 on GI homes. On a home which is not new, the FHA will insure a loan up to 80 per cent of the appraised value.

Way To Get Homes Shown To Ex-GI's

Des Moines, June 15 (AP)—Homes for veterans can be had, Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Commerce, said tonight, "if enough of the people insist—with every democratic means at their command—that their National Government issues the proper priority to build homes at fair prices and with fair monthly payments."

"If in some areas, this means further subsidies and more Government participation, then these things we must have," Wallace continued at a forum of the American Veterans Committee convention.

In commending the AVC for its opposition to "lobbyists heeding the beck and call of real estate speculators," Wallace declared that such lobbyists "have diverted critical building materials from a hospital or a housing project to build a race track."

WORLD WAR II RULING MADE BY VETERANS

JUN 16 1946

Group Adopts Constitution Limiting Membership; Other Proposals

Des Moines, Iowa, June 15 (AP). The first convention of the American Veterans Committee today adopted a constitution making the organization exclusively for World War II veterans.

Attention then turned to a series of platform proposals ranging from advocacy of "unity in the Big Three" to "peace, jobs and freedom."

The 840 voting delegates made eligible for membership all honorably discharged United States veterans of World War II who served in the United States armed forces, the merchant marine, or with the armed forces of any of the other United Nations, regardless of national origin, creed or color.

Group Ruled Out

An attempt to include Americans who fought with Loyalist Spain was defeated. Committee members said adoption of such a proposal probably would prevent the group from obtaining a congressional charter.

Women veterans who served in the WACs, WAVES, SPARS and Marines would be eligible for AVC membership. Provision also was made for a women's auxiliary.

The constitution provided, as a prerequisite of membership, that a veteran must prescribe in writing to its basic principles as described in the preamble, including:

1. To preserve the Constitution of the United States.

Free Speech Supported

2. To insure the rights of free press, free speech, free worship, free assembly and free elections.

3. To provide thorough social and economic security to all.

4. To maintain full production and full employment in the United States under a system of private enterprise.

Meantime, with Charles G. Bolte, of Greenwich, Conn., and New York, national chairman, unopposed for re-election, a four-way contest was developed for the national vice chairmanship.

Contestants for the post were Gilbert Harrison, of Los Angeles, one of the founders of AVC; Frederick Borden, of New York city, assistant public relations director of the Political Action Committee; J. Robert White, chairman of the Washington delegation; and Norris Helford, of Los Angeles, Western AVC organizer.

Military Setup Taking New Shape In Proposals Pending In Capital

JUN 16 1946

Washington, June 15—(AP)—Congress, the White House and the Navy and War Departments are busily reshaping the nation's entire military establishment to fit peacetime needs.

Here's a quick glance at the more vital and controversial projects which are now pending:

1. Draft extension—the bill passed by the Senate June 5 extended Selective Service through May 15, 1947, and provided for the drafting of men 18 and 19 years old. Senate and House conferees are now seeking to compose their differences on the measure. They must do so by June 30 or the draft bill will expire. The chief issue is the drafting of 'teenage men, which was omitted from the bill as it was originally passed by the House.

2. Universal military training—Congress has taken no action on this measure since the House Military Committee held prolonged hearings. The Army and Navy approve it, and the President has recommended it.

3. Unification of the Army and Navy—the Army insists on merger of all armed forces into a single department. The Navy contends there should be no merger, only better coordination through a Council of Common Defense, a National Resources Planning Board, the joint chiefs of staff and other co-operative enterprises.

Senate Military and Naval committees held exhaustive hearings, and the military committee has reported out a bill which would carry out the Army plan.

4. Pay increases—the draft extension bill passed by the Senate and awaiting House action provides pay raises for enlisted men but not for officers, ranging from two per cent for master sergeants to 50 per cent for privates.

The House has passed a separate bill, now pending in the Senate, which gives a 50 per cent increase to enlisted personnel and a 10 per cent raise to officers.

5. Size of the Army and Navy—the draft extension bill authorized for the Army the manpower it requested, 1,550,000 on July 1, 1946, and 1,070,000 on July 1, 1947.

It cut the Navy's request to 558,000 naval personnel and 108,000 Marines by July 1, 1947. But the Naval Appropriations Bill, which has passed the House, authorizes funds to boost the naval reserve about two-thirds above the Navy's request and to double the proposed Marine Corps Reserve. The bill authorized 965 major combatant ships instead of the 1,079 which the Navy requested.

6. Hemisphere defense — the House Foreign Affairs Committee on June 7 approved a bill carrying out the recommendations made by the President on May 6. To enable the American republics and Canada to work as a team in case of attack, the bill would authorize the President to provide the other countries with military missions for the training of personnel, to maintain and repair their military equipment, and to transfer ships and implements of war to them.

7. Outlying bases — the Inter-American Defense Board has submitted to the American republics a proposed plan for off-shore bases, providing an outer ring and an inner ring of naval and air establishments.

The Atlantic outer ring includes Iceland, the Azores, the Canary Islands and the Falkland Islands.

The Navy has submitted to Congress a proposed system of bases, including 22 in the Pacific as far west as the Ryukyus and 14 in the Atlantic, omitting the outer ring proposed by the Inter-American board.

No Army plan has been submitted. The House Naval Committee has held hearings on the Navy plan for bases, but no legislative action has been initiated.

8. Atomic energy control — the Senate on June 1 passed a bill establishing a commission of five civilians to supervise all work on atomic energy and placing control of all atomic energy production facilities in the hands of the government. House action is pending.

9. Democratization of the army—the Doolittle board recommended various reforms to narrow the gap between the officer and the enlisted man and to answer many of the GI gripes against the Army 'caste system.'

It is expected that the War Department will institute many of the reforms recommended.

HOOVER SAYS REDS OPPOSE FOOD SHARING

JUN 16 1946

Sees Communists Against Provision of Supplies to Hungry People.

IN ORDER TO PRODUCE CHAOS

President's Investigator States Then 'They Can Fish in Troubled Waters.'

Rio de Janeiro, June 15 (A. P.).—Herbert Hoover told a press conference here today that the "universal party line of the Communist party in every country is trying to break down the provision of food for hungry people and thus produce chaos where they can fish in troubled waters."

Hoover, in Brazil on a food study in South America for President Truman, said that if his analysis of the Communist policy on food were "not the case, it would appear that this is the time for Moscow to establish a new party line in the Communist press of the world."

Hoover—who said the Government and people of Brazil were eager to help relieve world famine and could furnish rice, beans and corn — was attacked upon his arrival here by the communist press as "The Ambassador of Wall Street coming to take bread from the Brazilian people."

Attacked by Communists.

"In Brazil as well as in the thirty - seven other countries I have visited," Hoover said, "wherever there is a communist press, and this is in most of them, that press has attacked this effort to provide food for the hungry working people of the world, alleging the food was to be used for political purposes."

"In Latin America, it also takes the form that we are trying to take food from the people, when our only purpose is to provide food. The unity of the opposition is interesting, because the Communist press is aware that the Christian world today is denying itself food in order that the working people of France, Belgium, Italy, Poland, Yugoslavia and twenty other countries may be saved from starvation. Among these people, there are millions of Communists who have received their full share and whose lives were saved by our action.

Cites Aid to Russia.

"It is still more interesting because after the first world war, at the request of the Soviet Government, I organized relief for the great famine among the working people of south Russia and received the most fulsome documents of thanks and appreciation signed by the highest officials of the Russian Government.

"As we are feeding Communists in all countries and always have done so, there obviously has been no use of food for political purposes or no intent to make such use of it."

MRS. LUCE ASKS PROMPT PEACE FOR EUROPEANS

JUN 16 1946

United States, Other Nations Urged to Act With or Without Russia

New London, June 15—(AP)—Rep. Clare Boothe Luce (R-Conn.) proposed tonight that the United States and other nations proceed "promptly and as best we can" to establish order in Europe independently of Russia if that country refuses to join in the task.

Asserting the Russia problem abroad and the labor problem at home held the answer as to whether the present period was a "troubled lull between World War II and World War III," Mrs. Luce said in a prepared speech, her second here today, the "Russian question is infinitely the more dangerous and difficult of these two problems."

She called for the application of "justice and fidelity to the (Russian) problem," and then said:

Should Invite Russia

"We must in the spirit of the Atlantic Charter invite Russia to sit down and make peace with us. If she refuses, we must with the help of all the little nations and the big ones outside the iron curtain (a phrase recently used by Winston Churchill in describing areas under Russian influence) promptly and as best we can organize the peace of the pieces of Europe without her. If Soviet Russian then wants out of the U. N., we must faithfully use the organization not to gang up on Russia . . . but to begin the rehabilitation of a democratic world.

"I believe that if we remain firm and proceed with a tolerance and patience which matches our firmness, Russia must at last come to believe that ours is neither a warlike, nor an aggressive, nor an imperialistic spirit."

Mrs. Luce, principal speaker at Flag Day exercises held by New London Elks as part of New London's observance of its tercentenary, said that a war with Russia would "be a tragedy of such overwhelming proportion for all civilization that no man or woman of good will can contemplate it without horror."

Labor Situation

She said:

"We all realize that if our nation could only come to some peaceful accord with the Soviet Union, the shadow of war would lift for our lifetime. And if we can resolve the discontent of labor which expresses itself in strikes which disastrously cripple our economy, we could enter an era of domestic prosperity and high production which would also enable us to play our proper and reasonable part in rehabilitating the war devastated economies of Europe and Asia."

On the labor question, Mrs. Luce, asserted that "men and women do not strike for the fun of the thing," and contended that rising living costs had placed workers in a "predicament."

The Government, in trying to help the worker out of that predicament, she said, "has flunked its job rather badly" and price controls have been "mangled and muddled."

"Intelligent administration would mean that we don't have to choose between Mr. Bowles' frying pan and the fire of inflation."

"Bread and Liberty"

In an afternoon speech before a meeting for the emergency conservation of food here, Mrs. Luce said that "bread and liberty" were the key to world-wide peace. She expressed the belief that food was the "thread that will guide civilization" out of a "vast maze of national and international questions."

"If we Americans win the battle against world-wide famine," she asserted, "we will find at the battle's end what we all want most, a peaceful world, for we Americans know that to offer men liberty without bread is to betray the physical man and that to offer him bread without liberty is to betray the spiritual man."

Hunger, she said, was "the overwhelming political fact in the world today."

"Bread and liberty, the most of both," she contended, "is essentially the political program of all truly democratic people. And without both, either peace in the world will not be achieved or it will be a police-state, concentration - camp peace sustained only by bayonets."

The meeting was sponsored by the New London League of Women Voters and the American Emergency Famine Committee."

Ticket Bureau Set Up For U.N.

New York, June 15 (AP)—The American Theater Wing has set out to help entertain the United Nations' delegations in New York city by setting up a ticket bureau for theater, radio, movie, ballet, opera, concert, sports events, and exhibits. During the war the wing operated a similar bureau for merchant seamen and regards the present service as a contribution "to winning the peace."

The wing reasons that it is important to have the cultural opportunities of New York at the disposal of the visitors and regards the service as an instrument of good will.

In its first two days of existence the bureau turned over 2,000 tickets.

CORN SCARCITY CAUSES MANY PRODUCT LAGS

JUN 16 1946

Shortage Affecting Such Varied Items As Medicine, Book Paper, Castings

Washington, June 15 (AP)—Four witnesses told the Senate Small Business committee today that the domestic corn shortage is threatening production of such varied products as medicines, magazine and book paper and iron castings.

The committee is investigating the effect on businesses of the Government's purchases of corn and wheat for world famine relief.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton B. Anderson told the committee he is hopeful the Government can release some corn to industrial users soon after "OPA"s future is finally determined."

30-Day Paper Supply

Maurice Ash, purchasing manager, and Dr. J. L. Snyder, director of general sales for Merck and Company, a medical products firm of Rahway, N.J., told the committee the company's $4,000,000 plant newly built to produce the so-called "miracle drug" streptomycin, will have to close tonight for lack of celetose, a corn sugar.

E. W. Tinker, executive secretary of the American Paper and Pulp Association of New York, said most magazines have less than a 30-day supply of paper. Cornstarch is necessary not only for magazine paper but for papers used in packaging chemicals, flour and many foods.

W. W. Cautts, of Cleveland, representing the Gray Iron Founders Society, Incorporated, said cornstarch is used as a binder in casting and "if we don't get it we won't get our automobiles and our houses because castings are used in pipe and plumbing for homes and for various parts in automobiles."

Wheat Can Replace Corn

Anderson had testified that if corn is to become available for industrial uses it must not be "unduly profitable" for farmers to feed it to hogs rather than sell it.

In coupling the possible release of corn for industrial uses with the fate of OPA, Anderson said it is probable that farmers will market additional wheat after the pricing policy is determined, and that wheat can replace corn bought for relief purposes.

FBI ACCUSES FORMER GI OF LIBRARY THEFT

500 Technical Volumes Taken Or Mutilated, Statement Says

Washington, June 15 (AP)—J. Edgar Hoover, FBI director, today accused a former GI with a Ph.D. degree of removing or mutilating more than 500 technical books of the Library of Congress.

In a formal statement, the director said Herman Richard Cooke, 32, was arrested last night in Chester, Mont. He was to be arraigned today at Great Falls, Mont. Hoover said Cooke had been charged in a complaint with theft and destruction of the books.

Hoover said that fingerprints on illustrations cut from books led to Cooke, whom he identified as honorably discharged last month from the armed forces with his home listed as Reno, Nev.

On Government Survey

The statement asserted that "the vandalism was perpetrated by Cooke over a one-year period preceding March of this year while he was engaged in a geographical and geological survey" for a branch of the armed services and "when arrested he was employed on the Government survey in the West."

Hoover said "preliminary investigation disclosed that Cooke, using a razor blade, had extracted whole chapters of colored plates, portions of texts and pictures of an estimated 400 technical books, many irreplaceable or of foreign authorship."

Thirteen Boxes In Storage

"An estimated 150 textbooks were also removed from the (Library) stacked and stored by Cooke, who planned to establish a personal reference library," the statement said.

"The purloined property, with the exception of three books found in Cooke's possession, were found in thirteen boxes which were located yesterday by FBI agents in a Washington storage firm," Hoover added.

The FBI described Cooke as born January 13, 1914, at Tonopah, Nev., where he enlisted as a private and became an aerial photograhic reader and interpreter. The FBI said Cooke had a doctor of philosophy degree.

BY LARRY HAUCK (290)

NEW YORK, JUNE 15-(AP)-YUGOSLAVIA TODAY DEMANDED THAT THE UNITED NATIONS NAME A FACT-FINDING COMMITTEE TO MAKE AN ON-THE-SPOT INVESTIGATION OF REFUGEE CAMPS IN EUROPE, AFTER CHARGING SUCH CENTERS HARBORED QUISLINGS AND CONDONED TRAINING OF UNITS OF THE ROYAL YUGOSLAV ARMY.

JUN 16 1946

LEO MATTES, YUGOSLAV DELEGATE TO THE SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC COUNCIL, MADE HIS STATEMENTS AT A HEARING ON THE REPORT OF A SPECIAL COMMITTEE ON REFUGEES AND DISPLACED PERSONS.

DECLARING THAT THE REFUGEE PROBLEM COULD BE SETTLED ONLY THROUGH A PERSONAL INVESTIGATION BY AN INTERNATIONAL BODY, MATTES SUGGESTED THAT REPRESENTATIVES OF UNITED STATES, GREAT BRITAIN, RUSSIA, FRANCE, POLAND AND YUGOSLAVIA BE NAMED TO THE FACT-FINDING GROUP.

MATTES PROPOSED THAT SUCH A COMMITTEE COLLECT INFORMATION DIRECTLY FROM REFUGEES THEMSELVES AND CAMP COMMANDERS: THAT THEY BE AIDED BY WORKING GROUPS FROM GOVERNMENTS CONCERNED; AND THAT A COMPLETE REPORT BE SUBMITTED TO THE LATE SUMMER MEETING OF THE COUNCIL.

MATTES ESPECIALLY SINGLED OUT PONGAU CAMP, AUSTRIA; EBOLI CAMP, NAPLES, ITALY; AND HIRT CAMP, AUSTRIA.

HE SAID UNITS OF THE ROYAL YUGOSLAV ARMY, OPPOSED TO THE PRESENT MARSHAL TITO REGIME, WERE TRAINING IN THESE AND OTHER CAMPS, SOMETIMES IN UNIFORM. HE ALSO CHARGED THAT SOME DISPLACED PERSONS WERE TORTURED OR MURDERED BECAUSE OF POLITICAL OPINIONS CONTRARY TO THOSE OF THE MILITARY GROUP.

AS EVIDENCE, MATTES CITED PRESS CLIPPINGS AND STORIES FROM ESCAPED YUGOSLAVS.

"IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO BE SATISFIED ON A QUESTION AFFECTING HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF PEOPLE WITHOUT HAVING FIRST-HAND INFORMATION," HE DECLARED.

THE REFUGEE REPORT WAS DRAFTED AFTER NEARLY TWO MONTHS OF DELIBERATIONS BY A COMMITTEE IN LONDON. IT HAS BROUGHT FORTH HEATED DEBATE IN THE COUNCIL, WITH ONE OF THE PRIME ISSUES WHETHER PERSONS SHOULD BE FORCED TO RETURN TO THEIR COUNTRY OF ORIGIN AGAINST THEIR WILL.

THE VIEW TAKEN BY RUSSIA IS THAT THEY SHOULD BE FORCED TO RETURN, WHILE THE UNITED STATES HAS CONTENDED THAT THERE SHOULD BE INDIVIDUAL CHOICE IN CASES WHERE THE PERSONS EXPRESSED FEAR OF PERSECUTION.

"WITH WHOM WE FOUGHT SIDE BY SIDE FOR THE COMMON CAUSE OF FREEDOM," THE DECLARATION SAID, "THE POLISH
FORCES ARE TO BE DEMOBILIZED. THIS COMES AT A TIME WHEN THE POLISH
NATION IS NOT YET FREE. XXX THE WHOLE WORLD KNOWS THAT POLAND REMAINS UNDER THE HEAVIEST SOVIET OCCUPATION."
THE DECLARATION SAID POLAND FOUGHT FOR FREEDOM WITHOUT INTERRUPTION AND SUFFERED LOSSES OF 13.6 PER CENT OF HER POPULATION, COMPARED WITH 3.7 FOR RUSSIA AND 2 PER CENT FOR FRANCE.

THE FORTHCOMING TESTS MAY NOT PROVE POSSIBILITIES IN THIS CONNECTION AS THOROUGHLY AS HE WOULD LIKE BUT YOE IS CONVINCED THAT CARBON MONOXIDE FROM SUCH SECONDARY RESULTS OF THE BIG BLAST "WOULD HAVE DEFINITE MILITARY EFFECT." YOE, WHO DID CHEMICAL WARFARE WORK IN BOTH WORLD WARS, BELIEVES THAT REGARDLESS OF THE ATOM BOMB'S SENSATIONAL POWERS, IT STILL IS UNABLE TO ELIMINATE GAS WARFARE.

"GAS WARFARE IS A MODERN TOOL OF WAR," YOE TOLD CORRESPONDENTS. "IT WAS UNUSED IN THE RECENT WAR BECAUSE WE DIDN'T NEED TO AND THE ENEMY WAS AFRAID TO USE TI KNOWING THAT WE WERE ABLE TO RETALIATE MORE STRONGLY. YET GAS WARFARE IS RELATIVE HUMANE. IT'S NASTY AND HORRIBLE BUT MOST CASUALTIES ULTIMATELY RECOVER. YOU DON'T WANT TO KILL MEN IN WAR, YOU WANT TO INCAPACITATE THEM BECAUSE THEY ARE BIGGER LIABILITIES TO THE ENEMY THAN DEAD MEN.

BRITISH PROPOSE NEW INDIAN PLAN

JUN 16 1946

Suggest 14-Man Interim Government Until Charter Is Drafted.

NEW DELHI, June 16 — (AP) Viceroy Lord Wavell and the British cabinet mission proposed today a 14-man interim government for India. A spokesman for Mohandas K. Gandhi said the spiritual leader of the powerful Congress party was "personally very unhappy" over the plan.

A member of the working committee of the Moslem league, chief rival of the Congress party, declared however that "if there is no further modification of the cabinet plan I see no reason why we should not accept."

Gandhi Addresses Meeting

Gandhi, addressing a prayer meeting three hours after the proposal was disclosed exhorted his listeners to "wait, watch and pray," and said acceptance would be guided by "mature consideration of the greatest good to all."

The British said that invitations had been issued to 14 representative Indian leaders to participate in a government which would administer this huge sub-continent while a constituent assembly drafts a charter for independence.

The cabinet would be made up of five members of the Moslem league, including President M. A. Jinnah; five members of the Congress party, including President-elect Jawaharlal Nehru; one representative of the depressed classes, one Sikh, one Parsee and one Indian Christian.

The spokesman for Gandhi said that the list of 14 "has not done justice to the Congress. I do not know whether Jinnah will be satisfied, but there is one silver lining—there is no compulsion for nominees to join the government."

Party Rejected

Yesterday Congress party leaders were reported to have rejected any idea of parity between the Moslem league and the Congress in the government. Today some observers conceded that ordinarily a sixth vote could be assured the Congress from the depressed caste member and aid would be forthcoming from the Indian christian and Sikh members.

The latter was already promised Gandhi's blessing "if he is approved by the entire Sikh community." Unofficial reports said the Congress might accept the plans if it could obtain one more cabinet seat, even if it meant raising the total to 15.

Congress leaders indicated that the party position would be made known tomorrow after the session of the working committee.

The working committee of the Moslem league met this afternoon, but took no formal action on the proposal. Individual Moslem league cabinet nominees declined to comment, saying "this is for the league to decide."

Will Proceed with Plan

The joint statement by the cabinet mission and the viceroy made clear, however, that the British would proceed with an interim government even though participation is declined by any of the individuals invited to join the cabinet or by the Congress and the Moslem league.

If the invitations to join the government are accepted "the viceroy will aim at inaugurating the new government about June 26," a statement declared, "but if any of those invited is unable for personal reasons to accept the viceroy will after consultation invite some other person in his place."

The statement added that "in the event of the two major parties, or either of them proving unwilling to join in the setting up of the coalition government on the above lines, it is the intention of the viceroy to proceed with formation of an interim government which will be as representative as possible of those willing to accept the statement of May 16 (date of announcement of the mission's plan)."

In letters sent to Jinnah and Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, president of the Congress party, the viceroy said:

"We are unwilling to abandon our hope of working partnership between the two major parties and representatives of the minorities. We have therefore done our best to arrive at a practicable arrangement taking into consideration the various conflicting aims and the need for obtaining a government capable of representative administrators."

12 Weeks of Study

The announcement of the interim government came at the end of 12 weeks of patient, striving for a solution to the 200-year problem of Indian independence.

It came just a month after the mission announced its plan for Indian independence after conferences with Indian leaders from all walks of life. Lord Pethick Lawrence, head of the mission, said the plan would make possible "a great new sovereign state."

While it rejected Moslem demands for parkistan, the cabinet mission head said it would enable the Moslems to "secure the advantages of parkistan without incurring dang- inherent in a division of India."

The plan, generally well received in Hindu circles, required grouping of Indian provinces into three blocs: First, six having clear Hindu majority; second Moslem majority of which there are three; third, the Moslem Majority privince of Bengal and the Hindu majority province of Assam.

The cabinet mission proposed that a constituent assembly be elected to draft a new constitution. The assembly would be chosen on a population ratio of one repressentative per million people. The total population of India is approximately 390,000,000.

JUN 16 1946

Proposed Cabinet List

The men proposed for the Cabinet:

Congress Party — Nehru, Sardar Vallabhai Patel, Dr. Rajendra Prasad, Chakrawarthi Rajagopalachari and H. K. Mahtab.

Moslem League—Jinnah, Liquat Khan, Nawab Mohammed Ismail Khan, Sir Kwaja Nazimuddin, Sardar Abdur Rab Nishtar.

Depressed Castes—Jagjivan Ram.

Sikhs—Sardar Baldev Singh.

Parsees—Sir N. P. Engineer.

Indian Christian—Dr. John Matthai.

Of the fourteen, Jinnah and Nehru are the best known outside India. Jinnah, who will be 70 next Christmas Day, received part of his education in England and practiced law in London for several years. He is founder and president of the Moslem League and is best known for his advocacy of Pakistan — a separate Moslem state.

Gandhi's "Heir Apparent"

Nehru, Harrow and Cambridge educated, is 57. He is referred to by Mohandas K. Gandhi as his "heir apparent." With a record of nine imprisonments during the last 25 years for civil disobedience under the British Indian penal code, he is recognized as a pronounced left-wing Socialist in political philosqpohy.

Patel, 71-year-old "iron man" of the Congress, is a member of the Congress Working Committee. Prasad, 62, was twice president of the Congress. Rajagopalachari, 67, former Premier of Madras, who entered last-minute negotiations as a mediator, has been an outspoken critic of the party, while Mahtab is present Congress Premier of Orissa province and a member of the working committee.

On the Moslem side Ali Khan is secretary of the Moslem League and second only to Jinnah. Sir Kwaja Nazimuddin, 52, recently in the United States as a food negotiator, is a former Prime Minister of Bengal. Ismail Khan and Rab Mishtar are members of the league's working committee.

In Punjab Ministry

Baldev Singh is Sikh Minister in the present coalition ministry in the Punjab. Engineer is Advocate General of India. Matthai is a well-known Indian Christian economist and director of the vast Tata industrial holdings, and Jagjivan Ram is a legislator in Bihar province.

The announcement of the interim Government came at the end of twelve weeks of striving for a solution to the 200-year problem of Indian independence.

It came just a month after the mission anounced its plan for Indian independence, after conferences with Indian leaders from all walks of life.

While the plan rejected Moslem demands for Pakistan the Cabinet mission head said it would enable the Moslems to "secure the advantages of Pakistan without incurring dangers inherent in a division of India."

The plan, generally well received in Hindu circles, required grouping of Indian provinces into three blocs: First, six having clear Hindu majority; second, northwest Moslem majority provinces of which there are three; third, the Moslem majority province of Bengal and the Hindu majority province of Assam.

Texts on Regime for India

JUN 17 1946

Text of Statement

NEW DELHI, June 16 (AP)—The text of the statement by the Viceroy, Viscount Wavell, and the three members of the British Cabinet mission proposing a new interim government for India:

JUN 17 1946

The Viceroy for some time has been exploring the possibilities of forming a coalition government drawn from the two major parties and from certain minorities. Discussions have revealed the difficulties which exist for the two major parties in arriving at any agreed basis for the formation of such a government. The Viceroy and Cabinet mission appreciate these difficulties and the efforts which the two main parties have made to meet them. They consider, however, that no useful purpose can be served by further prolonging these discussions. It is indeed urgently necessary that a strong and representative interim government should be set up to conduct the very heavy and important business that has to be carried through.

The Viceroy is now issuing an invitation to the following to serve as interim government members on the basis that the constitution-making shall proceed in accordance with the May 16 statement; Sinclair Baldev Singh, Dr. John Matthai, Jagjivan Ram, Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, Mohammed Ali Jinnah, Nawabzada Liaquat Ali Khan, H. K. Mahtab, Nawab Mohammed Ismail Khan, Sir Nazimuddin Khwaja, Sardar Abdur Rab Nishtar, C. Rajagopalacharia, Dr. Rajendra Prasad and Sardar Vallabhai Patel.

If any of these is unable for personal reasons to accept, the Viceroy will, after consultation, invite some other person in his place. The Viceroy will arrange the distribution of portfolios in consultation with the two main party leaders.

The above composition of an interim government is in no way to be taken as a precedent for the solution of any other communal question. It is an expedient put forward to solve the present difficulty only and to obtain the best available coalition government.

The Viceroy and Cabinet mission believe that Indians of all communities desire to arrive at a speedy settlement of this matter so that the process of constitution-making can go forward and that the government of India may be carried on as efficiently as possible in the meantime.

They therefore hope that all parties, especially the two major parties, will accept this proposal so as to overcome the present obstacles and will cooperate for the successful carrying on of the interim government. Should this proposal be accepted the Viceroy will aim at inaugurating the new government about June 26.

In the event of the major parties or either of them proving unwilling to join in the setting up of a coalition government on the above lines, it is planned to proceed with the formation of an interim government which will be as representative as possible of those willing to accept the British Cabinet mission's statement of May 16. The Viceroy is also directing the Governors of the provinces to summon the Provincial Legislative Assemblies forthwith to proceed with the elections necessary for the setting up of constitution-making machinery as put forward in the May 16 statement.

Letter From Viceroy

The text of identical letters sent by the Viceroy to the heads of the Congress party and the Moslem League:

The Cabinet Ministers and I are fully aware of the difficulties that have prevented agreement on the composition of an interim government. We are unwilling to abandon our hope of a working partnership between the two major parties and the representatives of the minorities.

We have therefore done our best to arrive at a practical arrangement, taking into consideration the various conflicting claims and the need for obtaining a government of capable and representative administrators.

We hope the parties will now take their share in the administration of the country on the basis outlined in our new statement. We are sure we can rely on you and your Working Committee to look to the wider issues and to the urgent needs of the country as a whole and to consider this proposal in a spirit of accommodation.

Intervention Is Hit In Danubian Issue

U. S., Britain Accused of Trying to Impose Their Will on Other Countries

JUN 17 1946

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 16.—The Moscow press and radio launched today extensive broadsides against what they termed Western "reactionaries and enemies of peace."

Highlights of the Soviet broadcasts and articles, reaching the Western democracies at a time when the Foreign Ministers' conference has resumed peace talks at Paris, included:

1. A statement that the Danube waterways question "can be settled freely by the Danubian states without any intervention imposed upon them from outside."

2. A suggestion—made in connection with the fifth anniversary next Saturday of the invasion of Russia by Germany—that the Germans might have perfected the atomic bomb if the Red Army had not kept them too busy.

3. A new charge that influential circles in the Anglo-Saxon countries, and not in Russia, were endangering the peace by a "policy of imposing their will on other states."

NIGHT

Hits Friends of Franco

4. A declaration that "those who approve of the Franco regime in Spain and royalist terror in Greece cannot be pleased with the forces of the young democracy whose weight and authority are steadily growing in eastern Europe."

Referring to British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin's plea before the House of Commons on June 4 that all of Europe's rivers be reopened to international shipping, Philip Baratov, commentator, said: "The Danube problem is one of those post-war problems which are created and artificially made complicated by certain circles which are striving to retrieve their pre-war privileges again by force and not by right." He added: "The Danube question can be settled freely by the Danubian states without any intervention imposed upon them from outside."

An article in the Soviet magazine "New Times" said it was "ridiculous" for the New York Herald Tribune to assert "that the Soviet Union could not have defeated the Germans without the assistance of Great Britain and America, and that the latter could have won the war even without the assistance of the Soviet Union."

"How could the Americans be sure," the magazine demanded, "that the Germans would not have discovered the secret of the new weapon before them . . . had not Germany been compelled for nearly four years to concentrate all her forces and resources on the main front of the second world war—the Soviet-German fronts?"

The Soviet news agency Tass reported from Paris, meanwhile, a general expectation of "new proposals" by British and United States delegates to break the deadlock of the last conference.

"Wide circles of the international public are expecting from the delegations of both these countries constructive steps toward the solution of disputed problems," the agency said.

BRITAIN TO RATION ITS BREAD SUPPLY, SAYS FOOD CHIEF

JUN 17 1946

LONDON, June 16 — (AP) John Strachey, in his first broadcast since he succeeded Sir Ben Smith as food minister, said tonight it was "highly probable" that bread would be rationed in Britain.

"I say to the whole world that this country cannot today give a greater proof of its international good faith than by preparing to ration its own bread," Strachey declared.

NIGHT

"It's rather the fashion for all of us to start criticizing America just now because she is better fed than we are," he said. "But do we realize that at this moment there are idle flour mills and bread queues in American cities because of the amount of what America is striving to send overseas?"

Strachey, who will leave by plane tomorrow for food talks in Canada and later for the first meeting of the International Emergency Food council in the United States, suggested that the monotonous British diet is not so thin as it seems.

"In total quantity we as a nation are only eating about seven per cent less food than we did before the war," he said. "Richer people are getting considerably less food than they used to, while many poorer people are actually getting more x x x.

"But there is a strict limit to what Britain can do to help starving peoples," the food minister continued, "and that limit has undoubtedly been reached at the point at which we have to make all preparations for bread rationing."

Predicting food policies now being formulated would make Britain in a few years better fed than ever before, Strachey said he was proud of the contribution the country had made to avert starvation in Germany and elsewhere.

"Our country can do no more than it is doing to save our fellow men from the horrors of world famine," he declared.

Italy Pact Drawn But With Big Gaps

Major Problems Are Left for Ministers to Settle When They Meet Today

By The Associated Press

PARIS, June 16 (AP).—A skeleton proposal of a treaty with Romania was reported today by American informants as ready for submission to the Council of Foreign Ministers, which will resume discussions tomorrow in the Luxembourg Palace.

NIGHT

The treaty was understood to include recognition of the transfer to the Soviet Union of Bessarabia, which was occupied by the Russians in 1940 and annexed in 1944 in a bilateral settlement.

At the conferences here in May the ministers were reported to have agreed upon restoring Transylvania to Romania, as provided in the terms of the Hungarian surrender to the Allies.

Interim Report Studied

The American, British, French and Soviet delegations studied today the interim report of their deputies, focusing attention on the major issues remaining for decision.

This report, summarizing the work of the deputy foreign ministers since the ministers recessed last month, was understood to include a skeleton draft of a treaty with Italy, with gaps for outstanding points still in dispute. Alternate proposals were supplied to fill these blank spots.

Unfortunately for conference harmony, these gaps involved big differences, on the Italian treaty, the status of Trieste, the Italian-Yugoslav frontier, the Italian colonies and reparations, an American informant said.

The deputies will meet at 10 a. m. tomorrow to map out a priorities list for the ministers' session at 3 p. m. At their first reconvened session yesterday the ministers agreed to study the Italian treaty, but the deputies still have to select various clauses for discussion.

American informants said drafts of treaties for Hungary, Bulgaria and Finland will be submitted as soon as possible later in the week.

Bulgarians Fly

Sofia, June 16 (AP) ...garian delegatio.. headed by Vassil Kolarov, Communist Speaker of Parliament, was flying today to Paris.

party in the June 2 elections, has proposed Foreign Minister Georges Bidault for the provisional presidency. The newly chosen Constituent Assembly was asked to elect him next Wednesday.

Ends 6-Month Silence

DeGaulle, breaking a political silence of six months, urged the Constituent Assembly to draft for the Fourth Republic a constitution which would set up a two-house legislature and a strong executive. The MRP has advanced similar proposals.

The French people in a referendum in May rejected a Communist-backed constitution which would have set up a powerful one-house legislature and reduced the president virtually to the status of figurehead.

Speaking in Bayeux at a ceremony commemorating his return to France in 1944, de Gaulle warned of the threat of dictatorship.

"The actual situation of the world, where, behind opposing ideologies, powers between which we are placed confront one another, threatens to introduce into our political rivalries an element of dangerous trouble," he said.

Apparently deGaulle referred to his former description of France's position as being delicately placed between Russia and the United States.

Faces Critical Situation

France, the former provisional president said, faces a "life or death" situation, with "the position, independence and existence of our country and empire really at stake." Therefore the branches of the government should be "clearly separated and strongly balanced," he argued.

JUN 17 1946

PARIS, June 16—(AP) The Communists served notice today they would oppose any government headed by the moderate Popular Republican Movement (MRP), as Gen de Gaulle re-entered the political arena with strong support of MRP proposals for the Fourth French Republic.

DeGaulle's speech was bound to have profound reverberations, since it placed him in open opposition to the Communists, who still insist upon the all-powerful single House assembly.

The Communists issued a communique urging that a socialist be named to head the government. The Communists said they believed that "all partisan considerations must be effaced before the superior interests of the country."

The communique stated the willingness of the Communists to make concessions on the new constitution, except for the issue of state subsidies for parochial schools—a perpetual point of friction with the War reparations "and the largest share of German coal for France, suport of trade union demands for a 25 percent wage increase, further severe budget economies and continued attempts for unity of action with the Socialists were called for by the Communists.

Seen as Candidate

In some quarters de Gaulle's speech was looked upon as an indication that he was a candidate for the presidency of the Fourth Republic, to be set up under the new constitution, if the people approved the system he supported.

DeGaulle resigned as provisional president during a governmental crisis last January. Explaining that move, he told his Bayeux audience that he had sought certainty that "no question could be raised about an individual, director of a state, exercising an influence on the task of the legislators." Also, he said, he wanted to avoid either being involved in or seeming to condone "political bickering."

This was deGaulle's stand on the constitution which the newly elected constituent assembly will write.

"The essence of democracy is the expression of opinions by universal suffrage," but all principles and all experiences demand that the public powers—legislative, executive and judicial—be clearly separated and strongly balanced, that above political contingencies there be established a national arbiter to maintain stability in the midst of bickers. x x x

"The executive power must be wielded by a chief of state, placed above all parties, elected by a college embracing the parliament, but larger, and composed in such a manner as to make him president of the empire as well as the republic."

Demands Wide Powers

DeGaulle urged that the president of the Republic be given power to nominate ministers, including the prime minister; to approve cabinet decisions, and to preside at government councils.

Rivalry of French political parties today, he said, "too often overshadows the superior interest of the country. x x xThe menace of dictatorship can appear at any moment."

He recalled the history of Germany's Weimar republic and of the Spanish republic, both of which had one-house legislatures.

"The future of 110,000,000 French men and women who live under our flag is in the organization of a federated structure that in time will be elaborated in precise form," deGaulle declared. "Our new constitution must take the first step toward its creation."

The first step, he said, should be the setting up of the second assembly, whose members "for the most part would be elected by our municipal councils and councils general." These councils are roughly comparable to American county administrations.

Such second house, deGaulle said, would supplement the other chamber by persuading it if necessary to revise its own projects and by providing an administrative point of view which a "purely political assembly naturally has a tendency to neglect."

"It would be normal to introduce into it (the second house) representatives of economic, family and intellectual organizations, so that the voices of the principal activities of the state can be heard.

"Mingled with the deputies of overseas local assemblies, the members of this assembly would form the big council of the empire, qaulified to debate on laws and problems concerning the empire—budget, finances and communication."

Plan To Split Reich Into States Assailed

JUN 17 1946

Berlin, June 16 (AP)—Suggestions from abroad that Germany should be split into a dozen autonomous states bound by a customs union were denounced as "dangerous for the future peace of Europe" today by leaders of the Christian Democratic Union.

Speaking to a convention of delegates from all four occupation zones, Jacob Kaiser, party chairman, said any such divisions would result in "constant unrest, with a tug of war of interests and rivalry between German states."

FRAULEIN IS HELD FOR SLAYING YANK

JUN 17 1946

NUERNBERG, June 16—(AP) A 20-year-old German girl will go on trial Thursday on a charge of slaying a U. S. Army sergeant with his own .45 automatic, military government authorities announced today.

The girl, Erika Krebs, is accused of killing a master sergeant of the 793rd military police battalion with the gun she had taken from him earlier with the intention of killing herself, Army authorities said. They stated she claimed the pistol was discharged accidentally. The sergeant's name was withheld, pending notification of next of kin.

This was the second case in recent months in which a fraulein has been charged with murdering an American. Five German girls have been found dead in American Army billets in the past five weeks. Four of them were listed as suicides and the fifth as an accidental fatality.

FULL DENIAL BY MIHAILOVIC

JUN 17 1946

"Never Ordered Murder," Chetnik Chief Tells Court

U.S. FIRST EDITION

Belgrade, June 16 (AP)—Gen. Draja Mihailovic entered a blanket denial today to prosecution charges that he countenanced war crimes by his Chetnik guerrillas, and replied spiritedly that "I never ordered murder, particularly of women and children."

"Never, as long as I have been a soldier, have I allowed even captured soldiers to be killed, and more so, never civilians," Mihailovic said as the prosecution confronted him with charges against the Chetnik forces ranging from murder and rape to the burning of villages.

The Cryptic Letter "Z"

The testimony in the Sunday session—the seventh day of Mihailovic's trial on charges of treason and collaboration—was indicative of the violence of recent Balkan history. Much of the testimony concerned interpretation of "Z," described by the prosecution as the name of a Chetnik unit.

The prosecution contended that "Z" stood for the word Zaklati, which means to stab to death. Mihailovic testified, however, that it denoted Zaplasiti, which means to frighten.

"Put under the 'Z'," the prosecution claimed, meant to mark individuals unfriendly to Mihailovic for murder. But the defendant testified:

"I wanted to frighten certain people, and I managed in many cases to frighten them.

The Three Chetnik Branches

The war-crimes charges against Mihailovic revolve about three branches of the Chetnik leader's wartime movement. These were the "Black Threes," the "Flying Squads," and "Z."

The prosecution contended that all three groups were formed for the purpose of carrying out reprisals against Partisan sympathizers. Mihailovic said all three were used for propaganda purposes and to take action against traitors.

He admitted he had ordered the "liquidation of the (partisan) movement."

The prosecution asked Mihailovic if it was not "the duty of the flying squads to liquidate partisans and their sympathizers."

Claims Persuasion Was Meant

"In this case," Mihailovic answered, "to liquidate meant to perusade them to change—not to kill them."

Mihailovic, asked about a charge that in February, 1943, eight thousand old men, woman and children were slain in Bosnia by the Chetniks, said he had ordered one of his commanders to clear the area, but added: "I had no idea he would do it that way. I think these figures are exaggerated."

The "Black Threes," Mihailovic testified, were "chiefly . . . to purge especially those Quislings in the towns which were hindering us."

Mihailovic told the tribunal that reports of "Black Threes" activities were broadcast over the British Broadcasting Company facilities "in order to frighten those who worked with the Quislings," and that orders to "put the letter's 'Z'" on certain persons also "went through BBC on particulars . . . about Quisling persons who deserved to be treated that way."

Innsbruck Newspaper Suspended By French

JUN 17 1946

Vienna, June 16 (AP)—French military authorities in Innsbruck have suspended temporarily the daily newspaper Tiroler Nachrichten for publishing an article in which the Austrian law against Nazis was criticized.

The newspaper, an organ of the People's party of Chancellor Leopold Figl, announced before its suspension that the article was published through an oversight.

The French information service said the publishers of two other Innsbruck publications were placed under house arrest, one for publishing statements hostile to the Allies.

Pan American [illegible] Takes 21 H[illegible] Minute

VIENNA, June 16 (AP).—The Pan American World Airways' first commercial clipper flight to Vienna arrived today after a total east-bound flight time of twenty-one hours and forty-one minutes from New York.

Passengers included Mrs. Seymour Freidin, the former Miss Elizabeth Jane Shepherd, wife of the New York Herald Tribune correspondent in southeastern Europe. Jan A. Masaryk, Foreign Minister of Czechoslovakia, was passenger from London to Prague.

[A new commercial-plane record for a transatlantic flight from La Guardia Field to London was set yesterday by a British Overseas Airway Corporation Constellation, which covered the 3,520 miles in eleven hours and twenty-four minutes, at an average speed of 310 miles an hour, the B. UMBERTO IN LISBON

LISBON, June 16—(AP) Former King Umberto II of Italy made his first public appearance in Portugal today when he attended mass in a church in the resort town of Sintra accompanied by former Queen Marie Jose, their children and members of Umberto's suite. Umberto left Italy June 13 to go into exile.

ATOM GRENADE PREDICTED

STOCKHOLM, June 16 — (AP) The newspaper Aftonbladet today quoted Victor Hammer, chief engineer of Bofors, famed Swedish munitions firm, as predicting the development of an "atom grenade."

"The grenade would be used against airplanes before they could drop atom bombs," Hammer said during an interview.

Moscow Papers Play Up Big Four Conference

JUN 17 1946

Moscow, June 16 (AP) —The resumption of the Four Power Foreign Ministers Conference in Paris and the report of the Atomic Energy Commission in the United States were given prominent display in the foreign sections of Moscow's press today.

One Tass dispatch from Paris said the "organs of the one-sided English and American press raised a big noise about the reparations demands of the Soviet Union (upon Italy) and at the same time were silent about many American and British economic claims presented to Italy."

JEWISH AGENCY'S STAND IS STATED

JUN 17 1946

EGOFFE ETREU

Reply Sent U.S. And Britain. Underground Charges Plot

Jerusalem, June 16 (AP)—The Jewish Agency declared today in a statement to the American and British governments that the "establishment of Palestine as a Jewish state" is the only "just, practicable and lasting solution" of the Palestine problem.

The agency, official organization of the Jews in Palestine, issued the statement to C. L. Pinkerton, United States Consul General in Palestine, and General Sir Alan Cunningham, Palestine high commissioner, for transmission to their respective governments.

The American and British governments had asked that the agency inform them by June 20 of its reaction to the report of the British-American committee of inquiry, which recommended that 100,000 European Jews be admitted to Palestine this year.

Deportation Scheme Charged

The reply was handed to the British and American representatives shortly after the Jewish underground radio declared it had uncovered a "highly secret" British plan to deport Zionist leaders from the Holy Land "if the position in Palestine takes a more serious turn."

The Jewish agency's statement asserted that Jews all over the world were caused "grave concern in the hesitation and delay shown in implementing" the positive recommendations of the British-American committee.

The statement also criticized the "procrastination" which it said was shown by the fact that Jews still remained in European displaced-persons camps a year after the war's end.

"Utmost Dispatch" Urged

The agency urged that "the authorities carry out with the utmost dispatch the committee's recommendations that 100,000 Jewish victims of Nazi and Fascist persecution be permitted immediately to enter Palestine, and that discriminatory and restrictive land transfer regulations in force in Palestine be rescinded and replaced by a policy of freedom in the sale and lease of land. . . ."

It expressed the hope that "the governments of Great Britain and the United States . . . will cooperate wholeheartedly in the tasks of transport and resettlement involved."

The Jewish underground radio said the "highly secret" British plan called for wiping out Haganah, the illegal Jewish defense organization, and bombing and shelling any Jewish settlements which resisted search.

"Let the Jews the world over and the whole civilized world know what Misters Bevin and Attlee and their henchmen are preparing for us, and let the world know that we will fight."

"Propaganda," British Say

[The British Foreign Office in London said it had no knowledge of such a plan. A spokesman said the broadcast "probably is a part of the acrimonious propaganda war being waged by both Jews and Arabs pending a decision on implementing the British-American inquiry committee report.]

The announcer, who said he spoke for "resistance headquarters," did not say when or where the document was discovered but asserted that its "black list" of Jewish leaders, containing "thousands of names," would be broadcast soon.

JUN 17 1946

Leaders Declared On List

He said the list for deportation or imprisonment included David Ben Gurion, Moshe Shertok and the other eight members of the Jewish Agency executive committee, as well as Mayor Israel Rokeach and Mrs. Golda Myerson, of Tel Aviv, and scientists of the Hebrew University.

"It is perfectly obvious," the announcer said, "that this black list is aimed not only at the liquidation of Haganah, but at the liquidation of the entire Jewish community."

The broadcast said the resistance movement had learned from the document all the secret codes it said the British planned to use in an attack to "disrupt and disarm Jewish forces."

Notified Individually

The announcer declared the document contained a list of Haganah meeting places, and a list of caches of rifles in milk cans, and other arms under haystacks, in cisterns, in orange groves and in private homes.

"The resistance movement has notified all occupants of these addresses individually," the broadcast said.

The broadcast was not published in Palestine newspapers because censorship forbids mention of "The Voice of Israel," the underground radio.

Jewish Appeal Made To Russia

Tel Aviv, Palestine, June 16 (AP). Salman Rubashov, Jewish labor leader and editor, appealed today to the Soviet Union and the Trade Union Conference in Moscow not to forget Jewish workers in Palestine and Jewish displaced persons in Europe.

In an address before a Jewish agricultural workers' meeting, Rubashov protested against what he described as the "anti-semitism" of British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin.

Siamese Parliament Names 2-Man Regency

Bangkok, June 16 (AP)—The Siamese Parliament elected tonight a permanent, two-man regency council to replace the temporary regency established following the death a week ago of King Ananda Mahidol.

The regents, who will rule Siam for the new King, Phumiphon Adhldet, are Royal Prince Chainat and Phya Manaveraj Sevi, speaker of the old National Assembly.

Meanwhile, it was reported that Siamese police still were investigating the death of Ananda Mahidol, although it was announced officially in the National Assembly that the King had accidentally shot himself.

Local newspapers said that "certain persons" had been detained for questioning in connection with the investigation.

TRUCE TEAMS GO INTO FIELD

H. MILLS

American General Sets Up Manchurian Organization

JUN 17 1946

Nanking, June 16 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Henry Byroade today began activating field (truce) teams which will work to keep peace in Manchuria while Gen. George C. Marshall pushes negotiations here for a permanent end to China's internal war.

Byroade, senior officer of the advance section of executive truce headquarters, flew to Changchun, accompanied by two Communist generals who will be attached to the Manchuri[illegible]ital headquarters.

Assignment of a[illegible]st eight field teams was specified in an agreement signed Saturday by the committee of three—General Marshall, Gen. Hsu Yung-chang, for the Government, and Gen. Chou En-lai, for the Communists.

The agreement, designed to implement the current fifteen-day truce in Manchurian fighting between China's central Government and the Chinese Communists, promised to relieve much of the pressure under which Marshall and other negotiators have been working.

Marshall, special American envoy to China, appeared to be making considerable progress in his efforts to conclude a permanent agreement before the truce expires June 22. Chinese sources said that an agreement on restoration of war-wrecked communications in the northeast territory had virtually been concluded.

A t[illegible]her problem still was unsolved[illegible]wever, in reorganizing China's [illegible]es. Considerable delay was [illegible]cted before government an[illegible]mmunists could agree on the futu[illegible] disposition of Chinese Communist forces now massed in Manchuria.

SHANGHAI CURFEW LIFTED

SHANGHAI, June 16. — (AP) The curfew imposed on Shanghai's 4,000,000 inhabitants since the outbreak of Sino-Japanese hostilities in 1937 was lifted at midnight Saturday, but an order requiring all places of amusement to close by 11 p. m. was maintained.

NEW TROUBLES FOR WAR TRIAL

JUN 18 1946

Difficulties Multiply After Defense Quits In Japan

LANDBERG

Tokyo, Monday, June 17 (AP)—The first two witnesses to be called in the war crimes trial of former Premier Hedeki Tojo and 27 other accused Japanese will be heard late today.

Names of the witnesses—one American and one Japanese—have not been revealed.

Meanwhile, the war crimes defense section aired new grievances before the tribunal after its chief counsel and five other members had resigned.

Difficulties 'Increasing'

Floyd J. Mattice, of Indianapolis, told the open court that difficulties of attorneys named to defend former Premier Hideki Tojo and 27 other accused Japanese are "increasing and multiplying."

Mattice said a four-member committee had been organized to confer with the chief justice, Sir William Webb. Mattice, special assistant to the United States Attorney General since 1944, said current unsolved problems were hampering the ability of the defense staff to prepare their cases.

A scheduled private meeting with Sir William before the court was resumed today was called off by failure of committeemen to get together.

Personnel Called Isufficient

Mattice said the transportation problem had worsened and that because the administrative section was closed Saturday afternoon and Sunday "we found ourselves unable to function this week end." Mattice said personnel for defense needs were insufficient. He asked the court itself to make a request from general headquarters for additional employés.

The prosecution, through Alan J. Mansfield, of Australia, said the administration office was open Saturday and Sunday and that prosecution attorneys had been able to work during the week end. Mansfield objected to any delay in the delivery of documents under Mattice's proposal that Saturday afternoon and Sunday not be counted in computing the 24-hour service period.

To Consider Complaint

Sir William announced the court would consider the defense complaint and the prosecution today records ofthe 28 Japanese defendants.

There still was no official explanation for the resignation of United States Navy Captain Beverly M. Coleman, of Washington, as chief American defense counsel, and five of his aides. But Coleman on June 3 said he was quitting because defense attorneys were not given sufficient time to prepare cases.

Mattice sat today with United States Army Major Ben Bruce Blakeney, of Oklahoma City, Okla. At the desk which Captain Coleman had shared with Ichiro Kiyose, attorney for Tojo and chief Japanese defense counsel.

Comment Refused

Coleman and other resigned attorneys continued to refuse comment on their resignations which left the defense section without a head.

The defense public relations office said a news release explaining the resignations had been sent to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters' public relations office on Saturday. It was understood from other sources that the news release was being withheld by higher authorities.

Japan Cabinet Criticized For Statement on Food

JUN 17 1946

Co-operative Democrats Call Rice Situation Mishandled

TOKYO, June 16 (AP).—The Co-operative Democratic party today criticized the Cabinet's recent statement on the food problem, asserting it failed to provide measures for improving rice collections or liberalizing rationing. The Cabinet statement said the food situation was not desperate, but recommended that the government give farmers necessary production materials and an increase in prices.

Meanwhile, municipal workers threatened to strike if their demands for food allotments, special holidays and abolition of the labor income tax were not met. The Metropolitan Government Workers Union threatened to resort to its own "business control tactics" to back the demands.

DAY

A shouting, stamping group of young men paraded through Tokyo today to the Imperial Palace gates, where they demanded permission to hand court officials a petition to the Emperor. Palace guards and police persuaded the marchers to give up their plan. The petition was disclosed to have been an assurance that the Japanese people were "cheerfully carrying out the task of reconstruction."

Jap Inventory Requested To Aid in Reparations

JUN 18 1946

TOKYO, Monday, June 17—(AP) General MacArthur today ordered the Japanese government to inventory all physical equipment in 40 aircraft factories, 91 arsenals and 63 research laboratories which were earmarked for "potential reparations." The plants are under Allied custody.

J. Z. Reday, chief of the headquarters industry and reparations division, said the inventory would provide "a completely modern, efficient method for handling reparations," and that the data would be catalogued for perusal by nations claiming payments from Japan.

It was reported unofficially that the Far Eastern commission in Washington had desired to send a commission to Japan to make such a survey.

Dramatic [illegible]escue By Plane [illegible] Luzon

JUN 17 1946

Manila, June 16 (AP)—A rescue plane used the rough, narrow main street of Bontoc as a landing field to snatch Dr. Samuel M. Wichik, of the United States Public Health Service, from the wild Igorot country of northern Luzon, where he lay desperately ill.

The hospital of Camp John Hay at Baguio, where Wishik was flown Saturday, reported the dramatic rescue today.

A messenger from Dr. Enrique Ochoo at Bontoc reported to officials at Baguio that Wishik was suffering from hemorrhagic stomach ulcers and that only transfusion equipment and medicine could save him.

Staff Sergeant Preston M. Taylor, of Lumberton, N.C., and T/5 James J. Doherty, of New York city, with an Igorot guide immediately went by jeep over the faint trials 150 miles from Camp Hay to Bontoc. They carried whole blood donated by Major Robert A. Bradley, Camp Hay quartermaster.

The next day the two soldiers laid out signal panels on Bontoc's main street, which is the only level area in the district. A small liaison plane landed in the street, damaging a wing when it hit a parked truck. Repairs were made and Wishik was flown to Baguio, where he was reported weak but improving.

Wishik, who was stationed four years in Honolulu before going to the Philippines recently, is from Flushing, N.Y.

CARGO PLANE GETS FIRST GLIDER TEST

MANILA, June 16 — (AP) Tests designed to more than double the pay-load capacity of cargo aircraft are scheduled this week with a C-47 transport converted into a freighter-glider by the removal of its engines as the focal point of the experiment.

The unpowered C-47 will be towed tomorrow from Nichols field to a height of 12,000 feet, where it will be cut loose for a landing at Manila.

The 403rd airforce carrier group will make the test, with a C-54 doing the hauling.

Later in the week, if the preliminary hop is successful, the sky train may be towed on a non-stop hop to Tokyo.

By removing the engines from the C-47 and using it as a glider, the craft's pay load was increased from 5,000 to 13,000 pounds, a gain of 8,000 pounds useful load. The tests have wide military and civilian implications.

Guatemala Wants Court To Arbitrate Entire Case

Guatemala, Guatemala, June 16 (AP)—Guatemala, which is seeking sovereignty over all of British Honduras, has agreed in principle to arbitrate the matter before the World at the Hague, an exchange of communications between the Guatemalan and British Governments showed today.

It was explained, however, that Guatemala has not agreed to abide by the terms of a British declaration of February 14 which is regarded here as a move to limit the case to an adjustment of boundaries.

The Guatemalan Government has asked the British to reply to its proposal of last January to submit the case to the Court without limitations.

ROSE MAY GET 7-YEAR TERM

JUN 17 1946

Canadian Communist M.P. Convicted In Spy Case

H. MONTGOMERY

Montreal, June 16 (AP) — Fred Rose, the only Communist member of Canada's Parliament, stands convicted today as one of the key figures in the Dominion's Moscow-directed espionage network and faces a maximum sentence of seven years in prison.

A twelve-man jury took only 31 minutes late last night to pronounce a verdict of guilty against Rose, 38-year-old former electrician, bringing to an end a three weeks' trial in which the Government produced the most complete exposition to date of the espionage system which operated in behalf of Russia during the closing years of the war.

Faces Further Trial

The Polish-born Rose was convicted of criminal conspiracy to transmit scientific and other war secrets to Russia in violation of the Official Secrets Act of 1939. Rose faces further trial in September on four statutory charges under this act and is liable to sentence of seven years on each count if convicted.

Chief Justice Wilfrid Lazure of the Court of Kings Bench, Quebec provincial court in which Rose was tried on the conspiracy count, said he would pass sentence next Thursday. He will take into account Rose's conviction of sedition in 1931, for which he served one year in jail.

Recruiting Agent

Rose, elected to Parliament in a byelection in 1943 and returned in a general election a year ago, was accused as a "recruiting agent" for Moscow and charged with "lining up" Government employés, especially in scientific work, to deliver unauthorized information to Soviet agents operating under cover through the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa.

In addition, Rose was charged with conspiring with Dr. Raymond Boyer, noted explosives scientist, and getting from him and transmitting to the Soviet agents secrets of the formula of RDX, the super explosive developed to new heights in American, British and Canadian laboratories during the war.

U.S. Insisted

There was testimony that United States authorities, in particular, insisted that this formula be kept secret from Russia, and that Canada acceded to the American request. Dr. Boyer testified that he disagreed and wanted Russia to get it anyway.

Dr. Boyer, who himself is awaiting trial as a conspirator, admitted that he had given Rose "rough proportions" of the formula, with the names of the four ingredients for producing the required chemical reaction in the laboratory, but not the name of a fifth used in manufacturing it for war purposes.

Explusion Expected

The defense stressed Dr. Boyer's assertion that his purpose was to give Rose enough information so that he could urge a Russian technical mission—said to have been in Canada at the time, 1943 and 1944—to repeat a previous request for official transmission of the RDX formula.

The House of Commons in Ottawa is expected to act soon to expel Rose. Only one other member of Parliament in Canada's history has been expelled for a criminal conviction; this was on a morals case nearly twenty years ago.

Two Pleaded Guilty

With Rose's conviction the Government has disposed of the cases of five of the thirteen persons charged in the espionage network. All except Rose were Government employés.

One case was dismissed for lack of sufficient evidence to warrant trial. Two women [illegible]orks pleaded guilty and are serving sentences of two and a half to three years, respectively. A fourth person was sentenced to four years. Dr. Alan Nunn May, a British scientist, has been sentenced to ten years for participating in the conspiracy.

Plan for Merger Of Army, Navy Faces First Test

JUN 17 1946

Senate Committee to Amend Own Bill to Meet Truman Proposals.

NAVY FRIENDS COOL

Those Backing Sea Arm Dislike Loss of Cabinet Official.

WASHINGTON, June 16—(AP) President Truman's plan for co-equal Army-Navy-Air defense arms under a single cabinet officer will be ready in a few days for its first test in a bitterly-divided Congress.

But whether actual passage will be attempted before adjournment is doubtful unless the Administration elects to insist. The lawmakers' tendency now is to do the necessary chores and get home where election campaigns are warming up.

Navy-minded congressmen in both houses are expected to look coolly toward a merger which leaves the sea arm without its own man in the cabinet. But supporters of the Senate Military committee bill for unification received the President's plan with satisfaction.

Will Amend Bill

Chairman Thomas (D-Utah) of the Senate Military committee said he will lay before the Senate amendments embodying Mr. Truman's ideas, as quickly as they can be prepared. The committee bill, now awaiting Senate action, differs from the President's plan in only minor respects, Thomas said.

Thomas declined to predict when Senate action will come, although he said he expects it this summer. Administration strategy has not been made known.

Mr. Truman wrote his own verdict on months of inter-service wrangling over the degree and form of unification by over-riding Secretary of War Patterson and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal on points on which they could not get together as he had asked them to do.

Rulings Favor Army

He ruled generally for the Army position in favoring a single cabinet head of all the services with non-cabinet civilian leaders for each of the three branches, and in holding that the air forces should handle some jobs like submarine hunting, reconnaissance and shipping protection that the Navy wanted for itself.

He went most of the way with the Navy in its contention that the Marine corps should be maintained as an integral part of that service with responsibility for such tasks as taking and holding advance bases in naval campaigns.

By his decision, announced yesterday, Mr. Truman appeared to clear away some—but by no means all—of the major objections that Chairmen Walsh (D-Mass) and Vinson (D-Ga) of the Senate and House Naval committees raised a month ago against pending proposals for unity.

The chairmen, in a letter to Forrestal, advised him not to agree to certain Army-sponsored parts of the merger plans. They made a single department of national defense with a single cabinet member No. 1 in their list of things they said Congress would not take.

The President left that primary hurdle just as high as it was when Walsh and Vinson stated their joint views.

Rules on Other Points

Other points raised in the Walsh-Vinson pronouncement, and the rulings of the President included:

1. "The placing of a single military officer in supreme command of all the armed forces."

Mr. Truman agreed with the secretaries that no single supreme chief of staff should be assigned, and that the joint chiefs of staff should continue.

2. "Divesting the Marine corps of its important function of maintaining a fleet marine force to support fleet operations."

The President went along.

3. "Transferring the vital functions of naval aviation to the Army Air corps or to a separate air corps."

Mr. Truman would take away a number of functions which the Navy has called vital, but leave the sea forces their own carrier, ship and water-based aircraft, along with some others, including Marine planes.

Lose Power Over Budget

4. "Removing from the Secretary of War and the Secretary of the Navy the responsibility for initiating the budget of their respective departments and supporting these budgets before the Congress."

The President did not go into detail, but under his plan the three branches would lack separate cabinet members, and Mr. Truman said their non-cabinet chiefs would be "charged with the internal administration within their own services." They would be members of the "council of common defense" to help coordinate American military, industrial and foreign policy. The joint chiefs of staff, under the Truman plan, would "make recommendations for integration" of the budgets.

Both Walsh and Vinson were out of the city, and had yet to state their reaction to the White House plan.

Chairman May (D-Ky.) of the House Military committee said he had not studied thoroughly the Truman plan but from what he had seen of it he viewed it as "apparently a good move toward quite an improvement." However, he added, he would wish to hear evidence on it and understand it thoroughly before making up his mind on it.

SHOWDOWN LOOMS ON VETO QUESTION IN U. N. COUNCIL

L. HAUCK

Security Group to Debate Spanish Report at Session Today.

SOVIET STAND IN DOUBT

Russia Opposes Moves Against Franco, May Not Vote

JUN 17 1946

NEW YORK, June 16—(AP) The United Nations tonight headed for an apparent showdown on the big-power veto as the Security council neared full-scale debate on the controversial Spanish question with Russia in the minority.

The council goes back into session at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow with at least eight votes assured for adoption of a sub-committee report calling for the 51-nation General Assembly to take action against the Franco regime. Seven votes, including all of the big five, are required.

DAY

Gromyko Opposes Report

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, declared flatly that he was opposed to the report and a source close to one of the delegates said the Russian could now do one of three things. He could:

1. Flatly veto.
2. Abstain from voting.
3. Abstain from voting and contend that such abstaining should not be construed as a veto.

At the time the sub-committee was set up Gromyko opposed the plan and abstained, but his move was not contested except for reservations by some delegates in that it was felt the matter was a procedural one and thus not subject to veto.

May Try to Avoid Veto

This same source said that Russia might not want to issue a flat veto on the theory that it was better to have some action than none at all. The Soviet position has been that the Security council should call for an immediate break in relations with the present Spanish government and not pass the issue on to the assembly.

Great Britain and Mexico have not stated their positions as yet but on the basis of pervious declarations it was supposed that both would support the report. Australia, China, France, Poland and Brazil had seats on the sub-committee, which promoted unanimously, while the United States, the Netherlands and Egypt have announced support of the findings.

Receives Instructions

A British spokesman said that Sir Alexander Cadogan had received his instructions from London and would call for some clarifications and modifications having to do with the legal aspects of the report. The spokesman said that Sir Alexander would hold a series of pre-session conversations with other delegates in efforts to reach some agreement before the council meeting.

Other United Nations events on this week's calendar include the second meeting of the atomic commission and opening of the international health conference, both on Wednesday, and various sessions of the Economic and Social council, which hopes to wind up its work by Saturday.

AVC Ends Its First Convention Calling For Million Members

JUN 17 1946

Des Moines, June 16 (AP)—Armed with a formal constitution and a far-reaching platform, the American Veterans Committee today wound up its first convention with a call for 1,000,000 World War II veterans as members.

AVC, set up in the new constitution as an exclusively World War II organization, now claims 60,000 members.

Charles G. Bolte, of New York city, unanimously re-elected AVC chairman, sounded the call for new recruits.

"With this liberal and solidly American platform and constitution, we believe AVC is ready to furnish a leadership which will give it numerical importance alongside the older veterans' organizations," he said.

Flurry Of Activity

The 840 voting delegates ended their noisy three-day session in a flurry of activity which included approval of the platform, election of officers and mass picketing of a cafe which allegedly refused to serve two Negro AVC members.

The platform session was marked chiefly by arguments over a proposal to seek a conditional bonus and a move to pledge specific AVC support of the CIO and AFL drives to unionize the South. Both proposals lost.

The bonus proposal would have pledged AVC to fight for a Federal bonus for World War II veterans unless Congress by March 1, 1947, had passed legislation which effectively would control prices, guarantee every citizen a job, and provide low-cost housing for all.

Three-Pronged Platform

The bonus move, coming after a stand already had been taken against "special grants to veterans," brought Bolte and Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., scurrying from their hotel rooms to join Joseph Lash, of New York, onetime leader of the International Students Service, in the fight against it.

The three-pronged "platform for action" which was adopted contained specific programs in international, domestic and veterans' affairs.

Planks included international control of atomic energy, a United National Veterans League, unification of the armed forces, creation of river valley authorities modeled after TVA, a guaranteed annual wage, unemployment insurance payments to workers on strike, and Government control or ownership of industries "where enforcement of anti-trust laws does not insure adequate competition."

Gilbert Harrison Elected

Gilbert Harrison, Los Angeles, founder of the AVC, was elected vice chairman over Norris Helferd, Los Angeles, after J. Robert White, of Washington, dropped out after balloting started.

Earlier, Frederick Borden, New York city, an official of the Political Action Committee, withdrew in order, he said, "to preserve unity in AVC."

Eight regional vice chairmen, who with sixteen others will serve on AVC's national planning committee, were named as follows:

Arnold Rivkin, Cambridge, Mass., Harvard Law School student; William Batt, Jr., Philadelphia, Pennsylvania Democratic congressional candidate; Walter Spearman, Chapel Hill, N.C., professor of journalism at the University of North Carolina; G. Mennen Williams, Detroit, assistant attorney general of Michigan; Fred Schmidt, Dallas, Texas, former vice president of the CIO Kentucky Council; P. Grossman, Minneapolis, Minn., AVC delegate; Mendel E. Leiberman, Los Angeles, Cal., attorney, and Clinton Jenks, Denver AVC chapter chairman.

The picketing incident arose shortly after midnight when a delegate burst into an AVC nominating session and shouted that a near-by cafe was "pulling a Jim Crow act on two of our members."

Complaint Signed

The meeting recessed, and within minutes more than 100 delegates were picketing the cafe. Two AVC leaders, Oren Root, Jr., of New York city, chairman of the Associated Willkie Clubs in 1940, and Franklin Williams, of Brooklyn, N.Y., counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, signed a complaint on behalf of the two AVC members who said the cafe refused to serve them. The complaint charged violation of State civil rights statutes.

The crowd dispersed after police arrested the cafe owner for questioning.

Chairman Bolte subsequently issued a formal statement on the incident, saying:

"I hope this will call dramatic attention to the intent of AVC, as provided in our newly adopted platform, to oppose Jim Crow laws, anti-Nisei restrictions, and all other forms of racial discrimination."

TALKS SCHEDULED TUESDAY TO DRAFT REVISED OPA BILL

JUN 17 1946

Senate, House Members Urged to Keep Part of Price Control.

BARKLEY LEADS FIGHT

Hopes to Salvage Some Features Demanded by Truman.

WASHINGTON, June 16 — (AP) Senators and House members named to adjust the differences between their varying versions of price control extension are discovering they will have to work within rather narrow limits.

In theory, the conference scheduled to begin Tuesday is wide open. They could write a new bill if they chose, continuing price control unchanged, and the discarding the provisions of the Senate and House bills found objectionable by stabilization officials.

Urged to Modify Bill

That course has been urged on them by a continuing chorus of voices from organized labor and consumer groups which suggested that if they do not take it, President Truman will veto the bill.

As a practical matter, the conferees cannot and will not go nearly that far, a high Administration strategist told a reporter; neither House would accept such a rewrite.

The votes on passage were emphatic in both chambers. The House approved its measure by a roll call of 355 to 42. The Senate adopted its version 53 to 11.

The Senate showed even more directly how it felt about an extension of the law "as is." The members rejected by a tally of 52 to 17 an amendment offered by Senator Pepper (D.-Fla.) to continue the present price control law until next Feb. 1, authorizing the President meanwhile to lift individual controls as he saw fit. Only one Republican—Wayne Morse of Oregon—went along on that plan.

Heads Senate Conferees

Majority Leader Barkley, who heads the seven Senate conferees, is committed to do what he can to give President Truman the kind of bill he wants. But Barkley is fully aware of the limitations the record votes have wrapped around him.

It was to avoid one more such restriction that he fought shy of any attempt to remove, on the Senate floor, the meat-poultry-dairy products decontrol amendment inserted in committee which was so roundly condemned by Stabilization Director Chester Bowles and Price Administrator Paul Porter.

It was obvious that such an effort would have been beaten heavily in the Senate, and Barkley didn't want to go into the conference with such a convincing demonstration of support for the provision that his hands would be tied in any effort to remove it.

The House did not include such a proviso. However, it voted to halt the $715,000,000-a-year meat subsidy program the end of this month, with instructions that OPA must grant compensatory price increases.

The conferees are expected to meet for the first time Tuesday. Time is a pressing factor, for without action the law would expire June 30.

And a rise of 40 cents a ton for soft coal, because of pay increases granted miners, probably will be announced during the week, a spokesman for the agency said.

This will be followed by an increase of "maybe as much as $1 a ton" for anthracite coal.

The higher butter and cheese prices were authorized on May 29 by Stabilization Director Chester Bowles, along with an increase of one cent a quart for milk. Most consumers already pay the extra penny for milk.

Both Bowles and Paul Porter, OPA administrator, have emphasized reports showing only a 4.6 per cent retail price rise for household necessities from the spring of 1943—when the hold-the-line order was issued—to April 15, 1946. They estimated the additional increase up to July 1 at 2.1 per cent.

The recent acceleration of the increase rate was what prompted the comment "alarming" by the government economist.

"When living costs begin to rise at the rate of one per cent or more a month, as they have been, that's something to worry about," he said. "That's 12 per cent or better a year, as compared with a rise of six to seven per cent over the last three years."

Robert C. Goodwin, director of the United States Employment service, said today the nation has passed its peak of post-war unemployment and predicted from now on things will get better.

"Despite all of the strikes that there have been, employment is steadily increasing," he said.

Goodwin said the latest Census Bureau reports estimate the employment of World War II veterans increased about 2,600,000 in three months this spring.

Only 930,000 veterans were listed as "unemployed and seeking employment." Another 800,000 neither were working nor seeking work.

The total of all unemployed, including non-veterans, was 2,310,000.

In both April and May more veterans were placed in jobs than were discharged from the armed services during those months, Goodwin said.

Demobilization long ago passed its peak and the U.S.E.S. director said with only about 500,000 veterans returning monthly to civilian life "there now is every reason to believe the situation looks good from here on out."

By early May 11,400,000 male veterans had been discharged, the Census Bureau reported, but unemployment never did reach the huge totals some government agencies had said were possible. These forecasts said up to 8,000,000 might be seeking jobs this spring.

Goodwin said his estimates do not conflict with those of Gen. Omar N. Bradley, administrator of Kiwanis International at Atlantic City on June 10:

"By fall, unless new jobs continue to be created, 4,000,000 veterans might be looking for work."

Goodwin said a couple of million men probably will come out of the armed services this summer but "there is no reason to believe they won't be able to find jobs."

"Unless entirely unforeseen events occur," we believe the employment situation will continue to improve," he said.

Economist Alarmed by Climb in Cost of Living

JUN 17 1946

WASHINGTON, June 16. — (AP) A top government economist peered today at the cost of living course—scheduled to take another slant upward next week with OPA-granted increases for butter, cheese and coal—and called the trend "alarming."

The economist is one whose advice is heard in high Administration quarters, but he declined use of his name. He said his opinion was based on the quickening pace of OPA price grants. Government statistics show prices have bee rising one per cent a month, h said.

This opinion is in conflict wit that of OPA officials who say mos family budget items are well unde control, despite the recent wav of price boosts.

Fifty-two price increases were granted by OPA within two weeks some on important cost-of-living items like butter and milk.

One OPA official said the 11 cents a pound increase for butter and six cents for cheddar cheese become effective Monday.

Other government officials have estimated that price increases authorized during the last three weeks for several important food items alone have boosted the cost of living 1.28 per cent.

Bowles and Porter contend that a large part of these and other increases have been the inevitable result of transition from a tight wartime economy. And Bowles has said that "many of the reasons for the increases of the past few months are now behind us."

MILITARY AID TO FRIENDLY NATIONS SEEN

JUN 17 1946

House Leaders Predict Congressional Approval In Near Future

Washington, June 16 (AP)—House leaders today reported they expect congressional approval soon of a broad program of military cooperation with friendly nations regarded as having joint interests with this country.

Objective of the plan is to help China, the Philippines and various countries in the Americas to build small but well-organized armies and navies, with equipment standardized to the United States pattern.

With such forces these nations would be prepared to act jointly with the United States in the event of possible future attacks, as well as to maintain better order domestically.

Three Bills Cover Program

The over-all program is wrapped up in three bills, each of which would authorize the president to transfer armaments to the nations involved and to arrange for American training of their personnel.

In most cases the war goods sold or given to the countries would be items excess to the needs of the United States.

The State, War and Navy Department have joined in sponsoring the measures.

Chairman Bloom (D., N.Y.), of the House Foreign Affairs Committee which passes on the legislation, said he believed a Congressional signal to those departments to put the plan in operation is not far away.

No Opposition Noted

Bloom said that virtually no opposition has been expressed to the plan.

The Philippine Aid Bill already has passed the Senate and House and is being held up only for adjustment of minor differences in the two versions.

Early Action Due

The inter-American co-operation measure has been unanimously approved by the foreign affairs group, and will be acted on by the House this week or next.

The aid to China bill has just been introduced by Mr. Bloom, with hearings tentatively scheduled for Tuesday.

Chairman Bloom said he did not know full details of what assistance to China is contemplated, but departmental officials reported that it would implement a program recommended by General George C. Marshall, Presidential envoy to China.

Under this program a force of sixty divisions would be built up, fifty for the Chinese central government and ten for the Communists. No figures on arms transfer plans were available, but sponsors of the project said the main idea is to standardize equipment, and not to build forces much larger than they now are or develop any armaments race.

Welles Favors Bill

Sumner Welles, former Under Secretary of State, said today in a radio address over station WOL that enactment of the inter-American bill "is in the highest degree essential not only as a means of promoting the safety of the new world but also as a means of furthering inter-American solidarity and cooperation."

Mr. Welles said fears that the proposal might start an armaments race are "wholly unjustified."

On the contrary if the legislation is not approved he said there may be a repetition of the pre-war situation when "lobbyists for the armament manufacturers in Europe, as well as in this country, were running riot in latin America."

"If all the American governments agree upon what their respective needs may be and agree to procure their requirements from one source, there will be no rivalries and no armament race," he said.

Junk Pile Yields Million In Scrap

JUN 17 1946

Washington, June 16 (AP)—Some eager beavers are hard at work on the world's largest junk pile, and they are finding surprising uses for surplus property that otherwise would be scrapped.

These eager beavers, more formally known as the Products Research Division of the War Assets Administration, have salvaged more than $1,000,000 worth of scrap-heap-bound goods—and the hunt has just begun.

Uses For Some Goods

They've found that:

Helmets make good flower pots or bird baths.

Grenade containers can become cute banks for the kiddies.

Mosquito bar rods make attractive towel racks or tomato stakes.

White silk gunpowder bags can be turned into nifty linings for caskets.

The division, which goes to work only when the regular War Assets Administration finds itself with a product but no buyers, has found uses for 300 times previously considered unsalable.

Paul Perkins, the administrative officer, said his division has run into some surprising situations.

Such as the pigeon vest problem. Here were these pigeon vests, all 27,064 of them. They weren't vests really; they were straitjackets. Paratroopers used them to carry pigeons when they made their jumps.

Well, the division experts puzzled and puzzled over this one. When they gave up, along came a dealer and bought them all.

"He didn't say what he planned to do with them," said Perkins fretfully. "What could anyone do with 27,064 pigeon vests?"

Help Asked On Discs

And now, since this is the day of audience participation programs, how would you like to join Uncle Sam's research staff?

Okay, here's the problem:

The Government owns some metal discs. They're flat, oval (about an inch by an inch and a quarter), and bright red. Each is stamped with an "80" because they were tags for drums of 80-octane gasoline.

If you have any ideas, write R. F. Carey, Products Research Division, War Assets Administration, Washington, D.C.

"I'll tell you why I need help on this," said Carey, peeking fearfully at an impressive row of figures. "Do you know how many of these discs the Government owns?

"Exactly 67,472,289."

AIR FORCE REVEALS NEWEST PROPELLER

JUN 17 1946

WASHINGTON, June 16. — (AP) The Army Air Forces reported today that a new high speed, multiple-blade propeller promised aircraft speeds greater than sound.

The propeller, still in the planning stage, is to be five or six feet in diameter and have six or eight blades with a spinner half the diameter of the blades to reduce drag. It would turn at 7,000 to 8,000 revolutions a minute, triple present top speeds.

Air Force, official service journal, said in reporting the development that a recently perfected gas turbine engine had sufficient power to drive the blades at such speeds.

Existing engine-propeller combination have pulled one experimental fighter at better than 500 miles an hour, the publication said, comparable to the speed of present jet-propelled aircraft.

Dr. R. H. Mills, aerodynamics expert at the Army's Wright field, Ohio, predicted, the publication said, that "we will have propeller-driven airplanes approaching the speed of sound in the immediate future." The speed of sound is roughly 700 miles per hour.

"The advent of jet propulsion will no more replace conventional propeller installations than will the pure rocket replace the jet engine," Dr. Mills said.

He declared that in addition to the multiple blade propeller, counter-rotating propellers and others with blades up to 30 feet in diameter, were under experiment at Wright field or were being considered.

BAYEUX, FRANCE, JUNE 16-(AP)-GEN. CHARLES DE GAULLE BROKE A SIX MONTHS POLITICAL SILENCE TODAY IN A RINGING SPEECH IN WHICH HE ASSAILED "THE MENACE OF DICTATORSHIP" IN FRANCE AND CALLED FOR A TWO-HOUSE LEGISLATURE AND A STRONG EXECUTIVE FOR THE FOURTH REPUBLIC.

DEGAULLE, SPEAKING AT CEREMONIES COMMEMORATING HIS TRIUMPHANT RETURN TO FRANCE IN 1944, DECLARED THAT THE NEW CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY RESULTING FROM THE RECENT FRENCH ELECTIONS SHOULD CLEARLY SEPARATE THE EXECUTIVE, LEGISLATIVE AND JUDICIAL POWERS OF THE GOVERNMENT TO SAFEGUARD THE NATION'S DEMOCRACY.

THE LAST CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY DRAFTED A PROPOSED CONSTITUTION FOR THE FOURTH REPUBLIC WHICH WOULD HAVE CREATED AN ALL-POWERFUL ONE-HOUSE LEGISLATURE AND REDUCED THE PRESIDENT TO THE STATUS OF FIGUREHEAD. THE FRENCH VOTERS REJECTED THE COMMUNIST-SUPPORTED PROPOSAL IN A REFERENDUM.

DEGAULLE ADVOCATED A CONSTITUTION ALMOST EXACTLY LIKE THAT URGED BY THE POPULAR REPUBLICAN MOVEMENT PARTY (MRP), WHOSE LEADER, FOREIGN MINISTER GEORGES BIDAULT, IS A CANDIDATE FOR THE INTERIM PRESIDENCY. THUS, DEGAULLE PLACED HIMSELF SQUARELY IN OPPOSITION TO THE COMMUNIST PARTY'S PROPOSALS.

REFERRING TO HIS RESIGNATION AS PRESIDENT OF THE PROVISIONAL GOVERNMENT LAST JANUARY, DEGAULLE SAID HE HAD STEPPED ASIDE SO THAT HE WOULD NOT BECOME INVOLVED "IN POLITICAL PARTY FIGHTS," AND SO THAT NONE COULD MAINTAIN THAT HE EXERTED INFLUENCE IN THE WORK OF THE CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY.

JERUSALEM, JUNE 16-(AP)-THE JEWISH UNDERGROUND RADIO DECLARED TODAY IT HAD UNCOVERED A "HIGHLY SECRET" BRITISH PLAN TO DEPORT ZIONIST LEADERS FROM THE HOLY LAND "IF THE POSITION IN PALESTINE TAKES A MORE SERIOUS TURN."

SAYING THAT THE PLANS CALLED FOR WIPING OUT HAGANAH, THE ILLEGAL JEWISH DEFENSE ORGANIZATION, AND BOMBING AND SHELLING OF ANY JEWISH SETTLEMENTS WHICH RESISTED SEARCH, THE BROADCAST ADDED:

"LET THE JEWS THE WORLD OVER AND THE WHOLE CIVILIZED WORLD KNOW WHAT MISTERS BEVIN AND ATTLEE AND THEIR HENCHMEN ARE PREPARING FOR US, AND LET THE WORLD KNOW THAT WE WILL FIGHT."

(THE BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE IN LONDON SAID IT HAD NO KNOWLEDGE OF SUCH A PLAN. A SPOKESMAN SAID THE BROADCAST "PROBABLY IS A PART OF THE ACRIMONIOUS PROPAGANDA WAR BEING WAGED BY BOTH JEWS AND ARABS PENDING A DECISION ON IMPLEMENTING THE BRITISH-AMERICAN INQUIRY COMMITTEE REPORT.")

THE ANNOUNCER, WHO SAID HE SPOKE FOR "RESISTANCE HEADQUARTERS," DID NOT SAY WHEN OR WHERE THE DOCUMENT WAS DISCOVERED, BUT ASSERTED THAT ITS "BLACKLIST" OF JEWISH LEADERS, CONTAINING "THOUSANDS OF NAMES," WOULD BE BROADCAST SOON.

HE SAID THE LIST FOR DEPORTATION OR IMPRISONMENT INCLUDED DAVID BEN GURION, MOSHE SHERTOK AND THE OTHER EIGHT MEMBERS OF THE JEWISH AGENCY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, AS WELL AS MAYOR ISRAEL ROKEACH AND MRS. GOLDA MYERSON OF TEL AVIV, AND SCIENTISTS OF THE HEBREW UNIVERSITY.

"IT IS PERFECTLY OBVIOUS," THE ANNOUNCER SAID, "THAT THIS BLACKLIST IS AIMED NOT ONLY AT THE LIQUIDATION OF HAGANAH, BUT AT THE LIQUIDATION OF THE ENTIRE JEWISH COMMUNITY."

THE BROADCAST SAID THE RESISTANCE MOVEMENT HAD LEARNED FROM THE DOCUMENT ALL THE SECRET CODES IT SAID THE BRITISH PLANNED TO USE IN AN ATTACK TO "DISRUPT AND DISARM JEWISH FORCES."

THE ANNOUNCER DECLARED THE DOCUMENT CONTAINED A LIST OF HAGANAH MEETING PLACES, AND A LIST OF CACHES OF RIFLES IN MILK CANS, AND OTHER ARMS UNDER HAYSTACKS, IN CISTERNS, IN ORANGE GROVES AND IN PRIVATE HOMES.

"THE RESISTANCE MOVEMENT HAS NOTIFIED ALL OCCUPANTS OF THESE ADDRESSES INDIVIDUALLY," THE BROADCAST SAID.

ABOARD THE U.S.S.APPALACHIAN EN ROUTE TO HONOLULU, JUNE 15-(AP)-A WISCONSIN SCIENTIST DECLARED TODAY THE CHANCES OF DISASTER AT BIKINI "ARE LESS THAN THAT A METEOR A MILE IN DIAMETER WILL LAND ON TOP OF THE EMPIRE STATE BUILDING"--AND NO SUCH METEOR EVER HAS BEEN RECORDED.

THE STATEMENT WAS MADE BY DR.PARKER TRASK, PROFESSOR OF GEOLOGY AT THE UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN, IN A RADIO BROADCAST TO THE THREE-SHIP CONVOY NOW MIDWAY BETWEEN SAN FRANCISCO AND HONOLULU.

HE SPOKE TO MEMBERS OF THE CREWS FROM THE U.S.S.PANAMINT, WHICH CARRIES THE PARTY OF SCIENTISTS, TO THIS PRESS SHIP FOR THE ATOMIC BOMB TESTS AND TO THE BLUE RIDGE, BEARING MILITARY OBSERVERS OF SEVERAL NATIONS.

TRASK WAS DISCUSSING THE PREDICTION OF ANATOL SHNEIDEROV, JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY SCIENTIST, WHO SAID THE ATOMIC BOMB TEST IN JULY MIGHT SPLIT THE EARTH'S CRUST, CAUSE AN EARTHQUAKE AND DESTROY THE ENTIRE EXPEDITION.

TRASK, SEEKING TO ALLAY THE FEARS OF THE CREWS AND OF WIVES WHO HAVE BEEN FRANTICALLY WIRELESSING AND WRITING THE EXPEDITION, SAID THE MECHANISM OF THE BLOW OF AN ATOMIC BOMB AND AN EARTHQUAKE WERE COMPLETELY DIFFERENT.

AN EARTHQUAKE, TRASK EXPLAINED, CRACKS THE EARTH'S CRUST DEEP BELOW THE SURFACE AND IN A LINE HUNDREDS OF MILES LONG. IF THE A-BOMB CRACKS ANYTHING, IT DOES SO AT A POINT DIRECTLY UNDERNEATH AND FROM THERE THE FORCE MOVES OUTWARD IN CONCENTRIC RINGS OF RAPIDLY DIMINISHING INTENSITY.

THERE HAVE BEEN HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF QUAKES ON THE BOTTOM OF THE PACIFIC, THE WISCONSIN GEOLOGIST DECLARED, YET NOT ONE PERMITTED THE WATER TO POUR DOWN TO THE MOLTEN SUB-EARTH FOR SUCH A CATASTROPHIC EXPLOSION AS SHNEIDEROV PICTURED.

Railway Buildings at Haifa Set Afire By Explosions

Illegal Jewish Group Boasts of Success in Widespread Sabotage.

O. Carruthers

JERUSALEM, Tuesday, June 18—(AP) Workshops in the Haifa railway yards were damaged extensively by fire and explosion last night during attacks in which two saboteurs were reported killed, bringing to 11 the death toll in Palestine's two-night wave of terrorism.

NIGHT

There were 15 explosions during the one-hour attack on the Palestine railway's facilities in the port city. Defenders of the yard finally beat off the armed raiders, although fire fighting and pursuit of the attackers was difficult as all roads leading to the workshops had been mined heavily.

Prior to the attack in Haifa, the government announced in an official communique that six Jews had been killed in previous sabotage attacks which severed Palestine's eight frontier bridges. One British officer was killed while dismantling a mine placed under one bridge, while two British soldiers were injured fatally in a clash between troops and Arabs.

Jewish morning newspapers, however, said only two Jews had lost their lives.

The Palestine government announced that all train service between Palestine, Syria and Transjordan had been halted by the destruction of the railway bridge over Yarmuk gorge. Another span wrecked was the famous Allenby bridge over the River Jordan, chief link between Palestine and Transjordan.

All Men Arrested

The British army said that 62 men the entire male population of the village of Beth Haavaar on the Dead sea—as well as 12 other men and two women suspects were under arrest in connection with the destruction of the highway and rail bridges. One of the women was suffering a bullet wound in the chest.

Police dogs, allowed first to prowl in the bridge wreckage, led troops to the village. The soldiers ordered all men to leave the village confines. The village leader refused, and as the soldiers marched into the place, the inhabitants—men and women—linked arms and barred the way until the troops removed the men at bayonet point.

One policeman suffered minor wounds when a police party was fired upon at Kinneret, near the Transjordan frontier.

In an incident not linked with the Jewish terrorism, the two British soldiers were mortally injured when Arabs attacked a British army vehicle and set fire to it at Gaza Parka. The violence occurred after the car ran into a group of marchers during a celebration of the escape of the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem from exile in France.

Many Injured In Night

An undetermined number of persons was injured in clashes throughout the night. Police blamed Jewish terrorists for attacks which rendered all eight bridges impassable, disclosing that the worst damage was done to the Allenby bridge.

Two separate attacks were carried out there, police said. Three Arabs and three British guarding the police post and customs entrance fought off both attacks against heavy odds. Both assaults, the police said, apparently were for the dual purpose of blowing up the bridge and destroying the guard post which contained a police card file of blacklist names.

In the first assault the main force of attackers engaged the guards while others succeeded in destroying the Palestine side of the big bridge. An Arab guard shot one man carrying explosives toward the guard post, and he was blown to bits by the explosives he carried. Transjordan guards of the Arab Legion on the other end of the bridge attempted to aid the defenders by setting up a crosafire against the attackers. A Palestine Police mobile unit drew up after the attack and began a search for the band.

Attack with Tommyguns

A short time later, what appeared to be the same force attacked again with tommyguns for a full half hour, shouting Hebrew orders, police said. They came within 20 yards of the post and threw hand grenades which blew a huge steel shutter from the main door of the post and stripped tiles from the roof.

The guard post, however, was successfully defended.

Later, police said, a party of Bedouins in the vicinity of the Allenby bridge was attacked by a party of armed Jews. One Bedouin was stabbed and seriously injured.

An official police statement said that the body of one Jew and portions of the body of another were found near the damaged rail bridge at Azzib, a village which was "attacked by armed Jews dressed in military uniform."

"One part of attackers engaged the police post while another party blew up the bridge," the statement said. "Close to Azzib village itself a number of mines and booby traps were found.

"At about the same time the Palestine police post at the Allenby bridge which spans the Jordan on the frontier of Palestine and Transjordan, was attacked by a party of about 20 Jews. They used automatic weapons and bombs.

Battle Lasts Half Hour

After an engagement lasting about half an hour, the attackers succeeded in blowing up the Allenby bridge close to the Palestine side. The force of the explosion caused the roof of the frontier control post near the bridge to collapse, slightly injuring an Arab woman and an Arab boy, and causing damage to the customs buildings."

The report said "the road bridge near Metulla and police post were blown up" later, and a half hour afterward "the Transjordan frontier force camp near Safad was attacked with hand grenades and one trooper was injured. The attack was beaten off."

On the road and railway bridges at Wadi Gaza, the report continued, a band of about 30 Jews made an attack in which "bombs were thrown at the railway bridge, but although two pillars were damaged, the bridge itself remained intact." A land mine exploded on the road bridge, rendering it impassable. Four haversacks filled with explosives were found later on the road bridge.

A party of Palestine police proceeding to the scene of the explosions was fired on from the orange groves near the bridge, but there were no casualties," the report stated.

At about the same time, it said, at Jisr Banat Yacoub, a temporary constable serving as a road bridge guard "was held up by six armed Jews who flung his rifle into the river and then blew up the bridge from the Palestine side."

An hour after midnight "the railway suspension bridge at Jisr el Hawi between Samakh and el Hamme was mined and partially destroyed. An attempt also was made to blow up the road bridge at Jisr Damiya, but it was unsuccessful," the report added.

In another midnight attack, the report said, a broad bridge at Jisr Shekh Hussein was damaged by explosives. Military patrols were fired upon in the vicinity of Tiberias and Samakh, it added.

All In One Palestine Jewish Town Are Under Arrest

O. Carruthers

JUN 18 1946

Jerusalem, June 17 (AP)—All the population of the Jewish settlement of Beth Haavara was reported arrested by Palestine police after a night of widespread terror during which two British soldiers were killed by Arab marchers and eight highway and railway bridges were damaged by explosions.

An official police statement blamed Jewish terrorists for the violence.

The report of the mass arrest of Beth Haavara residents, although unconfirmed officially by police, was received from reliable sources. This report said that dogs led the police from the Allenby bridge across the Jordan River, one of those d[illegible] the small collective settlements on the Dead Sea shore. It was understood that a British Army unit surrounded the village and carried out a complete search.

DAY

"Passive Resistance"

Some residents of the little Jewish community reportedly offered "passive resistance" against the searchers, resulting in a minor clash in which two Jews were injured. All persons found in the village were reportedly brought to a prison here for further investigation.

Meanwhile, the Army and police continued a concerted search of all villages along the Palestine border in the vicinity of the damaged bridges.

Four highway and four railway bridges, including the Allenby bridge, were those made impassable, police said.

The body of one Jew and portions of the body of another were found near a damaged railway bridge near the village of Azzib, which was attacked by "armed Jews dressed in military uniform," a police statement asserted.

Mines, Booby Traps Reported

"One party of the attackers engaged the police post, while another party blew up the bridge," the statement said. "Close to Azzib village itself a number of mines and booby traps were found."

The Palestine police post at Allenby bridge was attacked "by a party of about 20 Jews who used automatic weapons and bombs," the police said. "After an engagement lasting about half an hour, the attackers succeeded in blowing up Allenby bridge, close to the Palestine side.

"The force of the explosion caused the roof of the frontier control post near the bridge to collapse, slightly injuring an Arab woman and an Arab boy and causing damage to customs buildings."

Bedouins Attacked

Later a group of Bedouins near the bridge were attacked by a party consisting of several armed Jews. One Bedouin was seriously injured by stabbing. The police report continued:

"The road bridge near Metulla police post was blown up, and about a half hour later the Transjordan frontier-force camp near Safad was attacked with hand grenades, and one trooper was injured. The attack was beaten off."

Police said a heavy attack was made by a band of abo[illegible] Jews on road and railway bridges at Wadi Gaza.

Description Of Violence

"Bombs were thrown at a railway bridge," the statement said, "but although two pillars were damaged, the bridge itself remained intact. A land mine exploded on a road bridge, rendering it impassable. Four army haversacks filled with explosives later were found on the road bridge and were dismantled. A party of Palestine police proceeding to the scene of the explosions was fired on from orange groves near the bridge, but there were no casualties."

At approximately the same time a temporary constable at a road bridge at Jisr Banat Yacoub was held up by six armed Jews, who took away his rifle and threw it into the river. The police said the Jewish party then blew up the bridge from the Palestine side. An hour after midnight, they added, a railway suspension bridge at Jisr el Hawi, between Samakh and El Hamme, was mined and partly destroyed.

"An attempt also was made to blow up a road bridge at Jisr Damiya," the police statement continued, "but it was unsuccessful."

Patrols Fired Upon

Police further reported that at midnight a road bridge at Jisr Shekh Hussein was damaged by explosives, and military patrols were fired on near Tiberias and Samakh.

Adding to the night's excitement were fireworks and huge processions throughout Palestine by Arabs, winding up their third night of celebrations over the reported escape of the Mufti of Jerusalem.

Gagged By BBC, Reporter Says

JUN 18 1946

London, June 17 (AP)—Howard K. Smith, European chief for the Columbia Broadcasting System, reported today that the British Broadcasting Corporation had refused to broadcast a commentary in which Smith took the position that Russia alone was not responsible for failure of the foreign ministers to write European peace pacts.

DAY

A BBC spokesman said Smith's commentary, planned as part of an armed forces educational program, was "a highly individual view."

"As this was not what we asked for," the BBC added, "and as Mr. Smith felt unable to alter his script, we were compelled to cancel it."

Smith said he submitted the script six days ahead of the broadcast. The BBC requested some changes, to which he agreed. When additional alterations were demanded, he added, he replied:

"The script will have to stand."

Among other things, Smith's commentary complained that correspondents assigned to the Paris conference get their information from their own national representatives.

"You will hear the viewpoint of your side and not that of the other," it declared.

"History will record as one of the outstanding consequences of World War II," the script added, "that not one but two great nations expanded their influence in astonishing degree. One is Russia—the other the United States."

King Encourages Science in Britain

London, June 17 (A. P.).—The "infinite possibilities for good and evil" in scientific discoveries like atomic energy must never be used as an argument against scientific research, King George VI said today in opening the first Empire Scientific Conference.

3 NATIONS IN U. N. DEMAND ACTION ON FRANCO—CRITICISM

JUN 18 1946

F Carpenter

NEW YORK, June 17—(AP) Australia, France and Mexico joined today in firm opposition to an attempt by Great Britain to send the Spanish case from the United Nations Security council to the General Assembly without a recommendation for a diplomatic break with Madrid.

After 2 1-2 hours of debate, the council adjourned until 3 p.m. tomorrow without a vote. The new chairman, Dr. Francisco Castillo Najero, of Mexico, said some of the delegates had another engagement that made adjournment necessary as U. S. Delegate Herschel V. Johnson was asking to be heard.

Appeals to Gromkyo

The session was highlighted by a personal appeal from the Australian delegate, Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, to Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko to go along with the majority "in the interest of democratic principles."

NIGHT

Gromyko last week had attacked the sub-committee recommendations for a break with Franco Spain if Generalissimo Franco still is in power in September. He said it did not go far enough.

Debate started when Sir Alexander Cadogan of Britain called on the council to pass along to the General Assembly the resolution pending in the council but without any recommendation for a break with Spain.

Attacks British Move

After Australia went on record against such a step, Alexandre Parodi, French delegate, attacked the British move as "not sound" and reiterated his support of the recommendation by the sub-committee of which he was a member.

This recommendation envisioned a break with Generalissimo Francisco Franco if he still is in power in September. However, the sub-committee last week had accepted a compromise leaving it to the General Assembly to ask such action it thinks best.

Najera said he felt the sub-committee resolution did not go as far as his government would like but he would support it.

Mexico's announcement completed the expressions of the delegates. They now are lined up nine for the compromise plan, Russia extremely critical of it but not definitely committed, and Britain standing with its amendment.

At the close of the session Jose Giral, exiled Spanish republican prime minister, called Britain's position "absurd, contradictory, and hypocritical."

U. S. to Back Compromise

A spokesman for Johnson said after the session that the United States representative will speak tomorrow and that he desired only to reiterate his support of the compromise reached last week. He said Johnson was against the British amendment.

Australia was the first to disagree with Britain.

The Australian delegate, chairman of the sub-committee which investigated Spain, immediately defended his group's recommendation and demanded that the council reject the British proposal.

The resolution, incorporating a compromise proposal made by the United States and accepted by eight nations last Thursday, provides:

That the Spanish question be put before the General Assembly with a recommendation that the assembly call for a break in diplomatic relations or take such other action" as it "deems appropriate under the circumstances at the time."

The General Assembly will convene in New York Sept. 3.

The course provided for now would leave the way clear for the assembly to take less drastic action than a break in relations if it desired.

British Make A Proposal On Spain

JUN 18 1946

F Carpenter

New York, June 17 (AP)—Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate to the United Nations Security Council, proposed today that the case of Franco Spain be referred by the Council to the United Nations General Assembly without any recommendations for a break in diplomatic relations with Madrid.

DAY

The British delegation questioned the legality of the findings of a Council subcommittee which investigated Spain and recommended that the Security Council ask the General Assembly to call for a United Nations break with Generalissimo Franco if he is still in power next September.

Cadogan, revealing the British position for the first time since the subcommittee report was made public June 1, said that Spain was a "serious problem" and that Great Britain was quite willing "to have the question examined by the Assembly next September."

No Recommendations

However, he proposed that the subcommittee report be referred to the Assembly without recommendations.

Cadogan suggested that the International Court of Justice be asked for an opinion on the legality of proposals made by the subcommittee.

Britain was the ninth nation on the Council to make its position known. Russia has not definitely announced a stand but has made it clear that it is dissatisfied with an American-sponsored compromise which would put the matter before the General Assembly for such action as the Assembly desires.

Mexico, whose delegate, Dr. Francisco Castillo N jera, took over as Council president for a month, has not declared itself on the compromise proposal yet.

A British spokesman said that Cadogan had been instructed by London to seek clarifications and modifications of the report in regard to its legal aspects.

Gromyko's Stand

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, stated last week that he would not agree to the report and there was wide speculation whether Gromyko would use the veto, abstain from voting or abstain from attending and contend such action did not constitute a veto.

In some quarters was believed that Gromyko might hesitate to invoke an outright veto, on the theory that it was better to have some action taken than none at all.

Gromyko's action in the Council was watched closely in relation to the veto issue. The Charter merely states that seven affirmative votes, including all the Big Five, are required for passage. No provision is made for abstaining, except when a nation is a party to the dispute.

Rat Routs 90 Veterans

WAREHAM, England, June 17 (AP)—Ninety women veterans of the armed forces, attending a British Legion conference, shrieked and leaped on to chairs today when a rat crept in. The one man present chased the intruder and stood sentry after the meeting resumed.

ITALY GETS VOICE IN DECISION ON WAR LOSS CLAIMS

JUN 18 1946

Multi-National Claims Tribunal Will Be Set Up, Ministers Decide.

REPARATIONS DISCUSSED

Paris Talks Will Continue on Extent of Payments by Rome.

J. Byrnes

PARIS, June 17—(AP) The four-power foreign ministers council today gave Italy an equal voice in settling war damage claims arising out of military action on Italian soil by providing for the establishment of multi-national mixed claims tribunals.

NIGHT

An American informant, in announcing this action, said the council settled a number of economic issues for the projected peace treaty with Italy, but had postponed until tomorrow discussion of the knotty Italian reparations question.

Agree on Use of Assets

The American, British, French and Russian foreign ministers also agreed on a United States proposal to use Italian property held by Allied nations in satisfying claims by each country's nationals against Italy. At the same time, the ministers adopted a clause binding Italy to renounce any claims for damages against Allied nationals arising from the war.

In discussing the procedure for settling disputed claims in Italy, U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes supported a French proposal that mixed tribunals be set up consisting of one person named by Italy, one by the Allied country concerned, and a third person to be named by the first two. In the event the first two persons were unable to agree upon a third, the International Court would be requested to designate the other member.

Bevin Accepts Proposal

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin, according to American sources, said Britain favored this procedure. Bevin added that Britons would be required to prove their claim to the British government before their cases would be allowed to reach the tribunal.

Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov said he had opposed any clause binding Italy to renounce war claims against Allied nationals because the Soviet Union thought this would be taken for granted, American informants said.

But, Molotov added, in view of the importance Britain, the United States and France placed on such a formal renunciation, he would agree.

Byrnes insisted on extending the scope of war losses under this clause to losses Italy suffered under the American "freeze" and other economic measures before the United States entered the war. Molotov agreed and directed the deputies to bear this in mind in drafting the final text.

Discuss Economic Issues

The ministers also discussed general economic clauses granting all Allied nations a most-favored-nation status for at least 18 months after signature of the treaty. A question arose as to whether nationalized industries would be subject to such equality of treatment.

The decision to tackle the economic sections was reached by the deputies this morning when they prepared the agenda for their principals. It had been agreed that the Italian treaty warranted top priority on the calendar, and the selection of the precise clauses for discussion had been left to the deputies, but nearly all previous discussions were devoted to the political sections, such as the disposition of the Italian colonial empire, the status of Trieste and boundary issues.

Molotov demanded last month that Italy pay $300,000,000 in reparations, with $100,000,000 going to Russia and $200,000,000 to Greece, Albania and Yugoslavia. U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes agreed to a French suggestion that $100,000,000 be paid to Russia, but no agreement was reached on the further demand of $200,000,000 to the other countries.

Meanwhile, it was learned here that Allied military and civil affairs officials in Italy were negotiating in Rome with the Italian government for an accord supplementing the newly revised armistice terms. The accord, it was reported, would grant both Britain and the United States extensive rights within Italy as long as occupation troops remain there.

These rights, Allied informants said, would include access to ports, airfields and transit privileges along the Allied line of communications to Austria and the Yugoslav frontier.

Trieste Held Key Issue in Paris

JUN 18 1946

Success of Big Four Conference May Hinge on Stand Taken by Molotov.

L. Kevin

Paris, June 17 (A. P.).—The Big Four Foreign Ministers resumed today the task of writing an Italian peace treaty, and an American informant said the success or failure of the conference might well hinge on the Russian attitude toward Trieste.

DAY

A close associate of United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes said the head of the American delegation considered Trieste a "question of principle" and "the Secretary never compromises with questions of principle."

Thus, since the United States apparently will not budge from the stand that Trieste must remain Italian, diplomatic observers anxiously awaited indications as to whether Russia would be willing to compromise on her demands that the Adriatic port be ceded to Yugoslavia.

Moscow Blasts Optimism

A wave of optimism swept over the conference Saturday after Russia, in a surprise conciliatory gesture, agreed to the discussion of the Austrain problem. Some observers even went so far as to interpret this as a softening in the Soviet policy.

Much of this optimism was dispelled, however, when the Moscow press and radio yesterday launched a new offensive against what they termed western "reactionaries and enemies of peace."

The Soviet news agency Tass implied in a Paris dispatch that Britain and the United States, rather than Russia, would have to break the deadlock which forced the adjournment of the last conference.

Rest Believed Easier

An American informant expressed belief that if a satisfactory solution could be found for Trieste, the Council would encounter little difficulty in writing the remainder of the treaty. Other disputed points on the Italian question are:

1. The Italian-Yugoslav frontier. This is tied up with the Trieste issue.

2. Reparations. Russia, in opposition to Britain and the United States, holds that reparations should be partly paid from current Italian production and that the allotting of Italian warships should not count as reparations.

3. Colonies. The United States has favored turning the problem over to the United Nations if the Ministers themselves can reach no solution. Russia and France want Italy to retain trusteeship over her own colonies, under the United Nations. Britain wants the trusteeship of Cyrenaica.

Italy Satisfies Britain.

London, June 17 (A. P.).—Great Britain is satisfied that the Italian Government has maintained fully its authority in the transition from monarchy to republic, a Foreign Office spokesman asserted today.

Expressing an official view on the request of Russian Foreign Minister Molotov for a review of conditions in Italy, the spokesman said Britain was unable to see any particular need for discussing the matter but had agreed to Molotov's request.

Says U. S. Is Satisfied.

Washington, June 17 (A. P.).—Government officials concerned with Italian affairs said today they were satisfied the Rome Government maintained its authority during Italy's recent transition from a monarchy to a republic. These officials, who declined to be identified but whose positions warrant authority, said they saw no particular need for investigating post-election conditions in Italy as requested by Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov.

They added, however, that the request would be complied with for the sake of Big Four harmony.

There was concern over persistent reports of troop movements in the disputed Istrian area around Trieste, although War Department officials described them as routine military changes.

FRENCH SOCIALISTS WILL BACK BIDAULT

R. Nelson

PARIS, June 17—(AP) Francisque Gay, a leader of the Popular Republican Movement (MRP) said today that Foreign Minister Georges Bidault, MRP leader, would attempt if necessary to solve the government crisis by forming a one-party government without Communist or Socialist participation if he is elected to the presidency.

Gay said he believed Bidault was assured of at least 320 ballots, ample for election, when the new constituent assembly meets on the provisional presidency Wednesday. This prediction was strengthened by the announcement of Socialist Leader Edouard DePreux that his party would vote for Bidault.

Communist Leader Jacques Duclos announced, meanwhile, that he and the party's general secretary, Maurice Thorez, had formally requested retiring provisional President Felix Gouin, a Socialist, to be a candidiate for reelection Wednesday. Duclos said the Communists made this appeal without much hope that Gouin would accept, since the decision will be up to the Socialist party and the Socialists already have voted formally against assuming the leadership in the interim government.

DePreux, underscoring the tenseness of the deadlock, declared that while the Socialist would vote for Bidault, they would refuse to enter any government which excluded the Communists, and that in the event a three-party coalition is formed, they would accept only secondary ministries.

Earlier, Gay said that "if we do not succeed in forming a tripartite government or one even larger in scope and cannot realize a purely MRP Cabinet, we will demand that the (Constituent) Assembly put the issue up to the country in new elections."

Elected June 2

This Assembly was elected June 2 for the purpose of drawing up a draft of a constitution for the Fourth French Republic, after a nationwide referendum rejected a Communist-sponsored draft produced by the former Assembly which would have concentrated power in a one-house Legislature.

General de Gaulle jumped into this complicated political picture yesterday with an address which strongly supported MRP views on the constitution, stating that it should provide for strong, interdependent legislative, executive and judicial branches and that the Legislature should be a two-house assembly.

French Socialists Heighten Crisis

R. Nelson

Paris, June 17 (AP)—The French governmental crisis mounted today when the Socialists spurned the presidency of the council and the moderate Popular Republican Movement (MRP) reaffirmed the candidacy of Foreign Minister Georges Bidault. The Communists have refused to support any regime the moderate new party heads.

Gen. Charles de Gaulle, often associated with the MRP, emerged from the political obscurity he entered upon resigning the presidency six months ago, by declaring in a speech at Bayeux that he favored a strong executive and a two chamber legislature for the Fourth Republic.

Hope for immediate solution of the crisis dimmed.

Socialist Statement

The Socialist party secretary general, Daniel Mayer, declared: "The President of the Cabinet cannot be a Socialist. The desires or decisions of the other parties cannot modify the will of the national council of the Socialist party. We will leave to the parties more favored than we the direction of the Government."

The MRP became the leading party in the new elections early this month, taking the lead from the Communists, who dropped to a close second place. The Socialists, marked losers in the election, dropped from second to third, and Socialist President Felix Gouin and his Cabinet have resigned.

De Gaulle Plan Like MRP's

De Gaulle's proposals were similar to those of the MRP.

Most observers felt that despite his speech, de Gaulle had no immediate intention of returning to active politics. However, there was a strong belief that if France chose a charter along the lines he suggested he might become the Fourth Republic's first President after next autumn's elections.

De Gaulle resigned as provisional President during a governmental crisis last January. Explaining that move, he told his Bayeux audience that he had sought certainty that "no question could be raised about an individual, director of a state, exercising an influence on the task of the legislators."

In his Bayeux speech de Gaulle warned of the threat of dictatorship in France, and urged that "public powers—legislative, executive and judicial—be clearly separated and strongly balanced."

Jackson Plans Return to U. S. 'After July 15'

He Hints He May Discuss Supreme Court Dispute Directly With President

T. Reedy

NUERNBERG, Germany, June 17 (AP).—Supreme Court Associate Justice Robert H. Jackson disclosed today he would return to the United States after July 15, when his work as chief United States prosecutor at the war crimes trial is over, and hinted that he might discuss the explosive Supreme Court controversy directly with President Truman.

Justice Jackson declined in an interview to offer any further comment on his controversy with his colleague on the Supreme Court, Associate Justice Hugo L. Black. Friends of Justice Jackson here said he has made public all he intends to say upon that subject.

However, Justice Jackson noted in the interview that his job here is a Presidential assignment, indicating he would report directly to the President on his return. This raised the possibility of a heart-to-heart talk with the Chief Executive in which the court controversy would be discussed.

To Stay as Prosecutor

Justice Jackson made it clear that he is not resigning his post as prosecutor here, but that after July 15 the cases against the Nazi defendants would be complete. The International Military Tribunal's attention then will be focused on Nazi organizations such as the S. S., the German General Staff and the Hitler Youth, he said.

Justice Jackson recalled that he had already argued the case against the organizations in the early part of the trial. The groundwork for the cases is now being prepared by a special five-man commission.

President Truman said last Friday that he tried to stop Justice Jackson from issuing his sensational statement charging that Justic Black participated in decisions affecting a former law partner. Justice Jackson's statement declared that the practice, if continued, would bring the high court into "disrepute."

Mr. Truman suggested to Justice Jackson that the statement be withheld until the two of them had a chance to talk it over.

So far as further public statements are concerned, Justice Jackson's friends here said, the justice felt that his criticism of what he had called Justice Black's "bullying" tactics would serve to clear the air and prevent repetition of such incidents. His present feeling, these sources said, is that the matter now is a closed book.

No Hint in Inquiry

Justice Jackson gave no indication that he would seek a Congressional inquiry on his charges, which he cabled to the House and Senate Judiciary Committees. He said he had read about statements in the Senate that both Justice Black and himself should resign from the court, and the report that President Truman had asked him to forgo a public statement until a White House discussion had been held.

"I have nothing to say about it," he said tersely.

On Washington the Senate Judiciary Committee, like the House Judiciary Committee last week, announced it had "no authorization or jurisdiction" to take action on Justice Jackson's statement about Justice Black. The committee chairman, Senator Pat McCarran, Democrat, of Nevada, said the Senate, under the Constitution, can act as a court "only when such charges are made by the House of Representatives through impeachment proceedings."

Justice Jackson was asked also about the report that he might run for the governorship of New York. He declined, likewise, to comment upon this subject. Associates here said, however, that he never intended to seek elective office.

JACKSON PLANS RETURN TO U. S. ABOUT MID-JULY

Chief American Prosecutor Denies He's Resigning at Nazi Trials.

Nuernberg, June 17 (A. P.).—Justice Robert H. Jackson said today that his job as American war crimes prosecutor here probably would be over by July 15, and that he would return to the United States.

The jurist, spearhead of a controversy involving Supreme Court Justice Hugo L. Black, estimated that the cases of the high Nazis would be completed by mid-July. The attention of the tribunal then will be devoted to prosecution of such organizations as the S. S., the Gestapo and the Hitler Youth Organization.

He declined to comment further on the Supreme Court controversy which he touched off a week ago with a statement that Black participated in a decision in which his former law partner was a counsel.

'Nothing to Say.'

Jackson said he had read of statements in the Senate that both he and Black should resign. He said also he had seen President Truman's assertion that he had asked him to forgo a public statement until the matter had been discussed with him at the White House.

"I have nothing to say about it," Jackson said tersely.

Questioned about reports that he might run for Governor of New York, Jackson said he had no comment. Associates said, however, that Jackson never intended to seek an elective office.

Jackson emphasized that he was not resigning as prosecutor, pointing out that he argued the case against the organizations in the early part of the Nuernberg trials.

Groundwork for the actual trial of the organizations is being prepared by a five-man commission with separate legal staffs.

He declined to comment further on the Supreme Court controversy which he touched off a week ago with a statement that Black participated in a decision in which his former law partner was a counsel.

Silent On Truman Statement

Jackson said he had read of statements in the Senate that both he and Black should resign. He said he also had seen President Truman's statement that he had asked him to forego a public statement until the matter had been discussed with him at the White House.

"I have nothing to say about it," Jackson stated.

Questioned about reports that he might run for governor of New York, Jackson said he had no comment. Associates said, however, that Jackson never intended to seek an elective office.

SENATE PLANS NO ACTION IN COURT FEUD

"Hands-Off" Attitude Is Adopted By Judiciary Committee

Washington, June 17 (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee adopted a "hands off" attitude today toward the controversy between Supreme Court Justices Robert H. Jackson and Hugo L. Black.

Since the House Judiciary Committee already has taken much the same position, it became apparent that Congress intends to do nothing about the "feud" although some legislators individually have noticed demands that Black or Jackson, or both, resign.

Jackson said in Nuernberg today he had read of these demands and "I have nothing to say." He disclosed that he will return to the United States about July 15 upon winding up his job in Germany.

Committee Issues Statement

The Senate group met behind closed doors for two and one-half hours, then issued a statement saying:

"The committee has heard and discussed the cablegram addressed to the chairmen of the Senate and House Judiciary committees by Mr. Justice Jackson. If any question is presented by this communication we lack authority or jurisdiction to determine it at this time.

"The Senate of the United States, under the Constitution, can act only as a court to decide charges brought against a judicial officer of the United States, and only when such charges are made by the House of Representatives through impeachment proceedings."

Approved Unanimously

Chairman McCarran (D., Nev.) said the statement was approved unanimously.

Senator Revercomb (R., W.Va.), asked his view, said the statement "covered the situation."

"I think it represents pretty generally the sentiment of the committee as a whole," Revercomb added.

Jackson sent his message a week ago today. At the same time, he gave copies to newsmen.

In brief, he declared that Black sat in cases presented to the court by Black's former law partner, although other justices in similar situations had disqualified themselves. Furthermore, Jackson said, Black threatened him with "war" if he did not join in "covering up the facts" of Black's action.

Brought Feud Into Open

Jackson's blast brought into the open ill-feeling about which Washington had whispered. It was this dissension, in the opinion of many legislators, which led President Truman to nominate Fred M. Vinson, Secretary of the Treasury, for Chief Justice rather than elevate any present member of the court.

Vinson's nomination will come before the Judiciary Committee on Wednesday. The committee has allowed until noon of that day for Edwin J. Creel, of Washington, who objects to the nomination, to file a statement.

Members of the committee have taken the attitude that Vinson's nomination should be considered without relation in any way to the Jackson-Black controversy.

Papen Declares He Quit After PurgeCaptivity

Tells Nuernberg Trial S. S. KeptHimPrisoner 3Days So He Broke With Hitler

T. Reedy

NUERNBERG, June 17 (AP).—Franz von Papen testified today that when he was second to Adolf Hitler in Germany the Nazis held him a virtual prisoner for three days during the 1934 blood purge, and that in indignation he demanded and obtained a release from his post of Vice-Chancellor.

The erstwhile "Gray Fox" of Nazi diplomacy told the war-crimes [illegible] Hitler refused to permit him to make the resignation public immediately because the German people at the time were too excited.

Papen, accused of engineering moves which raised the Nazis to power, testified also that he attempted to set up safeguards to prevent Hitler from seizing power, two years before the June 30, 1934, purge in which the S. S. (Elite Guard) and the Gestapo killed scores of persons Der Fuehrer considered his enemies, including Wehrmacht General Kurt von Schleicher and Storm Troop Captain Ernst Roehm.

Papen said Reich Marshal Hermann Goering, also on trial, told him at the time of the purge to remain in his own home for safety, because a revolt was erupting in the ranks of Hitler's brown-shirted Storm Troops.

"I found my office in the Reich Chancellery occupied by the S. S. and when I got to my flat there was a strong formation there, too," Papen testified. "For three days I was cut off from the outside world with no telephone or radio. My press expert was shot and two of my secretaries were taken to concentration camps. When I was freed, Goering apologized and said it was all a mistake.

"I went to the Reich Chancellery and told Hitler that these things that had been done to a member of his own government were incredible and fantastic. I demanded that my resignation be accepted. He tried to persuade me to remain, and I said there is no possible explanation or apology for these incidents."

Papen said he tried to reach President Paul von Hindenburg, but the old field marshal was in seclusion in East Prussia and "the other side had already reached him and convinced him these acts were legal."

Seeking to show that he worked for Germany and not for Hitler, Papen said that in 1932 he set up a plan to keep the Nazis out of power, even though it meant installing Hitler as Chancellor. He said the program of the first Hitler government would have been "to maintain world peace," but that Hitler seized the reins when Hindenburg died and the Papen influence faded out virtually overnight.

TELLS OF 1932 BID TO HEAD OFF HITLER

T. Beedy

Nuernberg, June 17 (A. P.).—Franz von Papen told the International Military Tribunal today that as German Chancellor in 1932 he had sought to set up "safeguards" to prevent Adolf Hitler from seizing dictatorial power. Describing how he organized a non-party Cabinet for President von Hindenburg in an effort to "eliminate civil war," he listed four measures which, he took, he said to keep the Nazis from attaining undue power.

Only three Nazis were admitted to Cabinet posts, including Hitler, and eight ministries were given to members of other parties, he declared; "decisive economic departments were kept out of the Nazis' hands"; experts were put into Ministry posts so far as possible; and joint reports were to be made to the President by the Chancellor and Vice-Chancellor "to minimize Hitler's personal influence."

Von Papen said that the program of the first Hitler government was, at his instigation, non-Nazi and its main purpose was "to maintain world peace, which was so badly needed then." He added, however, that Hitler seized the reins when Von Hindenburg died and that his own influence diminished almost overnight.

GEN. M'NARNEY TAKES STAND

Is Witness At Lichfield Trials For Kilian

D. Doane

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 17 (AP)—Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, United States Commander in the European Theater, was called to the witness stand today in the Lichfield trials, shortly after it was disclosed that a key defendant had asked President Truman to investigate the proceedings.

The day's session, in which none of the defense witnesses ranked under a colonel, brought the bitterest legal battle yet to be touched off in the controversial trials of officers and guards [illegible] alleged cruelties [illegible] prisoners in the United States Army Dentention Camp at Lichfield, England.

McNarney, called as a defense witness for Col. James A. Kilian, of Highland Park, Ill., former commander of the Lichfield Army depot, was questioned about the official Army policy governing trials of the soldiers accused of cruelties to guardhouse prisoners.

Cruel Punishment

The four-star General spent an hour on the stand. Kilian's attorneys sought answers to why the trials were transferred to Germany from London, where the proceedings began last November. Kilian is charged with aiding and authorizing cruel and unusual punishments.

McNarney also was asked what was the "plan" under which the General once said enlisted men were tried before officers, and whether McNarney ever had expressed an opinion as to Kilian's guilt. McNarney denied the latter, but most of the questions were blocked by prosecution objections.

Kilian's attorney precipitated the legal battle by asserting that "a fair trial is impossible under existing conditions."

The attorney, Col. Raymond E. Ford, of Fort Pierce, Fla., himself took the witness stand voluntarily in behalf of his client.

Kilian, disclosing his request to President Truman, asked a month's postponement of his case. It was denied. He demanded that the trial be transferred to the United States, and that, too, was denied, but not until a day-long parade of high-ranking witnesses took the stand in his behalf.

Among the witnesses were Brig. Gen. T. F. Bresnahan, commander of the Continental Base Section which is handling the trials; Col. Lester J. Abele, staff judge advocate; Col. W. V. Thompson, a "coordinator"; and Col. Irvin Schindler, sent from Washington to "expedite" the trial.

"Away From Free Press"

Kilian, a 54-year-old cavalry officer, wanted a postponement of the trial until a reply was received from President Truman. His attorney was not permitted to read the letter to Mr. Truman in court.

His attorney waged a merciless attack on what he charged was "official pressure" in the trials which have involved six officers and ten enlisted men.

"There can be no valid reason," Ford said, "why this trial and the trials of the other accused were not transferred from London to the United States, except that the United States Army authorities desired to conduct this and other trials away from the people of the United States—away from the free public press, and where the highest degree of influence and control was and is possible."

Ford also challenged the eligibility of some members of the trial court and the impartiality of its lawyer member, Col. William H. Beck, Jr., of Griffin, Ga.

Many of the questions directed at McNarney were blocked by objections from the prosecutor, Maj. Joseph Robinson, of New York, who was upheld by the court of seven colonels and a brigadier general. However, the theater commander was permitted to deny that he directed the order of the trials or that he ever expressed any opinion on Kilian's guilt or innocence.

The sharpest of the many exchanges during the session came during the interrogation of McNarney. Ford had protested a court ruling that he could not question McNarney on whether he had received any instructions from the War Department concerning the trials.

"This is the essence of our motion," Ford declared.

"Removal For Prejudice"

"You've said a lot of things in this motion which are absolutely untrue and unfounded," retorted Colonel Beck, who, as lawyer member of the court, made most of the technical rulings.

"I challenge the law member on the basis of that statement and ask his removal for prejudice," Ford shot back.

"That's just what the defense has been waiting for," shouted the prosecutor, leaping to his feet. "They've been trying to provoke some statement that could be used as a basis for a mistrial."

Beck attempted to withdraw his remark, but Ford insisted. On a secret vote, however, Beck was retained as a member of the court.

Kilian, from Highland Park, Ill., unsucessfully sought to postpone the trial until he had received a reply from President Truman for an investigation.

Kilian's attorney was not permitted to read the letter to the President in court.

[At Washington, White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said: "No such letter has been received here yet."]

A Stormy Beginning

The trial of Kilian, key figure in the Lichfield cases involving six officers and ten enlisted men, got off to a stormy start.

The opening session was spiced with defense charges of "pressure" from high army officials and by frequent fiery exchanges between the prosecutor, Major Joseph S. Robinson, of New York city, and Kilian's attorney, Lieut. Col. Raymond E. Ford, of Fort Pierce, Fla.

Ford told the court that Kilian on May 24 sent a letter to President Truman asking him to "appoint a board of inquiry to examine into the facts upon which the charges against this accused are allegedly based and particularly into the methods used to obtain the type of testimony used as a basis for bringing this accused to trial."

Ford asked that Mr. Truman be furnished transcripts of the first Lichfield trial in London, of the report made by the officer who investigated Kilian's case and of Kilian's own trial.

Court Refuses Kilian Delay, Transfer In His Lichfield Trial

D. Doane

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 17 (AP)—A court-martial trying Col. James A. Kilian on charges of cruelty to soldiers at the Lichfield (England) guardhouse denied him today a month's delay and a venue transfer to the United States, after hearing Kilian had asked President Truman to investigate the trials.

Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, United States commander in Europe, headed a long line of defense witnesses, none of whom ranked less than a colonel.

Center Of Legal Battle

McNarney was questioned sharply about official army policy governing the trial of soldiers. The bitterest legal battle in the entire seven months of the controversial case swirled around the General as he sat for an hour in the witness stand, and was started when Kilian's attorney asserted that a "fair trial is impossible under existing conditions."

Kilian is accused of aiding and authorizing cruel and unusual punishment while he was commandant at Lichfield.

The "Be Rough" Policy

Two lieutenants and three enlisted guards have already been convicted on cruelty charges arising from their conduct at Lichfield, where prisoners testified they were beaten, clubbed and kicked. All the convicted said the "be rough" policy stemmed from higher-ranking officers.

Kilian — short, red-faced and wearing spectacles—was cited for contempt of a military court which was trying an enlisted man and later refused to testify about Lichfield policies on the grounds that his testimony would "embarrass" his own defense.

Brig. Gen. Robert M. Montagu, of Louisville, Ky., headed the court-martial trying Kilian.

Kilian unsuccessfully challenged the eligibility of Col. William Beck, Jr., of Griffen, Ga., because of "possible prejudice" against Kilian. He tried in vain to challenge three other members of the court, saying they were either of lower rank or beneath him on the regular army promotion list. (ADD)

British Planning Great Blast At Heligoland

Cuxhaven, Germany, June 17 (AP). A senior British naval officer said today that the great German island fortress of Heligoland will be "blown up" within three months and be fit only for "a beautiful bird sanctuary."

The officer said preparations will require two or three months. Plans are to set off the explosive charges totaling several hundred tons in one great blast.

The officer said the island would not disappear completely because it rises in comparatively shallow North Sea waters. He asserted, however, that its remnants would never again be fit for human habitation. The island is about 130 acres and had 4,000 inhabitants before the war.

"Lesson For Germans"

The officer said the destruction would be "a wonderful lesson for the Germans." He said "influential bird enthusiasts and ornithologists" in England had opposed strongly the plan to destroy the island because they feared for the effect on migratory birds.

"I can only assure them that when we have finished," the officer said, "it will be the most wonderful bird sanctuary—nothing but a pile of rocks."

Wilkinson Gets Europe Post

BERLIN, June 17 (AP).—Appointment of Colonel Lawrence Wilkinson, of East Haddam, Conn., as chief of the industry branch of the Office of Military Government was announced today. Colonel Wilkinson, a former vice-president of the Marine Midland Trust Co. of New York, served from July, 1942, to November, 1945, as chief of planning in the office of the Chief of Ordnance for the European Theater.

Radio-Directive Plan For U.S. German Zone

Berlin, June 17 (AP)—The American military government, in an effort to narrow the gap between headquarters and personnel in the field, soon will employ shortwave radio to broadcast instructions and policy directives to its lower-level detachments throughout the United States occupation zone of Germany, it was disclosed today.

The military government broadcasts, 15 to 30 minutes each, will be made every weekday over Radio Munich, and field personnel will be required to tune in.

DEFENDS S. S. TROOPS

Dachau, June 17 (A. P.).—Defense counsel argued today that seventy-four Waffen S.S. veterans accused of murdering disarmed American prisoners during the Battle of the Bulge showed "every consideration" to their captives.

Opening its case, the defense asked that murder charges be dismissed "due to the absence of any preconceived murderous plan."

Col. Willis M. Everett of Atlanta, Ga., is chief defense attorney before the military court.

FRANKFORT ON THE MAIN, Germany, June 17 (AP)—Lieut. Col. Normal Sprawl of the United States Army Headquarters public relations office declared tonight that American troop movements in Germany "at present are occurring only for redeployment or readjustment necessitated by redeployment."

Questioned concerning widespread reports in Europe of strategic shifts of American units—particularly paratroopers—because of rumored Red Army concentrations, the military spokesman said that "movements take place only on orders and the parachute infantry here are not at present on orders."

PRAVDA SCORES DANUBE TIE-UP

Says U. S. and Britain Are to Blame, Not Russia.

Moscow, June 17 (A. P.).—Pravda correspondent M. Marinin asserted today that American and British forces had paralyzed Danube River traffic by seizing the major part of the river fleet while Foreign Minister Bevin and others falsely blamed Russia for the situation.

"No objective person," said the article, "could fail to recognize that the Soviet Union has done everything possible to provide transportation on the Danube. And if it is not developed, then Britain and the United States bear the direct responsibility."

Discussing Bevin's recent speech on the proposal for the internationalization of the Danube navigation control and his "open door" policy, Marinin said that "the peoples of the Danube countries understand very well what that policy means and what it would doom them to.

"They see it as a restoration of the pre-war situation when the Danube States were, in fact, deprived of their independence," he said.

Marinin quoted figures saying that the Americans and British were holding more than 700 Danube vessels in idleness.

United States Constabulary troops made a surprise raid on 372 vessels in the Danube River on May 21, seizing a huge supply of guns and other contraband and apparently smashing a smuggling ring headed by remnants of the Hungarian Army. Next day a United States State Department official said seizure of the vessels would be a powerful bargaining point to induce Russia to open the lower Danube to free commerce. However, Brig.-Gen. Edwin L. Sibert, chief of the United States Army Intelligence in Europe, said the raids had "no political motive, but were made solely to break up suspected arms running, smuggling and an underground escape route for SS troopers."

Executives of W. F. T. U. Begin Moscow Meeting

May Deal With Unionization of Enemy States and Spain Issue

MOSCOW, June 17 (AP).—The executive committee of the World Federation of Trades Unions opened a nine-day meeting here today. The group of twenty-two is expected to consider possible unionization in former enemy states; the question of Franco Spain, restoration of the General Confederation of Labor in Greece and relations between the World Federation and the United Nations.

Moscow, June 17 (AP)—Pravda asserted today that the Spanish question now before the United Nations Security Council "touches not only the fate of Spain, tortured and trampled by Fascist butchers, but also touches the future of the United Nations."

The article by B. Izakov asked: "Will this organization, after all, get busy with that cause for the sake of which it was created by the people—to strive for firm peace and uprooting aggression—or will it go the path of Geneva, become an instrument of domination by certain groups of powers?"

Chetnik Says Hate For Nazis Led Him To Join Mihailovic

W. King

Belgrade, June 17 (AP)—Dr. Stevan Moljevic, president of Draja Mihailovic's wartime Central Committee, testified today before a Yugoslav military tribunal trying him as a war criminal that he joined Mihailovic "because I hated the Germans."

He entered a formal plea of innocence and disclaimed immediately any responsibility for collaboration with the Germans on the part of Chetnik commanders in the field.

DAY

Djuro Vilov, also a member of the Central Committee, followed Moljevic on the stand and testified quickly that, he was convinced Mihailovic's organization "was collaborating." Vilov, the only Croat in the Trial in which all the other defendants, judges and advocates are Serbs, admitted writing slanderous articles about the Partisans.

Mihailovic Removed From Room

Moljevic testified that Mihailovic met with the Germans in November, 1941, and that the chief defendant in the trials had left a will and instructions with Moljevic for leadership in the event that he should fail to return.

The thin, grey haired former attorney declared that he had supported the group in Yugoslavia which overthrew the prewar government for signing a pact with the Axis in March, 1941.

Dressed in a neat [illegible] business suit, his appearance contrasted sharply with that of Mihailovic, who was removed from the court room today upon motion of the prosecutor.

The prosecutor asserted regarding Mihailovic's presence that "this is not a normal case" and the president ruled that his removal was "the best method of arriving at the material truth." Mihailovic ended six days of preliminary interrogation on the stand yesterday.

Moljevic "Not A Soldier"

Moljevic testified that he was not connected with the military efforts of the Chetniks, saying, "I am not a soldier and I did not know about such things."

Once during his questioning he declared, "I was not responsible for the collaboration of the commanders and you can't say so."

Moljevic was the second and Vilov the third of eight accused Chetnik leaders to testify thus far. Two Chetniks are being tried in absentia. Others named with them in the indictment fall into two groups: Leaders of the London Yugoslav Government-in-Exile, all of whom are absent; and members of the Nazi-dominated Government of the late Milan Nedic, who are present.

The defendants who are present will be questioned individually on the charges, after which other witnesses will be heard and documentary evidence submitted.

Jews Flee Terror in Poland

Repatriates From Russia Set Upon by Outlaw Bands—1,000 Deaths in Ten Months.

L. Allen

Warsaw, June 16 (Delayed) (A. P.)—Thousands of Jews being repatriated from Russia are fleeing westward and southward to escape intermittent waves of anti-Semitic terror at the hands of outlaw bands.

Approximately 1,000 Jewish slayings have been verified in the last ten months and the toll is being boosted by bandit attacks on repatriation convoys operating on railways and highways.

DAY

The Government is severely punishing those perpetrating anti-Semitic acts, but the activity of the lawless bands is so widespread that it is difficult to assure adequate protection for all.

A total of 60,000 Jews is expected to be repatriated from Russia by August 1, boosting Poland's Semitic population to approximately a quarter of a million. However, officials of the Central Committee say that the Jews admit the vast majority of the repatriates want to go to Palestine or America. Many try to leave Poland illegally, crossing into Germany or Czecho-Slovakia.

Emigration Encouraged.

The government is encouraging legal emigration. The American military attache to Warsaw alone issues approximately fifty transit permits daily, allowing Jews to proceed through the American zone of Germany into France. Thousands are reported stranded in France because of difficulties encountered in proceeding to America or Palestine.

There are widespread demands among Polish Jews for unrestricted emigration to Palestine. Dr. Emil Sommerstein, president of the Central Committee, is now in the United States seeking to expedite assistance for Jews who wish to remain in Poland or to emigrate.

Although the government has granted substantial financial aid and encouraged Jews to rebuild their homes and businesses and has tried to protect their lives, there is constant uneasiness and fear of death among them. Any mass movement of Jews, such as the repatriation from Russia, has always precipitated a new wave of killings and robberies.

QUISLING'S WIDOW PLEADS INNOCENT

Swiss Hail GI Tourists As Fine Good-Will Envoys

By The Associated Press.

ZURICH, Switzerland, June 17—United States soldiers, whose free and easy ways have brought them strong criticism in some European countries, have really earned their "good conduct" ribbons in Switzerland. Here touring GI's are genuinely serving as good-will ambassadors for the United States.

In the last eleven months almost 250,000 American troops have taken eight-day tours of scenic Switzerland at a special $35 rate that covers food, hotel rooms and travel expenses. Each soldier also is allowed to bring along $50 spending money.

When the project first was broached many Swiss were alarmed at the prospects of hundreds of thousands of foreign soldiers flooding their small country. Now, after nearly a year of association with these tourists in uniform, the Swiss people have voted them to be more gentlemanly than their run-of-the-mill peacetime visitors.

SWEDEN GRANTS CREDIT TO RUSSIA

STOCKHOLM, June 17 — (AP) Sweden has granted Russia a credit of 1,000,000,000 Swedish crowns ($250,000,000) over a five-year period, a well informed source said today.

NIGHT

Trade discussions recently were held in Moscow and the informant, who refused to be named, said agreement was reached on the mutual exchange of $250,000,000 worth of goods a year in both directions in addition to the credit. The agreement is one of the most comprehensive ever entered by Sweden.

The negotiations in Moscow covered possible compensation for the estimated $25,000,000 frozen Swedish assets in Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania—all absorbed by Russia.

RED IS APPOINTED AZERBAIJAN HEAD BY IRAN'S PREMIER

J. Goodwin

TEHRAN, June 17—(AP) Prince Mozaffar Firouz announced today the appointment of a new governor general in Azerbaijan province and declared that a decree calling for a national election is "ready for issuing."

NIGHT

The [illegible] propaganda director said that the new appointee was Dr. Salamollah Javid. Political observers described Javid as a Communist who was active in the 1919-20 agitation for uniting Azerbaijan with Russia.

Firouz said that Jafar Pishevari, who was head of the autonomous regime in Azerbaijan, was "retiring" from public life, although Firouz conceded "it was possible" that Pishevari might seek a parliamentary seat in the elections.

He added that Pishevari will remain as head of the Democratic party in the province, which has now decided to return to the jurisdiction of Tehran. Javid was interior minister in the Pishevari regime.

Firouz termed the settlement whereby Azerbaijan reunited with Tehran as "a victory for our foreign policy, which will tolerate no foreign interference in our affairs. Iran is strong enough to settle her own internal affairs."

He said that there is no provision in the election for voting by women but that the new parliament is expected to act upon the matter.

Iran has been without a parliament since March 12, when its members adjourned without voting to extend the normal two-year term, leaving the reins of government in the hands of Premier Ahmed Qavam.

Pishevari Quitting Public Office

Tehran, June 17 (AP) — Propaganda Minister Prince Mozzafar Firouz announced today that Jafar Pishevari, head of the erstwhile autonomous Government of Azerbaijan province, was retiring from public office.

Dr. Salamollah Javid, who was Interior Minister in the Pishevari Government, has been appointed governor general of the province, which recently decided to return to the jurisdiction of the Tehran Government.

Javid, identified as a Communist by political observers here, was active in 1919-20 in a move to annex the province to Russia.

Newspaper Suppression

Firouz denied in a press conference reports of the suppression of Right-wing Iranian newspapers, explaining that "the only papers suppressed were those with policies which endangered our good relations with our great allies."

He said the Azerbaijan problem was settled and that a military commission was now working out details for incorporating the Azerbaijan Army into the Central Army. A second commission is "taking over the railroad from the Soviet operating mission," Firouz added.

The Propaganda Minister said Pishevari still headed the Democratic party in the province and might run for a seat in Parliament.

Kurdish Settlement

He said the settlement also covered the Kurdish section of the province, adding: "Mahabad Kurds are Azerbaijans. There has been no separete Kurdish problem."

Firoux termed the settlement a "victory for our foreign policy, which will tolerate no foreign interference in our affairs."

"Fortunately, we have retained the good will of all great powers," he added.

A decree calling for a national election is "ready for issuing," he said. No provisions have been made for voting by women, he declared, but the new Parliament is expected to act on the matter.

Power Plant Removals Held Blow to Manchuria

U. S. Reparations Commission Calls Economy Hamstrung

MUKDEN, June 17 (AP).—Manchuria's economy has been hamstrung by post-victory removal of vital power-generating plants, members of the United States Reparations Commission disclosed today. As Commissioner Edwin W. Pauley toured the near-by Fushun coal and industrial center seeking data on Russian removal of machinery and equipmen[t].

Pauley, on returning to Mukden, authorized this direct quotation: "The things I have seen have not appeared exactly as goodwill gestures toward China and other Allied nations entitled to reparations from Japan."

What the commissioner and accompanying correspondents saw at Fushun included a huge power plant with six of its modern steam generating units missing and four old-style units still operating.

Members of the mission said they had visited about one-third of Manchuria's power plants and found from 5 to 8 per cent of these operating. Electrical experts estimated that 80 per cent of the equipment had been removed from the plants so far visited.

After a week of investigation, the first report to Pauley said the mission had seen from 75 to 80 per cent of Manchuria's industry but it still was unable to determine the extent of the removal of machinery attributed to the Red army or the effect on Chinese economy.

Conversion Held Easy

Members of the mission declared at a press conference, however, that Manchurian industries had been crippled by the removals.

While most of the plants were devoted to the manufacture of war materials, the members said they could have been changed easily to peacetime production.

There are twelve members of the field team, including the director John P. Hurndall. Los Angeles Pauley will leave Thursday for Europe after visits to Tokyo and Formosa.

MANCHU INQUIRY NEEDS MORE TIME

Mukden, June 16 (Delayed) (A. P.).—The United States Reparations Mission's field workers reported to Commissioner Edwin W. Pauley today that it would take three weeks to learn the extent of purported Russian industrial stripping in Manchuria.

Chinese Reds Chief Calls for End of Strife

Gen. Lin Asserts Continued Civil War Would Mean 'Catastrophe' for China

NANKING, June 17 (AP).—General Lin Piao, commander in chief of Chinese Communist forces in Manchuria, in a conciliatory interview published today said contirued civil war could "only bring catastrophe" to China. Therefore, he declared, "for the sake of the people's welfare, our present stand is to realize peace."

As reported by the Communist New China News Agency, Lin emphasized that the Red forces were confident of their strength but also conscious of the nation's need for peace, and he added: "If the Kuomintang (government party) will cease attacks, peace is at hand."

The Communist commander's assurance of peaceful intent came as advance executive (truce) headquarters in Changchun, capital of Manchuria, organized eight field teams for dispatch to various Manchurian areas, in line with a new truce-implementation agreement signed Saturday in Nanking.

It also followed closely the disclosure by General Tu Li-ming, the government's Manchurian field commander, that serious clashes between government forces and the Communists there had ceased and that Red forces had withdrawn peacefully from Lafachan, southeast of Harbin.

General George C. Marshall, special American envoy, meanwhile continued at Nanking his efforts to negotiate a permanent settlement between the rival factions before expiration of the fifteen-day Manchurian truce next Saturday.

The new China News Agency also reported today an unfavorable reaction in Yenan, the Communist capital, to President Truman's recent statement on lend-lease aid to China. It said the statement was "regrettable at this time, when General Marshall, the government and the Communists are engaged in peace negotiations in Nanking."

[President Truman told Congress Friday that lend-lease aid totaling $1,335,632,000 had been advanced to China up to Dec. 31 last, and that it had cost the United States $300,000,000 to transport central government forces to various parts of China since Japan's capitulation.]

QUICK ACCEPTANCE OF BRITISH PLAN IS HINTED IN INDIA

NEW DELHI, June 17 (AP) — (AP) Sentiment appeared to be crystallizing rapidly tonight for quick acceptance by the dominantly Hindu Congress party and the Moslem league of the British proposed coalition interim government for India.

An [illegible] decision by the Congress party might come sooner than had been expected was seen in the call for a meeting of the Congress working committee at 6:30 a.m. tomorrow.

Frontier Leader Summoned

The committee will consult at that time with Abdul Ghaffar Khan, known as "the Frontier Gandhi." A member of the committee, he is flying here from his far northern home to join the group in its deliberations.

The working committee of the Moslem league, chief rival of the Congress party, also met today and will reassemble late tomorrow. There was no formal announcement of acceptance from the league, but President M. A. Jinnah was reported to have sent a letter to Viceroy Lord Wavell presumably seeking assurance of allocation of key portfolios in the interim cabinet of 14 proposed by the British.

Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, president of the Congress party, conferred with Sir Stafford Cripps, one of the members of the cabinet mission. He was reported also to have discussed the distribution of the key portfolios.

The viceroy and the cabinet mission proposed that the interim cabinet, which will rule India in the transitory period before independence is achieved, be made up of five Moslem league members, five from the Congress party, one Parsee, one Sikh, one Christian Indian and one member of the depressed classes.

Will Elect Delegates

Instructions have been issued to the provincial governors to proceed with elections for delegates to the constituent assembly which will write the constitution under which India will become independent.

This was viewed by the Congress members as evidence of the British determination to waste no time getting the new house in order.

The British plan to install the government on June 26 if acceptance is received from the Moslem league and Congress, and the individuals nominated for the cabinet posts.

The following day is the deadline set for a nationwide rail strike, which may give the new government the first test of its strength.

Congress Stand To Be Taken

Congress party leaders indicated the party's position would be made known after a session of the working committee today.

A Moslem League leader said he saw no reason why the league should not accept the plan.

India Seen Accepting Interim Plan

New Delhi, June 17 (AP)—Chances increased today that both the Congress party and the Moslem League would accept the British plan for an interim government to rule India in the transitory period before independence.

Field Marshal Lord Wavell, the Viceroy, proposed a cabinet of five Congress representatives, five Moslem Leaguers and four representatives of smaller segments of India's 400,000,000 persons, to start functioning June 26.

Gandhi Is "Unhappy"

Mohandas K. Gandhi, spiritual leader of the Congress, was represented as "personally very unhappy," but the pro-Congress Hindustan Times said "there is every reason for giving favorable consideration" to Wavell's announcement.

Dawn, official newspaper of the Moslem League, expressed the view that the British Cabinet mission had "pulled a fast one" and asked, "What guarantee is there even now that this 'final' decision . . . will remain final?" The newspaper was interpreted regardless as indicating league acceptance of the proposed Cabinet, barring further changes. Most partisan newspapers made favorable comments.

President Maulana Azad of the Congress visited Sir Stafford Cripps, one of three British Cabinet members on the independence mission, reportedly to ask clarification on distribution of key portfolios. The name of Premier H. K. Mahtab of Orissa state was not submitted by the Congress, and the party's working committee said they were not agreeable to the choice.

Election Instructions Issued

Instructions to the provincial governors to hold elections of delegates to the Constituent Assembly have apparently impressed the Congress with the Cabinet mission's intent to waste no time.

If the new government is indeed installed on June 26, one of its first tests will come the following day,

A spokesman for Gandhi said the fact that the league and the party would have the same number of seats "has not done justice to the Congress."

The cabinet would be composed of five members of the league, five members of the Congress party, one representative of the depressed classes, one Parsee (adherent of the old Persian religion), one Sikh and one Indian Christian.

A sixth vote would normally be assured the Congress from the depressed-caste member, and the Indian Christian and Sikh representatives would often side with the Congress.

The Cabinet mission and the Viceroy issued a joint statement that they would proceed with the interim government even if the league, the congress or any of the fourteen individuals declined to participate.

"The Viceroy will aim at inaugurating the new government about June 26," the statement declared, "but if any of those invited is unable for personal reasons to accept, the Viceroy will, after consultation, invite some other person in his place."

The fourteen proposed Cabinet members:

Congress Party — Jawaharlal Nehru, Sardar Vallabhai Patel, Dr. Rajendra Prasad, Chakravarthi Rajagopalachari and H. K. Mahtab.

Two-man Regency To Rule Siam

Bangkok, June 17 (A. P.).—A permanent two-man regency, set up by the National Parliament, will rule Siam until King Phumiphon, now 18 years old, attains his majority. The regents replace the temporary regency established last week, following the death of King Amand Mahidol. They are royal Prince Chainat and Phya Manavaraj Sevi, speaker of the old national assembly.

Dutch Get Javanese Reply

Counter-Proposals on Plan for Independence Received

BATAVIA, Java, June 17 (AP).—A Dutch spokesman said today that Indonesian counter-proposals for the Netherlands' independence plan had been handed to Acting Governor General Hubertus J. van Mook through a British intermediary.

He said the gist of the "rather lengthy document" will be telegraphed to The Hague. Authoritative Dutch informants said the Indonesian proposals did not have the character of "take it or leave it."

ROTC OF U.S. CITED BY JAPS

Early American Military Training Brought Up By Defense

Tokyo, Tuesday, June 18 (AP)—Defense counsel for Japan's accused war criminals established today that American students received military training in pre-Pearl Harbor years, much as the Japanese did.

The prosecution had charged the defendants with [illegible] alleged war conspiracy by teaching militarism in the Japanese schools.

United States Marine Lieutenant Aristides G. Lazarus, of New York city, representing Japanese Marshal Shunroku Hata, former China theater commander and war minister, drew from the trial's first witness — Marine Lieutenant Colonel

30-24-3373

Donald R. Nugent, San Francisco—the statement that Army and Navy ROTC training was being given in some United States schools about 1937.

Question Of Obedience

Nugent, under cross examination, said students in United States schools drilled and learned the use of arms. He said many of the instructors were reserve or retired army officers.

Asked if the United States instructors taught obedience, Nugent, who testified yesterday that Japan's youth were impressed with blind faith in their nation's destiny, said "so far as obedience was a part of the training I assume they did."

Under questioning by William Logan, of New York city, American counsel for Marquis Koicho Kido, former lord keeper of the privy seal, Nugent said that two years of military training were compulsory in United States land grant colleges.

Major Blame Put On Japs

Nugent said his testimony that 30 to 40 per cent of Japan's 1941 school curriculum was in military training, was drawn from visits to "a dozen schools" and a study of the Japanese educational system.

Seven of Japan's war-crimes defendants have been singled out by the prosecution as having actively prepared the nation for battle to attain "a world under one roof"—a Japanese roof.

At a session of the international tribunal which heard the first witness, Valentine C. Hammack, assistant prosecutor, charged yesterday that the seven whipped the empire into a war frenzy through propaganda and an ever-tightening grip of the military-naval clique.

Military training was intensified as far back as 1922, the assistant prosecutor charged.

Education Setup Reorganized

By 1941, testified Lieutenant Colonel Nugent, Japanese schools devoted 30 to 40 per cent of their time to some form of military training or lectures.

Nugent taught at several Japanese schools between 1937 and 1941. He now is chief of the Allied headquarters civil information and education section.

Hammack told the tribunal that Kido completely reorganized the educational system in 1937 with an ultranationalistic goal in mind.

Tojo In Exclusive Interview

Relating how the militarists gradually gained control, Hammack said that ex-Premier Hideki Tojo, top-ranking defendant, caused the downfall of the third Konoye Cabinet in October, 1941, by refusing as Minister of War to support Prince Konoye's desire to withdraw Japanese troops from China. Tojo organized a new cabinet and in less than two months Japanese bombs fell on Pearl Harbor.

Tojo, in an exclusive statement to the Associated Press through Ichiro Kiyose, defense attorney, contended the prosecution could not prove that the defendants conspired to dominate the world.

U.S. And Britain Blamed

Instead, the statement asserted, a coalition of the United States and Great Britain "chased the Japanese Empire into a conflict which declared war on civilization and they should take responsibility for destroying civilization."

Other causes of the war listed by Tojo were suppression of Japan's trade development "by the objection of a certain big power against the East Asiatic immigration;" formation of a high tariff policy and economic blockade of the Empire; adoption of a policy that caused continued Chinese resistance to Japan and presentation of "impossible proposals" to Japan at the last stage of the Japanese-American negotiations.

The statement, giving Tojo's first detailed summation of his ideas of the causes of the war, was titled, "impressions received from a statement of the prosecutor."

"inculcated in them both ultranationalism and militarism. It taught them fanatical devotion to country and blind obedience to authority."

Dr. S. Nazumi, of the defense staff, sought to show by crossexamination that Nugent had arrived at his opinion by talking to only a few Japanese students.

Planning Begun In 1928

"When the response is 100 per cent the same opinion, it is apparent the opinion is a good one," Nugent replied.

At the outset, Valentine C. Hammack, of San Francisco, assistant prosecutor, charged that beginning with 1928 the men on trial began to prepare Japan for war.

Hammock accused Marquis Koichi Kido, former confidential adviser to Emperor Hirohito, with "completely reorganizing Japan's educational system in 1937 in preparation for hostilities.

Jap Schools' War Role Is Described To Court

Tokyo, June 17 (AP)—Japan's war plotters used the schools to instill in Nipponese youth the idea that their nation had a "divine mission" to rule Eastern Asia, a United States Marine officer testified today as the first prosecution witness in the war-crimes trial of former Premier Hideki Tojo and 27 other defendants.

Lieut. Col. Donald R. Nugent, chief of supreme headquarters civil information and education section, who taught in Japan before the war, said Japanese students were told that their nation eventually would dominate "the world under one roof."

Bayonet Drills For Pupils

Tojo leaned forward on his elbows and stared fixedly at the witness and seemed to show an interest for the first time since he went on trial before the international tribunal.

Nugent testified that Japanese pupils were put through field maneuvers, street-fighting problems, bayonet drills and machine-gun instruction.

"Such teachings," Nugent said, Hammack declared that propaganda was used to lash the Japanese people into a frenzy against the United States and Great Britain. He said the argument was that their aid was the reason why China was able to resist Japan.

Defense "Problems" Studied

Chief Justice Sir William Webb said the court would consider the complaint of defense attorneys that unsolved problems were hampering their task of preparing their cases.

Floyd J. Mattice, Indianapolis, member of the defense staff, told the court there was insufficient personnel for the defense and that difficulties in general were "increasing and multiplying."

The resigned chief of defense counsel, Navy Captain Beverly M. Coleman, of Washington, said he and five of his aides who also resigned had informed allied headquarters of their reasons. There was no official explanation, however, and the six declined comment.

Tojo Places War Blame On Allies

This is the first of two articles based on a statement by Hideki Tojo, defending himself against charges before the international war-crimes tribunal.

R. BRINES

Tokyo, June 17 (AP)—Hideki Tojo asserted today a coalition of the United States and Great Britain "chased the Japanese Empire into a conflict which declared war on civilization and they should take responsibility for destroying civilization."

Striking back at the international war-crimes prosecutor's castigation of himself and 27 other defendants, the Japanese wartime Premier gave the Associated Press, through Defense Attorney Ichiro Kiyose, this statement.

The statement, entitled "Impressions Received from a Statement of the Prosecutor," contended that the prosecution could not prove its charges that the defendants conspired to dominate the world.

Six Main Ideas Listed

In his first detailed summation of his ideas of the causes of the Pacific war, Tojo listed:

1. The pressure of the Anglo-American coalition against the empire after the first great European war.

2. The suppression of the (Japanese) empire's trade development by the objection of a certain big power against the East Asiatic immigration, adoption of a high tariff policy, and formation of an economic bloc. [Obviously, a reference to the United States.]

3. Racial discrimination.

4. Economic blockading of the empire immediately before the war of greater East Asia through the joint (Anglo-American) might and military and economic threat.

5. Adoption of a policy to cause China to continue resistance and to cause Japan and China to fight each other.

6. Presentation of impossible proposals to the empire at the last stage of Japanese-American negotiations. [Probably just before the Pearl Harbor attack in 1941.]

In his recapitulation, Tojo placed the origin of the Pacific war many years before the date set by the prosecution, which in general begins its case with the preludes to the Manchurian incident in 1931.

Involves Act Of 1924

Tojo's mention of racial discrimination and immigration quotas refers to the bitter controversy over the United States Immigration Act of 1924.

Asserting that these causes forced Japan into a war of self-defense "to guarantee its own existence," Tojo declared that "this idea should not be cast away as the cries of a defeated nation."

Tojo also asserted that it "is not clear how it was possible for the numerous defendants, whose ages are vastly apart, to carry out a joint conspiracy" as the prosecution charges.

Jap Landholding Curbs Okayed

Tokyo, June 17 (AP)—The Allied Council today rejected a Russian plan for expropriation of Japanese land but approved a two-year rural land "reform" program offered by Great Britain for the fallen empire.

The Chinese and British members joined with George Atcheson, Jr., the United States member, in opposing a proposal by Lieut. Gen. Kuzma Derevyanko of Russia to expropriate the land of the rich.

Derevyanko then joined with China and Britain in approving a plan modeled after the suggestion of W. McMahon Ball, British Commonwealth delegate, limiting land holdings.

Now Up To MacArthur

Under this plan, which was approved for submission to General MacArthur, no one could hold more than 7¼ acres of land on Honshu, Kyushu and Shikoku, the heaviest-peopled islands of Japan.

On Hokkaido, northernmost and most thinly populated of the four home islands, individuals would be limited to 24.5 acres.

Atcheson did not vote on the British proposal, saying that in this connection he was "seeking advice, not making recommendations."

Two Change Fishing Stand

Ball and C. T. Shen, acting Chinese delegate, amended their concurrence in last week's Council action extending Japanese fishing areas as an emergency food measure. They agreed to the extension "provided such approval is temporary and does not set a precedent."

The Russian delegate, who blocked any extension of the fishing area northward toward Siberia, has asked for further information on the kinds of fishing boats the Japanese will use.

Jap Wheat Crop Low

Tokyo, June 17 (AP)—Japan's wheat crop will total 58,000,000 bushels, or half a normal harvest, the newspaper Mainichi reported today.

Labor is ample for the harvest except in Hokkaido, northernmost island, the paper noted, but lack of fertilizer has curtailed yields.

FALLS OFF WARSHIP, SAVED AFTER 3 DAYS

Yokosuka, Japan, June 17 (A. P.).—Ange Lacroix, 21 years old, of Rennes, France, a seaman who fell overboard May 25 from the French destroyer Fantasque, near Okinawa, today rejoined his ship here. Lacroix was not missed until the day after the accident. Back here Lacroix said his life jacket kept him afloat in rough water until late afternoon the next day when he managed to crawl onto a tiny volcanic rock. He subsisted there for two days when he managed to attract a Japanese fishing boat which took him off the rock and transported him to Ie Shima near Okinawa. There American troops fed him and notified his ship of his safety.

Filipino Mission Flying to U. S.

MANILA, June 17 (AP).—A Philippine military mission left by plane for Washington today to confer with the War Department on transfer of supplies and equipment for maintenance of the Republic's army after independence July 4.

Hoover Arrives In Caracas

Caracas, Venezuela, June 17 (AP), Herbert Hoover, on a special food mission in South America, arrived today. He will leave tomorrow for Havana.

Thurston Sees Camacho

MEXICO CITY, June 17 (AP)—Walter Thurston, new American Ambassador here, presented his credentials to President Manuel Avila Camacho today and suggested that United States-Mexico co-operation continue in rehabilitation as during the war. The President expressed agreement. Thurston, former Ambassador to Bolivia, succeeds George S. Messersmith, transferred to Argentina.

SENTENCE ROSE SOON

Montreal, June 17 (A. P.).—Sentence will be pronounced Thursday on Fred Rose, only Communist member of Canada's Parliament, who was convicted Saturday of conspiracy to transmit war secrets to Russia. Rose faces a maximum of seven years in prison on the conspiracy conviction. He also is scheduled to be tried in September on four statutory charges under the official secrets act, each of which carries a maximum sentence of seven years.

The House of Commons is expected to take action soon to expel Rose, who was named to that body in a by-election in 1943 and re-elected last year.

Swiss Win Dispute with Allies, Retain Nazi Government Assets

JUN 17 1948

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP)—Swiss officials appeared tonight to have won a lengthy argument with the Allies over possession of assets in Switzerland which belonged to the Hitler government.

Documents made public by the State department showed that American, British and French officials failed after 10 weeks of negotiations to budge the Swiss from their position that under international law they could not give the German government assets to the Allies.

Wanted Funds Transferred

The Allies had argued that the Swiss legally could transfer the assets—chiefly property of the Reichsbank and the German railroads in Switzerland—to the Allied Control council in Berlin as the actual government of Germany.

The documents amplified the general terms of the Allied-Swiss agreement on non-governmental German assets published May 21, following conclusion of negotiations in Washington.

In addition to revealing for the first time that the negotiations had reached no agreement on German government assets, the documents made the following disclosures:

1. Germans whose property in Switzerland will be liquidated and divided on a 50-50 basis between the Swiss and the Allies will be reimbursed in Germany money.

2. The Swiss government, using funds available to it in Germany, will provide one-half the German money necessary for these indemnities with the Allies furnishing the other half.

As part of the assets agreement, the United States promised to release promptly the Swiss assets totalling about $1,750,000,000 which were "frozen" in this country during the war.

The Allies agreed also to stop putting Swiss firms on the so-called "black lists" of business concerns which conducted wartime trade with the Axis.

Retain Half of Assets

As previously announced, the agreement provides for Switzerland to keep half the non-governmental German assets in that country exclusive of gold money, and turn over the other half to the Allies to be distributed as reparations to countries devastated by German aggression.

The Swiss will keep all the German gold in that country which they estimate at $83,000,000, but will turn over $58,140,000 in Swiss francs payable on demand in gold to the Allies, who then will waive all further claims to the gold.

Government officials said privately that the Swiss had driven a good bargain.

They declared that the Allies probably could have forced the Swiss to come across with all German assets in Switzerland if the U. S. had been willing to use the "frozen" Swiss assets as a direct bargaining weapon.

These officials, who can not be named, said, however, that such tactics might have been regarded as virtual economic warfare against Switzerland and added that the Allies need Swiss help in rehabilitating Europe.

The German government assets, officials said, amounted only to about $15,500,000, and the Swiss are using some of that amount to pay for the costs of rehabilitating Germans residing in Switzerland at the end of the war.

ALLIED-SWISS PACT REVEALED

Under It Indemnities Will Be Paid to Germans.

Washington, June 17 (A. P.).—A plan to pay indemnites to Germans whose property in Switzerland is seized and divided equally between the Swiss and the Allies was made public today.

Simultaneously, it was disclosed that during negotiations in Washington, the Allies failed to win Swiss agreement for liquidation of former Nazi Government property in Switzerland, along with the seizure of the assets of German individuals and business firms.

These developments came to light when the State Department released the text of an "accord and annex" between the Swiss and Allied negotiators dated May 25.

To Release Swiss Assets.

The agreement provides the United States release Swiss assets in this country, estimated at about $1,750,000,000, which were "frozen" during the war. Also, the Allies agreed to discontinue including Swiss firms on the "black lists" of business concerns which had wartime dealings with the Axis.

What purorted to be the main points of the Allied-Swiss agreement on the German assets in Switzerland were announced on May 21. At that time, however, it was said that "some details remain to be worked out in Washington on a technical level."

Today's decuments said that the Germans involved would be indemnified in German money aid that Switzerland, "out of funds available to it in Germany," would furnish half the German money necessary for hist purpose. The Allies, presumably, will pay the other half, although no officials would be quoted on the procedure to be followed.

Token Payments Suggested.

One American official suggested, however, that the payments to the Germans might be of the "token" variety. He pointed out that the Allies control the amount of German money in circulation and that in any case, the uses to which the money could be put are limited.

So far as the German Government assets in Switzerland are concerned, the official said they are estimated at only $15,500,000. Of this, he said, about $13,000,000 are classified as "liquid" assets, which the Swiss say they are using to finance the repatriation of about 1,200 Germans in Switzerland at the end of the war.

The Swiss Government declined to turn over the German Government property to the Allies, because, it said, it could not recognize the Allied Control Council in Berlin as the actual government of Germany under international law. The Allies had contended that the council should be so recognized.

Keenan Says He Was Told Tojo Sought Deal to Avert War

Chief Prosecutor for Tokyo Trials Quotes Kurusu on Special Envoy's Orders to Get Three Concessions by U. S.

Washington, June 17 (A. P.).—Joseph B. Keenan, chief prosecutor of Japanese war criminals, said today that he had been informed that Hideki Tojo, wartime Premier of Japan, sought to dicker with the United States to call off Japan's war plans before Pearl Harbor, and that Tojo's conditions were that Japan's war assets be unfrozen, that quantities of high octane gasoline to Japan be unlimited, and that gasoline shipments to China be stopped.

Keenan told a news conference here that Saburo Kurusu, who came to this country as a special envoy shortly before Pearl Harbor, disclosed this information to him. Kurusu said he carried instructions from Tojo, Keenan continued, to relay these proposals to the American Government.

"In return for these concessions, the Cabinet would remove Japanese troops from China," Keenan quoted Kurusu as saying, "but after he reached the United States the Cabinet changed the rules on him, and said it would withdraw troops just from the south."

[On pages 755-756 of the official State Department records, published in 1943, is the text of a Japanese note, delivered by Ambassador Nomura to Secretary Hull on November 20, 1941, covering these points. As to Japanese withdrawal "from China," the official papers indicate that Indo-China, not China, is meant.]

Touch with Emperor.

Tojo later told Kurusu that he could not have carried the Japanese into war if the late President Roosevelt had been able to communicate directly with the Emperor Hirohito. "While he was in the United States Kurusu contacted Marquis Kido, Lord Keeper of the Privy Seal, and suggested that Kido relay to the Emperor a message from the President. The Japanese Foreign Office, however, vetoed this plan."

Keenan was asked whether the Emperor would be added to the list of Japanese war criminals now being tried before the International Tribunal in Japan.

"That is a question which must be decided on a higher political level," he said, adding: "I think it would be a distinct mistake to try the Emperor who was more of a figurehead and a fraud perpetrated on the Japanese. The Emperor was used as an instrument of the war lords. It is clear from examining the evidence assembled for the trial that the war lords employed the Emperor for their own purposes."

Keenan said there is a sharp difference of opinion among the American attorneys for the accused as to how the case should be tried, but added that he did be brought in Germany. Miller accompanied them on the return trip today.

Trial Due in August.

United States Army Headquarters in Frankfurt, Germany, announced that the trial of the Durants and Major David F. Watson of Burlingame, Cal., arrested in Germany, would get under way there before August 1.

Capt. Frank M. Bosworth, serving as temporary counsel for the Air Forces colonel and his bride, said on Saturday that he had demanded formally, either that he be provided with copies of any charges against them, or that they be released from custody. In a statement issued through Bosworth, the couple said, that they had admitted nothing "which they considered criminal."

Army authorities said last week that they had recovered all the missing jewelry and relics. They said that part of the gems were found in a house at Hudson, Wis., where the couple honeymooned, some were in the hands of Chicago customs officers, and most of the others were found in a Chicago railway station locker for which Durant provided

Crown Jewel Theft Suspects Leave by Plane for Germany

Colonel and Wac Captain Are Returned to Frankfurt, Where Formal Charges Are to Be Lodged.

Washington, June 17 (A. P.).—Col. Jack W. Durant and his Wac captain wife, held in the Kronberg Castle crown jewel case, left by plane today in Army custody for Frankfurt, Germany. War Department officials said last week that the couple admitted removing to this country a fortune in jewels and relics of the House of Hessia, German grand ducal family.

The treasure had been hidden in the basement of the old palace. The couple, had been held in the Washington area since their arrest in Chicago two weeks ago.

Col. A. C. Miller of the provost-marshal's office said soon after the couple's arrest in Chicago, that formal charges against persons involved in the case would the key.

Mrs. Durant formerly was mess officer for an officers' rest camp at Kronberg castle. In an account released through the War Department here, she said that the treasure cache was found in the basement of the histroic royal home by German workmen.

Also accompanying the couple on the plane today were Lieut.-Col. R. W. Pierce, Miller's assistant, and a Wac staff sergeant, Elizabeth de Young of Grand Rapids, Mich.

British Loan Recommended In House Committee Report

Banking Group Asks Approval as Making for World's Peace and Prosperity—Minority Hits 'Foreign Handouts'

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 17—The House Banking Committee today urged ratification of the $3,750,000,000 British loan, saying it would aid world peace and prosperity.

An alternative, the committee said, would be to risk a division of the world into economic blocs, with trade warfare that would doom to failure the United Nations' efforts for cooperation in maintaining peace.

The committee, which approved the loan-ratification legislation 20 to 5, filed a formal recommendation that the House pass the bill. The Senate has approved it 46 to 34.

However, indicative of the battle which impends on the House floor—debate is to begin next Monday—four of the five House committee members who voted against the proposal filed a minority report declaring that such "foreign handouts" were "unthinkable."

Signed by Representatives Buffett, Republican, of Nebraska; Jessie Sumner, Republican, of Illinois; Smith, Republican, of Ohio, and Hull, Progressive, of Wisconsin, the minority report disputed assertions by some loan proponents that it would establish Great Britain as a bulwark against the spread of communism, and continued:

"This loan will give impetus to Anglo-American imperialistic elements. Later the American people will be told this loan was advance guarantee of American money, guns and boys for all future British Empire needs and desires."

The Banking Committee majority made these specific claims for the loan:

1. It would end the wartime currency and trade discriminations in England a[illegible] many other countries that ha[illegible] the restoration of world trade to peacetime basis.

2. It would make possible the prompt and effective implementation of the Bretton Woods agreements for world economic cooperation.

3. It would help in the establishment of the orderly world economic relations "which are essential to our prosperity and to world peace."

The committee made this declaration on foreign policy:

"The basic objective of United States international economic policy is the promotion of currency and trade practices designed to insure a balanced growth of world trade in which all nations may participate on fair and equal terms.

"Only through an expansion of world trade can our own foreign trade reach the high level necessary for the maintenance of domestic production and employment. Only through a balanced growth of world trade on a non-discriminatory basis can we hope to build a sound economic foundation for world peace.

"The success of this program for international economic cooperation requires the full participation of the great trading countries. If England and the United States were to adopt these fair currency and trade practices, most other countries would find it both possible and desirable to abide by the same principles."

BRITISH LOAN PASSAGE URGED BY HOUSE GROUP

Banking Committee Report Says Alternative Is Peril to Peace.

SIZZLING BATTLE IS EXPECTED

A Minority Report Signed by Four Warns of Peril of Totalitarianism.

Washington, June 17 (A. P.).—The House Banking Committee, formally reporting its 20 to 5 approval of the proposed $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain, declared today that the financial agreement "will be helpful to this country, to England and to the entire world."

DAY

"The alternative would be to risk the division of the world into conflicting economic blocs, with the ever-present danger of economic warfare.

"Such a state of affairs could only mean an intensification of national hatreds, jealousies and suspicions. Under these conditions the United Nations' efforts for co-operation in maintaining peace would certainly be doomed to failure."

The committee made these specific claims for the loan:

1. It would end the wartime currency and trade discriminations in Great Britain and in many other countries that prevent the restoration of world trade on a peacetime basis.

2. Make possible the prompt and effective implementation of the Bretton Woods agreements for world economic co-operation. Without the loan, it was contended, Great Britain would be unable to participate in the World Bank and Currency Stabilization Fund.

3. It would help establish international economic relations conducive to prosperity and world peace.

Debate Begins Next Week.

The House will begin debate next week. The Senate has approved the legislation 46 to 34.

A sizzling battle is promised by the opposition, spearheaded by Representatives Buffett (R.-Neb.), Jessie Sumner (R.-Ill.), Smith (R.-Ohio) and Hull (Prog.-Wis.).

These four filed Friday a minority report with the House, declaring the record of such foreign loans is that they "strengthened in each case the hand of the central government—and thus contributed to the enslavement of the people and the spread of totalitarianism."

As to whether Britain would repay, the committee said: "Nothing in the long history of our relations with England gives evidence of her lack of good faith in meeting her financial obligations." Britain's failure to settle her world war I debt in full was attributed to world depression and the sharp reduction of United States imports and foreign investments.

Turning to another attack by the opposition, the committee said the question of Britain ceding Atlantic islands to the United States has no place in the loan considerations.

U.S., China Agree On Aid Payment

Washington, June 17 (AP)—China today agreed to pay the United States $58,900,000 for lend-lease supplies en route or on order when the war against Japan ended.

The sum will be paid in American dollars in 30 annual installments, the State Department announced. It will draw annual interest at the usual lend-lease "pipe line" rate of 2⅜ per cent. Payments of both principle and interest will begin July 1, 1947, and will be completed on or before July 1, 1976.

The State Department emphasized that this does not constitute a final lend-lease settlement with China, but only an agreement covering goods in the lend-lease "pipe line"—in the process of delivery or procurement at the time of the Japanese surrender.

$1,335,632,000 To Dec. 31

Actually, China's total lend-lease obligation to the United States was $1,335,632,000 through last December 31, according to President Truman's lend-lease report to Congress for that quarter, made public last Friday.

China has continued to receive straight military lend-lease supplies since V-J day which also are not included in the $58,900,000 "pipe line" agreement, the State Department said.

The agreement was signed for the United States by Chester T. Lane, deputy foreign liquidation commissioner, and for China by Shou Chin Wang, head of the Chinese supply mission in this country.

Finland Pays Her Debt Again

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—Finland maintained today its record of being the only country not in default on its World War I debt. The Treasury stated that it had received $166,479.74 from Finland, representing its semi-annual interest installment, and said Finland has paid $7,263,000 to the United States so far, but still owes more than $8,000,000.

U.S. Begins Talks On Airbase Use

Washington, June 17 (AP)—The State Department is working on an air agreement with Australia and arrangements for the use of air fields in Newfoundland and in British colonies in the western Atlantic.

Both the United States and Australia are prepared to begin trans-Pacific airline services as soon as an agreement can be reached. The Australians have purchased American transports for the job.

The talks now under way were described as preliminary by a State Department official.

Conversations with representatives of Canada and Newfoundland on the use of bases in Newfoundland and Labrador began Friday.

British colonial officials have arrived for talks expected to begin tomorrow in an effort to implement the agreement worked out at Bermuda in February. That agreement covered the civil use of airfields built at leased military bases in Bermuda, Antigua, St. Lucia and British Guiana. Fields in Trinidad and Jamaica which may be used as bad-weather alternates also are involved.

A so-called "heads of agreement" was initialed at Bermuda. This amounts to an agreement in principle, with the details left to later negotiation.

The airfields involved, except one in Newfoundland and one in Labrador, were built by the United States for military purposes under 99-year leases. However, the leases did not provide for civil use.

SCIENTISTS TO JOIN WITH MEN ABROAD

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP) W. A. Higinbotham, chairman of the Federation of American Scientists, announced today the formation of an organization of scientists to reestablish contact with scientists abroad in an effort to promote friendship and cooperation among nations.

"If men in every profession were as keenly aware of other nations' activities as scientists were before the war shattered their laboratories and their means of communications, we would be well advanced toward that world community which we must achieve if mankind is to survive," he said in a statement.

Higinbotham emphasized that no restricted information or technical information of military importance will be sent abroad by the new "Committee for Foreign Correspondence."

He listed these as principal aims of the committee: To reestablish personal contacts interrupted by the war; to learn equipment and laboratory needs of research centers wrecked by the war; to exchange points of view and discuss the relationship of science and scientists to society in the atomic age, and to collect and coordinate information received from abroad.

Chairman of the committee is A. S. Bishop of the Northern California Association of Scientists at Berkeley, Calif.

Its sponsors, Higinbotham said, include:

Albert Einstein, of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton; Dr. J. R. Oppenheimer, former head of the Los Alamos laboratory; Dr. Harlow Shapley, head of the Harvard Observatory; Dr. Leo Szilard of the Chicago University Institute of Nuclear Studies; Arthur H. Compton, chancellor of Washington university, St. Louis; Lee A. Du Bridge, president of the California Institute of Technology; Karl Compton, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Louis N. Ridenour of the Massachusetts Institute; and Irving Langmuir, head of General Electric laboratories.

Most of those named, like Higinbotham, were active in one phase or another of the development of the atomic bomb.

Rayburn Names Manila Delegation

Washington, June 17 (A. P.).—Speaker Rayburn today appointed the following to represent the House at the Philippine Independence Ceremony in Manila on July 4: Representatives Bell of Missouri, Robinson of Utah, Fernandez of New Mexico and Domengeaux of Louisiana, Democrats; Crawford of Michigan and Le Compte of Iowa, Republicans.

HOUSE CUTS LIMIT ON NATIONAL DEBT

Ceiling Reduced to 275 Billions, Matching Senate Proposal.

WASHINGTON, June 17 — (AP) Amid shouted demands for less Federal spending, the House voted without a dissenting voice today to reduce the nation's authorized debt limit from the record $300,000,000,000 wartime high to $275,000,000,000.

The Senate already has passed a similar bill by Senator Byrd (D.-Va.), but due to a constitutional requirement that legislation relating to revenue must originate in the House, the Senate must act again—on the House bill.

Urges Less Spending

In presenting the legislation, Chairman Doughton (D.-N.C.) of the Ways and Means committee told the House that "if we are to retain the confidence of the people, we must cut spending and reduce the debt."

Rep. Rich (R.-Pa.) declared the government must quit "squandering" money.

Opposition to the proposed $3,750,000,000 British loan was voiced by some members. Rich said that "this nation cannot afford to go into debt any deeper to help all those countries that have their hands out."

First Cut in Eight Years

The legislation marks the first debt limit reduction in eight years. Congress in 1938 cut the limit from $49,000,000,000 to $45,000,000,000, but numerous boosts immediately followed.

The bill makes no slash in the actual debt, but sets a limit beyond which obligations cannot be incurred. The actual debt now is around $270,000,000,000. It reached a record $279,000,000,000 last February.

DRAFT BILL DEBATE HITS SNAG ON AGE

Two Compromise Plans Involving 19-Year-Olds Rejected by Conference.

WASHINGTON, June 17. — (AP) Conferees for both House and Senate made compromise offers today which would subject 19-year-olds to the draft, but the hot question of taking youths of 18 still tied in knots the whole fate of Selective Service.

These were the alternatives offered:

1. A House offer to take 19 year olds and exempt 18 year olds. Senate conferees rejected this 4 to 3.

2. A Senate offer to delay the draft of [illegible] until all 19 year olds had been taken and until President Truman certified it was necessary. House conferees rejected this 4 to 3.

Law May Expire

Unless somebody backs down, there is a possibility that the entire draft act will expire July 1.

The Senate's version of the draft extension bill would take youths of both 18 and 19, while that of the House would exempt both.

"It's just a matter of one conferee on either the House or Senate side changing his mind," Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah) of the Senate Military committee told reporters after two hour sessions both forenoon and afternoon had failed to break the deadlock.

Under conference rules each side has only one vote and this is determined by a majority of the senators and representatives on the committee. Thus a change by one senator or representative could swing the conference agreement.

Senator Demands Action

"If the draft act is necessary, and the President said it is, Secretary of State Byrnes said it is, and the Secretaries of War and Navy said it is—then it's not right to let these differences over 18 year olds kill it," Thomas said he had told the conferees.

The conferees did agree on a nine months extension of the draft beyond July 1. That is 45 days less than the Army asked.

Chairman May (D-Ky) of the House Military committee offered the compromise to take 19 year olds and exempt youths of 18.

Senator Gurney (R-SD) and Rep. Sparksman (D-Ala) suggested that 18 year olds be taken only if all other manpower sources were exhausted.

Rep. Brooks (D-La) offered an additional restriction on 18 year olds, suggesing that none be taken before October 1, but this also was rejected.

Meet Again Thursday

Thomas said the conferees will meet again Thursday forenoon for another try at a compromise.

The War department and other draft proponents had asked that the Selective Service act be continued for one year from May 15 last.

The Senate passed a bill providing for such an extender, but the House limited the new lease on life to next Feb. 15. The Senate-House conference, seeking to reconcile differences in the two measures, agreed today to compromise on March 31, 1947.

This is a nine-month extension beyond the present expiration date of July 1, which was established in a stop-gap extension bill pushed through Congress on May 14.

If differences over inducting 18 and 19 year olds can be compromised conferees said that all other Senate-House disagreements will be quickly adjusted.

Senator Thomas told reporters the other differences, including the amount of pay increases for the armed forces, could be "settled just like that"—and he snapped his fingers.

If House conferees yield on the teen-age issue, senators expect to accept the more liberal House pay provisions.

ARMY AND NAVY MERGER BEING REVISED AGAIN

Senate Legislative Experts Working on Latest Truman Requests.

'TOO LITTLE AND TOO LATE'

Foes of Bill Say Unification Measure Still Falls Short of Needs for Defense.

Washington, June 17 (A. P.).—Senate legislative experts worked today to fuse President Truman's latest requests for unification of the armed forces into the merger bill pending before the Senate. Senator Elbert Thomas (D.-Utah), chairman of the Senate Military Committee, told reporters that he had instructed legislative counsel to take the President's recommendations and revise the bill.

"We could write all the necessary amendments into the bill, and it would not be greatly messed up," Thomas said.

The bill before the Senate, which came from its Military Committee, was criticized sharply by the Senate's Naval Committee. It was drafted by Thomas and two other Senators who said that they used Mr. Truman's unification message last December as a guide.

Two Principal Changes.

Providing for the merger of the present War and Navy Department into a single Department of Common Defense, with co-ordinate land, sea, and air branches under a single Cabinet member, the bill would require these two principal changes to conform to the presidential pattern:

Elimination of a proposed single over-all military commander as chief of staff of the armed forces, and placing of this power in a joint chief of staff composed of top-ranking commanders of the land, sea, and air forces.

Elimination of four proposed assistant secretaries in charge of research, intelligence, procurement and training.

"The President suggested these functions be given to agencies instead of assistant secretaries," Thomas said. "This would merely require a change in terms."

'Too Little and Too Late.'

Army-Navy merger foes have pasted a "too little and too late" label on Mr. Truman's revised unification plan. They took the attitude in general that the concessions which the President and the War Department made to the sea arm on such points as the Marine Corps and the joint chiefs of staff were insufficient to overcome previous objections.

With only four weeks remaining before Congress plans to quit work for the year, they said that the prospects of final action at this session are extremely remote. Senator Robertson (R.-Wyo.), in comment typical of those who have been critical of earlier merger proposals, said that Mr. Truman's plan "still has the insurmountable defect of the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Forces not being Cabinet members."

These three officers would be subordinate to the Secretary of National Defense under the administration plan, and Robertson, a member of the Senate Naval Committee, told a reporter: "I am fearful of one-man control." The Wyoming Senator said that he was glad to see that Mr. Truman "decided to leave the Marines in being" and that the Army had bowed to the Navy in favor of the present joint chiefs of staff.

For Major Changes.

In fact, the entire new service merger plan differs in few major respects from the proposal which Mr. Truman submitted to Congress last December. But Robertson said that he thought the Naval Committee had the right to hold open hearings and go into the whole matter thoroughly.

Emphasizing the minor changes to be required in the pending merger bill, Thomas said that they could be handled by amendments from the Senate floor. Thomas's committee wrote the bill after long hearings and prolonged closed-door sessions. But while the bill was sent to the floor weeks ago, no strategy decisions have been made for its handling. This fact, coupled with continued opposition among naval supporters, added to the general doubt that any measure would be sent to Mr. Truman for his signature this year.

VETS GAIN IN JOB HUNT

Washington, June 17 (A. P.).—More veterans found jobs in April and May than were discharged from the armed forces, the United States Employment Service said today, asserting that the peak of veteran unemployment has passed.

Robert C. Goodwin, USES director, said with only about 500,000 veterans now returning monthly to civilian life, there "is every reason to believe the situation looks good from here on out."

He said the May report of the Census Bureau showed a total unemployment of 2,310,000, of whom 930,000 were listed as veterans, "unemployed and seeking employment." Another 800,000 veterans neither were working nor seeking work, 570,000 were classified as students, and 300,000 as retired or unable to work.

ARMY SEEKS INCREASE IN NUMBER OF OFFICERS

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP) The War department asked legislation today to increase the authorized commissioned strength of the regular Army from 25,000 officers to 50,000.

The department said in a letter to Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) that it hoped to keep many National Guard and reserve officers who have applied for permanent commissions but who will have to be refused because of the limitations of present law.

NEW HIGH-SPEED PROPELLER BARED

Washington, June 17 (A. P.).—The Army Air Forces reports that a new high-speed, multiple-blade propeller promises aircraft speeds greater than sound. The propeller, still in the planning stages, is to be five or six feet in diameter and have six or eight blades with a spinner half the diameter of the blades to reduce drag. It would turn at from 7,000 to 8,000 revolutions a minute, triple present top speeds.

Air Force, official service journal, said, in reportinng the development, that a recently perfected gas turbine engine had sufficient power to drive the blades at such speeds. Existing engine-propeller combinations have pulled one experimental fighter at better than 500 miles an hour, the publication said, comparable to the speed of present jet-propelled aircraft.

Dr. R. H. Mills, aerodynamics expert at the Army's Wright Field, Ohio, predicted, the publication said, that "we will have propeller-driven airplanes approaching the speed of sound in the immediate future." The speed of sound is roughly 700 miles per hour.

"The advent of jet propulsion will no more replace conventional propeller installations than will the pure rocket replace the jet engine," Mills said. He declared that, in addition to the multiple-blade propeller, counter-rotating propellers and others with blades up to thirty feet in diameter were either under experiment at Wright Field or were being considered.

COL. SCHWARZKOPF GETS U. S. MEDAL

Washington, June 17 (A. P.).—Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, organizer and former director of the New Jersey State Police, has been awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for outstanding services as a commander of the United States Military Mission with the Imperial Iranian Gendarmerie, the War Department announced today.

Col. Schwarzkopf, who is still in Iran, was cited for his work from October, 1942, to October, 1945.

"With the task of stabilizing conditions in Iran to protect the vital Allied supply route to Russia," the citation said, "he took charge of a native police force of 21,000 members, reorganized its supply services, financial branch, and Inspector General's office, and instituted far-reaching improvements to bring it to a high point of efficiency.

Col. Schwarzkopf's home is at 804 Main street, Lawrenceville, N. J.

The War Department also announced today award of the Legion of Merit to Col. Willard L. Johnson, 33 Tusan Road, Maplewood, N. J., who, as disbursing officer and chief of the fiscal division of the Office of Dependency Benefits, "was responsible for the largest single disbursing operation of its kind in world war II."

BIG PLANT IN UTAH SOLD TO U. S. STEEL AT FOURTH OF COST

Bid of $47,500,000 Approved for Geneva Works Which Cost $200,000,000

A HALT TO FALLING OUTPUT

Clark Holds Acquisition Will Not Lead to a Violation of Anti-Trust Statutes

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, June 17—Attorney General Tom C. Clark approved today the sale of the Government's $200,000,000 steel plant at Geneva, Utah, to the United States Steel Corporation for $47,500,000.

"I do not view the sale, as such, of this property by the War Assets Administration to the United States Steel Corporation as a violation of the anti-trust laws," Mr. Clark said in a letter to Lieut. Gen. E. B. Gregory, War Assets Administrator.

Mr. Clark said, however, that the Justice Department "will continue to study and evaluate the activities of the steel industry with a view to preventing, eliminating or redressing any abuses contravening the anti-trust laws."

Monopoly Inquiry Required

The WAA approved United States Steel's bid on May 23. The Surplus Property Law requires that the Attorney General determine whether any sale at a price above $1,000,000 would tend to create a monopoly.

"As the department has previously stated in an opinion to you on a similar transaction," Mr. Clark said, "this advice does not extend to the conduct or the practices of the United States Steel Corporation in its use of the property, nor do I express herein an opinion concerning the legality or illegality of any acts or practices in which the United States Steel Corporation or its subsidiaries may have engaged or may hereafter engage, either alone or with others.

"My approval is subject to the further expressed condition that it shall be without prejudice to any pending or future determination, by or before any court or administrative agency having jurisdiction regarding the legal status of any pricing policy followed by the United States Steel Corporation or by any of its subsidiary companies, either alone or with others."

Mr. Clark's letter said "it appears that on Jan. 1, 1939, the steel industry in the United States had a total ingot capacity of 81,828,958 net tons, of which United States Steel Corporation had a capacity of 28,885,000 net tons, or 35.3 per cent of the national capacity."

He said a memorandum furnished him by General Gregory showed further that on Jan. 1, 1946, the steel industry in the United States had a total ingot capacity of 91,890,560 net tons, of which United States Steel Corporation had a capacity of 28,813,200 net tons, including the capacity of Government facilities at Homestead, Pa., of 1,895,000 tons, or 31.4 per cent of the national capacity.

"Thus from Jan. 1, 1939, to Jan. 1, 1946, while the steel industry in this country experienced a net increase in capacity of about 10,000,000 tons," Mr. Clark said, "United States Steel Corporation experienced a slight net decline in its own actual capacity and a significant decrease in relation to the entire industry.

"The memorandum also indicates that during 1945 United States Steel Corporation made 27.6 per cent of the sales in dollar volume of the industry.

"If the capacity of the Geneva plants, amounting to 1,283,000 tons, is added to the present capacity of the United States Steel Corporation, that corporation's share of the national capacity will rise from its present 31.4 per cent to 32.7 per cent of the national total.

"This is to be contrasted with the position of the United States Steel Corporation at the time of its formation in 1901, when it produced 50.1 per cent of the nation's iron and steel output.

Situation in the Far West

"I have also considered certain statistics regarding the capacity of the steel industry in the Far West. These statistics show that the Far West, exclusive of Geneva, has an aggregate annual ingot capacity of approximately 3,619,000 tons, of which United States Steel Corporation has a capacity of approximately 628,000 tons, or 17.3 per cent. Total Far Western capacity, including Geneva, amounts to approximately 4,900,000 tons.

"If United States Steel Corporation acquires the Geneva plant, it would have 1,911,000 tons or 39 per cent of the total capacity of the Far West. The total Far Western capacity, however, amounts only to approximately 5.3 per cent of the total capacity of the steel industry in the United States."

Mr. Clark said he used these statistics "in view of the analysis made by the Second Circuit Court of Appeals in United States vs. Aluminum Company of America case."

The court, in discussing the Aluminum Company's share of the domestic market, stated:

"The percentage we have already mentioned—over 90—results only if we both include all Alcoa's production and exclude secondary. That percentage is enough to constitute a monopoly; it is doubtful whether 60 or 64 per cent would be enough; and certainly 33 per cent is not."

Mr. Clark said he was issuing the opinion since General Gregory has now indicated that he does not intend to consider any further bids for the plant.

Co-ordination Sought in U. S. Oil Activities

New Division of Interior Department Disavows Role of Policy Making

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP).—Interior Department officials assured a Senate committee today that the new oil and gas division within the department does not intend to take from Congress its policy-making powers over the petroleum industry.

Testifying before the Senate's special petroleum committee headed by Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, Democrat, of Wyoming, Undersecretary Oscar Chapman said:

"Naturally, we realize that policy is laid down in the laws passed by Congress. This new division hopes to co-ordinate the activities of all Federal agencies relating to oil, and to make recommendations to the Congress."

Mr. Chapman and Ralph K. Davies, acting head of the recently-established division, were called before the committee to tell of the division's functions and plans.

Mr. Davies said that when he came to Washington to take over the job of Deputy Petroleum Administrator for War, abolished by executive order on May 8, there were twenty-seven different Federal agencies dealing with oil, causing a "confused and ineffective" situation. The new oil and gas division hopes to prevent a return to that condition, he added.

"We contemplate creating a peace-time equivalent to the war-time council (petroleum industry war council)," he continued.

Rubber Plant Disposal Program Recommended

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP).—An inter-agency policy committee recommended today the government "insure effective competition" through wide distribution of ownership in disposing of wartime butadiene and copolymer rubber plants. The report of the committee headed by William W. Batt, former War Production Board vice-chairman, was released at the White House by John W. Snyder, reconversion director.

The committee urged speed in laying down to Congress a plan for disposal of the plants, pointing out that unless this is done thirty days before the Congressional recess no sale of a plant costing more than $5,000,000 can be made until Congress reconvenes next year. Under the surplus property act, plans for sale of synthetic rubber plants must be submitted to Congress thirty days p[illegible] to any sale.

Inquiry by F.B.I. Under Way on Housing Curbs

Clark Terms Nation-Wide Investigation First Step in Total War by Government

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP).—Attorney General Tom Clark disclosed today that a nation-wide investigation of construction industry trade practices which he said are delaying new homes is under way.

The inquiry is the 167th being conducted by the Justice Department's anti-trust division in a variety of fields, including food, fuel, transportation, banking and electrical equipment, Mr. Clark told a reporter. The Federal Bureau of Investigation handles anti-trust investigations.

Mr. Clark said the housing investigation is the first step "in a total war by the government on those forces which jeopardize full production, full employment and full housing." He added: "The investigation also encompasses reported abuses in allied fields, including mortgage interest rates, and reports of black market dealings in lumber."

Mr. Clark's disclosure coincided with a statement by Housing Administrator Wilson W. Wyatt that small home construction is under way "at a really terrific rate."

Prices His Biggest Concern

Mr. Wyatt told reporters after a White House call that the shortage is so great that the public has difficulty in recognizing the accomplishments.

His chief concern, Mr. Wyatt said, is the price of new homes.

On this point Assistant Attorney General Wendell Berge said, "uniform commission rates observed by some realtors on sales of houses force high costs upon the purchasers."

Mr. Berge, who heads the anti-trust division, said, "the financing of housing construction has been made difficult also by excessively high interest rates," and added: "on a typical direct reduction fifteen-year 5 per cent mortgage for two-thirds of the appraised value the cost of the money over the years will have amounted to more than 22 per cent of the home's total cost. That is too high. Something must be done about it."

Elaborating on Mr. Clark's statement, Mr. Berge said "the whole construction industry has long been plagued with illegal trade restraints which keep prices high and resist the entrance of new processes and techniques.

"Moss production methods have not been utilized in the home construction industry. The anti-trust division's activity in lumber, masonry cement and plumbing has revealed the existence of flagrantly restrictive practices. These four items represent more than two-thirds of the cost for materials in an average house.

"Consumers have been forced to bear elements of 'phantom freight'; products are distributed through a controlled system of jobbers selling at agreed-upon prices, and building codes discriminate against cheaper and more efficient materials, such as pre-fabricated products."

SMALLER SUPPLIES OF FOOD PREDICTED

Less Meat, Poultry, Eggs to Be Available, Says Secretary Anderson.

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP) Housewives were confronted tonight with higher prices for butter, cheese and evaporated milk and prospects of slightly smaller supplies of meat, poultry, eggs, wheat products and dried fruits.

The higher prices were set by OPA, following earlier increases on milk, bread and other food.

Anderson Sees Shorter Supply

The shorter supplies of other items during the next 12 months were forecast in a report by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson.

It said, however, that canned fruits and vegetables will be more plentiful than during the year ending June 30. Supplies of other foods will be about the same.

The price increases are 11 cents a pound for butter, six cents for cheddar cheese and one cent on a 14 1-2-ounce can of evaporated milk.

The retail increases go into effect, OPA announced, with first sales by dealers who have paid more for their supplies. Manufacturers were authorized to begin charging higher prices right away.

Ceilings on Bulk Milk

OPA also set ceilings for the first time on bulk cream and on milk sold for manufacturing purposes. These actions are designed to stimulate production of butter, but OPA officials doubted that either these moves or the price increase for butter will put more on the table very soon.

They said the possibility of removal of price ceilings of butter and other dairy products July 1 gives producers a big incentive for withholding supplies from the market. The Senate has voted to eliminate these ceilings.

In raising prices today, OPA was carrying out instructions issued May 29 by Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles. He ordered the increases because of higher grain costs and "apparent congressional determination to slash food subsidies."

Bowles has estimated that along with a price hike of a penny a quart for milk already in effect in most areas, the increases for butter and cheese wil cost the public at least $250,000,000 a year.

These increases and others recently granted by OPA prompted a top government economist to comment yesterday that living costs are going up at an "alarming" rate.

Meat Production to Fall

Anderson said meat production for the period of July, 1946, to July, 1947 is expected to drop nine percent from the level of the previous 12 months because of a prospective smaller pig crop and expectation that meat animals will be marketed at lighter weights because of short feed grain supplies.

He said the per capita meat supply may average between 135 and 140 pounds, carcass weight basis, compared with an estimated 145 to 150 for the current 12-month period and with a 1935-39 average of 126 pounds.

The secretary predicted a very short supply of butter. He said the monthly civilian supply is expected to average about 90,000,000 pounds during the July-September quarter and to fall to about 60,000,000 a month during the last quarter of the year. Officials said the supply in the last quarter would probably be less than half the demand.

Civilian Food Outlook

The civilian outlook for other foods:

Cheese—An average of 70,000,000 pounds a month in the July-December period, or slightly more than in the same period last year.

Canned milk—Supplies of evaporated milk are expected to total 25,000,000 cases during the next six months, which would be slightly above the amount consumed in the comparable period a year ago. Housewives will get 700,000 cases of a six-month supply of 1,500,000 cases of condensed milk. The rest will be exported.

Dried whole milk—Housewives will get 35,000,0000 pounds of an estimated output of 82,000,0000 pounds for the July-December period, or slightly more than they received in the like period a year ago.

Poultry and eggs—Supplies per person should average between 370 and 380 eggs, 24 to 25 pounds of chicken meat and four pounds of turkey meat—or a little less than the rate consumed during the 1945-46 season but above the pre-war rate.

Fruits and vegetables—Canned fruits and juices other than citrus expected to total 75,000,000 cases compared with 59,000,000 in the 1945-46 year. The supply of dried fruits is estimated at 350,000 tons compared with 390,000. The supply of canned vegetables and vegetable juices is expected to be 198,000,000 cases compared with 183,000,000.

Grains—The government plans to buy, as announced previously, 250,000,000 bushels of the prospective billion bushel wheat crop for export. No determination has been made regarding the amounts of corn, oats, barley, grain sorghums and rye that may be exported.

Rice—Because the world shortage is expected to continue acute, the U. S. plans to export a "substantial portion" of this year's crop.

Fats and oils—It will be necessary to limit domestic consumption to the 1945-46 level because of world shortages.

GRAIN SHIPMENTS HIT RECORD PEAK

WASHINGTON, June 17—(AP) United States grain shipments to famine areas jumped to a record peak the first 10 days of June, the Agriculture department said today, but the country still is behind in its six-month quota.

During the first 10 days of June the country exported 357,000 tons or 13,672,000 bushels of cereal grains and cereal products, compared with 4,480,000 bushels the last 10 days of May.

Shipments from Jan. 1 through June 10 totaled 158,000,000 bushels. The department said the U. S. commitment for the first half of 1946 was about 205,000,000 bushels.

Thus, in order to meet this quota exports the last 20 days of June would have to approximate 47,000,000 bushels.

Officials said they doubted it is physically possible to load and ship such a huge amount in 20 days although one spokesman predicted "we may easily exceed 1,000,000 tons" for the month.

Committee grain not shipped in June will be sent in July.

TRUMAN DISCUSSES OPA WITH HIS AIDES

WASHINGTON, June 17 — (AP) President Truman, obviously concerned over the fate of the OPA, went over the situation with congressional leaders today and got a promise from Senator Barkley (D.-Ky.) that he will "try to get the best bill we can" out of a Senate-House conference.

"The President is wondering if we will get a bill under which OPA can operate and continue some kind of price controls," Speaker Rayburn (D.-Tex.) told reporters.

Rayburn added that he did not know whether Mr. Truman would veto the measure with its inevitable curtailment of OPA's powers. This course has been suggested by some who believe Congress then might pass a resolution continuing the OPA temporarily with its present authority.

The Senate-House conferees who must adjust differences in the legislation as passed by the two chambers, will not start work until Wednesday or Thursday because of the absence of a number of congressmen. This will leave only about ten days for the conference committee to work out a bill and for the Senate and House to pass the final version before the OPA expires June 30.

Barkley, chairman of the Senate conferees, remarked that "we've got a great deal of leeway" on the measure. With both chambers on record in favor of drastic restrictions on the OPA, however, it appeared unlikely that they would accept any conference report which restored these powers in full.

General Gaffey Dies in Crash Of Army Plane

Famous Tank Commander and Two Other Officers Are Killed in Kentucky

FORT KNOX, Ky., June 17 (AP).—Major General Hugh J. Gaffey, fifty-one, and two Army lieutenants died and four other service men suffered injuries in the crash of their B-25 plane at Godman Field here late last night.

The plane overshot the landing strip, mowed down trees and plunged over an embankment. The post public relations office reported the B-25 apparently was out of control as it came in for a landing.

Twice the plane reported trouble as it flew here from Fort Benning, Ga., where General Gaffey had attended an infantry conference. The general, who led two famed armored divisions in Europe during World War II, had commanded the armored school here since last Sept. 2 and only last Tuesday had been named post commander.

The others killed were Lieutenant Allan J. Hoenig of 54 Ellsworth Avenue, Trenton, N. J., post signal officer, and Lieutenant Robert A. Peter, of Long Island City, Queens, New York, the plane's pilot.

Of the injured, taken to Fort Knox Hospital, only Sergeant Michael E. Devine, of Manchester, N. H., was hurt seriously. He was the plane's engineer. Others injured were Captain Gordon K. Steele, of Fort Knox; Lieutenant Carl Lindeman jr., of 430 Union Street, Hackensack, N. J., assistant post signal officer, and Seaman Second Class Vernon J. Wisotyre, of Eau Claire, Wis., a passenger on the plane.

General Gaffey, an Army man since 1917, commanded the 2d and 4th Armored Divisions in Europe. On two occasions he served as chief of staff for the late General George S. Patton jr.

Gen[illegible]

General Gaffey won a commendation from General Omar N. Bradley, then 12th Army Group commander, for break-throughs his armored division scored in the Saar-Palatinate offensive. General Gaffey also was in command of the 4th when it smashed through to the relief of the Americans at Bastogne during the German Ardennes counter-offensive in December, 1944.

A native of Hartford, Conn., General Gaffey was a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and a long-time resident of Austin and San Antonio, Tex. He is survived by his wife and a daughter, a student at the University of Texas.

AIR POWER BACKED AS ONLY DEFENSE

DETROIT, June 17 — (AP) Any future war would open with a rain of radar-guided missiles on American production centers, Assistant Secretary of War for Air W. Stuart Symington declared here today.

Only air power offers a defense against such an assault, Symington told the Economic Club of Detroit.

These missiles, he said, would have atomic warheads and would wing their way over the polar route at super-sonic speeds from launching sites in Europe or Asia.

"The surest defense,' Symington continued, "will be our ability to strike back quickly with a counter-offensive, to neutralize the hostile attack at its source or to discourage its continuance by striking at the vitals of the aggressor."

The War department official was accompanied here by Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander of the Army Air Forces, and six other top-ranking A.A.F. generals.

In an apparent reference to the B-36, Symington said the Army this summer will be flying a plane which can go from a point in the United States to drop an atomic bomb on any industrial center in the world.

"If we can do it," he added, "others can do it to us."

Redeployment Schedule

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More than 7,400 returning service personnel aboard 10 vessels are scheduled to arrive at three U. S. ports today.

New York expects three ships with 3,179 troops while seven ships are due to dock at west coast points with at least 4,221 returnees.

SHIPS ARRIVING TODAY

At New York

Miscellaneous personnel on following vessels: Gen. G. O. Squier from Bremen, 2,179; U. S. Victory from LeHavre, 988; M. E. Commerford from Antwerp, 12 (due originally yesterday).

At San Diego

Repair ship Delta (AR-9) from forward area, 415 Navy; YMS 170 from forward area, no passenger information.

At San Francisco

Miscellaneous on following: Sevier from Bikini, 1,510 Navy; LSM 101 from Pearl Harbor, two Navy; LSM 106 from Pearl Harbor, one Navy; Sea Runner from Manus, 1,538 Navy; Gen. Black from Norfolk, three Navy, 752 Army.

ARRIVALS YESTERDAY

At New York

Miscellaneous on following: Antioch Victory from Bremen, 759; Thomas Fitzsimmons from Bremen, 11; St. Albans Victory from Le Havre, 1,171 (due originally May 18).

At San Francisco

General Randall from Subic, 5,129 Navy, four Marines.

At San Diego

Fleet Tug 122 from Pearl Harbor, no troop information.

(advance) london, june 17--(ap)--the british communist party declared today "the dangers of a new war have become apparent to all" and pledged itself "to rally the people to reverse the government's present foreign policy before it is too late."

in a statement attacking the labor party for its refusal to register the communists' request for affiliation, the communists asserted the refusal "has not ended the fight for unity in britain."

"the unprecedented campaign of calumny against communism at home and abroad, leading to the rejection of communist affiliation to labor, has brought encouragement only to those reactionary forces here and in the united states making for a new war and world domination," the statement added.

"antagonism to communism and dependence on american capitalism, instead of friendship with the soviet union and the democratic countries of europe, can only result in the betrayal of the program of social progress to which the country voted."

LONDON, JUNE 17-(AP)-TASS REPORTED TODAY A RED STAR ARTICLE TERMING A "CAMPAIGN OF SLANDER AGAINST POLAND AND THE U.S.S.R.," THE AMERICAN VISIT OF POLISH GENERAL BOR (KOMOROWSKI). new york, june 17-(ap)- the possibility of great britain blocking action on a sub-committee report on franco spain arose today as the united nations security council was called into session to debate the question.

russia already has flatly opposed the findings, but eight other nations have agreed to accept them.

the meeting was set for 2:30 p.m. (edt).

a british spokesman said sir alexander cadogan had been instructed by london to seek clarifications and modifications of the report in regard to legal aspects, the spokesman declined to elaborate his expressed hope that sir alexander would be able to work out the changes in procession consultations with other delegates.

(andrei a. gromyko, soviet delegate, stated last week that he would not agree to the report, which recommends that the 51-nation general assembly take action against the franco regime, and there was wide speculation whether gromyko would use the veto, abstain from voting, or abstain from voting and contend such action did not constitute a veto.

the soviet position has been that the security council should call for an immediate break in relations with the franco government and not pass the issue to the general assembly, however, in some quarters it was believed that gromyko might hesitate to invoke an outright veto on the theory that it was better to have some action taken than none at all.

should great britain's opposition to the report materialize it probably would be along different lines than the russian stand in view of the british labor party's recent declaration against applying sanctions to spain.

gromyko's action in the council was watched closely in relation to the veto issue. the charter merely states that seven affirmative votes, including all the big five, are required for passage, no provision is made for abstaining, except when a nation is a party to the dispute, and subsequently the charter does not state whether failure to vote is actually a veto.

the united states, france, china, australia, poland, egypt, the netherlands and brazil have approved the report, but the votes of russia and great britain are needed for approval under the big five provision.

dr. francisco castillo najera, mexican foreign minister, takes over chairmanship of the council today and was expected to state the position of his country. he succeeds alexander parodi of france under the monthly system of alphabetic rotation.

the long-debated refugee problem comes up before this council tomorrow. still to be decided is whether refugees should be forced to return home regardless of personal preference, as demanded by russia, or whether valid objections should be upheld, as ~~offered~~ by the united states.

on the question of aiding jews in europe, the council has to decide whether to classify persecuted jews who never left germany or austria as "refugees," as such they would come under a program advanced by the committee on refugees and displaced persons.

the international health conference scheduled to continue more than a month opens wednesday. dr. thomas parran is the chief u.s. delegate.

SPECIFICALLY, SIR ALEXANDER WOULD AMEND THE RESOLUTION TO TAKE OUT THE DEFINITE RECOMMENDATIONS TO THE ASSEMBLY AND WOULD ADD A PROVISION REQUIRING THAT THE UNITED NATIONS SECRETARY-GENERAL CIRCULATE TO THE 51 U.N. MEMBERS THE MINUTES OF THE SUB-COMMITTEE MEETINGS.

SIR ALEXANDER ALSO SUGGESTED THAT THE COUNCIL REFER THE LEGALITY OF THE SUB-COMMITTEE FINDINGS TO THE INTERNATIONAL COURT OF JUSTICE FOR AN OPINION. DR. EVATT OPPOSED THAT AS A STEP WHICH MIGHT RESULT IN "INTERMINABLE DELAYS."

DR. EVATT SAID THE RESOLUTION BEFORE THE COUNCIL DID NOT BIND THE ASSEMBLY TO DEFINITE ACTION.

CONSIDERATION OF THE SPANISH ISSUE WAS HELD UP TEMPORARILY WHILE DR. FRANCISCO CASTILLO NAJERA, MEXICAN FOREIGN MINISTER, TOOK OVER THE PRESIDENCY OF THE COUNCIL FOR A MONTH.

DR. CASTILLO NAJERA EXPRESSED HIS FAITH IN THE UNITED NATIONS AND CALLED ON THE DELEGATES TO "FACE FEARLESSLY" THE ISSUES BEFORE THEM.

MEANWHILE, MEMBERS OF THE U.N. ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL, TRYING TO COMPLETE THEIR WORK BY NEXT WEEK-END, MADE READY FOR FURTHER DEBATE TOMORROW ON THE REFUGEE PROBLEM. THE ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL, WHICH HOPES TO WIND UP ITS CURRE SESSION BY SATURDAY, PLUNGED INTO ANOTHER WEEK OF HEAVY WORK.

TODAY'S PROGRAM IS EXPECTED TO INCLUDE A DECISION ON THE ISSUE OF GOVERNMENTAL OR NON-GOVERNMENTAL REPRESENTATION ON THE VARIOUS COMMISSIONS OPERATING UNDER THE COUNCIL. RUSSIA HAS MAINTAINED THAT PERSONS ON THESE BODIES SHOULD BE NAMED BY AND SPEAK FOR THEIR RESPECTIVE GOVERNMENTS, WHILE THE UNITED STATES CONTENDS THEY SHOULD BE SELECTED ON THE BASIS OF QUALIFICATION AS EXPERTS IN THEIR OWN FIELDS AND SIT AS INDIVIDUALS.

THE LONG-DEBATED REFUGEE PROBLEM COMES UP BEFORE THIS COUNCIL TOMORROW. STILL TO BE DECIDED IS WHETHER REFUGEES SHOULD BE FORCED TO RETURN HOME REGARDLESS OF PERSONAL PREFERENCE AS DEMANDED BY RUSSIA, OR WHETHER VALID OBJECTIONS SHOULD BE UPHELD AS FAVORED BY THE UNITED STATES.

ON THE QUESTION OF AIDING JEWS IN EUROPE, THE COUNCIL HAS TO DECIDE WHETHER TO CLASSIFY AS "REFUGEES" PERSECUTED JEWS WHO NEVER LEFT GERMANY OR AUSTRIA. AS SUCH THEY WOULD COME UNDER A PROGRAM ADVANCED BY THE COMMITTEE ON REFUGEES AND DISPLACED PERSONS.

THE INTERNATIONAL HEALTH CONFERENCE, SCHEDULED TO CONTINUE MORE THAN A MONTH OPENS WEDNESDAY. DR. THOMAS PARRAN IS THE CHIEF U.S. DELEGATE.

MOSCOW, JUNE 17-(AP)-AN ARTICLE IN THE COMMUNIST PARTY NEWSPAPER PRAVDA TODAY ACCUSED THE AMERICANS AND BRITISH OF PARALYZING DANUBE SHIPPING AND BLOCKING DEVELOPMENT OF RIVER TRAFFIC BY HOLDING MORE THAN 700 DANUBE VESSELS IN IDLENESS. JUN 18 1946

ANOTHER PRAVDA ARTICLE ASSERTED THAT THE FUTURE OF THE UNITED NATIONS WOULD BE AFFECTED BY THE TREATMENT IT GAVE THE PROBLEM OF GENERALISSIMO FRANCISCO FRANCO'S SPANISH REGIME, NOW BEFORE THE SECURITY COUNCIL.

PRAVDA CORRESPONDENT M. MARINEN SAID AMERICAN AND BRITISH FORCES SEIZED A MAJOR PART OF THE DANUBE RIVER FLEET AT A TIME WHEN FOREIGN SECRETARY ERNEST BEVIN OF BRITAIN AND OTHERS WERE FALSELY ACCUSING THE SOVIET UNION OF HAMPERING THE DEVELOPMENT OF RIVER TRANSPORTATION. FUTURE CONTROL OF DANUBE COMMERCE IS ONE OF THE ISSUES BEFORE THE FOUR-POWER FOREIGN MINISTERS CONFERENCE IN PARIS.

(ON MAY 21 UNITED STATES CONSTABULARY TROOPS MADE A SURPRISE RAID ON 372 VESSELS IN THE DANUBE, SEIZING A HUGE SUPPLY OF GUNS AND APPARENTLY SMASHING A SMUGGLING RING INVOLVING REMNANTS OF THE HUNGARIAN NAVY. A U.S. STATE DEPARTMENT OFFICIAL THE NEXT DAY SAID THE SEIZURE OF THE VESSELS WOULD BE A POWERFUL BARGAINING POINT TO INDUCE RUSSIA TO OPEN THE LOWER DANUBE TO FREE COMMERCE. HOWEVER, BRIG.GEN.EDWIN L.SIBERT, CHIEF OF U.S. ARMY INTELLIGENCE IN EUROPE, SAID THE RAIDS HAD "NO POLITICAL MOTIVE," AND WERE AIMED ONLY AT THE SMUGGLING RING.)

THE PRAVDA WRITER SAID THAT DURING THE PAST TWO YEARS THE DANUBE WAS MADE NAVIGABLE LARGELY THROUGH EFFORTS OF THE RED ARMY IN CLEARING MINES AND RAISING SUNKEN CRAFT, ADDING THAT "NO OBJECTIVE PERSON COULD FAIL TO RECOGNIZE THAT THE SOVIET UNION HAS DONE EVERYTHING POSSIBLE TO PROVIDE TRANSPORTATION ON THE DANUBE."

JUN 18 1946

"IF IT HAS NOT DEVELOPED," HE ADDED, "THEN BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES BEAR DIRECT AND IMMEDIATE RESPONSIBILITY."

DISCUSSING BEVIN'S PROPOSAL FOR INTERNATIONALIZATION OF DANUBE COMMERCE, THE WRITER SAID "THE PEOPLES OF THE DANUBE COUNTRIES UNDERSTAND VERY WELL WHAT THAT POLICY MEANS AND TO WHAT IT WOULD BOOM THEM."

"THEY SEE IT AS A RESTORATION OF A PRE-WAR SITUATION WHEN THE DANUBE STATES WERE IN FACT DEPRIVED OF THEIR INDEPENDENCE AND THE OBJECTS IN A GAME OF THE VARIOUS IMPERIALISTIC STATES. THEY DO NOT WANT TO REPEAT WHAT IS PAST," THE ARTICLE SAID.

DISCUSSING THE SPANISH SITUATION, PRAVDA WRITER B.IZAKOV SAID "IT TOUCHES NOT ONLY THE FATE OF A SPAIN TORTURED AND TRAMPLED BY FASCIST BUTCHERS, BUT ALSO TOUCHES THE FUTURE OF THE UNITED NATIONS."

"WILL THIS ORGANIZATION," THE ARTICLE ASKED, "AFTER ALL GET BUSY WITH THAT CAUSE FOR THE SAKE OF WHICH IT WAS CREATED BY THE PEOPLES--TO STRIVE FOR A FIRM PEACE AND THE UPROOTING OF AGGRESSION--OR WILL IT GO THE PATH OF GENEVA, BECOMING AN INSTRUMENT OF DOMINATION FOR A CERTAIN GROUP OF POWERS?"

A TASS DISPATCH FROM PARIS TOOK UP ANOTHER COMPLICATED ISSUE FACING THE FOREIGN MINISTERS--THAT OF THE FUTURE OF GERMANY. THIS ARTICLE SAID THAT "NEITHER THE DIVISION OF GERMANY NOR THE PRESERVATION OF ITS UNITY AS A STATE OFFERS IN ITSELF A GUARANTEE FROM THE DANGER OF THE REJUVENATION OF THE AGGRESSIVE FORCES OF GERMAN IMPERIALISM."

"THE REAL SOLUTION TO THE GERMAN PROBLEM," THE CORRESPONDENT WROTE, "LIES IN THE WAY JOINT DECISIONS OF THE GREAT ALLIED POWERS ARE PLANNED--ACTUAL DESTRUCTION OF FASCISM AND THE UPROOTING OF ITS INFLUENCE ON ALL WALKS OF LIFE, THE DEMILITARIZATION OF GERMANY AND DESTRUCTION OF ITS ARMED FORCES, GENERAL STAFF AND MILITARY AND ECONOMIC POTENTIAL, AND THE REAL DEMOCRATIZATION OF STATE, PUBLIC AND ECONOMIC LIFE."

JUN 18 1946

(A TASS DISPATCH TO THE SOVIET ARMY NEWSPAPER RED STAR, BROADCAST BY THE MOSCOW RADIO, CALLED THE VISIT OF GEN.TADEUSZ KOMOROVSKI (GEN.BOR, LEADER OF THE WARSAW UPRISING DURING THE WAR) TO THE UNITED STATES "A CAMPAIGN OF SLANDER AGAINST POLAND AND THE U.S.S.R." Russia Vetoes U.N. Vote Of 9 Powers to Transfer Spain Issue to Assembly

GROMYKO REGARDS PLAN AS TOO SOFT A MEASURE AGAINST SPANISH REGIME

Compromise Would Have Left Action Up To General Assembly—Poland Urges Immediate Break; Meeting Then Adjourned Until Monday

F. Carpenter

New York, June 18 (AP)—Soviet Russia today vetoed a compromise plan supported by a nine-member majority of the United Nations Security Council which would have sent the Spanish question to the United Nations General Assembly for decision by the entire 51 nations.

NIGHT

The Russians regarded the measure as too soft a blow against the Franco regime.

It was the second veto in the short United Nations history. Russia has invoked the ban in both cases. The first veto was in London in the Levant case.

Nine members raised their hands when the question was called on the compromise plan worked out by Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, of Australia, and Herschel V. Johnson, of the United States.

Netherlands Abstains

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, raised his hand when the negative vote was asked, and the chairman announced the resolution had been vetoed. The Netherlands abstained from voting.

Poland promptly demanded that the Council vote on its motion submitted in April for a complete and immediate break with Franco Spain. But the chairman ruled that the Council was not prepared to discuss that proposition now and adjourned the meeting until next Monday at 3 P.M.

The Evatt resolution killed by Russia provided that the Security Council submit the findings of a subcommittee, which investigated the case for a month, to the General Assembly in September, along with recommendations for the Assembly to call for a rupture in relations with Spain or to take such action as it might deem desirable.

Veto Called Harmless

Gromyko told newsmen later that the veto was not harmful to the United Nations but that inaction was.

Dr. Evatt, long a vociferous opponent of the veto power which allows the five big powers the right to block action on questions of substance, said he did not think the use of the veto here was particularly harmful "because it is free discussion that helps and we have that."

Before the decisive vote was taken, the Council rejected a proposal by Sir Alexander Cadogan, of Britain, to put the Spanish case before the General Assembly without any recommendation.

The vote on the British proposal found only Cadogan and Dr. Eelco van Kleffens, of the Netherlands, for it. Six delegates voted against it, while the United States, China, and Egypt abstained.

Johnson Explains Stand

Johnson explained he was abstaining from the vote on the British proposal because he already was committed to the Evatt compromise plan.

Gromyko by his word and deed rejected a personal plea from Dr. Evatt to go along with the majority on the compromise.

"I appreciate fully the efforts of Dr. Evatt and other members of the Council to achieve a unanimous decision by the Security Council," Gromyko said.

"But I, Mr. President, am guided by another necessity, the necessity of reaching a decision that shall be right and just in this matter and that shall correspond to the gravity of the Spanish situation. Dr. Evatt has appealed to me to bend to the will of the majority, but I, in return, feel entitled to ask Dr. Evatt to accept the solution that I consider the right and just solution of this question."

Called Evasion Of Duty

Gromyko said further that acceptance of Dr. Evatt's proposal "would make it clear that the Security Council had evaded its duty in this question."

The Russian throughout the extended discussions on the Spanish case has insisted on an abrupt and immediate break by the entire membership of the United Nations with Spain, because, he said, Franco is a proven menace to peace.

When Dr. Oscar Lange, of Poland, formally charged the Franco regime with being a menace to world peace and sheltering Nazi scientists and war criminals, Gromyko immediately backed him. He never has wavered from that position.

In the debate just before the voting day, Gromyko expressed his opposition to the Cadogan proposal, saying it would make even the Evatt plan much weaker.

The Limit For Poland

Dr. Lange, speaking after Gromyko, declared the Evatt compromise was the limit to which Poland could go in modifying the subcommittee resolution calling for a break if Franco is still in power in September.

Dr. Lange opposed the Cadogan amendment, stating that it would make the proposals "tantamount to no action at all."

The Council action definitely killed the work of the subcommittee, leaving only the Polish resolution pending.

Dr. Lange said that if the Council did not find a unanimous decision at this time, "the Polish delegation will come forward with other proposals which will be designed to obtain and promote unanimous action of this Council against Franco's Fascist regime."

Invoked In February

The first veto in the Security Council was invoked in London last February 16. Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet delegate, at that time overruled an American proposal for Syria and Lebanon to negotiate their differences with Britain and France over the withdrawal of British and French troops from the Levant.

Regardless of the Soviet action, the British and French announced they would take their troops out of the Levant, and they already have reported to the Council that most of the troops have been removed. (AOD)

He proposed an amendment providing that each nation be given permission to distribute information on its own affairs to its own nationals in the camps.

Amendment Defeated

His proposal was defeated, 11 to 1, after Sir George Rendel, British representative, contended the question already had been thrashed out in London and, as it stood, was a compromise to meet Russia's views.

The debate virtually got out of control at one point when the Ukrainian delegate, Anatoly M. Baronovski, objected to efforts of Sir Ramaswami Mudaliar, of India, Council president, to limit discussion to one speaker for each amendment and one against.

Baronovski declared he would speak anyway. He then charged that "shady characters" were flowing into displaced persons camps and were finding them ideal places to develop new plans of aggression and another war.

The council decided that relief should be extended to German and Austrian Jews and to persons who lived in those two countries as foreigners or stateless persons. It was estimated that about 45,000 in Germany and Austria would be affected by the council definition.

The Greek delegate, Alexandre Argyropoulos, protested against putting Germans on an equal basis with other uprooted people in the international relief setup.

The Council committee, driving to complete the Council work by June 20, met at 10.45 A.M. today after having sat until 1 o'clock (E.D.T.) this morning.

Aid To Children

The Council committee by an 8-to-7 vote defeated a move by the Soviet Delegate Nikolai J. Feonov to confine aid to refugee children to those whose countries were not known and to those whose countries refused to take them back.

Feonov said he would bring the proposal up in the regular Council meeting.

"My Government will never permit Soviet children to be brought up in other countries," Feonov said.

Russian Victory

Meanwhile, Russia has won her fight to have strictly governmental representatives draft the economic and social programs of the United Nations rather than nongovernmental experts.

RUSSIA LOSES ON AMENDMENT

Refugee Proposal Defeated In Economic-Social Council

New York, June 18 (AP)—Soviet Russia lost a fight today to tighten control of information distributed in displaced-persons camps by the proposed international refugee organization.

The vote on the Soviet proposal came at a stormy session of the United Nations Economic and Social Council which is now meeting as a committee to draft an acceptable plan for handling the refugee problem.

Maj. Gen. Peter Ratov, representing Russia, objected strenuously to the draft proposal that members of the United Nations could supply information to their nationals in refugee camps only through the refugee organization.

World Relief Voted For German Jews

New York, June 18 (AP)—The United Nations Economic and Social Council, sitting as a committee, decided today that international relief should be extended to German and Austrian Jews and to persons who lived in those two countries as foreigners or stateless persons.

DAY

The vote was 6 to 5 on a French compromise move to broaden the relief in Germany and Austria to include foreigners and stateless persons.

The Council committee defeated by a 6-to-4 vote a British proposal which would not include foreigners or stateless persons.

The question was called up in consideration of definitions of refugees. The paragraph as approved by the Council committee defines a "refugee" who will come within the scope of the proposed international relief and repatriated organization as a "person of Jewish origin or having resided in Germany or Austria as a foreigner or stateless person and who was detained in, or who was obliged to flee from, and was subsequently returned to, one of those countries as a result of enemy action, or of war circumstances, and who has not yet been firmly resettled therein."

4,500 Jews

The Russian position was carried by an 11-to-5 vote of the Economic and Social Council yesterday. The United States, Britain, Belgium, Canada and the Lebanon voted for experts. Russia, Chile, China, Colombia, Cuba, Czechoslovakia, France, Greece, Peru, the Ukraine and Yugoslavia voted for governmental representatives. India and Norway abstained from voting.

Russia had insisted in a running debate between Nikolai Feonov and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, chairman of the Commission on Human Rights, that unless delegates were Government representatives acting on instructions the commissions of the Council would [illegible] debating societies.

The three zones harbored sizable remnants of Fascist groups and shady characters who were declared to be a menace to peace and security, Tass continued, adding: "The number of armed Fascist gangs exceeds the occupation forces of all four zones taken together."

Moscow Denies Massing Of Troops in Germany

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, June 18—The Moscow radio broadcast tonight an official Russian denial of a report that Soviet troops were being concentrated in southeastern Germany. The broadcast statement said:

"THE NEW YORK TIMES of June 17 publishes a report by [C. L.] Sulzberger from Paris to the effect that in southeastern Germany a concentration of Soviet troops is allegedly going on. Tass is authorized to state that this report is devoid of all foundation."

Russia Finishes De-mining Job

LONDON, June 18 (AP)—The Moscow radio said tonight that sapper squads had completed the de-mining of all invaded Soviet territory, neutralizing 70,000,000 mines, shells and bombs.

NO PALESTINE VERDICT

London, June 18 (A. P.).—Prime Minister Attlee refused in Commons today to make what he called "a hasty conclusion" on the recommendation for the immediate admission to Palestine of 100,000 Jews. He declined even to answer one questioner who asked when the United Kingdom would decide.

DAY

"This matter is one in which we are in close contact with the Government of the Unite States and I cannot make a statement at present," he said. He added that he regretted he could not announce a decision yet.

British Soap Ration Cut

London, June 18 (AP)—British soap rations were cut fifteen per cent today by the Ministry of Food, which blamed a shortage of fats and oils.

Under the new allotment each Briton will be allowed to buy six toilet or laundry bars or eighteen ounces of soap flakes during eight-week periods.

Nurse Job Bar Lifted

London, June 18 (AP)—The Government freed nurses and midwives today from a wartime regulation requiring them to accept employment only through the Ministry of Labor. Nurses, however, still must obtain permission from the Ministry before leaving their profession.

British Unemployment Up

LONDON, June 18 (AP).—The number of British unemployed totaled 374,816 this month, an increase of 3,466 over the preceding month, the Ministry of Labor said today.

REPARATIONS ISSUE DEBATED AT PARIS

PARIS, June 18—(AP) Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav M. Molotov agreed today to refer smaller nations' claims to Italian reparations to a 21-nation European peace conference but refused to submit Italian demands on the issue to that conference, an American informant said.

Although today's session of the four-power foreign ministers conference ended in deadlock on the reparations issue, there was a new note of optimism here, engendered by Molotov's reference to the forthcoming European peace conference. Many have feared that this meeting would end in disagreement without any convocation of the general conference.

U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, the American informant said, proposed that the entire problem of reparations be referred to the peace conference.

Molotov insisted, however, that the foreign ministers should make the decision on Russia's claim, because Russia is represented here. The smaller victims of Italian aggression are not present, and therefore, these sources said, the Soviet minister was willing to refer those to the general conference.

Molotov, a British source said, also rejected a proposal by Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin that all major powers abandon reparations claims on Italy, in order to assist the new republican government of that nation. Russia, however, is the only major power asking reparations. The Russian claim is for $100,000,000, and Molotov also has asked that an additional $200,000,000 be paid Yugoslavia, Greece and Albania.

'Big 4' Adjourn, Still Split On Italy Issue

Paris, June 18 (AP)—The conference of foreign ministers adjourned in a continued deadlock today after two and one half hours' discussion of the thorny Italian reparations issue.

The fourn Foreign Ministers had turned to the reparations question with high hopes of a compromise, after the Soviet delegation yesterday displayed what appeared to have been a more lenient attitude toward Italy. The reparations issue was the first major problem the conference has tackled since it resumed its sessions here Saturday.

Molotov Rejects Proposal

In the single session today, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin proposed that all major powers abandon requests for reparations from Italy to help the new republican government there.

Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov of Russia, the only major power demanding reparations payments from Italy, rejected the proposal.

Secretary of State James F. Byrnes proposed that the entire problem be referred to a European peace confeernce. Molotov rejected this suggestion, too.

Signs Of Leniency Seen

Reparations, along with the future of the port of Trieste and the disposition of Italian colonies, were a principal stumbling block which prevented the Ministers from reaching any major agreements at their meeting here last month.

Molotov said during the discussions yesterday that he wanted to make the burden on the Italian people as light as possible.

At another phase in the debate, Molotov sought to place a ceiling on the total damages Italy might be required to pay to Allied nationals for the loss of their property within Italy.

U.S. Proposal Accepted

Molotov had insisted at the last meeting that Italy pay $100,000,000 in reparations to the Soviet and $200,000,000 to Yugoslavia, Greece and Albania. The Western powers asserted that Italy's economy could not stand such a direct levy.

The Ministers agreed yesterday to a United States proposal that any Allied nation holding Italian property be allowed to use that property to defray claims of its nationals against Italy. At the same time, the conferees voted to require Italy to renounce any claims for damages against Allied nationals arising from the war.

Molotov at first opposed the measure requiring Italy to renounce her claims, on the ground that such renunciation should be taken for granted, American informants said. He finally yielded, however, in view of the importance which the other three nations placed on the proposal, they added.

The ministers also agreed to a French proposal establishing the machinery for the settling of war claims by Allied nationals. Under this measure, various three-man claims tribunals would be set up, consisting of one person named by Italy, one by the Allied country concerned and the third by the first two. If the first two persons were unable to agree on a third, the International Court would be asked to name that member.

6th De Gaulle Appeal Anniversary Marked

Paris, June 18 (AP)—The sixth anniversary of General de Gaulle's broadcast appeal from London to the French people to help throw the Germans out of France was celebrated today with military display and ceremonies.

A night parade of torches from each of Paris' gates to the city's center closed the celebration.

In another rite, a torch lighted by the eternal flame at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier was carried from the Arch of Triumph to Mont Valerien, the old fort overlooking the western suburbs, and handed to de Gaulle.

With it he lighted another eternal flame at a crypt holding the bodies of fifteen French soldiers, prisoners of war, deportees, resistance workers and victims of the German bombardment. The bodies were buried there last November 11.

COL. DURANT, WIFE ARRIVE IN FRANCE

PARIS, June 18 - (AP) Col. W. Durant and his wife, WAC Captain Kathleen B. Nash Durant arrived today in a C-54 transport plane from the United States, en route to Frankfurt, Germany, to their courts martial in connection with the Hesse crown jewels theft.

Bad weather grounded the couple here for the night. They will be under guard at the officer's club at Orly airfield tonight and are expected to take off for Frankfurt tomorrow morning.

The colonel and his wife apparently were completely at ease. Capt. Durant laughed when a reporter asked her husband, "Did you take 'em, Colonel?" Both posed willingly for press photographers. Both were wearing their ribbons, the colonel's including the ETO ribbon with two battle stars.

Col. Durant said that no charges had yet been filed against him or his wife.

In Frankfurt, accommodations in the Carlton hotel—topnotch transient billet for visiting colonels and other senior officers — were prepared for the Durants. They will be kept under guard at the hotel, it was learned.

Maj. David F. Watson, of Burlingame, Calif., the third officer taken into custody in the $1,500,000 Hesse jewel theft, was being held in an Army stockade in Frankfurt.

INFLUX OF JEWS TO AMERICAN ZONE NOTED IN GERMANY

R. O'REGAN

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 18 — (AP) U. S. military government officers said today nearly 25,000 displaced persons had come to American free-care camps in the last three months, and expressed grave concern over the influx of thousands of Jews and other eastern Europeans into this zone.

"We expect this increase to appear more," one officer said. "If there is a feeling in eastern Europe that Europe is no place for the Jews, we would expect up to 300,000 from Poland and eastern Russia. We will have to open more camps and get more food from the United States to care for them."

Number in Camps Increases

The military government was caring for 355,045 persons in May—more than the total number of Americans in Germany—compared with 331,523 in March, and "the increase is getting out of hand," a headquarters officer declared.

Emigres, he said, have infiltrated from the east despite border guards.

Five thousand Jews suddenly appeared in displaced persons camps in the American zone during the last two weeks, compared with a total of 5,000 new camp arrivals during the whole month of May, the officer said.

The Jewish population in the camps increased from 38,756 in March to 52,191 in mid-June, and military government figures showed an overall increase in the number of displaced persons despite the repatriation of about 58,700 of them during the last three months.

Believe Report Responsible

Officers of the displaced persons branch declared:

"Our feeling is that the Anglo-American committee's report recommending admission of 100,000 Jews to Palestine has been one of the main causes of an increased camp population.

"It takes time for such a report to get around, and it looks as if we are now feeling the impact of it."

They said other causes were:

1. Reported persecution in Poland.
2. Lack of economic opportunity in eastern Europe.
3. Reduced German rations, forcing displaced persons living off the German economy to seek food in camps.
4. Desire of German Jews not living in camps to get into them in order to register for possible emigration to Palestine or the United States.

CHAPLAIN TO WED BY ATLANTIC PHONE

Frankfurt, June 18 (A. P.).—A stocky paratrooper chaplain from Fort Worth, Texas, who has married scores of Americans in Frankfurt, will himself be married tomorrow by trans-Atlantic telephone.

Chaplain Dwight L. Baker, 25 years old, of the 508 Parachute Infantry Regiment, will go to a phone booth at 5 P. M., Frankfurt time (11 A. M., E. D. T.), and be married by his father, a Baptist minister, standing by his bride-to-be in Fort Worth. He is to be married thus, he explained, in that he may be allowed to bring his bride overseas. He will be married again when she arrives, he added.

The bride-to-be is Miss Emma Elizabeth Weatherly, 27 years old, of Swannanoa, N. C.

NAZI'S DEATH IS EXPLAINED

n Papen Says Gestapo Killed Von Ketteler

REEDY

Nuernberg, June 18 (AP)—Franz von Papen lifted the veil today on the mystery surrounding the death of Baron Wilhelm Emanuel von Ketteler, highly placed Junkers diplomat whose body was found in the Danube River below Vienna in 1938.

Von Papen declared under cross-examination at his war crimes trial that Gestapo agents killed von Ketteler and threw his body into the Danube.

Principal Aide

He said von Ketteler was one of his principal aides when he was serving as Ambassador to Austria shortly before the Anschluss. Von Papen said he personally feared that Hitler intended to overrun Austria, and that to keep himself clear of any charge of aggressive warfare he decided to send copies of all records of his envoyship to Switzerland.

Ketteler, the diplomat continued, helped him get the records together and send them to Geneva. Later, after the Anschluss was effected, von Papen said he learned that Ketteler had been killed. He said he went to Hermann Goering, who told him Ketteler had been linked with the shipment of the records. Goering, he said, showed him a police dossier containing information about the disposal of the body.

Does Not Elaborate

Von Papen did not elaborate, nor did he explain how he managed to avoid a similar penalty for the same offense.

In April, 1938, authoritative quarters in Berlin said von Ketteler had been dismissed after an investigation of his connections with Kurt von Schuschnigg, ousted Austrian Chancellor, had resulted "disastrously" for von Ketteler. They said his whereabouts were not known. The body was recovered from the Danube in May. He had disappeared March 11, the day German troops marched into Austria.

Von Papen admitted on the witness stand that he was a self-appointed go-between who in 193 had helped Hitler's rise to power.

Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, assistant British prosecutor, asked the diplomat if he had urged President von Hindenburg to take Hitler into the government as Chancellor.

Von Papen, usually verbose, was silent for nearly a minute, and then replied, "That's true."

The prosecution submitted affidavits declaring that von Papen and Hitler met in 1932 in the home of the Cologne banker, Kurt von Schroeder, when Nazi prospects were discussed.

Evasive Answer

Sir David tried repeatedly to pin down von Papen with questions on his role during the early days of Nazidom, but the defendant usually gave evasive or general answers. The prosecution declared that while von Papen contended he was in constant disagreement with Hitler, he never turned down an assigment.

Earlier the defense introduced before the international military tribunal documents purportedly linking von Papen with the July 1944, attempt on Hitler's life and extension of peace feelers to the United States from Ankara, Turkey, in that same year.

A statement by Baron Kurt von Lersner said von Papen had assisted in peace-feeler attempts through George H. Earle, then United States naval attache at Ankara.

Gestapo Killed Aide, Papen Claims

REEDY

Nuernberg, Germany, June 18 (AP)—Franz von Papen told the International Military Tribunal today that one of his aides was slain by the German secret police after the aide had helped him assemble records in Austria for export to sanctuary in Switzerland.

The German diplomat said the murder occurred in February of 1938 when Papen was Ambassador to Austria, a short time before Adolf Hitler absorbed Austria in the Anschluss. He said the aide's body was found three weeks afterward in the Danube.

Papen said he was so concerned over Hitler's aggressive intentions toward Austria that he violated a rule of diplomacy by shipping his records to Switzerland to show that he was not a party to the Nazi plot.

Reproached By Goering

Papen said that Hermann Goering later reproached him with an accusation of perfidy. He interpolated to assert that "none of these defendants can say I was ever a Nazi." Both Papen and Goering are among the 22 ranking Germans on trial as war criminals.

The name of Papen's aide was given only at Ketteler.

[Considerable mystery surrounded the disappearance of Baron Wilhelm Emanuel von Ketteler, an Austrian, on March 11, 1938, the day German troops marched into Austria. His abandoned car and pistol were found in front of the German Embassy that day.

Suicide Announcement

[Berlin dispatches more than a month later, on April 21, quoted authoritative quarters as saying that Ketteler had been dismissed after an official investigation of his connection with Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg of Austria before the Anschluss and that his "whereabouts are unknown." The following day an official Nazi announcement in Vienna denied that he had committed suicide.

[It was not until May 15 that his body was found 20 miles south of Vienna. Police were quoted as saying the body bore no wounds.]

Attorneys for the former Chancellor and Ambassador presented to the tribunal documents which they said linked Papen with peace feelers extended to the United States by way of Turkey in April of 1944.

The documents contended that Papen, a German diplomat for three decades, worked with George H. Earle, former Governor of Pennsylvania and later assistant United States naval and air attaché in Turkey, for a negotiated peace with the United States and other Allied powers.

Lersner Statement

Baron Kurt von Lersner, former president of the German peace delegation at Versailles, sent a statement to the tribunal describing his personal efforts to end the war, and adding:

"When in April, 1944, the opportunity presented itself to me to establish contact with George Earle, former American Ambassador in Vienna and Sofia, and a friend of President Roosevelt with whom I had already been personally acquainted for a long time, Papen helped me in every possible way.

Talked To Hitler

"He even took it upon himself, when my peace feelers with Ambassador Earle seemed to promise success, to take a positive attitude in these world peace feelers in personal discussions with Hitler and von Ribbentrop (Nazi Foreign Minister), in spite of the danger connected therewith. However, it was in vain.

"As a result of further negotiations with Earle, Papen repeated this dangerous attempt in July, 1944, by telegraph and once more in person in August."

A statement was also offered by Count Gottfriend von Bismarck-Schoenhausen, describing a conversation with Papen on November 23, 1943, in which the prospects for a "change in government for Germany and peace negotiations were discussed."

Another statement said the plotters against Hitler in the July, 1944, attempt on his life had planned to ask Papen to open peace talks with the Allies if the plot succeeded.

Rommel Tore Up Hitler Order, Ex-Aide Says

Nuernberg, June 18 (AP)—Gen. Kurt Westphal, former chief of staff to the late Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, told an Allied commission today that Rommel stood outside the ruins of Sidi Barrani, in the North African desert, in 1942 and angrily tore to shreds Hitler's orders to slay all British Commandos regardless of rules of warfare.

The commission, composed of five men, is hearing in advance in private information preparing the way for prosecution of such Nazi organizations as the general staff, the SS and the Gestapo.

Rommel's former chief of staff told the commission that he and Rommel destroyed Hitler's order on the Commando's "ten minutes after we got it," even though, he said, they had captured documents showing that British soldiers were instructed to exert feverish ferocity in combat.

Not 'Quitting' Trial: Jackson

Nuernberg, June 18 (AP)—Justice Robert H. Jackson flatly denied today a published report he was resigning as chief American war-crime prosecutor here.

The justice said yesterday he was leaving Nuernberg about July 15 for the United States because his job would be completed, but emphasized today that this was in no sense a resignation.

To make that point clear, Jackson said he would return to Nuernberg, probably early in September, when the tribunal hands down verdicts.

D. DOAN

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany, June 18—(AP) Soldier prisoners held as witnesses in the Lichfield guardhouse trials attempted to dig their way to freedom, but were foiled with discovery of their four-foot tunnel, the Army announced tonight.

NIGHT

The escape attempt was announced as a military court overruled defense motions to quash charges against Col. James A. Kilian, accused of cruelty to U. S. soldiers at the Lichfield, Eng., detention camp which he formerly commanded.

Discovered During Inspection

An Army announcement said the tunnel dug beneath the guardhouse floor was discovered during an inspection yesterday and apparently was excavated with a stove poker and tin can. Guards said that in a few more nights the prisoners might have extended it outside the barbed wire fence surrounding the prison, a large frame building on the edge of town.

It has not been ascertained how many prisoners were involved, the announcement said. No disciplinary action was disclosed.

Eleven of the soldier prisoners are serving court martial sentences of from five to 20 years. Others are awaiting trial on charges placed against them since they came to Bad Nauheim to testify in the trials of six officers and 10 enlisted men in connection with alleged cruelties at Lichfield, where all the prisoners once had been confined.

The defense attempts to escape a trial for Colonel Kilian were overruled after more than six hours of arguments today.

Defense Attacks Charges

The defense attorney, Lt. Col. Raymond E. Ford of Fort Pierce, Fla., asserted the "charges are the result of a malicious design. They are based on admittedly perjured testimony obtained by perverting and disgracing the Army's court martial system."

The court, however, overruled Kilian's motions, and the law member, Col. William H. Beck, Jr., of Griffin, Ga., blocked Ford's efforts to question witnesses about the background of the Kilian charges.

For two days Kilian, of Highland Park, Ill., has been trying to avoid standing trial. His attorney argued for more than six hours today and sought to question two major generals and several colonels.

Ford said the charges grew out of testimony in the first Lichfield trial in London last winter in which, he declared, "deliberately false accusations" against Kilian were permitted "contrary to all rules of legal procedure."

He did not explain who he believed was responsible for the alleged "malicious design" or what was its motive. He charged that the Army's investigation preceding the filing of charges against Kilian was "a farce" in which Kilian was not given his legal rights.

Twice today defense witnesses were allowed to repeat one side of a conversation with an Army officer, but were forbidden to repeat remarks by the other person involved in the conversation.

"On what grounds is this inadmissable?" Ford demanded.

Beck each time refused to explain his ruling, asserting once that "you may not ask upon what grounds the court so rules."

When Ford complained that many witnesses whom he needed in support of his motion to quash were not furnished by the Army, the court assured him he could renew the motion when those witnesses were available.

Beck prevented Ford from reading aloud in court his motion to quash—in which he made the charges of "malice" — but Ford handed copies of the motion to reporters.

The prosecution has not yet even begun its case against Kilian. Yesterday the defense tried unsuccessfully to postpone the trial or have it moved to the United States on grounds that Kilian could not get a fair trial in Europe.

Four enlisted men and one lieutenant already have been convicted in connection with the Lichfield operations. The trial of another defendant, Pfc. Thomas E. Warren of Plainview, Tex., will begin tomorrow. Warren is accused of beating prisoners with fists and clubs.

Two More Generals On Stand

Two major generals—John T. Lewis, western base commander, and Withers A. Burress, theater inspector general—were called to the witness stand today as the defense pressed its charge of "a malicious design" against Kilian and its contention that "there had been no fair and impartial investigation" of the Lichfield operations.

Lichfield Men's Escape-Tunnel Plot Is Foiled

D. DOANE

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 18 (AP)—The United States Army announced tonight it had foiled an escape attempt of soldier prisoners held here as witnesses in the Lichfield trials. A tunnel beneath their guardhouse floor was discovered.

The disclosure came as a court-martial trying Col. James A. Kilian, former commander of the Lichfield guardhouse in England, refused to quash proceedings after two days of bitter arguments.

Poker, Can For Tools

The Army's Public Relations Office said the tunnel was found beginning beneath a small closet and had been dug 4 feet. Guards estimated only a few more nights of digging would have completed the tunnel beneath the high barbed-wire fence which serves as a prison wall. The tunnel was found during a surprise inspection. A stove poker and tin can apparently had been used as tools.

How many prisoners were involved was not immediately ascertained. Eleven of the prisoner-witnesses are serving court-martial sentences of from five to twenty years.

After six and a half hours of heated argument and attempts to question two major generals and several colonels, the military court overruled Kilian's motion to quash the charges.

Kilian contended that the accusations of cruelty on which he is being tried were brought "maliciously" and on evidence "obtained by reward and under duress."

It was the Highland Park (Ill.) officer's third attempt to halt his trial, which opened yesterday with testimony by Gen. Joseph T. McNarney and defense charges that a fair trial could not be given Kilian in the European theater, which McNarney commands.

The stormy atmosphere which marked yesterday's session cleared somewhat today, but frequent bitter clashes between opposing attorneys and between the court and defense counsel continued.

Col. William H. Beck, Jr., of Griffin, Ga., law member of the court, who made up the technical rulings, was the one who tangled most often with Kilian's attorney, Lieut. Col. Raymond E. Ford, of Fort Pierce, Fla.

SS LOST HEAVILY

Dachau, June 18 (A. P.).—The former chief of staff of the German Sixth Panzer Army told the United States Military Court today that his tank troops suffered casualties up to 50 per cent and took 5,000 to 7,000 American prisoners during the Battle of the Ardennes Bulge.

Brig.-Gen. Fritz Kraemer, one of the seventy-four SS veterans accused of killing American prisoners, said his first knowledge of the massacre came from Allied radio reports. He said the Sixth Army Command immediately tried to verify the story and was told that the First SS Panzer Division, the unit concerned, knew nothing of the slaughter.

Kraemer said Col. Otto Skorzeny, leader of the German raiders who infiltrated American lines ahead of the main German attack, was questioned and denied having known of the slaughter at Malmedy. He said the army command issued a special order for the treatment of prisoners in accordance with international law.

Nazi Defendants in Dachau Row

DACHAU, Germany, June 18 (AP) A Nazi defendant's scream, "Why don't you shoot us now?" turned the trial of fifty-two operators of the Flossenburg concentration camp into bedlam today. Picking up the cry, other prisoners rose to their feet. Polish guards rushed forward, clearing the courtroom of all spectators.

Italian Court Ruling Clears Way To Drop Monarchy Forms

J. McKnight

Rome, June 18 (AP)—The Italian Supreme Court today gave the interim Government of Alcide de Gasperi the authority to begin clearing away the political and legal vestiges of Italy's centuries-old monarchy in a ruling formally declaring that the people chose a republic over the monarchy in the June 2 plebiscite.

The court announced that the republic received 12,717,923 votes and the monarchy 10,719,284.

De Gasperi's Cabinet met briefly tonight and issued an order of the day hailing the court's verdict as "eliminating all doubt in fact and in law [illegible] Republican outcome of the referendum and the consequent perfect legality of the position taken by the Government on June 10."

Issue 8-Point Decree

On June 10, the Government announced, in effect, that the republic had come into existence. Three days later King Umberto II went into exile.

The Cabinet tonight approved an eight-point decree, providing among other things that:

Court verdicts henceforth will be handed down "in the name of the Italian people."

The official gazette be renamed the Official Gazette of the Republic.

The shield of the House of Savoy be removed from the Italian flag, leaving only the red, white and green bars.

All references to the monarchy be stricken from oaths and other legal and judicial formula.

However, no date was set for the formal proclamation of the republic.

No Substantial Change

Results from 118 voting precincts omitted from previously announced totals and minor corrections resulting from charges of voting fraud did not substantially change the republic's winning ballot margin, the court said.

It was the omission of the 118 precincts' vote and the purportedly fraudulent votes that led Umberto to describe as "indefinite" the court's previous decision of a republican victory.

Earlier, the court announced its final ruling on the June 2 national elections—held in conjunction with the plebiscite—which gave the Christian Democrats (Catholic) party 207 seats in the Constituent Assembly; the Socialists, 115 seats; and Communists, 104. Minor parties won a total of 130 seats.

DE GASPERI'S PART HOLDS 207 SEATS

Rome, June 18 (A. P.).—The Christian Democratic (Catholic) party of Premier Alcide de Gasperi won 207 of the 556 seats in the Italian Constituent Assembly in the early June elections, it was announced officially today.

The Socialists captured 115 and the Communists 104. The Centrist National Democratic Union of Victor Emmanuel Orlando won 51; the Common Man Movement took 30, and the Republican party 23. Small groups divided the remaining seats, the Government press office said.

The Assembly will meet June 25 and elect its President. A provisional President of the Republic will be chosen at the second or third session. Orlando and former Premier Ivanoe Bonomi were mentioned as the most likely candidate for President.

The Supreme Court continued its examination of the plebiscite vote which set up the republic and rejected the Royal House of Savoy, sending King Humbert into exile in Portugal. Monarchists have charged fraud.

Armistice Reported Changed.

Rome, June 18 (A. P.).—A reliable report today said an American annex to the revised Italian armistice was handed to the Italian Government Saturday and contained lighter financial terms than a similar British document.

Italian informants declined to discuss the terms "so at not to prejudice negotiations." Both British and American documents were reported to contain military clauses.

40-year-old Slavoljuo Vranjesic replied in a firm voice when he took the stand. Important officer in the Chetnik Bosnian command where the prosecution charges the most flagrant cases of collaboration occurred, he was the first of Mihailovic's lieutenants to accept unqualified blame.

He also implicated his immediate superior, Radoslav-Rade Radic, declaring that he received his direct orders from that Chetnik unit commander.

Vranjesic, a pre-war Yugoslav regular army major and fifth defendant to face the court, testified he was sent to Bosnia by Mihailovic "without instructions," but when the prosecution asked if the supreme command approved of cooperation with the enemy, he replied in the affirmative.

Radic interrupted the testimony at one point to protest that he was ill at the time and "Vranjesic and the others did everything on their own."

"Was he so ill in January, 1943," the president of the court asked Vranjesic, "that he did not know what he was doing?"

"No, he was not," Vranjesic replied. The president turned to Radic, asking:

"Did Vranjesic meet with the Germans?"

"No," Radic replied.

"Did you?" the president asked.

"Yes," said Radic.

"Sit down," the president ordered.

Sought To Gain Time

Radic had preceded Vranjesic on the stand. He admitted collaboration with the Ustachi (puppet Croatian troops) "because I could not do anything else," but said the Chetniks did not expect the Croat government to last long and cooperated only to gain time.

The 56-year-old Radic attempted to throw the blame for collaboration with the Croats upon one of his former colleagues, Uros Drenovic, Chetnik commander later killed by Allied planes while riding to battle on a German tank.

agreement, but we should beware of the Croats that they don't deceive us." He said Mihailovic "approved of the fight against the Communists."

Not Under German Command

"Did you actively fight with the Ustachi and the Germans against the National Liberation front?" Radic was asked.

"Yes," he replied, "but not under the German command and not with them."

Vranjesic testified he had received written orders from Mihailovic to form sabotage squads in liberated (Partisan-held) territory in the final phases of the war.

Mihailovic was called forward and Vranjesic was asked to repeat his assertion.

"What do you say to that accused Mihailovic?" the president of the court demanded.

Mihailovic denied the truth of the assertion. Vranjesic was asked to repeat it a second time and complied.

"I don't remember," Mihailovic said.

Mihailovic Aide Pleads Guilty To Charges of Assisting Nazis

BELGRADE, June 18 — (AP) A Chetnik commander under Gen. Draja Mihailovic pleaded guilty today to charges of treason and collaboration and testified that his chief had approved of cooperation with the Germans.

"Mr. President, I plead guilty," the court countered by reading an agreement signed by Radic and the Ustachi commander for a joint fight against "Communist and Bolshevik bands."

Radic said he informed Mihailovic of the agreement with the Croat forces, and that Mihailovic replied "it was good that we made the

Treason Admitted By One Chetnik

Belgrade, June 18 (AP)—Slavoljub Vranjesic, a 42-year-old Chetnik chief, pleaded guilty to charges of collaboration and treason before Yugoslavia's military tribunal today, the first of Gen. Draja Mihailovic's lieutenants to shoulder unqualified blame for traffic with the enemy.

Vranjesic, an important Chetnik officer in Bosnia, where the prosecution charges some of the most flagrant cases of open collaboration occurred, spoke out flatly in contrast to previous defendants, all of whom had tried to enter a qualified plea.

"Mr. President, I plead guilty," he said.

"Supreme Command Approved"

Vranjesic, a major in the Yugoslav Army before the war, answered in a low, even voice questions implicating himself, his immediate commander, Radoslav-Rade Radic, former commander of the Bosnian Chetnik Army unit, and General Mihailovic, the supreme commander. Mihailovic, he said, sent him to Bosnia, but "without instructions."

Question—Did the supreme command approve of co-operation with the enemy?

Answer—The supreme command approved of this.

Q.—How do you know?

A.—The delegate would not deceive us. The supreme command cannot give on order and its delegate another.

Radic's Defense

Radic told the court that he collaborated with the Ustachi, quisling army of wartime Croatia, but said he had no alternative.

Radic said the Chetniks "recognized the independent state of Croatia, but we knew it would not last long and we did it to gain time."

"I made an agreement not because I liked the Fascists and Germany but because I could not do anything else," he asserted.

Court Produces Document

He later said that Uros Drenovic, a Chetnik commander subsequently killed by Allied planes, actually made the agreement.

The court, however, read a document purportedly signed by Radic and the Ustachi commander agreeing to a join fight against "communism and Bolshevik bands."

"Here you are, Radic," said the court. "Here is your agreement to fight the national liberation movement in collaboration with the Ustachi."

"Can I say something, please? Radic asked. "I was only the victim here. Everybody around me made agreements. I had no way out. We did not want to honor our signatures."

Informed Mihailovic

Radic said he sent a letter to Mihailovic informing him he had organized the Chetniks in central Bosnia and asking instructions.

Question—Did you inform him of the agreement with the Ustachi?

Answer—Yes.

Q.—Did he answer?

A.—He said it was good that we made the agreement but we should beware of the Croats that they don't deceive us. He said he approved the fight against the Communists.

Radic said he started as a Partisan but switched to the Mihailovic group when the two forces split into rival groups.

"We Had To Sign"

Q.—Did you make an agreement with the Germans in Banja Luka for assistance?

A.—Vranjesic told me to go. They told me I must go. Two captains came and asked me to sign the agreement. We had to sign to be able to get out. Two months later the Germans complained that we did not fulfill the terms of the agreement.

Q.—Did you actively fight with the Ustachi and the Germans against the national liberation army?

A.—Yes, but not under German command and not with them.

PRESS FREEDOM IS FOUND

75 Foreign Writers Not Hindered Covering Mikhailovitch Trial

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, June 18 (AP)—Approximately seventy-five foreign correspondents are in Belgrade to cover the trial of General Draja Mikhailovitch and others charged with war time collaboration with the enemy. No bar to free and unhindered coverage of the trial has been found. Government Ministries, the court and newspaper men of Belgrade have joined to make the job as easy as possible.

United States, British, Russian, French, Chinese, Polish and Danish correspondents who are reporting the trial alongside Yugoslav journalists are provided with a large, well placed press section. Earphone translations are given in English, French or Russian.

DANGER SEEN IN REICH PLAN

Federal Germany Would Pose War Threat, Russian Says

Moscow, June 18 (AP)—A Soviet journalist at the four-power conference of Foreign Ministers in Paris said today in a dispatch to the trade-union newspaper Trud that the plan for a federalized Germany posed the "threat of a new war."

"The federalization plan foreshadows in the western zone of Germany a preservation of reaction which would be able to oppose the central democratic Government in Berlin, formation of which was provided for in the Potsdam decisions," Yuri Zhukov wrote.

"The domination of reaction in the so-called autonomous states would create a new state formation with the capital in Stuttgart and a military base in the Ruhr."

British Urges Federation

[Britain has urged creation eventually of a German federation to include the industrial Ruhr, in an effort to reach a compromise on France's demand for separation of the Ruhr and Rhineland from Germany. There have been indications that the United States would back the British idea.]

Another Soviet correspondent said in a Tass dispatch from Paris that the United States was joining Britain in heavy demands on Italy despite previous declarations that it wanted no reparations from Italy.

The writer, asserting that Soviet claims on Italy were "extremely modest," said the Russians believed in a principle of partial rather than full compensation and asked "scarcely one tventieth compensation" for damages inflicted by Italian troops in the Soviet Union.

[The Soviet Union has asked that Italy pay $300,000,000 in reparations, $100,000,000 of it to Russia and $200,000,000 for Yugoslavia, Greece and Albania.]

Weakened Economy Noted

"The Soviet side in forwarding reparations claims," the dispatch said, "took into consideration that Italian economy was greatly weakened and also considered Italian participation as a cobelligerent in the struggle against Germany during the war's last stages."

The writer said that one reason Italian economy was weakened was that during the first period of Allied occupation the military government, pleading military necessity, "destroyed Italian enterprises, exported equipment, requisitioned stores" and in many cases crippled future competition of Italian firms in the world market.

[A Tass dispatch broadcast by the Moscow radio charged that "a shelter for all kinds of quislings and bandits" existed in the American, British and French zones of occupied Austria. It quoted the Vienna correspondent of the Communist newspaper Rude Pravo in Prague as saying the Allied zones harbored large groups of Fascist remnants.]

Reds Have New Blast Furnace.

Moscow, June 18 (A. P.).—The Government announced today that the first of forty-five blast furnaces being built under the new five-year plan to step up Russian industry has begun operations near Dnepropetrovsk.

STRIKE IN GREECE HAS QUIET START

ATHENS, June 18 (AP)—The Greek Labor ministry tonight described as a flat failure today's general strike proclaimed by the General Confederation of Labor in protest against the nations new and drastic laws against anti-government activity.

Police authorities said the country was comparatively calm despite the strike. However, it was reported that three policemen were killed by Communists near Kalambaka and four policemen were kidnaped at Trovasso.

The Labor ministry said a negligible number of persons throughout Greece refused to work and that nowhere were public utilities or services interrupted.

In an all-night session, the Greek Parliment overwhelmingly approved the new laws providing death for action against the state and establishing summary, civil and military courts throughout Greece to eliminate disorders.

Vienna Pleads For Food

Vienna, June 18 (AP)—Burgomeister Theodor Koerner has sent an urgent message to Fiorello LaGuardia, director-general of the UNRRA, advising him that unless food is sent to Vienna soon "the population will collapse."

"Come to Vienna and convince yourself. We cannot continue," the message to LaGuardia said.

Strikes protesting insufficient food were called in seventeen of the city's factories yesterday and labor circles said the number would grow. The normal Vienna consumer has been living on a diet of less than 1,200 calories for weeks, with no prospect that UNRRA supplies will arrive in time to raise the ration by next month.

Five Britons Kidnapped By Jews in Holy Land

Troops Guard Against New Violence; Strict Curfew Imposed.

JERUSALEM, June 18 — (AP) British troops scoured through Tel Aviv tonight, searching for members of an armed gang which kidnaped five British officers, while elsewhere in the Holy Land the Palestine government sought to break up a wave of violence which has taken a two-day toll of 18 dead and scores injured.

Palestine seethed with armed Jewish anger as the British patrols, some of which used armored cars, moved through the streets of Tel Aviv.

Strict Curfew Imposed

Beginning at 5 a. m. tomorrow a strict curfew will be clamped on the predominately Jewish seacoast city, the British army announced, and unauthorized persons will not be permitted outside their own door while the curfew is in force. The army did not set a time limit for its termination.

Tommyguns were used by the armed band which spirited away the five officers. One informant said the Britons apparently were being held as hostages for two Jews under sentence of death for raiding a British army camp.

The kidnaping in Tel Aviv followed violent attacks on River Jordan bridges and on railway workshops in the port city of Haifa.

Two Officers Shot

Two British majors were shot and seriously wounded in Jerusalem at a busy street corner by attackers who leaped from a taxicab, fired several shots and escaped in the same cab in heavy nocatime traffic.

Thousands of Jews marched through Jerusalem's streets in a mourning procession for one of the nine Jews slain last night in the pitched battle near Haifa's bomo-blasted railway station.

The apparently organized outbreaks began with the dynamiting of six bridges across the Jordan in action costing the lives of six Jews and three British soldiers.

The outbreaks followed announcement last week by British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin that Britain was "not prepared" to place another army division in Palestine, which he said would be necessary if the British-American inquiry committee recommendation for immigration of 100,000 refugee Jews was carried out immediately.

Also believed linked with the violence in Palestine was the recent mysterious flight from exile in France of the mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin el Husseini, spiritual leader of Palestine's Moslems, at a time when representatives of Arab states were discussing methods of opposing the inquiry commission's recommendations.

[In Cairo the Arab League, in a formal note to the United States Minister, accused "many Americans" of supporting "Zionist terrorists with money and arms." The league advised the United States Government that such action was considered unfriendly and might result in the Arabs of Palestine being obliged "to arm themselves."

[Deputy Mohamed Ali Nosier proposed in the Egyptian Parliament that Egypt give sanctuary to the mufti of Jerusalem because "the Palestine case is extremely important to all Arabs and it is necessary for the Palestine leader to be protected."]

Laid To Extremist Group

The kidnapping of the British officers was carried out by men believed by authorities to be members of the Jewish extremist organization, Irgun Zvai Leumi.

Troops of the 6th Airborne Division scoured Tel Aviv in armored cars in a hunt for the kidnappers. The search was delayed at the outset, when a bomb was hurled into the street by one of the fleeing kidnap taxis.

About a dozen men armed with tommy guns raided the officers' club in the Hotel Yarkon, seized and blindfolded the five officers and forced them into the waiting taxis. Four of the officers were army men, the fifth a member of the RAF.

Truck Rushes Roadblock

Five persons, two of them women, were seriously injured in the disturbances at Haifa, an official announcement said, when a civilian truck rushed a roadblock in the bay area. No casualties were suffered by British personnel.

Thousands of Jews shuttered their shops and homes in Jerusalem and lined Jaffa road to mourn the death of one of the Haifa raiders, who was buried in the Mount of Olives Jewish Cemetery.

The Jewish secret radio, calling itself the "Voice of Israel," directed a message to Gen. Sir Bernard Paget, British Middle East commander, declaring that no punitive measures would stop Jewish activities. The broadcast said Sunday night's bombing of the bridges was aimed at hampering military communications "vital to British strategy in Palestine."

Syria Announces Blockade

Across the Jordan, the Syrian Government announced that all road travel between Syria and Palestine was interrupted "for an indefinite time" because of the mining of two bridges on the frontier.

Two unsuccessful attempts to halt Palestine trains by bombings were reported today. Palestine police said the engineer of a Haifa-Lydda train ignored a red flag of warning 2 miles north of Lydda and sped through a gantlet of small-arms fire and a minor explosion. There were no casualties.

Between Gaza and the Egyptian frontier, other reports said, a land mine exploded just after an oil train had passed. The rails were reported repaired and service resumed.

Reports on the damage at Haifa said railway workshops and a powerhouse were demolished in explosions, and a locomotive was destroyed. Police this afternoon still cordoned off the area of the Haifa attacks where nine Jews were killed in the gun battle with troops. (INSERT)

Weizman Answers Bevin

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the Zionist world organization, said tonight that "no responsible member of the Palestine Jewry" wishes to have "British soldiers fall in defense of the Jewish community—still less as victims of political violence."

In a speech tonight at Petah Tiqvah, near Tel Aviv, Weizmann replied to a recent statement by Ernest Bevin, Foreign Secretary of Great Britain. (ADD)

'Hostages' Abducted At Tel Aviv Club, Palestine Hears

Jerusalem, June 18 (AP)—A reliable informant said five British officers were kidnapped today from an officers' club at Tel Aviv by a dozen Jewish extremists armed with tommyguns.

The new outbreak of terrorism spreading throughout Palestine came after a wild night in Haifa when nine Jews were killed in a pitched battle after they attacked the central railroad shops. The deaths during gunfire and fifteen explosions at the railway yards raised the toll in recent days to eighteen.

when a civilian truck rushed a road block in the Haifa Bay area. No casualties were reported among British Army personnel.

Previously, the Government had announced that six Jews were slain Sunday night in attacks during which most of Palestine's frontier bridges were wrecked. A British officer and two British soldiers also died, the officer while dismantling a mine under a bridge and the two soldiers in a clash with Arabs.

Villagers Questioned

The British Army, meanwhile, continued to question the 62 male residents of the villege of Beth Haavara, on the Dead Sea. Twelve other men and two women, one of them with a bullet wound in her chest, also were under arrest.

Police dogs led troops from one of the bridges to the village, which they entered only after forcibly moving the male residents at bayonet point. The entire population of the village had attempted to bar the troops by linking arms and taking a stand.

Haganah Claims Credit

Workshops in the Haifa railway yards were damaged extensively by fire and explosion in last night's attack, which was carried out while British troops deployed through other areas of Palestine in an effort to halt the eruptions of violence.

Haganah, an illegal Jewish organization, distributed leaflets in Tel Aviv asserting that it was responsible for the Sunday-night outbursts. The Palestine Post, the nation's leading Zionist newspaper, deplored the violence, which it said served no purpose and righted no wrong.

"These are acts of men who have lost their faith and have inherited despair," the paper said. "The despair to which these attackers have wrongly yielded is born of cruel circumstances outside themselves."

Other Jewish papers said only two Jews were killed in the attacks on the eight bridges, which left Palestine without train service to Syria and Trans-Jordan. The railway bridge over Yarmuk Gorge was destroyed, as was the famous Allenby span over the Jordan, a major link between Palestine and Trans-Jordan.

Irgun Zvai Leumi

The informant reporting the kidnapping at Tel Aviv said the bandits were believed to be members of the Jewish extremist organization, Irgun Zvai Leumi. The British officers were believed seized as hostages against the impending execution of two Irgun members, sentenced to death last week for participating in a raid last March on a British Army camp.

The dozen terrorists raided the Hotel Yarkon, which has been a leading officers' club in Tel Aviv for several years. Their victims, four army officers and one air force officer, were blindfolded and forced into taxicabs, the informant said.

[Reuter reported the number kidnappers and their victims.

The War Office in London expressed surprise when informed of the reported kidnapping, asserting that "This is the first we have heard of it."

Troops Scour City

[Reuter reported from Tel Aviv that the British 6th Airborne Division was scouring the city for the kidnappers and their victims, reported to be flyers.

[The agency said two British Army officers were seriously wounded in Jerusalem when attackers fired from a passing taxicab.]

Thousands of Jews marched through the streets of Jerusalem this afternoon during the funeral of Yehiel Weitz, who was killed during one of yesterday's acts of sabotage north of Haifa. The city's shops, coffee houses and offices were closed during rites at the Jewish cemetery on the Mount of Olives.

Warning By Radio

The underground Jewish radio said last week end that some form of countermeasure would be taken against the sentencing of the Irgun members by a military court in Jerusalem.

While the battle of the Haifa rail yards proceeded last night, two unsuccessful attempts were made to bomb trains and halt them.

Palestine police said the engineer of a train between Haifa and Lydda ignored a red flag waved on the tracks 2 miles north of Lydda. Shots rattled around the cars but no casualties were suffered.

Damage In Haifa

Other reports said a land mine exploded near Khanyunis, between Gaza and the Egyptian frontier in the south, just after an oil train passed. Reports said the rails were repaired and service on the Lydda-Kanatara main line to Egypt was not interrupted.

Latest advices from Haifa said railway shops and a power house were destroyed last night. A locomotive was ruined. Police continued to shut off the area of the battle.

The raiders set off fifteen explosions in the rail yards and escaped over heavily mined roads.

Five Killed At Road Block

The official announcement said five persons, including two women, were injured seriously and fourteen men and a woman were arrested.

Five of the Jews were killed

Ruined Spans Halt Palestine Traffic

Damascus, June 18 (AP)—The Syrian Government announced today that all road travel between Syria and Palestine would be interrupted "for an indefinite time," because of the mining of two bridges.

The Hedjaz railway bridge on the frontier 8 miles from Tiberius was totally destroyed as was the highway bridge spanning the Jordan a few hundred yards south of the river's headwaters in Lake Hula, the communiqué said.

The Syria-Palestine highway bridge is a 40-foot, steel structure and the Jordan itself, in the present dry season, resembles a shallow brook.

The bridge represents the only highway link between Syria and Palestine, however, and normally is closely guarded by shotgun-armed police stationed on a hill 100 yards away.

Would Have Egypt Shelter Mufti

Cairo, June 18 (A. P.).—Deputy Mohamed Aly Nosier proposed today in the Egyptian Parliament that Egypt give refuge to the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, who disappeared recently from his place of exile in France.

"The Palestine case is extremely important to all Arabs and it is necessary for the Palestine leader to be protected," Aly Nosier declared. The present whereabouts of the Mufti is uncertain.

Arabs Ask U.S. End Aid To Zionists

Cairo, June 18 (AP)—The Arab League, accusing "many Americans" of supporting "Zionist terrorists with money and arms," has advised the United States Government that such action is considered unfriendly and may result in the Arabs of Palestine being "obliged to arm themselves."

The views of the Arab League, composed of seven Middle Eastern states, were presented to the American Minister in Syria by Abdel Rahman Azzam Pasha, the league's secretary general, on Saturday and were made public today.

The memorandum said the Arab states feared the disturbances in Palestine might spread to neighboring countries and that Arab governments might be forced to help arm Palestine Arabs.

Britain and Egypt To Resume Talks

Cairo, June 18 (A. P.).—Sir Ronald Campbell, British Ambassador, conferred with Prime Minister Sidky Pasha today and told reporters afterward that resumption of negotiations for revision of the 1936 British-Egyptian Treaty of Alliance had been discussed. The negotiations were suspended May 22.

British Deny Poles Have Entered Iraq

Cairo, June 18 (A. P.).—The British Army's Middle East Headquarters officially denied today rumors which swept through Iraq yesterday that thousands of Polish troops had arrived in that country and that the British had reinstated control over some Syrian military camps previously evacuated.

Referring also to rumors in Iraq yesterday of an imminent landing at Basra by many American Army divisions, British Army Headquarters said it had "not the slightest knowledge of any American divisions coming to the Middle East." American Army Headquarters in Cairo also disclaimed any knowledge of American landings in Iraq.

Chiang Demand Dimming Peace Hope, Reds Say

Assert Nationalists Now Ask North China Strongholds, Including Shantung Coast

H. Mills

NANKING, June 18 (AP).—A Chinese Communist spokesman charged today that the Central government had dimmed hopes for peace by demanding, in a new proposal, that the Communists yield a number of strongholds in North China, including all the coastline of strategic Shantung Province.

The spokesman, Wong Peng-nan, said the government memorandum was handed to General George C. Marshall, special American envoy, who turned it over "without comment" to General Chou En-lai, chief Communist negotiator.

The government proposal reportedly laid down as the price of peace, aroused doubts in Communist circles that an agreement for permanent cessation of hostilities could be reached before the expiration next Saturday of the fifteen-day Manchurian truce. Communist sources said that Chou considered the situation "most critical."

Includes 'Several Provinces'

Other than Shantung, where the Communists have been closing in on the American marine-held port of Tsingtao, the areas demanded by the government were not detailed by Wong. But he said they embraced "several provinces" north of the Yellow River involving several of the Communists' most important positions outside Manchuria. (Yenan, Communist capital, lies north of the river.)

The Communist spokesman also charged that President Truman's recent statement on lend-lease to China was being used by Kuomintang (Nationalist party) generals to arouse support for a "war of extermination" against the Communists.

[The President told Congress Friday that lend-lease aid to China up to Dec. 31 last totaled $1,335,632,000, and that it had cost the United States $300,000,000 to transport Central government troops to various parts of China since Japan surrendered.]

Chiang Statement Reported

"No matter what the real intent of the United States," the spokesman declared, "Kuomintang generals are telling junior officers and men that America, which gave China planes, ships, arms and money, will continue to support the government actively if the government's armies start all-out war against the Communists.

"Even the generalissimo (Chiang Kai-shek) told supporters the government could quickly settle the problem by force," Wong added. "In this atmosphere, how is it possible to negotiate successfully for peace?"

The Communist also declared that American naval facilities were being used to transport the Chinese government's 54th Army from the Canton area to Tsingtao.

CHINESE REDS ASSAIL NANKING

Report New Land Demands as Price of Peace.

H. Mills

Nanking, June 18 (A. P.).—A Chinese Communist spokesman said today that the Government had dimmed the hope for peace by demanding that the Communists yield a number of strongholds in North China, including all the coastline of strategic Shantung province. The spokesman, Wong Peng-nan, said the government memorandum was handed to Gen. Marshall, the American special envoy, who turned it over "without comment" to Gen. Chou En-lai, the chief Communist negotiator.

The Government's new proposal, reportedly laid down as the price of peace, was described by Communist sources as "most unsatisfactory."

Areas North Of Yellow River

Other than Shantung, where the Communists have been closing in on the United States Marine-held port of Tsingtao, the areas to be given up were not detailed by the spokesman.

He said they embraced "several provinces" north of the Yellow River involving several of the Communists' most important positions outside Manchuria. [Yenan, Communist capital, lies north of the river.]

Wong declared that the Communists had already made concessions and had agreed to the restoration of communications.

The Government's Central News Agency charged the Communists had almost cut off Tsingtao from any land routes by seizing four cities in an arc bending down to and including Chengyang, only 18 miles north of the port.

The other towns were Tsimo, Lantsun and Kiaohsien, the last at the other extremity of the arc, 30 miles northwest of Tsingtao.

Central News asserted the Communists used Japanese artillerymen and fifth-columnists in capturing Kiaohsien and Lantsun.

Red Speaks For Peace

These developments came shortly after the commander of all Chinese Communist forces in Manchuria said further civil warfare could "only bring catastrophe" to China and spoke out for peace.

"For the sake of the people's welfare, our present stand is to realize peace," the commander, Gen. Lin Piao, said in an interview carried by the Communist New China News Agency.

Lin's forces, which ceded the Manchurian capital of Changchun without a struggle, were falling back before the northward march of Government troops. Field reports said all serious clashes had ceased.

Lin asserted his troops gave up Changchun in the interest of peace, but that the Government in pushing on north was "attempting to turn Manchuria into a Fascist area."

"If the Kuomintang [Nationalist party] will cease attacks," he added, "peace is at hand."

Eight Japs Hanged

Singapore, June 18 (AP)—Eight convicted Japanese war criminals, including Vice Admiral Teizo Hara, former commander of Japanese naval forces in the Andaman Islands, were hanged this morning at the Changi jail.

Hara was held responsible for the death of 213 islanders.

India-Plan Okay 'A Certainty'

P. Mason

New Delhi, June 18 (AP)—Acceptance by the Congress party and Moslem League of Britain's plan for a coalition interim government leading to Indian indpendence was viewed today as a virtual certainty.

The prevailing sentiment within the Congress party high command appeared to be that the party would would not permit quibbling to endanger its long-sought goal of independence. Moslem League leaders previously had stated that their organization's approval could be taken for granted.

Decision Likely Tomorrow

The Congress party's formal decision probably will be announced late tomorrow at which time a working committee of the league may also announce its formal acceptance.

Under the British plan, which was announced Sunday, the league and the party each would have five representatives on a fourteen-man interim cabinet. The other four seats would go to minority groups.

Rail Strike Threat

The present Indian Government, meanwhile, issued a warning that unless a national rail strike, scheduled for June 27, were called off by Saturday certain postal services, including rail transport of parcels, would be canceled to give priority to food.

Two railways in Bombay province today suspended the movement of all freight except food and fuel.

Siam Studying King's Death

BANGKOK, Siam, June 18 (AP)—The Government, attempting to deal with rumors that the King was murdered or committed suicide, announced today the appointment of a seven-man inquiry commission made up of distinguished men. The Government called on the public to present to the police any evidence that the King's death was other than accidental. Yesterday a middle-aged Siamese offered his head for shooting tests as a contribution to solving the mystery.

"Grave Mistake" Alleged

The ex-Premier said the prosecution made a "grave mistake" in charging that the Pearl Harbor attack violated existing treaties and was murder.

Speaking of atrocities, Tojo said: "Granting that the facts of alleged violations of war regulations and customs will wait for future judgment, Japan is one of the civilized nations and from its general characteristics tries to respect these regulations.

"It is blind judgment to hold up barbaric facts—if these were facts, they should of course not have been permitted—carried out by some persons on the battlefield and hold that this is a part of Japan's military action; and not only that but to call this one of the ways of Japan's war."

Allies "Planned Massacre"

"On the other hand," Tojo continued, "it is clear that the enemy's massacre of wounded on the battlefield, bombing of hospital ships, indiscriminate bombing of undefended cities and the use of the atomic bomb were clearly trampling on treaties and acts of planned massacre. To treat this lightly, as a natural step for maintenance of civilization, cannot be recognized as a fair attitude."

Tojo asserted the Tripartite Pact was not intended, as the prosecution contends, to achieve world domination but to give "each nation in the world its righteous place and thus make this the premise to permanent peace."

He denied knowing anything about a secret military clause in the Anti-Comintern Pact of 1936.

Refers To Russo-Jap War

Noting that the prosecution's statement touched on the Russo-Japanese War of 1904-05, Tojo added that "considering its suitability to the present trial as a separate matter, one recalls that much of the prosecution and success of this war was due to Britain and America and that the people of Japan at that time were grateful to the two countries."

He asserted that Japan won its right as a major power through "great sacrifice" in that war but subsequently risked its existence by having the role of buffer between "weak China and the south ward advance of Russia."

The former Premier wrote his statement in his prison cell on his own initiative and released it through his lawyer, Ichiro Kiyose.

Professor Gives 'Wrong' Replies At Tojo Trial

Tojo Hints At Self-Defense Plea

This is the second of two dispatches based on a statement by Hideki Tojo, defending himself before the international war-crimes tribunal.

R. Bates

Tokyo, June 18 (AP)—Japan in her major international commitments always reserved the right to fight in self-defense and this right included attacking without warning, Hideki Tojo, former Japanese Premier, said in his prison-cell answer to the prosecution's opening statement at his war-crimes trial.

Tojo charged the United States was guilty of "planned mass massacre" in its bombing pattern for Japan, and "trampled on treaties" in its conduct of the war.

Tojo's statement indicated the defense would contend that Japan was forced into the Pacific war in self-defense.

Right To Fight Reserved

He asserted that even the Kellogg Pact outlawing war permitted war in self-defense. He added that Japan, in "entering this pact, reserved the right to fight for protection outside of the range of the treaty."

For the same reason, he said, Japan was "not bound by the Hague Convention regarding the opening of a war. It follows that even if a final message is to be sent, it is not a violation of treaties if such a message fails to conform to protocol."

Japan's disputed final message to the United States, delivered to her peace envoy, Saburo Kurusu, and Ambassador Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura after the bombs fell on Pearl Harbor, was not a declaration of war. It merely broke off current negotiations and said Japan "reserved the right to take future action."

Tokyo, June 18 (AP)—A Japanese professor, called as a prosecution witness in the international trial of Hideki Tojo and 27 others, gave the "wrong" answers today and upset proceedings.

Expected to testify that Japan's warmakers used the nation's schools to train young men into aggressive fanaticism, Prof. Tokiomi Kaigo declared on the stand that military training originally had only peaceful purposes.

When questioning failed to elicit anticipated answers, Valentine Hammack, assistant prosecutor, asked for permission to impeach the testimony of his own witness. Later he withdrew the request.

Checked Social Unrest

Under crossexamination, Kaigo testified that military training was increased in 1925-26 because "after World War I there was great social unrest in Japan" and "we can consider that putting into execution of military training did a great deal to check this tedency."

Kaigo, 45, a professor of educational history at the Imperial University in Tokyo, also said graduate students were required to train only a year and a half, whereas nation-wide military training was compulsory for two years.

"I agree with you that was a peaceful step to cut down training," he told Utaka Sugawara, defense attorney.

Kaigo testified that military training was increased after the Manchurian incident and "came to have great influence on Japanese action."

1946

Education "Very Effective"

"The education given to the effect that Japan was supreme was very effective in secondary schools, colleges and universities," he said in summary.

Whether Kaigo's apparent change of attitude after conferring with the prosecution and before testifying was influenced by the cool stares he received from the prisoners' box was a matter for conjecture.

Tojo followed the testimony intently. In a written statement issued in his own defense from his prison cell, he told the Associated Press today that military training was among "points out of the question" in the trial. Anyhow, he added, Japan only followed the American pattern in teaching military science in schools.

Marine Corps Lieut. Col. Donald R. Nugent, of San Francisco, first witness to take the stand, had testified to "excessive" military instruction in Japanese schools.

Yoshida To Push Constitution

Tokyo, June 18 (AP)—Premier Yoshida will urge swift adoption of Japan's new "no-war" constitution in an address before the nineteenth extraordinary session of the Diet Friday.

An announcement said the Cabinet approved today a revised draft of the Premier's address, which will give for the first time a complete outline of the new Government's policies.

The Diet session will open Thursday with Emperor Hirohito inaugurating the assembly. The first formal business session will begin the following day.

New Rights For People

The constitution, indorsed by General MacArthur, drastically curtails the powers of the Emperor and increases those of the Diet, and specifies new rights and freedoms for the people.

Yoshida also will present the Government program for solving the food shortage, controlling inflation and reconstructing industry.

He likewise will suggest measures to prevent workers from seizing and operating plants as a weapon in wage disputes.

Stranded Mine Kills Seven Boys in Japan

Kochi, Japan, June 18 (A. P.).—Seven Japanese boys were killed and five were gravely injured when they ignored posted warnings and tried to pry barnacles from a stray mine that washed ashore at nearby Akaoka the Kyodo News Agency reported today. A thirteenth boy was missing after the blast.

Counter-spy Officer Honored.

Tokyo, June 18 (A. P.).—The Bronze Star was awarded to Major Joseph S. Carusi today—the eve of his return to the United States—for his work in counter - intelligence. Carusi, whose wife lives in New Haven, Conn., has headed the Plans and Policies Branch, Civil Intelligence Section, Army Headquarters here.

Killing Of 17 Yanks Is Charged To Jap

Tokyo, June 18 (AP)—Royichi Tozuka, former Japanese lieutenant colonel, was charged today with responsibility for the wartime slaughter of 1,600 noncombatants, including seventeen American citizens.

Most of the Americans were associated with the Central Philippines College and were killed at Camp Hopevale.

Air-Sea Rescue Parley

Tokyo, June 18 (AP)—Army-Navy co-ordination in air and sea rescues will be discussed at a plane flight control conference at Pacific air command headquarters here tomorrow.

Hirohito Ends Inspection Tour

TOKYO, June 18 (AP)—Emperor Hirohito and the Empress returned today after a two-day inspection of industrial facilities and fishing ports in Shizuoka Prefecture, southwest of Tokyo.

U. S. TO HANG JAP WHO SLEW BRITONS

Yokohama, June 18 (A. P.).—Japanese ex-Sgt. Kunichi Araki today was sentenced to hang, the fifth of fifty-five war crime suspects tried and convicted by the United States Eighth Army to receive the death penalty. He had been accused of trocities against British and Dutch nationals captured at Singapore and in the Dutch East Indies.

Penicillin For Jap VD's

Yokohama, June 18 (AP)—The United States 8th Army said today that penicillin would be made available for the first time to Japanese suffering from venereal disease.

FIRE ON NAVY SHIP

PEARL HARBOR, June 18—(AP) Pacific fleet headquarters reported today that an oil fire had broken out aboard an unidentified ship at Pearl Harbor, doing slight damage to the side of a repair vessel. Flames were quickly brought under control.

TO SEE HIS DADDY SOON

Manila, June 18 (A. P.).—Pfc. Daniel Schapper will leave tomorrow for Pittsburgh, Pa., where his son Danny, 6 years old, lies critically ill with a ruptured spleen.

Schapper, who sent a message to his wife last Thursday that he was leaving immediately, has been sitting in the Fifth Replacement Depot for the last five days, his urgent priority papers in his hand. Apparently red tape thwarted efforts of Red Cross and Sixty-eighth Division Military Police officers to get him aboard a homebound plane.

Today Air Transport Command officials, acting, they said, on a request received only this morning, granted Schapper a seat in the first available transport. Efforts to trace just what caused the delay proved fruitless.

Schapper, whose wife has been anxious about his whereabouts, said he didn't dare leave the depot to send another message for fear he'd lose his priority.

Ecuador Abolishes All Import Controls

Quito, Ecuador, June 18 (AP)—The Government today decreed the abolition of all control measures and quotas on imports, established at the beginning of the war. At the same time a decree was issued limiting profits to be derived from trade in all kinds of products except those for export.

Textile products in popular demand, hosiery, shoes, soaps and tobaccos were placed under a ten per cent profit ceiling. Other classifications allow from 15 to 30 per cent. Luxury items and such goods as radios, refrigerators and silverware and silver products were placed in the 30 per cent category.

Snapping Shrimp Given Test Role

E. FAY

Aboard Flagship Mount McKinley, Bikini, June 18 (AP)—Even snapping shrimp have a place in the atom-bomb test.

Dr. Martin Johnson, of the Scripps Institution of Oceanography, an expert on marine acoustics, has this idea:

The snapping shrimp, feeding on the bottom, makes a clicking sound when he closes the jaws of his single claw in the process of snaring food. When multitudes chomp away at their food, the collective noise is plainly audible on underwater listening devices.

If the bomb's blast or the resulting radioactivity kills life in the lagoon, the absence of the sound of feeding shrimp should give an immediate clue.

Meeting of Truman, Stalin Urged By House Members After Tour

WASHINGTON, June 18 — (AP) President Truman and Generalissimo Stalin should meet soon in a "frank, across-the-table" attack on problems dividing Russia and the United States, four members of the House Foreign Affairs committee said today.

Reporting on a tour of Europe, Reps. Gordon (D-Ill), Ryter (D-Conn), Mundt (R-SD) and Bolton (R-Ohio) urged [illegible] immediate abandonment [illegible] any semblance of appeasement" of Russia.

Asserting that some members of the powerful Soviet politbureau "are more favorable than others to the United States," the report added:

"Each time we yield (to Soviet demands), we lay them open to ridicule and give the others cause to argue that talking tough to America is demonstrated to be the most productive policy."

Alienate Friends of U. S.

"Thus by our unwise appeasement methods we alienate those who are most friendly toward us within the government group in the Kremlin."

The report, not yet released officially, will be studied by the full Foreign Affairs committee tomorrow.

In suggesting the earliest possible Stalin-Truman meeting, the report recommended that the leaders explore methods of bringing the two countries "closer together."

The subcommittee also expressed hope that Mr. Truman "would urge the Russian leaders to take effective steps to implement the policies which they have endorsed in becoming a signatory x x x to the Atlantic Charter."

President Truman recently said that Stalin had declined, because of his health, to make a social visit to the United States.

Mr. Truman has said repeatedly that he himself has no plans to go to Europe. His position is that world problems should be handled through the United Nations and such gatherings as the foreign ministers' council. Thus, there appeared no likelihood to [illegible] ght of an early Stalin-Truman meeting.

People Tired of War

In its section on Russia, visited late last summer, the house members said that "the great bulk of the citizenry is tired of war and yearns for peace" and added the congressmen found "no antipathy among the average citizens toward the United States."

It also said that "in a military sense Russia lacks many of the modern weapons and mechanical devices essential in modern warfare" including "the Atom bomb, a sizable Navy, a home-equipped mechanized Army" and a substantial machine-tool industry."

"Potentially Russia is a mighty military force," the subcommittee said, "but it would seem unlikely that she would be inclined to launch an unprovoked war against the United States or any well-prepared country of substantial size for many years to come."

Military Outlay Continues

The report asserted, however, that "the military outlay of the Russian government continues on a huge scale," with expansion of heavy industries being undertaken "to the neglect" of production of consumer goods.

Concerning Poland, the congressmen said, "freedom from fear is a mockery" and of the four freedoms, "only a superficial semblance" of freedom of religion still remains.

The subcommittee said the United States "acted too hastily" in granting conditional recognition to the Polish provisional government and urged "an unyielding attitude" toward fulfillment of the pledge "for free and unfettered elections."

Mrs. Bolton and Mundt, the two who completed the two-month tour, also said that in Yugoslavia recognition was accorded "too hastily" to the regime of Marshal Tito.

"On the whole," they said, "the situation in Yugoslavia reflects the vicious harvest which comes from the appeasement policies which the United States has been following with regard to Russia."

URGE APPEASING OF RUSSIA END

Four House Members Also Ask Truman-Stalin Talk.

Washington, June 18 (A. P.).—"Immediate abandonment of any semblance of appeasement in our negotiations and relations with Russia" was urged today by four members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

In a report on a two-month trip to Europe, they also called for "a frank across-the-table exchange of sentiment" between President Truman and Premier Stalin as soon as possible. The full Foreign Affairs Committee is to meet tomorrow to review the report.

Signed by Representatives Gordon (D.-Ill.), Ryter (D.-Conn.), Mundt (R.-S. D.) and Bolton (R.-Ohio), the sub-committee report said in part: "It has become very evident in Moscow that each time we have taken a stiffer attitude and refused to yield to any and every Soviet demand our embassy has found it increasingly easier to deal with Russian officials.

See Division in Politbureau.

"In the Politbureau there are those who are more favorable than others to the United States. Each time we yield, we lay them open to ridicule and give the others cause to argue that talking tough to America is demonstrated to be the most productive policy.

"Thus by our unwise appeasement methods we alienate those who are most friendly toward us with the Government group in the Kremlin."

The committee members recommended a policy of "complete reciprocity" with Russia, saying that "no greater privileges should be extended to Russians in the United States than are extended to Americans in Russia." They also said such a policy "means that since the United States engages in and encourages no type of political activity in Russia that the U. S. S. R. should exercise the same restraints in the United States."

The purpose of a Stalin-Truman meeting, the Representatives said, would be "to determine what policies and problems of each country seem to hold Russia and America apart and what policies and purposes can be implemented which will tend to bring Russia and the United States closer together.' Mr. Truman said he invited Stalin to come to this country for a social visit but that the Soviet leader declined because of his health.

Regret Recognition of Poland.

In its forty-one-page report, the Congressmen said they believed the United States "acted too hastily in granting even conditional recognition to the present provisional Government" of Po-

"Freedom from fear is a mockery" in Poland, theysaid, adding that "as the Red Army is demobilized in Poland, some of its soldiers are assimilated into the new Polish army; some are given Polish citizenship, and some are left to make their way home plundering, raping and living off the country as they go.

"Asthe number of Soviet soldiers diminish their places are quickly filled by secret agents of the NKVD. The government by the military is being replaced by a govrnment of the secret polic whose conduct and actions differ in no wise from that of the eGrman Gestapo."

Committee Is Told Russia Bought Released Radar Data

Washington, June 18 (AP)—Congress learned today that Russia has bought a complete list of Commerce Department reports on radar and other military developments which the armed forces have removed from the secret lists, but that she still withholds most of her own scientific war discoveries.

John C. Green, director of the department's Office of Declassification, told the Senate Appropriations Committee of the Soviet purchases. The committee made the testimony public in connection with its approval of the $447,285,000 State-Commerce-Justice money bill.

"Brought Up To Date"

The same testimony disclosed an assertion by Senator Wherry (R., Neb.) that a witness had told a Judiciary subcommittee of which Wherry is a member that this country had brought Russia "up to date with everything we knew about radar."

Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Commerce, who was before the appropriations group, said he did not know the facts about Wherry's statement "but I rather doubt it."

Wherry pressed Green as to whether Russia had bought scientific descriptions of military equipment developed by this country and released to business men by Army and Navy boards which decided they need no longer remain secret.

Eight Orders Put In

Green said Russian representatives here had put in eight orders, ranging from $1.10 to $1,387 in costs, for reports that average $2 in price. He testified these included a complete bibliography, which he said described the various mechanisms.

Wherry remarked that by obtaining the scientific data on developments that are not now secret, foreign countries might be able to duplicate mechanisms the armed forces still hold on their secret list.

He asked whether Wallace thought that "we are releasing through reports the know-how, or the research, any information that might be put together in a unit so that it might endanger us and get into the hands of a country that would endanger the safety of our country."

Has Faith In Departments

"I have very great faith in the judgment of the Army and Navy as they declassify this material," Wallace replied. He added at another point: "I think our military are properly security-conscious."

Green said that within the limits of information gathered by "teams which go through each of the various zones, we do not have any formal reciprocity with Russia or with the French in the occupied areas" of Europe. He said both nations had been approached on the reciprocity question.

Apparently "Taking Advantage"

Wherry observed that in view of the fact that there is no inflow of similar information, Russia and France "are apparently taking advantage of this country."

Senator Cordon (R., Ore.) declared that some administrative board ought to pass on the lifting of secrecy bans on information "that goes across the water," adding:

"I think we have given them scientific knowledge that might be used to great advantage against the United States in the event we got into war."

HOUSE GROUP SPLIT ON ATOMIC CURBS

Committee Proposes to Place Military Representative on Control Board.

WASHINGTON, June 18 — (AP) A new fight over atomic energy controls shaped up tonight after the House Military committee voted to give the military at least one, and perhaps two, places on a five-man control board.

This runs counter to a plan for all-civilian control which the Senate voted after hearings by its Special Atomic committee.

The control commission would administer domestic phases of atomic energy. The House committee voted to require that at least one of the five members of the proposed commission be a military representative, and that a second member may be selected from military ranks if the President sees fit.

Proposed by Ohio Member

This change was proposed by Rep. Elston (R.-Ohio) and adopted by the committee although both Secretary of War Patterson and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal had approved the Senate plan for a commission of five civilians.

Elston told reporters he deems it "imperative that the military have a voice in dealing with such an important factor in our national defense."

"My amendment retains control in civilians," he contended. "It provides that not more than two of the five members may be military representatives, which leaves the control in the hands of the three civilian members."

But committee members who opposed the action served notice they would fight for the Senate plan when the bill reaches the House floor.

"The military doesn't want control and hasn't asked for it," commented Rep. Holifield (D.-Calif.). "The Senate bill was written after long study by a special committee and should be passed by the House without major change."

The committee acted behind closed doors and the individual votes of the members were unavailable. Other sections of the bill will be considered tomorrow.

Atom Plan Altered

Washington, June 18 (AP)—The House Military Committee today rejected a Senate proposal to place domestic development of atomic energy in the hands of a five-man civilian commission. Instead, it voted to require at least one military member on the board.

In closed session, the committee voted also to permit the President to appoint as many as two military members to the commission.

The committee also changed a Senate provision in atomic-control legislation which deals with the powers of the military liaison committee to consult with the commission on military matters.

It eliminated a requirement that the liaison committee keep the commission fully informed of its activities, but retained a Senate provision requiring the commission to keep the liaison group posted.

Chairman May (D., Ky.) said the committee hopes to complete action on the bill later this week.

AMAZING WEAPONS REVEALED BY ARMY

WASHINGTON, June 18—(AP)—A spurt of molten metal, starting at a speed of nearly five miles a second, may become in time America's defense against rockets or armored space ships packed with atomic bombs.

The Army supplied a peek at it today in the research and planning stages of its development. The new weapon is a long way from reality, but Maj. Gen. Everett S. Hughes, chief of ordinance says that in a few years it may replace the bullets and shells fighter pilots pumped at enemy targets in the last war.

The Army figures the amazing weapon of tomorrow will be operated something like this:

An airplane, perhaps of a robot type, would launch a rocket. Radar or electronics would guide the rocket to its target. As it neared the objective, the rocket would spit out a jet of molten metal with an initial velocity of 25,000 feet a second.

That speed is known to be possible. In comparison, sound saunters along at 1,120 feet a second, a bullet travels only 3,000 and a V-2 gets up to 5,000.

Ordinance experts say a spurt of liquid metal traveling so fast could not be turned aside, that it would pierce the armor of a plane carrying an a-bomb or knock out an atomic rocket.

Too Fast To Be Deflected

This molten metallic jet—comparable in a way to what jumps out of a toothpaste tube when it is squeezed, an ordnance spokesman explained—would travel at such a high speed that it could not be deflected. That is, it would go right through the armor plate of a plane flying an atomic bomb. Or it could punch an atomic rocket right on the nose.

If the jet travels at 25,000 feet a second—and that speed is known to be possible—its spurting flash of molten metal could catch up with a V-2, for that travels at only 5,000 feet a second. A bullet goes 3,000 feet a second. Sound drags along at 1,120 feet a second.

Research At Aberdeen

Col. Leslie E. Simon, director of the ordnance department's ballistics research laboratory at the Aberdeen Proving Ground in Maryland, said rapid strides are expected in the immediate future toward an understanding of the possibilities of "high-speed metallic jets produced by shaped charges."

"It can be logically anticipated," he said, "that with further understanding of shaped charge phenomena, and with larger models it may be possible to overcome what now appear to be formidable difficulties in the attack of heavily armored guided missiles and high-speed aircraft."

The jet-firing mechanism is envisioned as an airplane weapon. First it would hurl out a rocket to be guided by radar or drawn by electronics to its skyborne enemy target. As it closed in, it would let go with a stream of molten metal.

Jets Of Fiery Metal, Shot At 5 Miles A Second, Loom As 'A' Defense

Washington, June 18 (AP)—The Army lifted the edge of a blueprint briefly today to disclose a fantastic weapon that may develop into a defense against atomic rockets or armored space ships laden with A-bombs.

It is a jet of molten metal that has an initial velocity of almost 5 miles a second.

Although still in the research and planning stages, the possibility of the horrendous new weapon has experts in the Army Ordnance Department enthusiastic. They concede that adapting it to a robot anti-atomic sky defense is going to require a bit of doing, however.

A Fighter-Plane Weapon?

The first hint of the molten jet was dropped in a dully worded War Department announcement (with Einsteinish overtones) which reported that postwar research of the ordnance arm is gradually outmoding many standard weapons used in the World War of a year ago.

Maj. Gen. Everett S. Hughes, chief of ordnance, believes that the high explosive bullets and projectiles that fighter pilots pumped into enemy aircraft will probably be replaced in a few years by the new high-speed metallic jet, traveling at an initial velocity of 25,000 feet a second.

Members of the Northern California Association of Scientists formed the committee for foreign correspondence, of which A. S. Bishop, University of California graduate in physics, is chairman.

USE OF WARSHIPS AT BIKINI APPROVED

WASHINGTON, June 18 — (AP) Congress today authorized the use of 33 combatant ships as targets in the forthcoming atomic bomb tests at Bikini atoll.

The bill now goes to President Truman, who had urged its passage.

Final congressional action on the once-controversial legislation came in the House where the handful of members present concurred in Senate amendments to a house bill passed in March.

The House originally had provided that 97 Navy vessels could be used in the atomic tests. In the face of Senate opposition, however, the Navy made a restudy of the project and decided only 33 combatant ships, exclusive of those captured from the Axis, would be needed.

Campaign Started To Bar Atomic Race

Berkeley, Cal., June 18—A letter-writing campaign aimed at world peace and preventing an atomic armament race was in progress today. It is conducted by a group composed mainly of scientists of the University of California and Stanford University, many of them atomic energy workers.

The idea is for scientists of this country to write personal acquaintances abroad "to convince foreign scientists of our strong desire to work toward world peace and cooperation and of our determination to avoid an atomic armament race."

UREY FAVORS BARUCH PLAN

Alternatives With Atom Bomb Outlined And Ruled Out

Chicago, June 18 (AP)—Dr. Harold C. Urey, who aided in development of the atom bomb, declared today that international control of the weapon offered the only hope of averting World War III.

In an extemporaneous address to the fifty-fifth convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, Dr. Urey said:

"We have three courses open to us. One is to do nothing about the bomb, to maintain huge standing armies and navies, and huge numbers of airplanes. We can try to deceive others about our strength and we can expect to be deceived in return.

Would Have To Disperse Cities

"With this course we must expect to spend $300,000,000,000 within the next five years, and disperse our cities and our citizens across the country in a program that will cost just about as much as World War II.

"The second possible course is for the United States to attack at once or within the near future before any other nation has time to develop its bomb.

"It would be simple for the United States to destroy all the large cities of all the world with present supply of atom bombs. But what then? Are we prepared to police the world?

"The third course," he continued, "is the most difficult to obtain. But if we had a world government as stable as that of the United States, the manufacture of bombs could be prevented just as it could be prevented by Federal police within the United States itself.

"We do not have such a world government, thence we must secure on the international level control of the atomic bomb. This cannot be done without sacrificing something that we don't want to sacrifice, but it should be said that other countries likewise will have to sacrifice the same thing."

Baruch Report Called Basis

The University of Chicago scientist warned against being "deceived by a false control. We must establish international authority on the basis of the Baruch report. . . . It is the only way we can have any possibility of avoiding World War III."

He said Russia would have to "submit to inspection and control, a thing I think she does not like. Britain, with her policy of playing off one country against another, will have to change that policy.

"If we follow this one course we have some chance of controlling the manufacture of atomic bombs. From the other two we have no chance whatsoever."

RADAR HARMLESS

Denver (A. P.).—Relax, war wives. Exposure to radar waves won't leave your G. I. sterile, balding or anti-social.

Capt. Meyer Berke of Lowry Field gave sterility tests to thirty enlisted men who handle aircraft radar. He found them all perfectly normal.

Reports rose during the war that radar waves would produce all sorts of ill effects on humans.

One woman complained her husband had nightmares after exposure to the waves.

Another, whose hubby wrote that he had to climb over radar antennae to make repairs, said his photograph showed clearly "he is becoming as bald as an admiral."

Scientists took no stock in these notions but air force surgeons at Duke University made some experiments on guinea pigs, anyway, which seemed to thrive on their diet of electrons.

PARLEY BEGUN BY RED CROSS

Truman Welcomes Delegates At 1st Convention Since '41

Philadelphia, June 18 (AP)—President Truman held out new challenges and greater opportunities for the American Red Cross today and declared it can become a great force for unity among the peoples of the world.

Basil O'Connor, national chairman, read Mr. Truman's letter of welcome to more than 4,000 delegates at the opening of the first Red Cross convention since 1941.

At the same time O'Connor told the gathering in flag-draped Convention Hall that the organization is still rendering service to approximately 1,500,000 men overseas in the armed forces and that it will be unable to return to a peacetime budget for an indefinite period.

"Sobering Responsibilities"

Despite its tremendous war contributions, President Truman said, the emblem of the Red Cross—by reason of its global work—"can mean even more in help and service to individuals," that this broader role "provides new challenges and greater opportunities and along with them, heavier and more sobering responsibilities."

In the continuance of diligent work toward a just and enduring peace, he stated, "It is very heartening to observe that however peoples may differ on political and economic issues, under the banner of the Red Cross they can unite for the betterment of mankind."

Keynoting the four-day, twenty-first annual convention, O'Connor called for education of the public not to expect an immediate and drastic reduction of Red Cross wartime operating expenses.

"Glorious Achievement"

He said there were approximately 5,300 Red Cross workers serving service men in 780 camps, hospitals and clubs abroad on May 31, with installations and personnel being reduced as quickly as possible, "consistent with the desires and requirements of our military authorities."

The war raised the annual roll call from about $8,000,000 to last year's fund campaign of $235,000,000 and this year's $117,00,000,

O'Connor said. He termed Red Cross war work "a glorious achievement," adding:

"Now we must face, indeed we are in the midst of, a reconversion period to meet the continued responsibilities of our wartime services and the expansion of our traditional peacetime programs to meet more adequately the needs of all our people."

The national chairman said the Red Cross has a "vital and creative role to play in world affairs, and the American Red Cross as a member shares in that responsibility."

2-Year Supply Of Plasma

The convention heard from Dr. Courtney Smith, of Washington, that the Red Cross has on hand for free distribution to hospitals and physicians enough blood plasma to last for two years.

The national medical director said 1,250,000 packages of blood plasma had been declared surplus by the Army and Navy.

"Blood plasma," asserted Dr. Smith, "now can be standard equipment for every ambulance, can be carried in every physician's car and can be made available in every hospital free of charge to treat the injured."

The Junior Red Cross, meeting in conjunction with the national convention, received special tribute from O'Connor for its work, including the providing of medical supplies out of its own fund for 3,000,000 children in Europe, plus educational supplies, food, clothing, toys and 500,000 gift boxes and the international correspondence project to give children of other lands a better understanding of this country.

Delegates representing 20,000,000 juniors were urged by Livingston L. Blair, vice chairman in charge of school and college activities of the national organization, to make their theme the combatting of ignorance which leads to bigotry, hatred and selfishness.

TRUMAN HAILS RED CROSS AS WORLD FORCE

Declares Its War Work Can Be Exceeded by Its Uniting of Peoples.

4000 ATTEND CONVENTION

O'Connor Tells Delegates There Will Be No Quick Return to Peacetime Budget.

Philadelphia, June 18 (A. P.).—The Red Cross, despite its tremendous war contributions, can become an even greater force for unity among the people of the world, President Truman declared in a message read today at opening of the twenty-first convention of the national organization in flag-decked Convention Hall. Unable to attend because of pressure of official duties, the President sent a letter of welcome which was read to the more than 4,000 delegates by the national chairman, Basil O'Connor.

Commenting on the worldwide character of its work, Mr. Truman said: "The emblem of the Red Cross can mean even more in help and service to individuals. It can become a great force for unity among peoples of the world. This broader role provides new challenges and greater opportunities and along with them, heavier and more sobering responsibilities.

"In the continuance of our diligent work toward a just and enduring peace, it is very heartening to observe that however peoples may differ on political and economic issues, under the banner of the Red Cross they can unite for the betterment of mankind."

No Peacetime Budget.

O'Connor said earlier that the Red Cross will not be able to return to a peacetime budget for an indefinite period and urged that the public be educated not to expect an immediate and drastic reduction of its wartime operating expenses.

O'Connor said the Red Cross has a unique position in the world.

"No national boundaries are closed; no political considerations intrude; race and religion are not obstacles; the issue of national security which forever plagues the efforts of nations to develop a framework of peace is no barrier," he asserted.

He praised the work of the American Red Cross during the war and termed it "a glorious achievement," but he said, "now we must face, indeed we are in the midst of, a reconversion period to meet the continuing responsibilities of our wartime services and the expansion of our traditional peacetime programs to meet more adequately the needs of all our people."

He said the American Red Cross would "not be able to reduce to a total peacetime budget as soon as many expect us to." He pointed out the Red Cross is rendering service to approximately 1,500,000 men overseas. To serve these men the Red Cross is maintaining 5,300 workers serving in 780 camps, hospitals and clubs.

William J. Norton of Detroit, executive vice-president of the Michigan Children's Fund, told the convention: "We have to face the fact that the honeymoon between the Red Cross and the total population is ended.

"A recent occurence illuminates the accuracy of that. Those who worked through the March fund-raising effort encountered a widespread, vicious and annoying whispering campaign revolving about and antagonistic to our overseas service to the armed forces. These stories were untrue and unfair but they were told and they will reappear, or if they don't others of like nature will. The American people are quarreling and among themselves, and we need to be on guard lest we become involved needlessly in some of those quarrels."

SENATE UNIT BACKS CLARK PROMOTION

Overrides Objections Of Group Of Texas War Veterans

Washington, June 18 (AP)—Overriding objections of a group of Texas war veterans, the Senate Military Committee today recommended confirmation of Gen. Mark Wayne Clark as a permanent major general in the regular Army. Chairman Thomas (D., Utah) said the action was unanimous.

The Texans testified that Clark wasted lives of the 36th Division in two futile headlong attacks across the Rapido River, in Italy, against strongly held German positions early in 1944.

Thomas said the committee spent nearly two hours discussing the Rapido River charges and agreed that the question as to military leadership could not be decided.

Record Excellent

Such a question, he said, could be decided only by military experts and could "be argued for a very, very long time."

Thomas said Clark's entire army record had been examined and found excellent. The committee declared him "worthy of promotion."

The veterans complained about their heavy losses in the Rapido attacks which, they said, Clark ordered contrary to advice of subordinate officers directly in command of the division.

On this point, Thomas said there had been similar heavy losses in other engagements of the recent war and that Clark, although commanding the 5th Army, also was "carrying out orders" of a higher headquarters.

Speeds Other Actions

Favorable action on Clark cleared the way for Senate confirmation of a long list of permanent army promotions for top-ranking war generals. It had been stalled in the Senate committee since last October.

Clark, now a temporary four-star general and highest ranking United States officer in occupational forces in Austria, was the final name on a list of ten generals nominated for permanent rank of major general.

There were 27 officers recommended for permanent rank of brigadier, all of whom were major or lieutenant generals during the war.

Two Not Regular Army

President Truman's original list last October was first delayed, because two of the generals, James H. Doolittle and Raymond S. McClain, were not regular army officers, and three, Curtis E. Le May, Lauris Norstad and Hoyt S. Vandenberg, had not served the required time.

Special legislation was started through Congress to allow exemptions for these five and the President again sent up the promotion list in January.

Chairman Thomas said the enabling legislation became law last March but the entire list was delayed until today by protests of the Texans before both House and Senate Military committees. It was held up to assure Clark of his place in the army list and because all officers involved held higher wartime rank.

Patch Dies

Meanwhile, Lieut. Gen. Alexander Patch, who had been recommended for permanent rank of brigadier general, died and his name was taken from the promotion list.

Following is the list of permanent promotions sent to the Senate with present temporary wartime rank:

To be major generals:

Gen. Courtney H. Hodges, Gen. Jacob L. Devers, Gen. George C. Kenney, Gen. Carl Spaatz, Lieut. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, Gen. Thomas T. Handy, Lieut. Gen. Walter B. Smith, Gen. Mark W. Clark and Lieut. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr.

To be brigadier generals:

Lieut. Gen. Wilhelm D. Styer, Lieut. Gen. Harold L. George, Lieut. Gen. William H. Simpson, Lieut. Gen. James H. Doolittle, Lieut. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, Lieut. Gen. Richard K. Sutherland, Lieut. Gen. Leonard T. Gerow, Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, Lieut. Gen. John K. Cannon, Lieut. Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, Lieut. Gen. Oscar W. Griswold, Lieut. Gen. Walton H. Walker, Lieut. Gen. Wade H. Haislip, Lieut. Gen. Joseph L. Collins, Lieut. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, Lieut. Gen. Alvan C. Gillem, Jr., Lieut. Gen. Barton K. Yount, Lieut. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Lieut. Gen. Leroy Lutes, Lieut. Gen. John R. Hodge, Lieut. Gen. John E. Hull, Lieut. Gen. Raymond S. McLain, Maj. Gen. Manton S. Eddy, Maj. Gen. Curtis E. Le May, Maj. Gen. Lauris Norstad.

SENATE GROUP FOR PROMOTION OF GEN. CLARK

Military Committee Backs Advance to Permanent Major-General.

Washington, June 18 (A. P.).—The Senate Military Committee recommended today that Gen. Mark Clark be promoted to the permanent rank of Major-General despite objections from some men who fought under him.

A group of Texas war veterans had contended that lives of their comrades were wasted in the Clark-directed battle of the Rapido River in Italy.

Senator Elbert Thomas (D., Utah), chairman of the Military Committee, said the action was taken after two hours of closed door discussion.

"Without getting into the merits of the Rapido River crossing it was the opinion of this committee that Gen. Clark was worthy of promotion," Thomas told reporters. "He has a very fine record.

Clark now holds the temporary wartime rank of a full general and is head of the United States occupation forces in Austria.

Veterans of the Thirty-sixth Division Association had told both Senate and House committees that Clark was unworthy of promotion. The Thirty-sixth served under Clark in the Italian campaign and suffered heavy losses early in 1944 attempting to cross the Rapido.

These veterans said that Clark, then commander of the Fifth Army, ignored warnings of subordinate officers and twice directed frontal attacks that resulted in heavy losses to the troops, largely former Texas National Guardsmen.

Expert Opinion to Decide.

Chairman Thomas said members of the committee felt that any decision about the Rapido action would "hinge on expert opinion as to whether the General made a mistake or he did not make a mistake in ordering the crossing."

"It would be argued for a very, very long time," he added. "As to the losses in the Thirty-sixth Division they were heavy, but no heavier than in other battles of the recent war." He said that while Clark was in command of those forces he also "was carrying out orders" from a higher headquarters and "doing that which he probably had to do."

30-24-3395

"This was done in the same spirit that any general who has to take chances takes chances," the Senator said.

Clark's present duty as well as his "exceedingly good Army record," Thomas added, influenced the committee action.

A long list of permanent promotions of general officers had been delayed in the Senate committee, pending the decision on Clark, so that relative seniority could be maintained. Most of the officers involved now hold higher temporary ranks and no loss of pay was involved.

President Truman first submitted the promotion list last October, but it was discovered that five other generals had not served in grade long enough.

SAYS BRITISH LOAN MEANS EXPORT CUT

Washington, June 18 (A. P.).—Approval of the proposed $3,750,000,000 loan to Great Britain "would mean financing the destruction of our export grain markets," Representative August H. Andresen (R.-Minn.) said today in the House.

He said that, while Congress is considering the loan, British Food Minister John Strachey and other officials are in Canada attempting to negotiate a long term contract for Canadian wheat. He added:

"These bilateral British Empire negotiations will, when completed, effectively close the European export market to the United States grain producers.

"It is about time the United States Government required guarantees for the protection of our producers before discussing international loans."

Draft At Age Of 18 After Oct. 1 Is Backed By Key Conferee

Washington, June 18 (AP)—From a ship in mid-Pacific bound for the atomic-bomb test, Representative Andrews (R., N.Y.) flashed an apparently decisive vote tonight for drafting 18-year-olds again after October 1.

His radio message from the U.S.S. Panamint breaks a 3-3 tie among the House members of a congressional conference committee, of which he is a member. The committee in now expected to approve the plan for inducting 18-year-olds, barring unforeseen developments.

This will clear the way for final agreement on the disputed draft-extension bill when the conference committee meets again Thursday.

Andrews's message directed that his proxy be cast in favor of a compromise which the Senate members of the committee proposed and on which his House colleagues split.

Compromise Explained

It provides that induction of 18-year-olds, now suspended, may be resumed after October 1 if the President certifies they are needed, although they may serve only in this country until they become 19.

The proxy which Andrews had left behind when he departed for the Bikini atoll bomb test had provided for his vote to be cast in favor of drafting 18 and 19-year-olds "without restriction."

As a result, his colleagues cast the vote against the compromise, although the choice at that stage lay between drafting teen-agers with restrictions or not drafting them at all.

The unusual situation came about in this way:

The House voted to exempt teen-agers from the draft. The Senate voted to induct them.

14 Conferees In All

In the conference committee, the House conferees held out for the flat exemption.

The Senate conferees proposed the compromise.

There are seven Senate conferees and seven House conferees, and each group votes as a unit. The House conferees voted 3 to 3 against the Senate proposal.

The House conferees had offered a compromise of their own. It would permit the induction of 19-year-olds but exempt 18-year-olds. The Senate conferees opposed this, 4 to 3.

Chairman Thomas (D., Utah) of the Senate Military Committee was among the three favoring the House compromise.

Both sides agreed that all other Senate-House differences can be quickly adjusted.

Pay Boosts Voted

Senate conferees are expected to accept the more liberal pay increases voted by the House. The Senate limited its increases to enlisted personnel, while the House voted to boost pay for all officers and men from 10 to 50 per cent.

At present the draft is operating under a temporary extension to July 1, by which both 18 and 19 year-olds were exempted. Conferees have agreed that any extension will be limited to nine months, or March 31, 1947.

THREE ADMIRALS RETIRE FROM NAVY

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP) The Navy announced today the retirement of three admirals, two commodores and 17 captains.

Heading the list is Vice Admiral William L. Calhoun, Coronado, Calif., who served during the war as commander of the Pacific fleet service force. Calhoun will be 62 next month—the compulsory retirement age.

Two young admirals to go are Rear Admirals Carl H. Jones, Atmore, Ala., and Vincent R. Murphy, Paris, Tenn. Jones is 53 today and now commandant of the Norfolk (Va.), naval base. Murphy, 50, commanded the battleship Alabama in the western Pacific.

The commodores are Carols A. Dailey, 59, deputy commandant of the 9th naval district, Great Lakes, Ill., and Wallace M. Dillon, 51 next month, commander of Naval Air Training base, Corpus Christi, Texas.

Dailey was executive officer of the cruiser Houston when President Roosevelt made several cruises on her, and in World War Two saw action from the Solomons to Sicily.

Dillon has been a naval aviator for 25 years, served on the old carrier Langley, and later commanded her modern namesake as part of Task Force 58.

PATTERSON BACKS NEW MERGER PLAN

White House Releases Letter But None From Forrestal

Washington, June 18 (AP)—President Truman got a pledge of "wholehearted support" of his Army-Navy merger plan from the Secretary of War, Robert P. Patterson, today but a parallel expression from the Secretary of the Navy, James Forrestal, was missing.

Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, made public Patterson's letter and said, in reply to a question, that no such letter had been received from Forrestal.

Navy officials have made no comment since the President laid down his specific recommendations Saturday, although Mr. Truman said at that time that he had been assured of the support of both Army and Navy heads.

Forrestal Out Of Town

Forrestal was out of town today.

Patterson's letter to Mr. Truman said:

"I have received your joint letter of 15 June, 1946, addressed to me and to the Secretary of the Navy.

"I believe the changes you outlined will provide an economical and effective organization for the military services and again pledge my wholehearted support, and that of the War Department, to carrying out its provisions. You can count upon us to furnish any assistance in any way that you may deem advisable."

Outline Of President's Plan

The President's plan calls for a single secretary of defense in the Cabinet, with subordinate secretaries for the Army, Navy and Air Forces not of Cabinet rank. The Navy would retain its Marine Corps but would lose most of its land-based aviation to an autonomous air forces. A proposal for a single over-all chief of staff was eliminated in favor of continuing the present joint chiefs of staff.

The Senate Military Committee is revising a bill it previously had approved to bring it in line with the President's proposals, but chances of action at this session of Congress appear remote.

WAR ASSETS SCANDAL SEEN

Wiley Believes It Will Outdo Teapot Dome Episode

Washington, June 18 (AP)—Senator Wiley (R., Wis.) expressed belief today that "a worse scandal than Teapot Dome" is involved in War Assets Administration handling of priorities for surplus property.

Wiley asserted WAA was guilty of "flagrant violations of the law with respect to priorities for veterans . . . and educational institutions." His reference was to electronics equipment.

Testifying before the Senate Small Business Committee, Wiley declared that surplus disposal is "crying to high Heaven for full exposure" and constitutes a "national disgrace."

Answer Promised

Maj. Gen. Glen E. Edgerton, associate WAA administrator, told the committee he would answer in two or three days. His chief, Lieut. Gen. E. B. Gregory, had already left after testifying he is "not altogether satisfied" with some phases of the program and that steps are being taken to speed sales.

Gregory reported that surplus sales in May were $824,000,000 compared with $526,000,000 in March. Sales to veterans of consumer goods rose from $22,000,000 in March to $47,000,000 in May.

Wiley declared that the administration's handling of surplus electronics and communication equipment disposal was "wretched."

Cites "Commercial Crowd"

"A commercial crowd," he said, "has taken over WAA's electronics program and has ruthlessly operated it in a manner harmful to the best interests of our country.

"This commercial crowd has thumbed its nose at the United States Congress; . . . it has helped to sabotage the national defense of our country, and has engaged in deceit and downright lying in its advice to General Gregory."

Wiley declared WAA had "repeatedly written me" that a liaison agent of the Office of Education had screened all declarations of surplus property in order to set aside materials requested by schools.

Told To Keep Off

Yet, he added, he was reliably informed that this agent "has been told in no uncertain terms to keep off the premises of WAA, which means, in effect, that there is not such screening of materials needed by schools."

The Senator said a letter from WAA on May 23 advised him all orders of priority claimants were being filled, but he charged:

"At the very time this letter was written, there were piled up in the electronics and communications branch of WAA thousands and thousands of veterans' certificates for priority for electronic goods, which had been unopened, unacknowledged and unanswered by WAA, in addition to hundreds upon hundreds of schools' requests similarly not acted upon."

Wiley said Gregory had been "misadvised" by electronics officials.

Veterans hoping to set up in business, farming or another profession with the aid of surplus property were warned that only a "relatively few" could be helped.

VETERANS PENSION SURVEY IS URGED IN PROBE REPORT

Truman Endorses Proposals Submitted by Special Investigating Committee.

HANDICAPS SEEN

Present Policy Scored as Placing Premium on Continued Disability.

WASHINGTON, June 18. — (AP) An overhauling of the veterans' pension system was recommended tonight by a special Presidential committee and endorsed by President Truman.

The committee, headed by Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of Princeton university, found that an "receives a premium, from a under the present policy the veter- monetary standpoint, when his disability is increased." It declared that this "presents an almost insurmountable phychological handicap to rehabilitation."

"The present method of financial compensation needs careful reevaluation," the report continued, "particularly in regard to the wisdom of making lump sum settlements in certain types of cases.

Rehabilitation Needed

"Compensation for service-connected disabilities must include not only pensions but opportunities for re-education, retraining, and rehabilitation. It is recommended that a study of the entire veterans' pension program be initiated in the Veterans administration."

The President endorsed the proposed inquiry but took issue with another recommendation of the committee, which he appointed Dec. 12 to study the medical care provided by various government services and recommend improvements.

This was that the Veterans administration be authorized to provide out-patient treatment for veterans with non-service connected disabilities after they have been treated in veterans hospitals.

The committee said the legal prohibition against out-patient follow-up in such cases "account in large measure for the inordinately long hospitalization period in Veterans administration hospitals."

"For example," the report noted, "the average hospital time for Tonsillectomy in a civilian hospital is two days; in a veterans' hospital, eight days."

Sees Loss of Hospital Days

The committee concluded that "thousands of hospital days" could be saved if the law were changed to authorize further treatment after discharge from the hospital.

Mr. Truman objected that "the committee proposal would not in the long run accomplish its proposed objective." Moreover, he wrote, "with our present need for full care to veterans with service-connected disabilities, I should not like to over-burden the Veterans administration home-town care programs."

The report said that "the present method of providing medical care by a system of paralleling government agencies (Army, Navy, Veterans and Public Health service) is considered by many informed persons to be inefficient ineffective and extravagant." It recommended "a thorough and bold restudy."

Truman Favors Survey

Mr. Truman agreed that the survey should be made but directed that it wait "until after the Army-Navy merger issues are resolved."

The chief executive's observations on the report were made in a letter to Budget Director Harold D. Smith directing him to transmit it to the agencies concerned and to see that other recommendations by the committee are put into effect as quickly as possible.

These include:

1. Establishment of internships in VA hospitals.

2. Extension of the period of post-graduate training which the VA provides for its professional personnel. It is limited now to 90 days.

3. Organization of a joint committee of the Veterans administration, the Army, Navy and the Public Health service to draft a common system of medical records and disease nomenclature.

4. Improvement of the medical libraries at veterans hospitals with books now surplus in Army and Navy hospitals.

SECURITY BENEFITS SOUGHT FOR VETS

WASHINGTON, June 18 — (AP) The House Ways and Means committee voted today to blanket the families of all World War II veterans under the Social Security old age and survivors insurance program, without cost to the veterans, for a period of three years.

Moreover, the committee ordered the preparation of a bill for a far-reaching overhauling of the Social Security law.

Expects Action Soon

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) told newsmen he expects Congress to act on this legislation before it adjourns for a summer recess. The committee already has approved these changes in the law:

1. A 50 percent increase next January in the old age and survivors insurance tax, from the present one percent to 1.5 percent on both employes' pay and employers' payrolls. Proponents of this change contended the boost is necessary to keep the security fund solvent.

2. Blanketing of over 200,000 maritime workers under the unemployment compensation provisions of the law, with jobless maritime workers to receive benefits at a rate and duration as prescribed by the states of their residence.

Extension to Farm Workers

Yet to be voted upon by the committee, as part of the security law revision bill, are proposals for extending the old age and survivors insurance to some 20,000,000 persons not now in covered employment, including farm workers, self employes and domestic workers.

If the House and Senate approve the committee action on veterans security insurance, the widow, children and dependent parents of a veteran who dies within three years would receive approximately $25 a month each.

Such benefits would run for children until they become 18 years old, and for the widow until the youngest child reaches 18.

ARMY CIVIL WORKS NOW IN HIGH GEAR

Washington, June 18 (A. P.).—Army engineers let contracts for more than $91,000,000 in rivers, harbors and flood control work between V-J day and June 1 to swing their civil works program back into peacetime operation.

In a report today on the awards, Lieut.-Gen. Raymond A. Wheeler, chief of engineers, said invitations also are out for bids on additional projects previously authorized by Congress.

And Wheeler said the program will be further augmented when $308,845,250 in funds for similar projects becomes available on July 1. The money was appropriated during this session of Congress for the 1947 fiscal year.

Contracts already let cover 334 projects in thirty-nine States, and range from about $10,000 in some States to a total of $21,441,082 in Oklahoma. The largest individual contract was for $13,281,888, involving the Allatoona dam and power project on the Etowah River in Georgia.

GERMANS' HUNGER HELD MORAL PERIL

Washington, June 18 (A. P.).—Dr. Otto Pipe of Princeton Seminary told a Senate Judiciary sub-committee today that famine and disease in Germany threaten to undermine the morals of American occupation troops.

The teacher of theology, testifying on a bill that would authorize the War Department to supply inhabitants of occupied countries with a minimum of 1,550 food calories daily, said returning soldiers had told him that crime conditions in Germany were affecting American troops.

"Hunger has driven hundreds of thousands of women of the occupied countries into prostitution," Dr. Piper declared. "When you have slum conditions, you have vice and crime. Add famine to that and the situation is accentuated. It is affecting our G. I.'s.

He said many occupation soldiers had come to regard German women as "fair prey," and that this attitude could not be easily converted when they return.

James M. Read of the Friends Committee on National Legislation, also indorsed the bill.

HOUSE GROUP APPROVES MILITARY AID PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—The House Rules committee today approved a bill for a broad program of military cooperation with other nations of the western hemisphere.

The action clears the way for early House consideration of the measure, probably next week.

The legislation would permit the President to transfer armaments to the other American countries, help train their personnel and repair their equipment.

VA FUND BILL VOTED

WASHINGTON, June 18 — (AP) A $661,847,988 deficiency appropriation bill carrying $416,000,000 for the Veterans Administration was sent to President Truman today as the House accepted minor Senate amendments. The bill also carries $92,500,000 to defray the cost of returning for burial the bodies of service men who died abroad.

Passes Bill Cutting Debt Limit

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—The Senate passed and sent to President Truman today a bill reducing the public debt limit from $300,000,000,000 to $275,000,000,000.

3 Named for Manila Ceremony

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP).—President Truman today designated three government officials to represent him at the Manila ceremony July 4 inaugurating Philippine independence. They are Postmaster General Robert E. Hannegan, W. Stuart Symington, Assistant Secretary of War for Air, and J. Weldon Jones, Assistant Director of the Budget Bureau. They will go with a committee representing the Senate and the House. The President also sent to the Senate today the nomination of Paul V. McNutt to be the first United States Ambassador to the Philippines. He told a news conference last week that Mr. McNutt would be nominated for this post. Mr. McNutt is now High Commissioner to the Philippines.

A. A. F. Honors 3 Scientists

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Three civilian scientists received decorations today from General Carl A. Spaatz for war-time contributions to aeronautical research for the Army Air Forces. They are Dr. Theodore von Karman, director of the Guggenheim Aeronautical Laboratory at the California Institute of Technology; Dr. Frank L. Wattendorf, principal aeronautical engineer at Wright Field, Ohio, and Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, associate director of the Bureau of Standards.

Army Names 18 Psychiatrists

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Appointment of eighteen civilian psychiatrists as consultants to the Secretary of War as part of the Army Medical Corps' peacetime program, was announced today.

FOOD SHORTAGE FACES NATION FOR LONG TIME

Anderson Says American Diet Will Be Short of Fats, Meat and Butter.

Washington, June 18 (A. P.).—Americans are in for a slimmer diet during the next twelve months compared with amounts they ate in the past year. This advance picture of the nation's food supply was provided today by Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson.

His report said, nevertheless, that "on an over-all basis, civilian per capita consumption is expected to continue at a high level, considerably above pre-war."

Taking into account present production prospects and military and foreign demands, Anderson said that there would be less meats, poultry and eggs, wheat products, dried fruits and dry peas, but more canned fruits and juices and more canned vegetables and vegetable juices. The supply of food fats and oils—now far short of demand—is expected to be about the same.

The Secretary looked only six months ahead in forecasting supplies of dairy products. He predicted a very short supply of butter, and about the same amounts of cheese, canned milk and dried milk as were available in the same period last year.

He said that butter supplies might drop to a monthly average of 60,000,000 pounds by October—a figure which officials said would be less than half the demand.

The per capita meat supply is expected to drop to between 135 and 140 pounds for the next 12 months, compared with an estimated 145 to 150 pounds in the current 12-month period. The secretary said that meat production was expected to decline at least 9 per cent because of the short feed grain supply.

Looking beyond the coming winter, Anderson said this year's corn crop will greatly influence future meat production. Corn is the major livestick feed grain.

Anderson said his preview of the food supply situation was prepared as the basis for discussion at a conference of State and Federal Agriculture Department

SAYS ADMINISTRATION SPURS A FOOD CRISIS

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Representative August H. Andresen, Republican, of Minnesota, told the House today that failure of Administration officials to make proper plans was "bringing the country face to face with the most serious food crisis in history."

He also asserted that "foreign interests" acquired food at OPA prices here and that it was being resold "at fancy black market prices to people in other countries."

Mr. Andresen said that, instead of making adequate preparations immediately after last year's big harvest, it was not until the middle of January that "drastic action was taken to curtail domestic consumption of wheat, corn and feed grains."

The Minnesotan, a member of the House Agriculture Committee, said President Truman and the State Department failed to inform the Agriculture Department until after Jan. 15 of food commitments made at Potsdam to care for starving people in the world.

Since V-J Day, the Export-Import Bank has made foreign loans totaling about $3,500,000,000, much of it being spent in the United States for purchases of food, Mr. Andresen asserted, and added:

"I know as a matter of fact that every flour mill in the country was besieged with orders for flour from the British and other countries and cash was paid on the barrel head.

"All of the food acquired by foreign interests was purchased at the OPA ceiling price—and we have authentic information that foreign buyers of our food sold it to their own people or in other countries at prices which realized tremendous profits for the sellers in dealing with hungry people."

Most Buyers Seen Relying Upon Wages, Credit

Washington, June 18 (AP)—The great mass of American consumers will have to rely on current earnings and credit to finance the heavy postwar buying they plan, a Federal survey indicated today.

The study, made by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics for the Federal Reserve Board, presented this picture:

Two out of every five families have, on the average, only $40 each saved in such quickly cashable assets as savings bonds, other securities and bank deposits.

This group, although accounting for 40 per cent of the nation's families, came out of the war years with only one per cent of all such assets in the country.

The Other Groups

The next 30 per cent of the families, occupying the middle ground on the national scale, accounted for 11½ per cent of the ready assets.

In contrast, the top 30 per cent of the nation's families emerged holding 87½ per cent of the quick assets, with each family credited with at least $1,100.

And the topmost 10 per cent of the latter group represented 60 per cent of all such national assets, averaging $10,500 per family.

Conclusions Drawn

A Federal Reserve official said the survey findings pointed to the following conclusions:

1. The concentration of savings in the hands of a small number of families makes them a considerably less important factor in financing consumer purchases than originally anticipated.

2. The mass of families, lacking substantial savings, must depend on current earnings to pay for food, clothing and other ordinary expenses of living.

For the more expensive items, such as houses, automobiles, refrigerators and the like, a major proportion of families will therefore have to resort to borrowing or installment-buying and other forms of credit.

More Such Buying Already

Already, the Federal Reserve Board said in another report, an increasingly heavier proportion of buying is being done with borrowed money or credit, and the tendency will probably be accentuated as the higher-cost items become more available.

The board indicated that it would continue its current credit controls to prevent an increase of "inflationary pressures making for a higher cost of living."

The survey itself pointed to possible inflationary pressures in investment fields—real estate and securities—because of concentration of savings in the hands of small numbers not likely to need them for consumer purchases.

On the other hand, it reported that the "overwhelming majority" of people with savings had no expectation of spending their "nest-egg" on consumer goods this year.

PARLEY TO DRAFT NEW OPA MEASURE WILL OPEN TODAY

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—Housing Administrator Wilson Wyatt warned today that a "breakdown" of price controls will wreck the housing program.

And acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson declared that provisions in the pending OPA bill which would alter government controls on grain will endanger exports for famine relief.

As these officials expressed their concern, Senator Barkley (D-Ky) called the Senate and House conference committee to meet tomorrow to [illegible] on the final version of the OPA bill despite the absence of one member, Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich).

30.24-3397

The price control act ends June 30. Senate and House have passed differing bills to keep it alive for awhile, minus the bulk of its wartime controls.

Retention of price ceilings on butter and pork was suggested as a point to start bargaining. One key legislator sounded out Republican sentiment on keeping them and eliminating on July 1 controls on beef, lamb, poultry, eggs, and all dairy products except butter.

Butter is scarce in most of the world. An argument for keeping controls on pork is that it would discourage use of livestock feed to fatten hogs.

Without mentioning specifically the legislation before Congress, Wyatt said in a statement that a "breakdown" of price controls would mean that the plan for 2,700,000 homes by 1948 "would be unattainable."

raqoifortenl ionoth

Acheson told a news conference that if government controls on grain are removed, Federal agencies waould lose their export supplies and find it difficult to replace them.

Acheson said the state department is concerned because lifting of ceilings on meat, poultry and dairy products would channel grain into feed while ceilings remain on grain. It is concerned also, he added, over a provision that would let the Secretary of Agriculture draw on grain for export and use it for animal and poultry feed in an emergency.

CHEAP HOUSING LINKED TO OPA

Wyatt Holds Price Control Essential for Vets.

Washington, June 18 (A. P.).—Wilson W. Wyatt, National Housing Administrator, said today that a breakdown of price controls almost certainly would eliminate the hope of producing moderate or low cost homes in the next year or two.

"It would mean inevitably that the veterans' emergency housing program, as now planned, would be unattainable," he said in a statement. The program calls for 2,700,000 new homes by 1948.

Without any direct reference to OPA extension legislation now being considered by a House-Senate committee, he continued:

"When we make a decision on price controls, we are deciding among other things whether veterans, as well as many others, are going to obtain satisfactory housing in a reasonable length of time or whether they are going to have a double-up in crowded, make-shift quarters, or wander from place to place for what may well be a good many years to come."

Meanwhile President Truman reiterated today his full support of the Senate-passed Wagner-Ellender-Taft long-range housing bill.

Senators Ellender (D.-La.) and Wagner (D.-N. Y.) gave the President's view after a White House conference. The bill is now pending in the House Banking and Currency Committee.

Philippines was the third English-necessary to follow up the emergency housing program," Ellender told reporters.

The bill would unify the various housing agencies, provided for government insurance of as much as 95 per cent of some small housing loans and set up a system of Federal-local participation in large housing developments.

TRUMAN FOR HOUSING BILL

Reiterates His Full Support of Measure Passed by Senate

WASHINGTON, June 18 (AP)—President Truman today reiterated his full support of the Senate-passed Wagner-Ellender-Taft long-range housing bill.

Senators Ellender, Democrat, of Louisiana, and Wagner, Democrat, of New York, gave the President's view after a White House conference. The bill is now pending in the House Banking and Currency Committee.

"This legislation is absolutely necessary to follow up the emergency housing program," Mr. Ellender told reporters.

The bill would unify the various housing agencies, provide for Government insurance of as much as 95 per cent of some small housing loans and set up a system of Federal-local participation in large housing developments.

ARGUMENTS END IN KELLEMS SUIT

Decision Promised Today in $1,500,000 Action Against CIO Group.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—(AP) Attorneys argued in Federal court today whether scathing articles about Miss Vivien Kellems, Westport, Conn., industrialist, in the CIO Labor Herald in 1944 were libelous, or whether they were justified. Decision was promised tomorrow.

At one point during final arguments in the $1,500,000 suit Federal Judge Louis Goodman, who is trying the case without a jury, commented that he thought the paper "perhaps went a little too far in describing Miss Kellems' activities as treasonable."

"But I doubt if anyone was misled by them," he added.

Miss Kellems' attorney, Herbert Clark, contended the paper's only defense against the libel action was to prove that Miss Kellems' conduct actually would warrant conviction of treason.

Questioned by the court, Clark admitted that Miss Kellems had written a letter to Count Frederick Karl Von Zedlitz, representative of a German metal syndicate in Argentina, after his name had been placed on the U. S. State department blacklist in 1944.

Clark argued that the personal attack upon Miss Kellems in the paper's description of her relations with Von Zedlitz went beyond legitimate news reporting.

Clark said the paper falsely referred to Von Zedlitz as "a leading Nazi operator in Argentina." He declared the count was not a Nazi.

"Well, he was a German allien enemy," said the court.

Clark told the court Miss Kellems had never failed to pay her taxes and that her correspondence with Von Zedlitz was entirely legal prior to his being placed upon the blacklist.

Richard Glastein, attorney for the CIO council and its officers defendant in the suit, declared the articles failed to meet four tests of a libelous publication. He said they were not false, unprivileged, malicious nor damaging to her reputation.

Attorneys for Miss Kellems slashed the list of defendants in the action to six from more than a score.

Harry Bridges, west coast longshore labor leader, and the Political Action committee were among those dropped from the case.

Still named in the suit are the California CIO council and its principal officers at time of publication in 1944.

U. S. S. West Virginia Inactivated First Battleship Put in 'Moth Balls'

SEATTLE, June 18—(AP) The U.S.S. West Virginia, the gallant battleship that came out of the mud of Pearl Harbor to fight her way to Tokyo, was formally inactivated today, first of the United States Navy's big battlewagons to be put away in "moth balls."

Scrubbed and painted, there was no trace of the blasting from six aerial torpedoes and two 500-pound bombs that sent her to the bottom of Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

"I regret the necessity for having had to help inactivate a battleship with such an honorable name and record as the West Virginia," said Commander Richard S. Andrews of Santa Fe., N. M., skipper of the ship, in a prepared address.

After Pearl Harbor the West Virginia was salvaged and rebuilt, returning to action against the Japs in October, 1944, when Leyte was invaded. She scored hits on a Japanese battleship which was sunk in Surigao straits in the Second Battle of the Philippines, and then moved on to participate in the invasions of Luzon, Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

At Okinawa the venerable battlewagon suffered her only damage due to enemy action in the far Pacific campaign when a suicide plane crashed her deck, killing four men.

The West Virginia was at Okinawa when the Japanese quit in August of last year and she steamed into Japanese waters with the advance occupation fleet, entering Tokyo bay two days before the surrender ceremonies took place aboard the U.S.S. Missouri.

Three men from the Bridgeport area served aboard the U.S.S. West Virginia during all her war actions from Leyte to Japan. They are William Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chris L. Nelson of 365 Clinton avenue, who attained the rank of lieutenant commander before he returned to civilian life; James A. Schembari of 128 Park place, and William J. Crudo of 386 Burritt avenue, Stratford.

Leonard E. Gilbert of 258 Fairview avenue, Fairfield, assistant city editor of The Bridgeport Telegram, served aboard the battleship as an enlisted Navy correspondent during the Okinawa operation and the occupation of Japan.

SAYS DIFFICULTIES PROVE NEED OF U. N.

Chicago, June 18 (A. P.).—Difficulties that have arisen in the world since V-J day "have given added proof of the need of world organization" and "are not evidence that world co-operation cannot succeed," Harold E. Stassen, former Governor of Minnesota, told the General Federation of Women's Clubs today.

In a prepared address, Stassen discussed "What I Consider the Two Great Questions of Our Time. First—Can we prevent a third world war? And second—Can we maintain a successful American economic system based on free workmen, private capital and individual enterprise?"

Stassen urged "four principal responsibilities" on the federation's membership. They were: "First—To give vigorous support to the development of the United Nations of the world. Second—To develop our domestic policies, not on a narrow basis, but rather so that they will contribute to a healthy world economic situation.

"Third—To promptly follow through on the Baruch proposal for a new United Nations Atomic Commission, providing a definite policy for the regulation, inspection and control of atomic energy. Fourth—To rapidly strengthen and improve our personnel in foreign service."

German Prisoner Recaptured

TAMPA, Fla., June 18 (AP).—A forty-nine-year-old German prisoner of war, sought for more than three months since his escape from a camp at McDill Field, was found today, hiding in a burrow under the field's post exchange. Wearing a three-inch beard, his long black hair twisted and matted, Johann Klapper crawled meekly out of his burrow when military police, investigating a report of some one lurking in the area, discovered his hide-out. Klapper said he had occupied the den ever since escape on March 14, emerging at night to gather scraps of food from around mess halls.

LAST NAZIS LEAVE DEVENS

FORT DEVENS, Mass., June 18 (AP)—The final group of the more than 15,000 German prisoners of war confined in the PW stockade here started on their long trek homeward today, the Army announced.

The big stockade officially closed tonight after former Hitler troopers began their trip to a port of embarkation.

FIRST LEAD N.H.

BY FRANCIS U. CARPENTER DAY

NEW YORK, JUNE 16-(AP)- HERSCHEL V. JOHNSON, ACTING UNITED STATES DELEGATE, TOLD THE UNITED NATIONS SECURITY COUNCIL TODAY HE WOULD ABSTAIN FROM VOTING ON A BRITISH PROPOSAL TO SEND THE SPANISH CASE TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY WITHOUT RECOMMENDATIONS.

JOHNSON, SPEAKING WHEN THE COUNCIL RESUMED DEBATE ON THE SPANISH CASE AT 3:16 P.M. E.D.T., SAID HE HAD ALREADY MADE IT CLEAR HE WOULD BACK THE UNITED STATES COMPROMISE PUT FORWARD BY DR. HERBERT V. EVATT, OF AUSTRALIA. THIS WOULD SEND THE CASE TO THE ASSEMBLY WITH A RECOMMENDATION EITHER FOR A BREAK IN RELATIONS BY THE UNITED NATIONS WITH SPAIN OR WHATEVER ACTION THE ASSEMBLY DEEMS BEST AT THAT TIME.

JOHNSON SAID HE FELT THAT THE EVATT RESOLUTION WAS THE "MOST APPROPRIATE" ACTION THE COUNCIL COULD TAKE. THE UNITED STATES REPRESENTATIVE WAS SAID TO HAVE HAD A LARGE PART IN FRAMING THE COMPROMISE PROPOSAL NOW BEFORE THE COUNCIL.

THE BRITISH URGED YESTERDAY THAT THE COUNCIL SEND THE REPORT ON SPAIN WITHOUT RECOMMENDATION TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY IN SEPTEMBER AND SUGGESTED THAT THE COURT OF INTERNATIONAL JUSTICE BE CONSULTED ON THE LEGALITY OF ANY ACTION AGAINST THE FRANCO REGIME.

THE PROPOSALS MET IMMEDIATE OPPOSITION FROM AUSTRALIA, FRANCE AND MEXICO.

ANDREI A. GROMYKO, SOVIET DELEGATE, SPEAKING FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE DR. EVATT APPEALED TO HIM TO GO ALONG WITH THE MAJORITY OF THE COUNCIL IN SUPPORT OF THE COMPROMISE PLAN, SAID HE PREFERRED TO FOLLO A "JUST" COURSE RATHER THAN THE MAJORITY OPINION.

HE SAID THE ADOPTION OF THE EVATT RESOLUTION WOULD HAVE "NO PRACTICAL RESULTS."

GROMYKO CONTENDED THE COUNCIL HAD AMPLE AUTHORITY TO ORDER A BREA IN RELATIONS WITH SPAIN AND THAT IT WAS THE COUNCIL'S DUTY TO ACT ON THE CASE INSTEAD OF REFERRING IT TO THE ASSEMBLY.

IN THE FACE OF CONTINUING RUSSIAN IMPATIENCE WITH ANY MOVE WHICH WOULD DELAY ACTION AGAINST THE FRANCO REGIME, AUSTRALIAN DELEGATE HERBERT V.EVATT APPEALED TO SOVIET DELEGATE ANDREI A. GROMYKO TO GO ALONG WITH THE COUNCIL'S "DEMOCRATIC MAJORITY" AND WITHHOLD HIS POWER OF VETO.

"BECAUSE THE THING DOESN'T GO THE WAY YOU LIKE IT, DON'T BRUSH ASIDE THE VIEWS OF THE MAJORITY," EVATT COUNSELED GROMYKO. THE RUSSIAN MADE NO REPLY, BUT LAST WEEK HE HAD CRITICIZED THE COUNCIL'S PROCEDURE ON SPAIN AS GROSSLY INADEQUATE.

A12

EITHER BRITAIN OR RUSSIA--FOR REASONS AT OPPOSITE EXTREMES--COULD KNOCK OUT FURTHER CONSIDERATION OF SPAIN BY EXERCISING THE BIG POWER VETO AGAINST A NINE-NATION MAJORITY LINEUP ALREADY COMMITTED TO APPROVAL OF A UNITED STATES COMPROMISE PROPOSAL FOR SUBMITTING THE SPANISH ISSUE TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY WITH A CONDITIONAL RECOMMENDATION FOR A BREAK WITH MADRID.

DR.JOSE GIRAL, PREMIER OF THE EXILED SPANISH REPUBLICAN LEADERSHIP WHO ATTENDED THE DEBATE AS AN OBSERVER, ASSAILED CADOGAN'S PLAN AS "ABSURD AND CONTRADICTORY" AND SAID IT WAS "HYPOCRITICAL BRITISH DOUBLE-TALK."

BRITAIN HAD DECLARED THAT THE FRANCO ISSUE APPEARED TO BE AN INTERNAL MATTER FOR THE SPANISH PEOPLE TO SETTLE RATHER THAN A CASE FOR THE UNITED NATIONS.

THE BRITISH POSITION WAS SHARPLY ATTACKED BY DR.EVATT, THE AUSTRALIAN FOREIGN MINISTER AND CHAIRMAN OF THE COUNCIL SUBCOMMITTEE WHICH INVESTIGATED SPAIN.

ANTICIPATING A RENEWED RUSSIAN OUTBURST AGAINST DELAY, EVATT SAID:

"IF THE ASSEMBLY WISHES IT CAN REFER THE MATTER TO THE INTERNATIONAL COURT BUT THAT, OF COURSE, INVOLVES DELAY--MANY, MANY MONTHS OF DELAY, IF WE ARE TO TAKE ANY NOTICE OF THE LENGTH OF THE CASES THAT WERE DEALT WITH BY THE WORLD COURT UNDER THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS."

GROMYKO REMAINED SILENT THROUGHOUT YESTERDAY'S DEBATE, BUT HE HAD MENTIONED THE PROCRASTINATION OF THE DEFUNCT LEAGUE'S AGENCIES WHEN HE OPPOSED THE INVESTIGATION OF SPAIN IN APRIL AND DEMANDED ABRUPT AND SEVERE ACTION AGAINST GENERALISSIMO FRANCO AS A PROVEN MENACE TO PEACE.

POLAND'S ORIGINAL MOTION FOR AN IMMEDIATE RUPTURE OF RELATIONS WITH MADRID ALREADY HAS BEEN WATERED DOWN TWICE.

THE ORIGINAL MOTION HAD THE SUPPORT ONLY OF POLAND, RUSSIA, FRANCE AND MEXICO AND WAS SAVED FROM DEFEAT BY AN AUSTRALIAN PROPOSAL FOR THE SUBCOMMITTEE INVESTIGATION, WHICH WAS COMMISSIONED APRIL 29.

AFTER A MONTH-LONG INQUIRY, THE SUBCOMMITTEE HELD THAT SPAIN WAS A "POTENTIAL" MENACE TO PEACE RATHER THAN AN "EXISTING" THREAT AS CHARGED BY POLAND AND AGREED THAT THE COUNCIL SHOULD URGE THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY IN SEPTEMBER TO RECOMMEND A CONCERTED BREAK WITH MADRID. POLAND COMPROMISED WITH FRANCE, CHINA, BRAZIL AND AUSTRALIA FOR UNANIMITY AMONG THE FIVE-NATION MEMBERSHIP OF THE SUBCOMMITTEE.

THE UNITED STATES LAST THURSDAY OFFERED A FURTHER COMPROMISE PROVIDING THAT THE COUNCIL SHOULD PASS THE RECOMMENDATION ALONG TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY WITH THE ALTERNATIVE SUGGESTION THAT THE ASSEMBLY MIGHT TAKE SUCH "OTHER" ACTION AS SEEMED SUITABLE AT THE TIME OF ITS SEPTEMBER MEETING.

THE UNITED STATES COMPROMISE WAS ACCEPTED BY THE FIVE NATIONS ON THE SUBCOMMITTEE AND SUPPORTED WITH RESERVATIONS BY EGYPT, THE NETHERLANDS AND MEXICO. THIS MADE A TOTAL AFFIRMATIVE VOTE OF NINE ON AN ISSUE REQUIRING A VOTE OF SEVEN, WHICH MUST INCLUDE ALL THE BIG FIVE.

NEW YORK, JUNE 16-(AP)-HEALTH EXPERTS FROM VIRTUALLY EVERY COUNTRY IN THE WORLD WILL MEET TOMORROW AT THE INVITATION OF THE UNITED NATIONS TO SET UP A PERMANENT INTERNATIONAL AGENCY TO DEAL WITH HEALTH PROBLEMS.

THE HEALTH CONFERENCE WILL INCLUDE NOT ONLY REPRESENTATIVES OF THE 51 MEMBERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS, BUT DELEGATES FROM MOST NON-MEMBERS AND FROM MANY NON-GOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS.

PRIMARY PURPOSE OF THE CONFERENCE IS TO DRAFT PLANS FOR A PERMANENT ORGANIZATION AND NOT TO DEAL WITH HEALTH PROBLEMS DIRECTLY.

SIR WILSON JAMESON, CHIEF OF THE BRITISH DELEGATION, TOLD A PRESS CONFERENCE TODAY THAT THE AGENCY MIGHT BE CALLED UPON BY THE SECURITY COUNCIL TO GO INTO SUCH FIELDS AS ATOMIC ENERGY AND BACTERIOLOGICAL WEAPONS TO FIND SAFEGUARDS AGAINST THEIR LETHAL EFFECTS.

NEW YORK--SECOND AND SECOND NIGHT [illegible] U.N. X X X BEEN REMOVED.
THE COUNCIL WENT THROUGH AN INVOLVED VOTING PROCESS TO ARRIVE AT THE VETO.
AFTER THE CADOGAN AMENDMENT WAS DISPOSED OF, DR.CASTILLO NAJERA SPLIT THE PRINCIPAL QUESTION INTO THREE SECTIONS.
FIRST WAS THE RECOMMENDATION IN THE EVATT RESOLUTION THAT THE SECURITY COUNCIL ENDORSE THE PRINCIPLES CONTAINED IN THE DECLARATIONS AGAINST THE FRANCO GOVERNMENT BY THE UNITED STATES, BRITAIN AND FRANCE LAST MARCH 4. THE VOTE WAS 10 TO 1, RUSSIA BEING RECORDED IN THE NEGATIVE.
DR.VAN KLEFFENS SUPPORTED THAT RECOMMENDATION.
AT THIS POINT, CADOGAN INTERRUPTED THE VOTING TO EXPLAIN THAT HE WOULD VOTE WITH THE MAJORITY EVEN THOUGH HE HAD OFFERED HIS AMENDMENT AND EVEN THOUGH HE SAID HE HAD "WHAT IS KNOWN AS A VETO IN MY POCKET," HE RESERVED THE RIGHT OF BRITAIN TO RAISE THE WHOLE "JURIDICAL ISSUE" AT THE ASSEMBLY MEETING IN SEPTEMBER.
THE SECOND RECOMMENDATION WAS THAT THE ASSEMBLY CALL FOR THE BREAK IN RELATIONS UNLESS FRANCO IS OUT BY SEPTEMBER OR TO TAKE SUCH OTHER ACTION AS THE "GENERAL ASSEMBLY DEEMS APPROPRIATE AND EFFECTIVE UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES PREVAILING AT THE TIME."
THE VOTE WAS NINE AFFIRMATIVE, RUSSIA AGAINST AND THE NETHERLANDS ABSTAINING.
THE THIRD RECOMMENDATION ASKED THE SECRETARY-GENERAL TO COMMUNICATE THE FIRST TWO RECOMMENDATIONS TO ALL MEMBERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS. THE VOTE AGAIN WAS NINE AFFIRMATIVE, RUSSIA NEGATIVE AND THE NETHERLANDS ABSTAINING.
THEN THE COUNCIL FORMALLY VOTED ON THE WHOLE RESOLUTION, WITH NINE AFFIRMATIVE, RUSSIA NEGATIVE AND THE NETHERLANDS ABSTAINING.

MIGHT LEAD RATION

LONDON, JUNE 18-(AP)-CUTS IN BRITISH MILK AND EGG RATIONS WERE FORECAST IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS TONIGHT AS THE LABOR GOVERNMENT'S FOOD PRODUCTION POLICIES CAME UNDER SHARP ATTACK FROM CONSERVATIVES.
ON THE HEELS OF ANNOUNCEMENTS THAT THERE WOULD BE A 15 PER CENT CUT IN THE SOAP RATION AND THAT BREAD RATIONING WAS HIGHLY PROBABLE, TOM WILLIAMS, MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE, SAID A DROP IN EGG AND MILK PRODUCTION WAS INEVITABLE. A MOTION CRITICIZING THE GOVERNMENT POLICY ON RATION CUTS WAS DEFEATED 284 TO 197.
WILLIAMS' CONSERVATIVE PREDECESSOR, R.S.HUDSON, ESTIMATED THE RESULT WOULD BE A CUT IN THE AVERAGE RATION FROM EIGHT TO THREE EGGS A MONTH AND FROM THREE TO ONE AND ONE-FOURTH PINTS OF MILK A WEEK.
ASSERTING THE GOVERNMENT'S "TOO LITTLE TOO LATE" POLICY WOULD PRODUCE "A GREAT BREAKDOWN IN ITS PLANS, IF ANY," HUDSON SAID MORE SUPPLIES COULD HAVE BEEN OBTAINED FROM ARGENTINA, AND DECLARED:
"THE RUSSIANS, OTHER COUNTRIES, CAN BUY IT. WHY CAN'T WE?"
WILLIAMS, QUESTIONING WHETHER ANY FOOD HAD BEEN SENT FROM ARGENTINA TO RUSSIA, ASSERTED:
"WE HAVE SENT MISSIONS TO ALL THE EXPORTING OR POTENTIALLY EXPORTING COUNTRIES BUT WE CAN'T COMPEL PEOPLE TO SELL TO US. WE CAN ONLY DO OUR BEST TO PERSUADE."

SOCIALIST LEADER EDOUARD DEPREUX SAID LAST NIGHT THAT HIS PARTY WOULD VOTE FOR BIDAULT FOR PRESIDENT TOMORROW WHEN THE NEW CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY BALLOTS ON THE PRESIDENCY, BRINGING FROM MRP LEADERS THE PREDICTION THAT BIDAULT WAS ASSURED OF AT LEAST 320 BALLOTS--AMPLE FOR ELECTION.
THE SOCIALISTS, HOWEVER, HAVE REFUSED TO PARTICIPATE IN ANY GOVERNMENT WHICH EXCLUDES THE COMMUNISTS, WHO VOTED SUNDAY AGAINST JOINING IN A CABINET HEADED BY THE MRP. THE MRP EMERGED AS THE NATION'S STRONGEST PARTY IN THE RECENT CONSTITUENT ASSEMBLY ELECTIONS, WITH THE COMMUNISTS RUNNING A CLOSE SECOND.
COMMUNIST LEADER JACQUES DUCLOS ANNOUNCED THAT HE HAD FORMALLY REQUESTED RETIRING PRESIDENT FELIX GOUIN, A SOCIALIST, TO BE A CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION WEDNESDAY WITH A VIEW TO FORMING A THREE-PARTY COALITION, BUT THERE APPEARED SMALL CHANCE GOUIN WOULD ACCEPT.
THIS SEEMINGLY LEFT BIDAULT NO CHOICE, IF ELECTED, BUT TO FORM A SINGLE PARTY GOVERNMENT.

MOSCOW, JUNE 18-(AP)-A TASS CORRESPONDENT COVERING THHE MEETING OF THE BIG FOUR FOREIGN MINISTERS IN PARIS SAID TODAY THAT THE UNITED STATES, WHICH OFTEN IN THE PAST SAID IT WANTED NO REPARATIONS FROM ITALY, NOW HAS JOINED BRITAIN IN HEAVY DEMANDS UPON THE ITALIAN NATION.

THE SOVIET UNION'S CLAIMS, THE RUSSIAN NEWS AGENCY'S WRITER SAID, WERE "EXTREMELY MODEST."

THE CORRESPONDENT SAID THE SOVIET UNION BELIEVED IN THE PRINCIPLE OF PARTIAL, NOT FULL COMPENSATION, AND THUS ASKED "SCARCELY ONE-TWENTIETH COMPENSATION" FOR ACTUAL DAMAGE INFLICTED BY ITALIAN TROOPS ON THE SOVIET UNION.

"THE SOVIET SIDE, IN FORWARDING REPARATION CLAIMS," THE DISPATCH SAID, "TOOK INTO CONSIDERATION THAT ITALIAN ECONOMY WAS GREATLY WEAKENED AND ALSO CONSIDERED ITALIAN PARTICIPATION AS A CO-BELLIGERENT IN THE STRUGGLE AGAINST GERMANY DURING THE WAR'S LAST STAGES."

ONE REASON ITALIAN ECONOMY WAS WEAKENED, THE TASS WRITER CONTINUED, WAS BECAUSE DURING THE FIRST PERIOD OF ALLIED OCCUPATION OF ITALY THE MILITARY GOVERNMENT, HIDING BEHIND MILITARY NECESSITY, "DESTROYED ITALIAN ENTERPRISES, EXPORTED EQUIPMENT AND REQUISITIONED STORES," IN MANY CASES MERELY TO CRIPPLE THE FUTURE COMPETITION OF ITALIAN FIRMS IN THE WORLD MARKET.

IN TRUD, SOVIET JOURNALIST YURI ZHUKOV, ALSO WRITING FROM PARIS, SAID THE PLAN FOR FEDERALIZATION OF GERMANY BEARS "THE THREAT OF NEW WAR."

THE FEDERALIZATION PLAN FORESEES IN THE WESTERN ZONE OF GERMANY THE PRESERVATION OF REACTION WHICH WOULD BE ABLE TO OPPOSE ITSELF TO THE CENTRAL DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENT IN BERLIN, FORMATION OF WHICH IS PROVIDED FOR IN THE POTSDAM DECISIONS," ZHUKOV SAID.

"THE DOMINATION OF REACTIONARY FORCES IN THE SO-CALLED AUTONOMOUS STATES WOULD CREATE A NEW STATE FORMATION WITH THE CAPITAL IN STUTTGART AND A MILITARY BASE IN THE RUHR."

VIENNA, JUNE 18 (AP)-TASS, SOVIET NEWS AGENCY, RELEASED TODAY A RUSSIAN NOTE WHICH INDICATED THAT RUSSIA HAD NOT ALTERED ITS INTERPRETATION OF THE POTSDAM AGREEMENT THAT AUSTRIAN PROPERTIES TAKEN OVER BY THE GERMANS AFTER THE ANSCHLUSS IN 1938 SHOULD BE CONSIDERED GERMAN PROPERTIES AND SUBJECT TO SOVIET REPARATIONS CLAIMS. THE NOTE, HANDED TO THE AUSTRIAN GOVERNMENT LAST MONTH, REJECTED AN AUSTRIAN PROTEST.

IT ALSO REAFFIRMED RUSSIA'S INTENTIONS TO CONTROL THE DANUBE STEAMSHIP COMPANY, LARGEST OPERATOR ON THE DANUBE.

THIS COMPANY BEFORE 1938 WAS OWNED JOINTLY BY THE AUSTRIAN GOVERNMENT, THE CREDIT ANSTALT BANK OF AUSTRIA AND AN ITALIAN SYNDICATE. WHEN THE GERMANS MARCHED INTO AUSTRIA, OWNERSHIP WAS TRANSFERRED TO THE HERMANN GOERING WERKE. THE RUSSIANS NOW CLAIM THAT THE LINE WAS GERMAN PROPERTY AND SUBJECT TO REPARATIONS CLAIMS. THE OTHER ALLIES HAVE REJECTED THIS INTERPRETATION.

THE NOTE SAID THAT THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT WAS READY TO EXAMINE ANY CLAIMS OF THE AUSTRIAN GOVERNMENT AND CITIZENS THAT PROPERTY WAS WRONGLY CONFISCATED. HOWEVER, IT WAS HELD UNLIKELY THAT ANY PROTESTS WOULD BE MADE WHILE AUSTRIA WAS UNDER OCCUPATION.

RUSSIAN CONTROLLERS ALSO HAVE BEEN PLACED IN SEVERAL LARGE FACTORIES IN THE VIENNA AREA.

"i venture to doubt," weizmann declared, "whether x x x the immediate admission of 100,000 jews to palestine does in fact require dispatch of another division to this country."

in his address at bournemouth, england, on june 12, bevin pictured the proposed jewish immigration as inadvisable from british military and financial standpoints, and said it would require another british army division in palestine.

"i am sure it was not bevin's intention to do anything to make our life in palestine more difficult that it is already--still less to say anything which might tend to impair public security here," weizmann said.

"yet, as one who has done and is doing his utmost to help maintain peace and good relations in this country, i must admit this reference to the need of more divisions is not to the maintenance of that stability and tranquility so desperately needed here in these trying times."

"i think i speak for the whole of the palestine jewry and for an overwhelming majority of our people everywhere," weizmann continued, "when i welcome bevin's allusion to the need for (jewish) statehood--so that the jewish voice may be heard 'in the councils of the world'--in the chancelleries of the world--JUN 1 1946 particularly his readiness to strive for its accomplishment."

NIGHT LEAD ARGENTINE

BY JOHN M.NIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, JUNE 18-(AP)-ACTING SECRETARY OF STATE DEAN ACHESON TODAY TOLD GEN.CARLOS VON DER BECKE, UNOFFICIAL EMISSARY OF PRESIDENT JUAN D.PERON OF ARGENTINA, THAT THE UNITED STATES STANDS FIRM ON ITS INSISTENCE THAT ARGENTINA RID ITSELF OF NAZI INFLUENCES BEFORE THIS COUNTRY ADOPTS A FRIENDLIER ATTITUDE.

VON DER BECKE, SPENT ONE AND A HALF HOURS WITH ACHESON. HE PRESENTED A MEMORANDUM SAYING THAT "THE ARGENTINE GOVERNMENT HAS TAKEN NO STEPS TOWARD MAKING ANY PURCHASES, NOR HAS IT RECEIVED ANY OFFER OF ARMS FROM RUSSIA."

DIPLOMATIC INFORMANTS SAID A CHIEF PURPOSE OF VON DER BECKE'S MISSION IS TO CLEAR AWAY U.S.-ARGENTINE DIFFERENCES SO THAT HIS COUNTRY MAY RECEIVE ARMS FROM THE UNITED STATES--ALONG WITH OTHER LATIN AMERICAN NATIONS.

THE GENERAL, WHO RESIGNED AS CHIEF OF STAFF OF THE ARGENTINE ARMY BEFORE COMING HERE TWO WEEKS AGO, HAS CONFERRED WITH VARIOUS MILITARY LEADERS INCLUDING GEN.DWIGHT D.EISENHOWER, U.S. CHIEF OF STAFF.

THESE TALKS HAD GIVEN RISE TO REPORTS OF A SPLIT BETWEEN THE WAR AND STATE DEPARTMENTS OVER ARGENTINE POLICY, WITH THE STATE DEPARTMENT INSISTING ON A RELATIVELY "TOUGH" ATTITUDE.

ACHESON TOLD A NEWS CONFERENCE THAT EISENHOWER AND HE ARE WORKING IN CLOSE HARMONY AND THAT THERE ARE NO DIFFERENCES BETWEEN THEM.

FOLLOWING THE MEETING BETWEEN VON DER BECKE AND ACHESON THE STATE DEPARTMENT ISSUED A BRIEF REPORT WHICH DECLARED THAT THE SESSION WAS HELD AT VON DER BECKE'S REQUEST AND THAT ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE SPRUILLE BRADEN WAS PRESENT. BRADEN IS WIDELY REGARDED BY LATIN AMERICAN DIPLOMATS HERE AS THE EXPONENT OF WHAT THEY CALL THE TOUGH POLICY TOWARD ARGENTINA.

"GEN.VON DER BECKE," THE STATE DEPARTMENT SAID, "SPOKE AT LENGTH IN RESPECT OF HEMISPHERIC DEFENSE. THE ACTING SECRETARY (ACHESON) SET FORTH THE POSITION OF THIS GOVERNMENT IN KEEPING WITH A STATEMENT MADE BY SECRETARY BYRNES ON APRIL 8, 1946."

IN THAT STATEMENT BYRNES SAID THAT THE UNITED STATES IS LOOKING FOR "DEEDS NOT PROMISES." IT DECLARED THIS GOVERNMENT'S ATTITUDE TOWARD ARGENTINA WOULD BE DETERMINED BY WHAT THE ARGENTINES DO ABOUT CRACKING DOWN ON NAZI FINANCIAL INTERESTS AND FIRMS THERE AND DEPORTING 100 PERSONS NAMED BY THE UNITED STATES AS NAZIS.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT SAID BRUMBAUGH, WHO IS INTELLIGENCE OFFICER FOR THE 703RD MILITARY POLICE BATTALION AT FORT MYER,VA., WAS THE DURANTS' OWN SELECTION.

HE REPLACES CAPT.FRANK M.BOSWORTH,JR., WHO WAS INTERIM DEFENSE COUNSEL FOR THE DURANTS WHILE THEY WERE HELD IN WASHINGTON.

THE WAR DEPARTMENT IS ARRANGING FOR CAPT.BRUMBAUGH TO GO TO GERMANY TO DEFEND THE DURANTS.

BRUMBAUGH, WHO WAS BORN IN TESLA,CALIF., IS A GRADUATE OF THE LOYOLA UNIVERSITY LAW SCHOOL AT LOS ANGELES,CALIF., RECEIVING HIS DEGREE IN 1931. BEFORE ENTERING MILITARY SERVICE ON JAN. 1943, HE PRACTICED IN LOS ANGELES.

TWO SECTIONS OF THE BILL WHICH HE DESCRIBED AS CAUSING THE STATE DEPARTMENT CONCERN ARE:

A PROVISION FOR REMOVAL OF CEILING PRICES ON MEAT, POULTRY, DAIRY PRODUCTS AND THE LIKE, WHICH ACHESON SAID WOULD HAVE THE EFFECT OF DIVERTING GRAIN TO LIVESTOCK AND POULTRY FEED SO LONG AS CEILINGS REMAIN ON GRAIN; AND

A PROVISION WHICH WOULD ALLOW THE SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE TO DIVERT SUPPLIES FROM CONSIGNMENTS TO OVERSEAS SHIPMENT INTO CHANNELS FOR ANIMAL AND POULTRY FEED IN EMERGENCIES. THE EFFECT OF THIS, ACHESON SAID, WOULD BE TO PUT PRESSURE ON GRAIN WHICH THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE ALREADY HAS ASSIGNED TO EXPORT.

Reds Offer Own Plan On Atomic Controls, Reject U.S. Proposal

JUN 20 1946

RUSSIA SUGGESTS SET-UP UNDER U.N. WITH VETO RIGHTS

JUN 20 1946

Gromyko Demands Adherence to Principles Governing Security Council.

CHINA BACKS BARUCH

Delegate Reports He Is Ready to Yield Power of Veto

F. Carpenter

NEW YORK, June 19 — (AP) Soviet Russia today rejected a United States proposal to abolish the veto on atomic matters and formally presented its own atomic control plan which would put the whole system of control under the Security council and the United Nations charter.

NIGHT

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, told the United Nations Atomic Energy commission, that an atomic commission he proposed for control of all atomic matters must conform to the principle laid down for the operations of the Security council.

Fears End of Unanimity

Gromyko said he made this statement because some efforts were being made to "undermine" the principle of unanimity of the powers. This principle provides that each of the five big powers can block by veto any substantive question arising in the Security council.

Bernard M. Baruch, United States representative on the commission, proposed a different scheme of atomic control last Friday when the commission first met. Baruch also emphasized that the United States would accept no veto on atomic matters.

Russia was the first power besides the United States holding the veto right to declare itself. China's delegate, Dr. Quo Tai-Chi, immediately followed. Gromyko today with the flat declaration that China would yield its veto right on atomic matters if the other veto-holding powers would do likewise.

After declaring that the Atomic Energy commission must work in full conformity with the Charter of the United Nations (which includes the veto principle), Gromyko said:

"Efforts made to undermine the activity of the Security council, including efforts directed to undermine the unanimity of the members of the Security council, upon questions of substance are incompatible with the interests of the United Nations created by the international organization for the preservation of peace and security. Such attempts should be resisted.

Explains Russian Position

"I considered it necessary to make this statement in order that from the very beginning of the work of our commission I might make clear the position of the Soviet government as regards the question of the character and basis of the work of the commission upon the question of the preparation of its recommendations as regards measures of control of atomic energy placed before the Security council."

Great Britain pledged fullest possible cooperation to the United States in helping shape a plan for atomic control but its delegate, Sir Alexander Cadogan, made no reference to the veto. France has not declared its position.

Brazil and Mexico briefly stated their endorsement of the Baruch plan and the commission then adjurned until 3 p. m. next Tuesday.

Russia formally proposed:

1. Conclusion of an international agreement for the outlawing of atomic energy as a weapon of mass destruction.

2. Organization of a commission for the control of atomic energy.

The first point would bind the contracting parties to the following obligations:

"(A) Not to use, in any circumstances, an atomic weapon;

"(B) To forbid the production and keeping of a weapon based upon the use of atomic energy;

"(C) To destroy within a period of three months from the entry into force of this agreement all stocks of atomic energy weapons whether in a finished or semi-finished condition."

All States Could Sign

The agreement would be open to signature by all states whether or not they are members of the United Nations.

The proposal said the agreement would come into force after approval by the Security council and after ratification by half of those states eligible to sign it.

On the matter of control, Russia proposed the creation of two committees to study the control of atomic development for peaceful use.

One would work out plans for exchange of scientific information.

The second committee would study the methods of enforcing the convention, banning production and use of atomic weapons.

Gromyko said both committees would serve under the atomic commission, which in turn must conform to the principles laid down in the United Nations Charter for the Security council.

Gromyko proposed that each committee would have a representative from each of the 12 states on the atomic commission. The atomic commission now is made up of the same nations which are on the Security council plus Canada.

Differs From Baruch Plan

The Russian plan differs in several instances with the United States proposal laid down by Baruch last Friday.

The United States proposed the creation of an international atomic development authority "to which should be entrusted all phases of the development and use of atomic energy, starting with the raw material and including:

"1. Managerial control or ownership of all atomic energy activities potentially dangerous to world security.

"2. Power to control, inspect, and license all other atomic activities.

"3. The duty of fostering the beneficial uses of atomic energy.

"4. Research and development responsibilities of an affirmative character intended to put the authority in the forefront of atomic knowledge and thus to enable it to comprehend, and therefore to detect misuse of atomic energy."

The United States then called for "enforceable sanctions—an international law with teeth in it" and added:

"When an adequate system for control of atomic energy including the renunciation of the bomb as a weapon, has been agreed upon and put into effective operation and punishments set up for violations of the rules of control which are to be stigmatized as international crimes, we propose that:

"1. Manufacture of atomic bombs shall stop;

"2. Existing bombs shall be disposed of pursuant to the terms of the treaty, and,

"3. The authority shall be in possession of full information as to the know-how for the production of atomic knowledge."

Gromyko and Baruch were in agreement on the principle of severe punishment for violators but were far apart on the question of operating the control authority.

While Gromyko would put the atomic commission under the United Nations and the Security council, Baruch did not give a clear definition of just where the proposed atomic development authority should come in the international set-up.

It has been said authoritatively, however, that Baruch envisioned the possibility that the ADA would become a separate entity, apart from the Security council and the veto control, once it has been established by treaties among the nations. (ADD)

Poles To Offer Atom Plan, Report

JUN 20 1946

F. Carpenter

New York, June 19 (AP)—Dr. Oscar Lange, Polish delegate to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, will offer Poland's plan on atomic energy at an early date, it was authoritatively reported today.

An informant said that Poland had a plan which the informant regarded as somewhat "simple and startling." He would not hint as to details of the Polish proposal, however.

DAY

It was said Lange might offer his views this afternoon after the commission meets for its second session, but that the course of the meeting today would determine when he would offer his plan.

It was expected that the members of the Atomic Energy Commission would settle on rules of procedure this afternoon and then plunge into a discussion of the United States plan put before the commission at its opening meeting last Friday.

Russian Veto

Meanwhile, the Polish delegation marshalled its forces for a new showdown on Franco Spain after Soviet Russia had vetoed a proposal to refer the Spanish problem to the General Assembly.

Lange declared he would "come forward with other proposals designed to obtain and promote unanimous action against Franco's Fascist regime" when the Council reconvenes next Monday.

Lange, who brought the Spanish question to the attention of the Security Council last April by charging that Franco was a threat to world peace, followed up the Russian veto yesterday by seeking an immediate vote on his original resolution calling for a break with Franco Spain by all members of the United Nations.

Mexican's Ruling

Chairman Dr. Francisco Castillo Najera, of Mexico, ruled, however, that the Council was not prepared to discuss that issue at once and adjourned the meeting. Barring unusual developments, there seemed small likelihood that the Polish demand for Council action against Spain would be adopted.

The question of the veto power, as wielded by Russia yesterday in the Security Council debate on Franco Spain promised to play an important part in the deliberations of the Atomic Energy Commission.

In advancing the United States plan at the first meeting of the commission last Friday, Representative Bernard M. Baruch made it plain that there must be no veto power in any part of the framework he was proposing for the development and peaceful use of atomic energy.

The proposal that Russia vetoed yesterday in the Security Council would have referred to the 51-nation General Assembly a subcommittee report on Spain accompanied by a recommendation that the Assembly call for a rupture in relations with Madrid, or take whatever action it deemed desirable, if Franco is still in power when the Assembly meets in September.

Text of Gromyko's Presentation of Russia's Plan for Control of Atom Bomb

N.Y. Tribune

JUN 20 1946

Following is the complete text of Soviet delegate Andrei A. Gromyko's presentation of the Russian atomic-control plan before the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission yesterday:

Mr. President, the Commission for the Control of Atomic Energy, created in accordance with the decision of the Moscow Conference of the Foreign Ministers of the Three Powers and with the decision of the first session of the General Assembly, must proceed to the practical realization of the task set before it. The significance of these tasks and, consequently, of the activities of the Commission, are determined by the significance of the very discovery, and is doubtless only a foretaste of still greater conquests of science in this field in the future, and it emphasizes the great importance of the tasks of this Commission and therefore of the activities of this Commission. As a result of developments in the last few years, circumstances have brought it about that one of the most important discoveries of humanity has found its application at the outset in a particular form of weapon, the atomic bomb. However, although, up to the present time, this use of atomic energy is the only known form for its practical application, it is the general opinion that humanity stands at the threshold of a wide application of atomic energy for peaceful purposes; for the good of the peoples as a means of raising their standards of welfare and their living conditions; for the good of and with a view to the development of science and culture.

1948

Destruction or Welfare

There are thus two possible ways in which atomic discoveries can be used. One way is the use of these discoveries for the purposes of producing means of mass destruction. The other way is the use of this discovery for the welfare of humanity.

The paradox of the situation lies in the fact that it is the first way that has been studied most and most applied in practice. The second way has been studied and practically applied less. However, this circumstance does not diminish the importance of the tasks which lie ahead of the Atomic Commission, but, on the contrary, emphasizes still further in a high degree the meaning of these tasks from the point of view of the reinforcement of peace between the peoples. There can be no active and effective system of peace if the discovery relating to the ways of using atomic energy is not placed in the service of humanity and is not applied to peaceful purposes only. The use of such a discovery only for the purposes of raising the welfare of the peoples and widening of their scientific and cultural horizons will help to strengthen confidence between the countries and friendly relations between them.

On the other hand, if we continue to use these discoveries for the production of weapons of mass destruction we may intensify mistrust between states and keep the peoples of the world in continual anxiety and mistrust. Such a position would work against the aspirations of the peace-loving peoples who are thirsting for the establishment of a solid peace and who are making every effort to insure that their aspirations shall be transformed into reality.

Would Destroy Bomb Stocks

As one of the first measures to be carried out, in order to carry out the decision of the General Assembly of the 24th of January, the Soviet delegation proposes a study of the question of the conclusions of international agreements forbidding the production and use of weapons based upon the use of atomic energy for the purposes of mass destruction. The purpose of such an agreement should be to forbid the production and use of atomic weapons, the destruction of existing stocks of atomic weapons, and the punishment of all activities undertaken with a view to the violation of such agreements. The elaboration and conclusion of such agreements would be, in the opinion of the Soviet delegation, only one of the primordial measures which must be taken to prevent the use of atomic energy to harm humanity. It should be followed by other measures designed to introduce means of assuring a strict supervision of the observance of undertakings entered into, the conclusion in connection with the above-mentioned agreements, the setting up of a system of supervision and control to see that the conventions and agreements are observed, and measures concerning sanctons against unlawful use of atomic energy.

The public opinion of the whole of the civilized world has already condemned the use in war of suffocating, poisonous and other similar gases, and the use of liquids and substances of the same character, as also bacteriological weapons, and have concluded agreement forbidding the use of such weapons. For this purpose the necessity of concluding agreement forbidding the production and use of atomic weapons is even more obvious.

Such a convention would correspond in a high degree, also, to the aspirations of the peoples of the whole world. The conclusion and elaboration of such an agreement and such a system of measures to insure the strict observance of the clauses of the agreements, the establishment of a system of control to see that the obligations contained in the agreements were observed and the establishment of sanctions against those who violate the agreements, all this, in the opinion of the Soviet delegation, would constitute an important step in advance on the way of carrying out the tasks laid upon the Atomic Energy Commission. It would also fully correspond to the aspirations and the dictates of common sense of the whole of progressive humanity.

The need for acceptance states of the obligation not to produce or use atomic weapons is dictated also by the fact that the character of the atomic weapon is such that its application would mean untold misery to the whole of the peaceful population of the countries concerned.

Cites Rules of War

The results of the use of this weapon are incompatible with the generally accepted rules and the ideas reinforced by the common sense of humanity over a period of many centuries, regarding the rules for the conduct of war which lay down that innocent civilian populations should not be destroyed. The situation, as it exists at the present time, created by the discovery of the means of applying atomic energy and the use of these means for the production of atomic weapons, excludes the possibility of normal scientific co-operation between the states of the world.

One of the fundamental elements of the existing situation is characterized by the absence of any kind of limit to the production and application of atomic weapons. These elements are important considerations, and only strengthen the suspicion existing between countries and worsen the relations between them, calling forth political instability. It is clear that a continuation of this situation is likely to bring only negative results for the peace of the world.

Besides this, the continuation of the existing situation would mean that the most recent scientific attainments in this field could not constitute a basis for joint scientific efforts among the countries, directed toward the discovery and the perfection of methods of using atomic energy for peaceful purposes. From this there follows only one correct conclusion, namely, that it is indispensable that there should be an exchange of scientific information between countries and that it is indispensable that there should be joint scientific efforts directed toward a broadening of the possibilities of the use of atomic energy only in the interests of the raising of the material welfare of the people and in the development of science and culture. The success of the work of this commission will be determined in a large measure by the extent to which it solves this important task.

Can't Remain a Monopoly

The proposal for a wide exchange of scientific information is timely because it arises from the fact that such scientific discoveries as the discovery of methods of using atomic energy cannot remain for an indefinite time the property of any one country or any group of countries; inevitably, it becomes the property of many countries. This confirms the necessity of a wide exchange of scientific information upon the problem before us and the necessity of elaborating measures in this field, including organizational methods.

I have already stated Mr. Chairman, the general position as regards the task and character and the activities of the Commission for the Control of Atomic Energy. In the development of this general position, I would wish, upon the recommendation of my government, to lay before the commission two concrete proposals which in the opinion of the Soviet government may constitute a basis for the adoption by the commission of a recommendation to the Security Council and thus play an important role in the task of strengthening the peace.

The proposals are as follows:

The first one concerns the conclusion of an international agreement for the outlawing of the production and application of a weapon based upon the use of atomic energy for the purposes of mass destruction.

The second concerns an organization of the work of the commission for the control of atomic energy.

I will read the text of the first proposal:

Draft international agreement to forbid the production and use of weapons based upon the use of atomic energy for the purposes of mass destruction. There follows after this a list of the signatory states, and the text continues: "Deeply aware of the extreme importance of the great scientific discoveries connected with the splitting of the atom and with a view to the use of atomic energy for the purposes of raising the welfare and standard of life of the peoples of the world, and also for the development of culture and science for the good of humanity; unanimously desiring universal co-operation as wide as possible for the use of all people of scientific discoveries in the field of atomic energy, for the improvement of the conditions of the life of the peoples of the whole world, the raising of their standard of welfare and further progress of human culture; taking account clearly of the fact that the great scientific discoveries in the field of atomic energy contain a great danger first and foremost for the peaceful towns and civilian populations in case such a discovery were used as a means of applying an atomic weapon for the purposes of mass destruction; taking note also of the great importance of the fact that through international agreements, the use in time of war of suffocating, poisonous and other similar gases and also similar liquids, substances and processes, and also bacteriological methods have already been outlawed by common accord between the civilized peoples; and considering that the international outlawry of the use of the atomic weapon for mass destruction would correspond in still greater measure to the aspirations and the conscience of the peoples of the whole world; animated by an intense desire to remove the threat of the use of these scientific discoveries for the harm of humanity and against the interests of humanity; the high contracting parties decided to conclude an agreement to forbid the production and use of a weapon based upon the use of atomic energy, and for this purpose appointed as their plenipotentiaries" — and here the list of plenipotentiaries will follow, whose credentials are found to be in due form— "agree as follows:

"ARTICLE 1: The high contracting parties solemnly declare that they will forbid the production and use of a weapon based upon the use of atomic energy, and with this in view take upon themselves the following obligations:

"(a) Not to use, in any circumstances, an atomic weapon;

"(b) To forbid the production and keeping of a weapon based upon the use of atomic energy;

"(c) To destroy within a period of three months from the entry into force of this agreement all stocks of atomic energy weapons whether in a finished or semi-finished condition.

"ARTICLE 2: The high contracting parties declare that any violation of Article 1 of this agreement shall constitute a serious crime against humanity.

"ARTICLE 3: The high contracting parties, within six months of the entry into force of the present agreement, shall pass legislation providing severe punishment for the violation of the terms of this assignment.

"ARTICLE 4: The present agreement shall be of indefinite duration.

"ARTICLE 5: The present agreement is open for signature to all states whether or not they are members of the United Nations.

"ARTICLE 6: The present agreement shall come into force after approval by the Security Council, and after ratification by half the signature states, including all states members of the United Nations, as under Article 23 of the Charter. The ratification shall be placed for safe keeping in the hands of the Secretary-General of the United Nations.

"ARTICLE 7: After the entry into force of the present agreement, it shall be an obligation upon all states whether members or not of the United Nations.

"ARTICLE 8: The present agreement of which the Russian, Chinese, French, English and Spanish texts shall be authentic, is drawn up in one copy and will be in the safe-keeping of the Secretary-General of the United Nations. The Secretary-General shall communicate to all signatories a duly certified copy thereof."

Proposal on Control Work

I would like now to read the text of the second proposal. It concerns the organization of the work of the commission for the control of atomic energy. Basing ourselves upon the decision of the General Assembly of the 24th of January, 1946, concerning the setting up of a commission for the study of problems connected with the discovery of atomic energy and other related questions, and in particular upon Article 5 of this decision, stating the terms of reference of the commission, the Soviet delegation considers it necessary to make the following proposals concerning the plan of the organization of the work of the commission for the initial period of its activity:

1. The setting up of committees of the commission, pursuing the aims indicated in the decision of the General Assembly to "proceed with the utmost dispatch and inquire into all phases of the problems and make such recommendations from time to time with respect to that as it finds possible."

In connection with this item, it seems quite necessary to establish two committees which as auxiliary organs of the commission would be responsible for a general study of the problem of atomic energy and the elaboration of recommendations which the commission might make for the carrying out of the decision of the General Assembly and other organs of the United Nations.

It is proposed that there should be set up two committees, the first a committee for the exchange of scientific information. This committee would be set up for the purpose of studying point (a) of Article 5 of the decision of the General Assembly of the 24th of January, 1946. Among the tasks of this committee would be that of elaborating recommendations concerning practical measures for the organization of the exchange of information. (1) Concerning the contents of scientific discoveries connected with the splitting of the atom and other discoveries connected with the obtaining and use of atomic energy, and (2) concerning the technology and the organization of technological processes for obtaining and using atomic energy. (3) Concerning the organization and method of industrial production of atomic energy and the use of such energy. (4) Concerning forms, sources, and the location of raw materials necessary for obtaining atomic energy.

Tells Committee Tasks

I come now to the second proposed committee whose task would be to prevent the use of atomic energy for the harm of humanity. This committee should be set up in order to attain the aims set forth in points (b), (c) and (d) of Article 5 of the decision of the General Assembly. The task of this committee would be to prepare recommendations on the following subjects:

JUN 20 1946

(1). The preparation of a draft international agreement for the outlawing of weapons based upon the use of atomic energy and forbidding the production and use of such weapons and all similar forms of weapons destined for mass destruction.

(2). The elaboration and creation of methods to forbid the production of weapons based upon the use of atomic energy and to prevent the use of atomic weapons and all other similar weapons of mass destruction.

(3). Measures, systems and organizations of control in the use of atomic energy to insure the observance of the conditions above-mentioned in the international agreement for the outlawing of atomic weapons.

(4). The elaboration of a system of sanctions for application against the unlawful use of atomic energy.

Part 2: The composition of the committees. Each committee would be composed of one representative of each state represented in the commission. Each representative may have advisers.

3. Rules of procedure of the committees. The rules of procedure of committtees shall be drawn up by the commission.

Invokes U. N. Charter

Like the proposal for the conclusion of the agreement, these proposals which concern the organization of the work of the commission are a practical means of advancing at the present time. The convention would be a concrete and important step forward in the direction of setting up an effective system of control of atomic energy. This measure would have an immense moral and political significance and might strengthen the political stability in the world and the friendly relations between the peoples. The creation of the two committees that I have proposed with the tasks as I define them would mean the adoption of a concrete plan of work of the commission in the initial stages of its activities and would at the same time mean the adoption of the necessary organizational forms for the carrying out of its work which would enable it to proceed quickly in the proposals of the broad exchange of scientific information and on questions relating to the prevention of the use of atomic energy for the harm of humanity. The activity of the commission for the control of atomic energy can lead to the desired result only if it is in full conformity with the principles of the Charter of the United Nations which are at the basis of the activity of the Security Council, because the commission is an organ of this organization, working under the direction of the Security Council.

Efforts made to undermine the acivity of the Security Council, including efforts directed to undermine the unanimity of the members of the Security Council, upon questions of substance are incompatible with the interests of the United Nations created by the international organization for the preservation of peace and security. Such attempts should be resisted. I considered it necessary to make this statement in order that from the very beginning of the work of our commission I might make clear the position of the Soviet government as regards the question of the character and basis of the work of the commission upon the question of the preparation of its recommendations as regards measures of control of atomic energy placed before the Security Council.

In conclusion, I wish to say that in this statement I aimed chiefly at underlining the extreme importance to be attributed to the conclusion of the above-mentioned agreement for the outlawry of the production and use of atomic weapons. The conclusion of such an agreement would constitute an important practical step in the direction of fulfilling the task which lies before the commission.

beneficial uses and carrying on of research and development.

2. When an adequate control system, including renunciation of the bomb as a weapon, has been "agreed upon and put into effective operation and condign punishments set up for violation," then the manufacture of atomic bombs shall stop, existing bombs be disposed of pursuant to treaty, and the authority receive full know-how on production of atomic energy.

3. Serious, swift and certain penalties should be fixed for illegal possession or use of atomic bombs, material or plants, and "there must be no veto to protect those who violate their solemn agreements not to develop or use atomic energy for destructive purposes."

SOVIET RUSSIA

1. Begin with "primordial measure" of an international convention which would make it "a serious crime against humanity" to use, produce or keep an atomic weapon, and which would require destruction of all such weapons within three months after ratification of the treaty.

2. Establish two committees of the Atomic Energy Commission, one to work out recommendations on exchange of scientific and technological information, and the other to work out methods of banning atomic weapons and other instruments of mass destruction, controls over use of atomic energy and sanctions against unlawful uses.

3. Activities of the commission should conform with the principles of the United Nations and the activities of its Security Council, including the requirement for unanimity of great-power members on questions of substance—that is, no change in the veto right.

U. S., Russian Plans Compared

JUN 20 1946

A comparison of the American and Soviet plans on atomic energy, the United States proposal having been submitted last Friday by Bernard M. Baruch and the Soviet program having been offered yesterday by Andrei A. Gromyko, follows:

REFUGEE CURB IS VOTED DOWN

Lebanese Proposal Would Have Closed Palestine Door

New York, June 19 (AP)—A Lebanese move which would have barred the resettlement of Jewish refugees in Palestine was voted down by the United Nations Economic and Social Council today after it was vigorously opposed by the United States.

Although the resolution offered by the Lebanese delegate, Charles Malik, did not mention Palestine directly, Raymond Bousquet, French delegate, declared that the resolution clearly referred to Palestine and opposed it on the ground that the Palestine question had no place in the Economic and Social Council's discussions.

Malik's main proposals were that the contemplated world refugee organization would sponsor no plan which would create political difficulties in countries where refugees were to be settled or in neighboring countries, and that there should be no resettlement without the consent of the peoples of the receiving countries and full consultation with states "most directly concerned."

Other Effects Pointed Out

The first proposal was defeated, 10 to 5, and the second, 9 to 6. After they had been defeated, George L. Warren, United States representative, proposed that the Economic and Social Council declare simply that the refugee organization would operate in conformity with the principles of the United Nations charter. This suggestion was adopted.

Warren declared that if the Council had approved the Lebanese proposals "we would have to revise the entire refugee problem."

Some delegates pointed out privately that the resolution not only would have barred the entry of Jewish refugees to Palestine, but would have affected large numbers of displaced persons from Poland, Yugoslavia and Russia.

Malik's second proposal would have blocked the resettlement of thousands of displaced persons who because of fear of persecution or other reasons did not want to return to their own countries and at the same time could not get the consent of their countries for resettlement elsewhere.

Both Russia and Yugoslavia supported the Lebanese proposals.

The action took place as the Economic and Social Council, meeting as a committee, was drafting a proposed constitution for the world refugee agency.

PARLEY ON HEALTH OPENS WITH PLEA TO AID ALL NATIONS

JUN 20 1946

NEW YORK, June 19 — (AP) — The 67-nation World Health conference opened a global campaign against disease today on President Truman's keynote call for the rebuilding of health safeguards "disorganized and destroyed" by war.

After hearing the President's message and addresses by officials of the United Nations, sponsors of the conclave, the delegates took up the first phases of the vast program to set up an international health organization with the broad goal of improving the health of every human being by preventing disease.

International exchange of medical and scientific information was one of the aims set forth in the plan to prevent and control illness.

Sessions will be resumed at 10 a.m. tomorrow when a chairman will be named. Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon-general of the United States Public Health service, has been mentioned as a likely selection.

Several delegations arrived too late for the first meeting, including Russia's. In addition to U. N. members, the following countries have seats: Albania, Austria, Bulgaria, Eire, Finland, Hungary, Iceland, Italy, Portugal, Rumania, Siam, Sweden, Switzerland and Transjordan.

Theft of Jap Treasure Worth Billions Charged to British Soldiers in Java

JUN 20 1946

LONDON, June 19. — (AP) The Batavia correspondent of The London Daily Mail reported today the arrest of a British officer and sergeant in connection with a reputed theft of a Japanese cache of $28,000,000 worth of gold, jewels and cash.

The story said the treasure had been stored by Japanese authorities in a Batavia pawnshop. After the surrender, Japanese Capt. Nakamura reportedly buried $4,000,000 of the loot in a garden and turned the rest over to a Japanese colonel who was arrested soon afterwards, the account said.

Allied authorities questioned Carla Wolff, an Eurasian girl friend of Nakamura, and persuaded her to disclose the treasure cache, The Mail reported.

The Eurasian girl, several dutchmen and Chinese also were held in connection with the theft, The Daily Mail said in its story captioned "Greatest robbery on record."

The account did not say where the Japanese acquired the treasure or how Allied authorities learned it had been stolen.

Remembrance Day Set For Britain

London, June 19 (AP)—Prime Minister Attlee announced in Commons today that Britain would have one observance—known as "Remembrance Sunday"—for the dead of both wars, thus terminating the celebration of Armistice Day.

Announcing that King George had approved the merger, Attlee said:

"Toward the end of last year, the Home Secretary consulted representative bodies to ascertain their opinions on the selection of a date on which a national day of remembrance could be celebrated for the war of 1914-18 and that of 1939-45.

"They were all agreed that the Sunday before November 11, unless the eleventh or twelfth of November were a Sunday, should be known as Remembrance Sunday and should be observed as a national day of remembrance for both wars."

Troop Concentration Denied by Soviet

London, June 19 (A. P.).—An official Soviet denial was broadcast by Moscow radio last night of a report that Russian troops were being concentrated in Southeastern Germany. The broadcast statement said:

"The New York Times of June 17 published a report by (C. L.) Sulzerberger from Paris to the effect that in Southeastern Germany a concentration of Soviet troops is allegedly going on. Tass is authorized to state that this report is devoid of all foundation."

P.W.s to Harvest British Crops

LONDON, June 19 (AP).—Agriculture Minister Tom Williams said today that 200,000 German prisoners of war will be used to help harvest Britain's crops this year.

British Preserve D-Day Map

Huge Chart Shows Position of All Allied Ships Used in Invasion

PORTSMOUTH, England, June 19 (AP).—The Admiralty ordered today the preservation as a memorial of D-Day the huge map used by Allied officers to direct the invasion of Europe on June 6, 1944.

The chart, covering an entire wall of a room at the Portsmouth Naval Aviation School, shows the position of every Allied craft, large and small, used in the landing operations.

The map, framed and illuminated, will be unveiled at ceremonies in late July, to which American and other Allied representatives will be invited.

Investigate U.S. Flag Removal

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, June 19 (AP).—Belfast police said today they were investigating a report that six armed men forced the removal of an American flag displayed here in honor of the visit of Father Flannagan of Nebraska's Boy's Town. Police said officials of the West Belfast Social Club told them they were forced at the point of revolvers to remove the flag, which was flying from a window. Police said they were told the men made no explanation except to say, "The Yanks Invaded Ireland."

RIGHTS OF ITALIANS GUARDED AT PARIS

JUN 20 1946

Foreign Ministers Agree to Protect Property in Ceded Areas.

PARIS, June 19 — (AP) The foreign ministers conference agreed today on one minor economic clause for the Italian peace treaty, as diplomatic sources predicted that unless the key problem of Trieste was solved, the "de facto" division of Europe which had existed since war's end would "last years."

A British informant said the ministers agreed quickly on a clause protecting the rights of Italian nationals and property in areas to be ceded to other nations, chiefly France and Yugoslavia. It has been agreed in principle that both these nations will obtain frontier rectifications.

Disagree on Restitution

This was one of four minor economic clauses discussed. The balance of the session found the ministers in disagreement on clauses concerning restitution of Allied property in Italy, expropriations, and compensation to Allied nationals in Italy for personal injuries.

U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin cut short today's session to permit French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault to attend the meeting of the constituent assembly which elected him provisional president of France.

The session lasted two hours. Tomorrow morning the ministers are expected to resume the discussion of the explosive political phases of the treaty.

Reparations Not Discussed

The difficult question of Italian reparations, upon which the ministers were deadlocked yesterday, was not discussed today.

The crucial issue of Trieste is scheduled to come up again soon, and an American delegtaion member said this was the "key" question in the writing of treaties for all former German satellites, topped in importance only by the German problem itself.

The ministers generally agreed on obliging Italy to restore property taken from Allied nationals, but ran afoul of legal technicalities. British informants said

Big Four Agree on One Point

Foreign Ministers Concur on Economic Clause for Italian Treaty.

Paris, June 19 (A. P.).—A British informant said that the Foreign Ministers Council agreed today on one of four minor economic clauses for the proposed peace treaty with Italy.

The clause protects the rights of Italian nationals and property in areas ceded to other nations, chiefly France and Yugoslavia, both of which have been assured frontier rectifications.

The Ministers of the United States, Russia, the United Kingdom and France were in disagreement during the rest of the session on clauses on the restitution of Allied property in Italy, expropriations and on compensation to Allied nationals in Italy for personal injuries. The Ministers became deadlocked yesterday on Italian reparations.

The pessimism which has enveloped the session of the British, French, Russian and United States Foreign Ministers since they reconvened last Saturday deepened today following yesterday's deadlock on reparations, with the same negotiators repeating virtually the same arguments which led them into blind alleys a month ago.

The deadlock was eased only slightly by Russia's offer yesterday to put the question of Yugoslav, Albanian and Greek reparations claims—which Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov sets at $200,000,000—up to a full, twenty one-nation European peace conference, which French informants said might convene about July 15.

Secretary of State Byrnes said this Soviet offer "solved two-thirds of the reparations problem," a British informant declared, but diplomatic observers felt that the most difficult third —Russia's own claim for $100,000,000—still awaited solution with no sign of compromise. Molotov refused to submit Russia's reparations claim to the twenty-one-nation conference, expressing belief that the Foreign Ministers should settle it.

Tass Says Reds Ask Only 'Crumb' Of Claims On Italy

London, June 19 (AP)—The Moscow radio quoted a Tass dispatch from Paris today as saying that Russian demands "constitute only an insignificant part of the claims on Italy by the Allies."

Reporting yesterday's deliberations at the Paris conference of Foreign Ministers, the official Russian news agency added:

"There can be no doubt as to which of the demands falls as a heavy burden on Italian economy and are fraught with the danger of reducing Italy to a level of slavish dependency."

Accuses Western Powers

Accusing the Western powers of procrastination in implementing a revised armistice with Hitler's former Axis partner, the dispatch added:

"The fact remains the softened terms of the armistice with Italy still remain on paper; the powers occupying Italy are in no hurry to carry them out."

Asserting that Anglo-American occupation already has cost Italy more than four billion dollars, Tass declared:

"It is clear what the Italians themselves would favor if given a free choice in resolving the peace settlement.

Lays Greed To Allies

"It is of particular note," the dispatch said, "that in the progress of the work of the Council of Foreign Ministers, new artificial obstacles to the solution of such a comparatively simple question are being raised continuously.

"The idea occurs involuntarily: does not such a policy represent a specific means of exerting pressure upon the Soviet Union?

"The definite impression arises that the perfectly fair and moderate demands of the Soviet Union are not satisfied in order to obtain concessions from the Soviet delegation on other economic clauses of the peace treaty draft with Italy, regarding which the Soviet delegation is trying to curb the excessive appetite of some of its partners."

Bidault Elected President By Assembly in France

PARIS, June 19—(AP) Foreign Minister Bidault, leader of the conservative Popular Republican Movement (MRP), was elected provisional president of France today by the constituent assembly, with the Communist party abstaining.

But the Communists displaying a surprisingly conciliatory attitude, indicated they may enter Bidault's Cabinet and that they would offer no objection to provision for a two-house legislature in the constitution which the assembly will draft for France's Fourth Republic.

Bidault at Paris

Bidault, whose MRP party ousted the Communists as the strongest single French party in the June 2 elections, was selected at a time when he was helping the four-power foreign ministers conference here wrestle with peace treaty problems. He was the only candidate for the presidency. Bidault received 384 votes when the Communists withheld their 150 to underscore a preference for a government headed by the Socialists.

The slight, serious, 46-year-old former history professor and newspaperman is the third man to hold the highest French office since the liberation. Gen. deGaulle resigned last January in a government crisis and Socialist Felix Gouin held the post next.

The election came on the heels of the first outbreak of political disorder in Paris since the liberation—an attack on a Communist party headquarters last night during a celebration of the sixth anniversary of deGaulle's resistance appeal from London in 1940. Several persons were arrested.

Work Stoppage Called

Several hundred thousand trade union workers in Paris called a work stoppage for tomorrow to protest the attack on Communist headquarters. The demonstrators were instructed to cease work at 5 p.m. and march through the streets.

"Thus began the Hitlerites," exclaimed Communist leader Jacques Duclos, referring to the disorder in which the Communist building was stoned and Communist literature was burned by a crowd which shouted "deGaulle to power!"

Among the 60 persons arrested, during the disturbance, police, said, was a one-time Vichy militiaman.

Both the Socialists and the Communists indicated they would have no objections to a two-House legislature in the draft of the constitution to be drawn by the new constituent assembly. The Socialists recommended a deadline of Aug. 31 for completion of the draft.

The socialists went further, and indicated willingness to set up a government in which the executive, legislative and judicial branches were separated.

The communists in the May referendum strongly supported a proposed constitution which called for an all-powerful one-House assembly and the Socialists lent their support. The constitution was defeated and the action of the voters brought about the June 2 election in which the MRP emerged as the strongest single party. (ADD)

BIDAULT NAMED PRESIDENT OF FRENCH REGIME

Receives 384 Votes in New Constituent Assembly—Only 294 Needed.

REDS DID NOT CAST BALLOTS

Socialist Auriol Gives Speech Favoring De Gaulle's Idea

for Constitution.

Paris, June 19 (A. P.).—Georges Bidault was elected President of France's Interim Government by the Constitutent Assembly today. Election tabulators said an official tally showed he received 384 votes. The new President has been serving as Foreign Minister.

No opposing votes were cast but the Communists abstained. The 46-year-old former history professor and journalist thus became France's third President in a year and a half.

He is a leader of the Popular Republican Movement — which emerged from the June 2 elections as the nation's largest, with 166 of the Assembly's 586 seats. He succeeded Felix Gouin, a Socialist, who resigned after the election. Gouin had followed Gen. Charles de Gaulle in the office.

Bidault's election had been virtually assured when the Socialists pledged their 128 votes to him. He already commanded the 166 ballots of his Popular Republican Movement (M. R. P.). Edouard Herriot, Radical Socialist leader, and Deputy Jacques Baumel of the Republicans assured him another 48 votes. This made certain that 342 votes would be cast for Bidault and only a simple majority of 294 was needed.

Difficult Problems Ahead.

Bidault faced difficult problems in forming a tri-partite Cabinet, although the Communists gave signs of reconciling themselves to entering his Government. They did not, however, commit themselves to this, and the Socialists have said they will enter no Government that excludes the Communists.

The Constituent Assembly heard Socialist Vincent Auriol give qualified approval to Gen. Charles de Gaulle's ideas for the new constitution.

While not mentioning De Gaulle's recent speech, Auriol urged the Assembly to consider a two-chamber legislature, a strong President and a separation of the presidency, legislature and judiciary. These views were sounded by De Gaulle.

Paris Communist HQ Attacked

Paris, June 19 (AP)—Communist headquarters were attacked last night and 68 persons were arrested, Interior Minister Andre le Troquer told the French Cabinet today. A police officer was wounded.

Bands of youths roamed the boulevards yesterday shouting, "De Gaulle to power" and "Thorez to the stake" during celebrations of the sixth anniversary of Gen. Charles de Gaulle's 1940 resistance broadcast from London.

Other bands cried their support for the Communist party secretary general, Maurice Thorez, who fled to Moscow when France entered the war and escaped the army draft.

Windows in the Communist headquarters were smashed by bricks. Party literature was burned in street bonfires. The police said nine were arrested after this incident. Le Troquer said one of those was a former Vichy militiaman. Another 59 were arrested but released.

DELAYS ARISE ON WITNESSES

Kilian Defense Makes Complaint About Missing Four

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 19 (AP)—A court-martial trying Col. James A. Kilian for alleged cruelty to prisoners at the Lichfield guardhouse began an investigation today of why four witnesses requested by the defendant had not been provided by the Army.

Kilian, of Highland Park, Ill., former commandant of the guardhouse in England, received a day recess to obtain the witnesses. His lawyer named them when they were requested three weeks ago. Brig. Gen. Robert M. Montague, of Louisville, the court president, said:

"There's no excuse for such delays. I am going to headquarters and see that these witnesses are here when we want them."

Questioned Sharply By Court

Col. Lester J. Abele, of Cleveland, staff judge advocate of the continental base section, was placed on the stand and questioned sharply by the court for the absences of the witnesses.

Two of the missing men were requested by Kilian to support his motion to quash the indictment on the grounds that it was brought "maliciously" and on the basis of "perjured testimony."

Lieut. Col. Raymond E. Ford, of Fort Pierce, Fla., Kilian's attorney, has complained throughout the three-day hearing that he was unable to obtain many key defense witnesses. After rejecting several of Ford's requests for delays, the court took steps to clear up the trouble of missing witnesses and on its own motion summoned Abele, who handles requests for witnesses.

A Challenge Arises

Abele said two of the witnesses sought had come here from London. He could not explain why they left without testifying. He estimated all could be brought here "within 24 hours" and promised the court action to get them "as soon as I return to my office."

In the concurrent trial of Lieut. Leonard W. Ennis, of Peekskill, N.Y., defense attorneys challenged the impartiality of the court's law member, Col. Mason J. Roberts, of Jacksonville, Fla., and asked his removal because of his ruling on the admissibility of some evidence. The challenge was rejected.

Both Kilian and Ennis are charged with similar offenses of authorizing cruelty to United States soldier prisoners at Lichfield, where witnesses have asserted they were beaten, slugged and clubbed.

Texan Granted Postponement

Pfc. Thomas Warren of Plainview, Texas, in another trial, was granted a five-day postponement.

Sergeant Judson Smith of Cumberland, Ky., first of the Lichfield defendants to be convicted, testified that "Ennis gave me two direct orders to work a man over" and was there when "I hit the [illegible]

Col. Kilian Loses 2 More Moves In His Trial

P. DOANE

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 19 (AP)—Col. James A. Kilian lost twice again today in his fight before a United States court-martial against charges that he authorized cruelty to soldiers imprisoned under his command at a guardhouse at Lichfield, England.

Kilian, of Highland Park, Ill., tried unsuccessfully to eliminate some of the charges against him and to renew his losing motion of yesterday that the entire case be dismissed. It was the third day of legal maneuvering which thus far has prevented evidence in his case concerning evidence at Lichfield.

DAY

Many of the leading witnesses were closely confined, after guards discovered that they had started a tunnel under their guardhouse in an attempt to escape. The witnesses, soldier-prisoners, are either serving court-martial sentences or awaiting court-martial actions.

Kilian's Moves

Kilian's lawyers tried vainly to limit the prosecution to offenses against specifically named prisoners and to eliminate all reference to mistreatment of "persons unknown."

Kilian also challenged the entire indictment as too "vague and uncertain." Again his motion was blocked.

The court also negated Kilian's effort to revive his motion for quashing of the charges, a motion denied yesterday. The colonel asked the court to compel the attendance of four witnesses now in Europe and to postpone the trial until they arrive. The court merely instructed the prosecutor to find out what was being done about obtaining the witnesses and ordered the defense to proceed with the trial.

Lieutenant Accused

In a courtroom adjoining Kilian's, a witness testified that Lieut. Leonard W. Ennis, of Peekskill, N.Y., ordered him to beat a Lichfield prisoner, and in another Pfc. Thomas Warren, of Plainview, Texas, won a five-day postponement of his trial on charges of beating prisoners.

The witness who testified against Ennis was Sergt. Judson Smith, of Cumberland, Ky., a former Lichfield guard who is serving a three-year sentence for his own cruelty to captives at Lichfield.

"Lieutenant Ennis gave me two direct orders to work a man over," Smith said. "That means to hit the prisoner. Ennis was there when I hit the man. He saw his orders executed."

While Smith testified, army public-relations officials handed out a statement that he would be taken to a hospital soon for an examination.

NAZI WAR BUILDER DID ONLY HIS DUTY, HE INFORMS COURT

JUN 20 1946

NUERNBERG, June 19 — (AP) Dark, baldish Albert Speer, 41, architect of Hitler's war industry, began building a defense against war crimes charges today with the contention that he had performed as a businessman and not as a fanatical Nazi and in time had had a complete break with the Fuehrer.

NIGHT

Speer was minister of war production and chief of the TODT organization which built the Westwall and other fortifications.

Opening his defense, he told the Interational Military Tribunal that he was not a professional armaments man but had accepted the assignment as a duty when the Fuehrer appointed him. He said he had handled the task "as it was done in the United States" by bringing in the best men he could find in German industry.

This worked for a while, he said, until he was hindered by party politicians, so he protested to Hitler.

Defense counsel introduced a memo from Speer to Hitler dated Sept. 20, 1944, in which he said "my task is a non-political one" but that Paul Joseph Goebbels and Martin Bormann had accused him of building up in his ministry a group "alien to the party and a reservoir of reactionary economic leaders."

"I do not feel strong enough to carry out without hindrance the technical work to be accomplished by myself and my co-workers if it is to be measured by party political standards," Speer wrote.

Speer is the 19th defendant to take the stand.

This morning Franz von Papen finished his defense. He admitted under questioning that he had helped to exert "pressure" on the Austrian government before the anschluss in 1938. He said he had known of the Nazi government's brutality from early years onward but that he had worked for Germany as a patriot.

"I am responsible only to my conscience and the German people," the diplomat said.

Papen Tells Of Pressure On Austria

Nuernberg, June 19 (AP)—Franz von Papen, dropping his suave manner after four days on the witness stand, angrily told the International Military Tribunal today that he helped exert "pressure" on the Austrian Government prior to the Anschluss in 1938.

Super-Spy Charges

After pursuing a line of quesioning designed to show that the veteran diplomat played the role of super-spy for Adolf Hitler in bringing about the absorption of Austria, Sir David told Papen:

DAY

"I want you to answer this question carefully because your entire veracity depends upon it: are you now trying to tell this tribunal that you did not exert pressure on Chancellor Schuschnigg to agree to Hitler's demands?"

Papen leaned forward, ignored the microphone and shouted:

"I have nnever denied it."

"Ribbentrop Did"

"Well, Ribbentrop denied it quite strongly," the prosecutor said.

Papen bluntly told the tribunal that he was responsible only to his conscience and the German people for sticking by Hitler through the years.

Dropping his urbane manner under the cross-examination of Sir David, the diplomat acknowledged he knew of the brutality of the Nazis from the early years onward, but said he continued to work for the Reich as a "patriot."

"Why Did You?"

"You knew of these inhuman murders by the Gestapo and still you took job after job under Hitler. Why did you do it?" Sir David demanded.

"I did my duty toward Germany," Papen replied. "I know you consider Germans criminals today, but among them, you must remember, are patriots. I am responsible only to my conscience and the German people."

Rundstedt Backs War Planning

Nuernberg, June 19 (AP)—Field Marshal Karl Rudolph Gerd von Rundstedt told Allied questioners today that the German general staff prepared for "aggressive war" during peace years and defended that procedure as the only way an army could operate its planning.

The commander of the Russian invasion and later the Battle of the Bulge, Rundstedt, now 71, was interrogated by a five-man commission hearing preliminary cases against the general staff, Gestapo, SS and other Nazi organizations.

Wearing a Wehrmacht uniform and carrying a cane, the old Prussian told the commission:

"Certainly we prepared for aggressive war. If a man attacks me on the street, I am not going simply to defend myself. I am going to attack him with this cane."

SS Called "Upstarts"

Grave and courteous except when he referred to the SS (Elite Guard) as "impertinent upstarts," Rundstedt defended German generals as professional soldiers unassigned with politics.

Of the Polish campaign, he said Hitler made the decision politically, but the general staff decided on operations because the Führer at that time "would not have dared" to usurp a strategic role.

He added that the generals thought the Polish cofridor issue would be settled bloodlessly, like the Sudetenland and Austria, and failed to realize until too late that the Poles intended to make last-ditch resis[illegible]

Would Testify In Jewels Case

Frankfurt, Germany, June 19 (AP). Countess von Hessen, 74-year-old granddaughter of Queen Victoria of England, said tonight she would be willing to testify against Col. J. W. Durant and his WAC captain wife if [illegible] asked her.

NIGHT

"I wonder what will happen to them," she said when she was told that the recently married couple, held in connection with the multi-million dollar Hesse crown jewel theft, had been flown from Washington to Frankfurt for court martial.

"I haven't yet been asked to testify against them, but I would if I was asked," the black-garbed sister of the late German Kaiser said in a cottage near her family's Kronberg castle, where the royal treasure was stolen last November.

Seventeen miles away, in Frankfurt, Colonel Durant and his wife the former Kathleen B. Nash, rested in Frankfurt's best hotel while the Army began to prepare charges against them.

DURANTS IN REICH FOR GEMS TRIAL

JUN 20 1946

Frankfurt, June 19 (A. P.).—Col. J. W. Durant and his Wac captain wife arrived here by plane today to face a court-martial in connection with the theft of the Hesse crown jewels. The couple, under military escort, landed at the Rhein-Main airfield.

DAY

Reporters were not permitted to approach the pair, but photographers were allowed at close quarters. Col. James K. Mitchell of the Provost Marshal's office said the Durants would not be permitted to talk to the press.

The couple was expected to be taken to the Theater Provost Marshal's office this morning for interrogation.

Lieut.Col. Redmond J. Connolly, Frankfurt Provost Marshal, has been assigned to handle the court-martial arrangements, it was stated. The Durants are quartered at the senior officer's hotel, the Carlton, facing Hindenburg Platz, in the center of Frankfurt.

150 Americans Coming Home

FRANKFORT ON THE MAIN, Germany, June 19 (AP)—One hundred and fifty American civilians caught in Hungary by the outbreak of the war will be flown from Budapest this week on the first lap of their journey home, the European Air Transport Service said today. They will be flown to Paris via Vienna and will board transatlantic ships at Le Havre.

YANK TO HELP HIS EX-CAPTOR

Flies Atlantic To Testify Nazi Gave Him Fair Treatment

JUN 20 1946

Dachau, Germany, Thursday, June 20 (AP)—An American infantry officer who escaped from the commander of the dreaded 1st Waffen SS Regiment during the Battle of the Bulge has flown the Atlantic to testify in defense of his captor, it was disclosed today.

NIGHT

Col. Hal D. McCown, of Ruston, La., was reported ready to take the witness stand in the Dachau military court and testify he received fair treatment from Col. Joachim Peiper, described by some as a one-time aspirant for the title of "Führer of the Fourth Reich."

Fair Treatment Described

Col. Willis M. Everett, chief defense counsel, indicated heavy reliance would be placed on McCown's testimony to counter previous prosecution witnesses who said that Waffen SS troops were obeying "terror" orders from superiors when they massacred helpless American prisoners at Malmedy.

McCown, then a major commanding the 2d Battalion, 110th Infantry Regiment, 30th Division, was captured in L'Eglise, Belgium, on December 21, 1944, by Peiper's regiment.

Four days later, with bitter Christmas fighting raging along the front, McCown succeeded in eluding his German guards and striking out for Allied lines.

In a detailed report for army intelligence officers written immediately after his escape, McCown told of being treated fairly by his foe, officers said.

SAYS SS STUDIED TERROR OF KHAN

JUN 20 1946

Dachau, June 19 (AP)—Lieut.-Gen. Hermann Priess testified at the trial for his life today that Heinrich Himmler's headquarters distributed to SS troops a biography of Genghis Khan, medieval Mongol conqueror, which stressed terror, pillage and rape."

DAY

Priess is one of seventy-four SS veterans on trial for murdering American prisoners of war and other atrocities in the battle of the Ardennes Bulge.

Exasperated by blinding lights for American newsreel cameras as he took the stand, the former commander of the First SS Panzer Corps denied that Hitler issued a special terror order to ground forces on the eve of the winter battle of 1944 and 1945.

Priess said Hitler addressed field commanders at Bad Nauheim and mentioned "terror," but that he understood this to mean "air terror to combat air terror."

83 FEARED DEAD IN GERMAN BLAST

HAENIGSEN, Germany, June 19 —(AP) At least 83 German and foreign workers were believed today to have been killed by an explosion of 10,000 tons of German army ammunition stored in an unused salt mine in this village, 20 miles northeast of Hannover.

The blast, touched off in the 2,000 foot deep mine yesterday by a fire of undetermined origin, flung large steel girders of the pithead gear hundreds of feet and tore the roofs off most of the mine buildings. It was heard 50 miles away at Brunswick.

The 20 Ukrainian displaced persons and 63 Germans who were working in the mine were believed to have died instantly. Although 400 persons were working on the surface at the time, none was hurt.

British soldiers fought fires at the mine head for 18 hours before extinguishing them. It will not be possible, howeevr, to enter the mine for several days.

William Sharman, a British sergeant who was above ground, gave this account of the disaster:

"We heard an explosion underground, then a long, low rumbling and then a tremendous blast of flame shot out of the shaft, wrecking nearly all the buildings and throwing wagons, pieces of concrete and steel frames into the air like confetti.

100 Feared Dead in Blast Of German Ammunition

Fire Touches of Explosion of Stores in Salt Mine

HANNOVER, Germany, June 19 (AP).—More than 100 Germans and displaced persons were feared dead today in an ammunition dump explosion, and a raging underground fire threatened momentarily to touch off the remainder of the stores in a salt mine at Haenigsen, fifteen miles northeast of here.

Eighty Germans and twenty-three displaced persons were working underground when fire broke out in the unused salt mine. All were believed lost.

The entire danger area was evacuated under the direction of British troops, and rescue squads stood by to enter the mine as soon as possible.

All types of German ammunition had been stored in the mine at three levels—forty, seventy and 100 feet below the surface. The ammunition was being removed at the time of the explosion.

It was believed that half the stores exploded when the fire broke out on the seventy-foot level. Some 10,000 tons were believed to have remained intact.

100 BELIEVED DEAD IN REICH EXPLOSION

JUN 20 1946

Hannover, June 19 (A. P.).—More than 100 Germans and displaced persons are believed to have lost their lives in an explosion which followed a fire in an ammunition dump at Haenigsen, 15 miles northeast of Hannover yesterday.

All types of German ammunition had been stored in an old salt mine on three levels at 40, 70 and 100 feet below the surface. The ammunition was being removed, but it was estimated that 10,000 tons of explosives were still in the mine at the time of the blast.

The fire started on the 70-foot level and about half of the stored ammunition exploded. At the time of the explosion, eighty Germans and twenty-three displaced persons were working underground. All were believed to have been lost. One British soldier working on the surface was slightly injured.

The whole area was evacuated by British troops immediately. Rescue squads are standing by to enter the mine as soon as possible.

Browder Says He Is in Russia To Revive Ties

Fails to See Stalin on Trip; Arranges to Represent Soviet Publishers in U. S.

R. JAMES

MOSCOW, June 19 (AP).—Earl Browder disclosed today that his original purpose in coming to Moscow was "to re-establish contacts with the Soviet Union," and said that while his visit was a success, he had not seen Prime Minister Stalin.

The former head of the Communist party in the United States said he had signed contracts to represent Soviet book publishers in America for the next five years. He added that he thought his new enterprise would require him to visit Moscow "every year or two" to check with the trade union publishing houses he will represent.

Browder insisted there was nothing political about this undertaking, "unless American and Soviet friendship, in which I always have been interested, can be called political."

Browder, who was ousted from office by the American Communists, told a press conference that the arrival from New York of A. A. Heller, whom he described as "an old friend who is now resuming his custom of an annual visit to the Soviet Union," made the stay in Moscow more enjoyable.

[Heller left New York for Moscow June 7. A staunch Browder supporter in the United States, he abruptly cut off his large contributions to the Communist party when Browder was deposed. Heller was American purchasing agent for the Bolshevist regime in Russia more than a quarter century ago.]

The idea of becoming American representative for Soviet publishers occurred to him, Browder said, during talks in Moscow with friends.

"I have been promised that all the material published here will be sent to me and will be available to American publishers who are interested," he said. "I think there is a market in the United States, in so far as buyers are concerned, but I don't know to what extent American publishers are interested in Soviet books. I will just have to find that out by experience."

Browder said his office will be in New York, and the enterprise will be financed through royalties collected in America on Soviet books published there. He said he would try to promote the publication of more Ameircan books in the Soviet Union, although he had no contract to do so.

He read a list of scores of Soviet books he would take home with him, ranging from a history of the Soviet Union to the reminiscences of a ballet master.

He said he hoped to find time for his personal writings, adding, with a smile: "Like most retired politicians, I've got to write my memoirs."

Browder said he was ready to leave for the United States by airplane. During his stay here he was housed in Moscow's best hotel and was received by Foreign Minister Viacheslav M. Molotov and Deputy Foreign Minister Solomon A. Lozovsky.

But Ousted Chief of Communist Party Here Calls His Mission to Moscow a Success.

Moscow, June 19 (A. P.).—Earl Browder declared at a press conference today that he had not seen Generalissimo Stalin during his six weeks in Moscow, but that his stay had been a success. The former leader of the Communist party in the United States added that he was ready to leave for home, flying either by Paris or Stockholm.

He has been living in a suite at the best hotel in Moscow during his visit. Foreign Commissar Molotov and the Vice-Foreign Commissar, S. A. Lozovsky, received him.

Browder said his idea of becoming the American representative of Soviet publishers was inspired by talks with friends here. "I told some friends I thought it was too bad there were not more Soviet books published in America," he said. "They said why didn't I do something about it if I felt that way, so I took up the challenge."

He read a list of scores of Soviet books he was taking along, ranging from a history of philosophy and a history of the Soviet Union to the reminiscences of a ballet master. He said his office would be in New York and that his enterprise would be financed through royalties collected in America on Soviet books published there. Translations would be done either in Russia or in the United States, depending on the American publishers' wishes, he added.

Browder said he signed contracts to represent Soviet book publishers in the United States for five years. "I have been promised that all the material published here will be sent to me and be made available to American publishers who are interested," Browder said.

Promises Own Memoirs.

"There are indications that there will be large-scale translations of American authors in the Soviet Union before long," Browder continued. "I also think personally the Soviet Union will join the international copyright convention."

Browder said he thought his new job would require him to visit Moscow every year or two to see publishing houses of the State arts and trade unions which he contracted to represent. There was nothing political about his undertaking, he declared, "unless American and Soviet friendship in which I have always been interested can be called political."

Browder also said he hoped to find time for personal writing because, like most retired politicians, "I have got to write my memoirs."

He said the arrival of A. A. Heller from New York, described by Browder as "an old friend who is resuming his custom of an annual visit to the Soviet Union," had made his visit to Moscow more enjoyable.

STALIN ISSUES NEW DISCIPLINE ORDER TO REDS

JUN 20 1946

Army Newspaper Declares Decree Will Advance Might of Soviet.

R. JAMES

Moscow, June 19 (A. P.).—Stricter discipline in the Red Army and Navy, including rigid observance of the rule of military politeness and saluting," is required in a new decree signed by Generalissimo Stalin and published by the Army newspaper Red Star today.

Another decree, published by the Supreme Soviet Journal and signed by Nikolai Shvernik, presidium president, offered Soviet citizenship to thousands of former subjects of the Czar and other Russians now living in France, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia. There is no available estimate of how many persons may be affected by this decree, but in Paris alone there are thousands of former subjects of the empire.

Must Be Ready to Suffer.

Red Star commented editorially that the decree would "advance the military might of the Soviet State" by re-defining the relationship of officers and men to each other and their duties to the State.

Military personnel, the editorial said in describing the regulations which supersede the 1940 rules, must fulfill strictly the orders of their superiors and be prepared to suffer hardships and deprivations and give their lives if necessary in carrying out their duties.

The newspaper said the new regulations require all military and naval personnel "to strictly keep military state secrets; to be honest, truthful and conscientious; to study military requirements; to conserve military and state property; to respect superiors and chiefs, strictly observing the rules of military politeness and saluting."

The regulations require that orders of superiors must be observed exactly and promptly, but that subordinates should not be humiliated or caused to lose personal dignity, Red Star said.

May Write Supreme Chief.

Courts of honor were ordered created for keeping the dignity and honor of the officer rank "to investigate faults of unworthy officers which lower military honor or which are incompatible with the conception or morality."

In addition, "if a man in service discovers plundering or spoiling of military property, illegal spending of money, or misuse in supplying troops he is obliged to report this to the command and may send a written statement to the Supreme Chief."

The other decree said that applicants for Soviet citizenship living in France may present statements to the Soviet embassy before November 1 of this year. In Bulgaria and Yugoslavia the dead line will be October 1. Soviet embassies in the three countries are empowered to investigate the identities of applicants and other facts concerning them, and to issue Soviet passports if they are satisfied that requirements are met.

CHETNIK DENIES AIDE'S CHARGES

...ilovic Says He Didn't Order Attack On Tito's Troops

W. KING

Belgrade, June 19 (AP) — Gen. Draja Mihailovic today denied the testimony of one of his lieutenants that he had personally ordered the first Chetnik attack against Marshal Tito's partisan troops, and had ordered collaboration with enemy occupation forces.

NIGHT

Mihailovic made the denial in a face-to-face encounter with the lieutenant, Milos Glisic, after the defense attorney had again appealed for permission for American flyers to testify on behalf of the Chetnik leader.

Denied By Mihailovic

The court, however, interrupted the attorney's reading of a telegram from New York from the Committee for the Defense of Mihailovic. Dragic Joksimovic, the attorney, also asked that all evidence and reports on the trial be made available for the defense, but the court did not rule immediately on this motion.

The court ordered Mihailovic to face Glisic while Glisic repeated testimony that Mihailovic had ordered co-operation by Glisic's unit in Sandjak with the Germans through the Yugoslav puppet government and had ordered the first Chetnik attack against Tito's forces.

"It is not true," declared Mihailovic who is charged with treason and collaboration.

Called To Order By Court

Joksimovic asked permission to bring former American liaison officers and flyers downed in Yugoslavia as witnesses, expanding the list over that for which he had asked unsuccessfully once before.

When he began reading a telegram from the committee in New York, the court president declared that "it is absolutely not necessary to read it."

"Let me read the telegram and you will see why I ask for these witnesses," Joksimovic replied. He continued to press the point, and the court called him to order by ringing a bell.

Brief Questioning Of Mihailovic

"I warn Mr. Joksimovic that he must keep order in the court," the president said.

Later in the day the court disposed quickly of the preliminary phase of the case against ten men being tried in absentia along with Mihailovic.

Mihailovic was brought to the stand briefly for questioning by attorneys for the absent defendants.

"Mostly Propaganda"

The attorney for Constantin Fotitch, former Yugoslav Ambassador in Washington, asked Mihailovic: "Did you ask the men abroad to deny your collaboration?"

"There was great propaganda on both sides. I don't know what telegrams were sent to Fotitch," Mihailovic answered. "We sent cypher telegrams to Fotitch. It was mostly propaganda."

Mihailovic said Fotitch had made broadcasts in the United States and answered yes when asked: "Did he call the people to rally under your command?"

"Did he describe the National Liberation Army as : band of bandits and Bolsheviks?"

"I don't know," Mihailovic said.

British Colonel Denies Claims Of Mihailovic

London, June 19 (AP)—Lieut. Col. William Hudson, one-time British liaison officer with Gen. Draja Mihailovic's forces, said tonight he never instructed Mihailovic to destroy Communist Partisans in Yugoslavia.

Mihailovic testified in Belgrade June 12 that he had been told by the British mission attached to his headquarters to liquidate the Communists.

Hudson said in a statement issued here:

"I at no time gave Mihailovic instructions or encouragement to liquidate or fight the Partisans, nor did I receive orders from my headquarters to do so."

The colonel said that when he went to Yugoslavia in the Fall of 1941, he found relations very strained between Marshal Tito and Mihailovic.

He said, "I urged them both to fight for Yugoslavia and not specifically for foreign powers like Britain and Russia."

JUN 20 1946

W. KING

Belgrade, June 19 (AP)—Gen. Draja Mihailovic and one of his Chetnik lieutenants, Milos Glistic, faced each other in a dramatic courtroom scene today and gave conflicting testimony on the extent of Mihailovic's blame for collaboration with the enemy and fighting Marshal Tito's Partisans.

The General's lawyer renewed his request to call United States witnesses, but the court rebuffed him.

Among the witnesses whom the defense again requested were Walter Mansfield, a New York lawyer; Lieut. George Musulin, of Pittsburgh, first United States officer to parachute to Mihailovic's headquarters, and Nick Lalic. They and the others were identified as former American liaison officers and aviators.

DAY

Mihailovic And Glistic

When Mihailovic and Glistic stood facing each other, the latter repeated testimony that Mihailovic personnally ordered his unit in Sandjak to co-operate with enemy occupation forces through the puppet government of Milan Nedic, and that Mihailovic personally ordered the first Chetnik attack against Marshal Tito's Partisans.

"It is not true," Mihailovic said.

Tito now is premier of the Yugoslav Government that replaced the regime of King Peter, whom Mihailovic served as War Minister and commander in chief during the period that he was recognized as the first important underground fighter during the war.

Disclaimer Allegation

Glistic testified that previous to the Chetnik attack on the partisans at Uzice, Mihailovic met his officers and gave them a "go ahead and then added that he, in the future, would disclaim responsibility for the action.

The technique of ordering witnesses who have given conflicting testimony to confront each other has become a standard proceeding of the three-man court. At the moment of meeting, technicians snap on floodlights, movie cameras grind and photographers snap still pictures. But so far, this has caused no witness to change his story.

Miahilovic and twenty-four of his followers are on trial on charges of treason and collaboration.

Telegram Blocked

Defense Attorney Dragic Joksimovic presented a list of proposed witnesses, expanded from the list that the court rejected last week. When he began to read a telegram from New York, the court president interrupted to say, "It is absolutely not necessary to read it."

"Let me read the telegram and you will see why I ask for these witnesses," the lawyer said. When he continued to press the point, the court called him to order with a bell and a threat:

"I warn Mr. Joksimovic he must keep to the order of the court."

Prosecutor Fights Move

Commenting on the proposal, the prosecutor asked:

"Can witnesses from abroad refute the evidence of the accused Mihailovic . . . and of the coaccused of Mihailovic, which irrefutably proves to my mind that there was open collaboration?"

As before, the list was headed by Mansfield's name. It was learned unofficially that the message expressed a lack of understanding how Mihailovic could refuse witnesses who could help his defense. It also cited the precedent of foreign witnesses called in a treason case against a group of Serbs tried by a court of Austria-Hungary before the first World War.

The motion came at the opening of the tenth day of the trial.

Glistic Is Last Called

Glistic was the last of Mihailovic's lieutenants presented for trial.

The 36-year-old former captain of the Royal Yugoslav Army pleaded innocence. Glistic was wartime commander of a Chetnik unit in Sandjak, between Montenegro and the Albanian border. Sandjack was the scene of a bloody massacre of Moslems, and the prosecution charged that the Chetniks executed them because of their sympathy for the Partisan cause.

ITALIANS ERASING SIGNS OF KINGDOM

JUN 21 1946

Rome, June 19 (A. P.).—Premier Alcide de Gasperi's interim Government today began erasing the name of the monarchy from all legal and political machinery under a Supreme Court ruling which made official the people's decision in the June 2 plebiscite to replace the House of Savoy with a republic. The vote was revealed to have been 12,717,923 to 10,719,284.

No date has yet been set, however, for the official proclamation of the republic.

Last night the de Gasperi cabinet approved a decree providing that henceforth all court verdicts will be handed down "in the name of the Italian people"; that the Official Gazette be renamed the Official Gazette of the Republic; that the shield of the House of Savoy be removed from the Italian flag, leaving only the red, white and green bars; and that all references to the monarchy be stricken from oaths and other legal and judicial formula.

In its ruling the Supreme Court said that results from 118 voting precincts omitted from previously announced totals and minor corrections from charges of voting fraud did not substantially change the republican majority.

INDONESIAN PROPOSAL HELD BACKWARD STEP

THE HAGUE, The Netherlands, June 19 (AP)—The Netherland Government said in a communiqué today that Indonesian counterproposals to Netherlands offers in the Netherlands Indies negotiations insisted upon recognition of Indonesian nationalist authority over Sumatra as well as Java.

The communiqué said that the Government took the view that the proposals were "a serious step backward" in the negotiations.

The Indonesian proposal said that Netherland recognition would be a prelude to establishment of an Indonesian Free State which would conclude an alliance with The Netherlands. It suggested a referendum in three years in Dutch-controlled areas neighboring on Java and Sumatra to determine whether these, too, would enter the Indonesian Free State.

The Indonesians stipulated that Dutch forces would not be strengthened in the islands.

The Netherland Government's offer to the Indonesians last ? never has been fully disclosed.

Missing Arab Leader Calls at Palace in Cairo, Says 'I Have Taken Refuge'; His Plea Likely To Be Granted After Middle East Custom

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, June 20 (Thursday).—King Farouk of Egypt announced today that he had received the Mufti of Jerusalem, who had asked for sanctuary. A communique issued at Abdin Palace said that at 8 p. m. last night the Mufti, the Haj Amin el-Husseini, "called at the palace, signed the royal visitors' books and asked for an audience from King Farouk."

"The audience was granted," the communique continued, "and the Mufti told the King: 'I have taken refuge in your palace.'"

The whereabouts of the Mufti, the spiritual leader of Palestine Arabs, had been the subject of widespread speculation since he fled from his place of exile in a Paris suburb late last month.

Efforts were made to find him in various places in the Middle East. Last Friday and Saturday he was the object of an unsuccessful search by the British Navy and Palestinian police on board the British transport Devonshire off Port Said.

DAY

The prevailing opinion in Cairo is that the Mufti escaped from France to Egypt by plane. However, the circumstances surrounding his mysterious escape still have not been fully explained.

A highly reliable source, who declined to be quoted by name, said Egypt would grant sanctuary to the Mufti.

King Farouk has advised the British government of the Mufti's appearance in Egypt and of his decision to grant sanctuary, the informant said.

Granting refuge to the Mufti in Egypt would follow the Arab tradition of giving shelter to any one asking for it. A possible precedent was established by King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia when Rashid Aley El Kilany appeared in Saudi Arabia and asked sanctuary after leading an unsuccessful revolt against the Iraqi government and British forces in Iraq in 1941. Rashid Aley still is in Saudi Arabia, according to last reports.

The fifty-three-year-old Mufti is an implacable foe of Jewish immigration into the Holy Land. His flight from Paris came at a time when representatives of the Arab states were discussing methods of opposing the British-American inquiry committee's recommendation for the immigration of 100,000 Jews into Palestine this year.

He is regarded as a shrewd, aggressive leader who might play an important part in Arab strategy if Britain and the United States should attempt to carry out the inquiry committee's recommendations.

The Mufti fled Palestine in 1937 under pressure from the British. During the war the British accused him of making broadcasts for the Germans. (NOON)

HOLY LAND SEARCH PUSHED BY BRITISH FOR KIDNAP BANDS

Two Jews Killed, Lifting Three-Day Death Toll to Twenty-Four.

CURFEW IN TEL AVIV

All Residents Remain Indoors as Troops Patrol City.

O. Carruthers

JERUSALEM, June 19 — (AP) British troops pressing a broad hunt for six missing British officers killed two Jews in a clash near the Lebanese border today, raising to 24 the toll of dead in the third day of violence in the turbulent Holy Land.

NIGHT

The [illegible] occurred in the village of Kfar Giladi as troops and police joined in searching and blocking off huge areas of Palestine. Three other Jews were injured in the battle.

Sixth Officer Kidnaped

The apparent kidnaping of a sixth British officer was disclosed earlier today.

British soldiers with automatic weapons searched houses and patrolled streets of Tel Aviv, all-Jewish city of 200,000. Tel Aviv became a dead city under a strict curfew imposed at 5 a. m. this morning, with almost all residents remaining behind locked doors. Tonight army officers said the curfew would be lifted at midnight when search operations were completed. The curfew had been slated to extend until 4 a. m. tomorrow.

Suspects Seized

Night and day squads of police and soldiers operated in and around suspected hideouts of Haganah, underground Jewish movement, arresting scores of suspects and uncovering hoards of illegal weapons.

The kidnapings have been attributed to Irgun Zvai Leumi, an illegal Jewish movement, but the wave of attacks on a military scale against frontier bridges connecting Palestine with its neighbors and against Palestine rail centers was believed to be the work of the larger Haganah organization. As yet officials have discovered no underlying unity between the operations of these two dissident underground organizations.

Police believed the latest missing officer, British Maj. H. B. Chadwick, as well as his five fellow officers abducted yesterday, may be held hostage by the Irgun group for two of its members now under sentence of death for raiding a British military camp in March.

Chadwick failed to appear at a General Command meeting at the King David Hotel last night.

A grapevine report from Tel Aviv where all Jewish premises now are off limits to British personnel, spread word that the hostages would be released if the two Irgun members' sentences were commuted to life imprisonment.

Release Demanded

The Tel Aviv municipal council in an emergency session passed a resolution calling upon the kidnapers to release the British officers. But Mayor Israel Rokeach said he did not believe the prisoners were in the city.

Troops of the British Sixth Airborne division in Tel Aviv erected roadblocks at every corner and established posts for checking the identity of persons abroad every 200 or 300 yards.

The search spread to other areas. A large force of British troops and police detachments launched an exhaustive hunt for the missing officers in Jewish settlements adjoining the Palestine-Lebanese frontier. The aim of the hunt was not explained officially, but Tel Aviv is only 85 miles from the border.

All roads through Upper Galilee, northern portion of the Holy Land, were blocked off. Telephone communications were cut to prevent alarm signals from being spread to nearby settlements and troops fanned out in the search.

Jewish Settlements Searched

Near the Syrian border, two Jewish settlements were cordoned off and searched. This activity was in the area where terrorists Sunday night dynamited the Jisr Banat Yacoub (Bridge of the Daughters of Jacob). Sappers threw a Bailey bridge across the Jordan river at that point.

Near the city of Acre, residents of a Jewish settlement resisted a military search and blocked gates to the city with an iron water tank and a hive of bees. Soldiers removed the blocks, entered the town and detained a number of persons for questioning. Signal apparatus was confiscated.

Neither British army officials, authorities of the Palestine government nor heads of the Jewish agency would comment officially on what was behind the sudden widespread terrorism which put Palestine virtually under a state of military siege.

DISORDER SWEEPING COUNTRY

Troops Search Tel Aviv and Jewish Settlements Along Lebanese Frontier.

O. Carruthers

Jerusalem, June 19 (A. P.).—Palestine police said late today that another British officer was missing, possibly bringing to six the number of officers kidnaped in a wave of disorder sweeping the country.

DAY

The officer, Major H. B. Chadwick, failed to appear at a general command meeting at the King David Hotel late yesterday, the police said. Previously, five British officers were kidnaped by an armed band from a club at Tel Aviv.

The police said Chadwick may be a hostage of the Irgun Zvai Leumi, an outlawed resistance organization, reported attempting to force a demand for commutation of death sentences on two of their Jewish comrades.

Meanwhile a large force of troops and policemen began scouring several Jewish settlements along the Lebanese frontier. Troops also started a systematic search of the modern Jewish city of Tel Aviv at dawn, combing the Hatikvah and Shapiro quarters and the neighborhood of the Yarkon River for traces of the kidnaped officers. (INSET)

Urge Release of Captives.

The Tel Aviv Municipal Council passed a resolution at an emergency meeting calling on the kidnapers to release the British captives immediately. Mayor Israel Rokeach asserted that he did not believe the officers were in the city.

The British Sixth Airborne Division erected road blocks at every street corner in Tel Aviv and established posts to check identities every 200 or 300 yards.

The British, however, prepared to lift at 4 A. M. tomorrow a curfew in Tel Aviv which kept residents of that city of 200,000 indoors throughout the day.

Residents of the Jewish settlement near Acre resisted a military search of the area yesterday, blocking gates to the town with an iron water tank and releasing a hive of bees, an Army spokesman said. Entering the area after removing the blocks, the soldiers searched the town, detained several persons for questioning and confiscated signaling apparatus.

The border search, eighty-five miles from Tel Aviv, was not immediately explained. All roads through the Upper Galilee section of Palestine in the north were blocked. Telephone lines were cut to prevent alarms being spread to other settlements.

Troops cordoned off two Jewish settlements, Twehai and Kargiladi, near the Syriac bridge.

Unconfirmed reports said two Jews were killed at the Jewish community of Kfar Giladi near the Lebanese border. The report said several arrests were made.

Temporary Bridge Erected.

British engineers threw a Bailey bridge across the Jordan, between Palestine and Syria, replacing the dynamited "Bridge of the Daughters of Jacobs" which raiders destroyed Sunday.

In three days eighteen have been killed and scores injured.

Military authorities proclaimed all Jewish premises in Palestine out of bounds to British troops until the kidnaped officers are freed. The prohibition applied to bars, theaters, hotels and restaurants.

Rumors apparently started by underground Jewish organizations, meanwhile, said the five British officers kidnaped from a club at Tel Aviv yesterday would be released if the death sentences of two members of the Irgun Zvai Leumi, an illegal Jewish organization, were commuted to life imprisonment. The officers were believed held as hostages.

While these rumors seemingly answered the question of the motive of the sensational kidnaping, it did not answer the question in the minds of Palestine officialdom as to the cause and aims of the widespread attacks which have thrown the country into a virtual state of military siege.

Although the kidnapings were attributed to Irgun Zvai Leumi, the attacks of a military scale on eight frontier bridges connecting the country with all its neighbors and against railway centers were believed the work of the larger Jewish Haganah organization. As yet no official unity between operations of the two dissident underground groups has been reported.

Some Blame Bevin.

The outburst of violence was believed in some quarters here to be linked both to British Foreign Secretary Bevin's Palestine announcement at Bournemouth last week and the mysterious flight from exile in France of the Grand Mufti, Haj Amin El Husseini, spiritual leader of Palestine's Moslems.

Speaking in Petah Tiqvah, near Tel Aviv, Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist Organization, said last night that he doubted Bevin's statement that the proposed admission to Palestine of 100,000 homeless European Jews would require dispatch of an additional British Army division to the Holy Land.

"I must admit this reference to the need of more divisions is no aid to the maintenance of that stability and tranquillity so desperately needed here in these trying times," Weizmann said. "No responsible member of the Palestine Jewry," he added, wishes to have "British soldiers fall in defense of the Jewish community—still less as victims of political violence."

Arabs Assail Violence.

London, June 19 (A. P.).—Spokesmen for the Arab Office said today that "the latest outbreak of terrorism by Zionist gangs in Palestine is a strange commentary on Jewish claims to turn the country into a Jewish national state. These outbreaks of criminal violence only serve to emphasize the justice of the Arab cause.

"Although one accepts that these periodic outrages are commited by extremist elements, failure by the Jewish Agency to suppress the activities of such illegal organizations is scarcely likely to command the Zionist cause to statesmen now concerned with the future of Palestine."

India Post To Bose's Brother?

New Delhi, June 19 (AP)—Sarat Chandra Bose, brother of the late Subhas Chandra Bose, organizer of the Japanese-sponsored Indian National Army, may be given a place in the British-proposed Indian interim government.

Bose's appointment to a Congress seat in the Cabinet in place of H. K. Mahtab, together with acceptance by the Congress party of the British proposal for an interim government, is expected tonight.

Death Still Not Certain

The death of Subhas Chandra Bose in a plane accident in the closing days of the war, as reported by Takyo, is still a subject of conjecture.

Mahtab was one of those invited Sunday by Viceroy Lord Wavell and the British Cabinet mission to represent the Congress party. Representatives of the Moslem League, the "depressed castes," Sikhs, Parsees and Indian Christians were also invited to sit on the Cabinet while a constituent assembly drafts a charter for Indian independence.

What might have been a last-minute breakdown appeared averted when Mohandas K. Gandhi decided not to press his previous demand for inclusion of a Nationalist Moslem and a woman member in the Cabinet.

INDIAN LEADER BAYONETTED

KOHALA, Kashmir State, India, June 19. — (AP) Pandit Jawahar Lal Nehru, a leader of the Congress party, received a bayonet wound on the cheek today when he attempted to push his way past a military sentry and enter the State of Kashmir. He previously had been barred from this northern Indian state.

Warning Given On Any Move To Disarm Jews

Washington, June 19 (AP)—A prediction that the British would have to kill more than 10,000 Jews in Palestine if they sought to disarm Jewish groups in that country was made to British Ambassador Lord Inverchapel today by Nahum Goldman, American representative of the Jewish agency for Palestine.

Marines To Maintain Peace

Tsingtao, June 19 (AP)—"Peace and order" will be maintained in this strategic Shantung seaport regardless of the course of China's internal strife, the United States Marine commander made clear today.

Brig. Gen. Walter T. Clement declined to say, however, whether his Marines would defend the city itself in case of an attack by large Chinese Communist forces already controlling its landward communications.

He emphasized at a press conference that they would assist authorities of the Government-held seaport "in every possible way to maintain peace and order."

Communist Demand Reported

Clement refused to comment on a report that the Communists had requested withdrawal of American forces from Tsingtao. He said he did not wish to amplify his statement regarding maintenance of peace and order, but that it was "apparent" what he meant.

Saturday the field commander of Communist forces in Shantung province was reported to have given categorical assurances that his troops would not attack the city, asking in return that the Government cease using Tsingtao as a staging point for Manchuria-bound Nationalist troops.

Near-By Cities Reported Taken

Later the Government Central News Agency reported Communist forces had seized the near-by cities of Chengyan, Tsimo, Lantsun and Kiaohsien, but subsequently announced recapture of Chengyang by nationalist troops. Chengyang is about eighteen miles north of Tsingtao.

The destroyer Estes, flagship of the United States 7th Fleet, was expected to arrive here Wednesday, and 20 families of naval personnel are expected aboard the General Breckenridge early in July.

A navy announcement in Shanghai that these families would join their men in Tsingtao as scheduled was taken as evidence that American authorities considered the so-called Tsingtao crisis definitely over.

Help From U.S. Marines Is Promised In Tsingtao

JUN 20 1946

Tsingtao, June 19 (AP)—The United States Marine commander in Tsingtao declared today his forces would help Chinese authorities "maintain peace and order" in this vital Shantung port, should the Communists attack.

The commander, Brig. Gen. Walter T. Clement, declined to say, however, whether the marines would defend the city itself should the Communists, now reported active on all sides, move against the port's defenses.

"Own Safety" Involved

"We naturally are very much interested in maintaining peace and order for our own safety," Clement added.

[The Government's Central News Agency reported in a broadcast heard by the Associated Press listening post in San Francisco that National troops had recaptured Chengyang, only 18 miles north of Tsingtao, from the Communists, who were retreating northward.]

The marine general also declined to comment on reports that the Communists had asked the Marines to withdraw from Tsingtao, once a summer anchorage for parts of the British and United States Asiatic fleets.

Clement said he did not wish to amplify his statement regarding the maintenance of peace and order in the event of Communist attack but that it was "apparent" what he meant.

U.S. Is Held At Fault

Communist propagandists in Peiping asserted, meanwhile, that the civil war in China would be over, had not the United States helped transport Government troops to Manchuria and given them weapons.

These sources declared that United States aid to the Nanking Government while peace negotiations were in progress was "an unfriendly gesture to the Chinese people."

On the other hand, Li Sien-liang, Mayor of Tsingtao, urged United States forces here to commit themselves to the defense of the city, saying that would deter the Communists.

Li declared that the Marines arrived last October not only to disarm and repatriate Japanese but to establish a Far Eastern naval base.

British Shanghai Post Assigned To Pritchard

Shanghai, June 19 (AP)—Appointment of E. A. Pritchard, of Great Britain, to be commissioner of customs at Shanghai was officially announced today.

The appointment led to speculation that China might be seeking a British loan, as before the war many British loans to China were secured on customs' revenue.

During the past week, rumors that Premier T. V. Soong had selected Pritchard to replace the Chinese incumbent was criticized by the Shanghai press.

Reds Blame U. S.

Peiping, June 19 (A. P.).—Chinese Communist spokesmen said today that the civil war in China would be over if the United States had not helped transport Government troops to Manchuria and given them weapons.

They declared that American aid to the Nanking Government while peace negotiations were in progress was "an unfriendly gesture to the Chinese people."

Court Criticizes Prosecution In Tojo Case

JUN 20 1946

Tokyo, June 19 (AP)—The prosecution in the international war-crimes trial of Hideki Tojo and 27 others received a mild rebuff from the court today in its attempt to show that the schools were used to help lead Japan to war.

After testimony by Yukitoki Takikawa, Japanese educator, dean of law at Kyoto University, Tribunal President Sir William Webb commented that the line of testimony was "not very helpful to the court."

He suggested that the remaining 28 witnesses on the educational phase of the charges be thinned out.

Takikawa testified that after the Manchurian incident military training officers grasped control of Japan's educational system and steeped students in contempt and hatred for potential enemies.

Aggression Justified

He termed the Japanese form of education "very bad" and said "it completely omitted free thought and liberal ideas and was devoted to justifying Japanese aggressive warfare in Manchuria and China."

Takikawa said he was ousted from Kyoto in 1933 because he wrote articles opposing the Manchurian incident, Hitler, and prosecution of students.

"We will have to judge the effect of propaganda by the results, not by the opinions of witnesses, even of professors," Sir William commented.

He suggested that to speed up proceedings, attorneys avoid technicalities, as "we are men of some experience, not eleven jurors."

Jailed For Liberalism

Teachers were required to spread the doctrine that dying in combat for the Emperor was glorious, Dr. Hyoe Ouichi, an educator once jailed as overly liberal, testified earlier today.

Pacificism among professors was ground for dismissal, Ouichi asserted, explaining that he himself had spent more than eighteen months in prison because of his reported sympathy to "peace ideals."

Testimony by affidavit, such as Ouichi's, was begun today in an effort to speed up the trial. Personal crossexamination was retained.

TOJO DENIES HE SET A PRICE FOR PEACE

R BRINES

Tokyo, June 19 (A. P.).—Former Premier Hideki Tojo denied in a statement today that he sent Special Ambassador Saburo Kurusu to Washington in the fateful autumn of 1941 with three demands as the price of peace. Through his attorney, Tojo took issue with Chief Prosecutor Joseph B. Keenan, who said in Washington that he had been told by Kurusu that Tojo laid down as his conditions for the withdrawal of troops from Indo-China (1) the unfreezing of Japanese assets by the United States, (2) the shipment of unlimited amounts of high octane gasoline to Japan and (3) the halting of all gasoline shipments to China.

"I do not deny I had such an idea in mind," Tojo said today. "But I did not instruct Kurusu specifically to propose such conditions to America nor did I suggest them to him informally."

However, all three points were vital to Japan, Tojo said, and "if they had been granted, events in the Far East would have had another turn, no doubt." Tojo said that he had rested war or peace entirely on the negotiations already in progress in Washington, which had reached an impasse at the time Kurusu arrived.

Shidehara to Be Called

TOKYO, Thursday, June 20 (AP)—An expectant International War Crimes Tribunal awaited today the appearance of Baron Kijuro Shidehara, who may provide the first "inside testimony" on the struggle for power within Japan that preceded Asiatic aggression.

The prosecution subpoenaed the 73-year-old statesman, a former Premier and now Minister Without Portfolio. His appearance, probably Friday, may help curtail other testimony on this phase of the trial.

Jap Constitution Vote Opposed

JUN 21 1946

R BRINES

Tokyo, June 19 (AP)—Japanese Communists opened fire today on the nation's new "no war" constitution, which will be laid before the Diet tomorrow at the opening of its nineteenth extraordinary session.

The five Communist members of the House of Representatives announced they would oppose consideration of the constitution at this session.

Premier Yoshida has declared the new constitution, which diminishes the powers of the Emperor and gives greater liberties to the people, will be one of the major items of business of the newly-elected Diet.

The Communists said their opposition to speedy consideration of a democratic constitution was based on the idea that the Government was trying to "steam roller" it through.

Adoption Indicated

Inasmuch as General MacArthur has praised the document, the Diet's adoption of the constitution is taken as a matter of course, barring unforeseen developments.

All major parties have announced support of the Government on the constitution and on measures designed to solve the food crisis.

This support was welcomed by Yoshida supporters since the Premier holds a bare majority in the House from the two conservative parties backing him—the so-called Liberals and the Progressives.

Emperor Hirohito will open the Diet formally tomorrow by appearing before both the House of Representatives and the Peers to read a brief rescript.

14 DEAD, 44 MISSING IN 3 JAP DISASTERS

JUN 20 1946

Tokyo, June 19 (A. P.).—Two mine explosions and a railroad accident in Japan left fourteen persons dead, forty-four missing and 127 injured today. All were Japanese.

DAY

At least seven were killed and ninety-three others were injured by an explosion of 2,000 pounds of dynamite at a cable terminal of the Chugai Mining Company near Nagano yesterday. The blast damaged 2,000 dwellings.

The Kyodo news agency said that forty-four persons were missing after an explosion in the Tagawa coal mine in Kawashi, on Kyushu, early today. No further information was available.

A Nagoya repatriation train crashed into the rear of a standing train at Ninomiya station, ten miles southwest of Odawara, late last night, killing seven and injuring thirty-four others. Odawara is about fifty miles southwest of Tokyo.

To Carry Food to Japan.

Tokyo, June 19 (A. P.).—Allied headquarters today directed the Japanese Government to send ships to the Philippines and to Okinawa to carry 27,000 long tons of surplus Army food to Japan. The food will be stored here pending authorization for its release.

Maybe Yes In Oh-No

JUN 20 1945

Oh-No, Japan, June 19 (AP)—Oh-No township courts don't know whether to say "yes" or "no" to this one.

Five dagger-armed robbers rapped on the door of Mrs. Ko Nagashima and demanded 100,000 yen. She offered them 2,000 yen—all she had.

"We can't take a paltry sum like that," said the leader.

"I will go next door and borrow from my neighbor," said the woman.

Three robbers went with her. The neighbor handed over 10,000 more yen.

Now the question is was Mrs. Nagashima the only one robbed? Or were both she and her neighbor robbed? Did the neighbor lend her the money? Or was she an accomplice?

Nobody in Oh-No knows.

Service Men's Wives Due in Japan Friday

JUN 20 1946

Yokosuka, Japan, June 19 (A. P.).—A welcome was being prepared today for twenty-two Navy and Marine Corps wives, the first American service men's dependents to come to Japan. They are expected at 1 P. M. on Friday aboard the U. S. S. Charles Carroll.

Tugs equipped with loudspeakers will blare out a welcome. The wives will be decorated with leis as they step ashore. Until a community housing project under way here is ready for occupancy, the families will live at Kamakura, a summer resort eight miles away, on Tokyo Bay.

Oil Fire Damages Ship at Pearl Harbor

Pearl Harbor, June 19 (A. P.).—Pacific Fleet Headquarters reported yesterday that an oil fire aboard an unidentified United States ship at Pearl Harbor had done slight damage to the side of a repair vessel. Flames were quickly brought under control.

Hoover Leaves Cuba by Plane

U.S. Honors R.C.A.F. Officers

OTTAWA, June 19 (AP).—Ray Atherton, American Ambassador to Canada, yesterday awarded the United States Legion of Merit to two senior Royal Canadian Air Force officers—Air Marshal Robert Leckie, chief of Canada's air staff, and Air Vice-Marshal W. A. Curtis, air member of the air staff.

ROMANIA REPLIES TO U. S. PROTEST WITH SHARP NOTE

JUN 20 1946

WASHINGTON, June 19. — (AP) A series of diplomatic exchanges between the United States and Romania was capped today by a note from Bucharest challenging the right of this country and Britain to question conditions there independently of Russia.

A State department spokesman fired back with a statement that the Bucharest government is censoring the press there. He told newsmen that Romanian newspapers have been forbidden to publish the notes which the United States and Britain sent.

Agreement at Moscow

The argument springs from the agreement of the Big Three foreign ministers at Moscow last December under which the Romanian government reorganized and pledged to guarantee basic democratic freedoms and hold early elections.

Up to that time neither the United States nor Britain had recognized the Romanian government, which had been sponsored by the Soviet Union following liberation of the Balkan country by the Red army.

The United States and Britain recognized it in February with the stipulation that national elections soon would be held.

On May 27, however, American and British notes were delivered to Romania protesting failure to follow through on the election pledge and alleged slowness in protecting the basic freedoms.

Romania replied June 3, reiterating its pledge to hold early elections and declaring that opposition newspapers have so much freedom that they use virtual "license" in attack on the government.

Last Friday the United States and Britain asserted they still are not satisfied and observed that no date had been set for elections.

Note Uses Sharp Language

Today's Romanian reply, which actually was given to Burton Y. Berry, U. S. political representative in Bucharest Monday, was worded in the most caustic language used thus far.

It expressed regrets that the June 3 note failed to satisfy the United States but insisted that the explanations it contained were based "exclusively upon facts which have been scrupulously ascertained and verified."

It observed that the Moscow decisions were made jointly by the Big Three and declared that therefore any act "destined to control and direct the implementation of the Moscow decisions cannot be the work of the signatory governments individually, but the collective work of these governments."

It added, significantly, that Russia had not made "any objection or any observation regarding the implementaion of the Moscow decisions."

The note said Romania will hold elections by September.

POLAND IS TENSE AS GOVERNMENT CURBS OPPOSITION

WASHINGTON, June 19 — (AP) Diplomatic informants said today that political conditions in Poland are approaching a critical, perhaps explosive point. Terrorism is widespread, and the possibility of a bloody upheaval is not discounted.

The State department, as the latest in a serise of moves reflecting concern over the situation, has asked Ambassador Arthur Bliss Lane at Warsaw for a full report on action of the Polish government in closing six district offices of the Polish Peasant party in the last six weeks.

The Peasant party is the political support of Vice Premier Stanislaw Mikolajczyk, who is a member of the Communist-dominated coalition government because the United States and Britain insisted that he should be there. Russia, on the other hand, backs in general the other members of the government.

Poland is getting ready for a referendum June 30 on a Communist-supported proposal to create a unicameral legislature. Mikolajczyk is fighting this change.

Next fall Mickolajczyk's power will be directly at issue in general elections.

Whatever happens in Poland is considered certain to be of direct concern to the United States, Britain and Russia. London and Washington are particularly interested in seeing that Mikolajczyk's power is not smashed by repressive police measures deliberately designed to wreck his leadership. At the same time officials here are concerned that they should not appear to be on the side of illegality and they concede that the situation in Poland is extremely confused.

There are in the country an estimated 350,000 Russian troops, officially to protect supply lines to the Soviet zone in Germany. There is a small but powerful underground army known as the "NSZ," which has a disciplined force of an estimated 50,000 or more. There are uncounted hundreds if not thousands of ordinary bandits of no political significance.

If conditions get too tense the underground presumably might try to bring off some sort of uprising against the government in what probably would be a terrible but very short-lived struggle. Short of that, terrorism, banditry and political confusion may go on until after the elections with unpredictable effects on the chances of the Polish people to exercise democratic rights.

CHINESE PLAN GIVEN HOUSE

JUN 20 1945

Proposal Cutting Down Forces Laid Before Committee

Washington, June 19 (AP)—A plan to slash China's armed forces to a fraction of their present numbers and otherwise "promote peace and unity" in that country was laid before Congress today.

Top-ranking officials of the State, War and Navy departments outlined the program to the House Foreign Affairs Committee. The committee is considering a bill to provide military assistance to make China's reduced forces more efficient.

Marshall's Program

The main point of the program being worked out by Gen. George C. Marshall, President's representative to China, include:

1. A reduction of the Chinese Army to 60 divisions, instead of its present strength of from 250 to 375 divisions.

2. An amalgamation of the Chinese Nationalist and Communist armies into one unit, with a ratio of five Nationalists to one Communist.

3. Sending of a military mission of 1,000 Americans to China to train its personnel.

4. Giving China excess war goods for use by its Army and Navy. The naval supplies would be limited to 271 small-class vessels.

To Keep 30,000 Marines

5. Transfer of all Japanese in China to their homeland.

6. Maintenance "until stability returns" of approximately 30,000 United States Marines in China.

The legislation being considered by the committee would authorize sending of the missions and transfer of the armaments. General Marshall is seeking to arrange the other points in the program through agreements with the various Chinese factions.

Marshall told the committee in a special telegram that adoption of the proposed bill "would facilitate the efforts now being made to promote peace and unity between warring factions in China." He added that it also would "contribute materially to stability in the Far East."

Testify For Departments

Robert P. Patterson, Secretary of War; Dean Acheson, Acting Secretary of State, and Admiral De Witt C. Ramsey, vice chief of Naval Operations, testified for their departments.

Acheson emphasized that "no such military demobilization" as proposed "is being carried on anywhere in the world."

He acknowledged, in reply to questions, that it would be establishing a new peacetime precedent for the United States to assist China in the way proposed.

Representative Mundt (R., S.D.) commented that "we appear to be departing from peace by international co-operation to peace by power."

Mundt prompted a brief flurry of controversy by asking "what would happen if Mexico or Argentina asked Russia to help them in the same way we propose to aid China?"

Chairman Bloom (D., N.Y.) ruled the question out of order, despite protests by Mundt.

Earlier, however, Acheson said the proposed assistance would conform to the United Nations charter. He declared that the program would be particularly helpful in freeing thousands of Chinese from military duty so they could assist in rehabilitation work.

NIGHT

CUT IN CHINESE ARMIES SOUGHT BY MARSHALL

JUN 20 1945

General Says His Proposal Would Help Promote Far East Peace.

PLAN UNDER U. S. GUIDANCE

Chinese Forces Could Be Held to 60 Divisions, House Group Hears.

Washington, June 19 (A. P.).—Gen. George C. Marshall has proposed a sharp reduction and reorganization of China's armed forces as a means to promote peace in the Far East.

3024 3415

Under the proposal, which would be carried out under the supervision of the United States, the Chinese Army would be cut to sixty divisions. Its present strength is estimated at from 250 to 375 divisions.

Details of the plan were disclosed today by Acting Secretary of State Acheson and Secretary of War Patterson to the House Foreign Affairs Committtee.

To achieve the goal sought, the two testified, Congress should pass a bill providing authority for transfer of war goods to China and for training by United States officers of Chinese personnel. Marshall is in China as a presidential envoy.

The Foreign Affairs group is considering the measure requested. Similar legislation also is pending to provide aid to the Philippines and to South American countries.

Acheson read a message from Marshall saying:

"Passage of the legislation would facilitate the efforts now being made to promote peace and unity between warring factions in China and would contribute materially to stability in the Far East."

Advisory Group of 1,000.

Acheson said that if the bill he asked is passed an American advisory group of 1,000 men will be sent to China to assist the nation in reorganization of its military forces.

Acheson said that the Chinese National Army now is estimated to have approximately 300 divisions. He added that the Chinese Communist Army has approximately seventy-five divisions.

Patterson estimated the present strength of the Chinese forces at "more than" 250 divisions.

Patterson stressed that the main function of the United States under the Marshall plan would be to train the Chinese, rather than supply them equipment.

The equipment sent to the Chinese, he said, will be largely surplus goods already in the Far East.

Discussing effects of the proposal, Acheson said:

"General Marshall's proposal, if it can be carried out will provide China with a far more effective fighting organization than she has ever had, while it will, at the same time, bring the size and type of that organization within Chinese peace-time obligations.

"The effects of this action will be far-reaching, great numbers of men freed for the job of reconstructing ruined areas, rehabilitating farm land, planting crops desperately needed to meet the famine emergency, and reconverting and developing Chinese industries."

REPORT ON RUSSIA BY HOUSE GROUP STIRS SHARP ROW

WASHINGTON, June 19. — (AP) The House Foreign Affairs committee split sharply today over a report by four of its members criticizing "unwise appeasement" of Russia.

A committee meeting broke up in a row after Chairman Bloom (D-N.Y.) announced that action on the report "has been deferred."

He followed his announcement with sharp criticism of "any members" who gave newsmen copies of the report. He termed such action "improper" and a violation of confidence.

Details of the document were reported by newsmen yesterday, prior to a committee review of it.

Bloom and Rep. Mundt (R-SD), one of the four legislators who signed the report, engaged in a sharp debate, and Bloom said "I think" Mundt permitted the "leak." Mundt denied it.

Mundt told newsmen later, however, he still thinks the committee should approve printing of the report officially, even if it does not endorse the statements made in it. Rep. Ryter (D-Conn) expressed a similar view. The two, along with Reps. Bolton (R-Ohio) and Gordon (D-Ill) compose the four-member subcommittee, which drafted the report following a months' tour of Europe last fall.

The report states that "by our unwise appeasement methods (toward Russia) we alienate those who are most friendly toward us."

Aides' Russian Stand Assailed By Bloom

Washington, June 19 (AP)—Chairman Bloom (D., N.Y.) split sharply today with four members of his House Foreign Affairs Committee over a tentative report urging a firmer American stand in diplomatic dealings with Russia.

Bloom called "malicious and vicious" the findings of a four-man subcommittee based on a tour of eastern Europe last year. A draft of the report was made public yesterday, although the full committee did not schedule consideration of it until today.

Truman-Stalin Talk Urged

The four who made the trip, Representatives Gordon (D., Ill.), Ryter (D., Conn.), Mundt (R., S.D.) and Bolton (R., Ohio), demanded "immediate abandonment of any semblance of appeasement" of the Kremlin and said President Truman and Premier Stalin should meet soon for a personal talk on problems dividing the two countries.

Calling the report a "strictly confidential" committee document, Bloom said:

"There is absolutely no truth to the report. It's an old story—the trip was made a year ago. The committee never considered it. It is just a malicious and vicious report and should never have been printed.

"Gives Wrong Impression"

"It can do no good whatever, and may upset the deliberations of the Foreign Ministers at Paris because it gives out an entirely wrong impression of the present situation."

Bloom did not indicate what steps he might take when the committee takes up the matter at a private session later in the day.

Members of the subcommittee were not immediately available for comment.

Trade Experts To Sail Today For Soviet Talks

Washington, June 19 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Commerce, announced today two officials of the department's office of international trade would leave tomorrow for Moscow to discuss means of increasing United States-Russian trade.

Wallace said Ernest C. Ropes, Russian policy specialist, and Dr. Louis L. Lorwin, economist, had "developed an extensive agenda of matters to be taken up with Soviet officials."

"The reconstruction program of the USSR and the plans for full development of the Soviet Union offer tremendous possibilities for American goods and American technicians as well as for increased import from Russia," Wallace said.

The two officials are to sail from New York on the Queen Mary.

Hungary To Be Given Gold Stolen By Nazis

Washington, June 19 (AP)—The State Department announced tonight that $32,000,000 in Hungarian gold plundered by the Nazis and now held by American forces in Germany would be returned to the Hungarian Government.

The same announcement disclosed American willingness to increase a $10,000,000 credit previously granted Hungary to buy surplus American war materials in Europe. It stated assurances that identifiable Hungarian property stolen by Germany would be returned to the Hungarian Government.

The announcement signalized the end of a successful mission here for Ferenc Nagy, Prime Minister of Hungary; Mathias Rakosi, Deputy Prime Minister; John Gyongyosi, Foreign Minister, and Stephen Riesz, Justice Minister.

To Write Pearl Harbor Report

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP).—The joint Congressional committee named to investigate the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor will begin writing its report tomorrow, Senator Scott W. Lucas, Democrat, of Illinois, was selected chairman of a subcommittee which will frame the report. Other members are Senator Homer Ferguson, Republican, of Michigan, and Representatives J. Bayard Clark, Democrat, of North Carolina; John W. Murphy, Democrat, of Pennsylvania, and Frank B. Keefe, Re-

ATOMIC CONTROL BILL IS REVISED TO AID MILITARY

WASHINGTON, June 19—(AP) The House Military committee revised the Senate's atomic energy bill a step further today to strengthen the hand of the armed services.

It added a requirement that the proposed control commission must permit the Army or Navy to manufacture or acquire any materials needed for atomic weapons when the President directs.

Some committee members questioned whether the bill as passed by the Senate would enable the Army to continue to make bombs or operate in the field of atomic weapons if the commission should oppose the activity.

The change was made in closed session, with the vote of the members unavailable. The committee then postponed further consideration of the measure until Friday.

The bill is a domestic control measure, distinct from international controls now being discussed by the United Nations. If and when agreement is reached to give an international authority sole authority over atomic energy, the domestic control system would give way to it.

The House committee yesterday changed the Senate provision that the five commission members must be civilians. It voted to require that one must be a military representative, and that a second may be, at the option of the President.

The Federation of American Scientists issued a statement today declaring that this threatens "civilian control of atomic energy" and that the people "again must rise" against it.

The statement said that the all-civilian commission was unanimously approved by the Senate and endorsed by President Truman, the War and Navy departments, officials and scientists, and added:

"Not a single organization, not a single campaign of any kind, not one responsible official, today raises a voice to demand more military participation in the control of atomic energy than is already provided for in the McMahon (Senate) bill.

"But the House Military Affairs committee is not satisfied."

FIRST B-36 BOMBER TO GET TESTS SOON

WASHINGTON, June 19—(AP) Completion of the first B-36 six-engined bomber was announced today by the Army Air Forces. The giant plane will undergo initial flights late this summer.

The B-36 and the B-35 "flying wing," which is still building, are the planes which W. Stuart Symington, assistant Secretary of War for Air, said in a speech Monday could "fly 10,000 miles with an atomic bomb." (The circumference of the world at the equator is 24,902 miles).

The XB-36, experimental model of the plane, was built at the Fort Worth, Tex., plant of the Consolidated Vultee Aircraft corporation. It will undergo ground tests five or six weeks before actual flights.

The newest bomber will be assigned to the Strategic Air Command, under which are grouped long-range and heavy bombers.

Powered by six Pratt-Whitney 3,000-horsepower engines, the XB-36 has a wingspread of 230 feet, fuselage length of 163 feet and uses pusher-type propellers. It carries a crew of 15 in pressurized compartments.

In announcing earlier that the plane was under construction, officials described it as a successor to the B-29 which carried the atomic bomb to Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Invention Control Board Asked

Washington, June 19 (AP)—Senator Eastland (D., Miss.) suggested today that a new board be given power to keep American inventions from falling into the hands of foreign governments which he said might some day turn them against this country.

Eastland said the judiciary subcommittee he heads is considering legislation along this line and expects to make recommendations to the Senate soon. The group is studying ways to tighten espionage laws.

The Mississippian's comment was prompted by testimony before the Appropriations Committee showing that Russia has bought a complete index of Commerce Department reports on American military devices, including radar, which have been classed as "non-secret."

Revealed In Testimony

John C. Green, director of the department's office of declassification, told of the Russian purchases in testimony made public when the Appropriations Committee recommended a $447,285,000 fund to operate the State, Commerce and Justice departments.

Eastland said he believes that the problem is far broader than the question of what materials the Army and Navy might decide need not be kept secret.

A control board, he said, should have authority to examine contracts placed in this country by foreign governments to see that through separate contracts a foreign government is not securing "piecemeal" information necessary to build secret devices.

SENATE INQUIRY ON HIGH COURT FEUD DEMANDED

Eastland Says He'll Press for an Open Hearing Into Discord.

WOULD SUMMON JUSTICES

Move Made for Amendment That Forces Retirement of Four Now on Tribunal.

Washington, June 19 (A. P.).—Demands that four Roosevelt appointees be swept from the Supreme Court were coupled today with a proposal that all eight justices tell the full story of the tribunal's feud.

Senator Eastland (D.-Miss.)), announced his intention to push for an open investigation of discord among the jurists which he claimed has produced "inexcusable chaos" in the high court. The suggestion that all present justices be called on for public testimony came as a follow-up to the move by Eastland and Senator Bridges (R.-N. H.)), aimed at virtual dismissal of half the present court. Eastland told a reporter he will ask the Senate Judiciary Committee to question the justices at hearings he insists be held on the constitutional amendment he and Bridges introduced.

The amendment would force retirement of four of the present justices by limiting to three the number of court members who could hold appointment by any one President. The places of those retiring would be filled temporarily by House election of lower court judges until a new President chose successors.

Faces a Hard Road.

The amendment faces an admittedly hard road. To become effective, it must win two-thirds approval of Congress, then ratification by three-fourths of the State Legislatures. Most Senators doubted it could make the grade.

If it did, however, it would leave on the court Justices Hugo L. Black, Stanley F. Reed, Felix Frankfurter and Harold H. Burton, the latter appointed by President Truman. It would remove Justices O. Douglas, Frank Murphy, Robert H. Jackson and Wiley Rutledge, the final four appointees of the late President Roosevelt. It would not affect Mr. Truman's appointment of Fred Vinson as Chief Justice, a nomination expected to receive early Senate confirmation.

Eastland informed a reporter that he is uninterested in the fact that his amendment would leave Black on the court, while retiring Jackson, who recently asserted publicly that Black declined to disqualify himself in a case in which his former law partner was interested.

Would Bar Packing.

"I don't think any President ought to be permitted to name more than three members of the court," the Mississippi Senator declared.

He added that there could be no "packing" of the tribunal under his proposal, which would reconstitute the court with a Chief Justice and six to ten associates, as Congress provided.

Bridges told a reporter that he is supporting Eastland's demands for public hearings by the committee, adding that in this way Jackson would be provided with a forum for any expansion he cared to make of his broadside against Black.

Chairman McCarran (D.-Nev.) said that it will be up to the committee to decide whether any hearings will be held.

Jackson has indicated that he will return to the United States about July 15 from Nuernberg, Germany, where he has been chief American prosecutor in the Nazi war crimes trial. Friends here said privately that they expect him to have more to say on his return, after he has reported to Mr. Truman.

In one of the bluntest speeches Congress has yet heard on the Supreme Court cleavage, Eastland told the Senate yesterday that the Jackson-Black episode made the American people "today look upon their highest tribunal as bereft of unity, spent by dissension and torn by the bickerings of factions."

View With Distrust.

"In fact," he said, "they discount its avowed high motives and judge it with distrust and suspicion. It is a sad day for America that that last great citadel of human freedom has thus been compromised."

Bridges said that he wasn't blaming individuals, as such, but added that "there are a number of men who now sit upon the court who do not have the proper legal background, judicial temperament or the ability to sit upon the world's greatest legal tribunal and to decide fundamental questions upon which the very system of our Government, as we know it, depends."

Eastland said that "some students of Government have expressed the opinion that these men were appointed because of their economic and social ideologies and their zest for crusading rather than for their judicial knowledge and legal acumen." The people of this country, he declared, are "sick of the bickering, the internal schism and the floating of rumors and petty factionalism in their highest judicial tribunal."

Senator Pepper (D.-Fla.) interrupted to observe that the court was dealing with highly controversial matters upon which opinion in the country was divided. It was only natural, Pepper contended, that the court should have sharp differences of opinion.

When Eastland disagreed, Pepper replied: "Some of us regret that there was such unfortunate unanimity in the court in the olden days—in the wrong direction."

U.S. HAS GIVEN 71 PER CENT OF UNRRA RELIEF

JUN 20 1946

This Report Through March Is Given to Congress by President.

Washington, June 19 (A. P.).—President Truman told Congress today that 71.1 per cent of all UNRRA relief shipments through March 31 came from the United States.

By that time, he said in a report on work of the United Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, the agency had shipped 8,251,736 gross long tons of relief supplies valued at $1,140,419,000.

Every American, Mr. Truman said, "can take pride in the fact that our share in this achievement was 5,917,785 tons valued at $750,563,000, which is 71.7 per cent of the tonnage and 65.8 per cent of the value of all UNRRA shipments."

Need for Further Aid.

Stressing the need for further aid, he declared:

"The food crisis, foreshadowed in my last report on UNRRA operations, is now upon us. Many of the countries receiving UNRRA assistance have only a few weeks' stocks remaining and the orderly distribution of food supplies is increasingly difficult.

"In many countries even minimum food rations may not be met for people who have lived too long on the borderline of starvation."

Mr. Truman pointed out that Congress has authorized expenditures for world relief on which actual appropriations have not been made, to the extent of $465,000,000, and said: "I strongly urge that Congress take all further action necessary to avoid any interruption in the participation of our country in UNRRA's job."

TRUMAN AIDS PLAN FOR PREPAREDNESS

He Meets Army, Navy Board on Industrial Readiness for Any Emergency

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—President Truman conferred today with the Army and Navy Munitions Board on industrial preparedness in the event of another emergency.

Discussing the fifteen-minute conference later, Chairman Richard R. Dupree told reporters that "industrial preparedness is very important for the assurance of a lasting peace."

The board is charged with the responsibility for stockpiling materials and for keeping a constantly modernized program for throwing the country's industrial machinery into action for the Government whenever necessary.

In a statement following the meeting with the President, Mr. Dupree said that Mr. Truman "seemed most interested in problems of preparedness, and understood that certain things must be done if we are to keep our nation strong industrially."

The conference was attended by Lamotte T. Cohu, president, Aircraft Industries Association, Inc.; Eugene E. Wilson, president, Navy Industrial Association, Inc.; Frederick H. Payne, vice president of the Army Ordnance Association; Maj. Gen. Edward M. Powers, Assistant Chief of Air Staff; Maj. Gen. Everett S. Hughes, War Department Chief of Ordnance, and Vice Admiral L. Cochrane, chief of the Navy's Bureau of Ships.

"The President met with the above men to discuss some of the problems in connection with industrial preparedness," Mr. Dupree said.

"The Army and Navy Munitions Board is charged with the responsibility of planning for industrial preparedness, and the work of these three groups, the Army Ordnance, the Navy Industrial and the Aircraft Industries Associations, is essential in any plan formulated for the national security of this country in case of an emergency.

"The heads of these three associations, together with men from the services and other technical groups, must carry the burden of this work, and there are decisions to be made and problems to be solved of great importance. The President was good enough to meet with the group, and was exceedingly helpful.

"He seemed most interested in problems of preparedness and understood that certain things must be done if we are to keep our nation strong industrially, so that we may be equipped to meet the difficulties and uncertainties of the future. Industrial preparedness is very important for the assurance of a lasting peace."

One of Mr. Truman's specific recommendations is for a separate air force, co-equal with the Army and Navy.

Awaits Senate Action

Representative Manasco (D., Ala.), chairman of the House Expenditures Committee which has jurisdiction over Army-Navy consolidation legislation, said the committee plans no immediate action on Mr. Truman's latest request, sent to Capitol Hill last Saturday.

"We aren't going to do anything until the Senate acts," Manasco said.

Chairman May (D., Ky.) of the House Military Committee said he had not studied the President's revised plan thoroughly but added that he doubted Congress would have time to act on it in view of plans to adjourn for the year next month.

Chairman Vinson (D., Ga.) and Walsh (D., Mass.) of the House and Senate naval committees have steadfastly opposed merger proposals.

Service Merger Plan Is Hit By Fund Setup

JUN 20 1946

Washington, June 19 (AP)—Congressional plans for separate Army and Navy air forces provided still another indication today that President Truman's unification plan is destined for a pigeonhole.

In fact, the Navy's air arm stands to get a bigger pile of cash than the Army's.

"That is the way we planned it," one House Appropriations Committee member said of the contention by W. Stuart Symington, Assistant Secretary of War for Air, that the Army Air Force "is being relegated to a secondary position."

Assertion Made In Speech

Symington made his assertion in a speech this week before the Detroit Economic Club in which he said the budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 provides $369,000,000 for the Army's air branch and $385,000,000 for the Navy's.

That, Symington said, represents the purchase of 1,020 planes for the Army and 1,359 for the Navy.

A member of the Naval Appropriations subcommittee said that body approved the naval fund "because we don't want the Navy, or any major component of it, relegated to a secondary position."

Acting On Army Fund

The Army Appropriations subcommittee put the finishing touches today to a War Department bill carrying Army Air Forces funds.

While members would not reveal in advance of final committee action what they had decided, they indicated that the air corps allotment would not exceed budget estimates.

"But we are making no provision for consolidation of the Army and Navy air wings," a member said.

Monday-to-Thursday delay was set to allow the contact with Andrews.

Unless some other hitch develops, both sides look for the conference agreement to contain these provisions:

Extension of the Selective Service Act, due to expire at the end of this month, until March 31.

Pay increases ranging from 50 per cent for buck privates and apprentice seamen to ten per cent for top-rank officers.

Order Of Inductions

Manpower demands to be supplied from four categories, each to be exhausted in this order: first, volunteers; second, inductees between 20 and some top-age limit to be determined by the armed forces; third, 19-year-olds; fourth 18-year-olds.

In no event would youths of 18 be inducted before October 1, and then only if President Truman certified they are needed. Their duty would be restricted to the continental United States until they are 19.

This was the moratorium to which Andrews agreed. He told newsmen aboard the Panamint yesterday that he still favors drafting 18-year-olds without restrictions, but that with only twelve days left before the current stop-gap extension act expires "something has to be done quickly."

Proxy Vote Radioed From Ship Ends Teener-Draft Deadlock

JUN 20 1946

Washington, June 19 (AP)—Representative Walter G. Andrews's vote radioed from a ship in the Pacific appeared today to have broken the Senate-House committee deadlock over the teen-age draft.

The New York Republican's revised proxy—declaring in favor of a conditional moratorium on the induction of 18-year-olds — was sent from the U.S.S. Panamint, carrying Andrews and other observers to the Bikini atom-bomb tests.

Andrews thus swung over to the Senate compromise offer to make 18-year-olds subject to the draft only as a last resort. His previous proxy called for no restrictions on inducting ten-agers, with the result that the House group first rejected the compromise, 4 to 3.

Showdown Due Tomorrow

The actual showdown on the issue is not scheduled until tomorrow when the seven Senate and six House conferees—Andrews is the seventh—reassemble for their third try at adjusting differences in separate draft-extension bills. The

SPEED UP RELEASE OF ARMY DENTISTS

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—A cut in required length of service, expected to release 1,000 Army dentists after Sept. 1, was announced today by the War Department.

At the same time the department disclosed a liberalization of previously announced reduced requirements for the release of Army doctors and reductions for three other classes of Medical Corps officers, all effective July 1.

The length of service required of dentists will be cut from thirty-six months to thirty, effective Sept. 1. Reduction of required service from thirty-nine months to thirty-six is expected to release 400 medical administrative corps officers, 100 veterinarians and seventy-five sanitary [illegible] July 1.

3029 3417

In addition to the reduction of physicians' and surgeons' required service to two years, announced May 29 by both the Army and Navy, the War Department today provided for the release of medical officers with less service.

Such an officer who is within two months of eligibility for release may be discharged immediately if he is not needed in the area where he is serving.

HOOVER RETURNS FROM SECOND TRIP WITH BRIGHT HOPES

Learns Latin America Will Increase Supply of Food.

WILL REPORT TO TRUMAN

Southern Nations to Provide Grain, Beans, Fats and Oils

JUN 20 1946

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—Former President Herbert Hoover returned today with brighter word on the famine outlook—word that Latin American nations will supply 800,000 tons of grains and beans beyond previous expectations.

That still would leave a gap of 2,787,000 tons between the food needed by famished lands and the amounts in sight to help them through the next few critical months.

But Hoover told a news conference:

"There are still further possibilities from the Argentine."

Visited 11 Nations

Two hours after completing a 15,000-mile flight to capitals of 11 Latin American nations, he declared also that:

"The changes in the situation of fats and oils are in the same favorable directions. These (Latin American) nations are making a real contribution to closing the gap in supplies to the hungry world."

Tomorrow the former President will report informally to President Truman on the improved outlook. It was at Mr. Truman's request, and as honorary chairman of the Famine Emergency committee, that Hoover made the swing around South America and a previous globe-girdling survey of famine conditions in Europe and Asia.

U. S. Supplies 71 Pct.

In a report to Congress today, Mr. Truman said this country had supplied 71.1 per cent of all UNRRA relief shipments through March 31 but that more help is needed because the food crisis "is now upon us."

"Many of the countries receiving UNRRA assistance," he said, "have only a few weeks' stocks remaining and the orderly distribution of food supplies is increasingly difficult.

"In many countries even minimum food rations may not be met for people who have lived too long on the borderline of starvation."

It was principally to rustle up more food for hungry Europeans and Asiatics that Hoover toured Mexico, Panama, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Chile, Argentina, Uruguay, Brazil, Venezuela and Cuba.

As he landed at Washington's airport and again at his news conference Hoover insisted emphatically that he had not come back to take a hand in the congressional scrap over price controls and extension of OPA.

And he does not care to amplify, he said, a statement he made in Rio de Janeiro about Communism. A reporter remarked that news stories had represented him as "being annoyed by Communist criticism."

"I made a very complete statement in Rio," Hoover replied. "I have nothing to add at the moment. I said it followed everywhere in the world."

He fended off a barrage of questions about OPA, declaring he was trying to feed hungry people, not get mixed up in legislation with which he is entirely unfamiliar.

He said he had not heard of the congressional haggling over price controls until he returned this afternoon, and that he had not discussed OPA by telephone with anyone in Washington while on his trip or since his return.

Told that Rep. Crawford (R.-Mich.), one of the legislators assigned to work out a compromise on OPA had said he was "going to ask you to confer on OPA," Hoover shot back:

"You neeedn't bore in on that subject any more."

Since March 17, when he set out for Europe, Hoover has been traveling almost constantly in connection with the international food problem. After circling the world, he reported to Mr. Truman that as of May 1, needy countries required 14,484,000 tons of food up to Sept. 30, whereas only 10,897,000 tons would be available.

His new report will bring the picture up to date as of June 1.

Imports Cut Down

Latin America, Hoover told reporters, has cut down on imports and expanded exports. Previously it was estimated the Latin countries would export 320,000 more foods a month than they imported during the food crisis.

Now Hoover said, it is estimated exports will exceed imports by an average of 520,000 tons in June, July, August and September.

"In other words," he said, "the cooperation of the Latin American countries renders available about 800,000 tons more cereals and beans than we had previously estimated."

Aid from Argentina

He told his news conference that he received word today that President Juan D. Peron of Argentina "has signaled his cooperation by a decree creating strong emergency measures to speed up exports to the utmost during the crisis."

In March, April and May, Hoover noted, Argentina exported an average of around 450,000 tons of cereals monthly. Under the emergency measures, the former President said, he hopes the average in the next three months will go up to 700,000 or 750,000 tons.

Moreover, he added, Argentina will provide major needs of most food-importing South American countries during the critical months before the next harvest, "thus greatly relieving the drain upon Canada and the United States."

Hoover reported that Colombia, Venezuela, Chile, Peru and Uruguay all have reduced their cereal and fat imports to a minimum. Mexico, Ecuador, Chile, Peru and Uruguay are boosting exports of beans, rice, meat, fats or sugar, according to what they have.

Brazil, ordinarily the largest Latin American what importer, has reduced her intake more than 40 per cent. Normally it runs 100,000 tons a month. In addition, Hoover asserted, she has made available much larger than normal exports of corn, rice and beans.

U.S. BROADENS WHEAT PLAN

JUN 20 1946

Acts To Get Enough Cereal To Meet Export Goal

Washington, June 19 (AP)—The Government today broadened its wheat requisitioning program in an effort to meet its export goal of 250,000,000 bushels from the 1946 crop.

Since May 24, grain merchandisers and country shippers in 26 major wheat producing states have been required to set aside for Government purchase 50 per cent of the wheat they bought.

From now until further notice, merchandisers and country shippers in all states must set aside for Government purchase all wheat they have on hand at the end of each week in excess of export sales supported by export licenses and domestic sales supported by contracts with other merchandizers, millers, mixed feed manufacturers, food manufacturers and live stock feeders.

Must Sell Within 15 Days

The department also ordered truckers operating as grain merchants to sell within fifteen days all the wheat they deliver to an elevator, merchandizer, miller or other processor. Sales may be made to the Government or to merchandizers, millers or processors. However, merchandizers, millers and processors buying such wheat must set aside one half of it for sale to the Government.

Can Use More Wheat in July

Officials said these actions were taken because only very small quantities of new crop wheat have been made available to the Government.

The department also announced that beginning in July food manufacturers may use 85 per cent of the average monthly quantity of wheat they used in 1945. They now are limited to 75 per cent.

The department also removed the states of California and Nevada from the previous list of 26 states in which merchandizers and country elevators must set aside one half of their wheat purchases for sale to the Government.

NEW ENGLAND ASKS CANADIAN GRAINS

JUN 20 1946

Washington, June 19 (A. P.).—A New England congressional group sought permission today to allow the importation of grains from eastern Canada to relieve what they called acute shortages.

"Unless slaughter of poultry and reduction of dairy herds in New England States is stopped," they wrote Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, "the shortage of dairy and poultry products in this country is likely to be acute before next spring."

The informal feed committee members, all Republicans, are Senators Aiken of Vermont and Hart of Connecticut and Republicans Heselton of Massachusetts, Smith of Maine and Adams of New Hampshire.

They said that Andrew L. Felker, New Hampshire Commissioner of Agriculture, had reported oats and barley are available in Canada and that it may be possible also to get wheat there.

They urged Anderson to ask Canadian officials to permit the export to the New England States of an amount of oats and other grain sufficient to check a further liquidation of flocks during the next thirty or sixty days.

Truman Names Courtney Brown

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—President Truman today announced the nomination of Courtney C. Brown as a member of his Famine Emergency Committee. Brown replaces Eugene Meyer, who now heads the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development. Mr. Brown, vice president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, has been serving as executive director of the committee.

OPA Conference Bars Publicity on Meetings

Decisions on Details to Be Withheld Until Final Bill

Is Drafted.

WASHINGTON, June 19 — (AP) Congressmen working out the final draft of the OPA bill burrowed into a storm-shelter of secrecy today in the gusty controversy.

They decided unanimously not to disclose piecemeal the details they agree upon but to wait until their work is all done before they reveal what price controls they scrap or save.

Designed to End Pressure

No reason for this decision was announced. Probably it is designed to abate the stream of demands, suggestions, criticisms and other statements from the OPA's friends and foes which have put heavy pressure upon the members of the Senate-House conference committee.

Shortly before the group opened its first session, Secretary of Commerce Wallace issued a statement declaring that to "weaken or destory price and rent control would be to ask for the same kind of boom or bust that began at just about this time after the last war."

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, in another statement, warned that a "new cycle of wage demands and work stoppages" may result unless "effective price control" is continued.

Senate Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) told reporters of the secrecy decision.

Spence Named Chairman

From other sources it was learned that Rep. Spence (D.-Ky.) was elected conference chairman. It also was learned that the first session was confined to a general discussion of the Senate and House bills, both of which would curtail OPA's powers sharply but continue its existence after its scheduled June 30 expiration date.

Wallace's statement, making no reference to the current congressional activity, confined itself to predictions of the effects inflation would have on business, particularly small enterprises.

"If we can avoid rocking the economic boat right now," he said, "American business in my opinion can enjoy the most profitable period in its history during the years just ahead.

"On the other hand, I am equally convinced that business faces a rocky future if we let down our guard against inflation."

Schwellenbach's statement, issued as he left on a vacation trip to Alaska, termed the extension of "effective price control" beyond the present June 30 expiration date "a most important step toward achieving amicable labor-management relations."

"This would give some assurance to both employer and employe that prices and rents and wages will be held relatively stable for another year," the labor secretary said.

NIGHT

OPA CONFEREES IMPOSE DRASTIC SECRECY POLICY

JUN 20 1946

Senate and House Members Agree Not to Discuss Deliberations.

WALLACE WARNS OF INFLATION

Secretary of Commerce Fears Boom and Bust Era Would Follow End of Controls.

Washington, June 19 (A. P.).—House and Senate conferees trying to put together an OPA extension bill imposed a policy of strict secrecy today on their deliberations. The Senate's Democratic leader, Senator Barkley of Kentucky, said [illegible] the group agreed at its first session to forego any statements regarding votes or tentative decisions until final action has been taken.

"What was the vote on that motion?" a reporter asked. "Unanimous," Barkley replied, then joined in the general laughter at his tumble into the verbal trap.

DAY

From other sources, it was learned (A) that Representative Spence (D.-Ky.) was elected chairman of the conference, and (B) that nothing much happened anyway, outside of general discussion of the Senate and House versions of the bill. Both bills have been condemned by stabilization and price administration officials.

Coinciding with the conferees' meeting, Secretary of Commerce Wallace issued a plea against relaxing "our guard against inflation." Wallace said that business could enjoy unprecedented prosperity in the years just ahead "if we can avoid rocking the economic boat right now," but he added that "to weaken or destroy price and rent control would be to ask for the same kind of boom and bust that began just about this time after the last war."

Profiteering Motive.

"As long," he said, "as business co-operates with the whole effort to stabilize our economy, it cannot be accused of profiteering as it was after the last war. But if price controls are weakened or destroyed, the old charges of profiteering will be echoing around the country again during the next few months. I know that this is a matter of deep concern to every forward-looking business leader.

"During the war years the vast majority of business men, through unselfish and willing co-operation in the war effort, achieved tremendous new prestige. Only a small handful are willing to jeopardize that prestige and the nation's economy now in an attempt to reap quicker and even greater profits."

Two Key Men Absent.

Wallace said that inflation is as damaging to business, and especially small business, as to other economic groups, adding: "With prices rising rapidly, millions of small business men will come out second best in the wild scramble for raw materials and finished goods." The result, he asserted, would be to "encourage monopoly, with prices out of the reach of the American people."

The absence of two key committee members appeared likely to limit the field of possible conference decisions today. Senator Barkley (D.-Ky.), head of the Senate group, told reporters that it was doubtful that Representatives Wolcott and Crawford, both Michigan Republicans, would be able to attend because of yesterday's primary election in their home State. Each is the sponsor of an important provision in the House bill.

"It is probable that we will just feel around in the first session," Barkley told a reporter.

"Only a small handful are willing to jeopardize that prestige and the nation's economy by throwing price and rent controls overboard now in an attempt to reap quicker and even greater profits."

Wallace said inflation is as damaging to business, and especially small business, as to other economic groups, adding:

"With prices rising rapidly, millions of small business men will come out second best in the wild scramble for raw materials and finished goods."

Don't Rock OPA Boat, Wallace Cautions

JUN 20 1946

Washington, June 19 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Wallace pleaded today against letting down "our guard against inflation" as Senate-House OPA conferees met for their first session to chart the future of price control.

Wallace said that business can enjoy unprecedented prosperity in the years just ahead "if we can avoid rocking the economic boat right now."

"To weaken or destroy price and rent control would be to ask for the same kind of boom and bust that began just about this time after the last war," he declared.

Cites Inflation Effects

The Cabinet officer's statement was issued without explanation, but its timing coincided with the initial meeting of the committee named to compose differences in OPA extension bills.

Wallace confined his statement to the effects of inflation on business.

"As long," he said, "as business co-operates with the whole effort to stabilize our economy, it cannot be accused of profiteering as it was after the last war.

"But if price controls are weakened or destroyed, the old charges of profiteering will be echoing around the country again during the next few months. I know that this is a matter of deep concern to every forward-looking business leader.

Prestige Built Up

"During the war years, the vast majority of business men through unselfish and willing co-operation in the war effort achieved tremendous new prestige.

"Only a small handful are willing to jeopardize that prestige and the nation's economy by throwing price and rent controls overboard now in an attempt to reap quicker and even greater profits."

Wallace said inflation is as damaging to business, and especially small business, as to other economic groups, adding:

"With prices rising rapidly, millions of small business men will come out second best in the wild scramble for raw materials and finished goods."

Fears Monopoly Growth

The result, he asserted, would be to "encourage monopoly with prices out of the reach of the American people."

The absence of two key committee members appeared likely to limit the field of possible conference decisions today.

Senator Barkley (D., Ky.), head of the Senate group, said it was doubtful that Representatives Wolcott and Crawford, both Michigan Republicans, would be able to attend because of yesterday's primary election in their home State.

Each is the sponsor of an important provision in the House bill.

Wolcott fathered a clause which provides that all producers, processors and distributors, including retailers, shall be allowed current costs plus "a reasonable profit" when their price ceilings are computed by OPA.

Draws Criticism

Stabilization officials have criticized the provision as a potential wrecker of price control.

Crawford sponsored a provision to forbid the OPA from trimming peacetime trade discounts and handling charges for such reconversion items as automobiles and household appliances.

The Senate approved a similar provision barring so-called cost absorption by wholesalers and retailers of such articles.

"It is probable that we will just feel around in the first session," Barkley said.

BUDGET DIRECTOR RESIGNS HIS POST

WASHINGTON, June 19—(AP)—Budget Director Harold Smith who has supervised the spending of billions of government agencies since 1939, today joined the parade of officials leaving the federal service for better-paid jobs.

Smith resigned to become vice president of the new $7,670,000,000 International Bank under President Eugene Meyer at a tax-free salary of $22,500 a year, compared with the $10,000 less taxes which the government paid him.

Smith wrote the president that even if the new post had not been offered to him "it would have been only a short time until existing limitations on the salaries of public officials would have forced me out of the federal government."

"I could not have continued," he added "without reducing certain fixed charges which I have regarded for many years as important to the security of my family."

He said, too, that the prospect of assisting "in the promotion of world prosperity and peace" was a challenge "which I cannot very well ignore."

Mr. Truman replied that he knew "at what great financial sacrifice" Smith had been serving and added: "That is too often a tragedy of public service."

The President has complained frequently to visitors and newsmen of inability to get and keep men of high calibre for government jobs. Several posts have remained unfilled for some time because, Mr. Truman said, he has been unable to find qualified men who will serve.

Smith's departure leaves an important vacancy. The President, who called Smith by his first name, depended upon him for many tasks outside the strict scope of his office. It was only yesterday that Meyer discussed Smith's departure with the President, and the resignation came suddenly.

Paul H. Appleby, who has been assistant budget director, was named acting director.

Budget Director Quits, Gets Job In World Bank

Washington, June 19 (AP)—Harold D. Smith quit as director of the Federal budget today to become vice president of the new $7,670,000,000 International Bank.

President Truman accepted his resignation with regret, Press Secretary Charles Ross told reporters, and only because of the importance of his new assignment.

Smith's new job means that the top two posts in the world bank will be held by Americans. The president is Eugene Meyer, until recently the owner and publisher of the Washington Post.

Appleby Named

Mr. Truman immediately appointed Paul H. Appleby acting director of the budget. Appleby has been assistant director.

Smith was selected by Meyer, who discussed his appointment yesterday with President Truman.

Smith told reporters he does not know how much salary he will draw in his new post. He added that he knows it will pay much more than the $10,000 he has been getting. He expressed belief that at least part of his new salary will be tax exempt.

Ross said that Mr. Truman considered the departure of Smith as a distinct loss to the Government, since the President regards him as one of its "ablest and most devoted public servants."

Ross said that Smith has been

Sought To Quit Twice

working for the Government at a great financial sacrifice.

He has tried to resign twice, the secretary related, but was persuaded to stay on, first by President Roosevelt and then by President Truman. His salary with the bank was not disclosed.

Smith, who discussed his new duties in a conference with the President this morning, has been budget director more than seven years.

Says Truman's Estimate Of Four Billion Will Be Exceeded

Washington, June 19 (AP)—Senator Taft (R., Ohio) told the Senate today that the Government deficit for the next fiscal year may be double the $4,000,000,000 estimate made by President Truman.

Taft voiced his warning as Congress began a race with time to complete eleven big appropriation bills before the new spending year starts July 1.

Senator Bridges (R., N.H.) interjected that the rush was an example of the "haphazard" way the Federal Government is operating.

Taft said the Budget Bureau estimate of the deficit was about four billions "but nobody knows whether it will be four, six or ten billion dollars."

Should Study Spending, Income

He suggested that the executive department and congressional committees should sit down and study both spending and tax income before voting huge sums. He said such things as the British loan and various subsidy and control programs would add greatly to budget estimates.

During the day the Senate approved many increases recommended by its Appropriations Committee in annual funds for the Interior Department, including a large number of reclamation projects in Western states.

In all, the committee nearly doubled the funds previously approved by the House. The latter chamber voted just under $180,000,000 while the Senate committee total was nearly $330,000,000.

Senator Taylor (D., Idaho), one of numerous westerners favoring reclamation projects, said the nation could not hope to pay off its huge war debts unless it greatly expanded resources and production.

Called Self-Liquidating

Senator Chavez (D., N.M.) said the reclamation projects are self-liquidating.

An attempt to complete Senate action on the Interior appropriations bogged down in a debate on two big Southwestern and Western projects. The Senate put off a showdown until tomorrow.

Senator McCarran (D., Nev.) contended the Interior Department's plan was an effort to put out of business a private concern. Senator Thomas (D., Okla.) argued that the time had come to determine whether power should be completely "socialized" in this country.

House Vet Unit Ready To Study Pension Plan

JUN 20 1946

Washington, June 19 (AP)—Proposals for overhauling the veterans' pension system met a cooperative reception today on Capitol Hill.

Chairman Rankin (D., Miss.) of the House Veterans Committee announced his group was ready to give prompt attention to the recommendations made by the President's committee on Government medical care.

He said, however, that sufficient authorization already may exist to put the proposal into effect, which would eliminate need for new legislation, but withheld final opinion pending more detailed study of the report.

Revision Held Necessary

The President's committee, headed by Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of Princeton University, stated that the VA's medical rehabilitation program "is well conceived," but "if the rehabilitation task is to be adequately accomplished it is necessary to revise some of the present pension policies which are based purely on monetary compensation for service-connected disabilities.

"It is obvious that under such a policy the individual receives a premium, from a monetary standpoint, when his disability is increased. This presents an almost insurmountable psychological handicap to rehabilitation."

Lump Sum Pay Questioned

It declared that "the present method of financial compensation needs careful re-evaluation, particularly in regard to the wisdom of making lump-sum settlements in certain types of cases," and added:

"Compensation for service-connected disabilities must include not only pensions but opportunities for re-education, retaining and rehabilitation."

The committee recommended that a study of the whole veterans' pension program be undertaken by the Veterans Administration.

Truman Approves Inquiry

President Truman approved the committee's inquiry proposal, but objected to authorizing VA outpatient service for veterans with nonservice connected disabilities after treatment in veterans hospitals.

The President agreed with a committee proposal that "a thorough and bold restudy" be made of multiple medical care services by such agencies as the Army, Navy, Veterans Administration and the Public Health Service, but suggested that the survey wait "until after the Army-Navy merger issues are resolved."

Employment Sets Record

JUN 20 1946

By James Marlow

Washington, June 19 (AP)—The Census Bureau says more people—55,320,000—have jobs now than at any time in American history.

The figure is 570,000 higher than the previous peak of 54,750,000, reached in July, 1943, in the middle of the war.

The figure is for May, the latest total available. It includes 450,000 men who had jobs but were on strike.

Sees 2,310,000 Jobless

After the war ended last summer, John W. Snyder, reconversion director, estimated that perhaps 8,500,000 people would be unemployed by this time in 1946.

The Census Bureau says only about 2,310,000 are unemployed; it bases this estimate on a "sampling."

It does not agree with other figures on present unemployment—or unemployment for May—obtained from the Social Security Board and the Veterans Administration.

3,092,000, Others Say

Here's what those two agencies show for May:

A total of 3,092,000 people were getting unemployment pay. Of that number 1,365,000 were getting civilian unemployment pay; the other 1,717,000 were war veterans drawing unemployment pay from the Government.

[In April the total was 3,100,000, of whom 1,600,000 were civilians and 1,500,000 veterans.]

The Employment Rises

The following figures show how employment has risen to its present total of 55,320,000:

That figure is 1,050,000 higher than the 54,270,000 employed in July, 1945, just before Japan quit.

It is 4,070,000 higher than the 51,250,000 employed in September, 1945, the lowest employment month since the war ended.

How have these people—almost entirely veterans, since everyone else was working during the war—found jobs?

Emergency Workers Quit

About 1,820,000 women who worked during the war have quit and gone back into their homes.

So have a number of old people (figures not available) who came out of retirement to help in war jobs and have retired again.

The number of people with jobs spurted in May, over April, but this was almost entirely due to spring jobs opening up on farms. In April 8,190,000 worked on farms. This number jumped almost 700,000 to 8,880,000 in May.

Non-Farm Jobs

But in the same two months non-farm jobs remained about the same in number: 46,360,000 in April, 46,440,000 in May.

Yet there has been a decrease in the total number of farm workers from the war years while more non-farm jobs have opened up.

In that peak war month of July, 1943, 9,700,000 people were working on farms and 45,050,000 in non-farm jobs.

But in May, 1946, the people working on farms numbered only 8,880,000 while those in non-farm jobs rose to 46,440,000.

The job total by sexes is:

In July, 1943, about 36,670,000 males and 18,080,000 females.

In May, 1946: about 39,060,000 males and 16,260,000 females.

Army May Make N.C. Airfield Permanent

Washington, June 19 (AP)—The Seymour Johnson army airfield at Goldsboro, N.C., may become a permanent field—but not immediately, the War Department said today.

This field is on "an interim list for retention," War Department officials explained, but the department is not designating any fields as permanent now and will not do so until the size of the Army is determined.

The field is listed in War Department files as an "active training school" and is expected to remain in that status indefinitely. The War Department said no part of the field is expected to be declared surplus because of its place on the list to be retained.

VIVIEN KELLEMS LOSES LIBEL SUIT; PLANS TO APPEAL

JUN 20 1946

SAN FRANCISCO, June 19 — (AP)—Miss Vivien Kellems, Westport, Conn., business woman, lost out in her $1,500,000 libel suit against publishers of the CIO Labor Herald today.

Her attorney, Herbert Clark, said she would appeal from the Federal court verdict, reached without a jury trial.

Judge Louis E. Goodman, delivering his decision orally from the bench, held that The Herald had kept within the "area of fair comment" when it referred to her wartime conduct as "treasonable," and granted a motion for dismissal.

Defendants in the case included the local C.I.O. council of California and its principal officers in 1944, when two articles and an editorial in The Herald criticized as "treasonable" Miss Kellems' anti-tax statements and her admitted correspondence with a German metal syndicate representative in Argentina.

Formal Opinion Later

The judge said he found ample evidence to hold that The Herald had made permissible comment on conduct it considered "savoring of treason."

He held that Miss Kellems' attorney was mistaken in his contention that the defense was required to prove that the Kellems activities actually constituted treason in the statutory sense.

At one point during final arguments in the suit Judge Goodman commented that he thought the paper "perhaps went a little too far in describing Miss Kellems' activities as treasonable."

"But I doubt if anyone was misled by them," he added.

(ADVANCE) NEW YORK, JUNE 19-(AP)-PRESIDENT TRUMAN TODAY CALLED FOR A WORLD-WIDE REBUILDING OF HEALTH SAFEGUARDS, WHICH HAVE BEEN "DISORGANIZED AND DESTROYED" BY WAR.

IN A MESSAGE TO THE OPENING SESSION OF THE WORLD HEALTH CONFERENCE, CONVENED UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE UNITED NATIONS, THE PRESIDENT TERMED THE SOLUTION OF HEALTH PROBLEMS "ESSENTIAL TO THE WELFARE AND HAPPINESS OF MANKIND," AND ADDED:

"THE RIGHT TO ADEQUATE MEDICAL CARE AND THE OPPORTUNITY TO ACHIEVE AND ENJOY GOOD HEALTH SHOULD BE AVAILABLE TO ALL PEOPLE. FOR THIS OBJECTIVE I CAN ASSURE YOU THE INTEREST AND SUPPORT OF THE UNITED STATES.

"THE HEALTH PROBLEMS WHICH WE FACE DID NOT ORIGINATE WITH THE WAR, BUT THE WAR HAS AGGRAVATED THEM TREMENDOUSLY. OVER MANY YEARS NATIONS HAVE BEEN BUILDING UP DEFENSES AGAINST DISEASE THROUGH PROTECTIVE FOODS, NURSING SERVICES, CLINICS, HOSPITALIZATION AND MENTAL, MEDICAL AND SURGICAL CARE. FOR MANY MILLIONS OF PERSONS, THESE PROTECTIONS HAVE BEEN DISORGANIZED AND DESTROYED. THEY MUST BE RESTORED AND EXPANDED."

JOHN G. WINANT, U.S.DELEGATE TO THE U.N. ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL, READ THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE, WHICH NOTED THAT MODERN TRANSPORTATION MADE IT IMPOSSIBLE FOR ANY NATION TO QUARANTINE ITSELF AND THUS "STRONG HEALTH SERVICES IN EVERY COUNTRY MUST BE COORDINATED THROUGH INTERNATIONAL ACTION."

DELEGATES FROM THE 51 UNITED NATIONS PLUS 16 FROM COUNTRIES NOT HOLDING MEMBERSHIP SAT AT THE START OF THE CONFERENCE, SCHEDULED TO CONTINUE A MONTH.

TERMING THE SOLUTION OF HEALTH PROBLEMS "ESSENTIAL TO THE WELFARE AND HAPPINESS OF MANKIND," PRESIDENT TRUMAN DECLARED:

A21 IT WAS THE SECOND TIME THAT RUSSIA HAD EXERCISED THE VETO POWER--RESTRICTED TO THE "BIG FIVE"--IN THE DELIBERATIONS OF THE SECURITY COUNCIL. THE FIRST INSTANCE OCCURRED IN LONDON LAST FEBRUARY WHEN THE U.S.S.R. OVERRULED AN AMERICAN PROPOSAL FOR SYRIA AND LEBANON TO NEGOTIATE THEIR DIFFERENCES WITH BRITAIN AND FRANCE OVER THE WITHDRAWAL OF BRITISH AND FRENCH TROOPS FROM THE LEVANT.

THE RUSSIAN VETO YESTERDAY OFFSET THE ACTION OF NINE OTHER MEMBERS OF THE SECURITY COUNCIL WHICH VOTED IN FAVOR OF THE RESOLUTION WORKED OUT BY DR.HERBERT V.EVATT OF AUSTRALIA AND HERSCHEL V.JOHNSON OF THE UNITED STATES AS A COMPROMISE OF POLAND'S DEMANDS FOR AN IMMEDIATE BREAK WITH MADRID.

THE NETHERLANDS ABSTAINED FROM VOTING ON THE MEASURE.

IN INVOKING HIS VETO POWER, SOVIET DELEGATE ANDREI A.GROMYKO STOOD FAST ON THE PREMISE THAT SPAIN IS A PROVEN MENACE TO WORLD PEACE AND THAT THE SECURITY COUNCIL SHOULD TAKE IMMEDIATE ACTION.

GROMYKO HAS STEADFASTLY OPPOSED DELEGATING TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY POWER WHICH HE BELIEVES THE SECURITY COUNCIL ITSELF SHOULD WIELD.

GROMYKO TOLD NEWSMEN AFTER THE UNITED NATIONS BUT THAT INACTION WAS HARMFUL TO THE CAUSE OF THE MEETING THAT HIS VETO WAS NOT BEFORE THE COUNCIL REJECTED A PROPOSAL BY VOTE WAS TAKEN. THE SIR ALEXANDER CADOGAN, BRITISH DELEGATE, THAT THE SUB-COMMITTEE'S REPORT ON THE SPANISH QUESTION BE REFERRED TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY WITHOUT RECOMMENDATION.

ONLY CADOGAN AND DR.KELCO VAN KLEFFENS OF THE NETHERLANDS VOTED FOR THE BRITISH PROPOSAL. SIX DELEGATES VOTED AGAINST IT, WHILE THE UNITED STATES, CHINA AND EGYPT ABSTAINED.

IN INVOKING THE VETO POWER GROMYKO REJECTED A PERSONAL PLEA BY EVATT TO GO ALONG WITH THE COUNCIL MAJORITY.

"I APPRECIATE FULLY THE EFFORT OF DR.EVATT AND OTHER MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL TO ACHIEVE A UNANIMOUS DECISION BY THE SECURITY COUNCIL," THE SOVIET DELEGATE SAID.

A22 "BUT I, MR. PRESIDENT, AM GUIDED BY ANOTHER NECESSITY--THE NECESSITY OF REACHING A DECISION THAT SHALL BE RIGHT AND JUST IN THIS MATTER AND THAT SHALL CORRESPOND TO THE GRAVITY OF THE SPANISH SITUATION. DR.EVATT HAS APPEALED TO ME TO BEND TO THE WILL OF THE MAJORITY. BUT I, IN RETURN, FEEL ENTITLED TO ASK DR.EVATT TO ACCEPT THE SOLUTION THAT I CONSIDER THE RIGHT AND JUST SOLUTION OF THIS PROBLEM."

GROMYKO ADDED THAT ACCEPTANCE OF EVATT'S PROPOSAL "WOULD MAKE IT CLEAR THAT THE SECURITY COUNCIL HAD EVADED ITS DUTY IN THIS QUESTION."

LANGE INDICATED THAT HE HAD SMALL HOPE THAT THE COUNCIL WOULD VOTE FAVORABLY ON HIS RESOLUTION FOR AN IMMEDIATE BREAK WITH FRANCO SPAIN WHEN IT RECONVENES MONDAY, BUT SAID HE WOULD PRESS THE ISSUE TO COMPLETE "THE HISTORICAL RECORD." HIS ACTION WOULD HAVE THE EFFECT OF FORCING OTHER MEMBERS OF THE BIG FIVE, BESIDES RUSSIA, TO EXERCISE THE VETO OR TO ABSTAIN FROM VOTING.

THE INTERNATIONAL HEALTH CONFERENCE, CALLED BY THE U.N. ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL COUNCIL, CONVENES AT 3:30 P.M. EDT TODAY WITH DELEGATES INVITED FROM THE 51 UNITED NATIONS AND WITH OBSERVERS FROM 16 NON-MEMBER COUNTRIES--SOME OF THEM FORMER ENEMIES, THE ALLIED MILITARY CONTROL COMMISSIONS IN GERMANY, JAPAN AND SOUTHERN KOREA, AND FROM TEN INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS. With Bidault

Paris, June 19--(ap)--Two years ago Georges Bidault, France's new president, was being hunted by the Gestapo.

JUN 20 1946

As one of France's top resistance leaders and one of the "generals" who directed the underground's 1944 battle for Paris, Bidault during the war years became a major foe of the German occupation troops.

3024 3421

The germans held him prisoner in 1940 but let him go. It was a mistake they were to regret later, for the small quiet Army sergeant became a powerful force in the movement which harassed the Nazis in France.

JUN 20 1946

Bidault was born Oct. 5, 1899. In the first World War he was mobilized at the age of 18, too late to see much action. After the armistice he became a student specializing in history.

In politics he became a member of the old popular democratic party and was what the French term a "militant catholic." Eventually he was named vice president of the Cathelic association of French Youth.

At the outbreak of the Second World War Bidault was editer-in-chief of the newspaper l'aube, which now is the principal organ of his Popular Republican Movement (MRP) Party.

In September, 1944 Bidault was made foreign minister in Gen. De Gaulle's first post-liberation government

In that post he began to built an international reputation when he represented France's chief delegate to the United Nations conference at San Francisco.

JUN 20 1946

De Gaulle took Bidault to Moscow in 1945 for the signature of the Russian-French treaty and sent him to London last winter for the United Nations meeting.

It became evident, however, that relations between the two men later had cooled. Bidault's supporters said De Gaulle too often went over his minister's head in deciding foreign policy.

Now that Bidault is president there is speculation as to whether he will also retain his post as foreign minister. The new president himself has maintained a careful silence on the subject.

Celal Bayar's Democratic Party, in announcing its decision to participate, said the action was taken despite the fears of some party members that the "people will not be able to vote freely."

Nuri Demirag's resteration Party said it was sure to win seats in the assembly "if the vote is free."

Both parties--formed since the government abolished a ban against political organizations last december--refrained from participating in recent municipal elections and asserted afterward that what they described as the small turn out of voters reflected the unwillingness of the electorate to support the reigning peoples' Party.

JUN 20 1946

The Peoples' Party, headed by President Ismet Inonu, declared it was happy to have opposition in the general election and reiterated that the decision of the government to permit new parties plus the abolishment and modification of various regulations proved its desire to create a more liberal democracy in Turkey.

NANKING, JUNE 19-(AP)-THE CHINESE CENTRAL GOVERNMENT IS SPENDING MORE THAN 80 PERCENT OF ITS INCOME ON ARMIES, PREMIER T.V.SOONG DISCLOSED TODAY.

IN ADDITION TO THIS BURDEN, SOONG SAID AT A PRESS CONFERENCE, THE GOVERNMENT HAS TO CONTEND WITH DISRUPTED COMMUNICATIONS AND THE BLOCKADING OF FUEL AND RAW MATERIALS SOURCES. ALL ARE FACTORS CONTRIBUTING TO THE PRESENT INFLATION, HE OBSERVED.

NEVERTHELESS, HE DECLARED, CHINA COULD REGAIN HER ECONOMIC BALANCE IN A COMPARATIVELY SHORT TIME IF INTERNAL PEACE WERE RESTORED.

DEFENDING THE GOVERNMENT AGAINST CHARGES OF CORRUPTION AND ILL-ADVISED POLICIES, THE PREMIER SAID:

"THE FACT THAT THE CHINESE GOVERNMENT STILL FUNCTIONS, DESPITE ALL THE DIFFICULTIES OF EIGHT YEARS OF JAPANESE WAR AND A YEAR OF INTERNAL STRUGGLE, IS PROOF OF ITS INHERENT STABILITY."

OUTLINING THE GOVERNMENT'S FINANCIAL PROGRAM, SOONG CONCEDED THAT CHINA MUST DEVELOP A PROGRAM CALLING FOR:

1. DIRECT TAXATION.
2. DISTRIBUTION OF LAND TO FARMERS.
3. DRASTIC REDUCTION OF GOVERNMENT EXPENSES.
4. RESUMPTION OF LAND TAXES.

COMMENTING ON A FOREIGN REPORT THAT THE GOVERNMENT HAD CORNERED THE COTTON MARKET, SOONG SAID THAT AT THE END OF THE WAR CHINA HAD 4,000,000 SPINDLES, OF WHICH MORE THAN HALF WERE JAPANESE-OWNED.

"WE HAD THE CHOICE OF SELLING THESE PLANTS, LEASING THEM OR OPERATING THEM," HE ASSERTED. IT WAS DECIDED TO OPERATE THEM, HE EXPLAINED, "BECAUSE, DUE TO INFLATION, THERE WAS NO POSSIBILITY OF PROPER SALE."

FOREIGN MINISTERS TO DELAY DECISION ON ROME COLONIES

JUN 21 1946

Issue Will Go to U.N. if No Agreement Is Reached Within Year.

HARMONY RESTORED

Paris Session Agrees on Removal of Troops from Italy, Bulgaria.

U. DYKEMAN

PARIS, June 20 — (AP) The foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, Russia and France virtually agreed tonight to delay a decision on the Italian colonies and refer the issue to the United Nations if the four powers are still divided at the end of the year, an American informant said.

Sweeping aside one of the most important problems blocking progress [illegible] peace settlements, [illegible] ministers expressed general acceptance of a proposal advanced by U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes at the earlier session in May.

Would Lose Sovereignty

Under the agreement Italy would renounce sovereignty of the colonies, which would be considered under four power control pending agreement or reference to the United Nations trusteeship council.

In a remarkable upsurge of harmony and with the quickest pace they have shown for some time, the ministers also reached an accord for withdrawal of troops from Italy and Bulgaria within 90 days after peace treaties become effective, and agreed to designate their respective ambassadors in Rome as a four-power treaty commission for one year.

Byrnes also prevented the conference from imposing a rigid security ban on all its "informal" sessions after a short discussion of press policies in the morning had left British, French and Russian officials under the impression the Americans had agreed to lower a curtain on conference information.

Revives Byrnes' Proposal

Suddenly abandoning the rigid position which had thus far blocked agreement on colonies, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov resurrected Byrnes' proposals regarding Italian colonies which had been on the table since the April-May meetings. Both Molotov and French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault had opposed Byrnes' plan when it was first offered.

As the ministers turned to the troublesome colonial issue Molotov noted there had been no new proposals on this item — one which has plagued Allied peacemaking efforts since the end of the war.

Molotov declared he still preferred a permanent solution, but if one could not be achieved then something temporary or an agreement to postpone a decision should be adopted.

On a motion by Byrnes the council named a four-man commission to study the proposal and work out details for a report back to the ministers.

The four men named were Ben Cohen, U. S. State department counsellor; Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet deputy foreign minister; Maurice Couve de Murville, French deputy foreign minister; Gladwyn Jebb, British deputy foreign secretary.

Deadlock Broken

The action on troop evacuation from Italy and Bulgaria broke a deadlock that had existed for several months over the question of an Allied treaty inspection commission for Italy. American sources gave this report of the talks:

Molotov had complained that some reports from Italy, particularly on enlargement of British and American airfields, created the impression that these Allied troops proposed to stay in Italy for a long time.

Steps should be taken, Molotov said, for the opposite impression.

Byrnes replied that he heard reports every day on what Soviet troops were doing in Austria, Bulgaria and Romania which would indicate they intended to remain there. But, said Byrnes, he had long ago learned not to believe all reports he heard and he would recommended such a policy to his Soviet colleague.

Then Molotov, dropping earlier objections to some sort of commission in Italy to insure compliance with the peace treaty, proposed that the four ambassadors in Rome constitute such a body for 12 months after a treaty is effected.

Byrnes accepted, followed by Bevin and Bidault.

Both the United States and Britain agreed to withdraw all troops from Italy within 90 days after the treaty is effective after Molotov declared Russia would evacuate Bulgaria under similar conditions.

The United States and Britain also agreed to use Germany instead of Italy as a supply line to their occupying forces in Austria. Byrnes assured Bevin that British forces could have facilities in the American zone for this purpose.

The ministers deferred final decision on proposed changes of the Italian-French frontier, giving the Tenda and Briga region to France, when Molotov said he wanted more time to study an Italian memorandum circulated last night.

On the first item of business today, however, the question of the French-Italian frontier, the Russians requested more time to study a report by a commission of hydro-electric experts. Discussion of the question was postponed.

Conditions Set And Accepted

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin agreed to the principle of withdrawing British troops from Italy within 90 days after the treaty goes into effect on condition that Soviet troops be withdrawn from Bulgaria within a similar period and that the United States permit British lines of communication to cross the American zone in Germany to Austria.

United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov of Russia agreed to the conditions and the proposal was adopted, the informant said.

a week of sparring on smaller economic questions.

Still No Trieste Solution

There were no indications that any of the principals had changed their attitude toward the troublesome problem of Trieste, which United States sources have described as the key to the whole problem of peace treaties for Italy and the Balkans.

The United States, Britain and France contend the Adriatic port city should go to Italy, while the Russians insist just as stoutly that it should be awarded to Yuogslavia. One American source said that Secretary of State James F. Byrnes regards the American position on Trieste as a matter of principle and that while he might compromise on details of a settlement he would not compromise the principle.

The still-deadlocked problem of reparations—with Russia demanding payments of $100,000,000 from Italy—was not touched upon yesterday, but it was on today's agenda.

Evacuation Of Italy, Bulgaria 90 Days After Peace Set

JUN 21 1946

J. O'NEAN

Paris, June 20 (AP)—A British informant said the Foreign Ministers Council agreed today that British and American troops in Italy and Russian troops in Bulgaria should be evacuated within 90 days after peace treaties with those two countries go into effect.

DAY

The British source said the representatives of Britain, Russia, the United States and France, working in an unusually conciliatory atmosphere, also broke a deadlock that has existed for several months over the question of an Allied treaty inspection commission for Italy by adopting a Soviet counterproposal for a commission to be composed of the four Allied Ambassadors in Rome.

Group To Apply Terms

The commission will supervise the carrying out of the terms of the treaty. The Russians previously had refused to approve the idea of such a commission, declaring it would be an infringement on Italian sovereignty.

Differs From May Proposal

Previously, at their meetings in May, Britain and the United States had bargained for Russian withdrawal from Romania, rather than Bulgaria, as a condition for British and American withdrawal from Italy.

On the question of an Allied inspectorate commission in Italy, Britain and the United States earlier had proposed a body of commissioners for eighteen months. Molotov's suggestion today called for a period of twelve months.

Fundamental phases of the Italian peace treaty, such as Trieste and reparations' still confronted the Foreign Ministers after nearly

Dr. Parran Addresses World Unit

L. HAUCK

New York, June 20 (AP)—Surgeon General Thomas Parran, of the United State Public Health Service, said today that formation of a global health organization would be a major step toward "our total objective of peace."

Dr. Parran spoke before delegates to the world health conference after being unanimously elected chairman of the United Nations agency.

NIGHT

The conference, in its second day of sessions aimed at laying the groundwork for a permanent world body, has representatives of 67 countries, including the 51 United Nations members.

"A basic problem is that man should learn to live in harmony with his fellows," Dr. Parran said. "This is the elementary basis for world friendship and peace.

"Sick Don't Make Peace"

"Remember that sick and starving people do not make the peace or keep the peace."

Dr. Parran told a press conference that the goal of the conference was to make medical service available to all persons regardless of their economic status. He refused, however, to define this in relation to health insurance, contending that all such plans came under finance and taxation and could not be settled by a health group.

Opening discussion on the report of the preparatory commission brought general approval from delegates.

Dr. M. Hafezi, of Iran, said that his Government believes wholeheartedly in "international co-operation and is determined to contribute to our utmost to the achievement of the aim and purposes of the United Nations Charter."

Wants Membership For All

Dr. James Kofei Chen, the Chinese delegate, said membership should be open to all nations of the world, regardless of being in the United Nations.

Delegates from Russia, White Russia and the Ukraine were still absent, along with several others, as the sessions continued. The meeting is expected to last one month.

Dr. Djamil Pasha Tutunji, director of public health for Trans-Jordan, one of the nonmember countries sitting at the conference, urged the group to take a stand on birth control, declaring that "control of the birth rate is as important as control of the atomic bomb."

He declared that wars were due to overpopulation of the world.

United Nations Members Weigh Russ Atom Plan

JUN 21 1946

C. GRUNDY

New York, June 20 (AP)—Members of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission today weighed a Russian plan for a world convention to outlaw atomic weapons which, if adopted, would compel the United States to destroy all her atom bombs within three months.

DAY

The Russian plan, offered as a substitute for an American proposal under which the United States has conditionally offered to share her atomic secrets and destroy the bombs, would be put into force by ratification of half the nations of the world.

On vital points it was drastically at variance with the conditions laid down last Friday by United States Delegate Bernard M. Baruch and which must be met before the United States would pool her atomic "know-how" under a guarantee of world control.

Would Forbid Use

The Russian plan would forbid use and production of atomic weapons, provide for their destruction three months after the convention is ratified, and require each signatory nation within six months after enactment to provide its own legislation prescribing severe punishment for violations.

It would set up two committees to handle exchange of scientific information for peaceful use and to provide international controls embracing "a system of sanctions for application against the unlawful use of atomic energy."

The primary difference between the American and Russian proposals is that Baruch offered to yield the atomic secrets and destroy the American bombs only after international control is assured, while Gromyko proposed a measure taking the control out of American hands by international convention.

Presented By Gromyko

The Russian proposals were presented to the commission yesterday by Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko. Gromyko did not refer to the Baruch program as he offered his plan.

Observers said that Russia's presentation of a "counterplan" came as a surprise at this early stage of discussions. They believed it would greatly prolong the long-range preliminaries for ultimate disposal of atomic energy as an instrument of warfare. The delegates are in recess until next Tuesday afternoon. (INSERT)

Chinese Statement

Dr. Quo Tai-chi, Chinese delegate, said his country would surrender the big-power veto on atomic subjects if the others would follow suit. He was joined in general approval of the Baruch plan by Britain, Canada, Brazil and Mexico, but Britain remained noncommittal on the surrender of the veto. There was no comment on the Russian plan in the Council.

Egypt, the Netherlands, France and Australia remained to be heard next Tuesday. It was reported that Australia would offer some modifications to the Baruch plan.

Gromyko's plan envisions the establishment of two committees, each with full representation and advisers from the twelve nations on the Atomic Commission. One would handle the exchange of scientific information; the other would "prevent the use of atomic energy for the harm of humanity."

Refugee Organization Approved By Council

EXECUTIVE

New York, June 20 (AP)—The United Nations Economic and Social Council today approved a proposed constitution for an international refugee organization.

The organization set up in the proposal would be concerned particularly with encouraging and assisting the return of refugees and displaced persons to their homes or assisting them to find new homes elsewhere. It would be a specialized agency related to the United Nations and would take over most of the functions of the UNRRA when that agency expires. The refugee organization must be ratified by the United Nations before it becomes effective.

NIGHT

The Council, meeting as a committee, voted down, 7 to 4, a Russian proposal to recruit staff personnel of refugee agency from among the nations of the countries of origin of the refugees and displaced persons. The committee accepted instead a British and United States proposal that the staff be obtained on a "wide geographical basis."

The work of the Council committee will be placed before the final Council plenary meeting of the second session at 10.30 A.M. tomorrow. The Council is expected to adjourn tomorrow until August 26.

French Cabinet Post Offered To Herriot

JUN 21 1946

F. GODBEY

Paris, June 20 (AP)—Former Premier Edouard Herriot, leader of the Radical-Socialist party, said today that President Georges Bidault had offered him a post in the new French Cabinet.

Herriot declared that before accepting he would have to see whether members of his party were willing to participate in the Government. He did not disclose what portfolio he had been offered.

DAY

Bidault's adherents, meanwhile, declared that as interim President he would make his Cabinet as inclusive as possible, and try to take in at least one of the moderates, but they said he intended to retain the portfolio of Foreign Minister.

Protest Strike Planned

When Bidault left the Big Four Foreign Ministers' Conference to begin discussions with opposition party leaders last night, left-wing organizations were making plans for a city-wide strike today to protest demonstrations by bands that attacked Communist headquarters Tuesday night while shouting the name of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Bidault conferred with Maurice Thorez and Jacques Duclos, Communist leaders, as well as with Socialist heads. Thorez declined afterward to indicate whether the Communists would participate in a coalition government. There were indications that they would and also that they would offer no objection to a provision for a two-house legislature in the Constitution that the Assembly will draft for the Fourth Republic.

The Socialists had asserted earlier that if the Communists declined to share responsibility in the Government no Socialist would serve, either.

ferent version of the same incident.

Ennis, of Peekskill, N. Y., is charged with authorizing cruelty to American prisoners at the confinement center in England. He is one of [illegible] in the courts martial that have been in progress seven months.

His accusers today were Corp. Ellis Adcock of Hot Springs, Ark., who was fined $30 for striking prisoners at Lichfield; and Pfc. William C. Loveless of Parma, Mo., awaiting trial on similar charges.

One said the prisoner was struck in the morning. The other said in the afternoon. Each described differing circumstances and named different persons as present when the incident occurred.

Loveless was firm on cross examination about his testimony that Ennis told guards "you'll have to get rough with these men," assuring them of official backing.

The trial of Ennis was the only Lichfield hearing in progress today. The case against Col. James A. Kilian, former commandant, was in recess while the Army sought four missing witnesses he had demanded.

Lichfield Trial Is Interrupted

JUN 21 1946

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 20 (AP)—An unexplained recess interrupted the cruelty trial of Lieut. Leonard W. Ennis today as his lawyer was protesting that a court ruling prevented him from "showing the motive for these prosecution witnesses' perjuring themselves."

The court interrupted the attorney, Col. Edward Chayes, of Chicago, in the midst of his protest and announced "the court will be closed." There was no motion pending to require a secret vote. A half hour later the court returned and announced the trial would recess until afternoon, again giving no explanation.

The interruption occurred during the testimony of Corporal Ellis Adcock, of Hot Springs, Ark., who said he saw Ennis strike a Lichfield (England) guardhouse prisoner "a backhand blow" so hard it knocked him against a wall. Ennis, from Peekskill, N.Y., is accused of aiding and authorinzing cruelty to American soldiers confined at Lichfield.

Chayes drew an admission from Adcock that he had denied mistreatment of prisoners in the first Lichfield trial in London, and later reversed his story under a court promise of immunity from prosecution for perjury.

"Somebody told you that if you threw the blame on the officers you would absolve yourself from blame for anything that happened there, did they not?" Chayes asked Adcock, who was convicted last week of striking prisoners and fined $80.

The court sustained a prosecution objection to the question. "I am trying to show why this witness perjured himself," Chayes protested, and began a criticism which included several similar rulings by the court, which he said blocked him from showing the motive for several witnesses changing their stories.

Ennis's was the only Lichfield trial in progress today, as the court took a one-day recess to find four missing witnesses in the case of Col. James A. Kilian of Highland Park, Ill., former Lichfield commander.

Yank Testifies Nazi Showed Consideration

Dachau, Germany, June 20 (AP)—Flown across the Atlantic as a surprise defense witness, Lieut. Col. Hal D. McCown of Rushton, La., testified today that the commander of Hitler's prize Waffen SS Regiment showed consideration to American wounded in the Battle of the Bulge and released 150 captured GI's in the hope of a war-prisoner trade with the United States command.

McCown came in an attempt to save the life of his former captor, Col. Joachim Peiper, one of 74 Waffen SS men on trial for the massacres of unarmed American prisoners at Malmedy and other Belgian villages.

Peiper, who had been accused of ruthlessly ordering Americans liquidated after their capture, smiled confidently as he watched McCown take the stand.

The young American declared that during the time he was Peiper's prisoner—December 21 to Christmas Day, 1944—"At no time did I see mistreatment of American prisoners of war."

Speer Claims He Instigated Scheme To Kill Adolf Hitler

JUN 21 1946

I-RECOY

Nuernberg, June 20 (AP)—Albert Speer testified in the trial for his life as a war criminal today that he plotted to kill Adolf Hitler with poison gas shot through the chancellery bunker ventilator in March of 1945.

The former munitions minister told the international military tribunal he openly defied the chancellor and [illegible] to liquidate him because Hitler was bringing Germany to ruins because of refusal to surrender. Finally on March 29, Speer asserted that he got orders to "quit in 24 hours."

One Of 22 On Trial

Speer, one of 22 Nazis on trial before judges of the United States, Russia, France and the United Kingdom, said Hitler "betrayed Germany" in continuing the war beyond January of 1946 when defeat "was clear to any intelligent man around him."

Speer, architect of many modern buildings in Berlin, said he felt he was in a position to flood the chancellery bunker with poison gas.

British intelligence reports said Hitler indeed did die in the chancellery bunker, but by his own hand and with his mistress-bride, Eve Braun, in the last hours before German capitulation.

Chimney Spoiled Plot

Speer asserted he had to abandon the idea of introducing cans of gas into the bunker because of the guards, "so I went to the chief of a munitions section and talked with him about a new poison gas."

"It could not be used because it had to reach a high temperature, and the explosion would have wrecked the air-conditioning plant," Speer said. "I found out an anti-gas filter had not been turned on, and I would have been able to use an ordinary type of gas. I then inspected the intake and found it was surrounded by a chimney 4 feet high."

Speer said the chimney spoiled the plot and the plan was dropped.

He said he defied Hitler on his scorched-earth policy and ordered explosives to be hidden and pistols distributed to plants to fight off any efforts.

Sought To Kill Hitler, Speer Tells War Court

JUN 21 1946

I-RECOY

Nuernberg, June 20 (AP)—Albert Speer, former German Munitions Minister, told the international military tribunal today he was determined to kill Adolf Hitler in his chancellery bunker in Berlin in March last year but was unable to slip canisters of poison gas past the guards.

In an impassive tone he related that he realized the Führer must die to save Germany from complete ruin.

Speer said he learned of a new special gas that had been perfected in February, 1945, and that he obtained some for the sole purpose of destroying Hitler.

Saw Crash Coming

He said he warned Hitler a year before Germany collapsed that the country was too exhausted of materials "to continue modern war."

The witnes, on trial for his life wth twenty-one other ranking Germans, said he sent Hitler a memorandum in June of 1944 reporting a "serious" shortage of coal and disclosing that another month of American and British bombing would destroy the chemical industry.

Speer said the Ruhr was bombed out so completely by the Fall of 1944 that it was unable to transport coal fro mthe pits.

"The Ruhr will be exhausted by the end of November if no decisive improvements of deliveries can be achieved," he said he wrote Hitler.

"It is obvious that the failure of the Rhenish Westphalian industry in the long run will be unbearable for the whole German economy and a successful continuation of the war."

Slackers A Problem

Speer said he complained early in October of 1942 about "slackers" in German war industry. His lawyer placed in evidence a document recording a meeting of the central war planning group in which Speer said "the question of slackers is a point we must discuss."

The witness said absenteeism from illnesses in plants declined sharply when special physicians weer assigned to make periodical checks.

Why Disillusioned Fraulein Shot GI: 'He Laughed At Her'

JUN 21 1946

I-RECOY

Nuernberg, June 20 (AP)—A military government court heard testimony today that a 20-year-old German girl killed an American sergeant after she learned that she was pregnant but he was married in the United States, and that he had started keeping company with another German girl here.

The testimony was introduced by German police at the trial of Erika Krebs, of Bad Tölz, charged with shooting Sergt. Robert E. Flanigan, of Peoria, Ill., in his billet at Nuernberg June 12.

The comely blonde heard the charges at the opening of the trial impassively, but as details were brought out by the police she began to weep and at one point refused to look at pictures of the slain soldier.

Girl's Statement Introduced

The prosecution introduced a statement which it said the girl made at the time of her arrest. It said she came from Munich to Nuernberg at Flanigan's request, but kept the knowledge of her pregnancy from him. It said she told police she decided to take her own life and stole Flanigan's military policeman's pistol for that purpose.

The statement said that Flanigan sent the girl back to Munich in an army ambulance. She decided to return to Nuernberg immediately, however, to see him again. She arrived at his rooms at 6.30 A.M. and saw another German girl leaving.

She reproached him, the statement continued, but he laughed at her. She took the pistol out of her handbag and "played with it." The gun discharged, killing the soldier instantly.

"Not Too Stupid To Finish"

Police also introduced a letter which they said the Krebs girl wrote to a friend the day before the shooting saying:

"You will know why I did that and I hope some people will understand me. I am not crazy and not drunk. He must die with me because he broke my life. I told Bob many times not to play with me, but he didn't care. I knew Bob eleven months and I loved him more than my life. I was stupid all the time but I am not too stupid to finish.

"I am a German girl and I don't feel sorry for what I am going to do. It is only my business what I I do, but I hope it will be an example for some people."

Fraulein On Trial In Yank's Murder

Nuernberg, June 20 (AP)—Erika Krebs, 20-year-old fraulein, was placed on trial today before a United States Military Government court charged with murder of Master Sergt. Robert E. Flanagan, Peoria, Ill., of the 793d Military Police Battalion.

Capt. William Canfield, Military Government prosecutor, presented the triple charge of murder, illegal possession of firearms and theft of Allied property.

The prosecution contended the German girl shot Flanagan three times in his billet June 12 with a stolen United States Army pistol.

The girl told interrogators she intended to use the gun on herself when she learned Flanagan was to be redeployed.

U.S. Soldiers in Germany Up Early to Hear Fight

FRANKFURT, June 20 (AP).—Thousands of sleepy G. I.s roused themselves from their bunks in Germany today and clustered around their barracks' radio to hear two ex-soldiers, Joe Louis and Billy Conn, fight it out. Soldiers on night duty lugged radios to their lonesome posts, and in one Frankfurt message center German fraulein employed as teleytpe operators joined in the excitement.

"It was a pity Conn says he is through—but it looked like Billy got overanxious and got the bum's rush," said Private John S. Ivankovics, of 1810 S. Catalpa Street, South Bend, Ind., in a Frankfurt Red Cross club.

Private John Goodstone, of Farmington, N. H., said betting between soldiers was extensive. "Most of the G. I.'s put their money on Louis, although they were just a little wary about the outcome, since both men were four years older since their last bout," Goodstone said.

DO BIG-TIME TRADE IN CIGARETTE BUTTS

Frankfurt, June 20 (A. P.).—The Horatio Alger-type heroes of postwar Germany don't shine shoes to support their widowed mothers. They do it by collecting cigarette butts. In German slang they are called "kippensammlers," or "stub connoisseurs."

In this tobacco-hungry country a boy can earn more money picking cigarette butts off the street than he can by working in a factory. German marks are only the symbols of money today. The true currency is nicotine.

Most of the workers are young boys and girls who work for "tobacco fagins." The latter buy their daily butt collections and process them into new cigarets or packets of retread pipe "fine cut." An industrious young man with good legs and ambition can earn up to ten marks a day—one dollar—on a good beat.

REICH AMMUNITION DUMP STILL BURNS

JUN 21 1946

Haenigsen, June 20 (A. P.).—Fires still smoldered today in a salt mine, 2,000 foot deep, wrecked Tuesday when 10,000 tons of stored German ammunition exploded, killing at least eighty-three German and foreign workers in this village twenty miles northeast of Hanover.

A fire of undetermined origin set off the blast and the concussion wrecked nearly all the nine buildings, tossing wagons, pieces of concrete and steel frames into the air like confetti. It was heard fifty miles away.

Although the eighty-three workers inside the dump were believed to have been killed instantly, 400 persons working on the surface were unhurt. The entire danger area was evacuated under the direction of British troops. British soldiers fought fires for eighteen hours at the mine head. It will not be possible to enter the mine for several days.

Peanut Criminal Barred in Germany

MUNICH, Germany (AP)—Josef Scharnigl's pet animals were monkeys at the Munich Zoological Garden. "The monkeys must be starving because they have not been getting any peanuts for six years," he told the judge trying him on a charge he stole peanuts from the Army depot here and fed them to monkeys.

He was given plenty of time to think of peanuts — behind prison bars.

SOVIET ZONE TO VOTE

Berlin, June 20 (A. P.).—The Soviet Military Government announced today that the first local elections in the Russian occupation zone of Germany would be held in September and that the vote will be extended to former minor Nazi party membebrs and those belonging to Hitler Youth organizations.

The American zone has already had local elections. American officials said the Russian suffrage rules were somewhat more liberal toward the rank and file Nazi than those prevailing in the American zone.

Inquiry on Zones Blocked

BERLIN, June 20 (AP)—The issue of a four-power investigation of the progress of demilitarization in all four zones of occupation in Germany was discussed today in the Allied Control Council but the meeting ended with the Russians still opposing investigation of industries in their territory, a United States source said tonight.

MISS MITCHELL NAMED IN TRIAL

JUN 21 1946

Yugoslav Says He Saw Flyer's Sister With Gestapo

W. Kintg

Belgrade, June 20 (AP)—A picture of Miss Ruth Mitchell, sister of the late Brig. Gen. William Mitchell, was identified today by Dragi Jovanovic, police prefect in Belgrade during the Nazi occupation, as that of a person he had seen "with the Gestapo and Chetniks."

Miss Mitchell, said to have been the only foreign woman ever admitted to membership in the Chetniks, returned to the United States in June, 1942. She had been a prisoner of the Germans for fourteen months after her arrest in Yugoslavia, where she had lived for several years.

Prompted By Prosecutor

Jovanovic, a co-defendant at the treason trial of Gen. Draja Mihailovic, the Chetnik leader, made the identification at the prompting of the prosecutor, who asked "did she have any connection with the Gestapo?"

"I don't know," Jovanovic answered.

The bringing of Miss Mitchell's name into the case was the second sensation of the day in the Yugoslav military courtroom.

Earlier Mihailovic dramatically denied that he had obtained money for his Chetnik fighters from the quisling regime of the late Premier Milan Nedic, as testified by Jovanovic.

Jovanovic was shown a picture of Miss Mitchell with the caption hidden and he identified her as an American he had seen with the Gestapo. He was unable to remember her name, but when the prosecutor suggested "Ruth," Jovanovic replied "Yes, that's the name. Ruth Mitchell."

Shown with Miss Mitchell in the picture, he said, was King Peter, the now deposed king of Yugoslavia.

Report Of Oath Recalled

The prosecutor asked Jovanovic, "From where did you know her?"

"I saw this woman in Bled and I saw her in 1941 or 1942 with Pecanac's Chetniks in Belgrade. I asked somebody who the woman was," Jovanovic answered.

Miss Mitchell had said she was sworn into the Chetniks in 1941 when the leader was Kosca Pecanac, a Serb patriot in the first World War.

She said she took the oath on a dagger and loaded revolver, crossed on Pecanac's desk on which was the skull and crossbones of a Chetnik who died in the course of duty.

The prosecutor asked Jovanovic, "Did you see her before Pecanac formed an agreement with the Germans and came to Belgrade or after that?"

"Pecanac formed an agreement in August, 1941, exactly on the day of the formation of the Nedic Government, and it was after in the fall," Jovanovic replied.

Lacks Knowledge Of Link

"Did she have any connection with the German intelligence service?" the prosecutor pressed.

"This I don't know," said Jovanovic. "I saw her in the Gestapo with Chetniks."

[After her return to the United States, Miss Mitchell was an outspoken admirer of Mihailovic. In 1943 she accused the Office of War Information of taking sides in Yugoslav politics. The OWI denied the charge.]

Earlier Jovanovic had testified that he had personal contact with Mihailovic and had supplied Chetnik units with German ammunition and other supplies.

Summoned forward to confirm or deny Jovanovic's statements of a meeting with Mihailovic in August, 1944, to prepare further blows against Marshal Tito's Partisans, Mihailovic declared:

"I say I did not meet you. You could have come under a false name when I was surrounded by spies—all the spies in the world."

Browder Leaves Moscow

Flying to Paris on Way Home as Soviet Publishers' Agent

MOSCOW, June 20 (AP).—Earl Browder, former general secretary of the Communist party in the United States, left Moscow by plane for Paris today after a six-week visit during which he was received by Foreign Minister Viacheslav M. Molotov and Deputy Foreign Minister S. A. Lozovsky.

Browder is en route home to the United States, where, he said, he will represent Soviet book publishers for five years under contracts signed during his stay in Moscow.

'Mediator' For His People With Nazis, Slav Claims

JUN 21 1946

DAY

Belgrade, June 20 (AP)—Dragi Jovanovic, police prefect for Belgrade during the occupation and a codefendent with Gen. Draja Mihailovic, testified in the treason trial today that he recruited forced labor for Yugoslavia's copper mines.

Jovanovic, who was accused of carrying out many repressive measures during the German stay, pleaded not guilty and asserted that "I was trying to serve my people who were under occupation."

"Mediator," He Says

"Was it conscious collaboration?" the court president asked.

"No, I can't say that," Jovanovic replied. "I was mediator between Belgrade and the occupier."

He said his action in recruiting mine labor was a "favor to our people" because it prevented their being sent to Germany for forced labor.

Admits Seeing Gestapo Man

He admitted meeting a German representative of the Gestapo before the war.

Jovanovic was a member of the puppet government of Milan Nedic. He was the first of a group of alleged quislings brought to trial with Mihailovic, his Chetnik commanders and members of the Yugoslav Government in exile. The Government of Marshal Tito sought to show a connection among the three groups.

Tells Of Aiding Mihailovic

Jovanovic testified that he had personal contact with Mihailovic in 1942 and supplied his Chetnik units with ammunition, clothing and money. He said his first contact with the Chetniks was in 1941.

Tito's court accused Mihailovic and the Chetniks of collaborating with German and Italian occupation forces and with the Nedic regime and with fighting the Partisan forces, which Tito himself commanded.

"Why did you connect yourself with the Mihailovic organization?" Jovanovic was asked.

"Because I understood they were doing national work of uniting the country and liberating our country," he replied.

"But why did you link yourself to them?"

"They came to me."

Aid Sought for White Russia

MOSCOW, June 20 (AP).—Richard Scandress, American head of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration to White Russia, said today the Vitebsk and Polotsk regions were among the most despoiled areas in all Europe, and he urged that all efforts be made to supply the largest possible amount of fats under U. N. R. R. A.'s commitments to that area. (ADD)

1400 JEWS ON SHIP OFF FOR PALESTINE

JUN 21 1946

Savona, Italy, June 20 (A. P.).—Fourteen hundred Jewish refugees sailed for the Middle East yesterday from the small port of Vado near here, in defiance of an Italian police order halting their vessel for investigation.

The police said the vessel, identified as the Beauharnais and flying the Panamanian flag, dropped anchor at Vado Tuesday night after sailing from Savona earlier in the day bound for Cairo.

The Jews, who had reached Vado in motor convoy, boarded the ship informing the police they were bound for Palestine.

UNRRA WHEAT DIVERTED

Shipments for Austria Shifted to Italian Harbor

VIENNA, June 20 (AP)—Two ships loaded with 17,000 tons of United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration wheat for Austria have been diverted to Italy in midocean, officials said today.

The diversion of this grain, expected to furnish about 300 calories daily for a month to Austria's population, was a blow to the Allied Control Council, which only last month scraped up some 25,000 tons of food supplies to tide the UNRRA and the Austrian Government over a crisis. Austrians who have heard of bulging food stores and fancy restaurant menus in northern Italy were discouraged to hear of the diversion. They were also puzzled, since the harvest comes earlier in Italy than in Austria.

Greek Party Against Plebiscite

ATHENS, June 20 (AP).—Former Premier Themistocles Sophoulis hinted tonight his Liberal party might withdraw from Parliament if a bill calling for a plebiscite Sept. 1 on the return of King George II is passed in its present form. Opening debate on the question in the dominantly Royalist Parliament, Sophoulis said terrorism still reigns in Greece and that conditions are not conducive to the holding of an honest plebiscite.

Russ Loot Hungary Towns, Charge

JUN 21 1946

Budapest, June 17 [AP—Delayed]—A high Hungarian official asserted today that Hungarian Government reports said wtihdrawing Russian troops had looted two Hungarian towns over the week end, leaving nine dead and several injured in one place.

This official quoted Government reports from Pecs, a chief grain center in southwest Hungary, as saying that withdrawing Soviet soldiers broke into 24 houses there Saturday night and Sunday morning, taking all the funriture, including rugs and kitchen utensils. Nine persons were killed and an unstated number wounded in Pecs while resisting the looting, the reports said.

Another Town

The official also quoted official reports from the town of Nyir-Bator, about 23 miles northeast of Debrecen, as saying that the withdrawing Russians looted "many scores" of private homes in which they had been billeted. He said owners of the properties were not present and had not been since the Russian occupation.

Neither of the reports indicated the direction of the Russian movement upon departure.

Hungary Inflation at New High

BUDAPEST, June 19 (Delayed) (AP).—A single Hungarian banknote worth 10,000,000,000,000 (ten trillion) pengoes was issued today, adding to confusion in probably the most fantastic inflation in history. If pre-war exchange values were in effect, this note would be worth $2,000,000,000,000. Today, with the United States dollar worth 38,000,000,000,000 pengoes the new note is worth little more than 26 cents.

DAY

NIGHT

JERUSALEM, June 20—(AP) A British major escaped from Jewish kidnapers today and led a search for five other abducted officers while in Tel Aviv another Jew was reported killed during continuing disorders.

British troops intensified military steps against terrorist violence blamed upon illegal Jewish organizations, and imposed strict nighttime road curfews in the Lydda and Haifa areas to halt movement of unauthorized vehicles.

Escapes Through Window

Maj. H. P. Chadwick, who was kidnaped in Jerusalem Tuesday, escaped his abductors by jumping from a window, and then headed a search party scouring the Bucharim quarter of northwest Jerusalem of five officers seized in Tel Aviv at the officers' club.

An official army announcement gave few details, but said Chadwick was in good health. He was said to have escaped from a building in the Bucharim quarter, which highland troops and police cordoned off tonight.

Chadwick was whisked away from headquarters after reporting to intelligence officers, and officials said his story would not be made public immediately in order to protect the safety of the other five men.

Officials denied reports that a British army nurse had disappeared in Tel Aviv and that two British ATS girls had been kidnaped.

Appeals for Release

Moshe Shertok, head of the political department of the Jewish Agency, said the abduction of the British officers was "lunacy" and appealed for their immediate release. They were believed to have been taken as hostages for two members of the Irgun Zvai Leumi, an underground movement, who have been sentenced to death.

Two alleged members of the Irgun Zvai Leumi each were sentenced to seven years imprisonment today by a Jerusalem military court which convicted them of illegal possession of two Sten guns and one bomb following railway sabotage in southern Palestine last April.

Tel Aviv, all Jewish coastal city, was put out of bounds for British troops except those on patrol duty, and a dusk-to-dawn curfew was clamped tonight on the Lydda district which includes Tel Aviv. Orders called for halting all civilian vehicles after dark.

Palestinian Arabs celebrated the appearance in Cairo of their spiritual leader, the Mufti of Jerusalem, with nightlong [illegible].

New Outbreak Hits Palestine And Death Toll Rises to 25

Tel Aviv Declared Out of Bounds to All British Troops Except Those on Duty —Jew Killed in Uprising There.

Jerusalem, June 20 (A. P.).—The Jewish city of Tel Aviv was proclaimed out of bounds today for all British troops, except military police and patrols, following a new outbreak of violence which resulted in the death of a 35-year-old Jew, bringing the three-day death toll in Palestine to twenty-two Jews and three Britons.

DAY

Palestine Arabs celebrated the return of the Mufti, Haj Amin el Husseini, to the Middle East in an atmosphere tense with military preparations against further violence in the week - long revolt of Jewish illegal organizations.

Heavily armed British troops guarded all rail junctions and manned numerous road blocks while the entire Palestine countryside teemed with soldiers. Reinforced police and military patrols guarded all streets in Jerusalem and barbed wire barricades were thrown around all public buildings. Throughout the night searchlights swept the highways, focusing on every passing automobile.

Tel Aviv Curfew Lifted.

Posters attributed to underground Jewish organizations were posted in profusion on Jerusalem's walls last night and three unexploded bombs were reported found in the capital city.

The strict curfew on Tel Aviv was lifted after an unsuccessful all-day search yesterday of the coastal Jewish metropolis for engineer officers and parachute battalion commanders, all captains.

Two Britons Arrested.

Two British officers were reported arrested in connection with the shooting of the 35-year-old Jew, Amram Rosenberg, in Tel Aviv.

More than sixty settlers from the Jewish collective colony of Beth Haaravap, thirty-five miles east of Jerusalem at the northern end of the Dead Sea, still were being held in custody at a detention camp after a blast wrecked the Allenby Bridge over the River Jordan Sunday night. Jewish spokesmen demanded their release declaring there was no evidence of their participation in the bridge wrecking and that there their only offense was their refusal to march into prisoner cages.

Dr. Izzat Tannous, secretary-general of the Arab Higher Committee, says the current outbursts of violence in the Holy Land are aiding the Arabs.

"I hope these Jews will continue to drive the British to the side of the Arabs," Tannous told the final session of the Higher Committee last night. The committee dissolved upon instructions of the Arab League Council, which directed all Arab factions in Palestine to unite under an executive committee headed by the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, now in Egypt. Questions Bevin Statement.

London, June 20 (A. P.).—David Ben-Gurion, executive of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, challenged today British Foreign Secretary Bevin's recent assertion that it would cost $800,000,000 to resettle 100,000 European Jewish refugees in Palestine as recommended by the British-American Inquiry Committee.

In a letter to the Times, Ben-Gurion asserted that Bevin's estimate of the cost was "fantastic."

"The Jewish Agency for Palestine has already brought over some 400,000 Jews and the entire cost of their immigration and resettlement did not amount to half that sum," he wrote. "What is more important . . . the British taxpayer did not contribute a penny toward the settlement of Jews in Palestine, nor is he asked to spend a farthing now.

"International funds set up for the rescue of Nazi victims will, of course, be required to contribute for that purpose, but there is no claim whatever upon the British taxpayer to contribute for immigration of Jews to Palestine.

Sees No Extra Troops Needed.

"Mr. Bevin appears to have said that admission of 100,000 Jews to Palestine would make it necessary to bring another division of British troops to Palestine. I venture to suggest on the strength of expert military advice that more military forces on land, sea and in the air are now used to prevent Jews from coming to Palestine than may be required in the case of their admission.

"May I add that there is no need to seek special reasons for American support of Jewish aspirations in Palestine. Such support was consistently given by the British Labor party and foremost statesmen of other parties in Great Britain, namely Lloyd George, Balfour and Winston Churchill."

EGYPT WILL CURB POLITICAL ACTIONS BY GRAND MUFTI

JUN 21 1946

NIGHT

CAIRO, June 20 — (AP) Premier Ismail Sidky Pasha said tonight that Egypt was "honor bound" to shelter the Mufti of Jerusalem but indicated that the spiritual leader of Palestinian Arabs was expected to keep out of controversial activities.

The premier's statement came after the Egyptian Council of Ministers in a special session had declared that the Mufti, who has successfully found a haven in the Nile kingdom, was a political refugee and therefore could not under the law of the nation be handed over to any country.

Courtesy to Great Chief

A communique issued by Sidky Pasha said the government's decision to let the Mufti stay was "inspired only by the duty of courtesy toward a great Arab chief." The communique added:

"Everyone knows that Egypt is now traversing a particularly delicate period in her political life and it is hoped that she will attain her goal without encumbrance in an atmosphere of calm and order.

"Doubtless His Eminence (the Mufti) thoroughly realizes this."

Sidky Pasha's statement was taken to mean that the Egyptians do not intend for the Mufti, Haj Amin El Husseini, to resume anti-British activities, particularly while negotiations are going on for revision of the 1936 British-Egyptian treaty of alliance.

"This is not the time nor the place to recall political mistakes said to have been made by the Mufti some time ago," the Egyptian premier said.

Receives Arab Messages

Meanwhile, the Mufti—wanted in Palestine for anti-Jewish as well as anti-British activities—received numerous telegrams from Arab leaders in the Holy Land congratulating him on his escape from French surveillance in Paris late last month.

The Mufti, foe of Jewish immigration to Palestine, arrived in Egypt as Arab leaders discussed means of opposing a British-American inquiry committee's recommendation for the admission into the Holy Land this year of 100,000 homeless European Jews. (ADD)

Mufti Received In Egypt As A Refugee

JUN 21 1946

Cairo, June 20 (AP)—Egypt's Foreign Minister made it plain today that his country would grant asylum to Haj Amin al Husseini, the Mufti of Jerusalem.

The mystery over the whereabouts of the Arab firebrand and anti-Zionist leader since his disappearance from France some three weeks ago was solved last night when King Farouk's palace announced that the Mufti had arrived in Egypt and asked a refuge.

DAY

Haj Amin, whom the British accuse of broadcasting for Hitler during the war, has been in exile from Palestine since 1937, when he was accused of fomenting a long series of Arab outbreaks.

The Egyptian Constitution

Lufti el Said Pasha, Foreign Minister, said the "Egyptian constitution prevents giving up political refugees to any other country."

When asked whether the Mufti was considered a political refugee or a private guest of the King, Lufti Pasha answered: "Political refugee."

A highly reliable informant said King Farouk had already advised the British Government of his decision to grant sanctuary to the Mufti.

The Egyptian Council of Ministers, reinforcing the Foreign Minister's announcement, met in a special session. It decided the Mufti would be considered a political refugee and therefore would not be handed over to any country.

Mrs. Shirley Kholucy, of Heliopolis, a Cairo suburb, expressed the opinion that the Mufti left Paris on the same American plane as she on May 29 and reached Cairo May 30.

"Disguise" Of The Traveler

The man she believes was Haj Amin did not have a beard, although the Mufti habitually wears one. Efforts to obtain news photographs of the Mufti in Cairo today were unsuccessful, officials declaring it would take several days.

Mrs. Kholucy believed the Mufti also wore a wig to disguise himself.

"The hair line was wrong," she said.

She said the man arrived at Orly Airfield at Paris at the last minute and took a seat in front of her.

One Passenger Missing

When the plane was delayed at Rome by weather and the passenger's passports were examined before they went to a hotel, she said the stranger was extremely nervous. On reaching Cairo he did not ride with the others in the airline bus to the city.

Investigators have found no trace here of a passenger who traveled on the same plane under the name of Marouf el Doualibi, whose passport Haj Amin was previously reported to have used. The documents of "Marouf el Doualibi" listed his prospective address in Cairo as the Eden Hotel.

Marouf el Doualibi was the Mufti's riht-hand man during his European exile.

Foreign Minister Lufti Pasha said, "It does not matter," when asked if the Mufti's presence would affect the British-Egyptian negotiations to revise their 1936 treaty of alliance.

Audience Is Described

A communiqué issued at Abdin Palace said the Mufti "called at the palace, signed the royal visitors' books and asked for an audience from King Farouk" on Tuesday night.

"The audience was granted," the communiqué added, "and the Mufti told the King: 'I have taken refuge in your palace.'"

The Mufti left his place of exile in a Parisian suburb about June 9, and efforts to locate him in the Middle East coincided with an outburst of violence involving Jews and British troops in the Holy Land, where 25 persons have been slain and at least five British officers kidnapped since Sunday.

Attlee Skirts Mufti Issue.

London, June 20 (A. P.).—Prime Minister Attlee told the House of Commons today that the British Ambassador in Cairo, Sir Ronald Campbell, is consulting Egyptian Premier Sidky Pasha on measures to take in connection with the appearance in Cairo of the Mufti of Jerusalem.

Attlee carefully avoided any specific statement on the Mufti, whom Winston Churchill described in his questioning of Attlee as "this marked enemy of the cause of the Allies during the war."

The Prime Minister, however, suggested that Churchill ask about the Mufti again next week and promised to give "any further information that comes in."

Egyptians Expect A Defensive Pact

Cairo, June 20 (AP)—Egyptian sources predicted today that their Government would insist on limiting the proposed new alliance with Britain to a "defensive pact" providing for British-Egyptian collaboration in the event that either nation were actually attacked.

The same sources said the new alliance proposed by Britain after the Egyptian negotiators had rejected the initial draft, providing for joint action when war was imminent or in progress, incorporated virtually the same idea as the original but in different form. The new British proposal provided also, they said, for British maneuvers in the Suez Canal zone once yearly.

Evacuation Provision

Britain offered to evacuate all British troops from Egypt within a year if a satisfactory agreement was reached, it was added.

The Egyptian delegation favors an alliance under which British troops would come to India's assistance only when requested, Egyptian sources said.

They added that the Egyptian delegation desired the provision that Egypt would not assist Britain militarily in any action opposing the United Nations.

Negotiations Hang Fire

The Egyptian delegation was expected by these sources to advise the British Government immediate of its reaction to the new British proposals. The resumption of negotiations would wait upon the British reaction to this reaction.

Negotiations for the revision of their 1936 alliance were interrupted several weeks ago so that the British negotiators could consult Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin on the Egyptian objection that the aliance proposed by Britain would permit Britain to send troops into

Egypt whenever she desired.

British Rejection Hinted

London, June 20 (AP)—Authoritative quarters said today that Britain will resist any attempt to limit the proposed alliance with Egypt to collaboration only in event either nation actually is attacked.

The British view is that delay in effectiveness of military collaboration until the actual moment of hostilities would be equivalent to no collaboration at all. The Egyptian insistence upon such a limitation, it was said, disregards the plain problem of logistics since it is not possible to move large bodies of troops quickly enough to be of value in the probable swift development of any future war.

Chou Urges End Of All Fighting

Nanking, June 20 (AP)—Gen. Chou En-lai, chief Chinese Communist negotiator, called today for an end to "all hostilities, in both China proper and Manchuria," without any time limit.

At the same time he rejected a Chinese Government suggestion that General Marshall, special United States envoy, arbitrate the dispute, saying any Allied mediation should be based on "principles laid down by President Truman's statement of December 15, 1945, and the Moscow communiqué of the Big Three of December 26."

Both of these declarations, urging a united, democratic China, said in effect that the United States, Russia and Great Britain should keep hands off China's internal difficulties.

Sees Marshall, Chiang

Before issuing his double-barreled statement, Chou met for two hours with Marshall and later both visited Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The present truce in Manchuria ends Saturday, and a Communist spokesman expressed concern over the negotiation deadlock, which came after the Government demanded that the Communists give up some strategic areas in North China.

Chou declined to amplify his statement, which the spokesman said represented the Communist party position in the negotiations.

Nehru Is Arrested in Kashmir, Hindus Balk on Interim Regime

JUN 21 1946

P. MASON

By The Associated Press

NEW DELHI, India, June 20.—Jawaharlal Nehru, president-designate of the All-India Congress (Nationalist party), was arrested in the State of Kashmir today, and the Congress working committee, in a quick protest, postponed indefinitely its decision on accepting the British plan for an interim government of India.

Nehru had defied the order of a district magistrate at Srinagar, state capital, banning him from Kashmir, his native state. He was reported to have been slightly wounded in the cheek by a bayonet yesterday when he tried to pass sentries at the border.

"When we meet again depends upon Pandit Nehru's return," Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, Congress president, declared.

At Liberty To Return

A statement issued by the Kashmir Government said Nehru "is at liberty to return to British India whenever he wishes to do so."

The Punjab Youth Congress alerted thousands of volunteers for a possible march into Kashmir in support of Nehru, and in Bombay the "friends of the states people committee" offered to send 10,000 men to back up Nehru. Dr. Khan Sahib, Premier of the Northwest Frontier province, was reported to have arrived near Kashmir leading 200 red-shirted volunteers. Both Punjab and the Northwest Frontier province adjoin Kashmir.

[Reuter said a New Delhi broadcast reported a large crowd had set fire to an electric power station in Srinagar after hearing that Nehru had been wounded.]

Change From Recent Optimism

Only yesterday there had been widespread optimism that the Congress party was about to accept the proposals for an interim government to rule while a constitution was drawn for an independent India. But today Congress leaders appeared gloomy.

Nehru, arrested near Domel about 120 miles from Srinagar, had gone to Kashmir from Delhi trying to arrange a defense for the president of the Kashmir National Conference, now on trial for sedition in connection with recent disturbances in that state, mostly arising from labor difficulties.

Nehru had said he was going to Kashmir "to put an end to complications arising from the policy of the Kashmir Government."

Premier Denies Wounding

Kashmir's Prime Minister, Rai Bahadur Ramchandra Kak, denied that Nehru had been wounded and said his instructions were that physical force was not to be used in barring Nehru.

He declared "we shall not allow any civil resisters to enter Kashmir from the outside, and we shall deal with them with all the means at our disposal. My state's policy is not to allow any interference in state affairs by any political leader or party from outside the state."

The statement by the Kashmir government said "the authorities were compelled to arrest him this morning" because "he still persisted in his resolve to proceed to Srinagar from Domel" in Punjab province.

Moved In While Ringed By Crowd

Describing Nehru's entrance into Kashmir, the statement said large numbers of persons gathered around the Congress leader on the Punjab side of the border. After dark, it said, Nehru stood in the middle of the crowd with a few hundred men surrounding him, then moved forward in defiance of the guards' orders.

Nehru and Dewan Chamanlal, member of the central legislative assembly, were reported both to have been wounded slightly by bayonets at the border. Nehru is President of the All-India (princely) States Peoples Conference as well as president-designate of the congress party.

Before the Congress Working Committee broke off its deliberations, one informant reported there seemed to be a 50-50 chance that the Congress party would accept the interim government proposals.

League Objection Reported

He said "things have again taken a dilatory turn" since yesterday, due to reports the Moslem League was objecting to proposals to give the Congress Party an extra seat in the interim government. The League was said to be opposing also a Congress demand that it be permitted to substitue a nationalist Moslem within its own quota, who were to be all Hindus. The Congress party is predominantly Hindu, but includes Moslems.

The Moslem League Working Committee also met today. Mahomed Ali Jinnah, League president, advised the Viceroy that the League could not announce its decision ahead of the Congress Party because of changes in the original British Cabinet proposals of June 16.

Arrest Of Nehru Delays Vote On Independence

P. MASON

New Delhi, June 20 (AP)—The powerful Congress party delayed indefinitely today a decision on the British independence plan for an interim Indian Government because its president-designate, Jawaharlal Nehru, had been arrested in Kashmir State.

Maulana Azad, retiring president of the party, said its working committee had adjourned sine die because of the arrest and "when we meet again depends upon Pandit Nehru's return."

The dominantly Hindu Congress party is the largest in India and without its adherence, the independence plan hardly could be made workable.

Confidence Yields To Gloom

An air of the deepest gloom was apparent in Congress circles, which only yesterday radiated confidence that a favorable decision might be possible by the end of the week.

Nehru was reported to have been wounded slightly on the cheek yesterday when he attempted to enter his native state of Kashmir in defiance of a district magistrate's order. He was arrested today at Domel, 120 miles from the Kashmir state capital of Srinagar.

Dewan Chamanlal, central legislator who was with Nehru at the frontier yesterday, also was wounded slightly in the cheek when he and the Congress leader attempted to push past armed sentries.

Conference Leader On Trial

Nehru left New Delhi yesterday for Kashmir seeking to arrange for the defense of the president of the Kashmir National Conference, now on trial for sedition in connection with recent disturbances in the state.

Maharajah Sir Hari Singh, ruler of Kashmir, was reported to have advised Nehru before his departure that "no useful purpose would be served" by his presence in Kashmir.

Congres party supporters in the northwest frontier province and in the Punjab, adjoining Kashmir on the south and southwest, were reported sending volunteers to aid Nehru.

200 Volunteers En Route

Dr. Khan Sahib, Premier of the province, was said to be leading 200 red-shirted volunteers to Domel. Prominent Congress leaders in the Punjab were said to have chartered an airplane and to have sought permission of Congress President Azad to fly to Domel and offer passive resistance in support of Nehru.

Even before the Congress working committee adjourned, the view was expressed that there was only a 50-50 chance that the party would accept the British plan.

Prime Minister Rai Bahadur Ramchandra Kak of Kashmir denied reports that Nehru's cheek was flicked by a bayonet yesterday. He said his instructions were that Nehru was not to be allowed to enter Kashmir but that no physical force was to be used in barring him.

"We Shall Deal With Them"

"We shall not allow any civil resisters to enter Kashmir from the outside, and we shall deal with them with all means at our disposal," the Premier said.

The sudden darkening of the picture after yesterday's optimism over the independence plan, was ascribed in one quarter to "things having again taken a dilatory turn."

This turn was said to center on Moslem League leader Mahomed Ali Jinnah's opposition to the Cabinet mission's reported decision to give the Congress an extra seat in the interim government. Jinnah was said to consider that this violated assurances given him by Viceroy Lord Wavell.

Another Jinnah Objection

Jinnah is also opposing the Congress party's demand that it be permitted to include a Nationalist Moslem (non-Leaguer) in its own quota of representatives in the Government.

What the effect on India would be if the Congress party rejected the Cabinet mission's plan, political circles were not prepared to say—particularly in view of the high optimism heretofore apparent and widespread editorial calls for acceptance by the nation's press.

A second point to which the Congress party at present is unable to reconcile itself is inclusion in the Cabinet of Sir N. P. Engineer, advocate general of India. Congress members doubted that the advocate general, an officer of the Crown to all intents and purposes, would mix well in the proposed Cabinet of popular leaders and be recognized as representative of a minority community, namely the Parsees.

Nehru Defies Kashmir Ban And Is Arrested

Srinagar, Kashmir, India, June 20 (AP)—Jawaharlal Nehru, president-designate of the Indian Congress party, was arrested today after being nicked in the cheek with a bayonet when he defied a ban of Kashmir state against his entry.

The dominantly Hindu Congress party is the largest in India and at present is considering a British Cabinet mission's plan for Indian independence.

A border guard flicked Nehru's cheek with a bayonet when he attempted to cross the border.

A district magistrate at Srinagar had issued the order forbidding Nehru to enter Kashmir, his native state, the scene of recent labor disturbances.

Nehru, upon leaving New Delhi, said he was going to Kashmir "to put an end to the complications arising from the policy of the Kashmir Government."

Several times in recent weeks strikers have fought other workers going through picket lines in Kashmir, particularly in its capital of Srinagar.

INDIAN PROBLEMS

KARACHI, India (AP)—Not all the problems before the Sind Assembly concern legislation. At one session a woman member requested accommodation for purdah (completely veiled) women and a Moslem League member protested that the notice of bowing to the chair was against the Islamic religion.

RUSSIA SAID TO HOLD AZERBAIJAN RAILS

TEHERAN, Iran, June 20 (AP)—An official of the Iranian state railways said today that railways in Azerbaijan Province were still in the Russians control.

The official said that his information was based on a report made to him by a commission that had gone to Tabriz to take over the lines from Russian authorities.

The official, who would not permit himself to be identified, said that the commission had gone to Tabriz two weeks ago.

"The commission, headed by Khosrov Hedayat, waited unsuccessfully for the Soviet commission from Moscow to turn over the railways and equipment," he said. "When it seemed that the delay might continue indefinitely, our representatives were ordered to return."

The three-power treaty of alliance of Iran, Russia and Britain, signed on Jan. 29, 1942, provided only for the withdrawal of the military forces of Russia and Britain six months after the end of the war. At the expiration of the six months on March 2, 1946, Russian troops had not withdrawn. Later, however, Russia announced the conclusion of an "agreement" to withdraw by May 6. It was not until May 23 that Moscow announced that this withdrawal had been completed on May 9.

British on Trail of $30,000,000 Robbers

Allied Personnel, Dutch and Japanese Are Involved—$6,000,000 Recovered.

Batavia, June 20 (A. P.).—A mysterious Japanese colonel, believed to have the bulk of a reported $30,000,000 treasure stolen during the occupation was trailed today after the Eurasian mistress of his subordinate talked so much she exposed the theft.

British Army personnel, Dutch and Japanese were involved. Allied investigators on the path of the ten steel trunks and five crates of jewels, gold and cash said eight arrests had been made. A British captain and sergeant and the Eurasian woman were among those held. Other Britons en route to England faced arrest, investigators said.

They reported some $6,000,000 of the loot including "diamonds as big as your thumb" has been recovered. The treasure was confiscated from individuals throughout the wealthy Netherlands East Indies during the long Japanese occupation.

One Version of Plot.

Authoritative informants gave this version of the jewel plot, described as "far bigger than the theft of the Hesse crown jewels" for which an American colonel and his Wac captain wife are held in Germany:

Three days before the Japanese surrender, a Japanese secret police officer, Capt. Hiroshi Nakamura, commandeered the trunks and crates containing the treasure from the Batavia State pawnshop and took them to the residence of his slender 28-year-old Eurasian mistress, mother of his two children. He told her to "close your eyes" for "a surprise."

Her eyes opened on glistening mounds of gold chains, jewelled bracelets, earrings, diamonds, currency and other riches stacked in her living room.

Given Her Choice.

The Japanese told the woman to take her pick. She chose about $6,000,000 worth of jewels, and Nakamura turned the rest over to the colonel, whose name authorities did not disclose.

The Eurasian hired an armed bodyguard and began boasting to her friends:

"I am richer than a queen. I am going to sleep only in a golden bed."

A Dutch civilian posing as an intelligence officer gained her confidence. He learned of the loot and tipped the British captain, a member of the Field Security Service.

The captain and a sergeant arrested the mistress. She asserted that the Britons beat and kicked her until she disclosed the hiding place of the treasure.

Accomplices Taken In.

After this, the informants said, the British officer kept the spoils, sharing them with the Dutchman. Another Eurasian woman became involved and Chinese accomplices were taken in to sell the jewels and melt down the gold.

The case broke when Nakamura's mistress lodged a complaint charging the British captain with mistreatment. Asked why she made the charges, she replied:

"It was about the gold and all that."

The investigation began.

The Dutch and Chinese are expected to face a Dutch court in about ten days. A British military court will hear the charges against the Britons.

vately owned property appropriated by the Japanese during the occupation of the East Indies, later recovered by Allied authorities and then stolen.

"Batavia Ring Smashed"

This official said a Batavia (Java) ring composed of British, Dutch and Japanese nationals had been smashed, but added that several "high-ranking officers" might be involved before the investigation is completed.

A British headquarters spokesman confirmed that an officer and a sergeant had been arrested in Batavia and said "there is considerable truth in press reports from Java."

[The Batavia correspondent of the London Daily Mail said yesterday that a Japanese cache of $28,000,000 worth of gold, jewels and cash had been taken and that an Eurasian girl named Carla Wolff and several Dutchmen and Chinese also were being held.]

Secrecy Ordered

British headquarters here declined to divulge any details, since secrecy has been ordered until a roundup of the alleged conspirators has been completed.

A reliable source, however, reports that eight Dutch civilians have been jailed in Java and that a considerable number of additional arrests were to be expected, including British personnel now in the United Kingdom or en route home.

Portion Is Distributed

This informant said ten trunks of precious stones, gold and money were involved, including "every

Restolen East Indies Jap Loot Is Found

Singapore, June 20 (AP)—A high official said today that British special agents have recovered a $6,000,000 cache of gold, currency and jewels—including "diamonds as big as your thumbnail—in an East Indian theft which he described as "far bigger than the theft of the Hesse crown jewels."

He said the treasure was pri-kind of jewelry that c[illegible]be imagined." An official said the loot originally was private property of Dutch, Indonesians and Chinese throughout the Netherlands East Indies. It allegedly was collected under supervision of a Japanese officer during the war.

When the Japanese capitulated, Japanese and Indonesians buried the treasure, but distributed a considerable portion to those who knew of its existence, in return for a promise of secrecy.

Later, Allied authorities recovered the cache, but it disappeared from their hands, after which British special police entered the case and finally cracked it with Dutch co-operation.

The Dutch were reported ready to start trials in the affair within ten days.

SIAM TO SEEK U. N. ACTION

Delegation Coming Here to Press Border Dispute With France

BANGKOK, Siam, June 19 (Delayed) (AP)—The Foreign Ministry said today that a Siamese delegation would go to Washington next month to argue Siam's cause in the lengthy border dispute with French Indo-China.

Parliament already has decided to submit the case to the United Nations. The delegation first will talk over the case in Washington.

The Foreign Ministry said Siam was ready to invoke Section 35 of the United Nations Charter, which binds her to the decision of the Security Council, and that a commission now was drafting a report on the history of the border controversies, dating from the era of French colonial expansion in the nineteenth century.

YOSHIDA ASKS FOR FOOD AID

JUN 21 1946

Tells Parliament Japan Is On Verge Of Starvation

Tokyo, Friday, June 21 (AP)—Premier Shigeru Yoshida told the Diet (Parliament) today Japan's food shortages were so severe the Allied powers must be asked for aid.

NIGHT

In an administrative speech before the newly elected Diet Yoshida declared Japanese "stand virtually on the verge of starvation" in the badly bombed Tokyo-Yokohama area and on the northern mainland island of Hokkaido.

Promises Labor Mediation

The Premier in his initial appearance before the new Diet promised Government mediation in labor disputes and spoke in general terms of constitutional reform and economic problems as major items, along with the food situation, confronting the Government.

He promised a six billion yen ($400,000,000) public works program to help solve unemployment.

In respect to labor, Yoshida said, "the Government will seek to solve on a rational basis all disputes between labor and capital."

The Diet yesterday heard a precedent-making speech from Emperor Hirohito.

Hirohito, in the first written message ever presented Japanese Diet members, urged adoption of the proposed new constitution which will outlaw war and strip him of most of his powers.

Asked In Name Of People

The Emperor also made history by calling for approval of the constitution in the name of "the supreme will of the people." Never before had a Japanese sovereign used that phrase.

Hirohito appeared before the Diet earlier yesterday to read the Imperial rescript of convocation. The special message—which was not read by the Emperor—was needed to assure action on the constitution, which has General MacArthur's approval.

Thirty-nine women Diet members who called on MacArthur were cautioned by the American general against forming a women's bloc to influence legislation; he urged them to meet the men on the floor of the Diet with equality.

Welfare Measure Approved

General MacArthur yesterday approved proposed legislation under which the Japanese Government, for the first time in history, would assume full responsibility for the social welfare of the people.

The move constitutes a sharp break with the traditional attitude on welfare work, which had been left to private institutions and families.

Under the proposed legislation—known as the "life protection act"—general welfare work would be done by prefectures, cities and smaller units of local government, subsidized largely by the national government. In addition, the government plans an annual 6,000,000,000 yen public-works program.

Jap Constitution Changes Urged By Hirohito

JUN 21 1946

Tokyo, June 20 (AP)—Emperor Hirohito urged the Diet today in the name of the Japanese people to adopt a new constitution which will strip him of most of the power invested in the throne since ancient times.

In the first written message ever handed Japan's law-makers, Hirohito called for approval of the revised constitution in the name of "the supreme will of the people," a phrase never before used by a Jauanese sovereign.

The Mikado told the legislators in his special message, which was not read in person, that the nation must "renounce war," one of the chief features of the proposed new basic law of the land.

Read Rescript Himself

DAY

Earlier in the day he appeared before the Diet and read the imperial rescript of convocation. The special message was needed to assure action on the General MacArthur-approved constitution. Revision can be initiated only by the throne under Japanese law.

Five Communist members of the Diet, who have outspokenly asked for the Emperor's dismissal, boycotted the opening of the Diet.

For the first time an imperial document was labeled a message rather than a rescript and did not direct that action be taken as result of the Emperor's will.

Text Of His Message

The short imperial message said:

"It is my desire that, according to the supreme will of the people, fundamental human rights be respected, the blessings of liberty be secured for all time and obstacles be eliminated in furtherance of democratic tendencies;

"That our nation renounce war and dedicate itself to the cause of an enduring peace for the world;

"And that in order to lay a firm foundation for national reconstruction there may be effected by the freely expressed will of the people a comprehensive revision in the imperial constitution.

"Therefore, under the provisions of Article 73, of the constitution, I hereby submit before the Imperial Diet the draft of a newly revised constitution."

Countersigned, By Yoshida

The message was signed by Hirohito and countersigned by Premier Shigeru Yoshida.

The strong imperial indorsement of the revision, amounting in Japanese eyes to a virtual command for its adoption, followed the public approval of the new constitution by General MacArthur.

Yoshida's administrative address tomorrow is expected to call for new legislation restricting or banning the "production control" weapon of the unions, by which workers have taken over industries involved in labor controversies.

Pointing up the labor situation today was a series of demands by big Tokyo unions and a controversy between the workers and management of the newspaper Yomiuri as to whether the editor or the publishers would control the paper's political policy.

Editor, Five Aides Fired

Chief Editor Tomin Suzuki and five of his employes were discharged for "coloring" the news, while other Yomiuri staffers complained that policemen had been employed to "spy" and intimidate th[illegible]

Jap School Cards Figure In Trial

Tokyo, Friday, June 21 (AP)—A prosecution witness at the international trial of Japan's war makers demonstrated today how military propagandists had "entertained" Japanese schoolchildren in prewar years—teaching them that sooner or later Japan would have to fight England and America.

Aiko Saki, a publisher, told the court he had printed a series of cards and that they were displayed to children from a small wooden-box stage. One series depicted the world war as coming in two parts, and asserted it would be necessary for Japan to fight the Anglo-American powers because "they were meddling" with Japan's affairs in China.

Tells About Censorship

A minor war-crimes suspect, Taketora Ogata, formerly vice president of the newspaper Asahi, was brought from Sugamo prison today to testify to Government censorship of the press. It became "particularly strong," he said, preceding the Manchurian incident of 1931. He is not now on trial.

The names of former Premier Tojo, and the 27 other defendants charged with crimes against peace and humanity, did not come out during the presentation of affidavits nor in crossexamination of witnesses. The prosecution, however, charges that they supported the policies which assertedly conditioned the country for war.

Nobofumi Ito, who had much to do with the propaganda program as the 1940-41 president of the Cabinet Board of Information, testified that it never was intended to breed antagonism against the United States and Great Britain. Yet that was the result, he added.

Sought To Defend Policies

What the militarists were trying to get over, Ito testified, was a defense of Japanese policies, world sanction of a greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere and, with the riches of the East in mind, the contention that "all nations were entitled to a place in the sun."

The propaganda cards carried the title, "Japan is now fighting" (in China). They held the United States and Britain responsible for the China war, proposed that China and Japan join hands, and urged Japan to team with Germany and Italy to fight the United States.

Testifying as to control of Japan's single radio system, Prof. Shigenobu Ikeshima said the Government made certain that the people did not listen to foreign broadcasts.

and 27 other wartime leaders of Japan that the campaign was designed to show the nation's millions that the two western powers were "the great obstacles to Japanese progress in the Far East."

As president of the Board of Information, Ito said the policy had been laid down "not with the idea of making enemies, but that was the effect."

Questioned By Defense

Ichiro Kiyose, counsel for Tojo, crossexamined the prosecution witness, saying he found it hard to believe that from the end of 1940 to late 1941, when Japan was continuing negotiations, that Ito as chief propagandist "could pursue a policy antagonistic to the United States and Great Britain."

"During that time," Ito replied, "my task was to give the public the national policy of Japan and it resulted in considering the United States and Great Britain as potential enemies."

"Did you believe they were potential enemies?" Kiyose asked.

"Did Not Think So"

"At that time I did not think so," Ito replied.

Another prosecution witness, Akio Saki, picture-card manufacturer, testified that in July, 1941, cards were distributed to schoolchildren and adults blaming the United States and Great Britain for the China war.

Shigenobu Ikeshima, professor of cultural politics at Hosei University, said that as far back as early 1925 the Government began censoring radio scripts of the Japan Broadcasting Corporation, where he was then employed.

Broadcasts Tailored

The militarist grip on radio was tightened after the China Incident of 1937, he added, and from then on broadcasts were tailored to justify Japan's position.

Earlier, Tamon Maeda, a Japanese newspaper man, testified that Japan in 1928 was trying to carve out a buffer state in Manchuria to protect the empire against Russia.

The court postponed crossexamination of Maeda until the defense supplied a translation of a book he wrote in 1941 charging that the British and Americans were trying to gain control of the world.

MacArthur Warning

Tokyo, June 20 (AP)—General MacArthur today cautioned 39 women Diet members who called on him against forming a women's bloc to influence legislation and urged them to meet the men on the floor of the Diet with equality.

The supreme commander lauded Japanese women as having responded "magnificently" to the challenge of democracy and predicted his callers would "exert profound influence upon Japan's legislative process by contributing stability and wisdom to the Diet."

He failed, however, to acknowledge a plea for more food presented with an apology from their leader, Mrs. Shidue Kato, who said that "our daily concern with food has made us forget our traditional training not to say we are hungry in the presence of an honorable person. We are all hungry in Japan now."

The meeting, at the request of the women, was to assure MacArthur that "we Japanese women will never vote for militarists" and to thank him for granting them suffrage.

Tokyo's City Employes Take Over Departments

Tokyo, Friday, June 21 (AP) — Tokyo city employees quietly took over sole administration of several municipal functions today at the climax of a lengthy wage dispute, defying recent government condemnations of such matters.

The federation of six major Tokyo labor unions called for the "business control" move after Mayor Matsui declined to answer a demand for special "food crisis" cash payments. The city had agreed to wage increases.

While operating city services "on their own," the workers, if they follow recently set labor precedent, will help themselves to salary increases from current revenues which they handle. They will avoid disruption of service, however.

Jap Fails At Suicide

Tokyo, June 20 (AP)—Yoshio Maki, former Japanese army major, tried to commit hara-kiri today on the steps of the Diet building but his aim was bad.

Maki, 68 years old, had written two scrolls explaining that he was overcome by the woes besetting the emperor and by the "crimes of the war criminals." He said the suicide was intended to atone for his own "sins" and as a prayer "for the divine protection of Japan."

In falling against the hara-kiri dagger, however, he inflicted only an inch-deep wound below the heart.

Tokyo, June 20 (A. P.).—Allied headquarters today ordered the Japanese Government to impound stocks of the top three grades of rubber in the country and all rubber of unknown grade to prevent domestic distribution of goods marked for export and reparations and to stop waste.

Short-Circuit Fence Fatal

Nagoya, Japan, June 20 (AP)—A demobilized Japanese sailor was found dead here today beside the fence surrounding the vegetable gorden of Umetaro Kito, steel-mill owner.

Kito, authorities said, had strung the fence around his garden, and electrified it with a 100-volt charge, after thieves had stolen some of his potatoes.

But the 100-volt connection became tangled with a high-tension wire, police explained, stepping the charge up to lethal strength,

A-BOMB PLANE CAN LAN IF DROP IS CANCELLE

KWAJALEIN, June 20 — (AP) Rear Adm. W. S. Parsons, deputy commander for technical direction of the Cross Roads task force, gave assurances today that the atom bomb can be landed safely if the A-day drop is cancelled after take-off time.

Replying to a press conference question, Parsons said the bomb would be safe on take-off and could be disarmed in the air and landed if the mission were called off.

Parsons said the bomb would be armed before the plane reached 10,000 feet, but that it could not be detonated and there was no danger to the crew.

CANADIAN IS GIVEN 6 YEARS IN PRISON FOR AIDING RUSSIA

MONTREAL, June 20—(AP) One phase of the dramatic Canadian espionage case that began last March ended today when Fred Rose, Communist member of Parliament, was sentenced to six years imprisonment for sending information illegally to Russia during the war.

The appeal of Edward Mazerall, former National Research council engineer, against his four-year sentence moved into the spotlight, but the prospect was seen in informed circles in Ottawa that further court proceedings in the case would mark time until autumn.

Rose, who still faces charges under the Official Secrets act, is scheduled to appear for further trial next September, although this action may be delayed by an appeal from today's sentence.

Mrs. Emma Woikin was sentenced today to six months in prison for contempt of court, and four other persons charged with contempt in connection with Rose's trial received sentences of three months apiece. They had refused to answer questions.

Of the 14 persons detained in the case, five have been sentenced to prison terms and nine were awaiting trial.

cleared.

Face Two Charges

Sentencing of the 38-year-old defendant ended one phase of the dramatic Canadian espionage case that began last March when he was arrested in his Ottawa apartment. He still faces charges under the official secrets act and is scheduled to appear for trial on them next September, although this case may be delayed by an appeal from today's sentence.

Mrs. Emma Woikin was sentenced today to six months in prison for contempt of court and four other persons charged with contempt in connection with Rose's trial received sentences of three months apiece. They had refused to answer questions.

Others Sentenced

The three-month sentences were given by Justice Wilfred Lazure to Gordon Lunan, Harold S. Gerson, Eric Adams and Matt Nightingale, all of whom face charges arising from the investigation of an alleged Soviet spy ring.

Mrs. Woikin, who previously had pleaded guilty to contravening the Official Secrets Act, received the heaviest sentence because, the judge said, there was less reason for her not to testify at Rose's trial.

Added To Ottawa Sentence

Mrs. Woikin had been sentenced in Ottawa to 2½ years and Justice Lazure said the sentence he imposed today would be served on completion of this term.

Lunan, Gerson, Adams and Nightingale declined to give evidence during the Rose trial on the grounds it would be prejudicial to their own cases.

Visiting Writers Add They Don't Mean Just The Weather

Ottawa, June 20 (AP)—Ilya Ehrenberg, noted Russian writer, and two fellow Soviet journalists who have been visiting Canada in the course of a North American tour, said today that they were cutting their stay short after having found the country "cold."

"I have been impressed by the coldness of the climate here—and I'm not speaking just of the weather," said one of the trio, Gen. Mikhail Romanovich Galaktionov, military editor of the Moscow newspaper Pravda, at a press conference.

In Midst Of Spy Trial

Canada, in the midst of prosecuting a dozen Government officials charged with aiding a Moscow-directed "espionage network" here, has been something less than hospitable to the visitors, the trio agreed.

"Our reception in the United States was much warmer and much more hospitable," Galaktionov said. "Here it is different. We are guests of the Canadian Government, but editorials in the press ask why we have come now. We cannot reconcile these two views. The hospitality shown us is cold."

Konstantin Mikhailovich Simonov, of the Soviet Army newspaper Red Star, said that at meetings and receptions they had found a "warmer feeling" and they knew they did have friends, "but as far as the press is concerned I would make a sharp distinction as regards our treatment."

Not Prepared To Change Policy

"Nevertheless," he continued, "these common, sharp and impolite attacks of certain sections of the press neither surprise nor amaze me. They just showed me once more that along with people of good will, there are also others. These others would be of good will only if we changed our policy and that we are not prepared to do."

Ehrenberg said the three had wanted to stay in Quebec province longer and study the French-speaking population of Canada but that they decided to leave for New York today because they could not get rooms.

Asked whether this was because they were Russians or because hotels were crowded, Ehrenberg replied: "You know your country better than I do, and you can understand it better."

A-Bomb Test Cloud Peril Discounted

Aboard the U.S.S. Mount McKinley, at Bikini, June 20 (AP)—Fears that the drift of a poisonous cloud arising from the atomic test bomb might endanger large areas have proved to be largely groundless, Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, commander of the atomic task force, said today.

3024 3435

New investigations of high-altitude conditions, the Admiral explained, have shown that the danger from the precipitation of radioactive particles, which would be the danger from the cloud drifting from the atomic blast, is not so great as previously supposed.

The new investigations, he added, also have improved by more than 30 per cent the possibility that a good bombing day will be found for the test during July.

Needn't Await East Wind

"The studies show that we will not have to wait for a day when the wind is blowing from the east," Blandy said.

He asserted that new weather studies showed that the test could have been made on eleven days last July, instead of the previously accepted seven days.

The second full-scale rehearsal by all elements of army and navy aviation which will take part in the test was held today preparatory to final dress rehearsal by both ships and planes of the task force Sunday.

Maj. Gen. William E. Kepner, commander of army planes in the atomic test, characterized the rehearsal today as excellent, with a "very good" hit by the bombing plane.

Senate Proposals Rejected, House Group Wins in Dispute.

PRIVATES TO GET $75

Agreement Reached on Pay Raises for All Grades in Services.

WASHINGTON, June 20 — (AP) Senate and House conferees agreed today to exempt 18-year-olds from the draft and take youths of 19, opening the way toward a quick extension of Selective Service for nine months after July 1.

The conferees also approved separate legislation raising the pay in the armed services. It starts with a 50 per cent increase for buck privates and apprentice seamen, raising them from $50 to $75 a month, and following through with corresponding increases for other enlisted grades.

Follows House Plan

In general, the pay raise measure followed the ideas of the House. It gives Army lieutenants and the lowest three grades of warrant officers boosts of 20 per cent.

A conference change from the House plan makes the raise for Army captains and their Navy counterparts 15 per cent instead of 10. Higher ranking commissioned officers, and the two top grades of warrant officers, get 10 per cent.

With the teen age draft issue disposed of quickly, the conferees quickly settled all other issues. Their agreement, however, has still to be ratified by Senate and House before it goes to the President.

Tempers Cool

The agreement indicated a cooling of tempers, which had exploded at this morning's session the hot issue of drafting 18-year-olds was debated. Committeemen said such terms as "liar" and "lobbying" were tossed back and forth.

"Everything was love and kisses this afternoon," said Senator Johnson (D.-Colo.), who with Senator Bridges (R.-N. H.) was among the first to come out of the meeting.

Johnson and Bridges said the application of the draft to 19-year-olds would be "without restriction." The House bill had exempted teenagers completely, while the Senate measure made them subject to induction.

The Senate conferees offered a plan to take volunteers first, then draftees 20 years old and up, followed by youths of 19 and those of 18.

The agreement represented a victory for the House conferees who had offered to let the 19 age group be drafted if the Senate would turn loose the 18 age group entirely. The Senate group had held out until this afternoon for a string on the 18-year-olds, to keep them available for drafting after Oct. 1 if all other sources failed to meet manpower needs.

Senator Johnson said this afternoon's agreement was unanimous among those present—seven senators and five representatives. Rep. Short (R.-Mo.), an opponent of any drafting of teen-agers, was absent, and the proxy of Rep. Andrews (R.-N. Y.) was thrown out.

This morning's sharply worded exchanges had centered around the action of Senator Gurney (R.-S. D.) who used Army radio facilities to get a change in the proxy vote of Andrews.

Action Unanimous

The New Yorkers, aboard a warship in the Pacific headed for the Bikini atoll atomic bomb tests, had left his proxy vote in favor of unrestricted drafting down of 18 and 19 year olds. Hence his vote was cast earlier this week against the Senate compromise proposal—to draft the 18-year-olds only if all other sources fail.

In response to Gurney's message, Andrews changed his proxy so that his vote could be cast for restricted drafting of 18-year-olds, but because of the row his vote was not recorded.

Nine-Month Extension

The confereince had agreed earlier to the nine months draft extension, which would carry Selective Service through next March 31. It now is operating under a stopgap 45-day extension from the old act's May 15 expiration date.

Eliminated was a plan sponsored by Rep. Magnuson (D-Wash) to exempt scientists and other technical experts, and engineering and medical students.

The conferees accepted a Senate provision to prevent the reinduction of discharged soldiers and sailors who have served at least one day overseas, or six month in the United States exclusive of time spent in school.

He added that from 80,000 18-year-olds who are expected to complete school, an estimated 7,000 will become eligible for draft each month beginning September 1.

Another Senate provision accepted would equalize the pay of retired officers of World War I and World War II. Heretofore retired veterans of the later war have been paid more under a 1942 law.

A Selective Service spokesman said that with the draft age reduced to 19 again—it was 18 until the stopgap extension raised the lower limit to 20 years—a pool of 52,000 inductees will be available on July 1.

Previous surveys brought these results: February, 1944, 69 per cent favoring the draft; July, 1944, 66 per cent favorable; February, 1945, 62 per cent; July, 1945, 62 per cent, and December, 1945, 60 per cent favorable.

ARMY FOR PEACE DRAFT

61% of Soldiers Reported in Favor of Training Plan

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—A decided majority of Army enlisted men favor continuing the draft in peacetime, the War Department said today in announcing the result of a poll of soldiers in the United States.

In the survey, carried out in April, 61 per cent of men questioned said that young men should be drafted for training to supplement Regular Army volunteers.

Of the remainder, 29 per cent favored an Army entirely of volunteers and 10 per cent were undecided.

SENATORS OPPOSE SOVIET ATOM PLAN

Ball Says World May Have To Set Up Rules Without Russia

Washington, June 20 (AP)—Senators today called "unacceptable" Russia's plan for a pact outlawing atomic warfare. One of them, Senator Ball (R., Minn.), suggested the world may have to organize its controls without the Soviets if no agreement results from present negotiations.

Members of a special Senate Atomic Committee willing to comment said flatly they did not believe sufficient safeguards were provided in a Russian counter-proposal to the American plan for international control which Bernard M. Baruch laid before the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission.

Ball Expects Showdown

Ball, who is not a member of the special committee but has been in the forefront of those urging international co-operation, characterized the Soviet plan as "another Kellogg-Briand pact to outlaw war which offers nothing but words and not security."

"I believe we are heading toward some kind of showdown with Russia," he said. "If the Soviets won't go along with a reasonable, secure plan the rest of the world may have to organize controls without them."

The Minnesota Senator said that, as he sees it, any such action would necessarily involve the delivery to the international control organization of existing bombs and the continuance under that authority of facilities for the manufacture of additional bombs.

Hopes Minds Will Be Changed

The Soviets proposed that the production and use of atomic weapons be forbidden, that existing bombs be destroyed within three months after treaty ratification, that individual countries supervise peaceful atomic energy developments within their own borders and that they police there any violations of the pact outlawing the bombs.

They also proposed that a series of sanctions be worked out by which international control could be made effective.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Colo.), a member of the special atomic committee, said he regarded the Soviet proposal as "completely nullifying the Baruch plan," adding:

"I hope that after further consideration the Russians will change their minds. It will be an armaments race if the Soviets don't agree to effective international controls—there is no escaping that."

Hart Emphasizes Security

Under the Baruch plan, complete control of atomic energy would rest with an international organization empowered to go into any country to enforce the ban against the manufacture of bombs. As controls were set up, the United States gradually would impart atomic energy knowledge to other nations.

Senator Hart (R., Conn.), another member of the atomic committee, said that to him the keystone of the American plan is the security involved in the gradual disclosure of atomic secrets only after controls have been thoroughly tested.

what they would and would not do about atomic energy and atomic bombs, no one of them would be able to prevent actions by the others to inforce the pledges.

Atom Plan Issue Seen As New Dispute Cause

JUN 21 1946

Washington, June 20 (AP)—Three points of sharp disagreement between Russian and American plans for solving atomic energy problems led diplomatic authorities to wonder today whether they might become another source of great power controversy.

American officials appeared hopeful that negotiations within the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission would prove capable of clearing away the differences.

But reviewing the difficulties which have persisted in the Paris Foreign Ministers' Conference, in the political settlements for eastern European nations and over such issues as Iran, they predicted a hard, uphill struggle. Even then, they said constructive results can be achieved only if there is good will and an earnest effort to reach agreement on the part of all the major governments.

Same Lineup

Initially, the lineup shows that the division on atomic energy has developed along the same lines as the division on all other major questions, with Russia laying down one set of policies and Britain and the United States another.

The three major differences immediately apparent here between the American proposals submitted by Bernard M. Baruch last week and the Russian proposals made yesterday by Andrei Gromkyo are:

1. Gromyko rejected, though indirectly, Baruch's demand that none of the great powers should have the right to veto any actions proposed in handling atomic questions in future years. In other words, Baruch laid down the tenet that once the nations had made a treaty setting forth

Bomb Destruction

2. Gromyko demanded that before any sort of international atomic-control machinery is created, production of atomic bombs should be stopped and those now in existence—meaning those in the United States—should be destroyed. Baruch, on the other hand, suggested that the machinery should first be created and that when it was in operation the United States would then be prepared to dispose of its atomic explosives.

3. Implied in Gromyko's proposal for an initial treaty to banish atomic armaments is the idea of "outlawing" these weapons. But many of the advisers, who helped develop the American plan have contended that this is an impractical approach to the problem. They argued that during the last war all major belligerents had stocks of poison gas to use and that none of them used it simply because it was militarily undesirable to do so, not because gas warfare had been outlawed.

Diplomats speculated that within the next month or so it may become apparent whether any substantial progress can be made in ironing out the Russo-American differences. They appeared highly doubtful, however, that the American Government would ever accept any kind of treaty calling for the destruction of atomic armaments it now has on hand without completely acceptable safeguards.

TRUMAN ENDORSES BILL BY M'MAHON

JUN 21 1946

Favors Civilian Control of Atomic Energy, Opposes

House Plan.

WASHINGTON, June 20 — (AP) President Truman came out strongly today for civilian control of atomic energy, and thus indicated opposition to the House Military committee's drive to seat military men on the control board.

He declared that the bill passed by the Senate — providing for a five-man commission of civilians to govern in the domestic field—suited him exactly.

Then, in reply to a news conference question as to whether his stand is for civilian control, he replied it certainly is—that he has made that plain time and again.

Continues Work on Bill

The House committee, still working on the bill, adopted an amendment by Rep. Elston (R.-Ohio) which would require that one of the five commissioners be chosen from the military and that a second commissioner might be a military representative if the President desires.

Mr. Truman at first said he did not want to comment on the committee's action, noting that the House itself has still to act. But then he made his views clear in response to further queries.

On international aspects of atomic control, the President commented that the American and Russian plans submitted to the United Nations will be subjects for negotiation and that we may reach an agreement. He emphasized the word may.

The American plan presented by Bernard M. Baruch, which the President reiterated is a statement of Administration policy, calls for agreements on controls which shall not be subject to any big power veto such as is provided in the security council by the charter. The Russian proposal is for an agreement to outlaw the manufacture and use of atomic weapons under penalties which the council would invoke.

Backs Baruch Plan

Mr. Truman met requests for comment on the Russian plan with the statement that the Baruch proposal has his endorsement. Asked specifically whether that covers the veto question, he said it includes all the provisions of the Baruch plan.

The chief executive had no announcements to make and all the news at his conference developed from questions.

At two separate stages he turned aside questions designed to elicit comment on the OPA bill with its restrictive amendments now pending in a Senate-House conference committee.

He readily commented, however, on other topics:

Supreme court—Mr. Truman disclosed last week that Justice Jackson submitted to him a copy of his attack upon Justice Black one day before releasing it at Nuernberg and that the President suggested Jackson withhold it pending a talk. Today he was asked to clarify whether Jackson had received the White House message before he acted. Mr. Truman replied that Jackson acknowledged it.

Merger—Secretary of War Patterson wrote the President pledging to support the latest plan for unifying the Army and Navy and Mr. Truman was asked whether he has received a similar letter from Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, who had criticized merger plans previously. Mr. Truman said without qualificatoin that he will receive one from Forrestal, who has been out of town.

Hears from Hoover

Food—Former President Herbert Hoover reported at the White House during the day that he had a successful trip to South America and will make a formal report later.

Palestine—Negotiations are continuing with the British on the American proposal for the admittance of 100,000 European Jews but there are no developments. The President declined to comment on the arrival of the Grand Mufti in Egypt, saying that he does not know enough about it.

Resignations — Maj. Gen. Edmund B. Gregory has been wanting to quit as head of the War Assets administration and will do so when a satisfactory successor can be found. Rexford Guy Tugwell also wishes to resign as governor of Puerto Rico but the President has not decided upon a successor.

Pacific—The matter of American bases, along with other Pacific matters, was discussed by the President with Herbert Evatt, Australian foreign minister, who visited the White House during the day with Dean Acheson, acting Secretary of State. Evatt will have further conferences at the State department. Edwin W. Pauley, reparations expert who has been in Korea, will not return by way of Moscow but probably will go to Germany.

ARMY'S ATOMIC FUND DOUBLED BY HOUSE UNIT

JUN 21 1946

Foreign Relief Allotment Cut In Peacetime Budget Of $7,091,034,700

Washington, June 20 (AP)—Overriding the Budget Bureau on major items, the House Appropriations Committee today nearly doubled the Army's atomic development fund and chopped $150,000,000 from its foreign relief allotment.

The changes were made in the biggest War Department peacetime budget in history—$7,091,034,700—which the committee sent to the House floor for debate starting tomorrow.

The Budget Bureau, President Truman's agency for fiscal matters, had proposed $200,000,000 for the atomic program, which the committee boosted to $375,000,000. For army government and relief in occupied countries the bureau recommended $500,000,000 which the committee chopped to $350,000,000.

Total Cut $117,172,729

Despite the two major changes, however, the bill carries a net reduction of $117,172,729 from total budget estimates for the year starting July 1. Large reductions, in addition to the relief program cut, are $21,513,121 for the Finance Department, $17,956,544 for the Quartermaster Corps, $49,664,256 for the Transportation Corps, and $28,505,660 for the Corps of Engineers.

The atomic program increase was the only one put in by the committee. The report explained that part of the money would be used to pay contracts running into 1948 and asserted that the fund granted would permit continuance of activities at their present level and allow vigorous research into the new field of power.

Would Keep Atom Secret

Both Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff, and Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, who headed the Manhattan Project which produced the first atomic bombs, advised the committee against sharing the secret of the atomic bomb under existing conditions.

Eisenhower also told the committee during its closed-door sessions that he was convinced of the desire of "the common man of Russia" for friendly relations between the United States and the Soviet Union.

In cutting the Army's foreign relief allotment, most of which was earmarked for food for occupants of conquered countries, the committee explained that favorable crop conditions abroad would reduce the need for large cash expenditures for food.

Air Forces Get All Asked

The committee gave the Army Air Forces every cent approved by the budget, $1,199,500,000, after hearing Air Forces Commander General Carl Spaatz outline plans for the postwar air force.

General Spaatz told the committee the goal of the Army is to maintain an air force sufficient to detect and thrust back any surprise attacks, to launch a quick counter-attack against any potential enemy, and to back up the land and sea forces.

To do these things, he said, will require 70 combat groups supported by a fully organized air national guard and an air reserve. Present plans are to maintain at least one national guard air squadron in every state.

For Permanent Bases

Other funds carried in the big bill—almost twice as large as the last peacetime army budget—include $195,000,000 for permanent construction of army bases in Alaska, the Marianas, the Philippines, Hawaii and Okinawa.

The over-all bill is intended to finance an army of 1,279,000 average strength during the coming year, in addition to a national guard of 240,000, an air national guard of 47,646 and organized reserves of 1,053,000.

In its formal report sending the measure to the floor for expected quick approval, the committee sharply criticized the army's entertainment program and rapped its knuckles for constructing a so-called "Little Pentagon" at Honolulu.

Hospital Doubles In Cost

The "Little Pentagon" is a hospital originally estimated to cost $16,000,000 and now expected to cost $33,000,000. The progressive cost increases, whicl. committeemen compared to the history of the large army headquarters structure here, led to the nickname given the hospital. The committee complained that the plans were "too elaborate" and ordered that no new construction be undertaken. However, it approved completion of work on buildings already under construction.

Saying that army entertainment has "tended toward the bountiful side," the committee suggested that in the future these necessary social affairs be confined to "simple and conservative functions" and the guest list be limited to "a relatively small number of official guests."

Army Budget Sets Peacetime High

Gen. Waitt Says Research Indicates Army Has Chemical and Biological Arms That May Dwarf Any Other

JUN 21 19

Washington, June 20 (A. P.).—Army researches in chemical and related fields "indicate potentialities of destructive power that will dwarf the violence of any agents used in world war II," Congress learned today.

3029 3437

Major Gen. Alden H. ——, chief of the Chemical Warfare Service, made this grim report to the House Appropriations Committee, saying:

"The potentialities of our weapons, chemical and biological, approach, if they do not equal, those weapons that are more in the public eye today, and I feel that our military chemical research is defense insurance which is being obtained at an extremely low figure."

The General's testimony was made public as the 1947 War Department Appropriation bill was reported to the House.

'The Control of War.'

Declaring that "the only control is the control of war," Waitt asserted: "I believe the potentialities of bacteriological warfare are of the same order as those of the atomic bomb, and it does not destroy material.

"I am convinced that you cannot control the weapons of war. Certainly you cannot control the bacteriological weapons that can be investigated and worked on in small laboratories and cellars and other places which lend themselves particularly to it.

"I do believe that mankind should now have reached the point where war can be controled, and that our efforts should be directed toward stopping war. It will be more profitable and intelligent to try to stop war than to attempt to control the weapons of war."

To Seek Colleges' Aid.

Presenting his branch's request for a $26,104,000 budget next year, Waitt urged that the Army's plan of contracting for scientific assistance from leading colleges and universities of the country be continued. He mentioned some of the possible peacetime applications of wartime research by the Chemical Warfare Service.

Nitrogen mustard compounds already have opened new fields of cancer research, he said. The service also discovered a drug effective in treating the serious eye ailment of glaucoma, he added, and a new remedy for heavy metal poisons has been developed.

The service plans to continue only its four major arsenals—those at Edgewood, Md.; Denver, Col.; Huntsville, Ala., and Pine Bluff, Ark. It will retain its research station at Camp Detrick, Md., and the proving ground at Dugway, Utah.

Agency Estimates Loans And Investments In 5 Years

Washington, June 20 (AP)—The Commerce Department estimated today that public and private United States loans and investments in other countries might total as much as $30,000,000,000 within five years.

This would include some $10,000,000,000 in prewar investments.

Meanwhile, American exports may reach an annual level between $11,000,000,000 and $12,000,000,000 if generally favorable conditions prevail and if contemplated United States long-term investments and loans are carried out, it said.

"In the long run," the department's business economics office said, "the United States international account must be balanced through our acceptance of increasingly large imports of manufactured goods and through our purchase of services, such as foreign travel.

Basic Foreign Trade Problem

"The basic foreign trade problem facing this country is that of gradually developing an import surplus without harmful repercussions on export trade and the domestic economy."

The department predicted that outflow of capital from this to other countries probably will be declining "after reaching a peak in the next year or two," and thereafter imports should rise steadily as foreign nations begin paying off their debts.

"The heavier our foreign loan and investment program is," said the department, "the more urgent it will be for us to adopt commercial policies conducive to a rapid growth in imports in order to offset the interest and amortization charges.

Change Due After 1955

"The need to change over from an economy supporting an excess of exports to one supporting an excess of imports will probably come between 1955 and 1960. . . .

"While the changeover is being made, the nation's economy will have to adjust itself to the temporary and relatively moderate decline in exports and to the simultaneous increase in imports."

By 1975, the department said, United States imports may reach $14,000,000,000 and exports about $13,000,000,000, "assuming there are no serious setbacks to this expanding world economy."

Besides buying $13,000,000,000 in merchandise, the various debtor countries should by 1975 "be in a position to send us each year about $4,000,000,000 in cash representing investment income and amortization of loans," the department said.

World Agency Set Up to Feed Hungry Nations

JUN 21 1946

3-Power Combined Food Board Transformed Into Post-War Council of 19

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP).—A new international agency was set up today to funnel the world's spare food to hungry countries.

The agency, to be called the International Emergency Food Council, was organized by representatives of nineteen member nations. Argentina had a delegate present, without voting power because his instructions had not arrived.

In effect, today's meeting transformed the war-created American-British-Canadian Combined Food Board into an expanded post-war council to combat famine for the next year and a half.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson, who presided, pronounced this a great "step forward." He stated that "we have all recognized that the Combined Food Board was set up as a purchasing device for war purposes and only got into distribution at the request of various nations."

Members of the new agency are countries which participated in the work of the Combined Food Board's commodity committees. They are nations which have a major interest in importing or exporting various food items.

The new council will elect a secretary-general as its chief officer tomorrow and determine whether to take over in their entirety the old commodity committees.

Today the council selected a "central committee" of nine which will consider issues raised in commodity committees, co-ordinate their work, reconcile differences and carry out council functions between sessions of the full agency.

Britain, the United States and Canada automatically became members of the central committee. Elected to membership in addition were Argentina—which indicated there would be no hitch in its joining the council—Australia, China, France, India and Denmark.

Mr. Anderson said there was no discussion today of Russia's absence from the conference table. He indicated the way would be left open for it to team up with the new agency at any time.

The nation's wheat crop prospects improved by 7,630,000 bushels the first half of June, but the expected production continues far short of the amount needed to give Americans all the bread and flour they want. A special Agricultural Department report issued today estimated the crop at 1,033,139,000 bushels as of mid-June compared with 1,025,509,000 forecast for June 1 and, with last year's record crop of 1,123,243,000 bushels, production for the ten-year (1935-'44) average was 843,692,000.

Food officials said a crop of more than 1,250,000,000 bushels would be needed to meet famine-relief export goals and to permit removal of present limitations of home use of wheat.

Directed heretofore by the war-born British-Canadian-American Combined Food Board, the famine battle was scheduled to be turned over officially to the International Emergency Food Council at a meeting this afternoon.

Eighteen additional food-supplying and importing countries were invited to join the council. Sixteen accepted. Russia and Argentina have not made known their stands. The governments accepting are Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Chile, China, Cuba, Denmark, France, Greece, India, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Siam, Turkey, the Union of South Africa, Great Britain, Canada and the United States.

The council will take over the job of allocating supplies to food-shortage areas between now and the end of 1947.

New Requisitioning Plan

Meanwhile, the Agriculture Department arranged to compile and release today a special report on wheat-crop prospects as of June 15.

The department also inaugurated a broadened requisitioning program designed to obtain 250,000,000 bushels of wheat for export during the next twelve months. Since May 24, grain merchants in 26 major wheat-producing states have been required to set aside half of their purchases for sale to the Government. Now they must also set aside all wheat they have on hand at the end of each week above amounts they have contracted to sell.

New World Unit Taking Helm In Famine Fight

JUN 21 1946

NOT

Washington, June 20 (AP)—A new international agency takes over the world famine fight today, encouraged by Herbert Hoover's report of important help from Latin-American countries.

Returning from a 15,000-mile survey trip through eleven South American countries, the former President said yesterday that Latin-America will provide at least 800,000 tons more food for the pre-harvest emergency period than had been estimated.

Hoover, who was President Truman's "food ambassador" in seeking greater help from Latin-America, said that aid beyond the 800,000 tons may be supplied by Argentina.

Council Taking Over Job

SENATE APPROVES CLARK PROMOTION

WASHINGTON, June 20—(AP) The Senate brushed aside protests that General Mark Wayne Clark squandered American lives in Italy, and confirmed today his promotion to the permanent rank of major general.

Action came on a voice vote with Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex) opposing. Senator Connally (D-Tex), now in Paris for the foreign minister's conference, had registered his opposition by a cable.

O'Daniel recalled protests by men and officers of the 36th division, largely composed of Texas National Guardsmen, that Clark needlessly "wasted lives" in two futile attempts to cross the Rapido river in Italy against entrenched German opposition early in 1944.

Noting that General Clark now is this nation's top ranking officer in Austria and dealing with the Russians there, O'Daniel said he feared Clark's mistakes might lead "to another war."

Favorable action on Clark also brought permanent promotions for a long list of leading general officers in the recent war. Included was a promotion to major general for Walter Bedell Smith, now ambassador to Russia.

Other promotions to major general included:

Robert Charlwood Richardson, Jr., Courtney Hicks Hodges, Jacob Kenney, Carl Spaatz, Ira Clarence Loucks Devers, George Churchill Eaker, Robert Lawrence Eichelberger and Thomas Troy Handy.

RUSSO-ARGENTINE DEAL INVESTIGATED

JUN 21 1946

Washington, June 20 (A. P.).—The State Department has asked the American embassy in Moscow for information on reports that the Russians are planning to trade machinery, trucks and other scarce equipment to Argentina for Argentine products. Diplomatic informants told reporters today that United States representatives thus far have been unable to find out what Russia's trade plans are.

The Russians have been having a hard time getting enough machinery and trucks for their own use, but there is speculation at the State Department that they might use these things for political reasons in trading with Argentina. A news report from Buenos Aires that Russian shipments to the Argentine might include trucks and other items which the United States lend-leased to Russia came to the attention of State Department officials yesterday.

They said that they had no evidence yet that any such exchanges were involved, and took the report under study in an attempt to determine if it warranted investigation. Any use of lend-lease supplies by the Russians would be a violation of the lend-lease arrangement made during the war. The United States specified that each country receiving lend-lease items must get the approval of the President of the United States before reshipping such material to another country.

BLOCK ON FUNDS EASED

Citizens of 4 Countries Can Get Limited Sums From U. S.

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP)—Citizens of Italy, Bulgaria, Hungary and Rumania residing in those countries henceforth may receive limited support remittances from their blocked property in the United States, the Treasury announced today. The amount of these remittances was set at not more than $200 a month for any one household. The Treasury said the action was taken "to alleviate the many cases of severe personal hardship" that had been brought to its attention.

A Treasury official said some 1,500 persons would be affected by the order in Italy, a few hundred in Hungary and Rumania and a few dozen in Bulgaria.

Another Treasury order issued today permitted individuals living in Bulgaria, Hungary or Rumania who are not citizens or subjects of enemy countries to receive up to $1,000 a month from their blocked funds in this country. Previously this privilege had been extended only to individuals in Italy.

Farben Dissolution Near

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP).—James S. Martin, director of American efforts to break up German cartels, said today prospects are "hopeful" for speeding up dissolution of the giant I. G. Farben Industries and other outlawed German combines. Mr. Martin said he is returning today to Berlin after recruiting personnel to double the strength of the decartelization branch he heads at headquarters of Lieutenant General Lucius Clay, Deputy American Military Governor. Representatives of the occupying powers hope to reach agreement by September, Mr. Martin said, on a final plan of liquidation of the Farben corporation, which was credited with total assets of $2,800,000,000.

Eden Calls at White House

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP).—Anthony Eden brought to President Truman today "messages of good will" from former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill. Mr. Eden, former British Foreign Secretary, called informally at the White House to chat briefly with Mr. Truman. Mr. Eden and six other members of Parliament leave by plane tomorrow for Ottawa. They will also visit Toronto before flying back to London. The group recently attended an Empire parliamentary meeting in Bermuda.

Truman Appeals for U. S. O.

WASHINGTON, June 20 (AP).—President Truman appealed today for public support of campaigns to raise $19,000,000 for the United Service Organizations. He said in a letter to heads of government departments that through 1947 the U. S. O. will serve veterans not yet released from hospitals, those in armies of occupation and the peace-time forces at home.

Jap-Raid Blame Described As Tough Hurdle

JUN 21 1946

Washington, June 20 (AP)—Senator Ferguson (R., Mich.) today described "fixing the responsibility" as the toughest job for legislators writing their report on the long congressional investigation of Pearl Harbor.

"Other points would not seem to present as much difficulty," Ferguson said. "But on the point of responsibility there are delicate questions as to where individual responsibility began and ended."

Five Drafting Report

The Senate-House committee of ten which conducted the investigation selected five of its members to draft the report. Senator Lucas (D., Ill.) was named chairman of the writing group. Other members are Ferguson and Representatives Clark (D., N.C.), Murphy (D., Pa.) and Keefe (R., Wis.).

The full committee's hearings, begun last November, were designed to develop the reasons why the Japanese achieved complete surprise with their December 7, 1941, attack on the fleet at Pearl Harbor.

Earlier army and navy inquiries laid the shortcoming primarily on Admiral Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short, commanders in Hawaii.

Kimmel's Contention

Kimmel and Short, appearing before the congressional committee, contended that Washington withheld from them information they should have received. Kimmel declared that if he had known what Washington knew he would have ambushed the Japanese attacking force at sea.

The Lucas committee will take up the question of responsibility, and conclusions, as one of the last points to be considered. The first and current phase of its work is assemblying the undisputed facts as to just what happened December 7.

It has until July 1 to file its report.

OPA BOOBY TRAPS FEARED BY BOWLES

JUN 21 1946

Conference Hints Profits Amendment Will Be Retained in Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 20—(AP) Congressional conferees on the OPA bill indicated today that they plan to retain in some form an amendment which Stabilization Director Chester Bowles called "a delayed action bomb" under price control.

The full Senate-House conference committee named a five-man subcommittee to adjust differrences between the somewhat similar Taft and Wolcott amendments adopted respectively by the Senate and House which are designed to protect the profits of manufacturers.

Bowles Opposes Amendment

This step appeared to indicate that the provision is not to be abandoned entirely, as Bowles specifically demanded at a news conference as the committee reconvened.

The House amendment, by Rep. Wolcott (R-Mich), would require the OPA in fixing price ceilings to allow each producer, processor and distributor his current cost plus "a reasonable profit."

The Senate did not adopt this, but passed a separate amendment by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) providing that ceilings for manufacturers or processors must be high enough to cover the 1941 price plus the average increase in unit cost throughout the industry since then.

Either provision would require a widespread adjustment of price ceilings, and Bowles termed this one of "the most dangerous" amendments in the Senate and House bills.

"The Taft amendment, for example, would add to 1941 prices all the cost increases which have occurred since that time," he said.

Sees Higher Prices

"That sounds innocent enough. But actually American families would be asked to pay for those cost increases in higher prices—in spite of the fact that many of these cost increases are only temporary—in spite of the fact that greater volume may already have brought about profits far exceeding on an over-all basis the already high profits of 1941."

Bowles added that the amendment would cause ceiling revisions "on thousands upon thousands of products" and that it then would "explode in an unending stream of higher prices all across the board."

The conference sub-committee appointed to work on it consists of Senator Barkley (D-Ky) and Representatives Bown (D-Ga) and Patman (D-Tex), along with Taft and Wolcott themselves.

Bowles issued a five-page statement at his news conference classifying this provision among "the booby trap amendments."

He said that the amendments which would remove price control from meat, milk, butter, cheese and poultry "are so obviously disastrous that I am confident that they will be eliminated by the conference committee."

But he declared that "amendments in sheep's clothing" which he said are inadequately understood by the public would also bring "grave consequences."

"I could never agree to any compromise," the statement said, "which can only bring us one step nearer inflation. The road to inflation has always been paved with compromises—one after the other—in increasing rapid succession."

BOWLES HINTS HE WILL RESIGN IF POWER IS CUT

JUN 21 1946

Stabilization Chief Assails House and Senate Price Control Measures.

Washington, June 20 (A. P.).—Chester Bowles, director of the Office of Economic Stabilization, left open today the question of whether he will resign if price control bills he regards as inflationary "booby traps" should become law.

He dropped hints aplenty that he is prepared to, but a direct news conference question on the point brought a reply: "President Roosevelt had a good rule for handling that kind of question. He never would comment. That's a pretty good rule."

Asked whether there would be worse inflation with no price control than under the bills approved by the House and Senate, Bowles replied: "That's a hard question to answer. It amounts to, 'do I like death by hanging or by having my throat cut,'"

He said that "none—literally none" of the OPA changes now being considered by a House-Senate Conference Committee "seeks to strengthen the hand of the Government in the fight against inflation."

To this evaluation of the two bills sent to conference, he added this indication that he will pick up his hat if legislation unacceptable to him is adopted: "I could never agree to any compromise which can only bring us one step nearer inflation."

Round of Appeals.

Bowles expressed his views in a statement prepared for release at a news conference. What he had to say followed a round of separate appeals for effective price control by four top Government officials—Assistant Secretary of State Acheson, Housing Administrator Wyatt, Secretary of Commerce Wallace and Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach.

Bowles reiterated that "if the bill which finally comes from the Congress is clearly inadequate to deal with the inflationary forces we are facing, the only remaining hope is a firm and unequivocal veto" by President Truman. A veto, he added, might then be followed by House and Senate action allowing "effective price and rent controls to continue as they are for another year." The present legislation expires on June 30.

As Bowles Sees It.

Bowles expressed the opinion that with "a good bill, free of dangerous compromise and corner cutting, we can maintain relatively stable prices and rents during coming months."

With a "weakened" bill, he said, "the cost of living is bound to move upward at an increasing tempo," and "we could only look forward to renewed labor unrest, further strikes, further delays in production, prolonged shortages and sharply increased tension between farmers, white-collar workers and factory workers."

He said his greatest concern is that the public's "confusion" over the various proposed amendments "will result in a price control which may look innocent enough, but which would inevitably blow up in our faces two or three months from now."

He said an amendment which would remove ceilings June 30 on meat, dairy products, poultry and eggs is "so obviously disastrous" that he is confident the conference committee will eliminate it.

His fear, he declared, is that "less dramatic but equally dangerous" amendments may go unnoticed. These, he added, "are the booby trap amendments," the "delayed action bombs," and the "amendments in sheep's clothing."

Bowles Classification.

He classified these as follows:

1. Price-raising proposals for manufacturers, which he said would "begin to explode in an unending stream of higher prices all across the board."

2. Elimination of wholesaler and retailer cost absorption.

3. Restrictions on textile and clothing controls and elimination of the requirement that manufacturers produce inexpensive garments.

4. Amendments which set up procedures for removal of price controls. He cited cigarettes as an example, and said that coffee, after removal of ceilings, might go up as much as 15 cents a pound.

5. Amendments which would divide the responsibility for stabilizing the cost of living between OPA and the Department of Agriculture. "Neither the Secretary of Agriculture nor the Price Administrator would be able to protect the American people with this kind of half-authority and half-responsibility," Bowles said.

6. An amendment requiring the consent of the local Federal attorney before OPA can start any enforcement proceeding. "This," said Bowles, "would bog down the enforcement of price regulations hopelessly."

Hoover Denies Discussing OPA

JUN 21 1946

Says There Was 'Misunderstanding' Between Him and Clayton Over Phone Talk.

Washington, June 20 (A. P.).—Former President Herbert Hoover said today there was a "misunderstanding between himself and William L. Clayton, Assistant Secretary of State, over a telephone conversation they had last Friday.

Hoover told reporters after a White House call that he and Clayton were "both right" in their accounts of the incident.

The "misunderstanding" arose when the State Department issued a statement saying that "both Mr. Clayton and Mr. Hoover expressed their concern" over proposals to relax price controls on meat, livestock, poultry and dairy products during a telephone talk. Hoover had told a news conference yesterday that he had not discussed OPA legislation with any one in Washington.

The former President said today that he was under the impression he was talking to William L. Batt, chairman of the Rubber Reserve Office, rather than with Clayton, when he talked from Rio de Janeiro last Friday.

Connection was Faulty.

He had been talking with Ambassador William Pawley, Hoover said, about getting the release of some American-held rubber to Brazil for exchange by Brazil with Arbentina for Argentine wheat.

"Pawley said he was going to call Mr. Batt," he went on.

When he was called to the telephone, he continued, he carried on a conversation with the person at the other end under the impression it was Batt.

"The party at the other end made some suggestion about legislation," Hoover said, "and I handed the phone back to Ambassador Pawley."

The phone connection, he said, was faulty.

Shuns Domestic Problems.

"In any event," Hoover told the reporters, "the problem I have to deal with mustn't be mixed up in legislative quarrels."

He said he had the "greatest esteem" for Clayton and that in the apparent conflict in their accounts of the telephone conversation.

"The probabilities are we are both right."

"I am not engaged in domestic problems," he added.

Hoover replied he had not read the price control bill at all when he was asked if he thought there was any relation between it and the availability of wheat.

Hoover declined to discuss his thirty - minute conference with President Truman this morning, asserting that he hoped to have a report of his tour ready on Monday.

Later White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters that the President was "very happy" over his food ambasador's accomplishments in South America.

Argentina Joins Council.

Meanwhile, Argentina today joined the International Food Emergency Council, leaving only Russia among twenty-one invited nations still staying aloof.

Announcement of Argentina's acceptance was made by the Department of Agriculture a scant hour before the council convened for its first session, heartened by word from Hoover that Latin America intends to help substantially to stave off world famine.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson issued the invitations on behalf of the combined food board, a British-American-Canadian agency which is relinquishing its food supply tasks to the new council.

The governments accepting are Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Chile, China, Cuba, Denmark, France, Greece, India, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Siam, Turkey, the Union of South Africa, Great Britain, Canada and the United States.

Hoover reported on his return yesterday from a 15,000 mile flying survey of eleven South American nations that Argentina had pledged to do all it could to supply wheat for South American countries where the grain is scarce. In all, he said, Latin America will provide at least 800,000 tons more food for emergency needs than had previously had been expected.

U. S. WHEAT CROP STILL FALLS SHORT OF GREAT DEMAND

WASHINGTON, June 20—(AP)—The nation's wheat crop prospects improved by 7,630,000 bushels the first half of June, but the expected production continues far short of the amount needed to give Americans all the bread and flour they want.

A special Agricultural department report issued today estimated the crop at 1,033,139,000 bushels as of mid-June compared with 1,025,509,000 forecast for June 1 and with last year's record crop of 1,123,243,000 bushels. Production for the 10-year (1935-44) average was 843,692,000.

Export Goals High

Food officials said a crop of more than 1,250,000,000 bushels would be needed to meet famine-relief export goals and to permit removal of present limitations on home use of wheat.

Government plans now call for the export of at least 250,000,000 bushels from the 1946 crop. Exports from the 1945 supply are expected to be about 380,000,000 bushels.

The supplies of wheat which may be used for flour and other food products in this country will be 15 percent below last year's level, beginning with July. June production is 25 percent below.

The special crop report placed the winter wheat crop at 809,067,000 bushels, or 34,479,000 bushels more than was indicated on June 1. The crop was 823,177,000 bushels last year and 618,019,000 for the ten year average.

Cut In Crops Seen

The spring wheat crop was estimated at 224,072,000 bushels or 26,849,000 bushels less than was indicated on June 1. This is a sharp reduction from last year's record spring crop of 299,966,000 bushels, but about equal to the 10-year average of 225,673,000 bushels.

Today's estimates were based on production prospects as of June 14 and 18 major wheat producing states and the June 1 prospects in other states.

The report said prospects during the first half of June improved materially in Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, and Nebraska. Harvest is well under way in southern areas of the winter wheat belt and has started as far north as Nebraska.

Heaviest declines in spring wheat prospects were reported in Montana, North Dakota, and South Dakota where dry weather prevailed until mid-June when rains fell.

WOULD EXTEND LAW ON SUGAR

JUN 21 1946

Senate Committee Approves 3 Years More for Quota.

Washington, June 20 (A. P.).—The Senate Finance Committee approved today extension of the 1937 sugar quota act for three years, instead of one year as voted by the House. The act expires at the end of this year. It provides for production quotas in the domestic areas and import quotas from foreign countries.

The three year extension was proposed by Senator Johnson (D.-Col.), who said it would provide greater stabilization in the sugar industry, pending the consideration of various proposed changes in the basic law in the next session of Congress.

Senator O'Mahoney (D.-Wyo.) argued in support of the three-year extension, although he said he would press for hearings next January on a bill he and Senator Johnson introduced jointly to increase domestic sugar quotas. Both Johnson and O'Mahoney declared the three-year extension also would remove the issue from the 1948 elections, since the three-year period will expire December 31, 1949.

Quotas Have Been Suspended.

Sugar quotas have been suspanded during the war and O'Mahoney said there is no possibility they will be re-established next year.

Senator Pepper (D.-Fla.) asked that the bill be amended to assure domestic cane producers, particularly in Florida and Louisiana, that when quotas are re-established they will not have to abandon sugar processing facilities, that he said were started in the war period of critical sugar shortage.

Chairman George (D.-Ga.) suggested that Pepper consult the State and Interior departments and the President about his proposal to reduce offshore quotas if necessary, and offer his amendment on the Senate floor should he consider it advisable.

The committee agreed that an over-all revision of the Sugar act would require extended hearings, which are impossible this session. Congress is pressing for adjournment some time next month.

Senate approval of the three-year extension of the Sugar act would send the bill to a conference with the House. The one-year extension was passed by the House Monday.

CURBS ON PRICES OF NEW HOUSING SOUGHT BY WYATT

JUN 21 1946

WASHINGTON, June 20—(AP)—Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt tonight was drafting a new order aimed to shove the cost of new houses down to the level of veterans' pocketbooks.

A sharp tightening of Wyatt's "channeling" regulation, designed to steer at least half the building materials into moderately priced homes, may be expected shortly, housing officials reported privately.

Its aim is to produce more houses closer to the $6,000 price level, by NIGHT lowering dividing lines on houses built to meet minimum FHA standards.

Other developments occurred as the National Housing agency chief labored to jog up the emergency housing drive. They included:

1. Another $10,000,000 was pumped into building materials subsidies, through the offer of premium payments of $7.50 per thousand board feet for expanded output of "peeler" logs, used in manufacturing plywood.

2. Wyatt sought a six-month moratorium on strikes in the building trades and building materials industries. The voluntary no-strike scheme still is in the 'sounding out' stage informants said but talks are in progress with the A. F. L.

The proposed tightening of new home prices is an answer to complaints of veterans' organizations that the great majority of veterans cannot afford the homes intended for their occupancy.

Under NHA's present rules, priority help in each community is granted only if half the new residences are built to sell under "dividing lines" which range from $4,500 to $9,500, depending on local building costs. Most new homes are in the upper brackets of that range.

No-Strike Pledge To Hasten New Homes Sought

Washington, June 20 (AP)—Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt is sounding out AFL and CIO building unions on a six-month no-strike pledge to let the homes-for-veterans program swing into full stride.

This became known today as the National Housing Agency was prepared to put into effect a multi-million-dollar subsidy program for softwood plywood, designed to open up that major bottleneck in home construction.

Manufacturers will be authorized to pay $7.50 per 1,000 board feet more for "peeler" logs, the kind needed for plywood, and to get full reimbursement from the Government if they boost production 25 per cent or more above normal quotas.

DAY

Follows Brick Subsidy

That regulation was prepared as a quick followup to the subsidy of $5 a thousand for bricks and structural tiles produced in excess of quotas. Both subsidies are part of the $400,000,000 "premium payment" plan approved by Congress to stimulate output of building materials.

Aides of the NHA administrator disclosed his no-strike efforts, saying privately that Wyatt hopes to obtain a pledge from organized labor in the construction and building-materials industries to refrain from any work stoppages until December.

By that time, they said it is felt, thousands of homes now standing partly finished can be completed, new residential starts can be made with confidence, and—as one official pit it—the 1946 shelter program can "get over the hump."

AFL Contacted First

First feelers went out to the AFL, dominant in the building trades. While no official request has been made or assurances given, it was indicated that the idea is receiving consideration from union chiefs.

The Wyatt move is parallel to that of Stabilization Director Chester Bowles, who has talked to Presidents William Green, of the AFL, and Philip Murray, of the CIO, about a renewal of their wartime pledge against work stoppages. Bowles's objective is to get production rolling and check the upward spiral of wages and prices.

Wyatt Discloses Negotiations

First hint of Wyatt's plans came from the NHA chief himself at an informal news conference at which he explained the subsidy program for bricks yesterday. When asked for his views on the strike moratorium idea, Wyatt said:

"We are in the middle of negotiations now with labor. I don't want to make any comment at this time."

No Time Wasted

Today it became clear that he was speaking of his own independent plans, rather than Bowles's delicate negotiations. Wyatt now is understood to be waiting for labor's opinion to crystalize before making a formal request based on the urgent need of providing shelter for ex-service men.

NHA was wasting no time, however, in driving ahead with the premium-payment plan. The brick subsidy, to run from the first of this month until next June, will take a $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 bite out of the total approved in the Emergency Housing Act.

The plywood regulation already has been signed, it was learned, and was due for announcement later in the day.

It authorizes plywood manufacturers to pay higher-than-ceiling prices to their suppliers of peeler logs and to get reimbursement from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation if they meet increased production goals.

Effect On Producers

In order to get the full $7.50 scale for each 1,000 feet of logs most companies would have to expand their output 25 per cent or more above the production level of the first quarter of this year. Modified quotas would be set for firms whose first-quarter output was already close to the limit of capacity. If production goes above the quota but less than 25 per cent above it, the reimbursement would be smaller—for each one per cent above quota a company would get 30 cents per 1,000 board feet of logs consumed.

The regulation is effective on logs purchased from the start of this month. It will expire next March 31.

Importation Of Nuts From Famine Areas Hit

Washington, June 20 (AP)—Representative Norblad (R., Ore.) protested today to the State Department and the UNRRA against importation of edible nuts from European countries. He said the imports were cutting into the income of American producers.

Norblad suggested that famine areas from which the nuts were imported be required to use them as food, adding that in the last five months 38,000,000 pounds have been received from European countries.

"The importations of filberts have increased 500 per cent this year over prewar imports," Norblad said. "The caloric content of filberts imported in the last six months is equivalent to the caloric content of 220,000 bushels of wheat."

U. S. CEMETERY BILL KILLED BY HOUSE

JUN 21 1946

Washington, June 20 (A. P.).—The House killed today by a 168 to 82 standing vote, Senate-passed legislation to establish a national cemetery in every State and Territory. The motion to kill the bill was offered by Representative Harness (R.-Ind.), who termed the measure unnecessary.

Another opponent, Representative Keefe (R.-Wis.), had called it "class legislation." He said religious considerations would keep the bodies of many Jewish, Lutheran and Catholic war dead out of national cemeteries if they were established in every State.

The bill's chief sponsor, Representative Sikes (D.-Fla.), argued the legislation is needed to provide "due homage" to the nation's war dead. He said present grave space is inadequate.

Wilbur Forrest Tells Texas Newspaper Parley Next War Will End Civilization

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., June 20 (AP).—If there is another war it will be the last war and the end of civilization as we know it, Wilbur Forrest, assistant editor of the New York Herald Tribune, said today.

World freedom of information is the best guaranty of lasting peace, Mr. Forrest added, in a speech prepared for delivery at the opening of the annual joint three-day convention of the Texas Press and Texas Newspaper Publishers Associations.

"World freedom of information means that news and information by whatever media shall circulate freely in all parts of the world in order that people shall know the truth," Mr. Forrest said.

Mr. Forrest said the following program for world freedom of information sponsored by the American Society of Newspaper Editors, of which he is president, was transmitted to the General Secretary of the United Nations.

Agreement among nations should include:

(1) Recognition that complete friendship with any other sovereign power is dependent, among other considerations, on the freedom, the abundance and the exchange of information between peoples.

(2) Recognition that any printed matter, film, broadcast or other media of public information paid in whole or in part, directly or indirectly, by a government or other agency, shall carry conspicuous labels as to the source.

(3) Recognition that any government or private monopoly of the media of information is inimical to the public interest and incompatible with freedom of expression and competition of ideas on which a well-informed public opinion is based.

(4) Refusal to recognize the right of any government, organization or person to discriminate against any media of information, to infringe upon freedom of information or expression, to place any barriers against the free exchange of information, to censor information in time of peace except for obscenity or fraud.

Mr. Forrest, who said "I believe Russia wants peace," declared, however, that the "iron curtain" obscuring Eastern Europe must be lifted if international understanding is to emerge.

Engineer's Wife to Testify In Soviet Espionage Case

Seattle Trial of Russian Officer Scheduled for Tuesday

SEATTLE, June 20 (AP).—The government disclosed today that the wife of a trial engineer in a Seattle shipyard will be one of the witnesses for the prosecution in the espionage trial of Lieutenant Nicholai G. Redin, the erstwhile Seattle representative of the Soviet purchasing commission.

The trial is scheduled to start Tuesday. Redin has denied his guilt.

The woman is Mrs. Rowena Kennedy, wife of Engineer Herbert Kennedy, who previously was identified as the key witness through whom the government alleges Redin arranged to obtain detailed plans for a Navy destroyer tender.

The Kennedy were social acquaintances of the accused officer and his attractive young Russian wife, and the Redins were reported to have been often in the Kennedy home.

In this connection, "The Post-Intelligencer" said last night that "it is reported that the Federal Bureau of Investigation had the Kennedy home wired for sound from cellar to garret."

The Kennedys were social ported as on a trip to Canada since Kennedy's name entered the case. Kennedy, thirty, was born in Scotland and is a British subject although he has resided in the United States for thirty years.

United States Attorney J. Charles Dennis has said that Kennedy "assisted us" in the case against the Russian.

COLLINS ASKS LONG REICH OCCUPATION

Philadelphia, June 20 (A. P.).—American troops must occupy Germany at least a generation if Nazism is to be completely wiped out, Lieut.-Gen. J. Lawton Collins, Army public information chief, maintains.

Collins, who earned the nickname of Lightning Joe as commander of the Seventh Corps in Europe, told the twenty-first national convention of the American Red Cross last night that "a complete generation has been brought up imbued with the vile tenets of Nazism."

"A year or five years or ten years of occupation will not change the minds of these boys and girls," the General asserted. "The boys will grow up to teach their children what they themselves were taught. The girls, as tomorrow's mothers, will teach their children hate and distrust and intolerance."

Collins made it clear that his views were personal and did not necessarily represent those of United States Army leaders or Government officials.

John L. Sullivan, newly appointed Under-Secretary of the Navy, told more than 4,000 delegates that Americans must not halt the job for which they fought world war II.

"We must stiffen our resolve here and now to see this peace through," he said. "In this winning of the peace, the American Red Cross will have a share."

NORTHERN CRUISE PLANNED FOR NAVY

SAN DIEGO, Calif., June 20—(AP) Emphasizing the Navy's increasing attention to northern operations, Admiral Jonas H. Ingram, commander in chief of the Atlantic fleet, said today that the fleet's next problem will be in the "far north" area around Greenland and Iceland in the fall.

The interview statement of the Atlantic fleet commander, who said he was "out here taking a look" and visiting his Coronado, Calif., home, followed by a few weeks disclosure by another admiral that a Pacific task force Aleutian cruise is probable.

Vice Admiral Frederick C. Sherman, commander of the U. S. Fifth fleet, said in an interview April 25 the proposed Aleutian cruise this fall depended upon the availability of ships and men.

Ingram asserted that the Atlantic fleet should be "in good shape" with ship's and personnel by next Jan. 1, as the readjustment from war demobilization levels out. Demobilization is scheduled to be completed Sept. 1.

The Atlantic and Pacific fleets, he said, are each contributing about 50,000 men to the Bikini atoll atomic bomb operation.

Part Jet Plane Sets Pay-Load Record

Flies 1,000 Kilometers at 413 Miles an Hour

DAYTON, Ohio, June 20 (AP).—The Army's partly jet-propelled XA-26F, flying round-trip between Wright Field and St. Louis, set a new speed record of 413 miles an hour today over a 1,000-kilometer course with a 1,000-kilogram pay load.

The plane made the trip at 22,000 feet in one hour, thirty minutes and fifty seconds. Its turn-about in flight at St. Louis was checked by radar. It was powered by a combination of conventional and jet engines.

The old record of 360 miles an hour over the same course with the same load was set last May by Lieutenant Edward Grabowski, of the Strategic Air Command.

The XA-26F was piloted by Lieutenant Colonel T. P. Gerrity, thirty-two, of Chicago.

Wright field, Ohio, with a three-man Army crew.

Col. H. E. Watson, 34, of Farmington, Conn., chief of the Air Technical Intelligence collection division at Wright field, will pilot the orange-painted plane nicknamed "Rita" which the Japanese never got to use in combat.

The Army plans exhaustive tests and studies of the plane, which was captured in Japan.

U.N. Asked To Limit Opium To Medical Need

Chicago, June 20 (AP)—The General Federation of Women's Clubs today called on the United Nations to limit the world production of opium to medical and scientific needs.

The organization adopted a resolution requesting the new United Nations Commission on Narcotic Drugs to give immediate attention to the proposal "to the end that no surplus (opium) be available for smoking, eating or for illicit narcotic traffic."

A commission on narcotic drugs was set up by the United Nations Economic and Social Council after a resolution advocating such action was adopted by the board of directors of the federation last December.

Last Nazi P. O. W.'s Leave Fort Dix

Fort Dix, N. J., June 20 (A. P.).—The last two groups of German The last two groups of prisoners of war have left Fort Dix for return to their fatherland by way of Camp Shanks. More than 2,000 men were in the two groups, which left here yesterday.

Since its activation in January, 1944, the prisoner of war camp here has processed 14,872, with the largest detachment at any one time numbering 5,850. They were used for farm and cannery work under Government labor contracts, resulting in turning back to the United States Treasury of approximately $2,500,000 from wages.

london, june 20-(ap)- hints that the british government might reject the report of the british-american committee on palestine, with its recommendation that 100,000 jews be admitted to the holy land at once, appeared today in three influential weeklies.

the leftwing new statesman and nation said that prime minister attlee and foreign secretary ernest bevin regard the jews "as a nuisance" in anglo-arab relations and have "stalled and imposed impossible conditions" since the committee report was made.

the tribune, socialist organ, said some of bevin's advisers had "demanded rejection"of the report, asking instead that "jewish immigration x x x be liquidated, the jewish agency disestablished and the palestine jews disarmed by force."

the conservative spectator urged the government to proclaim that the balfour declaration, calling for establishment of a national home for jews in palestine, already has been carried out, since more than 500,000 jews have settled in palestine.

JUN 21 1946

"it is not edifying to see great powers, this country among them, endeavoring to inject into palestine masses of jews whom they are not prepared to accept themselves," the spectator said.

DR.PARRAN WAS NOMINATED BY DR.ANDRE CAVAILLON, SECRETARY GENERAL OF THE FRENCH MINISTRY OF PUBLIC HEALTH, WHO CALLED THE SELECTION "THE IDEAL SOLUTION TO THE PROBLEM OF A PRESIDENT."

JUN 21 1948

DELEGATES OF EGYPT, COLOMBIA, THE PHILIPPINES, GREAT BRITAIN, CHINA AND NORWAY MADE SECONDING SPEECHES.

UPON TAKING THE CHAIR, DR.PARRAN CALLED FOR THE HELP OF EVERY DELEGATE IN CARRYING OUT THE PROJECTED GLOBAL WAR ON DISEASE.

FOUR VICE PRESIDENTS WILL BE NAMED LATER FOR THE 67 NATION BODY WHICH PLANS TO REMAIN IN SESSION HERE FOR ABOUT ONE MONTH.

"WE HAVE MET IN THE WAKE OF THE GREATEST DISASTER THE HUMAN RACE HAS KNOWN SINCE THE GLACIAL AGE," DR.PARRAN SAID IN HIS FIRST ADDRESS TO THE CONFERENCE. "NOW THAT THE SCIENCE OF DESTRUCTION HAS SPENT ITS FORCE, MAN TURNS INSTINCTIVELY TO OUR LIFE-BUILDING SCIENCE.

"WE CAN HELP HEAL THE WOUNDS OF THE WORLD BY PROMOTING BETTER STANDARDS. OUR HEALTH SCIENTISTS CAN CONTRIBUTE TOWARD PEACE, SUPPLEMENTING NATIONAL ACTION.

"SICK AND STARVING PEOPLE DO NOT MAKE OR KEEP THE PEACE."

DR.PARRAN CALLED UPON THE CONFERENCE "TO SPEARHEAD NEW SPHERES OF INTERNATIONAL COOPERATIVE ACTION."

IN CONTRAST TO BARUCH'S PROPOSALS FOR SETTING UP AN INTERNATIONAL ATOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY COMPLETELY FREE OF THE BIG FIVE VETO POWER IN THE SECURITY COUNCIL, GROMYKO ARGUED FOR FULL RETENTION OF CONTROL BY THE COUNCIL AND THE UNITED NATIONS AND A SURRENDER OF THE ATOMIC BOMB BY WHAT WOULD AMOUNT TO A VOTE OF THE "HAVE-NOT" NATIONS.

BARUCH PROPOSED ALSO THAT THE ATOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY SHOULD BE ACTIVATED THROUGH A SERIES OF TREATIES AMONG THE SEVERAL NATIONS, WHILE GROMYKO PROPOSED A ROUND-ROBIN CONVENTION TO PUT HIS PLAN INTO OPERATION, WITH THE SECRETARY-GENERAL AS CUSTODIAN OF THE DOCUMENT.

GROMYKO CALLED UPON THE NATIONS OF THE WORLD TO OBLIGATE THEMSELVES NEVER TO USE ATOMIC WEAPONS, TO FORBID THEIR PRODUCTION OR POSSESSION AND "TO DESTROY WITHIN A PERIOD OF THREE MONTHS FROM THE ENTRY INTO FORCE OF THIS AGREEMENT ALL STOCKS OF ATOMIC ENERGY WEAPONS X X X." INSERT (DAY-UN) XXXAFTER 6TH GRAFXXX AFTERNOON (NEW YORK)

THE NATIONS WOULD DECLARE THAT ANY VIOLATION OF THOSE OBLIGATIONS "SHALL CONSTITUTE A SERIOUS CRIME AGAINST HUMANITY" UNDER THE RUSSIAN PLAN.

"THE PRESENT AGREEMENT," GROMYKO'S PROSPECTUS SAID, "SHALL COME INTO FORCE AFTER APPROVAL OF THE SECURITY COUNCIL, AND AFTER RATIFICATION BY HALF THE SIGNATURE STATES, INCLUDING ALL STATES MEMBERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS X X X."

THE RUSSIAN DELEGATE SAID THE AGREEMENT WOULD BE OPEN FOR SIGNATURE BY ALL NATIONS, WHETHER OR NOT THEY ARE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS. AFTER IT BECAME EFFECTIVE IT WOULD BE AN OBLIGATION OF ALL MEMBER AND NON-MEMBER NATIONS IN THE WORLD.

IN HIS LONG PREAMBLE, GROMYKO DECLARED "THE DISCOVERY OF METHODS OF USING ATOMIC ENERGY CANNOT REMAIN FOR AN INDEFINITE TIME THE PROPERTY OF ANY ONE COUNTRY OR ANY GROUP OF COUNTRIES; INEVITABLY IT BECOMES THE PROPERTY OF MANY COUNTRIES."

APPARENTLY DWELLING UPON THE VETO PHASE, GROMYKO SAID:

"EFFORTS TO UNDERMINE X X X THE UNANIMITY OF THE MEMBERS OF THE SECURITY COUNCIL UPON QUESTIONS OF SUBSTANCE ARE INCOMPATIBLE WITH THE INTERESTS OF THE UNITED NATIONS CREATED BY THE INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATION FOR THE PRESERVATION OF PEACE AND SECURITY. SUCH ATTEMPTS SHOULD BE RESISTED."

BY JACK GUINN

BUDAPEST, JUNE 17-(DELAYED)-(AP)-AN AUTHORITATIVE SOURCE SAID TODAY THAT THE HUNGARIAN GOVERNMENT HAD RECEIVED A LETTER FROM RUSSIAN LT. GEN. V.P.SVIRIDOV, ACTING CHAIRMAN OF THE ALLIED CONTROL COMMISSION, DEMANDING THE ARREST OF THREE NATIONAL BANK OFFICIALS IN CONNECTION WITH THE DISAPPEARANCE OF ROUGHLY 10,000,000 RUBLES.

AT THE LEGAL RATE OF EXCHANGE THE SUM INVOLVED IS VALUED AT ABOUT $2,000,000, -- IN THE BLACKMARKET AT ABOUT $40,000.

THE SOURCE, A HUNGARIAN PROMINENT IN FINANCIAL CIRCLES, SAID SVIRIDOV'S LETTER ASSERTED THREE OFFICIALS HAD SOLD RUBLES IN THE BLACK MARKET. HE SAID THAT, ACCORDING TO THE ARMISTICE TERMS, THE HUNGARIAN NATIONAL BANK WAS REQUIRED TO GIVE PENGOES IN EXCHANGE FOR RUBLES PRESENTED BY THE RUSSIANS AND SINCE THE LIBERATION A FUND OF 16,000,000 RUBLES HAD ACCUMULATED. ONLY 6,000,000 NOW REMAIN, SVIRIDOV CHARGED.

THE FINANCIER SAID THAT APPROXIMATELY 2,000,000 RUBLES HAD BEEN ISSUED TO OFFICIALS OF HUNGARIAN PARTIES VISITING RUSSIA AND THAT BANK OFFICIALS SAID UNDETERMINED SUMS HAD BEEN ISSUED ON ORDER OF A RUSSIAN MAJOR WHO WAS ACTING AS BANK SUPERVISOR.

HOWEVER, HE STATED, ALL RECORDS ARE NOW IN THE HANDS OF THE RUSSIANS AND THE SUPERVISOR HAD BEEN REMOVED BY THEM.

HE SAID THAT TWO MONTHS AGO A RUSSIAN-BORN WOMAN ACTING AS INTERPRETER AT THE BANK WAS ARRESTED BY THE RUSSIANS AND HELD FOR SIX WEEKS. WHEN SHE RETURNED TWO OFFICIALS WERE ARRESTED AS MATERIAL WITNESSES AND HELD FOR TWO WEEKS. SVIRIDOV'S LETTER WAS RECEIVED FRIDAY.

THE FINANCIER SAID FINANCE MINISTER FERENC GORDON AND TWO REPRESENTATIVES OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE HELD AN OFFICIAL INVESTIGATION AND ASSERTED THERE WAS NOTHING AMISS AT THE BANK.

AT A NEWS CONFERENCE DURING THE DAY, FOREIGN MINISTER LOTFI EL SAID PASHA SAID THAT THE EGYPTIAN CONSTITUTION "FORBIDS GIVING UP POLITICAL REFUGEES TO ANY OTHER COUNTRY AND WE ARE SINCERE IN OUR CONSTITUTION." THE FOREIGN MINISTER ADDED: "WE ARE ORIENTALS AND MAINTAIN OUR TRADITION."

THE ROYAL PALACE ANNOUNCED LAST NIGHT THAT THE MUFTI, HAJ AMIN EL HUSSEINI, HAD APPEARED AT ABDIN PALACE AND ASKED THE PROTECTION OF KING FAROUK. IN ACCORDANCE WITH MOSLEM TRADITION FAROUK GRANTED THE REQUEST AND HAS ALREADY ADVISED THE BRITISH OF HIS DECISION, A RELIABLE INFORMANT SAID.

(IN LONDON PRIME MINISTER ATTLEE TOLD THE HOUSE OF COMMONS THAT SIR RONALD CAMPBELL, BRITISH AMBASSADOR IN CAIRO, WAS CONSULTING EGYPTIAN PREMIER SIDKY PASHA ON MEASURES TO TAKE WITH THE APPEARANCE IN CAIRO OF THE MUFTI.

(ATTLEE AVOIDED ANY SPECIFIC STATEMENT ON THE MUFTI, DESCRIBED BY OPPOSITION LEADER WINSTON CHURCHILL IN QUERIES TO ATTLEE AS "THIS MARKED ENEMY OF THE CAUSE OF THE ALLIES DURING THE WAR." ATTLEE SUGGESTED THAT CHURCHILL ASK ABOUT THE MUFTI NEXT WEEK AND PROMISED TO GIVE "ANY FURTHER INFORMATION THAT COMES IN.")

(THE MUFTI HAS BEEN INDICTED ON WAR CRIMES CHARGES BY YUGOSLAVIA, BUT THE BRITISH, WHILE THEY HAVE SAID HIS APPEARANCE IS UNDESIRABLE IN THE MIDDLE EAST, DO NOT REGARD HIM AS A WAR CRIMINAL.)

THE EGYPTIAN FOREIGN MINISTER, ASKED IF THE MUFTI'S PRESENCE WOULD AFFECT BRITISH-EGYPTIAN NEGOTIATIONS TO REVISE THEIR 1936 TREATY SAID "IT DOES NOT MATTER."

MEANWHILE MRS. SHIRLEY KHOLUCY, A RESIDENT OF HELIPOLIS, CAIRO SUBURB, SAID SHE BELIEVED THE MUFTI REACHED CAIRO FROM PARIS ABOARD A TWA PLANE ON WHICH SHE WAS A PASSENGER.

THERE HAS BEEN NO OFFICIAL DISCLOSURE OF HOW THE MUFTI

JUN 21 1946

ACCOMPLISHED HIS FLIGHT FROM FRANCE, WHERE HE HAD ULTIMATELY GONE AFTER THE BRITISH EXPELLED HIM FROM PALESTINE IN 1937.

MRS.KHOLUCY SAID THE MAN SHE BELIEVES WAS THE MUFTI ARRIVED AT ORLY AIRFIELD IN PARIS ON MAY 29 JUST BEFORE THE PLANE TOOK OFF.

WHEN HE TOOK A SEAT IN FRONT OF HER SHE NOTED THAT HE WAS WEARING A WIG.

"THE HAIR LINE WAS WRONG," SHE EXPLAINED.

JUN 21 1946

SHE SAID THAT THE MAN APPEARED TO BE EXTREMELY NERVOUS WHEN THE PLANE WAS DELAYED IN ROME BY BAD WEATHER AND OFFICIALS EXAMINED THE PASSENGERS' PASSPORTS BEFORE THEY WENT TO A HOTEL. ON REACHING CAIRO ON MAY 30, SHE ADDED, HE DID NOT RIDE WITH THE OTHERS IN A TWA BUS INTO THE CITY.

INVESTIGATORS HAVE FOUND NO TRACE HERE OF A PASSENGER WHO TRAVELLED ON THE SAME PLANE UNDER THE NAME OF MAROUF EL DOUALABI, THE MUFTI'S RIGHT HAND MAN DURING HIS EUROPEAN EXILE. HE WAS SAID TO HAVE LISTED HIS PROSPECTIVE CAIRO ADDRESS AS THE EDEN HOTEL.

MRS.KHOLUCY SAID THE PASSENGER WHO MAY HAVE BEEN THE MUFTI DID NOT HAVE A HEARD. ORDINARILY THE MUFTI WEARS A BEARD. EFFORTS TO OBTAIN NEWS PICTURES WERE UNSUCCESSFUL, WITH OFFICIALS DECLARING THAT IT WOULD BE SEVERAL DAYS BEFORE ANY WOULD BE PERMITTED.

THE EGYPTIAN PRESS GAVE A WARM WELCOME TO THE MUFTI, WHO MAY AID IN PLANNING ARAB STRATEGY AGAINST THE RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE BRITISH-AMERICAN COMMITTEE ON PALESTINE THAT 100,000 JEWS BE ADMITTED.

THE CIRCUMSTANCES OF THE 53-YEAR-OLD ARAB LEADER'S MYSTERIOUS ESCAPE FROM FRANCE WERE NOT EXPLAINED OFFICIALLY, BUT THE PREVAILING OPINION IN CAIRO WAS THAT HE HAD FLED FRANCE BY AIRPLANE.

THE MUFTI--ACCUSED BY THE BRITISH OF MAKING BROADCASTS FOR THE GERMANS DURING THE WAR AND LISTED BY YUGOSLAVIA AS A WAR CRIMINAL--IS AN IMPLACABLE FOE OF JEWISH IMMIGRATION TO THE HOLY LAND AND HIS ARRIVAL IN DOMINANTLY ARABIC EGYPT OCCURRED AS ARAB LEADERS DISCUSSED MEANS OF OPPOSING A BRITISH-AMERICAN INQUIRY COMMITTEE RECOMMENDATION FOR IMMEDIATE ADMISSION OF 100,000 HOMELESS EUROPEAN JEWS TO PALESTINE

DIPLOMATS REGARDED HIM AS A SHREWD, AGGRESSIVE LEADER, CAPABLE OF PLAYING A VITAL ROLE IN ARAB STRATEGY IN THE EVENT BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES SHOULD ATTEMPT TO ENFORCE THE JOINT COMMITTEE'S RECOMMENDATION. ADD CAIRO (DAY MUFTI) V X X SUNDAY (BOYD)

(IN JERUSALEM, THE ARAB HIGHER COMMITTEE HELD ITS FINAL SESSION UNDER THE LEADERSHIP OF JAMAL HUSSEINI, THE MUFTI'S NEPHEW. IT WAS ORDERED DISSOLVED, TOGETHER WITH THE RIVAL ARAB HIGHER FRONT, BY THE ARAB LEAGUE COUNCIL, WHICH DIRECTED ALL ARAB FACTIONS TO RECONCILE THEIR DIFFERENCES AND UNITE UNDER A COMMITTEE HEADED BY THE MUFTI.)

THE EGYPTIAN PRESS GENERALLY GAVE THE MUFTI A WARM WELCOME.

"THE MUFTI IS NOW IN ABSOLUTE SAFETY AND NOBODY CAN EVER TOUCH HIM OR DO ANY HARM TO HIM," SAID THE MOSLEM BROTHERHOOD NEWSPAPER. "THE MUFTI WILL ORGANIZE THE STRUGGLE FOR AN END OF COLONIZATION AND ZIONISM," THE PAPER ADDED, IN REFERENCE TO PALESTINE.

"IT'S A PLEASURE FOR ANY EGYPTIAN TO HAVE THE MUFTI IN EGYPT SO HE WILL BE PROTECTED FROM THE ENEMIES OF FREEDOM," SAID THE WAFDIST PARTY PAPER AL MISRI. "EGYPT WELCOMES THE LEADER OF PALESTINE X X X WHO PROVES TO THE WORLD HOW SINCERE ARABS ARE TO SAVE PALESTINE FROM IMPERIALISM AND ZIONISM."

AL KOTLA, ORGAN OF THE WAFDIST BLOC PARTY, SAID EGYPTIANS LOVED THE MUFTI AS MUCH IF NOT MORE THAN PALESTINIANS.

ATOMIC
BY CHARLES H.MCMURTRY

KWAJALEIN,JUNE 20-(AP)-MAJ.HAROLD H.WOOD, BOMBARDIER WHO WILL DROP THE ATOMIC BOMB OVER BIKINI, HAS NEVER SEEN AN A-BOMB. FURTHERMORE, HE DOESN'T EXPECT TO UNTIL IT IS LOADED ON HIS PLANE ON "A" DAY.

WOOD, BORDERTOWN,N.J., HAS DROPPED NINE DUMMIES -- ONE AT ROSWELL, N.M., AND EIGHT HERE. HE AND HIS CREW WON THE RACE FOR THE A-DROP THE HARD WAY, COMING FROM FOURTH PLACE TO FIRST IN A FOUR-TEAM ELIMINATION LAST WEEK.

WOOD BARELY ESCAPED ELIMINATION BEFORE THE FINAL THREE DROPS BUT BRIG.GEN.ROGER M.RAMEY, WHO SELECTED THE WINNER, KEPT HIM IN THE CONTEST BECAUSE HE HAD THE FEWEST TEST DROPS OF ANY BOMBARDIER. THE FINAL DROP PUT HIM OUT IN FRONT BY A SCANT 10-FOOT AVERAGE ACCURACY MARGIN.

RAMEY SAID THE MAXIMUM CIRCULAR ERROR PERMITTED WAS 200 YARDS AS THE BOMBARDIERS SIGHTED ON A TARGET 550 FEET BY 75 FEET -- THE APPROXIMATE SIZE OF THE TARGET SHIP NEVADA.

WOOD, VETERAN OF TWO YEARS AND 24 MISSIONS IN EUROPE, BOMBED FROM B-17S EXCLUSIVELY UNTIL AFTER HE VOLUNTEERED FOR THE BIKINI TESTS. HE NEVER FLEW IN A B-29 UNTIL LAST FEBRUARY AND BECAME A MEMBER OF MAJ. WOODROW P.SWANCUTT'S WINNING CREW IN MARCH. SWANCUTT'S PLANE IS NAMED "DAVE'S DREAM" IN HONOR OF CAPT.DAVE SEMPLE OF LONG BEACH,CALIF., WHO MET DEATH ON A TEST FLIGHT NEAR ALBUQUERQUE.

buenos aires, june 20-(ap)- reliable sources in the grain export trade said today that about 100,000 tons of corn were [redacted] loaded and shipped from argentina last week [redacted] grain shipments were being delayed by the lack of [redacted] permits.

commenting on reports that "government inefficiency" was delaying grain shipments, these sources said that only a few permits were issued during the past 30 days but that permits withheld were for future grain shipments.

since rolando [redacted] Ingomarsino took office as secretary of industry and commerce a month ago [redacted] the only permits issued have been for the loading of grain on ships already in port, the sources added, and said this was due partly to government red tape and partly to Ingomarsino's desire to study the grain export situation before renewing the issuance of licenses. they explained that the corn [redacted] loaded under permits issued before the secretary took office.

the sources said they had been informed that Ingomarsino's study was now complete and that arrangements for the normal flow of [redacted] export licenses were going forward. [redacted] the presence of about 300,000 tons of corn at dockside elevators is a normal situation, necessary to maintain a loading schedule of 100,000 tons weekly, the sources added.

ARMY HEALTH

(ADVANCE)...WASHINGTON, JUNE 20-(AP)-THE ARMY IS IN THE BEST GENERAL HEALTH EVER, AND QUITE PROUD OF ITS RECORD FOR SAVING WAR WOUNDED.

ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE LEDGER, VENEREAL DISEASE INFECTION AMONG TROOPS IN THE UNITED STATES HAS REACHED THE HIGHEST RATE SINCE 1920, AND IS ALMOST DOUBLE THE 1943 FIGURE.

THIS CLINICAL REPORT WENT TO CONGRESS TODAY AS THE 1947 WAR DEPARTMENT APPROPRIATION BILL REACHED THE FLOOR.

MAJ. GEN. NORMAN T.KIRK, ARMY SURGEON GENERAL, TESTIFIED IN HEARINGS ON THE MEASURE THAT THERE HAD BEEN A MARKED DECREASE IN THE NUMBER OF SOLDIERS REPORTING SICK IN THE PAST YEAR. HOSPITAL ADMISSIONS FOR "IMPORTANT COMMUNICABLE DISEASES," OTHER THAN VENEREAL, ALSO WERE DOWN. AND THERE WERE NO MAJOR EPIDEMICS.

KIRK ALSO REPORTED MORE THAN A THIRD OF THE ENTIRE WAR'S U.S. BATTLE CASUALTIES OCCURRED DURING SEVEN MONTHS OF 1945, BUT ONLY 4.4 PERCENT OF THEM PROVED BEYOND THE HELP OF MEDICAL SKILL, AS AGAINST THE WORLD WAR I FIGURE OF EIGHT PERCENT.

DISCUSSING THE V.D. PROBLEM, KIRK SAID THERE WERE 49 VENEREAL CASES PER 1,000 MEN IN THIS COUNTRY DURING 1945. THE ARMY'S RECORD LOW WAS 26 PER 1,000 IN 1943. OVERSEAS, THE RATE ROSE TO AN AVERAGE OF 83 IN 1945, WITH THE RATE IN THE MEDITERRANEAN THE HIGHEST ANYWHERE--132 PER 1,000 MEN.

THE AVERAGE OVERSEAS RATE HAS MORE THAN TREBLED IN TWO YEARS.

MEDICAL RECORDS PRODUCED AT HEARINGS ON THE BILL SHOWED RAPID PROGRESS IN NEW TREATMENTS WHICH HAVE REDUCED THE AVERAGE TIME LOST PER VENEREAL CASE TO ONLY 4.9 DAYS, AS COMPARED WITH 14 IN 1942.

RENEGOTIATION

(ADVANCE)...WASHINGTON, JUNE 20-(AP)-THE ARMY RECOVERED "EXCESSIVE PROFITS" TOTALING $6,371,438,000 IN RENEGOTIATING WAR CONTRACTS UP TO MID-MAY, CONGRESS LEARNED TODAY.

SECRETARY OF WAR PATTERSON MADE THE REPORT IN A LETTER MADE PUBLIC AS THE HOUSE APPROPRIATIONS COMMITTEE REPORTED THE 1947 WAR DEPARTMENT MONEY BILL.

PATTERSON WROTE THAT AS OF MAY 17, THE ARMY'S PRICE ADJUSTMENT BOARD HAD RECOVERED TWICE AS MUCH IN "EXCESSIVE PROFITS" AS THE NAVY, TREASURY DEPARTMENT, RFC, MARITIME COMMISSION, AND WAR SHIPPING COMMISSION COMBINED. THE TOTAL FOR ALL AGENCIES ON THAT DATE WAS, HE SAID, $9,556,372,000.

HE ESTIMATED THAT FEDERAL INCOME AND EXCESS PROFITS TAXES EVENTUALLY WOULD HAVE RECOVERED ABOUT 70 PER CENT OF THE EXCESSIVE PROFITS DISCOVERED IN RENEGOTIATION. ON THAT BASIS, HE SAID THE NET RECOVERY BY THE WAR DEPARTMENT THROUGH RENEGOTIATION WAS $1,911,431,000--OR, THAT MUCH MORE THAN THE GOVERNMENT WOULD HAVE COLLECTED THROUGH THE TAXES.

(ADVANCE) WASHINGTON, JUNE 20-(AP)-THE STATE DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCED TODAY THAT THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT HAD AGREED WITH BRITAIN, FRANCE AND THE NETHERLANDS TO BUY 145,000 LONG TONS OF NATURAL RUBBER FROM THEIR FAR EASTERN PRODUCTION AT A COST OF 23 1/2 CENTS PER POUND DURING THE LAST SIX MONTHS OF THIS YEAR.

THE PRICE FIXED IS 3 1/4 CENTS ABOVE THE RATE BEING PAID UP TO JULY 1. THIS MEANS EITHER THAT DOMESTIC PRICES OF RAW RUBBER WILL HAVE TO BE INCREASED OR THE GOVERNMENT WILL HAVE TO PAY A SUBSIDY TO MAINTAIN THE PURCHASE PROGRAM.

A JOINT ANNOUNCEMENT HERE AND IN LONDON SAID THAT BRITAIN, WHILE REOPENING THE MALAYAN RAW RUBBER MARKET TO THE UNITED STATES, WOULD STABILIZE CONDITIONS THERE BY PAYING A PRICE EQUIVALENT TO 23 1/2 CENTS A POUND FOR ALL AVAILABLE RUBBER. BRITAIN AND THE UNITED STATES ARE THE GREAT PURCHASERS OF RUBBER.

THE BASIC PRICE WAS DESCRIBED AS BEING FOR "NUMBER IX RIBBED SMOKED SHEET." OTHER GRADES WILL BE PAID FOR AT AGREED DIFFERENTIALS.

THIS RAW RUBBER, PURCHASED BY THE U.S. RUBBER DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION, WILL BE MADE AVAILABLE TO AMERICAN MANUFACTURERS THROUGH GOVERNMENT OUTLET AGENCIES.

JUN 21 1946

THE OFFICIAL STATEMENT SAID THAT "DETERMINING FACTORS IN THE AGREEMENTS REACHED WERE THE CONTINUING SHORTAGE OF NATURAL RUBBER IN RELATION TO DEMAND AND THE PRESENT EXCEPTIONALLY HIGH COST OF PRODUCING NATURAL RUBBER IN THESE AREAS."

UNDER THE PRESENT PRICE OF 20 1/4 CENTS A POUND, RUBBER ACTUALLY WAS LANDED IN NEW YORK AT A TOTAL COST OF 22 1/2 CENTS PER POUND, WHICH KEPT IT IN LINE WITH THE OPA CEILING PRICE.

THE UNITED STATES OBTAINS THE GREAT BULK OF ITS RAW RUBBER FROM BRITAIN, DUTCH AND FRENCH FAR EASTERN PRODUCTION BUT SOME IS COMING FROM SUCH SCATTERED PLACES AS SOUTH AMERICA, SIAM, THE PHILIPPINES, AND AFRICA.

NIGHT LEAD RED CROSS (325)

(ADVANCE) PHILADELPHIA, JUNE 20-(AP)-COUNT FOLKE BERNADOTTE, PRESIDEN OF THE SWEDISH RED CROSS, TOLD THE 21ST ANNUAL MEETING OF THE AMERICAN RED CROSS TONIGHT A SINGLE CHIEF ORGANIZATION SHOULD COORDINATE RED CROSS ACTIVITIES, IN PEACE AND IN WAR, AMONG THE NATIONS.

POINTING OUT THERE NOW ARE TWO INTERNATIONAL GROUPS, THE INTERNATIONAL RED CROSS COMMITTEE AND THE LEAGUE OF RED CROSS SOCIETIES, THE SWEDISH LEADER SAID IN A SPEECH PREPARED FOR THE INTERNATIONAL NIGHT PROGRAM:

"AN INVESTIGATION NOW OUGHT TO BE MADE AS TO WHETHER A CHANGE SHOULD BE ADVISABLE IN THE LEADING RED CROSS ORGANIZATIONS WITH REGARD TO THEIR FURTHER COOPERATION, WORKING PROGRAM AND TASKS."

"MY PERSONAL OPINION IS THAT FROM THE STANDPOINT OF THE NATIONAL RED CROSS SOCIETIES AND FROM A PRACTICAL POINT OF VIEW THE BEST THING WOULD BE IF THERE IS ONLY ONE CHIEF ORGANIZATION," HE CONTINUED.

HOWEVER, HE ADDED, "ALTHOUGH I AM QUITE SURE THAT AN AMALGAMATION OF THE LEAGUE AND THE COMMITTEE WOULD BE OF GREAT BENEFIT IN THE FUTURE I AM AWARE THAT--AT LEAST FOR THE TIME BEING--WE HAD BETTER COUNT ON TWO LEADING ORGANIZATIONS."

BERNADOTTE DESCRIBED THE LEAGUE OF RED CROSS SOCIETIES AS "THE LEADING ORGANIZATION OF THE PEACE ACTIVITY OF THE NATIONAL SOCIETIES, ESPECIALLY SELF-SERVICE WORK AND THE JUNIOR RED CROSS" IT IS ELECTED BY ALL THE NATIONAL SOCIETIES.

HE SAID THE INTERNATIONAL RED CROSS COMMITTEE "CONSISTS OF SWISS CITIZENS AND IT RECRUITS ITSELF. ACCORDING TO MY OPINION AT LEAST SOME MEMBERS OUGHT TO BE NON-SWISS CITIZENS AND BE ELECTED, FOR INSTANCE, BY THE INTERNATIONAL RED CROSS AT THE WORLD CONFERENCE."

"I KNOW THAT I AM TOUCHING OFF A SPARK BY SUCH A SUGGESTION," BERNADOTTE ADDED. "I HAVE, HOWEVER, DISCUSSED THE MATTER WITH THE PRESIDENT OF THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE AND HE HAS PROMISED ME THAT THE QUESTION CAN BE DISCUSSED AT THE MEETING IN GENEVA IN JULY OF THIS YEAR."

JUN 21 1946

BERNADOTTE ALSO URGED THAT "THE TOTAL CHANGE OF MODERN WARFARE NOW MAKES AN AMALGAMATION OF THE CONVENTIONS REGARDING THE TREATMENT OF SICK AND WOUNDED MILITARY AND CIVILIANS LOGICAL AND NATURAL." THIS SUGGESTION, HE SAID ALREADY HAS BEEN ADVANCED BY THE SWEDISH RED CROSS TO THE INTERNATIONAL COMMITTEE.

RUSSIANS SILENT ON U.S. PROPOSAL TO DISARM JAPS

JUN 22 1946

Four-Power Control Plan to Keep Nation Impotent Offered.

COVERS 25 YEARS

Britain, China Give Support to American Suggestion.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—(AP) The United States today unveiled a plan for four victorious powers to keep Japan military impotent for at least a quarter century—but deep Russian silence rendered its fate uncertain.

The text of the treaty proposed to Britain, China and Russia was made public after a news conference during which Secretary of State Dean Acheson said London and Chungking had reached favorably but Russia had made no comment at all. A dispatch from London said the British foreign office warmly welcomed the plan in principle.

NIGHT

Text Sent MacArthur

Acheson left without direct answer a question as to whether the plan for a four-power control commission had been discussed with Gen. Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander in Japan, before it was drafted and submitted to the foreign governments. His reply was that the text had been sent to MacArthur about 10 days ago. The proposal had gone to London, Chungking and Moscow in April.

Both the Japanese plan and a parallel proposal for a 25-year treaty to keep Germany disarmed were discussed with members of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, Acheson said.

Great Britain warmly welcomed the plan in principle, a dispatch from London said. China was reported to favor it. But Russia, the other power which would take part in the control system, has not yet reacted, although the plan was sent to Moscow and the other capitals early in April.

Share Control Task

Under the American proposal, made public by the State department, the United States would cut the other powers in on the job of controlling Japan at the end of the present, full-scale occupation.

The idea was first reached in April, at the time Secretary Byrnes made his practically identical proposal for long-term policing of Germany.

The Russians, saying nothing on the Japanese proposition, have actively opposed the plan for Germany. Foreign Commissar Molotov has assailed it as an American device for bringing about a condition in which American troops could be pulled out of Germany at a very early date. American officials argue that the end of the present occupation of Germany would not be predetermined by a treaty for long-range control.

Some officials here, however, believe that such a treaty might cle the way for earlier replacement of present relatively large occupation armies with small, highly trained inspection and control forces.

A shift to control commission direction would be a dramatic swing in American policy for Japan. There is a four-power agency in Tokyo, and other interested nations are members of a Far Eastern commission to develop policy, but the actual authority is American, exercised by MacArthur.

Complete Disarming

The initial occupation period under MacArthur is supposed to rid Japan of all its armed forces, its bases and its factories for military production. Picking up at that point, the provised 25-year treaty would have these main purposes and functions:

1. To keep Japan disarmed completely, allowing only a civil police force having small arms and such explosives as are needed for industrial purposes. The Japanese, as also in the case of the Germans, would be denied all atomic energy materials except under rigidly controlled conditions.

2. To carry out the disarmament control program the four powers would set up a joint inspection system under the control commission and the agents of that commission could go into any part of Japan and investigate anything which might bear upon armament problems.

3. To compel Japan, before she could get present occupation forces out of the country, to agree to these rigid controls and disarmament policies so that if later she sought to rearm in any way she would be guilty of violating the treaty.

4. To bind the United States, Russia, Britain and China to take action to enforce the disarmament program by land, sea and air forces as necessary and to negotiate special agreements providing in detail the forces which would be placed under the control commission for constant work in Japan.

Run for 25 Years

5. To continue the control system for 25 years from the day the treaty became effective, which would be the day that it was finally formally ratified by all four of the signatory powers. It might be renewed with or without modification but renewal, in the words of the proposed treaty itself, would depend on a decision as to "whether the Japanese people have so far progressed in the reconstruction of their life on a democratic and peaceful basis that the continued imposition of the controls defined herein is no longer necessary."

The present concentration of power in the hands of General MacArthur has been a source of conflict not only with Russia but to a lesser extent with Britain, Canada, Australia and other countries.

In suggesting four-power control the United States may be trying to meet some of these criticisms. There has been some suspicion here that the Russians, who have done much talking about Japan, may have been genuinely concerned over the way things are going there and that and that once a different system is envisaged they may be more inclined to play ball in other areas.

U. S. PROPOSES BIG 4 KEEP JAPS DISARMED

JUN 22 1946

Asks Russia, China and Britain to Serve on Control Commission for at Least 25 Years.

Washington, June 21 (A. P.)—The United States announced today it has proposed to Russia, Great Britain and China the creation of a four-Power control commission, backed by military force, to keep Japan disarmed for at least twenty-five years.

The commission would take over at the end of the present occupation, which is being carried out largely by American troops under the command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur. That action presumably would mark the end of America's virtually single-handed domination of Japanese affairs and begin a new period of control by all four Powers.

The State Department said that MacArthur had been fully advised of the treaty provisions, but whether he supported the proposal was not made known immediately. Russia has not yet responded, Department officials told reporters, but Britain and China have reacted "favorably."

Proposed by Byrnes.

Secretary of State Byrnes proposed the twenty-five-year Japanese disarmament treaty to the Foreign Ministers of Britain, China and Russia at the same time in April that he suggested a similar twenty-five-year treaty for Germany.

One purpose of the treaties would be to end the present mass occupations of both countries as quickly as possible and to substitute for the regular occupation armies smaller forces of troops especially trained in disarmament control duties.

The avowed purpose of the treaty is to insure that, following the total disarmament and demilitarization of Japan by occupation forces, the country shall be kept in a state of disarmament and demilitarization "as long as the peace and security of the world may require."

Five Principal Steps.

To accomplish this, the following principal steps are set forth:

1. Japan's military organization shall "remain completely disarmed, demobilized and disbanded and Japan shall be deprived of all sorts of arms and explosives, including atomic energy materials. The Japanese shall also be deprived of all sorts of bases and factories for producing arms and shall be allowed only civil police having small arms, and such explosives as are necesary for industrial users."

2. To enforce these objectives, the four Powers would operate through the control commission, an inspection system which would keep constant check on Japanese disarmament and demilitarization.

3. The Japanese themselves would have to accept this method of keeping themselves disarmed.

4. In case of any violation by the Japanese, the four Powers would move in "by common agreement" with the necessary forces to put the Japanese in their place again.

5. The treaty would come into force when it has been ratified by each of the four governments and could be renewed after twenty-five years for an additional twenty-five year period. Any changes to be made then would depend on how far the Japanese would have advanced "in the reconstruction of their life on a democratic and peaceful basis."

Britain Approves Principle.

London, June 21 (A. P.).—The United States plan for a four-Power control commission backed by military force to keep Japan disarmed for twenty-five years is warmly welcomed in principle by Great Britain, the Foreign Office said tonight.

A spokesman said that the plan first had been broached at the foreign ministers' conference in Paris a month ago. Britain has studied drafts of the plan since then and informed the State Department that she approves in principle, the spokesman continued. She desires, however, to consult the Dominion governments, especially Australia and New Zealand.

The foreign office does not expect the plan to be discussed at the present foreign ministers' meeting in Paris because China is not represented.

Text of U. S. Draft Treaty on Japan

Special to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WASHINGTON, June 21—The text of a State Department announcement and of its proposed four-power control treaty for Japan:

On April 29, 1946, in Paris the Secretary of State released to the press the text of the United States draft treaty for the disarmament and demilitarization of Germany. He also announced at that time that a similar draft prepared by the United States with respect to Japan had been circulated to interested Governments. The draft treaty for Japan, which has been circulated to the Governments of China, the Soviet Union and the United Kingdom, is released for publication herewith:

Draft Treaty on the Disarmament and Demilitarization of Japan.

PREAMBLE

The Governments of the United Kingdom, China, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the United States have declared their intention to effect the total disarmament and demilitarization of Japan. This intention was expressed in the Potsdam Declaration of July 26, 1945. In substantial measure, it has already been fulfilled. Nothing shall prevent or delay the completion of the process. It remains to insure that the total disarmament and demilitarization of Japan will be enforced as long as the peace and security of the world may require. Only this assurance will permit the nations of Asia and the world to return single-mindedly to the habits of peace. To achieve this objective, the Governments of the United Kingdom, the Republic of China, the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the United States agree to engage in the common undertaking defined in this treaty.

ARTICLE I

The high contracting parties agree that they shall take steps jointly to insure that:

(a) All Japanese armed forces, including land, air, anti-aircraft and naval forces, all para-military forces, such as the gendarmerie (Kempei Tai), the Garde Mobile (Keipei Toi) and the special police (Tokka Ka) and all organizations auxiliary to the foregoing shall be and shall remain completely disarmed, demobilized and disbanded.

(b) The Japanese Imperial General Headquarters, the staffs of the Army and Navy and the staffs of any para-military organizations shall be and shall remain disbanded.

(c) No Japanese military or para-military organizations in any form or guise shall be permitted in Japan.

(d) The manufacture, production or importation of military equipment in Japan shall be prevented. In particular, the high contracting parties shall prevent the manufacture, production or importation of:

(1) All arms, ammunition, explosives, military equipment, military stores and supplies and other implements of war of all kinds;

(2) All fissionable materials for any purpose, except under conditions approved by the high contracting parties;

(3) All naval vessels of all classes, both surface and submarine, and auxiliary naval craft;

(4) All aircraft of all kinds, aviation equipment, and devices and equipment for anti-aircraft defense.

(e) The establishment, utilization or operation for military purposes of any of the following shall be prevented:

(1) All military structures, installations and establishments, including but not limited to military air fields, seaplane bases and naval bases, military and naval storage depots, permanent and temporary land and coast fortifications, fortresses and other fortified areas;

(2) All factories, plants, shops, research institutions, laboratories, testing stations, technical data, patents, plans, drawings and inventions, designed or intended to produce or to facilitate the production of items listed in the Paragraph (d) above.

(f) Under conditions which may be established by the high contracting parties, the demilitarization and disarmament required by this article shall be subject to the following exceptions and to no others:

(1) The formation and employment of such detachments of Japanese civil police and their equipment with such types and quantities of imported small arms as may be essential to the maintenance of public security; and

(2) The importation of minimum quantities of those items listed in Paragraph (d1) above, such as explosives or ingredients of explosives, which may be essential for purposes of construction, mining, agriculture or for other peaceful purposes.

ARTICLE II

To implement the disarmament and demilitarization provisions set forth in Article I, the high contracting parties agree that they shall make provision for a system of quadripartite inspection, which shall become operative upon the termination of the Allied occupation of Japan. This system of inspection shall be conducted through a commission of control to be established by the high contracting parties on a quadripartite basis. The commission of control, through its officers and agents, shall conduct, in any and all parts of Japanese territory, such inspections, inquiries and investigations as it may deem necessary to determine whether the disarmament and demilitarization provisions set forth in Article I are being observed.

ARTICLE III

The high contracting parties agree that for the duration of the period of Allied occupation of Japan, they shall support the strict enforcement of the disarmament and demilitarization provisions set forth in Article I. They agree further that the execution by Japan of the provisions of Articles I and II is an essential condition to the termination of Allied occupation of Japanese territory.

ARTICLE IV

The commission of control provided for in Article II shall keep the high contracting parties and the Security Council of the United Nations informed of the results of the inspections, inquiries and investigations authorized by that article. The commission of control shall submit a report to the high contracting parties whenever in the opinion of a majority of the members of the commission it has reason to believe that a violation of the disarmament and demilitarization provisions of Article I has occurred or is about to occur. In conjunction with such report the commission shall submit a recommendation for action on the part of the high contracting parties which appears appropriate to a majority of the members of the commission. Upon receipt of such report and recommendation, the high contracting parties will, by common agreement, take such prompt action—including action by air, sea or land forces—as may be necessary to assure the immediate cessation or prevention of such violation or attempted violation. The high contracting parties shall immediately report to the Security Council of the United Nations the action taken or to be taken.

The high contracting parties agree that, within six months of the effective date of this treaty, they shall consult for the purpose of negotiating special quadripartite agreements which shall provide in the greatest practicable detail for inspection, inquiry and investigation by the commission of control, for the numbers and types of forces which each party shall make available for purposes of this treaty, for their degree of readiness and general location and for the nature of the facilities and assistance which each shall provide. Such special quadripartite agreements shall be subject to ratification by the high contracting parties in accordance with their respective constitutional processes.

ARTICLE JUN 22 1946

This treaty shall be ratified by the high contracting parties in accordance with their respective constitutional processes. The ratifications shall be deposited with the Government of (blank), which shall notify all the high contracting parties of each deposit. This treaty shall come into force upon the deposit of ratifications by each of the high contracting parties. This treaty shall remain in force for a period of twenty-five years from its effective date. The high contracting parties agree to consult six months before the date of expiration of this treaty for the purpose of determining whether the interests of international peace and security require its renewal, with or without modification, or whether the Japanese people have so far progressed in the reconstruction of their life on a democratic and peaceful basis that the continued imposition of the controls defined herein is no longer necessary.

It was not clear whether this meant the opposing countries would refuse to take part in the organization when, and if, it is finally approved by the general assembly.

Other important issues on which Russia was defeated, included an effort to give the World Federation of Trade Unions a voice in council discussions, and a move to limit united nations aid to war devastated areas exclusively in countries which are members of the U. N.

Reds Lose 14 Decisions In Bitter U.N. Debates

Russian Opposition Slows Down Work of Council Which Finally Adjourns.

NEW YORK, Saturday, June 22—(AP)—After meeting almost continuously since 10:30 a.m. Friday, with Russia losing at least 14 decisions in bitter oratory, the United Nations economic and social council adjourned shortly after midnight today until next August 31.

NIGHT

Winding up a month's work, the delegates were kept in session throughout the day and night except for short breaks for lunch and mid-evening sandwiches.

Its work was slowed by stubborn Russian opposition to many proposals which already had been approved in the council's committees.

On the refugee question alone, Russia and the Ukraine were defeated in seven separate attempts to amend a proposed constitution for an international refugee organization.

Both Soviet delegate Nikolai J. Feonov and Ukrainian delegate Anatoly M. Baronovsky refused a plea of the council president, Sir Ramaswami Mudaliar, to withdraw their amendments and declared they would vote against the refugee organization unless their amendments were accepted.

The council finally approved the draft constitution for the refugee organization by a vote of 13 to 4, with Russia, the Ukraine, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia voting against it.

Stormy Fight

One of the stormiest fights occurred when Yugoslavia brought up a resolution, previously defeated by the council sitting as a committee, proposing creation of a fact-finding committee to investigate conditions in displaced persons camps in Europe.

This was vigorously opposed by both U. S. delegate John G. Winant and British delegate Hector McNeil, who asserted that the proposal cast reflections upon the armies of the United States and Great Britain in whose zones most of the camps are located.

McNeil declared that both the United States and Britain, as well as UNRRA, were being "put in the dock" by the proposal, which was backed by Russia. The proposal was defeated 9 to 7.

countries" were injecting "politics" countries" were injecting "politics" into the refugee question.

When the dinner hour arrived the President asked the weary delegates whether they wanted to recess for an hour or two, but McNeil objected. He said "I have to take a plane for London at 9:45 a.m. and I am prepared to sit until 9:30 a.m. if necessary to get the council's work done."

Orders were sent to the U.N. cafeteria immediately for 150 sandwiches for the delegates and their advisers.

As the council went into its afternoon session, it still had before it such important questions as care of refugees, assistance to war devastated areas and plans for a half dozen permanent commissions to handle special problems.

Draft resolutions on all these questions had been approved by committees, but they had to have the final approval of the council before it adjourned.

The controversial WFTU issue was raised by Soviet Delegate Nikolai J. Feonov when the delegates took up a proposed resolution outlining the relationship of non-governmental organizations with the council.

He made a determined effort to win for the labor organization a right to speak at council meetings instead of being restricted to the role of observer as the draft resolution proposed.

He was strongly opposed, however, by U. S. Delegate John G. Winant and British Delegate Hector McNeil, and was voted down 12 to 5. Feonov was supported by the Ukraine, Yugoslavia, Peru and Czechoslovakia.

Baruch Stands Firm On Veto Position

New York, June 21 (AP)—Backed up by President Truman's reaffirmation of American policy, Bernard M. Baruch and his advisers in the United Nations Atomic Commission maintained a firm stand today against Russia's move to retain the veto power in relation to world control of atomic energy.

The President's statement in Washington yesterday re-emphasized Baruch's announcement to the Council last week that the United States would not yield atomic secrets to a world pool or dispose of her bombs under treaty provisions unless the veto is discarded on atomic-control matters.

Russian Plan Studied

With the Atomic Commission in recess until next Tuesday afternoon, Baruch and his advisers gave their closest scrutiny to the Russian plan submitted by Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko two days ago.

They were concerned particularly with Gromyko's insistence on keeping the Big Five powers in possession of their veto and the absence in the Russian plan of any provision for an international authority to search individual countries for evidences of atomic developments that might become dangerous.

A long series of negotiations and discussions was foreshadowed, and a proponent of the American plan pointed out that the proposed Russian convention would have to pass muster with the Security Council and be ratified by half the nations of the world before it could become effective.

"After all, we have the bombs," this proponent added.

Question Of Safeguards

The American position is that all the safeguard controls must be set up before the United States would yield the whip-hand to an International Atomic Development Authority; the Russian plan holds out for destruction of the bombs within three months after adoption of the proposed convention and for control on a national basis before any international body should be set up other than one for exchange of scientific information to be used peacefully.

The United Nations Economic and Social Council, working through the night in order to wind up the present phase of its work today, rejected a Russian-supported motion by Yugoslavia for a general fact-finding commission in the new International Refugee Organization.

It also defeated a Greek move for a special inquiry group to investigate the fate of Greek nationals who disappeared into Bulgaria during the war.

A twenty-nation commission was formed to investigate war-devastated areas and recommend reconstruction.

After today the Council will be in recess until August 26, just before the General Assembly meets here, on September 3.

Gromyko, Yes, Baruch, No

Moscow, June 21 (AP)—Moscow newspapers today published the full text of the proposals for atomic energy control presented to the United Nations organization in New York by Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko, together with a 110-word Tass dispatch on the proceedings of the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission.

No details nor comment have been published here concerning the proposals previously presented by Bernard M. Baruch on behalf of the United States.

Argentina Backs Health Move

New York, June 21 (AP)—Dr. Alberto Swanck, of Argentina, told the world health conference of the United Nations today that his country was "determined to collaborate, as it has always done, with all countries to maintain the well-being of the world."

Iceland In Favor Of U.S. Upkeep

Of Bases

London, June 21 (AP) — Iceland wants the United States to continue occupation of bases there until Iceland can take them over or until the United Nations Security Council disposes of them, a well informed Icelandic source said today.

"The United States wants to lease the bases they have built on a long-term basis," the source explained. "That would undoubtedly result in international diplomatic complications and that is exactly what the Icelandic people want to avoid."

DAY

Temporary Custody Okayed

He added that Iceland lacks the technicians to maintain the American-built airports and it prefers to have Americans keep them in order until the future use of the bases has been definitely settled.

If Iceland is admitted to the United Nations, he said, it will consent to any use the United Nations may wish to make of the bases.

Referring to an article by a New York Times military correspondent, Hanson W. Baldwin, on a "struggle" between Russia and the United States over Iceland, the source said:

Tug Of War Feared

"It should be quite obvious that Iceland does not want to become part in any future conflicts and Iceland does not want American soldiers on her soil any more than she wants soldiers of any other nationality.

"American technicians built the bases and it is only natural that American technicians keep them in order until their future use is staked out."

URGES WAR CRIMINALS MAN TARGET SHIPS

LONDON, June 21—(AP) The Canine Defense league told President Truman in a message today that convicted war criminals rather than animals should be used as "guinea pigs" in the Bikini atom bomb tests.

NIGHT

The organization protested the use of "innocent animals" and asserted that the axis "sub-humans in the shape of humans" could reply part of their debt to mankind by exposing themselves to the bombing.

London Denies Concentration

LONDON, June 21 (AP)—A War Office spokesman tonight denied knowledge of any British-American troop concentration in Venezia Giulia, as reported in Belgrade newspapers. A spokesman for the Admiralty, asked about Belgrade stories that three British warships had arrived in Trieste harbor, said he knew of no recent or "abnormal" fleet activity.

5,000 English Ask Government To Let Him Stay There

Stoke on Trent, England, June 21 (AP)—More than 5,000 residents have signed a petition urging the British Government to allow a former United States soldier to remain in England where he says the people are "more congenial and homey."

The former soldier, Richard Davis, 21, of Columbus, Ohio, flew from the United States three months ago and married Miss Alma Taylor, whom he met during the war.

Willing To Work Hard

He applied to the Home Office for permission to live here. The request was denied because of food and clothing shortages.

"I'm willing to work in a mine—anything—to live in England," Davis said. "Would you rather have Polish soldiers and German prisoners than an American who loves England?"

His appeal caught the nation's attention. His English friends said they expected to get 20,000 names on the petition for submission to the Home Office, which handles immigration.

Visa Expired June 15

The London Evening News supported Davis with an editorial captioned "What is it about?"

The item said:

"It really seems more than a little odd, a gallant and friendly soldier from our leading ally is refused permission to live here."

Davis's visa expired June 15. He said he would remain a few more days awaiting action by the Home Office.

Scotland Poles Call Envoy Russian Agent

Edinburg, Scotland, June 21 (AP). Polish civilians and soldiers stationed in Scotland, drowned a speech by Hanryk Strasburger, Poland's Ambassador to Britain, today with shouts of "Russian Agent" and "he does not represent us."

DAY

The Ambassador was opening an exhibition of "Warsaw in War and Peace." Other speakers similarly hazed were Harvey Wood, Scottish representative on the British council, and Emil Woynarowski, Polish consul in Glasgow.

Police ejected the hecklers, many of whom declined to return to Poland, but they continued to protest outside.

Eire Has Big Scheme For Peat's Sake

DUBLIN, (AP)—Eire expects to solve her fuel problems by "winning the turf"—harnessing the power in her peat bogs.

With coal from fuel-starved Britain unavailable for five years, the home fires have been kept burning on native turf. Now the government is pressing plans for development of the turf bogs with an expenditure in 10 years of almost $20,000,000 and the machine mining of peat to produce electricity in power stations erected on the bogs.

BIDAULT STRIVES TO FORM CABINET

JUN 22 1946

PARIS, June 21—(AP) A mini that President Georges Bidault had made little headway in an attempt to continue a three-party French government and may try to name a solid Popular Republican Movement (MRP) cabinet came out of closely guarded conferences late tonight.

NIGHT

Informed observers said Bidault, who earlier declared optimistically that "we are going to make short work" of the task of forming a new government, had been faced with "a delicate turn" of events in his negotiations with other party leaders.

There were strong indications, they added, that he may fall back on his own MRP party to present a cabinet to the people.

The turn came, they said, as he offered a tentative wage and price program which fell short of Communist and other leftwing demands —and in the face of silence by Communists whether they would enter an MRP cabinet.

One deputy said Bidault today had proposed a limited series of wage increases for certain classes of workers, amounting to a 10 percent boost.

With the support of the Communists, France's 5,000,000-member Confederation Generale du Travail is asking a flat 25 per cent increase. The nation's second largest union, the CFTC claiming 1,000,000 members is asking a doubling of family allowances and a 1,500-franc monthly cost of living increase.

Bidault And Unions Debate Pay Rise

JUN 22 1946

Paris, June 21 (AP) — President Georges Bidault conferred with trade-union leaders today and reportedly offered them limited ten per cent wage increases instead of the 25 per cent raise they seek.

Assembly circles said Bidault's ten per cent offer was for "certain categories only." The Confédération Générale du Travail, Communist-dominated trade-union federation, has asked the larger increase for all its 5,000,000 members.

DAY

Cabinet Talk Continues

Meanwhile, Maurice Schuman, one of the leaders of Bidault's MRP party, said after seeing the President:

"In 48 hours there will be a Georges Bidault government."

However, the Communists still had not committed themselves to entering the Government.

When he emerged from the Foreign Office last night after day-long discussions with political leaders, Bidault said that a solution would soon be found. Among those with whom he talked were Maurice Thorez and Jacques Duclos, Communists, and Edouard Herriot, Radical-Socialist. He declined to divulge the result of his talks, however.

"Daladier To The Stake!"

Political tension still prevailed throughout the capital. Several hundred thousand trade workers paraded in protest against an attack Tuesday night on a Communist headquarters.

Many of the workers, members of Confederation Generale du Travail, shouted "Daladier to the stake!" They apparently resented the election of Edouard Daladier, prewar Premier, to the Constituent Assembly. The parade was orderly, however, as was a city-wide strike that accompanied it.

Soviet View Of De Gaulle

Moscow, June 21 (AP)—Pravda, in an article reporting Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Victory Day speech in Bayeux last Sunday, described the French leader today as a "future candidate for dictator" of his nation.

"Apparently now the general has decided it is about time he can come out into the political arena again," Pravda's Paris correspondent, Yuri Zhukov, said in a dispatch.

"Papers have noted that de Gaulle, whether he wanted it or not, has exhibited himself as a candidate for dictator, has offered to be elected head of the state, almost as Louis Napoleon was once elected," Zhukov added.

[De Gaulle warned in his Bayeux speech of the threat of dictatorship in France and urged that the new French constitution establish a two-chamber legislature and a strong executive branch of government.]

Big Four Discuss Trieste

JUN 22 1946

But Foreign Ministers Adjourn After 2-hour Talk Without Decision.

Paris, June 21 (A. P.).—The Foreign Ministers Council opened its discussion of the crucial issue of Trieste and the Italo-Yugoslav frontier today but adjourned after a two-hour session with no decision.

In a free, general exchange of views on the Trieste question the ministers simply restated their respective positions, according to American sources. There was no new proposal introduced regarding the frontier.

In an upsurge of harmony, resulting from yesterday's fruitful sessions, the Ministers had buckled down to the heaviest agenda of their current conference.

DAY

Along with Trieste, they must decide the entire Italian-Yugoslav frontier question and the matter of the Dodecanese islands. All four of the Ministers agree in principle that the islands should go to Greece, but Russian Foreign Minister Molotov has indicated in the past that his country is not yet ready to discuss final terms. Other problems of the Italian treaty to be considered are the Austrian-Italian frontier and disposal of Italian naval units.

Controversial Issues.

The question of Trieste, however, promised to be the most controversial. Russia has insisted that the important Adriatic port be ceded to Yugoslavia, and Great Britain, France and the United States have maintained that it must remain Italian. All four of the conferees concede that Trieste is ethnically Italian.

The compromise yesterday, when the Ministers expressed general approval of a United States proposal to delay decision on the colonies for a year and to refer the matter to the United Nations if the four Powers could not agree by that time, gave rise to a new atmosphere of optimism.

Conference circles were visibly brightened by what a British informant described as the "conciliatory" manner of yesterday's formal and informal sessions. Under the compromise, Italy would renounce sovereignty of her colonies, which would be under four-Power control pending either agreement by the Big Four or reference to the United Nations.

Approve Byrnes Motion.

The Ministers approved a motion by Secretary of State Byrnes to name a four-man commission to study the proposal and work out details. Named to the commission were Ben Cohen, United States State Department counselor; Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister; Maurice Couve de Murville, French Deputy Foreign Minister; and Gladwyn Jebb, British Deputy Foreign Secretary.

The Ministers yesterday also postponed discussion of the French-Italian frontier, decided to appoint the Big Four Ambassadors to Rome as a commission to observe the carrying out of the terms of the Italian peace treaty, and agreed to the withdrawal of British and American troops from Italy and Soviet troops from Bulgaria within ninety days after peace treaty goes into effect.

Sees Italy As Power Again.

Moscow, June 21 (A. P.).—A Tass special correspondent, writing from the Paris Foreign Ministers Conference, said today that Italy as a republic will soon be a great Power again. The dispatch protested what it called British efforts to turn Italy into a major British military base.

"Italy belonged among the great Powers before the war," the dispatch said. "Now that she has become a republic, the time is not far away when she again will be among the great Powers."

The correspondent declared that the British command wanted the right to keep troops widely distributed in Italy, to use Italian Navy ports, airports, radios, communications, railways "and even set up concentration camps on Italian soil."

GERMAN ROLE URGED IN WORLD ECONOMY

NIGHT

PARIS, June 21—(AP) The International Chamber of Commerce said today that world recovery would be "doubtful" if "peaceful and [illegible] Germany" were not given "a suitable place x x x in European and world economy."

The chamber, in a resolution adopted at the close of its annual meeting, also said the same international cooperation achieved during the war was needed in considering peace problems.

Delegates adopted resolutions urging restoration of international transport and communications. Philip D. Reed, chairman of the board of the General Electric company, said later at a news conference that the chamber's aims were "to break down the barriers between nations to permit the free exchange of goods, services and people."

Calls Russian Military Moves Normal—Zone Inspections Up to Four Governments

R. Kosiche

BERLIN, June 21 (AP)—A plan to reduce United States occupation forces in Germany to 150,000 men—roughly a 50 per cent cut—is being discussed, but no decision on carrying it out has been made yet, Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, commander of the United States forces in the European theatre, said

NIGHT

[War Department officials in Washington said there were now about 300,000 American troops in Germany and Austria. Plans outlined in January to Congress by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower called for a net force of 307,000 men in Europe July 1, not counting 28,000 in Italy.]

DAY

Answering a question at a news conference, the American commander in Europe said "our information is that the over-all number of Russian occupation troops in their zone has been decreased. They have transferred to Germany recently some troops withdrawn from Austria, but their total occupation force is lower than it was months ago."

Ration is Raised

McNarney said an improvement in the food situation recently had permitted raising the ration for the average consumer in the U. S. zone from 1,180 calories daily to 1,225, effective June 26.

Imports of 130,000 tons of food are expected from the United States during June, he continued, but 150,000 tons monthly would be needed in order to restore the former ration of 1,550 calories daily. He said that from August, 1945, to June 1 American sources had supplied 562,550 tons of food for German civilian rations.

McNarney said the question of sending a quadripartite commission to investigate the progress of German disarmament in each zone had reached a deadlock in control council discussions, and the matter had been referred to the governments of the occupying powers. He added that it was hoped the foreign ministers conference in Paris could break the stalemate over treating Germany as an economic unit.

The American commander also said there was no prospect that the ban on American-German weddings would be lifted.

Plan To Cut Reich Forces Reported

JUN 23 1946

Berlin, June 21 (AP)—Gen. Joseph T. McNarney said today that a plan was in existence to reduce American occupation forces in Germany to 150,000 men but "it has not yet been determined if it will be implemented."

He told a news conference that German civilian rations would be raised from 1,180 to 1,225 calories a day on June 26 because the food situation had improved. He said 130,000 tons of food were expected from the United States this month for the American zone.

In Washington, War Department officials said the present strength of American occupation forces in Germany and Austria is about 300,000.

[Estimates given Congress in January by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, chief of staff, called for a net force of 307,000 in Europe July 1, aside from 28,000 in Italy.]

The American commander in Europe said American sources had supplied 562,550 tons of food for German civilians from last August to June 1.

The ration could be raised to 1,550 calories a day if monthly imports from the United States increased to 150,000 tons, he added.

Proposal In Deadlock

McNarney said the American proposal to appoint a four-power commission to investigate German disarmament was in a hopeless deadlock and would be referred by occupation authorities to the Foreign Ministers Conference in Paris.

The Russians were understood to have blocked the proposal because it contained a clause for investigation of the economic phase of disarmament.

McNarney said occupation authorities also looked to the Foreign Ministers "to try to solve the stalemated issue of recognizing Germany as an economic entity."

HITLER'S POLICIES HAMPERED NAZI ATOM RESEARCH

JUN 22 1946

T. Reedy

NUERNBERG, June 21—(AP) Hitler's policies of persecution hampered German experiments for use of atomic energy, former Nazi Munitions Minister Albert Speer admitted to the international military tribunal today.

Questioned specifically by Justice Robert H. Jackson about atomic energy, Speer replied: "Unfortunately, the two scientists who knew the most about it had gone from Germany."

Scientists Not Named

Speer did not identify the scientists, but he indicated they fled because of political and racial persecution. One, Lise Meitner, a Jewess, a former researcher in, atomic energy, quit Germany in the early thirties and went to Norway. Later she assisted American experimenters with her knowledge.

"Your policy of chasing people out of Germany didn't pay very good dividends, did it, commented Jackson, who returned to an active court room role as chief U. S. prosecutor.

Speer said Germany had made virtually no experiments in atomic energy during the war, and acknowledged that Nazi propaganda about "new and secret" weapons was never supported by anything remarkable and was intended only to bolster home front morale.

Jackson asked Speer about a rumor that the Nazis had developed an explosive which disintegrated all matter around it and used it to liquidate 20,000 Jews. Speer [illegible] he had never heard of "such an incredible thing."

NIGHT

JUN 22 1946

Speer refused to admit that he "looted" occupied territories, but conceded "I participated in the economic exploitation of occupied countries." American and Russian prosecutors quizzed him on this phase of the charges against him as his defense was brought to a close.

Need 120 Hours

Attorneys for the 22 Nazi leaders on trial advised the tribunal today they needed 120 hours to sum up the case for the defense, including three hours for Martin Bormann, Hitler deputy who is being tried in absentia.

The total time would add up to about 20 court days, and Lord Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence, president of the tribunal, objected that he had expected the defense counsel to split up about 14 days by mutual arrangements.

The prosecution is limiting itself to a three-day final summary. This phase of the seven month long trials is expected to be reached in August, after the case against the Nazi organizations is presented.

No ruling was announced on the German request.

Speer Tells Court Little Research Was Made.

T. Reedy

Nuernberg, June 21 (A. P.).—Albert Speer, former Nazi Munitions Minister, told the International Military Tribunal today that Germany had virtually no experiments in atomic energy under way during the war.

Under the questioning of Justice Robert H. Jackson, who returned to an active court room role as Chief United States Prosecutor, Speer acknowledged that Nazi propaganda about "new and secret weapons" never was backed up by anything remarkable and was intended only to keep home front morale high.

Asked specifically about atomic energy, the defendant replied:

"Unfortunately, the two scientists who knew the most about it had gone from Germany."

He did not identify the scientists, but his testimony indicated they fled because of political and racial persecution.

One of the foremost of atomic researchers, Dr. Lize Meitner, a Jew, quit Germany in the thirties and continued her work in Norway, later giving her knowledge to American experimenters.

"Your policy of chasing people out of Germany didn't pay very good dividends, did it?" Jackson commented.

He asked about a report that Nazi scientists had developed an explosive method which disintegrated all matter around it. Jackson said rumor had it that this explosive was used to liquidate 20,000 Jews.

Speer said he had never heard "such an incredible thing."

He said Germany kept pace with other nations in gas warfare methods as a matter of precaution, "because we did not know who would resort first to chemical warfare."

BLONDE FRAULEIN GETS LIFE TERM FOR KILLING YANK

JUN 22 1946

T. Reedy

NUERNBERG, June 21—(AP) Erika Krebs, 20, a comely blonde who once belonged to the Hitler Youth, was sentenced to life imprisonment today by a U. S. military court for murdering an American soldier whom she said had spurned her love.

NIGHT

The tribunal deliberated less than 10 minutes in finding her guilty of shooting Master Sergeant Robert E. Flanigan of Peoria, Ill., on June 12. The prosecution had demanded the death penalty.

Bursts Into Tears

Fraulein Krebs burst into tears as the court pronounced the sentence, and continued to weep as military police led her away.

The small court room was filled with German girls, who listened stolidly to the court's verdict and made not the slightest kind of a demonstration.

Prosecution attorneys in their summation of the trial which opened two days ago described the defendant as "a wilful murderer." She had testified that she accidentally shot Flanigan while toying with his army pistol in his billet.

Her attorney, Dr. Friedarich Bergold, asserted that Flanigan led her to believe he was being divorced, then trifled with her affections. He said she had been a member of the Hitler Youth Organization, but was not a fanatic Nazi.

At the time of her arrest the girl told interrogators that she was going to have a child, but German doctors testified today that while she may have had some signs of pregnancy at one time they had disappeared now.

The doctors added that she had been treated for venereal disease, but that Flanigan's battalion records show he never had been infected.

Saw Other Girl

On the stand today she repeated her story of the events on June 12—that she had seen another German girl leave the sergeant's room, that she had reproached him about it while toying with his army pistol.

She said she fired the fatal bullet under nervous strain, adding "at the time I shot him I had neither hate nor love for him."

She added under questioning that Flanigan had never made any "specific" promise to marry her.

In the court room was the girl's mother. It was the first time they had seen each other since their ejection from the Sudetenland after the Reich's capitulation a year ago.

The girl's mother was in the audience and managed a meeting with the daughter she had not seen since they were ejected from the Sudetenland, in Czechoslovakia, a year ago.

Pro And Con Arguments

The prosecution called the Krebs girl a "wilful murderer," while Dr. Friederich Bergold, her attorney, told the court Flanagan led her to believe he was being divorced and trifled with her affections. He said she had been a member of the Hitler Youth but was not a fanatic.

The little courtroom was filled with German girls, who heard the sentence stolidly, without any kind of demonstration.

When she was arrested for killing Sergeant Flanigan, she asserted she was going to have a child, that Flanigan had spurned her love and laughed at her, and that she was upset by seeing another German girl leave his apartment as she arrived.

Says She Fired Under Strain'

The girl repeated from the witness stand her story of the killing early on June 12. After seeing her rival leave the sergeant's room, she said she reproached him while she was handling his army pistol. She asserted she shot him "accidentally" while under nervous strain.

"At the time I shot him, I had neither hate nor love for him," she said. Under questioning, she said Flanigan never made any "specific promise to marry" her.

Fraulein Who Shot GI Given Life Term

JUN 22 1946

Nuernberg, June 21 (AP)—Erika Krebs, 20-year-old German girl, was sentenced today to life imprisonment for murdering Sergt. Robert E. Flanigan, of Peoria, Ill.

A military court convicted her just nine days after the American soldier was shot to death in his apartment here.

German doctors testified the girl at one time might have shown signs of pregnancy but not now.

Verdict Reached Quickly

The decision of the five-man tribunal of the American Military Government court after less than ten minutes deliberation. The trial took two days. The girl, a Sudeten German, broke into tears as the court pronounced sentence and continued to cry as she was led away.

SIXTH LICHFIELD DEFENDANT FINED

D. Doane

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany, June 21—(AP) A sixth defendant in the Lichfield cruelty trials was convicted and fined $60 today, while in a concurrent trial the prosecution charged that the detention camp in England commanded by Col. James A. Kilian was worse than the dungeons of the Dark Ages.

DAY

NIGHT

A military court fined Corp. Louis L. Robson of Kansas City, Mo., $60 after he admitted striking prisoners at Lichfield. He insisted he was acting on orders from officers.

Six-Month Sentence

Robson, Kilian, and Lt. Leonard Ennis were tried simultaneously today by separate courts martial. A special court martial meanwhile sentenced Pfc. Joseph DeFelice of Brooklyn, N. Y., to six months imprisonment and a $240 fine for showing disrespect to an officer and breaking restrictions to quarters while waiting to testify against Robson and other Lichfield guards.

Opening the case against Kilian, of Highland Park, Ill., Prosecutor Maj. Joseph Robinson of New York City declared "we will show that prisoners were cruelly beaten, abused, kicked and clubbed upon Kilian's direct orders, with his knowledge, and in accord with a policy he himself inaugurated.

Robinson charged that Kilian "even told guards that they weren't rough enough, that they'd have to get rougher." He said the policy of the operators of the Lichfield guardhouse was "to make it so tough on the prisoners that none would dare to come back."

they had to get rougher."

He asserted that the policy was to make Lichfield "so tough on prisoners that none would dare come back."

Secret Note Mentioned.

This development came after the defense had attempted to introduce a secret message from the War Department, and had made repeated complaints that Kilian, former commandant of the Lichfield, England, guardhouse, was being maliciously accused of authorizing cruelty to United States Army prisoners.

Robinson, leaping angrily to his feet, said that if the complaints continued the prosecution would be forced to call witnesses to show that Kilian made every effort to suppress charges against him, because of his connection with other people in the Army.

The prosecutor said he had wanted to keep this out of the case, but would bring it into the open if necessary. The military court ordered Robinson's remarks stricken.

Kilian's attorney, Lieut. Col. Raymond E. Ford of Fort Pearce, Fla., demanded that a message

Thus Does Prosecution Describe Lichfield Guardhouse Under Col. Kilian.

D. Doane

Bad Nauheim, June 21 (A. P.).—The prosecution charged today that the Lichfield guardhouse was "worse than the dungeons of the Dark Ages" and that cruelties upon American prisoners there were done upon "direct orders" of Col. James A. Kilian, the camp commander.

After four days of legal maneuvering in which Kilian was blocked in attempts to squash the indictment and secure a change of venue to the United States, Major Joseph S. Robinson of New York started presenting the Army's case against the cavalry veteran from Highland Park, Ill.

He charged Kilian had attempted to stifle the cruelty charges, and said:

The court tried to obtain the message but was told by headquarters that it could not be released immediately because it would "be disclosed to the public." There was no indication of what the message said.

Kilian entereed an emphatic "not guilty" plea after the court for a second time denied his motion to quash the accusation.

Pending possible revival of the motion to transfer the trial to the United States, the way appeared cleared after four days of legal maneuvering for the prosecution to open its case against the 54-year-old cavalry veteran.

Army Offers Prizes For Reich Suggestions

Frankfurt, Germany, June 21 (AP). In an attempt to spur American soldiers' interest and understanding of occupational problems in Germany, the United States Army has offered prizes for the best suggestions for improving occupation troop performance.

For ideas on such subjects as "relations with the Germans; relations with our allies; what to do about displaced persons; or improvements in military government" soldiers may win prizes as high as a fifteen-day trip and $100 in merchandise.

Civilians may compete, too, for awards ranging up to $250 in merchandise.

U. S. Officer Dies in Munich

FRANKFURT AM MAIN, June 21 (AP).—The Army Provost Marshal's office announced today that Lieutenant Emory H. Calvin, thirty-seven, of Tacoma, Wash., was found dead in the kitchen of his Munich apartment June 18. A statement said gas jets in a kitchen stove were open. Lieutenant Calvin, special service officer of the 9th Infantry Division, had been assigned to that unit ten days previously. He leaves a wife in Tacoma.

Two Yugoslav Quislings Make Opposite Pleas

One Says He Is Innocent, While Other Asks Death; Both Were Under Neditch

G Pavlovy

BELGRADE, June 21 (AP).—One former Minister in the Yugoslav quisling regime of the late Premier Milan Neditch belligerently protested his innocence while another calmly stated he wanted to die, in testimony today before a Yugoslav military court on charges of treason.

JUN 22 1946

Velibor Jonitch, fifty-four, former Minister of Education, and by far the most aggressive of all the defendants to testify thus far at the trial of General Draja Mihailovitch and twenty-three others, told the court: "I admit making some mistakes, but my conscience is clear."

NIGHT

His testimony was in sharp contrast to that of Tanasije-Tasa Dinitch, Neditch's one time Minister of Interior, who admitted collaboration with the Germans and declared: "I do not want to live after the great crimes I have committed."

DINIC

Jonitch, who continually shook his finger at the presiding judge during his testimony, was admonlished by the judge to "lower your voice and be polite or I'll order you from the court and you can submit your statement in writing."

He denied that Fascism was taught in Yugoslav schools while he was Minister of Education or that the Germans tried to dictate educational policies. Asked why gypsies and Jews were forbidden to attend universities, he replied: "Because the occupier told me to."

Jonitch said repeatedly that he had acted on behalf of the serbian people. The presiding judge reprimanded him, saying: "You have committed great crimes. Do not speak in the name of the Serbian people."

Dinitch admitted collaboration with the Germans, telling the court that he advocated a union with the Axis because "Yugoslavia was a soap bubble. It was surrounded. I thought at the time it would save the country. Unfortunately now I see my mistake that it was handing our country over to the Fascists, and against the basic interest of our state."

He admitted there was an agreement between the Neditch government and the Nazis for "organized plunder" of Jewish properties, and that he was aware of the burning of entire villages "under an arrangement between the Neditch government and the German occupiers."

When he was Minister of Social Policy, he added, "300 workers a week were sent to Germany. I think a total of over 150,000 were sent out of the country."

Second Slav Admits Treason; 'I Do Not Want To Live

JUN 22 1946

Belgrade, June 21 (AP)—Tanasije-Tasa Dinic, Minister of Interior in the quisling government of Milan Nedic, told the court trying Gen. Draja Mihailovic today that "I do not want to live after the great crimes I have committed."

He admitted collaborating with the Germans and said he approved a decision that Yugoslavia should join the Axis.

He was the eighth to take the stand, of the 24 Yugoslavs on trial for treason and collaboration.

DAY

"The Fullest Treason"

The court president asked Dinic if he did not realize that his acts were "the fullest treason to the people?"

"Yes, they were," the defendant replied. "At the time of my collaboration with the Nazis, unfortunately I went that way in order to help as much as I could. Today I shrink from it. I don't want to live after the great crimes I've committed."

Dinic was the second defendant to plead guilty.

When asked whether he had campaigned for Yugoslavia to join the Axis, he replied:

"Thought It Would Save Nation"

"Yugoslavia was a soap bubble. It was surrounded. I thought at the time that joining the Axis would save the country. Unfortunately now I see my mistake—that it was handing over our country to the Facists, and against the basic interest of our state."

Dinic said there was an argument between the Nedic Government and the Germans over the "organized plunder" of Jewish property. He said he was aware that houses and whole villages were burned under "an arrangement between the Nedic Government and the German occupiers."

"When I was Minister of Social Policy, 300 workers a week were sent to Germany," he said in reply to a question. "I think a total of over 150,000 were sent out of the country."

AMNESTY IS GRANTED ITALIAN PRISONERS

ROME, June 21—(AP) The Italian cabinet today granted a broad amnesty calculated to free thousands from prisons, as the first act of the new republic.

A complete amnesty was approved for political prisoners convicted from the day of liberation to June 18 this year except for homicide.

Anyone serving up to five years was freed. Death sentences were commuted to life imprisonment, and life imprisonment sentences were commuted to 30 years.

20 Women Elected Deputies

ROME, June 20 (AP).—Twenty of the 556 deputies elected on June 2 to the Italian Constituent Assembly are women, the lists disclosed today. Five women will sit in the Assembly with their husbands. Among them is Rita Montagna, wife of Palmero Togliatti, Communist party secretary general and Minister of Justice.

Greek Ballot Change Urged by Britain

Athens, June 21 (A. P.).—The British Government has recommended a "more elastic" ballot for the September 1 plebiscite on the return of exiled King George II, an authoritative spokesman said today. The present plebiscite bill before the Greek Parliament provides for two ballots, one specifically favoring the king, the other blank. Critics say an anomalous situation would arise if a majority of the voters cast blank votes, since the country still is a constitutional monarchy.

Opposition leaders, including former Premier Themistocles Sophoulis of the Liberal party, last night threatened to withdraw from the royalist-dominated Parliament unless the alternative ballot to the king's return provides specifically for approval of a Greek republic.

New U. S. Credit to Greece

ATHENS, June 21 (AP).—Minister of Co-ordination Stephanos Stephanopoulos anonunced today an additional $65,000,000 American credit has been granted to Greece through the Export-Import Bank at Washington. This was in addition to a previous grant of $25,000,000. Greece had requested $200,000,000.

TEN TRILLION WORTH 26 CENTS

Budapest, June 21 (A. P.).—A 10,000,000,000,000 (ten trillion) pengo bank note is now in circulation in inflation-ridden Hungary. Under pre-war exchange values, the note would have been worth two trillion American dollars, but today it has a value of little more than 26 cents.

DAY

Despite the fact that their nation is undergoing what is probably the most fantastic inflation in history, Government officials show little apparent concern. Nothing can be done at the moment, they say, but they insist that on August 1 the currency will be stabilized. Most workers have received salary increases to keep them within reasonable approach of the new set of values.

Potables Problem Perturbs Polish

WARSAW, (AP)—Proposals from Polish dry organizations that the sale of vodka be restricted with "vodkaless days" have drawn the fire of the state alcohol monopoly.

A statement said such action would cause an increase in production of "moonshine vodka"—in Polish, "bimber," made principally of rye flour and sugar. Monopoly alcohol is produced from molasses and potatoes regarded unfit for public sale.

Never Aided Axis, Grand Mufti Says

Cairo, June 21 (AP)—The newspaper Akbar el Yom tonight quoted the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem as denying that he had ever worked for a foreign country and as saying that he had come to Egypt from France because "it is the heart of the Arab movement and the seat of the Arab League."

The newspaper, largest circulating Arabic newspaper in the Middle East, quoted him as saying:

"I worked for the independence of Syria, Palestine, the Lebanon, Iraq, Egypt and the other Arab countries.

NIGHT

"I don't hate the British, I don't hate the Americans. I don't even hate the Jews."

Accused Of Broadcasting

The British have accused the mufti of broadcasting during the war for the Germans and of aiding both Italy and Germany.

The publication of the mufti's reported conversation "with a friend" followed the statement last night by Premier Ismail Sidky Pasha that the spiritual leader of the Palestinian Arabs was expected to keep out of controversial political activities while enjoying Egyptian hospitality, traditionally afforded political refugees.

Today the Moslem Brotherhood, differing with that stand, demanded of King Farouk that the Government give the mufti "all his rights and freedom to work as a great Islamic leader."

Ahmed el Sukary, vice president of the brotherhood, presented a note containing the demand to palace officials after police had removed a microphone from the Al Azhar Mosque, where he had addressed 20,000 persons at a prayer meeting.

Police Surround Mosque

Mounted police and police reserves in cars and trucks surrounded the mosque and dispersed the crowd after the prayers.

"Thousands of persons praying at Al Azhar Mosque who were prevented from coming to Abdin Palace send their deepest appreciation for giving sanctuary to the mufti," said the note.

The note said the mufti was "a greatly respected personality in the Islamic and Arabic world" and that "all liberty should be given him in order to remove the tension from Arabs and Moslems of the world."

ARABS URGE MUFTI BE GIVEN LIBERTY

Cairo, June 21 (A. P.).—Twenty thousand Arabs, gathered for noon prayers at Al Azhar Mosque, heard Ahmed El Sukary, vice-president of the Moslem Brotherhood Association, declare today that the refugee Mufti of Jerusalem "should be granted his liberty."

DAY

Ahmed El Sukary praised as a "great Arab leader" the Mufti who has escaped from France and has been granted sanctuary in Egypt. He took exception, however, to Prime Minister Sidky Pasha's statement last night that the spiritual leader of Palestine's Arabs was expected to keep out of controversial political activities while enjoying the Egyptian hospitality traditionally accorded political refugees.

Ahmed el Sukary said a delegation would be sent to Abdin Palace to protest to King Farouk against the Prime Minister's

BRITISH SOLDIERS FIND ARMS CACHE

Jewish Underground Plot to Seize English Palestine Chief Charged.

O. Carruthers

JERUSALEM, June 21 — (AP) British troops uncovered a buried cache of illegal arms near a chemical plant on the northern shore of the Dead Sea today as military authorities charged a Jewish underground group with a plot to kidnap the British commander-in-chief in Palestine.

An army officer said troops, making an inch-by-inch search of the area, found a cache of 19 pistols, seven sub-machine guns, a mortar, 20 ammunition magazines and several thousand rounds of ammunition buried in a concrete chamber near the power house of the chemical plant at Kallia, a settlement of potash workers.

16 Employes Held

Simcha Swerdleff, manager of the works who protested that the search was costing the company $4,000 a day, was arrested following discovery of the arms. It was reported that 16 Jewish employes of the plant were arrested.

British army headquarters said it had uncovered evidence that Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground organization, had planned to kidnap Lt. Gen. Sir Evelyn Barker, the British top commander in the Holy Land, in addition to the six officers previously seized.

The search in the Jewish Bucharim quarter of northwest Jerusalem for clues to the whereabouts of the abductors of Maj. H. P. Chadwick was abandoned. He escaped his kidnapers yesterday, but the fate of five officers seized in the coastal city of Tel Aviv remained undisclosed.

British Officer Held

Meanwhile an official announcement confirmed the arrest of a British officer in the fatal shooting of Amram Rosenberg, a 35-year-old Jew, on a Tel Aviv street Wednesday night. The officer was not identified.

The announcement gave no details as to the circumstances. One unofficial newspaper report [illegible] the officer had witnessed t[illegible] naping of the five British [illegible] the previous day and w[illegible] "highly nervous state" at t[illegible] of the shooting.

British Palestine Chief Object Of Plot, Charge

O. Carruthers

Jerusalem, June 21 (AP)—British Army headquarters said today it had evidence that Irgun Zvai Leumi, a Jewish underground organization, had planned an attempt to kidnap Lieut. Gen. Sir Evelyn Barker, British commander in chief in Palestine, in addition to six officers previously seized.

At the same time, the army announced that it had abandoned its search in the Bucharim quarter of northwest Jerusalem for the abductors of Major H. P. Chadwick, who escaped his kidnappers yesterday.

Meanwhile, Moshe Shertok, head of the political department of the Jewish Agency, appealed today for the immediate release of five kidnapped British officers, believed abducted by Jewish extremists during disorders which have cost 25 lives in the turbulent Holy Land in the past week.

Seizures Called "Lunacy"

Shertok said the abductions were "lunacy." The five were believed to have been taken by Irgun Zvai Leumi as hostages for two members of that organization who are under sentence of death.

Two other alleged members of the organization were sentenced yesterday to seven-year prison terms by a Jerusalem military court which convicted them of illegal possession of two Sten guns and a bomb after railway sabotage in southern Palestine last April.

Chadwick escaped his Jewish abductors by leaping from a window in Jerusalem yesterday, but no details of his abduction were made public, since officials said they wished to guard the safety of the other five, kidnapped in Tel Aviv.

"Voice of Israel," a secret radio operated by Haganah, one of three Jewish resistance movements, has also appealed for the release of the officers, terming their detention "contrary to the interests of the nation."

Status Of The Mufti

Palestine's Arabs, meanwhile, continued to celebrate the appearance of their spiritual leader, the Mufti of Jerusalem, in Cairo.

In Egypt, Premier Ismail Sidky Pasha announced last night that his country was "honor bound" to shelter the Mufti, Haj Amin al Husseini, but suggested that the Mufti was expected to avoid controversial activities while enjoying Egypt's sanctuary.

The Premier's statement, following a decision by the Council of Ministers that the Mufti was a political refugee and thus could not, under Egyptian law, be turned over to any country, was taken to mean that Egyptians do not intend the Mufti to resume his anti-British activities, especially since negotiations are now in progress for revision of the 1936 British-Egyptian treaty of alliance.

British Greet Anders in Palestine

CHINA WAR TRUCE EXTENDED 8 DAYS ON CHIANG'S ORDER

JUN 22 1946

NANKING, June 21—(AP) An eight-day extension of the Manchurian truce was ordered by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek today, but prospects of a permanent settlement of China's civil strife were dimmed by an apparent deadlock in peace negotiations here.

New differences developing during the recent peace talks appeared to have left the rival factions further apart than when the truce began June 7. While an agreement was reported near on restoration of communications, the overall picture was far from encouraging.

The chief Communist negotiator Chou En-Lai, told a press conference that his party saw no way to accept the government's demand that Red forces evacuate certain north China areas. The government's proposal for division of central Manchuria likewise was unacceptable, he said.

Chou declared that the government's idea seemed to be to achieve a division of Communist strength by "pushing us away from large cities and rail lines, surrounding us in small towns, so that when the time comes the government may eliminate our forces."

Marshall's Role

Another factor blocking any long-term agreement, Chou asserted, was the government's insistence that all actions of the committee, of three or executive (truce) headquarters be decided by majority vote. The Communists contend the decisions should be unanimous.

The Manchurian truce, originally limited to 15 days, would have expired Saturday. Its extension to June 30 was regarded as a concession to the Communists, who have been demanding an unlimited truce pending the conclusion of peace and unification talks here.

Meanwhile Peiping dispatches said the sound of artillery fire could be heard in the suburbs of Tsinan, besieged capital of Shantung province, as government troops barricaded the streets in expectation of a Communist attack.

The government Central news agency said the barged-wire barricades were more of a precaution against "dangerous elements" inside the city than a defense against red forces outside.

8 Days More Of Truce Set For Chinese

JUN 22 1946

Nanking, June 21 (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek today extended the truce in Manchuria for eight days just 24 hours before it was to have expired, at the height of renewed negotiations.

The extension was widely regarded here as a concession to the Chinese Communists, who have been demanding an unlimited truce while unification talks are in progress.

In his extension the Generalissimo warned, however, that, "In view of the urgency of relieving the prolonged sufferings of our nation, no further delay should be permitted."

Presumably he meant that the current controversy should be settled one way or another by the time the extended truce expires, on June 30.

Coeds Demonstrate

Negotiations have been deadlocked for three days over a Government demand that General Marshall, special United States envoy, be given powers to arbitrate the internal dispute.

In Shanghai, meanwhile, 5,000 Chinese coeds paraded through the streets demanding an immediate end to China's civil strife.

In Tsinan, capital of embattled Shantung province, Government troops barricaded the streets against besieging Communist forces, Chinese dispatches to Peiping said. Occasionally the sound of artillery fire could be heard in Tsinan's suburbs.

Pacific Islanders Train for Medicine

HONOLULU—(AP) Twenty-one young natives of Guam, Rota, American Samoa and the Marshall Islands are being trained here by the Navy for medical work among their own people.

They are enrolled in a four-year medical course at the Native Medical Practitioners' School established by the Navy Military Government and headed by Capt. Richard H. Fletcher, MC, USNR, of Spokane.

CRIPPLING STRIKES SWEEP OVER INDIA

JUN 22 1946

Two Persons Slain While Looting as Disorders Spread.

P. Mason

NEW DELHI, Saturday, June 22—(AP) Two persons were killed today in south India as crippling strikes and disturbances protesting the arrest of Jawaharlal Nehru, president-elect of the All-Indian Congress party, spread in widely separated major cities.

A dispatch from Srinagar, capital of the princely state of Kashmir, said Nehru had been released after his arrest there Thursday for entering the state against the decree of a district magistrate.

Two Looters Slain

The two deaths occurred in Madura when police fired on looters ransacking establishments where business was suspended in protest against Nehru's arrest. Several others have been injured in Madura where disturbances first broke out on Thursday.

Shops Are Looted

A number of shops were looted and set on fire before police began using firearms and tear gas to disperse disorderly mobs.

The British military trucks were burned in Calcutta where American troops were restricted to camp as a "precautionary measure."

Mohandas K. Gandhi, attending his usual Friday night prayer meeting in Delhi, said that Viceroy Lord Wavell was attempjting to have Nehru returned to Delhi as soon as possible.

Nehru is in a bungalow at Chinari, 80 miles from Srinagar, and all facilities and a state car have been placed at his disposal, the dispatches from Srinagar said.

Congress President Maulana Abul Kalam Azad said tonight he was "trying to establish contact with Pandit Nehru and hoped an amicable solution may yet be found. If this does not happen, far-reaching and serious repercussions are inevitable."

He counseled moderation "however great the provocation may be," and said the Maharajah of Kashmir and his advisors had committed a great blunder.

The Srinagar dispatch said the Kashmir premier, had placed a plane at Nehru's disposal. And that Azad had advised Nehru to return to Delhi immediately.

In indignation over his arrest, workers by the tens of thousands quit their jobs in Bombay, and all markets were closed in Calcutta, Karachi and Madras. In Calcutta the transportation system was virtually paralyzed.

One hundred thousand millworkers stopped work in Bombay along with 10,000 railway shop employés. Shops were closed, students boycotted university classes, workers left the Royal Mint and the stock exchange and bullion markets closed.

Police Fire Tear Gas

Police fired tear gas at demonstrators in Madura, injuring several persons. Demonstrations were called in other cities.

Nehru had gone to Kashmir in northern India to aid in the defense of Shiekh Abdullah and other persons accused of sédition in connection with a recent unsuccessful plot against Sir Hari Singh, the Hindu Maharajah of Kashmir. The Congress party working committee broke off its talks on a British plan for an interim Government of India after Nehru's arrest.

Mahommed Ali Jinah, president of the Moslem League, India's other major party, appealed to Moslem's in Kashmir "not to be misled by slogans and stampeded into action which would gravely prejudice their cause." Ninety per cent of the population in Kashmir state are Moslems.

Jinnah Calls On Conference

Jinnah called on the Kashmir Moslem conference — a rival organization to Shiekh Abdullah's national conference—"Not to play into the hands of astute agents."

Military officials at Rawalpindi, near the Punjab-Kashmir frontier, said they were informed Nehru had been released, but they did not know his whereabouts.

A Reuter dispatch from Srinagar, Kashmir capital, said Nehru was free to return to India. It quoted the Kashmir prime minister as saying Kashmir would provide an airplane for him.

India Seeming Over Arrest Of Nehru

JUN 22 1946

New Delhi, India, June 21 (AP)—A nation-wide strike of 200,000 railway workers, which had been scheduled for June 27, was called off last night by the General Council of the All-India Railway Men's Federation, which accepted Government proposals of preliminary wage adjustments.

P. Mason

New Delhi, June 21 (AP)—India's major cities were in turmoil today with demonstrations and strikes protesting the arrest of Jawaharlal Nehru, Congress party leader.

Bombay was virtually a dead city as 100,000 millworkers stayed home, the Stock Exchange and bullion markets closed, workers walked out of the Royal Mint, two railway shops closed, shopkeepers shuttered their windows and students boycotted university lectures.

All markets in Karachi, Calcutta and Madras were closed and in Calcutta the transportation system was stopped by a strike.

Police Use Tear Gas

Several persons were injured during a demonstration in which police used tear gas at Madura, south India.

Nehru was arrested yesterday by authorities of the princely state of Kashmir. He had defied a ban against his entering that northernmost portion of India to defend Sheikh Abdullah and others accused of sedition in connection with a recent abortive "revolt" against the Hindu Mararajah, Sir Hari Singh.

Mohammed Ali Jinnah, president of the Moslem League, called on Kashmir's Moslems, who make up 90 per cent of the state's population, "not to be misled by slogans and stampeded into an action which would gravely prejudice their cause."

Nehru's Status Uncertain

Nehru, president-designate of the rival Congress party and president of the All-India People's States Conference, of which Abdullah is a member, was reported still in Kashmir but reports conflicted whether he had been released from custody.

Military officials at Rawalpindi, near the Punjab-Kashmir frontier, said they were informed Nehru was released but did not know where he was. A dispatch from Spingagar, Kashmir capital, said the Congress leader was still detained.

Siamese Shocked by Inquiry

Commission Investigating King's Death to Remove and Examine His Body.

Bangkok, June 20 (Delayed) (A. P.).—The commission of Siamese authorities investigating the death of King Ananda Mahidol said this royalty-revering nation tonight with the announcement that remains of the monarch will be removed from a great golden urn in Dusit Hall for examination.

The commission said the examination may include X-rays of the body to show the course of the bullet that killed the King. The decision was made following testimony by eight medical men.

The official version given Parliament said the 20-year-old Monarch's death June 9 was accidental and that the bullet went through the center of the forehead.

The commission was appointed after several days, however, to dispose of various rumors that the King had committed suicide because of a blighted romance with a girl in Switzerland or because of depression over his royalty role, or that he was assassinated by die-hard royalists who resented his liberal tendencies.

The editor of the opposition newspaper Le Democrate has been arrested for expressing an editorial doubt about the cause of the King's death and calling for the resignation of Premier Nai Pridi Phanomyong. Two opposition leaders, former Premiers Khuang Aphaiwong and Seni Pramoj, visited the jail and offered bail for the editor, but it was refused. They said they would take up the matter in Parliament.

NIP DIET SESSION ENDS IN UPROAR

TOKYO, June 21—(AP) A rough and tumble session of the new Japanese diet, whose members questioned whether their actions truly represented democracy, was adjourned in confusion tonight.

It was a heckling, boisterous, scuffling affair almost from the start. Members swung at each other in the aisles. Spectators yelled in the galleries.

Unable to control the situation, Speaker [illegible], target of the first outbreak, rang the adjournment bell.

The trouble started when Katsu Nomizo, Social Democrat, ran to the rostrum to protest that the speaker was guilty of presiding unfairly. He accused him of making no effort to stop hecklers while another Social Democrat, Tetsu Katayama, was delivering his interpellation challenging the liberal cabinet.

Tussle in Aisle

Noisiest of the Liberal hecklers was Shu Hara, who had been shouting "baka" (idiot) at Katayama. He grabbed Nomizo and they tussled in the aisle. Other members joined in, some making wild swings at their compatriots as others tried to separate them.

"Stop," "quit," "disreputable," shouted some.

"I am disgusted," called out Mrs. Chiyo Sakakibara, Social Democrat. "That new democratic diet should be respectable. Can we expect to face our constituents with this sort of thing? We can express our opinions without referring to violence."

Katayama declared the government's belief in democracy must be clarified, and asserted the draft of the new constitution, which outlaws war, needed further revision.

In a statement sent to the diet, General MacArthur urged that it give full consideration without political bias to the new constitution.

Fights On Floor Break Up Jap Diet Session

JUN 22 1946

R. BYINES

Tokyo, June 21 (AP)—The first plenary session of the new Japanese Diet broke up in confusion today after fist fights and general disorder broke out as the result of uncontrolled heckling.

Speaker Senzo Higai, who was the target of the outburst, adjourned the session after vainly trying to control the situation.

Social Democrats charged Higai, a Liberal, with unfairness in presiding and with making no effort to quell hecklers while Tetsu Katayama, a Social Democrat leader, was delivering a speech censuring the Liberal Cabinet's program.

Runs Shouting To Platform

Katsu Nomizo, another Social Democrat, precipitated the general disorder when he ran shouting to the platform and demanding that Katayama be given a chance to be heard.

Shu Hara, noisiest of the Liberal hecklers, grasped Nomizo as he hurried up the aisle, and they tussled over the floor. More than twenty others joined in the melee.

Others of the almost 400 legislators milled about shouting for order and declaiming against the "disreputable" outbreak. Sergeants-at-arms urged the combatants to restore order but used no force. Galleryites joined in the shouting.

Adjournment Bell Rings

After twenty minutes of confusion, the adjournment bell rang.

Katayama had demanded in his speech clarification of the Government's belief in democracy, a report on the progress of the Government toward signing a peace treaty, further revision of the draft of the new constitution and further information on the Yoshida Cabinet's policies regarding food shortages, inflation and production.

Earlier, General MacArthur had urged the Diet to give full consideration without political bias to the new "no war" constitution at what is "one of the vital moments in the life fo Japan."

Diet Must Decide Form

"It is for the people of Japan, acting through their duly elected representatives, to determine its form and content—whether it be adopted, modified or rejected," he said in a formal statement.

It was the second time the Supreme Commander had spoken in favor of the proposed constitution, which grants greater liberties to the people. He said last March that it had "my full approval."

Today's statement backed up Emperor Hirohito's presentation of the question to the Diet yesterday, and possibly was designed to quiet some criticism made by members of the Far Eastern Commission, who expressed concern that it might be railroaded through.

Full Discussion Urged

MacArthur reiterated one principle announced by the commission last month that "adequate time and opportunity be allowed for a full discussion" before the constitution is acted upon.

"It is incumbent upon the Diet," McArthur said, "that it assure to all members the free, fair and untrammeled right of discussion and debate and that it give thoughtful consideration to every suggestion offered by its membership regardless of strength or party affiliation."

MacArthur said the proposed constitution was "squarely before the people" at the June election and the Diet elected at that time was charged with the duty of enacting it.

Qualified To Speak For People

He asserted that the election was "truly democratic" and "as a consequence the Diet which emerged therefrom is fully representative and qualified to express the will of the people on this issue."

Appearing before the Diet itself, Premier Yoshida in a gloomy speech on the state of the nation declared that Japan stood "on the verge of starvation" in the populous Tokyo area and in the far north.

While the sorely beset nation may be forced to call on the conquerors for help, the Premier proposed that Japan launch a land development and reclamation program to help solve its own dire food problem.

Nation's Troubles Aired

The Diet found little solace in Yoshida's address to the second day's session, for it dwelled at length on the manifold troubles of the nation which once stood supreme in the Orient.

For the sore spot of labor relations—with unions seizing plants to back their demands for higher wages to meet spiraling living costs—Yoshida promised Government mediation.

For the spread of unemployment in a nation crowded with returning soldiers and sailors, he promised a 6,000,000,000 yen ($400,000,000) public works program, as well as plans to stimulate peace-time industry.

Labor Plans Softened

Yoshida's labor recommendations fell far short of his previous pronouncements, for he had declared that the Government would support struck plants and try to do something about labor's habit of taking over industries in wage disputes.

Japan, Yoshida said, has undertaken such reforms as freedom of speech, thought and assembly but declared that the people must be "strictly on guard lest we confuse lawlessness with liberty."

Two recent letters were released today by headquarters as mirroring the increasing apprehension among Japanese officials outside Tokyo concerning the threat of famine.

Prefecture Heads In Pleas

Seven chairmen of prefectures outside Osaka wrote the supreme commander, thanking him for assistance in "surmounting the food crisis," but added that the people are "now in the depth of dire poverty and on the verge of starvation."

"Now our nation," the petition added, "concentrating wholeheartedly upon the pursuit of food, is in the greatest distress imaginable."

The Yokusuka City Assembly wrote commending MacArthur for previous assistance, but concluding, "We are . . . almost wandering on the starvation line."

Court Derides Movie Shown At Tojo Trial

JUN 22 1946

Tokyo, June 21 (AP)—Sir William Webb, president of the international war-crime tribunal, today termed prosecution efforts to show the Japanese program of world aggression through a 13-year-old propaganda film a "dismal failure."

The film, of which but one reel was shown, featured Gen. Sado Araki, one of the 28 war-crimes defendants, telling the Japanese their nation was "despised" abroad and their destiny misunderstood.

After the barely visible reel was screened in the humid courtroom, where windows had been left open to admit air—and light—Sir William stopped the show to observe that it was a "very disappointing production."

Court Recesses Early

Court was recessed an hour and a half early with the comment that the picture was a "dismal failure as evidence in the prosecution's depiction of Japan's psychological war preparations."

Justice Alan James Mansfield, assistant prosecutor for Australia, assured the court, however, that "vicious propaganda" would develop in the remaining eleven reels, which will be shown when court reconvenes Monday.

Araki, former Japanese War and Education Minister, sat stony faced as he heard himself on the screen, shouting that "despised Japan, rejected Japan" must "secure the peace in Asia."

"Holy Mission" Ignored

Araki, from the screen, declared that Nippon's "holy mission" had been ignored by the League of Nations, questitoned the friendship and possible "co-operation" of China, and looked toward the United States with the question: "Can we ever expect peace on the Pacific?"

Araki twisted around in his chair and watched the first of the showing and then turned to watch reactions in the press section.

Former Premier Hideki Tojo likewise looked for a while and turned away in apparent unconcern.

Earlier, prosecution evidence focused on the film industry with Producer Kimbei Nakai describing propaganda films he produced glorifying militarism, divine worship of the Emperor and aggression in the Far East.

Jap Power Plants For Manchuria Urged

Tokyo, June 21 (AP)—The immediate transfer of steam power generating equipment from Japan to Manchuria to avert an "approaching catastrophe" in the coal-mining area around Mukden was recommended today by United States Reparations Commissioner Edwin W. Pauley.

Pauley made his recommendation direct to General MacArthur at a conference urging the supreme commander to authorize the transfer to prevent disastrous flooding of the Fushun and Fushin area mines, which he described as the two most important in Manchuria.

Sees Recovery Delayed

"Recovery from the shock of war may be delayed many years if immediate action is not taken to replace the power equipment removed from these vital mines," the commissioner said in a written statement.

He explained that the power plants which generated electricity for the mines likewise normally supplied power for Mukden and other industrial centers and that even immediate transfer might be too late to prevent the spread of epidemics from lack of water and proper sewage disposal. (AP)

Fired Jap Newsmen Battle Police For Hour

Tokyo, June 21 (AP)—Mechanical and editorial workers of the newspaper Yomiuri fought fifteen police for an hour today when the officers appeared to arrest six employés who ignored orders of dismissal.

The police, armed with staves, finally emerged with two of the six employes and took into custody 56 other workers, most of them from the mechanical department.

Police acted on complaint of Tsunego Baba, company president, who accused the six of coloring the news with their political opinions. Chief Editor Tomin Suzuki, one of the six, was away at the time covering the international war-crimes trials.

No charges had been lodged against any of those arrested. Employés planned a meeting later to decide whether to strike. Meanwhile, editorial workers went about getting out the newspaper.

Paper's Staff Battles Police

TOKYO, June 21 (AP).—Mechanical and editorial workers of the newspaper "Yomiuri" fought fifteen police for an hour today when the officers appeared to arrest six employees who had ignored orders of dismissal. The police, armed with staves, finally emerged with two of the six employees and took into custody fifty-six other workers.

1st U. S. Dependents in Japan

YOKOSUKA, Japan, June 21 (AP).—Twenty-two wives and two children of United States Marine Corps and Navy men arrived today from San Pedro, Calif., aboard the transport Charles Carroll. They are the first dependents of occupation force personnel in Japan to reach this country.

Bread And Sugar To Be Rationed

Praetoria, South Africa, June 21 (AP)—Bread and sugar will be rationed in nine urban areas of South Africa starting August 1. Dr. H. J. Van Eck, Director of Food Supplies and Distribution, said meat may also be rationed.

Army Head's U.S. Visit Unofficial, Says Peron

Buenos Aires, June 21 (AP)—President Juan D. Perón told a news conference today that Gen. Carlos von der Becke, former commander in chief of the Argentine Army, carried no official credentials from the Argentine Government on his current visit in the United States.

Von der Becke, who has conferred with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and officials of the State Department, was believed to have come to Washington on a special mission for Perón, with the purpose of trying to find a formula for eliminating long-standing differences between the United States and Argentina, especially in connection with the creation of an inter-American defense treaty.

In reply to a question as to von der Beck's mission, Perón said:

"As far as I am concerned he is only a tourist . . . speaking for himself only."

Britain Seeking Argentine Markets

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Great Britain is pushing vigorously to re-establish pre-war markets in South America, particularly in Argentina where it has almost always been the traditional No. 1 buyer and in many instances top provider.

Establishment of the British South American Airways, official visits of aviation and shipbuilding missions and the personal junkets of Leslie Hore-Belisha and Lord Templewood have called attention to renewed British interests in overseas trade.

B-24 Lost in Alaskan Crash

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, June 21 (AP)—Headquarters of the Alaska Department reported today a B-24 plane of the 404th Bombardment Squadron based at Shemya crashed into the quartermaster warehouse there Monday morning with all personnel aboard presumed lost. Among those in the plane was Second Lieut. Phillip Oltusky, whose father is Mac Oltusky of 954 Dumont Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Most Important Thing"

"The development of atomic energy is the most important thing before the world today," declared Gillespie.

"It is essential that a representative group of congressmen witness what is being done in the Pacific and report back to our colleagues about it."

Meanwhile, the House Military Committee put off at least until tomorrow a final decision on what type of legislation it favors for domestic control of atomic energy.

The committee already has approved changes in a Senate bill creating a five-member civilian control commission. The House group wants at least one member to be a military man. Also, they favor an amendment authorizing the President to direct the commission to permit the Army to produce its own atomic weapons.

JUN 22 1946

Congressmen To Go To Bikini

Washington, June 21 (AP)—To the envy of their colleagues, at least ten congressmen besides the four officially invited by the Administration are going to Bikini for the atomic bomb test.

Some already are en route and the rest will leave by plane tomorrow. They are going as representatives of their committees, as follows:

Senators Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) and Cordon (R., Ore.) of the special Senate Atomic Energy Committee.

Others To See Test

Representatives Rooney (D., N.Y.), Norrell (D., Ark.), Engel (R., Mich.) and Gillespie (R., Col.) of the House Appropriations Committee.

Representatives Izac (D., Cal.), Bradley (D., Pa.), Bates (R., Mass.) and Anderson (D., Cal.) of the House Naval Committee.

President Truman designated four congressmen to witness the test as official members of a committee to evaluate the results. They are Senators Hatch (D., N.M.) and Saltonstall (R., Mass.), and Representatives Andrews (R., N.Y.) and Holifield (D., Cal.), the latter a replacement for Chairman May (D., Ky.) of the House Military Committee.

At one time the invitation list was wide open and at least 50 or 60 congressmen were planning to go.

Mr. Truman upset their plans, however, when he postponed the scheduled test in May because of what he termed the press of congressional business. Speaker Rayburn (D., Texas) said later he had asked Mr. Truman to call the affair off temporarily because he wanted the members here.

Congress was busy then, but it still faces a heavy schedule during the next few weeks before a planned adjournment late in July.

Some of those making the trip said they consider it important that Congress be well represented at the demonstration of the bomb.

Formula Sought For Accord On Atom Plans

Washington, June 21 (AP)—American officials, seeking a formula for getting around the veto disagreement between Russian and United States plans for international control of atomic energy, were reported hopeful today of eventual success.

The United States has demanded abolition of the veto in so far as it would apply to world-wide atomic control machinery. But Russia has served notice that she will countenance no change in the system by which the great powers must agree unanimously in the United Nations Security Council.

Truman's Stand

President Truman himself made it plain at his news conference yesterday that negotiations will be undertaken on various points of disagreement, and he added that it may be possible to reach agreement. He put stress on the word may.

The President said that the proposals made by Bernard M. Baruch to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission had his indorsement in all provisions, including that for curtailment of the great-power veto right.

But when questioned as to whether he was adamant in wanting these proposals accepted by other nations without change, he responded with the assurance of negotiations.

U.S. Thinking

Meanwhile, other officials in a position to help evolve American policy were known to be thinking along this line:

The United States, in the plan put forward by Baruch, has not necessarily asked for any modification of the veto power within the United Nations Security Council itself.

Rather, the Baruch plan proposes that the charter for an international system designed to promote peaceful development of atomic energy and to prevent its diversion to military uses should be written as a new treaty, separate from the already accepted United Nations Charter.

Thus each of the big powers would have the right to accept or reject this treaty and unless all five accepted it at the outset it would not become operative.

No Simple "No" Action

But once the United States, Russia, Britain, France and China had all agreed to the treaty, none would be able to disregard its provisions simply by voting "no." In the actual operation of the proposed Atomic Development Authority questions would probably be decided by some kind of majority, possibly two thirds.

Authorities here contend that action could be neither swift nor sure if the veto system were applied to atomic-control machinery. They also say that in view of the experience of the Big Four control council in Berlin it could hardly be expected that an international agency coping with day-to-day problems of operating a world-wide system of uranium mines and atomic factories would be able to function effectively if all the big powers had to agree constantly on every step taken.

JUN 22 1946

Truman Bomb Control Plea Is Unheeded

Washington, June 21 (AP)—House champions of quasi-military control over domestic atomic-energy matters adopted a so-what attitude today toward President Truman's firm stand for a dominant civilian voice.

Meeting to put the finishing touches on a sharply revised Senate bill, members of the House Military Committee indicated the group would stick by its proposal for at least one and perhaps two military representatives on the five-man control commission.

They said, too, they could see little likelihood of the committee's reversing an earlier vote authorizing the President to direct the commission to let the Army produce its own atomic weapons, an authority lacking in the Senate bill.

Truman Praises Senate Bill

Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday that he favors civilian control of atomic energy and said the bill passed by the Senate suited him exactly.

Regardless of Mr. Truman's opinions, Chairman May (D., Ky.) said, in the presence of other military committee members, "the committee believes it has a responsibility to support a measure which in its opinion is best."

Representative Sparkman (D., Ala.), a committee member and House majority whip, sided with the President, but said he saw little chance for the committee to reverse itself.

Floor Fight Anticipated

Sparkman indicated that the big fight over civilian versus military control would be put off until the legislation reaches the House floor.

Representative Holifield (D., Cal.), another commitee member, said a fight would be made on the House floor to substitute the Senate bill for the committee legislation.

Representative Elston (R., Ohio), who offered the amendment giving the military representation on the control commission, insisted that the committee legislation provides for civilian control.

"The commission of five members still will have at least three, and possibly four, civilian members," Elston said. "If that isn't civilian control, I don't know what is. It is only logical that the division of military application be headed by a military man."

Lilienthal Calls Plans to Outlaw Bomb 'Naive'

Atom Report Board Expert Denies Aiming at Red Proposal Specifically

BUFFALO, June 21 (AP).—David E. Lilienthal declared tonight that proposals for "outlawing" the atomic bomb and providing legal machinery for punishment of violations are "dewy-eyed, naive and ignorant of the realities of human nature."

The Tennessee Valley Authority chairman, who headed the board of consultants which prepared the State Department's atomic energy report, said in an address prepared for delivery at an open meeting of the American Library Association's sixty-fifth annual conference:

"To seriously urge that the world rest its hope for eliminating the atomic bomb entirely upon making the bomb illegal—'outlawing' it as the phrase has it—and providing legal machinery for drastic punishment of violations — such a proposition, if sincerely offered is, it seems to me, dewy-eyed, naive and ignorant of the realities of human nature.

"Let me make it clear that this comment is general and not directed specifically to the initial proposals on atomic control made in New York by the Russians day before yesterday, or any other proposals. I refer to the principle itself."

Mr. Lilienthal emphasized that "we are not dealing simply with a military or scientific problem but with a problem in statecraft and the ways of the human spirit."

"Therefore," he said, "the plan must be one that will tend to develop the beneficial possibilities of atomic energy and encourage the growth of fundamental knowledge, stirring the constructive and imaginative impulses of men rather than merely concentrating on the defensive and negative."

food was improperly prepared, fresh food was short and stew was served too often. General Eisenhower was on an inspection tour. Col. W. L. Coughlin, division artillery commander, wrote General Eisenhower the complaint was justified and detailed corrective measures.

General Eisenhower in reply said:

"It is gratifying that your investigation of the facts upheld Corporal Dutton's contention. It has been my experience that there is usually some basis for a soldier's complaint, particularly so in units with the tone and esprit of the First Cavalry Division."

Colonel Coughlin advised that large losses of trained personnel had made maintenance of competent mess crews a problem. He said new men were being trained, mess halls had been remodeled and better equipped, and that rations now issued were "vastly superior."

Corporal Dutton is from Griffin, Ga., and Colonel Coughlin is from Buffalo, N. Y.

Less Saluting By U.S. Soldiers Approved By Patterson

Washington, June 21 (AP)—Less saluting appears in prospect for the American soldier, just when, by coincidence, the Red Army is bearing down more heavily on military courtesy and discipline.

War Department officials reported today that Secretary Patterson has approved a recommendation of the Doolittle "gripe" board that the hand salute be abolished except on army posts, in overseas occupied areas and on special dress occasions.

"Soldier" Term Held Rejected

Patterson was said, however, to have turned thumbs down on another recommendation by the group headed by Lieut. Gen. James H. Doolittle which heard GI postwar complaints about relations between officers and men in the ranks.

This was that the terms "officers" and "enlisted men" be eliminated. All military personnel would be referred to merely as soldiers, under this recommendation.

Formal announcement of Patterson's action on the Doolittle board recommendations is expected next week. Its report has been under study at the War Department since May 27.

Stalin's Order

Any change in United States Army regulations will follow by only a few days Moscow's announcement that Premier Stalin has signed a new order which calls for stricter discipline and observance of military courtesies in the Soviet armed forces.

The Doolittle board referred to Russia's experiment in abolishing rank and privileges following the 1917-18 revolution.

The experiment was later abandoned and the board noted that now the Red Army officer corps enjoys greater prestige and privilege than before and "far more than accorded officers in our Army."

Soldiers in Japan Get Better Rations After Eisenhower Acts on Complaint

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—An Army corporal who complained to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower of poor food being served at his battalion mess in Japan has gotten prompt and effective results on the top level.

The War Department reported today the complaint was found justified, and a series of corrective steps taken which General Eisenhower advised were "most satisfactory."

The corporal is Robert L. Dutton of Battery C, 271st Field Artillery Battalion of the First Cavalry Division stationed at Nikko, Japan. He told the War Department Chief of Staff in response to a question last month that the food was improperly prepared, fresh food was short and stew was served too often. General Eisenhower was on an inspection tour. Col. W. L. Coughlin, division artillery commander, wrote General Eisenhower the complaint was justified and detailed corrective measures.

General Eisenhower in reply said:

"It is gratifying that your investigation of the facts upheld Corporal Dutton's contention. It has been my experience that there is usually some basis for a soldier's complaint, particularly so in units with the tone and esprit of the First Cavalry Division."

Colonel Coughlin advised that large losses of trained personnel had made maintenance of competent mess crews a problem. He said new men were being trained, mess halls had been remodeled and better equipped, and that rations now issued were "vastly superior."

Corporal Dutton is from Griffin, Ga., and Colonel Coughlin is from Buffalo, N. Y.

Poles Get Russ Aid, Spurn U.S. Loan

Washington, June 20 (AP)—Poland's Ambasador Oskar Lange reports that his government is "not very much interested" at present in an American loan since it had received "a very large credit" from Russia.

Lange told reporters yesterday during a call at the State Department.

The Polisk Ambassador said that he believed the Russian credit was considerably more than the $90,000,000 credit which the United States granted and then suspended.

Censorship Issue

Reasons for the suspension were: That Poland had not published the text of the credit agreement in Polish newspapers, that Poland had imposed censorship on press dispatches of foreign correspondents, and that Poland had failed to give the United States adequate information about its trade agreements with other countries, including Russia.

Lange said he was not sure that any total figure for the Soviet credit had been announced. The agreement, he said, includes:

Cancellation of debts incurred in building up the Polish Army during the war;

Additional credits for Poland's peacetime army;

Restoration of losses of gold reserves incurred by Poland;

An open credit account which Poland may use in the world market for purchases of rehabilitation materials.

House To Open Debate On British Loan In July

Washington, June 21 (AP)—Speaker Rayburn (D., Texas) said today opening of House debate on the proposed $3,750,000,000 British loan probably will be delayed until the first week in July.

House consideration of the Senate-approved loan ratification legislation had been set to begin next Monday, but Rayburn said a delay is necessary because of the pressure of appropriation legislation that must be cleared before the beginning of the new fiscal year July 1.

Argentina Bars Export Of Soviet-Bought Oils

Washington, June 21 (AP)—Dean Acheson, Acting Secretary of State, reported today that Argentina has denied export licenses for 9,500 tons of vegetable oils and fats purchased by Russia.

The refusal to allow export of the commodities, Acheson said, is based on the fact that Argentina has a contract with the United States to sell to this country its exportable surpluses of vegetable oils and oil seeds.

However, he explained, the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration is shipping 9,000 tons of oils and fats to Russia from Argentina, presumably having obtained American agreement to the action a sa relief measure.

4 Newsmen Kept Out Of Bulgaria; U.S. Asks Reason

Washington, June 21 (AP)—Dean Acheson, Acting Secretary of State, said today the United States is asking why four American correspondents have been barred by Russia from entering Bulgaria.

Under the Potsdam agreement, he noted, American newsmen are supposed to have the right of access to that country.

The State Department has been informed, Acheson said, that the four were barred from Bulgaria a few days ago, and the department is trying to find out why.

Acheson did not say to whom the inquiries are being directed, but presumably they are going to Soviet military authorities in Sofia as well as to Moscow.

The correspondents who were denied entry into Bulgaria, he told a news conference, are Sam Pope Brewer, of the New York Times; Reuben Markham, of the Christian Science Monitor; Panos Morphopolos, of News-Week, and Constantine Poules, of the Overseas News Agency.

ROMULO HAILS POLICY OF U. S.

JUN 22 1946

Says Philippine Freedom Gives Hope to Orient.

Washington, June 21 (A. P.).—Brig.-Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, resident Commissioner here for the Philippines, today hailed the approaching independence of his home islands as a symbol of hope to freedom-seeking millions in the Orient.

Romulo expressed himself in a farewell address prepared for Congress before departing for Manila to attend the July 4 ceremonies ushering in Philippine independence. He had high praise for the policy the United States has pursued in the Philippines since 1898. It marked the beginning of the end for imperialism, he said, and encouraged the dream of ultimate freedom among colonial peoples.

"We are the messengers of democratic opportunity," he declared for the Filipino people, "and we have transmitted the word of that freedom around the world. . . ."

Speaks to the Orient.

Addressing himself to the "restless millions of the Orient," he proclaimed: "We represent the new spirit of our age—the only spirit that can help you and can hel the world.

"It is the spirit of democratic co-operation, the spirit of civil liberties, education and health and opportunity for all, of progress without bloodshed, of equality before the law. We stand before the world—on July 4, 1946—as the living proof that this spirit is realistic, practical, workable."

Philippine independence, he went on, reflected "glory upon the record of American idealism. You launched a new, a dynamic, a revolutionary idea—an idea as bold and inspiring as the ideals of 1776 and 1789. . . .

Warns of Another Ideology.

"Take heart, oppressed ones of the Orient," Romulo declared. "Freedom is a thing for which you have a right to hope. It can be won. We, your brothers, have achieved it, and we have learned not bitterness, but true friendship toward the western world.

"This is the Filipino message. It is the only message that can prevent a generation of misery and bloodshed throughout the world. The oppressed peoples of the world are rising, and they must make their choice. They can listen to the siren song of another ideology, and if they do, the road ahead will be blocked with conflict. Or they can listen to the wise counsel of democratic opportunity, planted in American hearts, grown and matured (in the United States Congress) within the past half century."

13 BILLIONS FOR FEDERAL AGENCIES O.K.'D

JUN 22 1946

Senate, House Approve Bills Providing Funds For Fiscal Year

Washington, June 21 (AP)—Bills providing more than $13,000,000,000 to run Government agencies in the next fiscal year slid through the Senate and House today in a break of the log-jam piled up ahead of the June 30 deadline.

On voice votes, the Senate approved supply bills for the Navy, Post Office, Treasury, State, Commerce and Justice departments carrying a total of more than $6,000,000,000. All these measures return to the House for action on amendments.

The House passed and sent to the Senate the Army's largest peacetime appropriation in history — $7,091,034,700 — without major change of its Appropriations Committee's recommendations. The amount is $117,172,729 below budget estimates.

The Navy's $4,100,009,100 supply bill passed by the Senate must go back to the House for action on a Senate-added clause aimed at alleged idleness in navy yards and plants and on Senate reductions of $39,708,900 from the House-approved total.

Atomic Service Fund

The navy bill still exceeds the Budget Bureau's estimates of navy needs by $334,610,000.

The Senate added $452,842,000 to the total spending by passage of a bill providing funds for the State, Commerce and Justice departments. It raised again to $19,000,000 the controversial allowance asked by the Secretary of State, James F. Byrnes, for radio broadcasts to foreign countries.

The bill goes back to the House for concurrence on this and other amendments. The House had nearly halved the broadcast allowance to $10,000,000.

The army bill carries $375,000,000 for the Army's atomic service, $350,000,000 for army government and relief in occupied countries, and $1,199,500,000 for the Air Forces.

Voorhis Move Rejected

An effort by Representative Voorhis (D., Cal.) to add $180,000,000 to the Army's foreign relief fund and restore it to the full amount originally requested by the President was rejected by a voice vote.

Likewise rejected was an amendment by Representative Rich (R., Pa.) to chop $100,000,000 from the allotment of the Army's transportation service.

The bill is intended to finance an Army estimated to have a personnel of 1,070,000 officers and men on June 30, 1947.

The Senate adopted, by a 28 to 27 vote, an Appropirations Committee amendment permitting "time studies" in yards and plants, provided that representatives of employé organizations are shown the findings.

Senator Bill's View

Senator Ball (R., Minn.), in supporting the provision, said he had seen men idle in navy yards because "the flow of materials was not organized right."

Senator Magnuson (D., Wash.) said Congress had prohibited such studies in navy yards 30 years ago during a controversy over "speed-up" systems.

Ball asserted time studies have become "an integral part of modern industrial engineering."

After the multibillion-dollar navy bill had passed without a record vote, Senator McMahon (D., Conn.), chairman of the Senate's special atomic energy committee, chided fellow lawmakers for their speedy action.

The Connecticut Senator said he had read all the hearing[s] on the bill, and the Senate report and yet he had "not the slightest idea if this is the correct amount" within one billion dollars.

Challenges Senators

McMahon challenged any other senator to prove that the billions were being spent correctly, adding that no testimony other than "that of the admirals, who always want more money," had been heard.

No attempt was made during House debate to reduce the Army's allotment for the atomic service, which operates the Manhattan District that helped develop the atom bomb.

The Appropriations Committee had boosted the fund from the $200,000,000 recommended by the Budget Bureau to $375,000,000, and the House followed its lead.

Debate was highlighted by a demand from Representative Hendricks (D., Fla.) for retention by the United States of Pacific bases, including one on the mainland of Japan.

Hendricks said he believed the United States should have permanent army or navy bases at Oahu, Guam, Saipan, Tinian, the Philippines, Okinawa, the Marshall Islands, New Caledonia, Manus, the Hawaiians, Attu, Dutch Harbor and Tokyo.

The Tokyo base, he said, should be built and maintained on the plains of Tokyo.

The bill carries funds for permanent construction at bases now held in Alaska, the Marianas, the Philippines, Hawaii and Okinawa.

Anti-Strike Amendments

Both the State and Justice appropriations bills and the Army and the Navy bills as well as a deficiency appropriation bill contained an amendment providing that no monies shall be used to pay any person who engages in a strike against the Government, or who is a member of an organization of Government employés that "asserts the right to strike against the Government," or who advocates, or belongs to any organization advocating the overthrow of the Government by force.

Anyone who accepted Federal pay and then violated the provision would be subject to a fine of $1,000, imprisonment of one year or both.

KEY OFFICERS NAMED BY NEW FOOD COUNCIL

JUN 22 1946

FitzGerald, Of Agriculture Department, To Lead Fight On Famine

Washington, June 21 (AP)—Dr. D. A. FitzGerald, the Agriculture Department's top authority on international food problems, was named secretary general today of a new international agency to fight famine.

With the selection of FitzGerald and other key officers, the International Emergency Food Council finished most of the details of organizing to help the world's hungry people through the next eighteen months.

NIGHT

Native of Canada

FitzGerald, a 43-year-old native of Canada who now is an American citizen, will be the principal figure in the new agency. Nineteen countries have accepted membership and Argentina is expected to come in shortly.

The new secretary told reporters he hopes to avoid "any interruption of the work being done" now to allocate food to starving people. And, he said, "we want to improve it."

Until the Emergency Food Council can take over fully, its predecessor organization, the American-British-Canadian Combined Food Board, will keep on the job.

FitzGerald said the IEFC should be able to assume full responsibility in "a couple of weeks."

Russia Remains Aloof

The emergency council will hunt up food which can be spared in exporting nations and recommend how it shall be split among famine areas. Member nations can accept or reject these recommendations.

Russia is the only big country on the food front staying out of the new council.

L. A. H. Peters, Netherlands representative who will preside as chairman at council meetings, pointed out that no formal refusal to join had come from Russia and said "it has always been the hope of those who work together in this work that Russia will join."

New Famine Relief Agency At Work

Washington, June 21 (AP)—A new international agency set up to obtain food for famished peoples put a nine-nation central committee to work on details today.

Also coming up for action was the nomination of a secretary general to guide the International Emergency Food Council in dividing the world's spare food among needy countries.

TODAY

The 20-nation council was formally organized yesterday to replace the Combined Food Board that the United States, Britain and Canada set up during the war and then kept alive afterward to help meet the famine crisis.

Better Wheat Crop Seen

Even as the first meeting was getting under way, this country's Agriculture Department announced that the United States wheat crop had shown a 7,630,000-bushel improvement during the first half of June. A special report estimated the crop at 1,033,139,000 bushels.

That was still 90,104,000 bushels short of last year's record crop, however, and it was 216,861,000 bushels below the minimum that officials say is required to meet all export and domestic needs without conservation measures at home.

Argentina Joins

Argentina was the twentieth nation to accept membership on the new food council. She was given a place on the central committee. That agency will carry on when the full council is not in session. It will work with committees handling specific commodities, coordinating their work and smoothing out differences.

The Combined Food Board had sixteen commodity committees. One thing to be determined today was whether these should be taken over in whole or in part by the new council. Serving on the central committee with Argentina will be the United States, Britain, Canada, Australia, China, France, Denmark, and India.

The new council, like its predecessor, is authorized only to make recommendations to the various nations on the matter of supplying food to shortage areas. The final decision rests with each supplying country.

Okay Of Draft-Age Compromise Forecast

JUN 22 1946

Washington, June 21 (AP)—The congressional struggle over the peacetime drafting of teen-agers drew near a compromise finish today with 19-year-olds once more subject to call and youths of 18 exempt.

Only the usual House and Senate approval of the hard-fought conference agreement was needed to assure a nine-month extension of selective service beyond the end of this month.

Speaker Rayburn (D., Texas) saw a slight chance that the House would act late today—if two pending bills could be disposed of—but it appeared more likely that the measure would not be reached before Monday or Tuesday.

Short Planning Fight

A floor battle against accepting the compromise was planned by Representative Short (R., Mo.), the only one of the fourteen Senate and House conferees who did not sign the final compromise.

"There is no need at all to extend the wartime draft," Short said. "I am unalterably opposed to taking any teen-agers and I favor holding up all inductions for a few months as previously voted by the House majority."

Despite Short's opposition, congressional leaders expected both the Senate and House to approve the conference report and send it on to the White House wall before June 30, when the present stopgap draft extension expires.

Pay Raise Approved

Along with the draft act extension, the conferees approved a pay raise for all men and officers of all the armed services.

Like exemption of 18-year-olds, the pay raise was a victory for the House conferees who had insisted upon a separate bill.

The Senate originally incorporated pay increases in its draft extension measure and limited them to enlisted personnel; the idea was to attract volunteers and thus reduce the need for drafted men. However, the conferees adapted the House idea of a separate bill, giving a 50 per cent raise to the bottom enlisted grades, and graduated raises for other noncommissioned and commissioned personnel up to generals.

The New Pay Scales

The new pay scales would give army privates and navy apprentice seamen $75 a month instead of the present $50, while generals and admirals would draw $733.33, compared with the present $667.67.

The only important change made in the separate House plan was to increase the raise for army captains and navy lieutenants from ten per cent to fifteen per cent.

Chairman Elbert Thomas (D., Utah) of the Senate Military Committee said the increases would cost $632,000,000 annually.

There was no dispute over fixing top limits of the Army at 1,550,000 on July 1 this year and 1,070,000 the same date next year, with the navy maximum at 558,000 and that of the Marines 108,000 on July 1, 1947.

The compromise measure provides that effective October 1, 1946, eighteen months of service will make a man eligible for discharge, upon application.

It also calls for the release of fathers now in the service, upon application, after August 1, 1946, and no more drafting of fathers.

G. I. SWEETHEARTS MAY BE ADMITTED

JUN 22 1946

Washington, June 21 (AP)—The House passed today legislation to admit to the United States the alien sweethearts of members of the armed forces.

The bill provides that aliens actually engaged to service personnel may enter the United States for three months as visitors, and must be deported if not married at the end of the three months.

Representative Klein (D.-N. Y.), estimated that the bill would admit about 14,000 aliens, principally from Australia.

The House added two amendments to the Senate version. One would require that the American consul in the country from which the alien sweetheart comes be satisfied that a bona fide engagement exists. The other would require that a bond be posted to cover return transportation costs if the marriage does not take place. The bill was returned to the Senate for concurrence in these amendments.

Navy's War Discoveries Available to Libraries

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP).—The Navy announced today the mass of scientific information developed during the war soon will be made available to American colleges "in the largest scale dissemination of scientific information in history."

Some 3,000,000 documents will be assigned to the Library of Congress for sorting and cataloguing, then will be made available to universities and libraries.

Senate Okays Higher Rank For Mark Clark

Washington, June 21 (AP)—Mark W. Clark's permanent promotion to major general won Senate approval late yesterday despite criticism of his abortive attempts to force a crossing of the Rapido River in Italy in 1944.

Senator Connally (D., Texas) cabled his opposition from Paris and Senator O'Daniel (D., Texas) registered his disapproval on the floor before the Senate's voice-vote.

The Texas Senators based their protests on contentions by soldiers of the 36th Division—composed mainly of men from their State—that Clark wasted lives in futile smashes against strong German positions along the Rapido.

Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) said Clark, now top-ranking United States officer in occupied Austria, was doing "an excellent job" there.

Anti-Worry Drug Aids Aphasia

JUN 22 1946

Washington, June 21 (AP)—A worry-chasing drug was credited today with speeding the improvement of some war victims suffering from aphasia.

This is a condition involving loss or impairment of the power to use or understand speech, due to a brain injury.

Capts. Louis Lin and Martin H. Stein, of the Army Medical Corps, report that the use of sodium amytal in treating aphasia produced some encouraging results.

"Gives Brain Needed Rest"

They found that "considerable improvement could be brought about very rapidly, in selected cases, by doses of the relaxation drug" combined with other treatment, they informed Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, the surgeon general.

"Apparently it gives the injured soldier a respite from worry, which is all the brain needs to cure itself," the War Department said in a summary of the report.

"Gives Confidence"

"Apparently all that is accomplished by the sodium amytal—several similar drugs probably would have as good an effect—is to let down temporarily the emotional barriers and give a patient more confidence in himself."

The drug itself does not restore the brain's functioning, it was concluded. This often requires long and patient retraining.

Spending By War Dept. Assailed

Washington, June 21 (AP)—Contending that the Army has sold $327,000,000 worth of surplus food for $138,000,000, Representative Albert J. Engel (R., Mich.) today demanded tighter congressional controls on War Department spending.

Engel made his statement as the House started debate on a $7,091,034,700 War Department appropriation bill for the fiscal year starting July 1.

He called the reported food transaction and handling of the Tripler Hospital construction in Honolulu evidence that Congress should exercise more control over the activities of heavy-spending federal agencies.

Shifted To The UNRRA

The big food supply, Engel said, was turned over by the War Department to the Department of Agriculture, which in turn shifted it to the UNRRA.

Included, he said, were 227,000,000 pounds of meat products, 152,000,000 pounds of peanut butter, apple butter, marmalade, jams and stabilized butter, and nearly 200,000,000 pounds of fruit juices.

The account of the United States with the UNRRA, Engel told the House, was credited with only $138,000,000, which "meant that in addition to our UNRRA obligation we were giving away" at least the difference between $138,000,000 and the $300,000,000 he said was the minimum value of the food after allowing for additional noncommercial items such as K-rations.

Hospital Cost Doubled

Engel also asserted that the Army recently estimated the total cost of the Tripler Hospital at $33,000,000, as against the original estimate of $16,000,000.

Construction changes made since the original plans were drafted, he claimed, provided for more elaborate quarters for officers at the expense of enlisted men's accommodations.

Included, he said, was provision for a $488,300 officers' club.

Cut Is More Than Offset

Despite Engel's complaints, however, indications were that the House would pass the bill—largest peacetime budget in army history—without substantial change.

The Appropriations Committee, of which Engel is a member, has already chopped $150,000,000 from the fund for army government and relief in occupied countries.

Postwar Record Set In New Passenger Cars

Washington, June 21 (AP)—Passenger automobiles rolled off production lines in May at a postwar record rate despite the coal strike.

The Civilian Production Administration today reported 152,948 new cars came out of the factories last month, as compared with 150,206 in April.

However, truck production dropped to 74,650 in May, against 81,882 in the previous month.

CPA said the gain in passenger-car output would have been larger if it had not been for the coal strike "and the resulting scarcity of materials." It added that all manufacturers also were "plagued by materials and parts difficulties because of strikes in suppliers' plants."

CPA said manufacturers were forecasting production of 161,094 passenger cars and 105,362 trucks this month.

PILOT IS MISSING

WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP) The army's 62nd air search and rescue unit appealed today to the newspapers to help find one of its missing pilots and his plane.

The pilot took off Tuesday night from the Middletown, Pa., army airfield on a practice flight. Since then, no trace has been found of the plane—an AT6 advanced trainer.

Ground crews already have been dispatched on a search and planes are awaiting a break in the weather to join in the hunt.

World War I Agency Ready

JUN 22 1946

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP).—A World War I agency is soon to be liquidated, and Representative Walter Norblad, Republican, of Oregon, says it's about time.

Commenting on a $10,000 appropriation to wind up the affairs of the United States Spruce Corporation by Jan. 1, Representative Norblad said it was "absolutely inexcusable that liquidation of the corporation should have taken twenty years."

"The purpose and usefulness of the spruce corporation, which was organized in August, 1918, ended on Armistice Day of that same year," he said. "It was the sole purpose of this corporation to provide spruce lumber for aircraft of the United States and our allies during the first world war."

Representative Norblad made his remarks during consideration of the government corporations appropriation bill in the House.

PRICE LAWS SET BY CONFEREES

JUN 22 1946

OPA Bill Shapers Consider Removing Certain Controls Entirely.

WASHINGTON, June 21—(AP) Congress members working the OPA bill into final shape approved a provision today revising price ceilings to cover higher manufacturing costs and then took up the question of removing certain controls entirely.

NIGHT

The senate-house conference committee adopted with some modification the amendment by Senator Taft (R-Ohio) which requires that price ceilings for manufacturers must be high enough to cover their 1941 price plus the average cost increases in their industry since then.

Actual Money Increase

The modification stipulates that the resulting price increases passed along to wholesalers, retailers and consumers shall be only the actual money increase not the percentage increase. For example, if a manufacturer gained a 10 per cent increase on a $100 product so that his price to the wholesaler became $110, then the wholesaler could raise his price to the retailer by $10—not by 10 per cent.

However, in industries where the OPA allows wage markups and discounts, the ceiling would be computed either under these allowances or under the new amendment, whichever would give the higher price.

So-called "reconversion items" such as automobiles, which were not manufactured during the war because of government restrictions, would not be affected by the amendment. They are covered under other provisions of the bill which the committee has not reached.

Changes Are Certain

The amendment appeared certain, however, to require the OPA to make wholesale changes of price ceilings. Stabilization Director

Chester Bowles assailed it in its original form as "a delayed action bomb" and termed it one of the "most dangerous" in the bill.

The conference committee's action was taken upon the recommendation of a five-member sub-committee which considered the senate's Taft amendment and the House's Wolcott amendment. The latter, by Representative Wolcott (R-Mich) would have stipulated that manufacturers' ceilings must reflect current cost plus "a reasonable profit."

After acting on this feature, the conference committee passed on to consideration of the provisions voted by the senate which would remove price controls from meat, milk, butter, cheese and poultry. Bowles declared these "so obviously disastrous that I am confident that they will be eliminated."

The committee quit for the day without reaching a decision on these provisions. Senate Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky), one of the conferees, expressed hope that final agreement on an "acceptable" bill might be reached tomorrow.

"Whether we can do that is problematical," he told reporters, "but I think we can."

PROFITS PLAN IS AGREED ON FOR OPA BILL

JUN 22 1946

Conferees Accept What Is Said to Be Modification of Taft Proposal.

MURRAY CALLS ON TRUMAN

C. I. O. Leader Asks President to Lead in Preserving Strong Price Agency.

Washington, June 21 (A.P.).—Senate - House conferees on OPA extension agreed today on a formula for setting manufacturers' profit margins and passing increased costs along to the consumer. It was a modified version of the Taft amendment, which Stabilization Director Chester Bowles has called a "delayed action bomb" that will "explode in an unending stream of higher prices all across the board."

As the agreement was reported from behind closed doors, Philip Murray, president of the C. I. O., went to the White House to urge President Truman to take the leadership in the "preservation of a decent, strong OPA."

"We want a resolution that will continue an effective OPA," Murray told reporters after seeing the President, "to stabilize prices and to protect the interest of the American people."

A reporter said: "We are told that if price control is extended without emasculation, labor will not advance any new wage goals."

Murray termed that report "erroneous," but did not elaborate.

In response to questions, the C. I. O. leader said he had not been approached by Bowles or other administration chiefs about giving a no-strike pledge in exchange for effective price controls.

Amendment Held Secret.

Copies of the Senate-House amendment were withheld from the press, in line with the conference committee's secrecy policy, and the chairman, Representative Spence (D.-Ky.), would not even admit that an agreement had been reached. From other sources, however, it was learned that the revised provision shapes up like this:

Manufacturers' ceilings would have to reflect their prices in the base period, October 1-15, 1941, plus the weighted average increase in unit costs throughout the industry in question. The amount of the increase, in dollars, would be passed on in turn to wholesalers, retailers and consumers, without pyramiding.

There would be this exception: where the OPA has allowed an industry percentage markups or discounts, the ceiling could be computed either way, whichever gave the higher price.

The amendment does not affect automobiles, household appliances and farm machinery, which are covered by other provisions still under discussion.

JUN 22 1946

But 10 Days Left For Conferees To Agree On OPA

Washington, June 21 (AP)—Ten days before OPA's scheduled death date, Senate and House conferees still have to make their first decision on widely different extension bills passed by their respective chambers.

Representative Spence (D., Ky.), chairman of the joint committee, held out a final hope of final agreement today. But Senator Taft (R., Ohio) said he didn't think there was a chance, because so many important votes remain to be taken.

In two days of morning and afternoon sessions, the committee simply has gone through both bills and engaged in general discussions, the chairman said.

"I think we are getting closer together, and are in the way of agreeing on some things," he said.

Stabilization Director Chester Bowles's blast yesterday against both the House and Senate bills was discussed briefly in the conference but did not appear to have influenced any votes, members said.

Rationing Powers Extended By Senate

Washington, June 21 (AP)—A nine-months extension of the broad powers the Government now has to allocate and ration commodities was approved today by the Senate.

Without a record vote, it passed legislation continuing in modified form, until March 31, 1947, the Second War Powers Act of 1942. On this act rests the Government's authority to ration commodities in short supply and establish priorities on their purchase.

The measure, already passed by the House, must return there for action on a Senate amendment stipulating that nothing in it is to be construed as granting authority to establish price ceilings. This authority is in the OPA Act, extension of which is now before a Senate-House committee.

Meat Shortage in Nation 'Worse Than During War'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A general nationwide shortage of meat "worse than at any time during the war" was reported last night by spokesmen for the meat packing industry.

They said there were "no prospects of the situation improving in the near future."

One asserted that "the consumers' supply of meat in legitimate channels throughout the nation is lower than at any time in the country's history."

Scores of packing plants have drastically curtailed operations because of inability to purchase cattle under OPA compliance restrictions, they said.

The shortage was reflected by nearly empty pens at large stockyards and at packinghouse plants.

One World-Wide Red Cross Setup Urged By Swedish Unit's Head

JUN 22 1946

Philadelphia, June 21 (AP)—Red Cross activities of all nations in the world should be combined into one international organization, Count Folke Bernadotte, president of the Swedish Red Cross maintains.

Bernadotte, in an address to the twenty-first annual convention of the American Red Cross last night, also recommended that the international convention relating to treatment of sick and wounded be made uniform so as to apply to all prisoners, military as well as civilian.

Two Groups Independent

He said that two international groups, the International Red Cross Committee and the League of Red Cross Societies, now function wholly independent of the other.

"An investigation ought to be made now as to whether a change would be advisable in the leading Red Cross organizations with regard to their further co-operation, working program and tasks," he asserted.

"My personal opinion is that from the standpoint of the national Red Cross societies and from a practical point of view the best thing would be if there were only one chief organization."

However, the Swedish leader admitted that "at least for the time being, we had better count on two leading organizations" and forget consolidation.

The League of Red Cross Societies is the principal organization engaged in national peace activities, such as social-service work. The International Red Cross Committee consists entirely of Swiss citizens.

"According to my opinion," Bernadotte told some 4,000 delegates, "at least some members (of the International Red Cross Committee) ought to be non-Swiss citizens."

Admits Question Is Touchy One

"I know I am touching off a spark by such a suggestion. I have, however, discussed the matter with the president of the International Committee and he has promised me that the question can be discussed at the meeting in Geneva in July of this year."

Former United States Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts told the convention that a world state was an absolute necessity if a third World War is to be averted.

"I hope the Red Cross will not be called to pick up the pieces of another World War," Roberts asserted.

Earlier, Philip E. Ryan, national director of civilian relief overseas, reported that the American Red Cross had spent more than $170,000,000 to aid war victims since 1939.

Ryan said that since V-E day the Red Cross has distributed more than 13,000,000 surplus prisoner-of-war packages to Europe's displaced persons at the request of the American Military Government, besides making and releasing 34,000,000 new garments to the DP's.

Army Plane Sets New World Speed Records

Dayton, Ohio, June 21 (AP)—A standard-engined Army B-29 bomber smashed three international speed records and established two more today by flying 5,000 kilometers with a payload of 10,000 kilograms at an average speed of 265 miles per hour.

The plane flew the 3,105 miles from Wright Field to Tucson, Ariz., and back in 11 hours and 42 minutes. In American weight, the payload was 22,040 pounds.

NEW JET PLANE LAB DEDICATED

JUN 22 1946

Center Built By General Electric At Schenectady

Schenectady, N.Y., June 21 (AP)—A new flight test center devoted primarily to jet propulsion was dedicated today at Schenectady County Airport with pleas for continued progress in aviation development through co-ordination of effort.

The new laboratory was built by the General Electric Company for further work with its radial and axial type turbine engines, such as are used in several American fighter planes and which will power the multiengined bombers now being built in several aircraft plants.

Two-Day Air Show

A brief speaking program opened a two-day dedication air show, but much of the flight program was postponed because of bad weather over New York city. A huge aerial parade planned for today appeared likely to be possible Saturday noon, with improved weather in prospect.

James H. Doolittle, famed leader of wartime bombing offensives who retired from a lieutenant generalship to return to private industry, told several hundred guests at the dedication that America's aeronautical research lacked coordination. He urged assignment of special jobs to each of the major organizations in that field.

The new laboratory is unusual in that most of the work will be in the air, largely at out-of-sight altitudes. New types of turbine engines are installed in B-29's and B-24's and given test operations while in flight, with performance measurements made by technicians inside the flying laboratories.

Tests Under Actual Conditions

Engineers say that this method—already in use for testing tiny models of new aircraft designs or sections of them—has the advantage not only of saving the cost of expensive wind tunnels, but also of making the tests under the actual conditions in which the new engines must operate.

Weather permitting the first jet-propelled air mail in the United States will carry 15,500 letters from Schenectady to Washington, Dayton, Ohio, and Chicago tomorrow afternoon.

In addition, about 20,000 letters will be given a short jet-plane flight over the airport and marked as collectors' items.

Letter To Truman

A Lockheed P-80 Shooting Star is scheduled to take off at noon Saturday with a letter for President Truman from W. Stuart Symington, Assistant Secretary of War for Air.

Another P-80 will leave for Dayton with a letter from Charles E. Wilson, General Electric Company president, to Lieut. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, commanding the Air Materiel Command at Dayton. There the plane will pick up a letter from Twining to Mayor Edward J. Kelly, of Chicago.

Each plane will have 750 additional letters addressed to collectors.

JOHN G. WINANT, U.S. DELEGATE SPOKE AGAINST THE RUSSIAN MOVE, DECLARING IF IT WERE ACCEPTED THE COUNCIL WOULD GIVE TO A NON-GOVERNMENTAL GROUP GREATER REPRESENTATION ON THE COUNCIL THAN THAT OF MEMBERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS WHO DID NOT HAVE SEATS ON THE COUNCIL.

"THAT IS NOT WISE GOVERNMENTAL ACTION," WINANT SAID.

ALEXANDRE PARODI, FRENCH DELEGATE, SAID HE AGREED WITH THE SPIRIT OF THE RUSSIAN PROPOSAL BUT HE OFFERED AN AMENDMENT MAKING THE CONSULTATION MORE ELASTIC. HE SUGGESTED THAT SUCH GROUPS AS THE WFTU MAY ON THE DEMAND OF THE COUNCIL OR UPON THE GROUP DEMAND, WITH THE APPROVAL OF THE COUNCIL PRESIDENT, SPEAK IN COUNCIL MEETINGS.

NEW YORK, JUNE 21-(AP)-SECRETARY-GENERAL TRYGVE LIE OF THE UNITED NATIONS SAID TONIGHT THAT "NO DECISIONS WHATEVER HAVE BEEN MADE WITH RESPCT TO" REORGANIZATION OF THE SECRETARIAT OF THE UNITED NATIONS.

THE NEW YORK TIMES SAID TODAY THAT LIE WOULD REORGANIZE HIS "CABINET" WITHIN THE NEXT FEW WEEKS AND THAT IT WAS UNDERSTOOD THAT JOHN B. HUTSON, ASSISTANT SECRETARY-GENERAL IN CHARGE OF ADMINISTRATIVE AND FINANCIAL SERVICES, WOULD LEAVE THE U.N.

LIE'S STATEMENT:

"PUBLISHED REPORTS CONCERNING SHIFTS IN THE PERSONNEL OF THE SECRETARIAT OF THE UNITED NATIONS ARE WHOLLY PREMATURE. NO DECISIONS WHATEVER HAVE BEEN MADE WITH RESPECT TO CHANGES OF THIS KIND. SOME REALIGNMENT OF THE STAFF MAY, OF COURSE, BE NECESSARY AT ANY TIME IN ORDER TO EVOLVE THE MOST EFFECTIVE ORGANIZATION, BUT NO DECISIONS HAVE BEEN TAKEN AND THE STATUS OF ALL MEMBERS OF THE STAFF REMAINS PRECISELY THE SAME AS IT HAS BEEN UP TO NOW. IF AND WHEN CHANGES ARE DECIDED UPON, THEY WILL BE ANNOUNCED."

DY1058PED

WINANT POINTED OUT IN OPPOSING THE SOVIET AMENDMENTS THAT, IF THEY WERE ADOPTED, THE WFTU WOULD HAVE MORE RIGHTS IN THE COUNCIL MEETINGS THAN GOVERNMENTS WHICH ARE MEMBERS OF THE UNITED NATIONS BUT ARE NOT REPRESENTED ON THE COUNCIL.

AFTER THE COUNCIL VOTED DOWN A COMPROMISE PROPOSAL OFFERED BY FRANCE, IT UNANIMOUSLY ADOPTED THE COMMITTEE'S DRAFT REPORT COVERING THE WHOLE QUESTION OF RELATIONS WITH NON-GOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATIONS. ADD NEW YORK (UN-UNES) XXX Czech. (HAYRE LSON)

WINANT THEN PROPOSED THAT THE INTERNATIONAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE BE GIVEN THE SAME CONSULTATION RIGHTS AS THE WFTU AND SUCH ORGANIZATIONS. HALF WOULD BE EARMARKED FOR FRANCE AND HALF FOR EXPORT TO OTHER BUYERS.

MALAY GROWERS, WHO PRODUCED 620,000 TO 650,000 TONS ANNUALLY BEFORE THE WAR, WERE ENCOURAGED BY THE DECISION TO PERMIT FREE PURCHASING BY AMERICA UP TO THE MAXIMUM OF ALLOCATION OF THE COMBINED RUBBER COMMITTEE, AND BY THE BRITISH GUARANTEE TO REMAIN CONSTANTLY IN THE MARKET TO BUY ADDITIONAL RUBBER AT THE AGREED PRICE. NIGHT LEAD FOREIGN MINISTERS

BY JOSEPH EVRAN

PARIS, JUNE 21-(AP)-THE FOUR-POWER FOREIGN MINISTERS CONFERENCE TOOK UP AGAIN TODAY THE KEY QUESTION OF TRIESTE, BUT ADJOURNED DISCUSSION AFTER TWO HOURS WITHOUT DECISION, AN AMERICAN INFORMANT SAID.

TWO HOURS LATER, SOVIET FOREIGN MINISTER V.M. MOLOTOV, HIS DEPUTY ANDREI VISHINSKY AND INTERPRETER VLADIMIR PAVLOV ARRIVED AT THE AMERICAN DELEGATION HOTEL FOR AN INTIMATE DINNER WITH U.S. SECRETARY OF STATE JAMES F. BYRNES, STATE DEPARTMENT COUNSELLOR BEN COHEN, AND THEIR ADVISOR, CHARLES BOHLEN.

THIS DINNER PARTY IN BYRNES' PRIVATE SUITE WAS NOTED AS THE PROBABLE SCENE OF A FRANK FACE-TO-FACE PARLEY BY TWO OF THE CHIEF FIGURES IN THE CONFERENCE, PERHAPS LEADING TO A MUTUALLY SATISFACTORY SOLUTION OF TOUGH ITEMS IN THE PROJECTED PEACE TREATIES. (INSERT)

AMERICAN OFFICIALS SAID THE DINNER WAS PLANNED SEVERAL DAYS AGO AND IT WAS ONLY A COINCIDENCE THAT IT FELL ON THE DAY THE CONFERENCE TOOK UP THE QUESTION OF TRIESTE--REGARDED AS THE KEY TO FOUR-POWER AGREEMENT ON EUROPEAN PEACE.

ALL THE DELEGATIONS, HOWEVER, APPEARED TO REGARD THE DINNER AS MORE THAN A NORMAL EXCHANGE OF DIPLOMATIC COURTESIES. THE CONFERENCE ADJOURNED AFTER ONLY TWO HOURS BECAUSE IT WAS EXPLAINED THAT THE OTHER MINISTERS REALIZED MOLOTOV WAS SEEING BYRNES TONIGHT.

AT THE SESSION, THE SHORTEST TO DATE, THE MINISTERS IN A GENERAL EXCHANGE OF VIEWS ON TRIESTE SIMPLY RESTATED THEIR RESPECTIVE POSITIONS. THESE HAD NOT CHANGED SINCE THE APRIL-MAY SESSIONS, AMERICAN SOURCES SAID.

NO NEW PROPOSAL WAS FORMALLY INTRODUCED REGARDING THE ITALO-YUGOSLAV FRONTIER, AND TWO PROPOSED BORDER LINES, THE FRENCH AND SOVIET, REMAINED BEFORE THE CONFERENCE, THESE SOURCES SAID.

A13

THE ISSUES WERE FREELY DISCUSSED FROM ALL ANGLES, BUT INFORMANTS DECLINED TO DISCLOSE WHETHER ANY NEW IDEAS, SUCH AS INTERNATIONALIZATION OF TRIESTE, HAD BEEN INJECTED INTO THE TALKS.

AMERICAN SOURCES EMPHASIZED THAT THE MINISTERS WERE ONLY MIDWAY IN THEIR EXAMINATION OF TRIESTE, AND WOULD CONTINUE THE DISCUSSIONS, PERHAPS AT THEIR NEXT MEETING TOMORROW (10 A.M., EASTERN STANDARD TIME.).

BYRNES MADE NO NEW APPROACH TO THE FRONTIER QUESTION, AMERICAN SOURCES SAID.

ORIGINALLY THE UNITED STATES FAVORED A LINE MUCH TO THE EAST, GIVING TRIESTE AND MOST OF THE ISTRIAN PENINSULA TO ITALY. THE BRITISH FAVORED A LINE ONLY SLIGHTLY LESS TO THE EAST. LATER BOTH APPROVED THE FRENCH LINE WHICH WOULD GIVE TRIESTE TO ITALY BUT MOST OF ISTRIA TO YUGOSLAVIA.

THE RUSSIANS WANT THE LINE MUCH TO THE WEST, GIVING TRIESTE, ITS HINTERLAND AND THE ISTRIAN PENINSULA TO YUGOSLAVIA.

TOKYO, JUNE 21-(AP)-EDWIN W.PAULEY, U.S. REPARATIONS COMMISSIONER, RETURNED TODAY FROM INSPECTION TRIPS INTO NORTHERN KOREA AND MANCHURIA, LEAVING HALF OF HIS MISSION IN MANCHURIA TO COMPLETE INSPECTION OF "A FEW PLANTS" IN NATIONALIST-HELD TERRITORY AND SOME PLANTS IN THE COMMUNIST ZONE. HE EXPECTED THE TOUR OF THOSE AREAS WOULD START SHORTLY.

PAULEY REITERATED HIS PREVIOUS REPORT THAT THERE WAS NO SUBSTANTIAL REMOVAL OF MACHINERY OR EQUIPMENT FROM THE RUSSIAN OCCUPIED AREAS OF NORTH KOREA WHICH HE HAD BEEN PERMITTED TO VISIT.

HE HAD BEEN FORBIDDEN TO ENTER NORTHEASTERN KOREA, HE ADDED, WHERE SOVIET AUTHORITIES OFFERED NO GUARANTEE OF SAFETY DUE TO HEAVY TROOP MOVEMENTS AND DEMOBILIZATION.

IN CONTRAST TO KOREA, THERE WAS "VERY LARGE REMOVAL" OF PROPERTY FROM MANCHURIA, PAULEY ASSERTED. THIS INCLUDED POWER PLANTS, STEEL PRODUCING CAPACITY, ALUMINUM PLANTS, STEEL ROLLING EQUIPMENT, MACHINE TOOLS AND A CHEMKICAL PLANT INSTALLATIONS.

PAULEY AND A GROUP OF HIS ASSISTANTS EMPLANE EARLY SATURDAY FOR FORMOSA. FROM THERE THEY GO TO MANILA AND THEN TO BERLIN AND PARIS TO MAKE A FIRST HAND REPORT TO AMERICAN SECRETARY OF STATE BYRNES AT THE FOREIGN MINISTERS' CONFERENCE.

ABOARD USS APPALACHIAN, ENROUTE TO BIKINI, JUNE 21-(AP)-THIS PRESS SHIP FOR THE ATOMIC BOMB TESTS, ONE OF THE WAR'S SECRETS WHEN SHE WAS BUILT IN BROOKLYN IN 1943, IS THE GREATEST FLOATING RADIO STATION IN THE WORLD.

BARRING UNEXPECTEDLY BAD ATMOSPHERIC CONDITIONS, HER WIRELESS WILL BE ABLE TO POUR 20,000 WORDS AN HOUR INTO SAN FRANCISCO FOR NEWSPAPERS, GOING BY QUICK RELAY TO ALL THE UNITED STATES AND TO ALL THE WORLD'S MAJOR NATIONS.

INCLUDING RADAR, SHE HAS MORE THAN 200 ANTENNAE AND LOOKS LIKE A CROSS BETWEEN A PIN CUSHION AND A CACTUS. ANTENNAE LENGTHS RANGE FROM ONE FOOT TO MORE THAN 200 FEET. SOME LOOK LIKE ROOSTERS ON WEATHER VANES; SOME LIKE STAR FISH, HORNED TOADS, ICE CREAM CONES, BED SPRINGS, ULTRA MODERN EASTER BONNETS, AND HALOES.

JUN 22 1946

THERE ARE MANY WHICH RESEMBLE COMMON WHIP ANTENNAE USED ON AUTOMOBILES, EXCEPT THAT THESE ARE UP TO 50 FEET TALL.

THERE ARE CABLE ANTENNAE, THE LONGEST MORE THAN 200 FEET; AND THERE ARE ROPE-LIKE ANTENNAE THAT HANG STRAIGHT DOWN.

SOME OF THE ANTENNAE SHAPES REVOLVE--BIG ONES, WITH THE EFFECT OF A MEAN MAN STICKING OUT HIS JAW, AND LITTLE ONES THAT ALMOST SPIN LIKE DANCERS.

THE FOUNDATION FOR ALL THIS IS 459 FEET 2 1/2 INCHES OF SHIP LENGTH AND 63 FEET 10 INCHES OF BREADTH, PACKING 12,500 TONS OF WEIGHT. (THE APPALACHIAN AND HER SISTER SHIPS--THERE WERE QUITE A FEW IN ACTION BEFORE THE WAR ENDED--WERE BUILT FROM CARGO SHIP HULLS.)

CONTROL AND OPERATION ROOMS NUMBER 16, DISTRIBUTED OVER SIX DECKS (SIX STORIES). OPERATION IS BY MORE THAN 80 MEN, THE LARGEST SINGLE DIVISION OF THE APPALACHIAN'S CREW. THIS IS THE GROUP UPON WHOSE SKILL TRANSMISSION OF THE ATOMIC BOMB STORY DEPENDS. HEADING THEM IS LT. RAY DEWEY (DISTANT COUSIN TO THE LATE, GREAT ADMIRAL) OF SAN DIEGO, KNOWN ALSO AS SIMON LEGREE.

HE IS SHORT, SLENDER, WIRY AND DARK, WITH A DARK MOUSTACHE. HE AND HIS CREW HAVE A RECORD OF COMING THROUGH IN THE PINCHES. IN THE WAR, DEWEY ONCE WAS SENT TO BRAZIL TO BUILD THREE RADIO STATIONS. THERE WAS NO WAX TO WATERPROOF CABLE SPLICES. DEWEY SIMPLY ROUNDED UP ALL THE CANDLES FROM A NEARBY CHURCH AND MADE HIS OWN WAX.

HE ACQUIRED THE NICKNAME SIMON LEGREE ON THIS CRUISE BECAUSE AS COMMUNICATIONS OFFICER HE HAS THE JOB OF TELLING WRITERS ON BOARD WHAT PERSONAL MESSAGES THEY MAY AND MAY NOT SEND. FRIVOLOUS MESSAGES ARE OUT, AND DEWEY MUST DECIDE.

ASSISTING HIM WITH RADIO OPERATIONS ARE CHIEF RADIO ELECTRICIANS R. W. MILLER, SAN DIEGO, AND P. E. TIBBITTS, OAKLAND, CALIF.

THE INVISIBLE LINES STREAMING FROM THE APPALACHIAN'S ANTENNAE TO THE MAINLAND 4,000 MILES AWAY INCLUDE 30 FREQUENCIES (CHANNELS) FOR VOICE BROADCASTING, 30 MORE FOR PRESS WIRELESS, AND ONE FOR PICTURES.

THE APPALACHIAN WILL TRANSMIT NOT ONLY THE FILES OF MORE THAN 100 WRITERS ON HER OWN DECKS, BUT ALSO THOSE OF WRITERS ON VICE ADMIRAL W.H.P.BLANDY'S FLAGSHIP, THE USS MT. MCKINLEY (A SISTER SHIP); AND ON THE PANAMINT, CARRYING SCIENTISTS, CONGRESSIONAL AND UNITED NATIONS OBSERVERS.

SHE WILL ALSO RELAY MESSAGES RECEIVED FROM PLANES; AND WILL RECEIVE TELEVISION COMING FROM CAMERAS IN THE BIKINI LAGOON AND FROM DRONE PLANES APPROACHING THE BOILING HOT CLOUD OF THE ATOMIC EXPLOSION.

THE NEAREST PREVIOUS APPROACH TO HER HUGE TASK WAS HANDLED BY THE BATTLESHIP USS IOWA LAST SEPT. 2--THE DAY JAPAN'S SURRENDER WAS SIGNED IN TOKYO BAY. THE CEREMONY WAS ABOARD THE USS MISSOURI, BUT THE IOWA HANDLED THE FLOW OF PRESS COPY.

IN CHARGE OF ALL HEADACHES IS THE APPALACHIAN'S MASTER, CAPT. JOSEPH B. RENN, OF NEW ALBANY, IND. OVER PRESS, RADIO AND WRITERS IS CAPT. FITZHUGH LEE, CHEVY CHASE, MD., WHO COMMANDED THE ESCORT CARRIER MANILA BAY IN THE LEYTE BATTLE WITH THE JAPANESE FLEET, AND LATER COMMANDED NAVAL PUBLIC RELATIONS AT ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS, GUAM.

PRESS OFFICER IS LT. COL. JOHN F. MOYNAHAN, OF THE NEWARK, N.J., EVENING NEWS. HE WAS THE MANHATTAN DISTRICT PRESS OFFICER WHEN THE ATOMIC BOMB PROJECT WAS THE WORLD'S BEST KEPT SECRET. ASSISTING HIM IS LT. CMDR. DAN E. CLARK, PALO ALTO, CALIF.

HEADING THE RADIO SECTION IS CMDR. R. D. THOMPSON, NORTH HOLLYWOOD, CALIF., ON LEAVE FROM THE NATIONAL BROADCASTING COMPANY. CMDR. E. C. CALLAHAN, SAN LEANDRO, CALIF., ALSO ON LEAVE FROM NBC, IS HIS ASSISTANT.

CMDR. C. W. CHISHOLM, MINNEAPOLIS, IS ASSISTANT WITH PRESS COMMUNICATIONS, AND MAJ. Y. MCASTEREN OF NEW YORK CITY IS IN CHARGE OF PICTURES. CMDR. L. C. JULIAN, WASHINGTON, D.C., IS ADMINISTRATIN OFFICER FOR PRESS AND RADIO.

AGAIN MAKES CLAIM BIG 4 BEHIND IN WORK

JUN 23 1946

Feels More Time Required —Molotov to Size Up Progress Next Week

Paris, June 22—(AP)—Russia rejected today another American attempt to convoke the general European peace conference July 15 on grounds that the Conference of Foreign Ministers was not yet far enough along in its work, an American informant said.

The ministers then decided to set next Friday as a deadline for work on the Italian and Balkan treaties, and to speed up their activities by meeting twice daily instead of once.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov said he would be ready at the end of next week to size up the council's progress to date, French informants added.

U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes appealed to the ministers to send out invitations now to the 21-nation peace conference, to keep in session right up to July 15 if necessary, and to let the larger conference pass on any differences which still remained, British and American sources said.

Byrnes declared that the ministers were so near agreement on peace treaties that there could be no harm in sending out invitations now, an American source said.

Byrnes told the ministers that if they could not agree on the treaties they should admit their failures and let someone else take over—the larger peace conference or the United Nations Assembly, the American informant said.

Trieste Issue Avoided

By tacit consent the conference did not consider the keystone question of Trieste and the Italo-Yugoslav frontier at today's session, which was devoted mainly to issues of procedure, informants said.

It was believed that the ministers were awaiting further developments in Washington and Moscow on last night's private dinner talks between Byrnes and Molotov, which were followed today by a transatlantic telephone conversation between Byrnes and President Truman. Molotov was expected to consult with Moscow.

Byrnes, reiterating arguments advanced at the council's April-May sessions, proposed that the ministers convoke now a general European peace conference for July 15. He declared that time was short and if they delayed too long there would be no peace conference at all.

British sources said the Molotov objected that it was still too soon, that the ministers had not yet agreed on any peace treaty drafts which would form the basis of a peace conference discussion.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin asserted that the conference should speed up its work so that these treaty drafts would be ready in time. He said the ministers should finish their examination of the proposed treaties with Italy and the Balkans by next Friday, June 28.

Molotov Agrees

Molotov concurred and the ministers then agreed to instruct their deputies to draw up an agenda for this goal, beginning Monday morning with the Italo-Austrian frontier, the Franco-Italian frontier, and the Italian fleet disposal issues.

Byrnes declared the ministers could not keep on passing disputed items indefinitely, and that the conference might as well agree to issuing invitations now to the other 17 nations for July 15.

The secretary added he hoped there was still enough time to agree upon the outstanding points in treaties with Italy, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, and Finland, and circulate the drafts to the other nations by July 15.

Even if the drafts were not completed the ministers were so near accord there could be no harm in sending out the invitations at this time, Byrnes added, the American informants said.

Byrnes pointed out that if the peace conference were delayed too long it would conflict with the United Nations General Assembly in September. Bevin supported Byrnes, but urged waiting until the end of next week to assay the conference's efforts, then fix a date for the general peace conference.

Deputies Working Today

The deputies will work tomorrow on the Monday agenda for the ministers.

British quarters said the deputies had agreed in principle to clauses in the Italian treaty on war criminals and pre-war bilateral treaties which could also be applied to other treaties with Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary.

Under these the four ambassadors in Rome would act as a commission to supervise arrest and delivery of suspected war criminals by Italy, and Allied nations would be given six months to list their pre-war treaties with Italy which they wished to maintain in force.

As the ministers met for today's informal session a spokesman for the British Foreign Office in London acknowledged that some precautionary troop movements may have taken place in the Trieste area, but he described as "nonsense" Yugoslav reports that the present zonal demarcation line would be shifted eastward.

Denies Border Rumor

The foreign office spokesman declared he was authorized to deny there was any intention to move the line nine kilometers (5½ miles) toward Yugoslavia, as charged by Tanjug, the Yugoslav press agency. He said Britain denied categorically that any Chetniks were in American uniform among the British - American occupation troops.

The charges and denial underlined the gravity of the Trieste issue. In Rome the Italian cabinet appealed to the conference not to take any action on the matter "which the new Italian democracy, set up as a republic, will absolutely be unable to accept."

There was speculation that the four powers might decide to postpone a Trieste decision for a year, as they did on the question of disposition of the Italian colonies. Some believed, however, that the Russians want the American and British troops removed from Venezia Giulia and would oppose such a step.

There has been no indication as yet of a change from the previously announced stands on Trieste—Soviet insistence that the Adriatic port be given to Yugoslavia and the American-British-French position that it should go to Italy.

This morning the deputy foreign ministers re-examined naval clauses of the projected treaty with Italy and instructed a subcommittee of experts to prepare a report by Monday on the division of the Italian naval units.

Although there was no immediate indication of what went on across the table, it was believed probable that a frank discussion of deadlocked matters was held by Byrnes and Molotov.

The council yesterday began its examination of the Trieste question with a general restatement of views of each minister. These were found to be the same as when the council recessed without agreement last month, with Russia demanding the disputed port city for Yugoslavia and the western Powers claiming it for Italy.

American spokesmen said, however, the subject was discussed freely. They added that no new formal proposals were made, but declined to say whether any compromise was informally suggested.

British spokesmen said that Byrnes had been forced to agree to demands of other ministers that "informal" sessions of the conference be kept secret. American informants promised, however, to make known all agreements and all deadlocks.

[Byrnes called President Truman by trans-Atlantic telephone at 9:15 A. M. today and talked to him for five minutes, reporting on the progress of the Paris meeting. The White House said that Mr. Truman was at his desk when the call came. Byrnes had been reporting daily by cable up to now. Officials would not say what he reported on today.]

Some Troops Near Trieste Moved

JUN 23 1946

London, June 22 (AP)—A spokesman for the British Foreign Office acknowledged today that there have been some precautionary troop movements in the area of Trieste occupied by British and American troops.

But he said Yugoslav reports that the Morgan Line of demarcation would be moved 5 miles eastward were "nonsense."

The Yugoslav press said yesterday American and British concentrations were taking place near the demarcation line in disputed Venezia Giulia, that two British armored divisions were on the move and that extensive military preparations were taking place.

Slav Reports Resented

The spokesman said Britain denied categorically that any Chetniks or stachi were among the British-American units in American uniform.

Britain, he continued, "very much resented" the assertions of the official Yugoslav news agency Tanjug that civil police in Trieste were linked with "Fascist elements." The police, he said, had put forth a very creditable performance, "especially in view of the provocations put forth by Slovene groups in Yugoslavia."

Because of general activities of a provocative nature, he continued, it was considered advisable to maintain military forces capable of dealing with any contingency.

Big Four Tackle Trieste Again

JUN 23 1946

Problem Believed Discussed at Dinner Given by Byrnes for Molotov.

J. DYNAN

Paris, June 22 (A. P.).—The Big Four Foreign Ministers tackled the Trieste issue again today, while diplomats sought some indication as to whether a solution of the problem had been reached at an intimate dinner attended last night by members of the Russian and United States delegations.

It was generally conceded that settlement of Trieste and the Italian-Yugoslavia frontier would lead to agreement on fundamentals of projected peace treaties with Italy, the Balkans and Finland.

Secretary of State Byrnes was host at last night's dinner, in the American delegation hotel, for Russian Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, his deputy, Andrei J. Vishinsky, and Interpreter Vladimir Pavlov.

LABOR PARTY WORKS ON TWO 5-YEAR PLANS

JUN 23 1946

Moves Britain Slowly Toward Socialism—U. S. Slump Feared

By GLEN WILLIAMS

London, June 22—(AP)—The pattern of Britain's socialism, already planned as far as nine years in advance, has emerged as a cautious welding of state ownership and more-or-less controlled private enterprise.

The avowed objective of the Labor Party is a full socialist state with national ownership of all means of production. Gradual accomplishment of that goal might take a quarter of a century—or even longer—at the pace set so far. Enough of the major steps, have been planned for the first ten years, however, that the remainder mostly would be a matter of tying up the loose ends.

Economic Staff Set Up

To plot the course of transition, Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison told the party's annual conference last week, the Cabinet has established "an economic general staff." A large portion of its job, he said, would be to blueprint "safety measures" to avoid internal depression and soften the impact of any foreign economic upset.

One of the party's greatest fears was voiced by a member of Parliament, Gordon Walker, who asserted that "there is a very great danger of our plan being upset by an American slump," which he said was "inevitable."

That was recognized by Morrison, too, in a statement that "economic planning needs to be applied to the whole world." Foreign Secretary Bevin remarked that the United States "may not always be" a capitalist country and Prime Minister Attlee said that "we've a long way to go to reach the world of our desires."

Legislation Planned

To reach it, the government is planning specific legislation for the next two of the remaining four sessions of this Parliament, writing and alloting priority to bills to bring the iron, steel, transport, gas and electricity industries under government ownership.

This planning schedule as disclosed by Attlee fits in with information filtering out of the Socialist intellectual Faban Society that the government intends to try to complete its first five-year plan by 1948 to allow two years for consolidation and administration before its 1950 campaign for re-election on a second five-year plan.

In those two years the voters will have time to digest such broad social reform as the cradle-to-the-grave Social Security Act and a nationwide free medical service, and nationalization or control of finance, inland transport and airlines, coal, gas and electricity, and iron and steel.

Morrison said active consideration already is being given to the second five-year plan, the discussion subjects including public ownership of agricultural land and the chemical and fishing industries.

That still would leave such giant industries as automobile manufacturing, ship building and textile making outside the realm of public ownership. Financial controls and public ownership of steel and fuel industries, however, would provide levers for influencing their policy if the government desired to do so. The government also has been given a five-year extension of wartime controls over men and materials.

Bidault Predicts New Cabinet Today

JUN 23 1946

3-Party French Coalition Being Formed

PARIS, June 23 (Sunday) (AP)—President Georges Bidault announced last night that a new coalition government, in which members of the Communist and Socialist parties would serve beside members of his own Popular Republican Movement (M. R. P.) would be formed today, thus ending France's governmental crisis.

The Communists, after conferring late last night with Bidault, indicated their willingness to compromise on the issue of trade union wage demands. The Socialists, who previously declared they would not take part in the government unless the Communists did, announced today that members of their party would serve in Bidault's Cabinet.

Bidault said he would reopen his three-party consultations before noon today, and "despite certain difficulties . . . I believe it will end up in the evening, if not in the afternoon."

Earlier, Communist leaders delivered a conciliatory letter to Bidault stating the party's position. Significantly, the letter did not mention the figure of 25 per cent, which is the wage increase demand of the Confederation Generale du Travail (C. G. T.) The Communists had been supporting this union demand against a proposal by Bidault of 10 per cent.

The Communist letter proposed the creation of a committee to study the whole wage-price problem, and asserted that "in any case a general immediate increase of salaries and pensions appears necessary to us."

It added: "It is essentially on that point that our political bureau desires to receive from you precise assurances permitting our party to participate in application of policy conforming to the interests of the laboring masses and the Republic."

Bidault Encounters Cabinet Trouble

Paris, June 22 (AP)—Political circles said today that President Georges Bidault, who earlier had promised "to make short work" of the task of forming a new government, has made little headway and may fall back on his own MRP (Popular Republican Movement) to present a one-party Cabinet to the people.

Bidault, it was said, had been faced "with a delicate turn" of events in his negotiations with other party leaders, after offering a tentative wage and price program which fell short of Communist and other left wing demands. The Communists also were silent as to whether or not they would enter an MRP cabinet.

According to one deputy, Bidault proposed a limited series of wage increases amounting to a ten per cent boost. The powerful, Communist-backed Confederation du Travail is seeking an increase of 25 per cent.

Occupation Troops Get Article Combating Complaints Over the Lack of Food

BERLIN, June 22 (AP)—Each United States occupation soldier in Germany was urged by the Army today to arm himself with the facts on America's efforts to feed Germany and the world, so he would not be obliged to "swallow baloney fed him by complaining Germans, but be able to answer back."

The Army distributed among the troops an article by Dr. Carl F. Taeusch, former Department of Agriculture publicist, who recently joined the staff of the food and agriculture branch of the Military Government.

"It would be helpful to the Military Government in Germany," said the article, which contained statistics on food in Germany, "if you would regard yourself as a good-will ambassador of the U. S. A. vested with powers of initiative in getting this story across to the German people. We have a firm policy, but it is humane, and we have a record of achievement of which every American can well feel proud."

The article's distribution recalled a story in the Army newspaper Stars and Stripes two weeks ago which said that large sections of the German population were ignorant of America's food contributions and that many Germans believed the United States Army was to a large extent living off the land.

The article, used by the army's information and education section in its courses for soldiers, said that in the ten months from August, 1945, through May, 1946, American sources supplied more than 600,000 tons of food to help support the German civilian ration.

Of this, 57 per cent came from Army stocks, 4 per cent from Army excess subsistence, and 39 per cent from direct imports. Seventy per cent of the contribution consisted of wheat flour, cereals and biscuits, This, the article said, was 75 to 80 pounds of food for each German in the American-occupied territory.

In addition, the United States, to boost German food production, supervised the importation of 87,000 tons of fertilizers, insecticides and other products for agriculture, the article added.

Dr. Taeusch told the soldiers that neither "wet-eyed sentiment nor a hard-boiled attitude toward the Germans" determined the Military Government's food policy. He said efforts first were made to "put it up to the Germans to maximize their own production and help make up the difference between home production and dietary needs."

'Good Will' GI Role In Reich

JUN 23 1946

Berlin, June 22 (AP)—The United States Army today instructed American occupation troops to go out and tell the German people about a "record of which every American can well feel proud"—what America is doing to feed Germany and the world.

"It would be helpful to military government in Germany if you would regard yourself as a good-will ambassador of the U.S.A., vested with powers of initiative in getting this story across to the German people," the soldiers were told. "We have a firm policy (toward the Germans) but it is human, and we have a record of achievement of which every American can well feel proud."

Ignorant On Food Source

Two weeks ago Stars and Stripes reported that large sections of the German population were ignorant of America's food contributions and that many Germans actually believed the American Army was to a good extent living off the land.

The military government has prepared a statistical story showing that during ten months from August 1, 1945, to May 31, 1946, American sources supplied more than 600,000 short tons of food to help support the German civilian ration.

U. S. EXECUTIVES IN BERLIN

Six Business Leaders Plan Study of Economic Conditions

BERLIN, June 22 (AP)—Six American business executives arrived in Berlin tonight for two-day conferences with Military Government officials on economic conditions in Germany.

The men who flew here from Paris where they had attended sessions of the council of the International Chamber of Commerce, were Philip D. Reed, chairman of the General Electric Company and chairman of the United States section of the International Chamber of Commerce; Robert R. Wason, president of the National Association of Manufacturers; Robert Gaylord, chairman of the Executive Committee of the National Association of Manufacturers; John Abbink, chairman of the National Foreign Trade Council; Randolph Burgess, vice chairman of the National City Bank of New York and chairman of the International Chamber of Commerce's committee on monetary relations, and Benjamin H. Beckhart, economist of the Chase National Bank of New York.

VON NEURATH BLAMES LEAGUE FOR WARFARE

NUREMBERG, Germany, June 22 (AP)—Baron Constantin von Neurath declared today that the framers of the Versailles treaty and the League of Nations were responsible for the National Socialist party and World War II.

The old German noble, who was Ambassador to London and Adolf Hitler's Foreign Minister before Joachim von Ribbentrop took over in 1938, opened his defense before the International Military tribunal with the assertion

"In the numerous and impossible provisions of the Versailles Treaty was the root of National Socialism and of the causes of the second World War. They brought the world into economic unrest.

"Its charter allowed for revisions but the League of Nations made no use of that possibility.

"When the United States, Russia and Japan were standing outside, this so-called League consisted only of a meeting of parties interested in maintaining the status quo. This was pointed out again and again and not only in Germany, but that Geneva playground of brilliant orators and politicians was deaf."

Neurath is accused of participating in a conspiracy of Nazi aggression in the role of Foreign Minister while Germany was rebuilding her war machine and also as "protector" of Bohemia and Moravia after the occupation of Czechoslovakia.

He was succeeded in the latter post by Reinhard Heydrich, later assassinated.

Joined Cabinet "Reluctantly"

Now 73, Neurath said he "reluctantly" left his post in London in 1932 to become Foreign Minister at the behest of President von Hindenburg and that when Hitler came to power the old field marshal insisted that Neurath be retained in the first Nazi Cabinet as a "steadying influence."

The defendant said he "despised the methods" of the National Socialist party during those early years, but was in sympathy with many of the Nazi social aims.

Guard Who Complained In U.S. Is Lichfield Witness

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 22 (AP)—A witness in the court-martial of Col. James A. Kilian testified today that he saw guards at the Lichfield (England) prison barracks, where Kilian was in command, strip the clothing from one American soldier and beat him with a rubber hose.

The witness was Corporal Robert O. Henney, Toledo, Ohio, whose complaints to the Toledo Blade in January, 1945, while he was home on furlough, were believed to have caused the first investigation of the Lichfield guardhouse.

On Temporary Duty

Henney, who did temporary guard duty at Lichfield, said the guards took off the prisoner's clothes, "threw a blanket over him, and one guard hit him while the other held him."

Several other witnesses in the trial, in which the Highland Park (Ill.) officer is charged with responsibility for cruelty to GI prisoners at Lichfield, testified to seeing beatings and mistreatment of prisoners.

At one time during the proceedings, Col. Hardin Sweeney, of Omaha, Neb., a member of the court, demanded of Major Joseph S. Robinson, of New York city, the prosecutor: "Is it your intention to intimidate a member of this court?"

"Certainly not," replied Robinson.

Referred To By Name

Sweeney had objected to Robinson referring to him by name in an argument over admissability of questions put to a prosecution witness by the court official. Sweeney said under court-martial rules members of the court should not be referred to by name.

Corporal Howard Jones, of Muskogee, Okla., told the military court that "we weren't allowed to write home anything about what went on in the guardhouse—they told us that was censored as a 'security regulation.'"

Corporal Jones said he was not related to Sergt. James M. Jones, of Muskogee, convicted last March of striking soldiers at Lichfield.

The prosecution, which has sought to show that cruel punishment inflicted upon prisoners was "in accord with a policy dictated" by Kilian, completed its case today.

Defense Granted Delay

Lieut. Leonard W. Ennis, of Peekskill, N.Y., also charged with cruelty to prisoners, will open his defense on Wednesday. The court granted a recess until then to permit the attorneys for the 220-pound former boxer and semi-pro football player to complete their case.

Over defense objection, Ennis's testimony in a previous trial was admitted in evidence today. The court record quoted Ennis as saying "we had orders to be rough and tough. I followed them and passed them on. I told the guards about the rough and tough policy and that it was the command of the higher ups."

He said Kilian once reproved him "for not being tough enough."

30.24-3771

Thus far in the trials one officer, Lieut. Granville Cubage, of Oklahoma City, has been convicted of authorizing guards to strike prisoners with clubs, and five enlisted guards have been convicted of hitting prisoners. Cubage was punished by a reprimand and a $250 fine, and sentences of the enlisted men ranged from $60 fine to a three-year jail term.

Americans Catch Konrad Goebbels

Darmstadt, Germany, June 22 (AP)—The unshaven, sick brother of Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Nazi Propaganda Minister, languished tonight in a Darmstadt jail—a newly captured prisoner of American agents who tracked him down to his hiding place in a remote German village.

The 52-year-old former cotton salesman, who under Hitler rose to be "little dictator" of German newspapers in the state of Greater Hesse, was seized two weeks ago in Airlenbach, 40 miles southeast of Darmstadt, counterintelligence agents disclosed tonight.

Peering through thick lenses, Konrad Goebbels told American agents he was an ardent Nazi and a proud one. He was a self-made Nazi leader, he confessed, an admirer of his brother, and "a National Socialist to the end and a hater of Jews."

He was "small fry," Goebbels told his captors.

"He has one foot in the grave—he's got hardening of the arteries—but he wasn't such a small shot as he asserts," counterintelligence agents declared.

FRANKFURT AM MAIN, June 22 (AP).—A group of twelve prominent American editors and newspaper executives arrived here today from the United States for a twenty-four day inspection tour of American installations in Europe.

Vienna Paper Banned For 'Slandering' Reds

Vienna, June 22 (AP)—Soviet authorities have banned until further notice the Socialist newspaper Burgenlaendische Freiheit, published in Eisenstadt, for "slandering" the Red Army.

The newspaper published an article under the heading "Unbearable Safety Conditions—Street Robberies and Other Crimes."

AMERICAN DENIES MASSING TROOPS

JUN 23 1946

Rome, June 22 (AP)—A spokesman for Lieut.-Gen. John H. Lee, United States commander in the Mediterranean theater, denied today reports published in Belgrade newspapers which said that British and American troops were concentrated along the Morgan Line dividing the disputed Venezia Giulia area, claimed by both Italy and Yugoslavia.

"Our assignment," he said, "is to preserve the status quo until the Allies settle the frontier and we shall carry it out."

He said that there had been absolutely no troop movements of any importance.

In London, a War Office spokesman denied knowledge of any British-American troop concentration in Venezia Giulia and an Admiralty spokesman, asked about Belgrade reports that three British warships had arrived in Trieste harbor, said that he knew of no recent or abnormal fleet activity.

The problem of Trieste and the Venezia Giulia area surrounding it was discussed yesterday by the Big Four Foreign Ministers in Paris and was scheduled for further discussion today.

Italy Appeals To "Big 4"

Rome, June 22 (AP)—The Italian Cabinet sent a request to the Foreign Ministers Council in Paris today not to take any decision on disputed Venezia Giulia "which the new Italian democracy, set up as a republic, will absolutely be unable to accept."

The Cabinet stated it was speaking in the name of "Italians of Trieste, western Istria and all of Venezia Giulia."

Italians Demonstrate, Call For Free Fiume

Rome, June 22 (AP)—The Rome radio said today that some pro-Italian demonstrations occurred in Yugoslav-occupied Fiume last Thursday when 25,000 persons participated in a religious procession celebrating the feast of Corpus Domini.

The broadcast said the demonstrations occurred during an address by the Bishop of Fiume in the city's principal square and that some of the demonstrators also shouted for a free state of Fiume.

Bulgarian Journalist Jailed For Opposition

Sofia, Bulgaria, June 22 (AP)—Sixty-six-year-old Trifon Kunev, well-known journalist and one of the leaders of the opposition Agrarians, has been jailed and will be tried under the law for defense of the people's power, it was announced today.

Kunev was accused in connection with an article replying to a recent attack on him by Georgi Dimitrov, Communist leader.

The attorney general considers the article "against the present Government."

Corps Head Also Testifies Of Link To Mihailovic

JUN 23 1946

Belgrade, June 22 (AP)—The commander of the Serbian Volunteer Corps told a military court today that the corps had fought alongside the Germans against Marshal Tito's Partisans, and at one time had been put under command of Gen. Draja Mihailovic.

The corps commander, Kosta Musicki, said arms for the corps were supplied by the Germans, and admitted under questioning that his first units were formed from followers of a Yugoslav Fascist party.

He said that himself and the corps under Mihailovic's command in the Julian march area on the Istrian peninsula.

Two Plead Innocent

Musicki, on trial with Mihailovic and 22 others on charges of treason and collaboration, pleaded innocent at today's session of court, as did Djuro Dokic, former Minister of Communications in the wartime Yugoslav puppet government.

Musicki, a former colonel in the Yugoslav army, said his units led a column of Germans against the Partisan-held town of Cacek and admitted his forces helped to blockade the town. But he denied organizing mass arrests and executions when his corps entered Cacek with the Germans, as charged in the indictment.

When the court asked why Musicki's soldiers had not killed Germans, he replied: "There was no reason. Why should we kill a man who gave us arms?"

Attached To German Staff

Questioned about the indictment charge that both the Germans and puppet Premier Marshal Milan Nedic's government considered the Serbian voluntary corps as part of the Wehrmacht, Musicki admitted that he was attached to the German staff.

Dokic, accused of directing the establishment, maintenance, and protection of communications which aided the Germans, said it was "for special reasons that we collaborated with the occupier. We were never allies with the Germans. We were an occupied country and had to do what they said for the sake of law and order."

He said Partisan fighters were responsible for the deaths of Serbians because "there would have been law and order under the Nazis if people from the forests had not tried to attack the occupier."

Admitted By Nedic Aide

A third defendant taking the stand today, Bosko Pavlovic, former Under Secretary of State in Nedic's Government, pleaded guilty but "not in the spirit of the indictment."

Pavlovic said that in July, 1944, he turned over to Mihailovic's Chetniks about 8,000 rifles, 1,000,000 rounds of ammunition and some machine guns, acting on Nedic's orders.

He denied an indictment charge that he was implicated in the mass slaughter of 7,000 persons in the town of Kragujevac in October, 1941. He said he frequently intervened on behalf of the Serbian people whenever they were threatened by the German invaders.

Serb Admits Fighting Tito's Forces At Side Of Nazis

G. PALMER

JUN 23 1946

Belgrade, June 22 (AP)—Kosta Musicki, wartime commander of the Serbian Volunteer Corps, testified today that his units fought side by side with the Germans against Partisans and declared that while operating in the Julian March area he had placed himself and his units under command of Gen. Draja Mihailovic.

Musicki, the eleventh defendant to appear before the court in the Mihailovic trial, pleaded innocent.

Djuro Dokic, former Minister of Communications in the wartime Yugoslav puppet government, pleaded innocent earlier in the day and said he had favored accepting the tripartite treaty with the Axis "so that Yugoslavia could avoid war and be like Turkey."

"Never Allies With Germans"

Dokic answered "I don't know" to most questions. He admitted, however, that he urged the Serbian people in a speech to fight against the communists.

He told the court it was "for special reasons that we collaborated with the occupier."

"We were never allies with the Germans. We were an occupied country and had to do what they said, for the sake of law and order," he asserted.

Blames Partisans

He declared that the Government of the puppet premier, the late Field Marshal Milan Nedic, was "openly anti-Communistic." Partisan fighters, he said, were responsible for the deaths of Serbian people, since "there would have been law and order under the Nazis if the people from the forests had not tried to attack the occupier."

Dokic was the first defendant whom defense attorneys declined to question. They stated that additional questioning was not necessary, since Dokic's answers to prosecution questions were "clear and sincere."

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 22 (AP)—Seven male spectators were wounded by ricochets when a convicted war criminal was shot today in Marko Jail courtyard. The executed man, Jeno Ruszkay-Ranzenberger, was a former general in the Hungarian Army and wartime Deputy Minister of the Interior.

U. S. IDEA ON ATOM RULE PUBLISHED IN MOSCOW

MOSCOW, June 22 (AP)—The Soviet press has reported, without comment, the plans offered by Russia and the United States for the control of atomic energy.

All papers here published yesterday the text of the speech made in New York Wednesday by Andrei A. Gromyko, delegate to the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission. The Soviet press had previously reported that Bernard M. Baruch, United States delegate, had made a new proposal for the international control of atomic energy. Dispatches gave no details of the Baruch plan but told about the proposed creation of a committee of experts for studying atomic questions and outlined the procedural points in bringing the question up for discussion.

A Tass dispatch from New York said that an early meeting of the Atomic Energy Commission was concerned with "United States proposals for control of atomic energy." The committee chairman, Herbert V. Evatt of Australia, the dispatch reported, had observed that Mr. Baruch "had worked out a plan for an international program of atomic energy control."

Tass said that the Canadian, British, Chinese, Brazilian and Mexican representatives had discussed the Baruch proposal and that Mr. Gromyko had presented the Soviet proposal.

Attacks on Schwarzkopf Cited

MOSCOW, June 22 (AP)—A Tass dispatch from Teheran said today that attacks have appeared in two Teheran newspapers against Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, American head of the Iranian police.

The dispatch said Colonel Schwarzkopf had been accused in the newspaper Rakhbar of defying an order of Propaganda Chief Mozaffar Firouz for the dismissal of a Colonel Aseri of the gendarmerie.

Tass added that the newspaper Iranema had demanded Colonel Schwarzkopf's dismissal and remarked that it had been informed the new United States Ambassador, George V. Allen, was supporting Colonel Schwarzkopf.

Plan Elections In Germany

Moscow, June 22 (AP)—Tass said today in a Berlin dispatch that the Soviet military administration, aiming at "the further democratization of Germany," would permit city and other local elections in the Saxony and Thuringia regions of Russian-occupied Germany next September.

Egyptian U.N. Delegate Puts Issue Up To Jews And Arabs

E. CURTIS

Cairo, June 22 (AP)—Hafez Afifi Pasha, Egypt's representative on the United Nations Security Council, declared today "it's up to the Jews and Arabs to settle their differences now" in Palestine.

He told a news conference that if the Arabs and Jews "agree among themselves upon a government, then there is no excuse for British troops to remain in Palestine."

He said also that the Security Council soon would discuss mandates and trusteeships, at which time "the Palestine question may also come up for discussion."

Holds U.S. Uninformed

The delegate declared that the Americans "are completely ignorant about the Palestine case. They know only the Jews' point of view. I blame the Arabs for that, because there is not much effort by Arabs in America to explain the Arab point of view, except for the efforts made by the Palestine and Syrian community in New York."

He said he believed that negotiations for revision of the 1936 British-Egyptian treaty would be successful but added that "if all efforts at negotiation fail, then Egypt should take her case to the Security Council."

Meanwhile the Wafdist bloc party added its voice to those demanding that the Mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin el Husseini, be given his "complete freedom."

Follows Brotherhood Stand

In a formal statement the minority opposition party denounced "any restriction" on the political activity of the exiled Palestinian Arab leader, who has taken refuge in Egypt.

Taking a stand similar to that adopted by the Moslem brotherhood yesterday, the party asked that the Government give the mufti his freedom in order that "he may do his national duty toward Palestine."

Premier Ismail Sidky Pasha has announced that the Mufti has been given traditional Egyptian hospitality afforded political refugees, but is expected to refrain from political activity. The newspaper Akbar El Youm quoted the Mufti yesterday as saying that he was "sorry to cause any trouble for Egypt and for not asking permission" before he appeared at the Royal Palace to request refuge in Egypt.

PALESTINE MAY COME UP IN U. N.

JUN 23 1946

So Declares Egyptian on Security Council.

Cairo, June 22 (A. P.).—Hafez Afifi Pasha, Egypt's representative on the United Nations Security Council, said today that the council soon would discuss mandates and trusteeships, at which time "the Palestine question may also come up for discussion."

Asked about recurring reports that the troops Britain has promised to evacuate from Egypt might be permanently based in Palestine, Afifi Pasha replied:

"It's up to the Arabs and Jews to settle their differences now. If they agree among themselves upon a government, then there is no excuse for British troops to remain in Palestine."

The U. N. delegate told newsmen that "the Americans are completely ignorant about the Palestine case."

"They only know the Jews' point of view," he continued. "I blame the Arabs for that, because there is not much effort by Arabs in America to explain the Arab point of view, except for efforts made by the Palestine and Syrian community in New York."

Expects Treaty Success.

Afifi Pasha said he believed negotiations for revision of the British Egyptian treaty of 1936 would be successful, but "if all efforts at negotiation fail, then Egypt should take her case to the Security Council."

"America and other nations have great sympathy for our case and believe it is just," he added.

Asked if these other nations included Russia, Afifi Pasha said "it's enough that I say other nations." He said the Iranian question was "now in the last stage of settlement," and that he believed the General Assembly would reach a decision on Spain.

Freedom For Mufti Urged In Egypt

JUN 23 1946

Cairo, June 22 (AP)—The Kotla (Wafdist bloc) party demanded today that the Egyptian Government give complete freedom to the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem in order that he may "do his national duty toward Palestine."

In a formal statement, the minority opposition party denounced "any restriction" on the political activity of the exiled Arab leader, Haj Amin al Husseini, whom the British accuse of aiding Germany and Italy during the war.

The Mufti has been a political refugee since he flew from France to his Egyption sanctuary, the party statement said, and it would be no violation of any law to permit him to resume political activity "to protect Palestine."

"Any restriction on his freedom contradicts humanity and weakens Egypt's position in the Arab world," the statement concluded.

"Contradicts Humanity"

The Kotla's stand followed a similar appeal by the Moslem Brother Association to King Farouk.

The Mufti was quoted in an interview by the Arabic newspaper Akhbar El Yom last night as saying that he came to Egypt after fleeing exile in Paris because "It is the heart of the Arab movement and the seat of the Arab league."

Denies Foreign Connections

He denied that he ever worked for a foreign country.

"I worked for the independence of Syria, Palestine, the Lebanon, Iraq and the other Arab countries," he was quoted as saying.

"I don't hate the British, I don't hate the Americans. I don't even hate the Jews."

Officers Released Near Scene of Abduction—3 Still Held

Jerusalem, Sunday, June 23 (A. P.)—British military authorities disclosed last night that two of the five British officers who were kidnapped from an officers' club in Tel Aviv June 18 had been released.

The announcement said the two officers were freed within a few yards of the hotel from which they were abducted by an armed gang. The hotel houses the officers' club.

An official source identified the two officers who were released as Flight Lt. P. A. E. Russell of the Royal Air Force and Capt. D. T. Rae of the Royal Engineers.

Three Others Held

Reports from Tel Aviv quoted Russell and Rae as saying "the other three are in good health and doing fine" However, the Army would divulge no other information concerning the three officers still, apparently, in custody of their abductors.

Meanwhile, military sources here said that the Jerusalem house in which Maj. H. P. Chadwick, a sixth British officer who was abducted under different circumstances, was held and from which he escaped Thursday night by leaping from a window, had been located and identified by the officer.

It is a grubby little hut in the Bucharian quarter and had been long abandoned after having last been used as a stable. Military sources said a person living near the hut had been arrested, but escaped from police while en route to a police station for questioning. He has not been recaptured.

Believed To Be Hostages

The officers were believed to have been seized by members of Irgun Zvai Leumi, an underground Jewish movement, as hostages for two members of that organization who are under sentence of death.

The officers were seated in the club in the Hotel Yarkon when about a dozen men armed with tommy guns raided the club, seized and blindfolded them and forced them into waiting taxicabs. Four of the officers were army men, the fifth a member of the RAF.

Moshe Shertok, head of the political department of the Jewish Agency, appealed yesterday for the immediate release of the officers, terming their abduction "lunacy."

25 Killed In Attacks

The kidnappings occurred during violent attacks on River Jordan bridges and on railway workshops in Haifa, and other outbreaks, which took a toll of 25 dead, most of them Jews.

The "Voice of Israel," a secret radio operated by Haganah, the largest of the Jewish resistance movements in Palestine, also appealed for the release of the kidnapped officers, terming their detention "contrary to the interests of the nation."

16 JEWS REPORTED HELD IN PALESTINE

JUN 23 1946

Jerusalem, June 22 (A. P.)—Sixteen Jewish employees of a chemical plant on the north shore of the Dead Sea were reported under arrest by British troops today following the discovery near the plant last night of a cache of illegal arms. Disorders which have gripped the Holy Land for a week appeared to be subsiding.

The manager of the plant, Simhca Swerdloff, who earlier had protested that the British search for the arms was costing his company $4,000 a day, also was taken into custody.

The cache, a British officer said, included nineteen pistols, seven sub-machine guns, a mortar, twenty ammunition magazines and several thousand rounds of ammunition. It was buried in a concrete chamber near the power house of the chemical plant at Kallia, a settlement of potash workers.

Reuters said it had received an unconfirmed report from Tel Aviv that an illegal immigrant ship carrying 800 Jews had been intercepted in Palestine waters. The name of the vessel was not stated.

Drops Border Dispute—Congress Action Near on Plan for India

New Delhi, June 22 (AP)—Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru arrived by automobile at an air field near Rawalpindi in northern India tonight, news dispatches said, and enplaned immediately for a 425-mile flight to New Delhi for a critical meeting tomorrow of the all-India Congress Party working committee.

Final action was promised at the meeting on the British proposal for an interim Indian Government.

Pandit Nehru, president-elect of the Congress Party, arrived in Rawalpindi from Uri, Kashmir, where he had been detained for defying an order denying him entry into Kashmir State. He left Uri on instructions from Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, Congress president, agreeing to drop temporarily his dispute with Kashmir authorities.

Final Resolution Near

On the eve of the committee's meeting Azad announced that it had "almost concluded its deliberations" and that "the final resolution will be adopted tomorrow."

The working committee on Thursday announced it had broken off its deliberations because of Nehru's arrest. Nehru is the president-designate of the Congress.

Azad gave no hint as to what reply the committee would make to Viceroy Lord Wavell, who had asked that a decision be reached by June 23 on acceptance of a 14-man cabinet to rule India while a constituent assembly drafts a charter of independence for this huge subcontinent's 400,000,000 people.

It was announced officially, however, that Premier H. K. Mahtab of Orissa Province, one of the Congress leaders invited to join the government, had declined to accept for "personal reasons."

No formal action has been taken by the Moslem League, chief rival of the predominantly Hindu Congress Party, on the British proposal, but its spokesmen have indicated they favor the plan. The league and the Congress Party were given five members each in the cabinet, with the remaining four representing minority groups.

Sikh Rejection Reported

(The New Delhi radio, heard in London, said tonight that the United Sikh Board, representing the 4,000,000 Sikhs of India, voted today to reject the proposal for an interim government. Wavell had named Sardar Baldev Singh, development minister in the Punjab coalition government, as the Sikh representative to the interim government.

(Tarah Singh, leader of one Sikh faction, said earlier this week that the interim government proposal would reduce India's Sikhs to serfdom.)

Returns With Reservation

Nehru, whose arrest set off strikes and demonstrations in widely scattered major Indian cities that cost at least two lives, told Azad that "in obedience to the direction of the working committee I am prepared to return immediately on the understanding that I come back to Kashmir later."

Azad, after conferring with Mohandas K. Gandhi, the party's spiritual leader, notified Nehru that "we are all of the opinion that your presence here is essential above everything else."

Nehru had sought to enter the mountainous princely state of Kashmir to arrange for the defense of Sheikh Abdullah, who is awaiting trial in connection with agitation for the abdication of the ruling maharaja. Kashmir authorities had forbidden Nehru to enter Kashmir, his native state.

Nehru was arrested on Thursday in the Princely State of Kashmir when he attempted to intervene in the agitation by the Kashmir National Conference against the Maharajah, Sir Hari Singh, wealthy Hindu ruler of that overwhelmingly Moslem State. Sheik Abdullah, leader of the movement agitating for the abdication of the Maharajah, has been accused of sedition, and strikes and demonstrations resulted from his arrest. Nehru was arrested when he defied a District Magistrate's order banning him from Kashmir.

On Way Back.

Shortly afterward press dispatches said that Nehru had left for the Punjab on his way here, and Azad announced that the Congress party's working committee, stalled by Nehru's absence, would conclude its deliberations on Britain's plans for an interim government tomorrow. "The final resolution will be adopted tomorrow," he said. The Viceroy, Lord Wavell, had asked for a reply by then to the British proposal for an interim government to rule until Indian independence can be put into effect.

Earlier, Nehru had rejected Azad's pleadings to return to New Delhi. Protesting against the "grave discourtesy offered me by the Kashmir government," he had wired Azad: "I regret I am wholly unable to return until full liberty of movement, including a visit to Srinagar, is accorded me. I request the working committee to proceed without me." In a second telegram to Nehru, sent afteer consultation with Mohandas K. Gandi, Azad said: "We are all of the opinion that your presence here is essential above everything else. Remember you are under an organization which you have adorned so long. Its needs must be paramount for you and me.

Agrees to Drop Kashmir Fight Pending Talks on India Freedom Proposal.

PAUL MASON

New Delhi, June 22 (A. P.).—Jawaharlal Nehru, president-elect of the Congress party, today temporarily dropped his dispute with the Kashmir authorities after the controversy had resulted in widespread strikes and disturbances and the death of two persons.

Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, the current Congress party president, received a telegram from the spirited chieftain-elect saying he was accepting Azad's instructions to drop the dispute and return to New Delhi, "on the understanding that I come back to Kashmir."

30.27-3773

"Remember also that your honor is ours and your obedience to the Congress call automatically transfers to it the duty of guarding your honor. The committee also is solicitous equally with you about Sheik Abdullah's care and the welfare of the Kashmir peoples.

"Therefore I expect you to return in answer to this. You will tell the Maharajah Sahib that as soon as you are freed by the Congress you will return to Kashmir to retrieve your honor and fulfill your mission."

U. S. Troops Restricted.

The strikes and demonstrations flared in widely separated major cities. Two persons were killed in Madura when the police fired on looters.

Tens of thousands of persons quit their jobs in Bombay and markets were closed in Madras and Karachi. The Calcutta transportation system, virtually at a standstill yesterday, resumed normal service this morning.

American troops were restricted to their camp in Calcutta as a precautionary measure. Two British military trucks were burned there. The outbreak came while India was considering the establishment of an interim government leading to her independence. The Congress party, which was discussing the British-sponsored plan, broke off its talks after Nehru's arrest.

U. S. PROTESTS TABRIZ JAILING OF 4 CITIZENS

American Military Attache and Three Aides Held Eight Hours

Tehran, June 22—(AP)—Col. William T. Sexton, of Leavenworth, Kan., American military attache in Tehran, returned from Tabriz today and reported that he and three aides were jailed for eight hours by Azerbaijan Democrats in the Azerbaijan capital.

A spokesman said the American embassy had protested to the Iranian Government.

Jailed with Sexton were Capt. Archie Roosevelt, grandson of President Theodore Roosevelt, Maj. Carl P. Garver and M/Sgt. David Livingstone.

"I am unable to explain the arrest," Sexton said.

He said the Americans went to Tabriz by plane on a flight that had been previously cleared "through all competent Iranian authorities, including the customs and security officials."

At the same time an official of the Iranian Foreign Ministry said the Russians remained in control of an airport at Pahlevi, Iranian resort town on the Caspian Sea 40 miles east of Azerbaijan and had refused to permit American-piloted planes to land there.

For that reason, the official said, a scheduled flight to Pahlevi yesterday by an Iranian Airways plane was cancelled. Iranian Airways is a newly organized subsidiary of the American airline, Trans World Airlines.

This was disclosed two days after an official of the Iranian State Railways had stated that Russia was still in control of Azerbaijan's railways. An Iranian mission sent into Azerbaijan to take over control of the railways from the Russians has been ordered to return to Tehran.

Russia announced May 23 that she had completed evacuation of her military forces from Iran on May 9

TRUCE COMMITTEE MEETS IN CHINA

Hopes Fade As Communists Ban Neutral Observers

H. MIKS

Nanking, June 22 (AP)—China's peace-seeking committee of three met today in an atmosphere of pessimism unrelieved by extension of the Manchurian truce to June 30.

It was generally expected that the committee—of which Gen. George C. Marshall is the neutral member—might reach agreement on some points. But the mutual distrust strongly voiced in Chinese Communist and Government quarters dampened hopes of a settlement of China's internal strife.

Teams Barred For Eight Areas

They were further dampened by word from Changchun that the American branch of Executive (truce) Headquarters had been flatly refused permission to send cease-fire teams into eight Communist-held areas of Central and Northern Manchuria.

Tom Masterson, Associated Press correspondent, in a dispatch from the Manchurian capital, said the Red commander at Harbin also rejected executive headquarters' request to permit the dispatch of American observers into the Communist areas.

Masterson said the headquarters delegation, led by Col. Raymond Tourtillot, of Lindsay, Cal., which flew to Harbin Friday to see Communist Gen. Lin Piao, was courteously treated and banqueted.

Burma And Java Face Short Rice Production

Singapore, June 22 (AP)—Rice production in Burma and Java probably will be more than 600,000 tons short of internal needs this year, an RAF aerial survey disclosed today.

The survey showed that about 10,000,000 acres of irrigated rice lands in Burma, Java and French Indo-China remained uncultivated and British officials here believed Burma would be obliged to draw upon her surplus accumulated during the war. The Burmese Government hoped to be able to continue some exports from that surplus.

LACK OF TRUST HAMPERS CHINA

Gen. Marshall's Efforts for Peace Strike Snag.

H. MIKS

Nanking, June 22 (A. P.).—The one clear factor in China's confused internal situation seems today to be the complete lack of faith with which both the National Government and the Communist forces regard each other. The committee of three—Gen. Marshall, United States envoy; Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Communist Gen. Chou En-lai—held their first Nanking meeting today.

It was indicated that they might be able to negotiate some agreements before the end of the extended truce period, which Chiang set yesterday at June 30. A Communist source said that the committee discussed the question of communications and hinted that a formal agreement on that phase might be forthcoming in the near future. But with the freely displayed basic distrust shadowing each move and proposal of both the Central Government and Communist leaders, little hope is held that any agreement would be worth much more than the paper on which it was written.

It has been no secret here that the peace-seeking American general's biggest task is not in persuading Chiang and Chou to affix their signatures to some impressive document, such as the violated January 10 agreement. The far bigger task is convincing the Kuomintang leaders, particularly the military chieftains, that the Communists are not signing with their tongues in their cheeks, and to make the Communists believe that the Central Government is not preparing new attacks under the cover of the peace negotiations.

Both factions have released daily propaganda accusing the other side of breaking agreements and violating truces, building up a formidable psychological barrier to any negotiated peace. Chou, at his latest press conference, emphasized the spirit of both sides when he described the Central Government's proposal for redistribution of the armies in Manchuria as a prelude to "surrounding our forces so that, when the time comes, they may eliminate them."

The new differences which have arisen between the peace negotiators, including Chou's rejection of the Army removal plan and his refusal to accept Marshall as final arbiter of the civil war, appear to have left the two sides farther apart than ever despite the fifteen-day truce extension.

Byroade Seriously Ill

Nanking, June 22 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Henry A. Byroade, of Woodburn, Ind., director of operations at the Peiping Executive (truce) Headquarters, is so seriously ill with typhoid fever he must leave his post and be evacuated to the United States, General Marshall's headquarters announced today.

RECORD HOT WAVE SLOWS TOKYO DIET

Food And New Constitution Subjects Of Debate

J. LAMBERT

Tokyo, June 22 (AP)—The Japanese Diet sweltered today under the hottest weather in 72 years amid blistering debate on the Government's food program and the proposed new draft of the constitution.

While the food program was hotly assailed in the House by Rikizo Hirano, Social Democrat leader, the House of Peers listened in its stuffy chambers to proposals for constitutional changes.

Hirano asserted the Government's program was "obscure" and was not a specific solution of the problem facing the hungry nation.

Allied Offer Reported

Premier Yoshida and several of his ministers replied, but Hirano branded their responses as brief and unimpressive. Hiro Wada, Agriculture Minister, mollified the members somewhat by reporting the Allied powers had authorized distribution of some 20,000 tons of wheat flour in the Tokyo-Yokohama area.

Yoshida promised the Government would outline the rice situation next week.

Dr. Sanryo Yamada, formerly a professor at Seoul Imperial University, launched the attack on the constitution draft.

is to come before the Diet. He demanded that the article forbidding maintenance of armed forces and a war potential be stricken, and that the Emperor's status be better defined.

War Ban Unopposed

Yamada did not oppose the abolishment of war as a national weapon.

In the lower house, Rikizo Hirano, Social Democrat leader, asserted that the Government food program did not contain any specific solutions and demanded that Yoshida clarify obscure points. The Premier promised a full statement next week.

Earlier, representatives in the lower house agreed to ban heckling and hooting in the future as a measure of self-censure for yesterday's uproarious session.

It was agreed at an interparty conference that legislators should refrain from heckling and hooting and especially should never shout "Baka!" (idiot).

Fists Fly At Session

The word was used frequently at yesterday's stormy meeting during which members swung at each other and spectators screamed in the galleries. Speaker Senzo Higai finally called an adjournment.

Such outbursts have been common in Japan's lively legislative history. Oldtime Diet observers expressed doubt today's ban would eliminate such practices. They believe stormy days are ahead, particularly when controversial labor questions are discussed.

Yoshida Predicts Long Session Of Jap Diet

Tokyo, June 22 (AP)—Hopes that the Japanese Diet might finish its work in a short session were blasted today.

Premier Shigeru Yoshida, after some hot speeches by members in both Houses, observed that prolonged meetings likely would be necessary. The political editors of Kyodo News Agency predicted the session might continue into August.

In the House of Peers, Dr. Sanryo Yamada, former Seoul Imperial University professor, attacked the constitutional revision draft which

July 4 Preview Sets GI Rest Camp Afire

Tokyo, June 22 (AP)—A fireworks explosion at a GI recreation center here today set the building afire and treated the throngs around the center to an impromptu and premature Fourth of July celebration.

All available American-Japanese fire trucks in the vicinity were called out. One broke down 100 yards from the fire and the chagrined crew never got it started again until the fire was out.

Pfc. Rick Campbell, assistant manager of the center, was the only casualty. He sprained his ankle during the exploding rockets.

The show was started when a Japanese porter unloading the fireworks accidentally stepped on a percussion cap.

Tokyo Heat Sets Record

Tokyo, June 22 (AP)—A 72-year heat record was established here today when the official thermometers registered 93 degrees Fahrenheit.

41,000 Vets To Leave Japan Next 2 Months

Yokohama, June 22 (AP)—Under the new standards for the return of service men to the United States, about 41,000 men will be eligible for shipment from Japan in the next two months, the 8th Army said today.

If shipping is available, all enlisted men with 23 months of service, as of June 30, and all enlisted convolunteer fathers in Japan will be en route home by August 10, and enlisted men with 21 months service as of June 30 will be on their way by August 31.

Yokosuka Police Learn To 'Pound' Beat

Yokosuka, Japan, June 22 (AP)—Nightsticks and badges have replaced the traditional short swords and arm bands of the Yokosuka police and now they are regularly partolling beats, instead of lolling around their precinct stations waiting for something to happen.

The Yokosuka force is the first in Japan to be revamped according to Western customs. It has even installed telephone connections from beats to station houses and has added ten police matrons to handle women prisoners at the stations and jails.

The transformation, under the direction of Marine Lieut. John Davis, of Toledo, Ohio, has even extended to twice weekly jail cleanings with D.D.T. and speeding up the judicial system.

Now prisoners seldom wait more than four days for a hearing. Previously some languished in filthy cells for two months or more before preliminary hearings.

ARGENTINE 'TOURIST'

Buenos Aires, June 22 (A. P.)—President Juan D. Peron says that Gen. Carlos von der Becke, former commander in chief of the Argentine Army, has no official status in his current visit to the United States.

The President informed reporters at a news conference yesterday that: "As far as I am concerned he is only a tourist, speaking for himself only."

Van der Becke was believed to have gone to Washington on a special mission for Peron, the main purpose being to iron out long-standing differences between Argentina and the United States, but the President said that he had not talked with Von der Becke before his departure although he was aware that the General intended to confer with the United States War and State departments about Argentine affairs.

Argentina Bars Rice Exports

BUENOS AIRES, June 22 (UP).—An immediate embargo on rice exports was ordered by the Department of Industry and Commerce today "to meet in full domestic consumption needs and to build up a reserve in case of a future shortage."

Argentina Resumes Exchange With Poland

Buenos Aires, June 22—(AP)—The Argentine Government has resumed diplomatic relations with Poland, which were suspended because of the war. The foreign office announced also that it was studying the possibility of renewing relations with Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Arab states, in addition to Poland.

Argentina and Russia established diplomatic relations two weeks ago.

Navy Explains Its Aims In First Bikini 'A' Test

Aboard U.S.S. Appalachian, En Route to Bikini, June 22 (AP)—The atomic bomb over Bikini atoll less than two weeks hence will flash with light and searing heat equal to 10,000 suns rolled into one.

And this first test will be classified as a laboratory rather than a naval war experiment.

These facts were brought out in the first press conference aboard the Appalachian en route from Honolulu with more than 150 writers and broadcasters.

3 Kinds Of Tests

Naval authorities, it was explained, last fall had to choose between three possible kinds of atomic tests. No one test would suffice for them all. The three were:

1. Laboratory type—to measure the bomb itself as a bomb by exploding it high in the air.

2. Naval harbor type of attack—at or under the surface of the sea.

3 To measure the bomb against ship design by deep-water explosion.

The first type was selected for July 1. The harbor-type test is set for July 20 with the bomb exploding under the lagoon waters in the midst of a ship anchorage.

Like A Giant's Fist

The first will give truth to some of the feats of giants who existed only in mythology. There will be a real Jove's fist. It will literally squeeze entire ships in the same way that mythological giants were supposed to crush ships in their time—in their fists.

This is true because atom-bomb pressures are equal on all sides simultaneously—fore, aft, port and starboard—and on top of all decks when the bomb explodes in air. This will be true even if the first Bikini bomb bursts half a mile aloft. Ordinary bombs and torpedoes squeeze only against one side—and only on a fraction of that side.

Bikini scientific men have talked of pressures as high as 100 pounds pressure on every square inch of ship above waterline. Will such pressure crush a ship like an eggshell or tear it like one blasted by a 1,000-mile-an-hour hurricane or—if it survives crushing—explode it by the internal suction that follows an atomic blast? Answers can be calculated. But they do not agree. Only laboratory experiment in the first Bikini explosion can answer accurately.

Because this is a laboratory test, the ships will be placed carefully so that most can be expected to survive. It is urgent to learn, first, not how much an atom bomb can destroy, but what are the limits and distances at which ships and men may be safe.

The giant-fist measurements are for the Army and Navy air forces also.

Unpredictable until tried are the effects of this squeeze on jeeps, trucks, planes and every sort of military equipment that will be placed on decks at carefully chosen distances.

Wind To Be Measured

There also is the heat blast, starting at 100,000,000 degrees Fahrenheit inside the bomb. The outer skin of armor plate turrets may melt like a surface of shooting stars. No one ever melted a turret that way before, because the world never had a furnace big or hot enough. Such skin-melting may either cause trivial damage to the turret or put it out of action. Again, the laboratory type of test is needed to find out.

In oil-well fires, dynamite blasts are used as last resorts to extinguish the blazes. A similar fire-extinguishing force exists in the blast of an atomic bomb. This wind will be measured at Bikini by laboratory methods.

U. S. to Keep Secret Information Gained at Bikini Atomic Tests

Military Facts Are to Be Guarded Until World Agreement Is Made.

SOME CURBS ON REPORTERS

But They Can Describe Most of What They See Before, During and After Bomb Drop.

Aboard the U. S. S. Appalachian en Route to Bikini, June 22 (A. P.).—The United States Government will not reveal all the secrets of what happens to the guinea pig fleet in Bikini lagoon after the atomic bomb explodes early next month, it became known today.

Until international agreement is reached on atomic control it is unlikely that the full story of Bikini will ever be told. It will remain the exclusive property of the United States.

Scores of newspaper men headed for the Bikini test will be permitted to describe what they are able to see during and after the explosion. They will be allowed by Joint Task Force One to describe preparations for the test and the actual bomb drop—with reservations as to the description of the bomb and the height at which it explodes above the target—and to tell what they see of the fleet when they are permitted into the lagoon.

Won't Bare Secrets.

But this is only part of the story—the part which will not disclose any atomic secrets. The most complete story of the Bikini experiment will not come from reporters at Bikini. It will come from two reports which are to be released by President Truman and by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Capt. Fitzhugh Lee, public relations chief of the task force, explained the situation at a conference aboard ship today. He advised correspondents that full reports of the test will be made by men with "no axes to grind," who will be given the full story of the atom bomb's destructive force directed against ships at anchor.

One report will be given to Mr. Truman by a civilian evaluation commission headed by Senator Carl A. Hatch (D.-N. M.). This report will be written for the public's information and will be released by the White House at an undetermined time after the test. But it will not include information which at this time is classified as secret matter.

Military Evaluation.

At the same time an evaluation board representing the Joint Chiefs of Staff will make a report as quickly as possible on the over-all operation. Later this board will make a detailed study of the operation in its entirety, list its conclusions and recommendations.

Just how much of this report will ever reach the public is a matter for the Joint Chiefs of Staff to decide, obviously on the basis of world conditions and the status of international understanding on the control of atomic energy.

The first test is primarily a laboratory experiment to obtain scientific information for the development of atomic energy. The second test will be in the nature of an attack on the harbor, with the bomb exploded at the surface of the water.

Atom Bomb's Blast Over Bikini Will Momentarily Outshine Sun

Aboard Crossroads Flagship Mount McKinley, Sunday, June 23 (AP)—One of these mornings Bikini will have two suns:

A warm, moderately bright, health-giving Old Sol.

And, for the twinkling of an eye, a new man-made sun, so brilliant as to cast shadows across the path of daylight, sear the sea with awful heat and radiate death.

"A lot of people will go home from this test knowing how dangerous an atomic bomb is," says Col. Stafford Warren, chief of the Medical Section of the Manhattan District, makers of atom bombs, and, with Capt. George M. Lyon, of the Navy, codirector of the Radiological Safety Section of the Joint Army-Navy Task Force.

His concern is with bomb characteristics other than the blast.

Establish Safety Rules

It is the intention of the section that no man of the task force be injured by the "special hazards of the atom bomb." Those are orders handed down to Warren and Lyon by President Truman and Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, commander of the force.

To guarantee safety of men from radioactivity, either residual or from the flash ray of the bomb explosion itself, the two men have established a basic rule:

No person will be exposed to more than one tenth of a roentgen in any 24-hour period. A roentgen is a unit of measurement for X-ray, generally acepted as the safe dosage for man during a specified time.

Plans Are Complex

So that this control may be exercised, the safety section will do two things: keep the vast majority of task-force personnel well beyond the estimated limits of the bomb explosion danger zone, not closer than 10 miles; monitor rigidly the time at which men enter and the length of their stay in the lagoon in the postexplosion period.

The first step is comparatively easy. Ships and airplanes are assigned precise stations for the moment of the explosion, far out beyond the boundary islands of the lagoon. The second step is complex, built around the use of Geiger counters, photographic film, remote-control boats and aircraft to sample water, earth and air, and teams of scientists and scientifically coached men who will make patrols into the contaminated zone.

Estimates Range Of Bomb

The specifically constituted radiological safety section numbers about 430 men. With crewmen of ships who are trained for such work and the men who handle boats and airplanes, more than 3,500 men will have safety as their chief mission during the two bomb tests.

Warren's immediate problem is the first test, the airburst bomb. An atom bomb exploding in the air flashes out high-speed rays that can kill quickly. Residual radioactivity results from contact of rays with objects and from the dust of the exploded atoms, the nuclear fission fragments.

To Be Exploded Under Water

Dr. Warren, who visited Hiroshima and Nagasaki, estimates that the range of the rays from the airburst of the bombs was from one and one quarter to one and three quarter miles. To say how many Japanese died from radiation within that area is impossible, Warren explains; because that zone was also the zone in which blast and fire accounted for many deaths. Cases of radio poisoning were found, however. Some people who were at the periphery developed anemia, lost their hair, became at least temporarily sterile. Some died.

But, Dr. Warren insists, there was no residual radioactivity. This was because the bomb exploded too high in the air and because the blast carried aloft and away from the cities the fission fragments.

The second test, where a bomb is blown underwater in the shallow lagoon, undoubtedly will produce a vast amount of residual activity. Extensive studies already have been made of such possibilities.

Several weeks ago, Dr. W. S. Von Arx and other scientists of the Woods Hole (Mass.) Oceanographic Institute built a 14-inch scale model of Bikini lagoon, mounting it in a tank which simulated the open sea. Tidal currents were produced which flowed through the lagoon model at times scaled to the size of the model.

Insanity Is War Crime Defense

Guam, June 22 (AP)—Lieut. Com. Donald H. Dickey, of Chicago, defense counsel, today entered a plea of insanity on behalf of Lieut. Col. Kuji Ito, one of four Japanese accused of bayoneting and beheading two American prisoners of war on Chichi Jimi in the Bonin Islands on August 19, 1944.

Anti-Roxas Group Urges Keeping Arms

Cabanatuan, P.I., June 22 (AP)—A mimeographed leaflet urging central Luzon peasants to retain their arms in defiance of the Government's pacification program and to oppose President Roxas's stand in favor of the American Philippines-assistance bill is being circulated in Nueva Ecija province.

Signed "Hukbalahap," the name of the peasant guerrilla organization, the leaflets turned in here bore the Manila postmark and the date June 16.

"American Imperialists" Hit

Besides opposing the Bell bill for aid to the Philippines as a measure to enable "American imperialists to control the economic and military life of the independent Philippines," the sheet also protested against the refusal of the Legislature to seat Luis Taruc and seven other Huk legislators on the basis of frauds in the central provinces.

As to the arms, the broadcast advised "keep your guns for use in defending the people against lawless Fascist elements until the forces endangering democracy have been crushed."

The Huks supported defeated President Sergio Osmena in the national elections this spring.

PARODI WANTS U.N. TO ACT ON FRANCO

Issue Too Important To Drop, French Delegate Says

New York, June 22 (AP)—Alexandre Parodi, French delegate to the United Nations Security Council, tonight demanded that the controversial Spanish question be kept before the United Nations despite Russia's veto killing a subcommittee recommendation.

"After the stand taken by the Security Council on the Iran issue, we can't afford to let the Spanish issue drop, veto or no veto," Parodi said in remarks prepared for the University of the Air radio program. "We must not give up. This issue is too important.

"We must not permit conditions to exist in Spain which might make it a springboard for some future war. I think it is essential that some action be taken against Franco, despite the failure of the Security Council to act this week."

New Proposal Reported

Parodi spoke as Poland was reported drafting some type of proposal to keep the issue on the agenda when the Security Council goes back into session at 3 P.M. Monday.

With the subcommittee recommendation for General Assembly action against Franco wiped out by Russia's veto, only Poland's original resolution for an immediate Council-ordered break with Spain remained on the calendar.

Parodi said he saw little chance of passage for that proposal, but added that new facts might be produced to change the opinions of delegates.

The French diplomat, who also is delegate to the Atomic Energy Commission, called for "real" international control of atomic energy and "full rights of inspection everywhere in the world" for United Nations authorities, under whose control he would place the world's uranium supply.

Speed Called Urgent

"Unless we can get unity of control of the atom, the United Nations will not be worth 10 francs as a force against war," he declared. "Every week or month that is lost makes the job that much more difficult and dangerous.

"If each nation goes its own way, developing 'secrets' to protect, it may become difficult if not impossible to get all nations to place their resources in a common pool for the benefit of all humanity."

Dr. Oscar Lange, Polish delegate, said earlier that he would demand a vote on his resolution to put members "on the historical record." On the basis of past voting and statements, the proposal could not hope for more than three supporters—Russia, Poland and perhaps Mexico.

Spokesmen for the United States and Great Britain said those two delegations would vote against the measure, assuring it of defeat.

Evatt Expected To Speak

Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian delegate and chairman of the subcommittee which studied the Spanish case for a month, was expected to speak for the group opposing Lange.

Just what line Poland would follow in attempting to keep the issue alive was in doubt. Lange has said only that he would come forward with "other proposals" designed to promote unanimous action of the Council against the falangist regime.

The other question left on the Council agenda is the Iranian case. When last discussed it was decided that the Council would await official word from the Iranian Government that all Soviet troops were out of that country, with any delegate free to call up the question at will.

Delegates now are reluctant to comment on the situation, and there were no indications that it would come up again soon.

Moving Downtown

The Council apparently anticipates a light summer schedule and will move downtown to the small ballroom of the Henry Hudson Hotel July 1 to allow workmen to begin moving equipment from the Hunter College chamber to the new United Nations headquarters at Lake Success, Long Island. Deadline on full evacuation of the Hunter site is August 15.

Elsewhere on the United Nations scene, the Atomic Energy Commission scheduled another meeting for Tuesday, and the 67-nation world health conference planned to resume its sessions Monday.

The Economic and Social Council has gone into recess until August 31, convening four days before the start of the General Assembly meeting.

Polish Plan Awaited

Poland was expected to lay before the Tuesday meeting of the committee group a proposal described by a spokesman as a simple basis for agreement between the United States and Russian plans.

The core of the Polish scheme was expected to be the pronouncement made before the Assembly last January in London by Zygmunt Modzelowski, Polish Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs.

His brief proposal provides for exchange of scientific discoveries among the United Nations "for the benefit of humanity and not for its destruction," the elimination of all arms for mass destruction, and support by member states of United Nation efforts to control and supervise peaceful use of atomic energy.

The Polish spokesman declined to divulge details of the projected proposal to the Council but stressed that it would be so simple that delegates would be hard put to find it unacceptable in principle.

Birth Control Proposed To World Health Group

New York, June 22 (AP)—Birth control and health insurance emerged today as two of the bigger issues before the World Health Conference, the United Nations unit laying the groundwork for a global health agency.

Delegates went into a week-end recess before tackling the problem of setting up the 67-nation body.

Within a month the conference hopes to have a constitution drawn up for submission to the various governments for ratification. The world health organization will come into being officially when 26 nations, a majority of the 51 United Nations, approve that document.

Observers' Votes Don't Count

Observers from the sixteen nonmember countries also will be asked to ratify, but their decisions will not affect the formalization of the W.H.O. These observers have no vote in conference decisions.

The birth-control issue was raised by Dr. Djamil Pasha Tutunji, Trans-Jordan observer, who termed "control of the birth rate as important as control of the atomic bomb."

Dr. Tutunji blamed wars on overcongestion of the world's population and declared "to control overpopulation we must control natural increase by limiting the birth rate." He added that the world would be too small for its population in another 50 to 100 years and "war would be inevitable."

The preparatory committee, which met in Paris, did not discuss health insurance in its report to the conference other than to insert a paragraph under "functions" reading:

"To study administrative and social techniques affecting sanitation and medical care from a curative and preventative point of view as regards both medical and hospital practice."

Money Matter, Says Parran

Several delegates took the floor to call for later debate on the question. Dr. Thomas Parran, surgeon general of the United States Public Health Service and president of the conference, said the goal of the group was to make medical service available to all persons regardless of their economic status. Regarding health insurance, he added that subject really came under the heading of finance and taxation and could not be settled finally by a health organization.

Delegates or observers from eleven countries still were missing as opening sessions ended. They were Russia, White Russia, the Ukraine, Albania, Belgium, Costa Rica, Honduras, New Zealand, Yemen, Afghanistan and Luxembourg. All were reported delayed by transportation difficulties.

Australian Praises Baruch Atomic Plan

New York, June 22 (AP)—Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian Minister of External Affairs and representative on the United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, said tonight that Bernard Baruch's proposals on world control of atomic energy "offer a basis for discussion between the nations which might well lead to the elimination of atomic armament."

Evatt, in a broadcast address, said Baruch's ideas "seem to me to exhibit the combination of realism and idealism that made the scientists, engineers and workers of this great country so powerful in war."

"I hope they will be accepted as a lead in the new and epic struggle for the future of human kind," he added.

OPA Conferees Close To Extension Accord

Joint Committee Approves Five Out of Six Changes Bowles Calls 'Booby Traps'—Hope for Revised Bill Tomorrow—Impasse Held Still Possible

Washington, June 22 (AP)—Fourteen senators and House members working out differences in price control extension legislation today approved five out of six amendments denounced as "booby traps" by Stabilization Director Chester Bowles.

Simultaneously, the conferees announced themselves in agreement on all but four major points of dispute.

They will meet again Monday night in an attempt to resolve those remaining differences and push the bill first to the House, then to the Senate, for final approval.

Time was pressing the conferees. Price control expires at midnight, Sunday, June 30, unless Congress acts to extend it and the President approves the legislation.

The four points still in dispute are fundamental in character. Senator Downey (D-Calif.), one of the conferees, told a reporter that "an impasse still is possible."

Points To Be Settled

Still to be settled are:

1. How long to extend OPA. The Senate voted for one year, the House for nine months.

2. Whether to end price controls June 30 on meat, poultry and dairy products, tobacco and petroleum, as provided by the Senate. The House did not specifically take controls off any commodity.

3. Establishment of a decontrol board with authority to override the Price Administrator on lifting of controls from non-agricultural products, and the Secretary of Agriculture on farm commodities.

4. The size and duration of food subsidies. The House voted to halt meat subsidies June 30, all others December 31. The Senate voted for a $1,110,000,000 subsidy fund with food subsidies barred after next May 1.

Five of the changes specifically approved by the conferees had been characterized by Bowles as "booby traps" and "delayed action bombs" at a news conference earlier this week. The conference eliminated a sixth which came in for similar criticism—a provision which would have required OPA to obtain the consent of the Federal district attorney before starting enforcement prosecutions.

Five Changes Approved

The five which were approved in spite of Bowles' denunciation were:

A provision declaring that ceilings for producers, manufacturers and processors must reflect their prices during the base period October 1-15, 1941, plus the average increase in unit cost throughout the industry in question since then.

A ban against requiring wholesalers and retailers of "reconversion" items such as automobiles and household appliances to take less than the established peacetime mark-ups and discounts.

Elimination of OPA's "map" or maximum average price order which was issued to keep clothing manufacturers producing low-priced garments. In a related provision, the conference also approved special price treatment for manufacturers of cotton and woolen textiles. The ceiling would have to include the cost of the raw cotton or wool (not lower than parity), a weighted average of mill conversion costs, and "a reasonable profit" based on 1939-41 earnings.

A requirement that price controls come off when supply of a commodity comes into approximate balance with demand.

Transfer to the Secretary of Agriculture of authority to say what farm commodities may be kept under price control. No ceilings could be maintained unless he certified the commodity was in short supply.

The manufacturers' pricing provision was amended by the conferees to provide that any increases granted to the producers or processors must be accompanied by an increase of at least an equivalent amount in maximum prices for wholesalers, retailers and other sellers. The provision would take effect with enactment of the extension law and would not be retroactive.

The conferees approved language declaring that if a commodity was not under price control by April 1, 1946, it could not be brought under control.

Would Aid Needy States

The revised bill went part, but not all, of the way with senators from grain deficient states who pleaded for a greater share of feedstuffs for their livestock. That section, as rewritten, provides:

"The Secretary of Agriculture through the Commodity Credit Corporation or otherwise is hereby authorized to allocate feed which he controls to feeders of livestock and poultry in domestic areas which he may determine to be in an emergency shortage condition with respect to animal and poultry feed."

The section is permissive in character, rather than mandatory as the Senate provision had been.

The conference approved another Senate section which gives farmers who sold their wheat before April 1, when the Government bonus went into effect, the same price advantage received by persons who sold later.

They rejected, however, a Senate proviso which would have given a five per cent incentive bonus to cotton textile manufacturers who met specified production goals.

Senate Majority Leader Barkley, who served as spokesman for the conferees, said every effort would be made to complete the bill Monday night.

May Vote Tuesday

If that can be done, added Representative Wolcott (R-Mich.), it probably will be possible to call it up in the House Tuesday for a vote after an hour's debate. He said House conferees would confer with the rules committee Monday on the legislative priority.

"I don't think there is anything pending which transcends this in importance," Wolcott added.

Barkley declined to discuss the possibility of a Presidential veto. He said he had no information as to Mr. Truman's intentions.

Deliberations of the conference were shrouded in unusual secrecy. Only one decision—the manufacturers' pricing formula—leaked out in advance of today's news conference.

Representatives of more than 25 Washington and national organizations will meet here Monday to urge the conference committee to report out a bill "for workable price control."

Speakers will include Senator Taylor (D-Idaho); Representative Douglas (D-Calif.); Robert Nathan, chairman of the Washington chapter of the American Veterans Committee and Canada Lee, the actor.

MEAT, BREAD SHORTAGES WORST YET

2 Staples More Difficult To Find Than At Any Time During War

Washington, June 22 (AP)—Meat and bread—two staples in the nation's diet—were harder to find today than at any time during the war. Prospects were that the tight supply would continue at least the remainder of the month.

In July, trade sources believe, things should start getting better.

Chester Bowles, economic stabilizer, predicted more meat would be available for a few months after July 1, regardless of how Congress decides on the question of future price ceilings. The bread shortage, Bowles added, would be "eased considerably" in 30 days.

The Department of Agriculture supported Bowles's contention that some of the current meat shortage was caused by some shippers holding back live stock to see if price controls are dropped after June 30.

Winter Wheat Crop Cited

The Millers National Federation, a trade association, echoed Bowles's prediction of an improved bread and flour outlook in 30 days for parts of the country but said the full benefit of the current winter wheat harvest wouldn't be realized generally until about September 1.

A federation spokesman said a bumper winter wheat-crop harvest is well under way in Texas and Oklahoma, but added that OPA price regulations prevent millers in other parts of the country from buying this grain, the added shipping costs making such a transaction unprofitable under price ceilings.

Most mid-Western and Eastern states will start receiving this new grain when the harvest moves northward through Kansas. The harvest began in southeast Nebraska today and already has started in Kansas.

Many Shops Lack Meat

Although relief was forecast, a spot survey of cities across the nation showed butcher shops either had no meat to offer or could meet only a small percentage of the demand. Bread supplies, although somewhat improved in some sections, still were far below demand.

In Baltimore meat supplies were reported to have reached the low est level in that city's history, with "practically no beef or pork" obtainable.

In Chicago and Kansas City, two of the nation's major packing centers, slaughtering operations were at a record low. Most plants maintained skeleton working crews.

Butchering Hits New Low; All U.S. Short

[By the Associated Press]

Fresh meat, hard to get in wartime with rationing in effect, has virtually vanished from most of the nation's peacetime dinner tables. Urban areas are hardest hit.

Slaughtering by most of the big packers is at the lowest level ever. The situation became worse this week.

One packing-industry spokesman said the retail supply of meat in legitimate channels was the smallest ever. Another said there were "no prospects of the situation's improving in the near future."

Many Packers Closed Up

Most packing plants, both large and small, are maintaining only skeleton work crews. Many plants have closed. Butcher shops in many cities are closed two or three days a week. The scanty supplies butchers can get are sold in a jiffy. Most of the customers must rely on fowl and fish.

Since Monday, Chicago packers have reported slaughtering less than 4,000 cattle, compared to more than 20,000 on the same days last year.

Armour has not slaughtered a beef animal this week. It obtained only sixteen hogs on yesterday's market. Armour had an average daily slaughter of 3,789 hogs last year and 7,607 through 1944. Many of the smaller plants have also been hard hit by the hog shortage.

Same In Other Cities

Reports from cities all over the country were about the same.

Los Angeles meat industry spokesmen said butchers had only ten per cent of their normal supplies. San Francisco butchers reported virtually no beef or pork, a fair supply of lamb and plenty of poultry. Similar reports came from New York, Boston, Washington, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Kansas City, Detroit, Milwaukee and Chicago.

Government's View

The Agriculture Department in Washington and Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles have said farmers are withholding meat animals, hoping for higher prices. Bowles said there would be plenty of meat after the OPA issue is settled.

Packing industry spokesmen say that if the price ceilings on livestock expire June 30 the big packers will soon be getting their normal share of animals, for they can then outbid in open competition the buyers who now are getting the cattle.

The American Stockyards Association said livestock and meat production would continue to decrease and illegal markets would continue to expand until the OPA controls are ended. It said consumers are paying $1,250,000,000 annually above ceiling prices for meat.

The Agriculture Department said virtually all the marketed cattle were bought by local independent slaughterers and plants killing meats for hotels and restaurants. Big packers contend that controls are ended. It said consumers are paying $1,250,000,000 annually above ceiling prices for meat.

The Agriculture Department said virtually all the marketed cattle were bought by local independent slaughterers and plants killing meats for hotels and restaurants. Big packers contend that such buyers have paid above ceiling prices.

N. Y. Inquiry On

Reports from various cities on the meat situation:

In New York, Eugene C. Schulz, markets commissioner, said he was studying reports that butchers, cut off from wholesale meat supplies, were buying from itinerant trucks coming from neighboring states. C. F. House, Federal Department of Agriculture market specialists, said that meat was not being displayed for sale in open market.

Veteran Boston meat dealers called the present shortage the worst in history and said the weekend menu was "poultry or nothing." Many dealers closed up early and some said they were not even opening today. A similar condition was reported in nearly every section of New England.

Rochester And Detroit

The scant supplies at Rochester, N.Y., yesterday were taken quickly and shops closed early.

Detroit's butcher shop keep their doors closed two or three days a week and sell only to regular customers.

In Washington, butcher counters are usually bare an hour or so after morning deliveries. Fresh pork and beef are virtually unobtainable. Lamb is somewhat more plentiful but not nearly up to the demand.

Clay, Bark And Nettles Boost Slim Diets In Hungry Nations

Washington, June 22—(AP)—The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, trying to attend to one-fifth of the world's food needs, says people in China are filling their stomachs with clay and bark.

In Vienna, they go to the country on Sunday, pick nettles and cook them like spinach.

Bark and nettles help ease hunger pangs. But in none of the countries UNRRA helps are people getting anywhere near enough real food to keep them healthy.

Survey Shows Need

Here is the picture, as shown in a country-by-country survey made by UNRRA for the Associated Press:

In terms of bread cereal, the eight UNRRA nations (Albania, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Greece, Italy, Poland, Yugoslavia and China) required a minimum of almost 700,000 tons a month in the early part of this year. They haven't been getting that much. In April, for instance, they got little more than half the requirements.

On a calorie basis, Czechoslovakia is the best off of the lot. Her people have been getting about 1,800 calories a day. The figure sinks to 1,200 in Italy, 1,070 in Austria, 1,050 in Poland and to an unknown quantity in China where starvation already is found in many provinces. The figures are rough approximations.

Former President Herbert Hoover has reported that 2,200 calories a day "is a minimum in a nation for healthy human beings." The bedrock" figure for the current famine emergency has been set at 1,500 to 1,800 calories, which Mr. Hoover says is "dreadfully hard on children."

At less than 900 calories, Hoover says, "we come to mass starvation" and to "slow death."

In Vienna, the normal consumer gets 867 calories. In some sections of Yugoslovakia, people eat only 770 calories, although the average is 1,500.

UNRRA considers China, Austria, Italy and Poland to have reached the point of disease, public disorder and starvation.

Conditions By Countries

A sample of conditions in various countries shows:

CHINA — Famine clutching 18 provinces; 33,000,000 people on an inadequate diet, 7,000,000 on the brink of starvation; in the "rice bowl" province of Hunan, eye witnesses report mudtitudes eating grass, roots, bark and even clay with the countryside shaved clean of vegetation by famished people.

AUSTRIA—UNRRA just now is assuming full responsibility for feeding there. Bread rations in Vienna were trimmed to 20 grams a day starting in April. The weekly flour ration of 140 grams is barely enough to thicken soup. Early in April, children got a pound of fresh vegetables—the first since last Fall—and adults got none.

POLAND—The government has had to use seed grain to feed the people. The division of 20,000 tons is expected to cut production by 100,000 tons. There have been sporadic bread strikes. Coal production has fallen off because miners lack strength to work a full day.

ITALY—The daily bread ration has been sliced to 200 grams. Famine is a reality in some areas. Food riots increased even before some of the latest ration reductions.

GREECE—The Greeks have relied on UNRRA for about half their food, and UNRRA imports have been declining. In the Athens area people were getting 784 calories of food a day in May. Rations have deteriorated not only in quantity but also in quality. Children have chronic malnutrition.

YUGOSLAVIA—The western half normally fails to produce enough food for its own needs. War and the poorest harvest in living memory have driven it to complete dependence on UNRRA. The region along the Adriatic Coast is a starvation zone.

CZSCHOSLOVAKIA — Many of the largest mills have had no wheat to grind since March. The fats and oil situation is getting worse.

Nevertheless, the Czech government gave UNRRA 2,000 tons of sugar, plus seed potatoes, vegetable and clover seeds. The country was a larger exporter of beet sugar bfore the war and had some surplus.

House Split Laid To 'Soft' Policy Toward Italy

C. JOHNSON

Washington, June 22 (AP)—House Foreign Affairs Committee members said today that a major reason for their current row over an unpublished subcommittee report is a section highly critical of American policy toward Italy.

This section, they declared, contends that what it terms "soft" treatment of Italy is alienating the friendship of Greece and Yugoslavia.

As a result, the report contends, "Yugoslavia is pushed toward Russia as Greece is being pushed toward Russia, because of the policy . . . in giving as good or better treatment to defeated Italy as is being promised and proposed" to the others.

Lid On Report Popping

The committee members declared that while press accounts of the report have dwelt on their controversy over criticism of the policy toward Russia, there is nearly as much discord over the portions concerning Italy.

These legislators added that they will renew their fight Monday to obtain committee approval for publication of the dispute-provoking document.

Chairman Bloom (D., N.Y.) blocked a vote on the report at a meeting last Wednesday, when he announced "action has been deferred" and hurriedly adjourned the session.

Calls Publication Unfair

Bloom contended that it would be "unfair" to publish the report as a committee document, because he said it represents the views of only a few members.

He also said the views of those members are open to question because their opinions are based on a comparatively short time in Europe.

Most of the report is signed by a four-member subcommittee, including Representatives Bolton (R., Ohio), Gordon (D., Ill.), Mundt (R., S.D.) and Ryter (D., Conn.). They toured Europe between August and October last year.

This section condemned what they described as "unwise appeasement" of Russia. It urged a stiffer policy toward the Soviet, and suggested a meeting soon of Premier Stalin and President Truman.

Policy Branded "Vapid"

Only Mrs. Bolton and Mundt signed the portion dealing with Italy, since the other two left for home before this area was visited.

This section, in a copy obtained by a reporter, declared that American policy in Italy is "altogether too vapid, soft and indecisive." It added:

"Our policy (there) raises in the minds of the Greeks the question as to whether it pays out in the end to fight on the side of freedom with unbroken loyalty and with tremendous losses in manpower and property."

Compares Italian "Straddle"

It compared this with the Italian policy of attempting to switch sides at the end of the war and thus work both sides of the street, so as to be in a comparative position of strength and importance, regardless of which side wins the war.

"There is real danger that in the greatly different policy that we are using toward defeated Italy as contrasted with our more understanding policy as used against defeated Germany and Japan, we may be sowing the seeds of future resentment which if trouble came to the world again may well result in much greater disinclination on the part of the smaller powers to throw in their lots with the great democracies."

Austin Shows Firm Faith In U. N's. Future

Vermont Senator Believes Britain and Russia Will Co-operate

By FRANK I. WELLER

Washington, June 22—(AP)—Sen. Warren A. Austin, (R.-Vt.,) says "it's like a divine dispensation to serve mankind" to be chosen as U. S. Representative to the United Nations.

Handsome, round-faced, thin-haired, eye-glassed, he says he is sure U. N. can make a go of it, and he is not booed under the porch by people who say Britain and Russia are out to get us.

He told me he is convinced both nations will co-operate heartily in the Security Council and that all either wants is to be let alone.

Austin, 68, has been in the Senate 15 years. He is like what old-time Democrats used to call "Jimpsonweed Republican" . . . He stays in the patch but he sprouts out. Some of his party colleagues got pretty provoked with him when he joined President Roosevelt in denouncing non-interventionism and urged repeal of the Neutrality Act.

He voted for Lend-Lease and the 3¾ billion loan to England.

Of the latter he says:

"U. S. dollars are needed to stabilize world currencies. We'll get our money back when borrowing neighbors have the material income to finance trade with us. We cannot afford again to have trade barriers . . . Such things as the 'dollar blac' nations, the 'sterling bloc' naitons, the 'blocked marks' of Hitler's rise to power, a 'ruble bloc' or barter trade prevalent in places as they were just prior to the last war."

Like a good, sturdy Republican, he told me he is not ready to see all tariffs knocked out but he is sure there never will be another Smoot-Hawley tariff. He said tariffs could be scientifically adjusted so they wouldn't suppress trade and surely never should be a virtual embargo against a neighbor nation's goods.

Austin wouldn't say he is strictly for the Roosevelt-Hull reciprocal trade program, opposed in some forms by various of his party colleagues. But he did say he believes treaties between just two countries are an open invitation to economic warfare and eventually armed conflict.

Sees Turning

He said:

"We must remove or at least reduce obstacles to world commerce and open the natural resources of nations to the employment of greater numbers of people. I consider U. N. a great instrument in the mosaic of peace we must substitute for economic warfare."

The Senator described the "divine dispension." To serve U. N. as a reward for the fight he made for international co-operation when it seemed most of the Republican party was against him. He said he felt a large part of it has now turned to his side.

On isolation he said in 1938:

"Isolation is impossible. We are inextricably involved in the affairs of the world."

Of the 1937 Neutrality Act he said:

"It is not a neutrality act and ought to be repealed or amended. It avoids all consideration of the merits of the contest."

On extension of the Draft Act in 1940:

"I call such forces . . . police officers of the common law . . . We ought to pass the several statutes for restoration of the military effectiveness of the United States."

Likeable Austin tells funny stories about and on himself. He is six feet tall and weighs 200 pounds.

He played valve trombone in his college orchestra. They wouldn't let him have a "slip-horn" (slide trombone) so he got tough and broke out with an old brass baritone which he says probably cost a buck-fifty.

Leads Band

In no time he was band leader and they nicknamed him "Schneider" because at that time a hotshot dance band was bossed by a maestro named Schneider.

He is a member of the Ethan Allen Club and talks forever about the hero of Ticonderoga and the time Allen fed defeated British officers parched corn and acorns because that was all he had . . .

And the British officers saluted and said:

"We might as well give up. No Country can whip a people who can fight on that stuff."

Of all the kudos from the Senate on Austin's appointment by President Truman, friends say the best came from Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.).

"I heartily applaud the selection of Senator Austin to this desperately important responsibility. . . . "

The last story Austin told me was of the time he and former Sen. Warren Barbourn (R-N. Y.) went into Virginia to help a friend graft trees in his apple orchard. Austin did the cutting and Barbour put the bandages on.

The owner, watching them, said:

"This is the first time I ever saw one Senator grafting and another one covering up for him."

U. S. Releases Record on 1931 Japanese Crisis

Documents Reveal Stimson Put Emphasis on Peace, Tokyo Relied on Deceit

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP).—The first setp in Henry L. Stimson's evolution from a cautious diplomat to an outspoken leader who tried to mobilize the democratic world against Japanese aggression was charted today in hitherto secret documents.

The documents, contained in a 1,000-page volume on American foreign policy in the Far East in 1931, cover the period from Aug. 20, a month before Japanese and Chinese troops clashed in the South Manchuria Railway "incident," to Jan. 6, 1932. Made public by the State Department, the volume will be sold by the Government Printing Office.

At the end of the period covered, Mr. Stimson—President Hoover's Secretary of State—still has not emerged as the leader of a move to halt Japanese conquest of Manchuria by imposing an embargo. That came later.

But in the four months Secretary Stimson did develop from a man who bent over backward to avoid offending Japan to one who told Nippon what he thought of its treachery in Manchuria and pledged at least silent co-operation if the League of Nations slapped sanctions on Tokyo.

At the start Secretary Stimson told China the United States was "not taking sides" and was "playing no favorites."

"For the moment we are concerned with the question of peace," he said.

Although he made recommendations to the League of Nations Council on its course of action, Secretary Stimson warned the American Consul in Geneva not to give the appearance of collaborating too closely with the League.

He insisted that the invocation of the Kellogg-Briand anti-war pact be initiated in Geneva, not Washington.

This caution, Secretary Stimson made clear, was prompted by two factors:

1. American public opinion.

2. Belief that the Japanese Cabinet—particularly the Foreign Minister, Baron Shidehara (who has served as Premier under General Douglas MacArthur during the occupation—wanted peace and had a chance to gain the upper hand over the war-minded Japanese.

The story of the period covered by the volume is one of Japanese deceit, treachery and aggression; Chinese humiliation, pathos and patience, and big nation—including American—apathy and procrastination.

Whether the "neutral" diplomats could have done better with the tools they had (the League of Nations, the Kellogg-Briand pact, and the nine-power treaty) is not stated in the papers. The documents, however, disclose little foresight in world capitals on what Japan's aggressive beginnings in Manchuria eventually would mean.

On Sept. 11, 1931, Dr. John C. Ferguson, of Boston, then adviser to the Chinese government, told United States Minister Nelson T. Johnson he had information that the Japanese would occupy Manchuria within three months.

Dr. Johnson, however, reported to Secretary Stimson that he thought such action "highly improbable."

But as late as Oct. 16, the American Embassy in Tokyo told Secretary Stimson in a diplomatic message that the Manuchurian situation was "unfortunate and trying, but it does not amount to a world crisis."

Psychology Chooses

The new system went to work on the rest. Dr. Edwin Henry of Oradell, N. J., chief psychologist for personnel research said it picked a person with these general qualifications for the perfect officer:

1. He is in the upper 15 per cent of the population in intelligence.
2. He has the equivalent of at least two years in college.
3. He has a high versatile learning ability.
4. He is very stable under pressure.
5. He is mature emotionally.
6. He has performed well under war time conditions as shown by his medals, awards and records.
7. He has the habit of saving money, "even a little".
8. Chances are he comes from the farm or a small city.

The candidates were sized up from information they supplied about themselves, from evaluations by officers with whom they served during the war, from interviews by senior officers and from comparisons with officers of known and tested ability.

Score sheets were sent to Washington and run through a machine. The final score determined the candidate's place on the list of eligibles. With some leeway for specialists, the Army took the best for the 9,600 commissions.

Other valuable officer material was put on a waiting list, as the Army hopes Congress will grant it another 25,000 permanent officers.

On the test the applicants were not asked whether they drank. The 9,600 'Perfect' Army Officers Chosen For Congress By New Test

R. COWAN

Washington, June 22—(AP)—A new, partly mechanized system for picking the perfect Army officer has lined up 9,600 of "the best selected leaders in the world today" for congressional approval.

That is the Army's own appraisal of a list that goes to Congress Friday. The generals proudly proclaimed that their new method is more than twice as good as the old and "far superior" to any used in industry or business.

Although the Army is discharging officers, Congress voted six months ago to give it 9,600 permanent officers beyond the normal peacetime level. The War Department started out to fill the commissions from 800,000 men who were temporary officers during the war.

It got 108,000 volunteers. Physical tests and withdrawals cut the total to 81,000.

Dr. Henry explained, is that all classifications could answer "yes" or "no." Nor were applicants asked for political opinions.

U. S. Forces in Japan Kill World Illicit Drug Traffic

$1,000,000 Heroin Destroyed, No More Poppies Grown

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP).—Colonel Crawford F. Sams, chief of public health and welfare in General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, reported here today that American occupation forces in Japan and Korea have cut off 90 per cent of the world's pre-war illicit drug trade at its source.

Sams advised the War Department that "now there is no illegal traffic in narcotics in Japan." He said American forces have destroyed heroin valued at more than $1,000,000.

"We have eliminated poppy growing as a major agricultural occupation," Sams reported. "When we took over, there were 100,000 Korean farmers growing poppies for opium and 300,000 Japanese poppy farms. Now there are none."

Army Studies Trans-Oceanic Atomic Missile

Could Hit Any Spot in World Within an Hour; Other Rocket Research Spurred

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP).—The Army is talking of the possibility of an atomic missile which, fired from the United States, can hit any part of the world within an hour.

This information was given to Congress when the Army went before the House Appropriations Committee to ask for money to carry on its work, including research, for the next year.

Colonel S. B. Ritchie, acting chief of the Research and Development Service, said:

"We must expect other nations will develop missiles capable of crossing oceans. Counter-measure missiles are therefore included in our over-all program.

"The guided missile has suddenly become one of the most important weapons of today. It takes little stretch of the imagination to envisage a perimeter rocket defense of the United States.

"We cannot discount the possibility of launching from underground sites loads of atomic retribution for delivery in an hour on an enemy in any part of the globe."

Then there is another kind of weapon the Army has in mind: A missile which, fired from the American coasts at approaching ships, can hit them hundreds of miles at sea.

Colonel Ritchie said a "project for detailed study of the problem was established last June with Radio Corporation of America and will be completed in the near future.

"The next step is to develop the missile—one which not only will direct itself for hundreds of miles to an approaching target for a direct hit, but also travel so high and so fast that shipboard defense against it becomes practically impossible—a weapon so superior to present coastal defense weapons there is no comparison."

Colonel Ritchie said the Army has a contract with the General Electric Company which is making the "Buck Rogers myth a reality."

He was speaking here of rockets, "long range, ground-to-ground controlled missiles," and he said:

"These giant rockets will travel more than five times faster than sound (sound travels 1,100 feet a second in air), capable of streaking into space and then, controlled by complicated robot 'brains,' dive with uncanny accuracy on a target thousands of miles away."

CONGRESS VOTES BILLIONS FOR ARMED FORCES

$11,000,000,000 Includes $7,000,000,000 Army Peacetime Record.

$4,000,000,000 FOR THE NAVY

To Settle Some House and Senate Differences—'No Strike' Rule Included in Navy Bill.

Washington, June 22 (A. P.).—Billions for defense spelled out congressional determination today to keep the nation's armed forces at record peacetime strength and efficiency for the coming year.

Between the House and Senate more than $11,000,000,000 have been voted—some $7,000,000,000 of it for the Army, the largest peacetime budget in War Department history, and more than $4,000,000,000 for the Navy.

The huge appropriations bills are not yet ready to go to the White House, pending agreement on differences which have cropped up between House and Senate versions, but indications were that the over-all money total would not be greatly affected.

The House stamped its approval yesterday on a $7,091,034,700 Army fund bill for the fiscal year starting July 1, and promptly packed the measure along to the Senate.

The Senate, meanwhile, was voting $4,100,000,000 for the Navy in a session which saw more than $6,000,000,000 of expenditures approved without record vote and over the audible protest of only one among the ninety-six lawmakers.

Single Objecting Voice.

The lone voice raised was that of Senator McMahon (D.-Conn.) who told his colleagues that he had not the slightest idea whether the money was being voted wisely. He bluntly suggested the other ninety-five Senators were in the same boat.

McMahon's protest came as Senate legislative machinery passed the Navy fund bill, then voted more than $1,600,000,000 to supply the Treasury and Post Office departments; and another $450,000,000 for the State, Commerce and Justice departments.

Previously approved by the House, these bills now go back there for consideration of various Senate increases, decreases and limitations before the new Government fiscal year begins July 1. Most of the Senate's arguments dealt with various limitations written into the measures.

As finally passed by the Senate, the Navy bill contained some $40,000,000 less than voted by the House, chiefly through elimination of Navy plans to build a large number of permanent hospitals.

Senator Magnuson (D.-Wash.) and Pepper (D.-Fla.) questioned inclusion of a "no-strike" provision against Federal workers in the Navy bill. But Senators downed their protests by pointing out that the same provision had been put in all earlier money measures.

U. S. ARMY IN CHINA SEEKS BODIES OF MISSING AIRMEN

Washington, June 22 (AP)—One of the most difficult [illegible] in all history is being made in China in an attempt to recover the bodies of 1,000 American service men, mainly aviators who bailed out or crashed in that country during World War II.

In addition, 500 isolated graves have been located, Col. Charles F. Kearney, in charge of graves registration work at headquarters of the United States forces in China, reported to Maj. Gen. T. B. Larkin, the quartermaster general.

Rewards are offered by both the United States Government and the Chinese Government for information leading to recovery of bodies.

Outlining some of the problems of search teams, covering an area one-third the size of the United States, Colonel Kearney reported:

"Roads are practically non-existent. Airfields are scarce and not in good condition. We can get into some areas only by air. We have traveled to some areas by boat and to others by pack animals."

Now buried in five cemeteries in China are 1,924 war dead. Those whose next of kin desire will be returned to the United States.

Canada May Send More Logs To U.S.

Washington, June 22 (AP)—The Canadian Embassy has informed the State Department that if production of logs from Crown-grant lands increases the Dominion may be able to release more logs to the United States.

The Embassy statement, from the Dominion's timber controller, said, in part:

"Logging conditions are at present reasonably good at the coast and if, as anticipated, our production increases materially during the summer months it is quite likely we may be able to release further logs for shipment to the United States before the end of the year. However, the situation is not at all encouraging at the present moment."

The controller said there were indications that labor troubles would retard logging. After the letter was written a strike was called and the State Department said all log shipments would cease until it was settled.

Winant Slated To Speak At Roosevelt Memorial

Washington, June 22 (AP)—John G. Winant, American representative on the United Nations Social and Economic Council, will be the principal speaker at a joint session of Congress, July 1, in memory of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

A Senate-House committee on arrangements announced invitations have been sent to members of the late President's family, President Truman, the Cabinet, justices of the Supreme Court, representatives of foreign governments and high Army and Navy officials.

Also on the program are Robert Merrill, of the Metropolitan Opera, the United States Marine Orchestra and Senate and House chaplains.

Army's July 4 Celebrations

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP).—Army troops will take part in six Independence Day celebrations, General Jacob L. Devers, ground forces commander, announced. Independence Day assignments include: Des Moines, Iowa, centennial celebration, June 29 and July 4, infantry batallion, tanks, 105 mm. howitzer battery and 5th Infantry division band from Camp Campbell, Ky. Philadelphia, victory celebration parade July 4, regimental combat team, 2d Airborne division and 82d Air-borne division band, Fort Bragg, N. C.; mechanized cavalry troop, Fort Meade, Md.; band and chemical warfare troops Edgewood Arsenal, Md., and tank platoon, Fort Knox, Ky.

State Department Purge Of 'Pinks' Is Predicted

Senate Passes Bill Widening Byrnes's Dismissal Power

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP).—A "thorough housecleaning of fellow travelers" in the State Department was predicted by Senator Richard B. Russell, Democrat, of Georgia, today. He based this on Senate approval of broad discharge powers for Secretary of State James F. Byrnes.

The Senate attached to the State Department appropriations bill an amendment giving Secretary Byrnes authority to discharge any State Department employees regardless of civil service regulations. Under its terms, the employees could exercise their rights, however, to obtain jobs in any other government agency.

Senator Russell offered the amendment, he said, after testimony by Assistant Secretary of State Donald Russell that State Department officials were doing all they could to "weed out" suspected "fellow travelers" but lacked authority to discharge them.

"They could build up a strong case of suspicion but not one which would stand up before a Civil Service Commission hearing. So we decided to give Secretary Byrnes extraordinary powers," the Senator told reporters.

The appropriations measure must return to the House for action on both the Senate increases and the amendment. House acceptance of the amendment was anticipated generally on Capitol Hill.

U. S. Asks Reds About Sofia Ban on Press

Washington, June 22 (A. P.).—The State Department has asked Russia to explain why four American reporters have been refused admission to Bulgaria, in apparent violation of the Potsdam agreement.

Although Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson did not say so specifically it was presumed the inquiry was directed both to Moscow and Soviet military authorities in Sofia.

Fernandez Can't Go to Manila

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP).—Representative Antonio M. Fernandez, Republican, of New Mexico, said today he had tendered "with regret" his resignation as a member of the United States commission to attend the July 4 inauguration of Philippine independence. Representative Fernandez, in a letter to Senator Millard F. Tydings, Democrat, of Maryland, chairman of the commission, said illness of Mrs. Fernandez necessitated his remaining in this country.

INTELLIGENCE SCHOOL SET

Navy to Open First Such Course for Officer Students

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—James Forrestal, Secretary of the Navy, asserting that the existence of a highly trained Intelligence organization might mean the difference between losing and winning a war, announced today that the Navy would open a school for Intelligence officers July 1. It is the first Navy school of its kind.

Besides basic training in a wide variety of intelligence fields, such as operational, strategic, amphibious and air intelligence, the students will be required to specialize in the study of some geographical area. They will learn to speak the predominant language of this area "as fluently as natives" and will study the geography, history, government, economics, politics and customs of the region.

The basic courses will require seven months. Then the officer-students will receive ten weeks of practical instruction at sea under simulated battle conditions. They will return for language studies, requiring up to eighteen months, and for their specialized studies, requiring five weeks.

Ships May Aid College Housing

Washington, June 22 (AP)—Opening his assignment to "smash the educational bottlenecks," Marine General Graves B. Erskine today studied proposals for turning big army and navy installations—and even ships—into college campuses.

"The idea of shipboard colleges doesn't appeal to some landlubbers," said the resourceful two-star veteran of Pacific fighting, "but it may be one answer to our problem."

He was appointed "bottleneck smasher" for John R. Steelman, new director of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion. His specific assignment is to speed the transfer of more Government property, both through donation and sale, to schools. He is head of the retraining and re-employment administration, Department of Labor.

Ship Dormitories Considered

Government authorities have estimated a record-smashing total of 2,080,000 students will seek admission to colleges next fall and that about 500,000 may be turned away, including 290,000 war veterans.

Erskine said today abandoned army and navy training centers, including some airfields, "are perhaps our greatest hope for expanding college campuses and making education available to more people next fall."

He said some states already have developed plans for establishing colleges in large training facilities left over from the war, and it has been suggested ships might be used.

"For instance, some officials plan to go in the very near future to the ship graveyard in Chesapeake Bay, look over the warships anchored there and choose one with good possibilities for remodeling into a dormitory," he said.

No. 1 Bottleneck

"This will be towed to an anchorage near a large city and hooked to city power lines. It will make a dormitory for up to 500 students who will live aboard and go to school in the near-by city.

"If it appears this plan is successful it can be expanded to a number of coastal cities, to the Great Lakes and to some river ports. There are any number of ships that appear suitable."

Dr. Ralph McDonald, executive secretary of the department of higher education of the National Education Association, said a recent survey of 450 of America's 1,686 colleges listed the dormitory or housing shortage as the Number 1 bottleneck in the educational crisis.

JUN 23 1946

To Stop Duplicated Work

"In some states there are proposals for co-operative plans, in which several colleges would join and take over large installations," Erskine said. "They would make professors available for part or full time, utilizing their services in the most efficient manner possible and eliminating duplicated work."

Dr. McDonald said that in this plan "some one college should have the responsibility to protect veterans against any tendency to relax standards in the 'emergency colleges.'"

Erskine said he is "seeking expansion of the army and navy donation policies for schools and colleges" to help meet equipment problems in everything from trucks to microscopes.

John W. Snyder, retiring reconversion director, also asked the Army and Navy to interpret as liberally as possible the law authorizing them to donate surplus equipment to educational institutions. He said this law permits the donation of some materials and equipment used in classrooms.

Probe Of Charge Against RFC Predicted

Washington, June 22 (AP)—A congressional investigation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's multibillion-dollar wartime operations was indicated today after the report of the General Accounting Office that the agency "does not control its $7,000,000,000 investment in properties."

Investigation-bent lawmakers desiring an inquiry, evidently were undeterred by RFC protests that the agency was being placed in a false light, when it actually was discharging its responsibilities in a satisfactory fashion.

The GAO raised the question in a report to Congress describing the RFC situation as "serious" and enumerating specific examples of what it termed "failure of the accounting function in RFC."

No Loss Charged

The report made no charge of loss to the Government, but Representative Case (R., S.D.) said "the conditions cited by the GAO seem to leave the door open for favoritism."

Chairman Manasco (D., Ala.) of the House Expenditures Committee suggested that the Banking Committee investigate RFC's wartime business, but said "if that committee does not investigate, my committee will. The thing should be looked into."

"I think the RFC itself is entitled to an inquiry, to obtain a clean bill of health if they are entitled to it," he said.

Industry Melting Dollars, Report

Washington, June 22 (AP)—Senator Murdock (D., Utah), said today that silver is so scarce that some industrial users are reported to be melting down and using silver dollars.

"I have not verified that report but I do not doubt that it is true," he said.

Murdock, who hails from a silver-producing State, commented on the Senate's vote to boost the price of silver from 71.11 cents an ounce to 90.3 cents on July 1 and $1.29 two years later.

Congress Fixes Price

Congress fixes the price of silver under laws directing what the Treasury shall pay for newly mined domestic silver and what it shall charge for any sold to industrial users. The price-booster was attached to the $1,606,067,840 appropriation bill to run the Treasury and Postoffice departments during the twelve months beginning July 1.

The House approved a section continuing the price at 71.11 cents for two years and the difference promises to be a hot issue in efforts of a joint Senate-House committee to agree on a compromise.

Hopes Pinned On House

Senators from states using silver industrially fought the price increase in the Appropriations Committee, but made no fight on the floor. Instead, they decided to pin their hopes on the House.

Contending an increase in price is overdue, Murdock predicted the price would jump immediately to $1 an ounce if all restrictions were removed and a "free market" established.

Rails To Aid Wheat Men

Washington, June 22 (AP)—A serious shortage of box cars to move wheat now being harvested has arisen in parts of Kansas but the Association of American Railroads promised Senator Reed (R., Kan.) that assistance will be given at once.

Reed said today it would be about a week before conditions could be corrected.

Only On The Santa Fe As Yet

The shortage thus far apparently is on the Santa Fe Railroad in the State, Reed said.

A Bluff City (Kan.) elevator operator telephoned the Senator that wheat is being piled on the ground there because of lack of cars. He informed Reed that he could use 25 cars if they could be obtained, but that he was getting only about one a day.

"So far as Kansas is concerned, the Santa Fe is the only line reported in serious trouble," Reed said.

Appealed To The A.A.R.

Reed immediately appealed to the A.A.R. to act. He told the association that the Santa Fe on Wednesday had requests for 1,800 more cars than it was able to make available.

The A.A.R. replied that it had ordered 350 empty cars a day turned over to the Santa Fe. Reed contended that that was not enough and the association told him it would see that the number was increased.

cause we found that they're a little too easy to control. It's the same with union conventions."

Sees Wagner Act Revision

Ball predicted legislation to amend the Wagner Act so unions as well as employers will be compelled to bargain collectively."

Ball predicted legislation to amend.

"In too many instances unions have slapped down a contract and said 'you sign it or walk out,'" he said.

The Wagner Act also should be amended "to give an employer the right of free speech," he said. "Employers now are afraid sometimes to discuss a contract because of fear they will be accused of threat or coercion."

Mentioning "the closed shop and the closed union," Ball asserted that "unions are arbitrarily depriving too many individuals of the right to earn a living. I don't believe we'll tolerate it much longer."

"The union leadership will find themselves in the same position as the Republican Party for 12 years unless they develop a program of their own," he concluded.

"Instead of screaming 'anti-labor' at every proposal made they must develop answers of their own to these problems. Then we'll get together in the long run and get a lot better legislation," he said.

The four-day conference which brought labor, management and government leaders together to discuss "the roads to industrial peace," ends tomorrow with addresses by Rep. Clare Boothe Luce (R-Conn.) and William H. Davis, former head of the War Labor Board, newly appointed member of New York City's Board of Transportation.

"One-Sided" Legislation

He said labor legislation such as the Clayton Act, the Norris-LaGuardia Act and the Wagner Act was "one-sided and conferred Federal privileges on labor" . . . adding:

"I hope that labor leaders will not maintain the position to which they have recently tended, that any legislation dealing with labor is necessarily bad and indicates an anti-labor position on the part of anyone who sponsors it."

Leaders from management, labor and government are discussing "the road to industrial peace" at the conference. Senator Joseph H. Ball (R., Minn.) is scheduled to speak today and Representative Clare Booth Luce (R., Conn.) tomorrow.

Lilienthal Wants No Atom Ban

Holds Proposals to Outlaw Weapon Show Ignorance of Human Realities.

JUN 23 1946

Buffalo, June 22 (A. P.).—Proposals for outlawing the atomic bomb and providing legal machinery for punishment of violations are "dewy-eyed, naive and ignorant of the realities of human nature," declares David E. Lilienthal, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Lilienthal, chairman of the board of consultants who prepared the State Department's report on the international control of atomic energy, last night told delegates to the American Library Association's sixty-fifth conference:

"Let me make it clear that this comment is general and not directed specifically to the initial proposals on atomic control made in New York by the Russians day before yesterday or any other proposals. I refer to the principle itself.

"It seems clear to me that we must seize upon, emphasize and make use of the affirmative, the creative opportunities if we would be practical in our efforts to eliminate atomic weapons," he said, adding:

"We are not dealing simply with a military or scientific problem but with a problem in statecraft and the ways of the human spirit.

"Therefore, the plan must be one that will tend to develop the beneficial possibilities of atomic energy and encourage the growth of fundamental knowledge, stirring the constructive and imaginative impulses of men rather than merely concentrating on the defensive and negative."

Libraries which have not increased salaries 33 per cent since 1941 should do so, and all libraries should establish minimum starting salaries of not less than $2,100 annually, the Council of the American Library Association decided yesterday.

H. COWAN

Would Ban Industry-Wide System in Coal, Steel and Transport

Tamiment, Pa., June 22—(AP)—The elimination of industry-wide collective bargaining in such fields as transportation, coal and steel was suggested today by U. S. Senator Joseph H. Ball (R-Minn.) as one road to industrial peace.

"No government that wants to remain a government can permit the basic supply of commodities such as coal, steel and transportation to be interrupted very long," he told the 12th annual Tamiment social and economic conference.

The senator recommended a return to the system of negotiating union-management contracts "on an individual plant or at least on an individual employer basis."

Compulsion Not Answer

Ball said that compulsory arbitration, though he once advocated it, is not the solution to the nation's labor problem.

"Neither is government seizure," he said. "Lately the Government has been writing the contracts and the employer hasn't had much to say about it."

Ball suggested that terms of union officials be limited to two or four years and that they be elected by referendum to the membership instead of convention.

"We abandoned the convention idea in our political parties in the Midwest years ago," he said, "be-

Taft Assails Labor Stand Of Truman

Tamiment, Pa., June 22 (AP)—Sharply critical of President Truman's labor relations policy, Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio) says he has "never seen such an inconsistency and apparent ignorance of the principles of labor relations as exhibited by the President in this crisis."

"Strikes cannot be prohibited without interfering with the basic freedom essential to our form of Government," Taft declared last night in a speech to the twelfth annual Tamiment Social and Economic Institute.

Taft said he opposed the Truman emergency bill "because I do not believe that Government seizure is a proper procedure as an integral part of any constructive system of

Navy Asks More Food For Miners

Pittsburgh, June 22 (AP)—Navy officers running the district's coal mines under Government control have asked Washington to get more food for the coal diggers who have declared they will stay away from the pits unless they get more bread, flour and fresh meat.

The office of Navy Commander George E. Slocum, top officer in the district for the Coal Mines Administration, said both the OPA and the United States Department of Agriculture have been asked to help, but that nothing definite has been worked out.

Slocum's office said a number of letters had been received from groups of miners in Export, Bobtown, Mount Morris and other towns, saying miners would not work unless present food supplies were increased. One letter purported to represent the sentiment of 800 miners in one town.

Critically Short

The Navy office said a survey showed the foodstuffs the miners are demanding are critically short in mining towns and that most miners' families are lucky if they have fresh meat once a week.

The miners' "no-meat-no-work" production stoppage, should one occur, would not be a union-sponsored matter, said J. P. Busarello, president of District 5, AFL-United Mine Workers of America.

"It won't be a walkout," declared Busarello. "They'll just stay at home because their work is laborious and they won't go to work without food in their dinner pails."

Busarello said he had informed navy officials in Washington June 12 that, "unless something is done, coal production will decrease rapidly."

More Meat Expected After First Of July

Bowles and Trade Sources Predict Improvement Until November—Slaughtering and Supply Lowest in History—Bread Shortage to Ease Soon

Chicago, June 22—(AP)—Meat and bread — two main staples in the nation's diet — were harder to find today than at any time during the war. Prospects were that the tight supply would continue at least the remainder of the month.

In July, trade sources believe, things should start getting better.

Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles prediced more meat would be available for a few months after July 1, regardless of how Congress decides on the question of future price ceilings. The bread shortage, Bowles added, would be "eased considerably" in 30 days.

The Department of Agriculture supported Bowles' contention that some of the current meat shortage was caused by some shippers holding back livestock to see if price controls are dropped after June 30.

The Millers' National Federation, a trade association of millers, echoed Bowles' prediction of an improved bread flour outlook in 30 days for parts of the country but said the full benefit of the current Winter wheat harvest wouldn't be realized generally until about September 1.

Bumper Crop Bottled Up

A federation spokesman said a bumper winter wheat crop harvest is well under way in Texas and Oklahoma, but added that OPA price regulations prevent millers in other parts of the country from buying this grain, the added shipping costs making such a transaction unprofitable under price ceilings.

Most Midwestern and Eastern states will start receiving this new grain when the harvest moves northward through Kansas. The harvest began in southeast Nebraska today and already has started in Kansas.

Although relief was forecast, a spot survey of cities acress the nation showed butcher shops either had no meat to offer or could meet only a small percentage of the demand. Bread supplies, although somewhat improved in some sections, still were far below demand.

Baltimore Hard Hit

The Baltimore Evening Sun said meat supplies had reached the lowest level in that city's history, with "practically no beef or pork" obtainable.

In Chicago and Kansas City, two of the nation's major packing centers, slaughtering operations were at a record low. Most plants maintained skeleton working crews.

In Pittsburgh, Navy officers running the district's coal mines under Government control appealed to Washington for more food for the miners who have threatened to quit work unless they receive more bread, flour and fresh meat.

In Cleveland glass display counters were broken in several markets as shoppers pushed and shoved for a chance at scanty meat supplies which were reported exhausted earlier in the day.

Bowles Optimistic

Legislation to lift ceiling prices on meat, livestock and poultry has passed the Senate and is before a Senate-House conference committee. Bowles, however, contended that more meat would be available for the nation's dinner tables regardless of the final form of the OPA Bill, to be acted upon by July 1.

In his weekly radio address, he said cattle and hog producers were holding up shipments until the price issue finally was settled. He added:

"If ceilings are taken off, prices are bound to be substantially higher. If they are kept on, you'll get meat at ceiling prices. But in either case, you'll get meat."

Bowles said the outlook was for about 135 to 140 pounds of meat a person this year, compared with 165 pounds demand and the pre-war average of 125 pounds.

The stabilization director also saw a good outlook for production of poultry, eggs, cheese and milk but shortages of butter and sugar.

Black Market Blamed

Spokesmen in the meat packing industry, however, blamed most of the shortage on "illegitimate meat purchases" and contended most of this meat was going into the black market. They contended OPA compliance regulations prevented them from competing with some of the small slaughterers.

Bowles predicted meat supplies would decline again in November or December because of the tight grain situation. A below-average fall pig crop further darkened the long-range outlook.

Livestock receipts at the country's 12 principal markets this week were about 35 per cent below a year ago. Receipts have dropped steadily for the past two months, although a year ago the supply remained about level for the same period.

Chicago packers slaughtered less than 4,000 cattle this week, the lowest in history and compared with more than 20,000 head in the same period last year.

Says Chinese Reds Aren't Communists

Chicago, June 22 (A. P.).—Lord Inverchapel, the new British Ambassador to the United States, said today that the so-called "Chinese Communists are not really Communists. "Actually they are trying to upset the feudal system in China," the Ambassador said at a news conference. Lord Inverchapel said he had "great faith in the ultimate good sense" of the Chinese.

Askad about the British position on exporting, Lord Inverchapel said, "we are conceentrating on exporting everything." He said that for every 20 shillings worth of goods imported, 16 shillings are exported from England and "we must go on rationing our own people until we can bridge that gap."

Army Reveals Secret Laboratory; Test Of Jet Power Shakes Earth

Pasadena, Calif., June 22—(AP)—The curtain has been lifted on another of the Government's ultra hush-hush testing laboratories, and the earth shook in the process.

While a collection of newspaper and magazine writers held their ears, scientists demonstrated the power of jet propulsion. It was a roaring, quaking affair. The motor of a "Wac Corporal," this country's answer to Germany's V-2, was trained into a hollowed-out hillside and ignited.

A sheet of searing flame, dwarfing anything the war may have seen in the way of flame throwers, blasted the cliff and shook the concrete observing room. Since it was a static test, no missile was launched. The test simply displayed the power which sent the Wac Corporal—so-called for security reasons—skyward in recent tests in New Mexico.

The rocket is only one of several projects developed at California Institute of Technology's jet propulsion laboratory, hidden away in the hills behind Pasadena. Here throughout the war, some of the nation's top scientists worked in utmost secrecy with Army and Navy experts on the Corporal, on Jatos, the rockets which lifts planes into the air after incredibly short runs, and on the hydro-bomb, a sort of plane-carried torpedo which still is partly secret.

The hyrdobomb, least known of the laboratory's projects, is the outgrowth of an Army request for a missile to be launched from a bombing plane, then propelled accurately but at high speed under water.

Designed for launching at speeds up to 350 miles an hour, and to travel below the surface at 70 miles an hour, the rocket has a range of 1,000 yards and is driven by a solid propellant.

To test a variety of designs, Caltech has built a towing channel, 500 feet long, 16 feet deep and 12 feet wide, with windows below the surface for observers to watch the bombs in motion.

The hydrobombs are not free, but attached to a towing carriage which looks a little like a comic strip rocket ship. It runs on rails, is shinily streamlined, and during the war was powered by small rockets because electric motors weren't available. The carriage can race along at a speed exceeding 40 miles an hour.

In charge of the laboratory's work are Col. B. S. Mesick of Army Ordnance, Col. E. H. Eddy of the Army Air Forces, Comdr. H. A. Tellman of the Navy's Bureau of Ordnance, and Dr. Frank J. Malina, acting director of the laboratory for Caltech.

Agreement With Communists On Wage Increases Clears Way

Paris, Monday, June 24 (AP)—A new French coalition Government was formed early today, with President Georges Bidault retaining his portfolio as Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Bidault's new Cabinet differed little from that serving under his predecessor, Socialist President Felix Gouin. It gave virtually equal representation to France's three major political parties—Bidault's own Popular Republican Movement (MRP), the Communists and the Socialists.

Gouin, Thorez Vice Presidents

Gouin and Maurice Thorez, Communist leader, were named vice presidents of the Cabinet. Francisque Gay, MRP leader, and Alexandre Varenne, of the Union Democratique et Socialiste de la Resistance party, were named Ministers of State.

His other Cabinet appointees were:

HENRI TEITGEN, MRP, Minister of Justice.

EDOUARD DEPREUX, Socialist, Interior.

EDMOND MICHELET, MRP, Army.

CHARLES TILLON, Communist, Armaments.

ROBERT SCHUMAN, MRP, Finance.

FRANCOIS DE MENTHON, MRP, National Economy.

JULES MOCH, Socialist, Public Works.

PIERRE TANGUY-PRIGENT, Socialist, Agriculture.

MARCEL PAUL, Communist, Industrial Production.

MARCEL NAEGELEN, Socialist, Education.

JEAN LETOURNEAU, MRP, Communications.

MARIUS MOUTET, Socialist, Colonies.

AMBROISE CROIZAT, Communist, Labor.

ROBERT PRIGENT, MRP, Population.

RENE ARTHAUD, Communist, Public Health.

FRANCOIS BILLOUX, Communist, Reconstruction.

LAURENT CASANOVA, Communist, Veterans' Affairs.

Bidault said he himself also would take charge of the Information Ministry with the aid of Secretary of State Andre Colin, another of today's appointees.

Confusion Over One Post

Later, however, some confusion arose concerning the disposition of the Information Ministry when Gay said that the function of that office would be attached to his State Ministry and that Robert Bichet would be Minister of Information. A Socialist held the post in Gouin's Cabinet.

The new Cabinet will meet tomorrow and will be presented to the Constituent Assembly on Wednesday for formal approval. Bidault said he would name a number of under secretaries of state at a later date.

The way was cleared for the formation of the new Government when the Communists agreed last night to accept a fifteen per cent wage increase for trade union workers in place of the 25 per cent boost they previously demanded.

Maurice Thorez, Communist leader, announced that his party had reached the accord with Bidault on wage policies.

15 Per Cent Reported Basis

Jacques Duclos, like Thorez a secretary general of the Communist party, said the Communists had received precise assurances from Bidault on wage increases to be granted trade union workers. He declined, however, to reveal what percentage was involved.

It was learned, however, that the agreed figure for the increase was fifteen per cent, representing a sizable Communist compromise.

Until Saturday the Communists had supported the 25 per cent figure asked by the Confederation Generale du Travail, France's largest trade union organization.

First Called Unsatisfactory

Thorez and Duclos made their announcement after bringing the Communist reply to Bidault's proposal on the wage question to the foreign office.

Earlier yesterday a Communist informant had described as unsatisfactory Bidault's proposal, which was made in reply to a conciliatory Communist letter of Saturday.

The President's letter to the Communists, made public yesterday, agreed with them that "immediate general measures must be taken" on the price question in order to achieve "an increase in the purchasing power of all the working classes."

Production Emphasized

Bidault's letter said the emphasis must be on stimulating production and safeguarding the franc. "Preoccupation with those points should govern the work of the economic conference we have proposed and you have accepted," he wrote.

The economic conference, Bidault pointed out, would comprise workers, employers and government representatives. They would "consider the problem of salaries and industrial and farm prices in relation to production, with an intent to achieve a general amelioration of the living condition of all workers."

The Radical Socialist party, led by prewar Premier Edouard Herriot, decided yesterday against participation in Bidault's coalition government.

Bidault reportedly offered the Radical Socialists the Education or Agriculture Ministry and an undersecretaryship of state.

2 GI'S WOUNDED IN VIENNA CLASH

Russian Soldier in Stolen Jeep Shoots American MP's.

VIENNA, June 23. — (AP) Two American military police were shot in the head last night as they attempted to halt four Soviet soldiers in a stolen U. S. jeep, and today a Russian soldier was shot as the Americans pressed a city-wide search for the assailants.

The American soldiers were expected to live. The Russian was taken to a Red army hospital and his condition was not learned. No names were disclosed, and officers at U. S. Army headquarters declined to issue an official statement until they complete their investigation.

Week of Unrest in Vienna

The shootings came after a week of unrest among Allied troops in the Austrian capital. A week ago one Russian soldier was reported killed in fighting among Russian, French and British troops in the British zone of the city.

The best available information gave this account of last night's shootings:

American military police had received word to watch for a stolen jeep, and when they recognized it approaching the American district of the city they flagged it down.

One of the Russians in the jeep fired. In addition to being wounded in the face, one of the American soldiers was grazed by a bullet which pierced his helmet and went along his scalp.

Roads Blocked

Road blocks were thrown up in the area immediately and throughout the night U. S. military police and international police patrols searched the city for the four Russians.

A number of Soviet soldiers were questioned and one was being held as an occupant of the stolen vehicle. The investigation was slowed because officials were unable to question the two wounded Americans, one of whom underwent an operation for removal of a bullet which had lodged close to the spinal cord.

Military authorities have declined to release any information on the fighting in which the Soviet soldier was reported killed last Sunday night. A week ago last night a fight occurred in the British zone between French, Russian and British troops. Police were alerted, but the fighting flared again on the next night, when the Russian was reported killed.

Nationalization In Saxon Issue

BERLIN, June 23 (AP)—Residents of Lower Saxony, the largest and richest State in Soviet-occupied Germany, will vote next Sunday on a nationalization plan that is expected to set a precedent for the rest of the Russian zone.

Supporters describe the plan as the most extensive democratic reform since the estates of Junker aristocrats and Nazis were divided among landless peasants. The proposal, adoption of which is virtually certain, represents a compromise considerably less drastic than that first drafted by German Communists.

The compromise, which will be put to a "yes" or "no" vote, contains two lists of factories that may be nationalized. One list names 500 of the biggest industries in Saxony, which are considered to be owned by Nazis and war criminals. The other names 1,931 plants whose owners are considered free from Nazi taint and therefore could be returned to private ownership.

MASS GRAVES FOUND NEAR NAZI PRISON CAMP

BERLIN, June 23 — (AP) The Red army newspaper Taegliche Rundschau today blamed overwork, systematic starvation and epidemics for the deaths of more than 100,000 men whose mass graves, the newspaper said, have been discovered at the site of a former German prison camp near Zeithain, Saxony, in the Russian occupation zone.

Taegliche Rundschau said the prisoners were preponderantly Russian.

"In the so-called camp hospital 50,000 prisoners had lain ill and unattended and with their only exit the mass grave," the newspaper reported.

3 MILLION JEWS SEEK U.S. CARE

Editors Told They Flood American Zone In Germany

Frankfurt, Germany, June 23 (AP)—Twelve American editors and newspaper executives, at the outset of their German tour, were told today by high American officers that the United States faced the possible responsibility of caring for "up to 3,000,000 Jews" in its occupation zone.

Army sources said that Eastern European Jews were flooding into the zone at the rate of 10,000 a month.

"Many of them are coming from Russia and if they join those in Poland in an apparent mass movement toward Palestine, we may have to look after 3,000,000 of them," one army informant said.

The newspaper chiefs were told that the mass infiltration was growing into one of the gravest problems facing American occupation authorities.

"Underground Railway"

Visiting the Zeilsheim displaced persons camp near Frankfurt, the editors learned that an "underground railway" for Jews had operated in at least one instance from the British to the American zone.

A convoy of German trucks with German drivers arrived at Zeilsheim three days ago, they were informed, and unloaded 700 Polish Jews at the camp.

"The passengers got out and said, 'We are Jews and we are here,'" an army source said. 'The trucks drove off as suddenly as they had appeared and we admitted the passengers."

Chartered German Trucks

"These new arrivals apparently chartered the German trucks in the British zone, slipped across the border past our patrols and drove to Seilsheim. The camp could not refuse them admittance," the source said.

He added that the group came from the Soviet Union—where they had taken refuge in 1939—and had journeyed through Berlin and Hannover.

"More than 1,000 have come in the last few weeks from the British zone," he said.

Visited Displaced Persons' Camp

The editors also visited the Polish and Baltic displaced persons camp at Wiesbaden, after lunch with Maj. Gen. I. H. Edwards, occupation air force commander.

They asked questions about the food, which the Army is now supplying to more displaced persons in Germany than to American personnel, and inspected living conditions.

Arthur Hays Sulzberger, publisher and president of the New York Times, said: "The problem is a serious one—I understand still more of them are coming into the zone."

J. D. Ferguson, editor and president of the Milwaukee Journal, said: "I don't know what the solution is, but it is a tough problem that the United States faces. For the time being, I suppose all we can do is to harbor those who arrive here."

Confer With McNarney

Last night the visiting newspapermen conferred with Gen. Joseph T. McNarney, United States Army commander in Europe. Herbert F. Corn, managing editor of the Washington Star, said that McNarney discussed general occupation problems and also touched briefly on the problem of displaced persons.

Tomorrow the editors will visit the Lichfield trials at Bad Nauheim and then fly to Berlin on the second leg of their study trip of army policies and progress in occupied and liberated Europe.

Chaplain Finds Fraternization Is Peril to Occupation Troops

BREMEN, Germany, June 23.—(AP) Fraternization of American soldiers with "low-type" German women is creating a grave risk that the entire purpose of American occupation of Germany will be destroyed, a U. S. Army Protestant chaplain said today.

The chaplain — prohibited by Army order from having his name used—disclosed to the Associated Press the contents of a report on American fraternization in the Bremen enclave which he has just made to higher authorities.

Efficiency Lowered

The report asserted that sexual fraternization, rapidly increasing during recent months, had "lowered the self respect, efficiency and conduct of the individual soldier."

The report said that before the official lifting of the non-fraternization decree in September 1945, only ten per cent of American troops fraternized, and of these "many simply did it for adventure."

Afterward, the percentage increased and since January of this year the problem has been aggravated still further by the arrival of young replacements, many of them not yet 20 years old who "do not know one type of woman from another," the report continued.

Youths Are Offenders

"Major offenders are the 18 and 19 year-olds and men married one to three years prior to overseas service. One out of every eight married men has 'found a home' here and one out of every four GI divorces is the result of fraternization. On the average there are five pregnant German women per American infantry company.

"Fraternization has led to poor soldiering. Sexual fraternization has only led to more fraternization until it has become an obsession. It has lowered the self respect, efficiency and conduct of the individual soldier."

Fraternization with German women has caused American soldiers to forget why the war was fought, the chaplain reported.

"It has increased GI sympathy for the Germans. From the Germans who have come into the chaplains' office, it also appears to have lowered their respect for the United States Army."

An average of two requests per week are made by American troops in the enclave for permission to marry Germans—still strictly banned by the Army—the report said.

Discussing the problem, the chaplain said the majority of American troops fraternized with women of such low morals that in effect the latter were selling themselves for clothes, shoes, stockings, chocolate or cigarettes—any of the many things almost impossible for German civilians to obtain through normal channels.

"For a pair of stockings, the girls would let a man live with them for a month," the chaplain said.

He severely criticized the sending of women's clothing to American soldiers overseas—"to give to the poor Germans."

"American women should not have failed to realize the true purpose to which the majority of these gifts are put," he added.

Half of Men Are Married

About 50 per cent of those fraternizing were married, the chaplain asserted. He estimated only about five per cent of Americans having German girl friends wanted to marry them and "most are glad there is an official marriage ban."

He suggested that the ban might be lifted without harm if proper safeguards were required, such as a careful screening of the women concerned and a waiting period of at least a year after application to marry.

"That would insure that none but decent and non-Nazi Germans became the wives of American citizens over here," He said.

The chaplain charged that German girls often received blatant assistance of their parents in immoral conduct and cited this as a typical story, "the kind of thing I hear at my desk day after day:

"Well, chaplain, it was like this. I met her on the street, stopped to talk, and she asked me to her house. When I got there, her father treated me like a long lost son. They gave me a good meal and after a while her mother took me upstairs and turned down the bedclothes and the father built a fire and then they just left me with the daughter.'

The chaplain said he was "very glad to see these American dependents coming over—they will certainly be a steadying influence."

As proof that women in America also can help to keep their men out of trouble over here, the chaplain referred to a recent incident:

"One day a soldier came to me and exhibited his wedding ring. There were deep file marks on it. He said he once had made an agreement with his wife that if he were unfaithful, he would not tell her—he would just damage his wedding ring.

"So that's what I did," he said. "I've been looking at it for two months and it's driving me crazy. Won't you please write to my wife off my mind."

and tell her—just to get the agony

"So that's what I did. I wrote—with a few kind words of instruction—and a week later the husband came to me with a letter from his wife and an enclosure—a brand new wedding ring.

"That man will never fraternize again."

40,000 Hear Plea On Schleswig Area

Flensburg, Germany, June 23 (AP). About 40,000 persons paraded through Flensburg to a stadium today and heard speakers express the hope that the South Schleswig area of Germany would "return to Denmark."

The chairman of the South Schleswig Association described the meeting as an "historical event which will influence our future."

Danes in South Schleswig were forbidden by British occupation authorities to display the Danish colors.

Former Yugoslav Minister Admits Chetnik Aid To Nazis

Belgrade, June 23 (AP)—Dr. Lazar Laza Markovic, Cabinet Minister in several prewar Yugoslav Governments, testified today that the Chetniks of Gen. Draja Mihailovic had collaborated with the Germans against the Partisan forces of Marshal Tito.

Markovic and a score of others are on trial, accused of treason, along with Mihailovic.

The 64-year-old defendant testified under questioning by the court president that he had once written a pamphlet stating "Tito and his crowd will slaughter the Serbian people."

Markovic pleaded innocent to court charges that he and other politicians formed a bloc which encouraged Marshal Milan Nedic to accept leadership of the Yugoslav Government during Nazi occupation. The court also attempted to prove that Markovic and other prominent men formed a "Belgrade Representative Committee" in September, 1944, to work for Mihailovic and against the Partisans.

Markovic admitted as charged in his indictment that he had written a memorandum to King Peter II and to Allied governments in which the representative committee protested against Allied assistance to Tito's movement.

Admits Attacking Communists

The court president asked Markovic: "When the Chetniks and Partisans were fighting, who was the third party?"

A—The occupier.

Q—Was this Chetnik collaboration for the benefit of the enemy?

A—Yes.

The defendant testified that during the Nazi ocupation he violently attacked Yugoslav Communists for fear he and his family would be in danger if he did not. Under direct questioning, he then said he had known the Communists were the only force which was fighting against the occupier.

Mihailovic "Doesn't Remember"

The court charged that toward the end of the war when Markovic believed the Germans were preparing to evacuate Yugoslavia, he suggested Mihailovic send him abroad in an effort to persuade the Allies to support Mihailovic and not Tito.

Mihailovic, brought forward to confront Markovic, acknowledged receiving correspondence from him, but said:

"It was political. I do not remember it."

Dr. Kosta Kumandui, a prewar Yugoslav Cabinet Minister, pleaded innocent and denied that he ever assisted the German invader or that he ever had any contact with Mihalilovic's organization. He was accused in the same indictment with Markovic.

Today's session ended the interrogation on the indictment phase of the mass trial and it was expected that the first prosecution witnesses would take the stand tomorrow.

TITO IS DENOUNCED BY RUTH MITCHELL

General's Sister Calls Him A Traitor, Lauds Mihailovic

Former Cabinet Ministers testify in Mihailovic trial about Chetnic aid to Germans..... Page 4

Henderson, Nev., June 23 (AP)—Ruth Mitchell, sister of the late Gen. William (Billy) Mitchell, and a guerrilla fighter under the Yugoslav Gen. Draja Mihailovic lashed out tonight against what she termed the "mockery of justice now being conducted in Belgrade."

Answering charges of one of Mihailovic's codefendants, Dragi Jovanovic, Belgrade police prefect during the Nazi occupation, that she was seen with the Gestapo and Chetniks, Miss Mitchell said:

"It is a great honor, one of the greatest ever bestowed upon me, to be called a traitor by that scoundrel Tito. If ever there was a traitor to the Serbian people, it is Tito. For even now he is holding power by using the notorious Croat Ustashi, an organization of murderers trained by Mussolini.

Slaughter Charged

"During the war they were responsible for the slaughter of 600,000 Serbian peasants. Now they are cast in the role of patriots."

Miss Mitchell admitted she had been seen with the Gestapo on the occasion of her arrest and court-martial for Chetnik activities. She was sentenced to death after thirteen months in eleven different Nazi prison camps. Pressure by the Swiss Government got her release on a prisoner-of-war exchange.

The attractive, auburn - haired Miss Mitchell bitterly attacked the United States State Department for its "failure to force the Tito Government to allow me and the American aviators aided by the Chetnik forces to testify at the trial."

"Cannot Understand It"

"I cannot understand it," she continued. "Tito is allowed to entrench himself more firmly by the political use of American food, but our Government makes no demand to see the greatest patriot of the war given the comfort of American testimony, even though it would do him no good at that farce of a trial."

In Washington a State Department spokesman said the department had done all in its power to get Yugoslavia to allow the American flyers to testify at Mihailovic's trial. He said the department had dispatched two notes to Yugoslavia in the matter, that the latter Government refused in one reply to permit the Americans to attend the trial and had not answered the second request.

Peter "Lost His Chance"

Miss Mitchell compared the shipments of food to Tito to scrap iron sent to Japan. Stressing her scorn for Tito, she claimed for Mihailovic "virtually every victory credited to Tito." She charged that the Allies deserted Mihailovic and "sold him down the river" after his forces were instrumental in turning the tide of the North African battle.

"His mind finally has given way under the strain of such treachery," she said. "I am fond of young King Peter, but he lost his chance to regain the throne. But I do believe that Tito will be overthrown by mountain patriots who once kept fighting the Turks for five years before gaining their independence."

Miss Mitchell went to the Balkans as a magazine correspondent to cover an Albanian regal function.

Younger Italians Shy At Presidency

Rome, June 23 (AP)—With younger men shying away from the honor, Italy's quest for a President of the new republic appeared today to have narrowed to four men past 70.

30.24. 3485

Benedetto Croce, 80, philosopher and conservative leader, was proposed by the Socialist party as "the man who represents Italian culture in the world to the highest degree."

Former Premiers Vittorio Emanuele Orlando, 86; Ivanoe Bonomi, 75, and Francesco Saverio Nitti, 78, previously were suggested as likely candidates.

The constituent assembly is scheduled to elect the chief of state Wednesday. Premier Alcide de Gasperi's coalition government then will resign and the new President will select a new Premier.

De Gasperi is expected to retain the premiership by virtue of the sweeping victory of his Christian Democrats in the June 2 elections. The makeup of the government is expected generally to reflect the election returns, with the Socialists and Communists, who emerged second and third, respectively, at the polls, sharing the major portfolios with the Christian Democrats.

ITALY, BELGIUM SIGN PACT

ROME, June 23. — (AP) Under a revision of an Italian-Belgian commercial accord signed in Rome today up to 50,000 Italian miners will be made available for work in Belgian coal mines and Belgium will send 3,000,000 tons of coal yearly to Italy.

100 Tried On Silesian Underground Charges

Wroclaw (Breslau), Poland, June 23 (AP)—One hundred persons described as leaders of a Nazi underground organization, known as the "Freies Deutschland," are being tried here by a special tribunal on charges of attempting to overthrow Polish authority in Silesian districts.

Newspapers said there had been numerous excesses by former Wehrmacht officers who had cooperated with outlaw Polish bands in terrorist activities and spreading rumors that "Silesia soon will be freed by the English and Americans."

ALBANIAN VISITS TITO

BELGRADE, June 23—(AP) Enver Hoxha, youthful premier of Albania, arrived today for a visit with Premier Marshal Tito. No reason was given for the visit, but it was assumed that a mutual aid pact similar to those which Yugoslavia has signed with other Balkan states would result from the talks.

TASS REPORTS ON U.S. IN CHINA

Says Lend-Lease Is Prolonged Under Assumed Name

Moscow, June 23 (AP)—Soviet newspapers were told today that the United States and China had signed an agreement prolonging lend-lease under an assumed name until November, 1947, and that in Korea the Americans were exploiting both labor and industry.

A Tass dispatch from New York quoting "informed sources" said that under the agreement arms and all necessary equipment would be supplied to the Army of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek.

T. un.an's Announcement

President Truman informed Congress June 14 that American military aid to China was "continuing beyond the period covered by this report. He recalled his December, 1945, assertion that "United States support will not extend to United States military intervention to influence the course of any Chinese internal strife."

[Secretary of State Byrnes asked Congress June 13 to approve American assistance in training Chinese troops, both Central Government and Communist, to serve "this country's interest in the establishment and preservation of peace and security in Asia." Gen. George C. Marshall last January laid down a Chinese Army goal of 60 divisions—50 divisions of National Government troops and ten of Chinese-Communist troops.]

Daily Worker Quoted On Korea

Tass relayed a dispatch from New York which quoted the Communist newspaper Daily Worker as charging that the Americans were suppressing the workers' movement and replacing Japanese firms with American companies in Korea.

Tass said the Daily Worker article viewed the policies as providing a basis for exploiting the Korean people. It said the article charged that American intelligence officers questioned and searched United States soldiers before they sailed for home in order to prevent them from telling the American people about conditions in Korea.

The official Soviet news agency quoted the article as saying there was little difference between the former Japanese and present American authorities in regard to suppression of the Koreans. The Government newspaper Izvestia headlined the dispatch "United States Politics in Korea."

As To Paris Conference

Meanwhile, the Paris correspondent for the Soviet news agency attacked what he called "falsehoods and fictions" about the Foreign Ministers' Conference in the French press.

Among these he listed a claim that the Soviet delegation had proposed to resolve the Trieste problem by resettling the Italian population in the Adriatic port city.

The correspondent said that the Reuter agency carried a dispatch quoting a member of the Soviet delegation as saying that Russia was prepared to make any concessions in order to prevent the conference from going into a blind alley.

The Tass man labeled the report a falsehood and said it inspired commentaries that success of the conference must be obtained at the expense of Soviet withdrawals from their position.

From Tehran And Belgrade

A Tass dispatch from Tehran quoted charges in an editorial in the newspaper Rahbar that "imperialist" representatives of some countries were exerting pressure on Iranian Premier Ahmed Qavam to prevent him from carrying out reforms. Tass quoted the paper as saying United States Ambassador George V. Allen attempted to "frighten" the Iranian Government in a speech before editors of "reactionary" Tehran newspapers on June 11.

Pravda, Communist party organ, displayed conspicuously today a Tass dispatch from Belgrade based on information of the Yugoslav Telegraph Agency concerning alleged concentration of American and British forces in "Zone A" of the disputed Trieste area, including the arrival at Trieste of several British warships.

Denied By General

[A spokesman for Lieut. Gen. John C. H. Lee, United States Mediterranean theater commander, denied Saturday that British-American forces were concentrating along the Morgan Line, although a British Foreign Office spokesman acknowledged there had been some "precautionary" British-American troop movements in the Trieste area].

A long article in Izvestia asserted that the Danube basin had long been the "object of a struggle between capitalist countries and the seat of international strife." The article added that certain circles were trying to use "the quite unoriginal though beloved method of trying to blame the U.S.S.R." as the source of the confusion.

GANDHI PARTY REJECTION OF OFFER HINTED

Congress Leader Speaks Of Interim Proposal As 'Now Over'

India files complaint against South Africa with U. N...Page 8

New Delhi, June 23 (AP)—Statements by President Maulana Abul Kalam Azad and Mohandas K. Gandhi tonight pointed to Congress party rejection of the British proposed interim government, as five persons were killed and thirteen injured in political rioting in Madura.

Azad, emerging from a three-hour meeting of the Congress Working Committee, said wearily:

"The thing is now over as far as the Congress is concerned."

Urges Patient Development

Gandhi, the party's spiritual leader, addressing an evening prayer meeting, commented:

"Let us not look to the British Cabinet mission, but let us ourselves become a cabinet mission and develop that power and authority. We cannot build freedom in a hurry, nor can we get it in a hurry. We have to work patiently and perseveringly."

The three-hour meeting, attended by Gandhi, followed immediately a 90-minute conference of the committee leaders with Viceroy Lord Wavell and the three-member British Cabinet mission to India.

"The whole thing is finalized now," said Azad. "The resolution is being drafted and will be ready shortly." The committee itself adjourned with the announcement only that it would reassemble tomorrow.

Riots Over Nehru Arrest Fatal

The five deaths in the southern India city of Madura brought to seven the toll from three days of demonstrating over the arrest of Jawaharlal Nehru, president-elect of the Congress party, in Kashmir state.

Today's deaths and injuries occurred when police opened fire on armed crowds attacking pedestrians. Police bullets killed two persons and injured one, while the rioters killed three and injured twelve, dispatches from that city said.

A 7 P.M. to 5.30 A.M. curfew was clamped on the city, the second largest in Madras province.

Returns In Viceroy's Plane

Nehru returned early today to New Delhi in the Viceroy's plane to attend the sessions of the working committee. Both Nehru and Azad joined in the discussions with the Cabinet mission and the Viceroy.

Nehru said he had no complaint against the Kashmir police and denied a report he had been injured in a clash with them. However, he criticized the Kashmir order banning him from entering the princely state, saying, "I do not consider myself an outsider in any state in India. The whole of India is my home and I claim the right to go to any part.

"I am not sorry for what has happened if it makes the rulers of the Indian states think hard of the new condition of India and her people."

Nehru had gone to Kashmir, his native state, to aid in the defense of Sheikh Abdullah, who is awaiting trial in connection with agitation for the removal of the ruling Maharajah.

Sardar Baldev Singh, Punjab minister and the Sikh nominee in the interim cabinet, received a mandate last night from his community to refuse the post.

This introduced a new element in the situation, since it was recalled that M. A. Jinnah, president of the Moslem League, had demanded of the Viceroy that the league's consent be obtained when filling vacancies caused by refusal of minority representatives to join the cabinet.

Baldev Singh's nomination had the blessing of the Congress party which also has had one of its nominees, Premier H. K. Mahtab of Orissa province, decline to serve for "personal reasons."

The cabinet would rule India while a constituent assembly draws up a charter for independence. The British proposed five members from the Congress party, five from the Moslem League, and four from minority groups.

MOSLEM LEADER ENTERS IRAN ELECTION PARLEY

MESHED, Iran, June 23 — (AP) Sayyed Abul Hassan Isfahani, spiritual leader of 50,000,000 Shiah Moslems, is expected in Meshed within a fortnight to confer on the forthcoming Iranian general elections, the Holy Shrine commission announced today.

The commission has opposed the leftist Tudeh party and a threatened revolutionary movement similar to that in Azerbaijan province.

(Meshed, a holy city visited annually by 100,000 Moslem pilgrims, is in northeastern Iran, near the border of the Turkmen Republic of Soviet Russia.)

$30,000,000 Loot Trips Jap Teacher

Batavia, Java, June 23 (AP)—Col. Akira Nomura, 45-year-old former Tokyo high-school teacher, was plucked from a war-prisoner camp today and charged with "illegal possession of property" in connection with the theft of $30,000,000 worth of looted jewels.

E. Brunsveld van Hulten, Dutch prosecutor, said Nomura was director of the Japanese planning board in Java during the Nipponese occupation and was believed to know where the bulk of the jewels was hidden.

$6,000,000 Worth Recovered

Some $6,000,000 worth of the loot—trunks full of gold and "diamonds as big as your thumb"—has been recovered through the slender, 28-year-old Eurasian mistress of a Japanese secret police officer, Capt. Hiroshi Nakamura. She was identified as Carla Wolff, mother of two of Nakamura's children.

The jewelry was confiscated from individuals throughout the Netherlands East Indies, and stored at the head office of the Batavia state pawnshop. Nakamura is supposed to have stolen it there.

Nakamura came to Java in March, 1942, with the first Japanese landing forces, and met Carla Wolff within two weeks. Nomura arrived a year and a half later.

JEWS CLAIM 4 BRITONS FREED

2 Kidnapped Officers Return. 2 More Reported Released

Jerusalem, June 23 (AP)—Hebrew newspapers in Tel Aviv said tonight they had received mysterious telephone calls, purportedly from an unauthorized Jewish organization, declaring that "two more of the missing British officers have just been set free."

Of five British officers who were kidnapped from an officers' club in Tel Aviv on June 18, two—Flight Lieutenant P. A. E. Russell, of the Royal Air Force, and Capt. D. T. Z. Rae, of the Royal Engineers—were freed last night near the scene of their abduction.

"Probably" In Center Of City

The newspapers said the callers, representing themselves as members of Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish resistance movement, furnished no other details of the release, presumably, of a third and fourth kidnapped officer except to say that the two probably were in the center of Tel Aviv at the time of the call.

British military authorities in Jerusalem said they had received no official information concerning the release of the third and fourth officers.

Earlier tonight, the secret radio of Irgun Zvai Leumi said that the three British officers still in custody would not be released.

"We are releasing two officers, but not the remaining three, for reasons of our own," a news dispatch from Tel Aviv quoted the clandestine broadcasters as saying.

During the evening a series of sharp explosions in Tel Aviv were discovered to be the detonation of bombs which distributed anti-British propaganda leaflets as they burst.

The leaflets, issued by Irgun Zvai Leumi, contained statements made by two members of the organization who have been sentenced to death.

Calls For Admission Of 100,000

A sixth British officer, Major H. P. Chadwick, was abducted under different circumstances early last week, but escaped his Jewish guards by leaping from a window in Jerusalem on June 20.

Meanwhile, the "Voice of Israel," illegal radio station of the Haganah defense organization, said that peace in Palestine would follow admission of 100,000 Jews into the country, as called for in the British-American committee report.

"The aim of the Jewish people is to build and not to destroy," the broadcast said. "But we unfortunately have to resort to violence and destruction so that the world will know that if justice is not given, we will take it."

Imprisoned In Chains

The broadcast ended with a request to Irgun Zvai Leumi to release the three British officers it still holds.

The two officers released last night—one of whom had been slugged with an iron pipe—told today of being kidnapped at gun point at an officers' club in Tel Aviv and imprisoned for four days in chains in a basement within ten minutes' automobile ride of the scene of their abduction.

Russell and Rae were released in a garden near the Hotel Yarkon, home of the club, where an armed gang seized them on June 18.

Russell, who gave most of the details of their experiences, said he was outside the club when "two armed Jews rushed up, stuck revolvers in my back and ordered me to walk."

"One of the men took off my cap and put a white panama on my head," Russell continued. "Then I was ordered to get into a black taxi which was outside the club."

Told He Was Hostage

Four men were in the taxi, Russell related, all of them armed. One man said to him, "You need not worry, you are a gentleman. I am a gentleman. You are a hostage."

Russell said the taxi drove for five minutes, then halted. He was transferred, his hands tied behind his back, to a small green truck where he was dumped into a large crate with a hinged lid.

Captain Rae, "gagged with adhesive tape and bleeding with a head wound," already was in the crate, Russell said.

A military announcement said that Rae was slugged while resisting abduction.

Ample Supply Of Food

The truck took them to a structure on a side road where they were placed in a cellar which was carpeted with mattresses. Under the direction of a black-masked man who was flanked by four armed guards, Russell's and Rae's ankles and wrists were chained, Russell related.

"There was an ample supply of food in the cellar and every night the masked leader brought more," Russell continued, adding they also asked and received a Bible and shaving gear.

Late last night, Russell said, the masked man handed him and Rae all their possessions except their identity cards and "ordered us unchained."

Paid For "Wear And Tear"

"He pushed £1 ($4) into my pocket, saying it was for 'wear and tear' and any inconvenience I suffered. He insisted I take it, and when I offered it to one of the guards he refused."

Russell said the masked men made him and Rae don dark goggles before being led from the cellar. They entered a taxi outside the structure and were driven, with several guards, including a woman, for about ten minutes.

"The taxi stopped and we were ordered out and instructed not to turn around until we counted 200," Russell said.

The officers said they then found themselves in the garden.

Americans In China Seeking Officer For Byroade's Place

Peiping, June 23 (AP)—The choice of a successor to Brig. Gen. Henry A. Byroade, as director of operations at the Peiping Executive (truce) Headquarters presented American leaders in China with a new problem today.

The 32-year-old General returned here from Manchuria suffering from what was tentatively diagnosed as typhoid fever and Gen. George C. Marshall's headquarters in Nanking reported he would be evacuated to the United States. At the Marine Hospital here, his condition was described as "fair."

Since the work of field truce teams in Manchuria has been under Byroade, the choice of a competent replacements is important to peace in China. Walter Robertson, American Commissioner at headquarters here, said the selection had not been made.

Byroade, who played an important part in organizing the truce executive headquarters here, flew to Changchun, capital of Manchuria, on orders of General Marshall to prepare the groundwork for executing any peace pact agreed upon in current negotiations between the Government and Chinese Communists.

Peiping newspapers said Byroade had been scheduled to fly to Harbin to meet Gen. Lin Piao, commander of Communist forces in Manchuria, when he was stricken with chills and high fever.

Both Gen. Cheng Kia-min and Gen. Yeh Chien-ying, Government and Communist members, respectively, of executive headquarters here, expressed confidence today that the eight-day prolongation to July 1 of the Manchurian truce would yield important results. News of the truce and its extension was generally welcomed.

An indication of the influence of the truce was the fact that the market price of gold, a sensitive index, remained steady.

JAP DEFENDANT ILL

TOKYO, June 23 — (AP) Yosuke Matsuoka, one of the framers of the Axis tripartite pact and a defendant in the international war crimes trial here, is in critical condition today in the Tokyo Imperial hospital, Kyodo news agency reported.

The agency said that in addition to tuberculosis, Matsuoka has kidney trouble and since Saturday has been in a critical condition. His hands and feet showed symptoms of dropsy.

Matsuoka was removed from the prisoners' box shortly after the war crimes trial started. After examination at an American military hospital he was transferred to the Japanese institution.

Tokyo Closes Restaurants

TOKYO, June 23 (AP)—All first-class restaurants in Japan were ordered by the Home Ministry today to close for four months, beginning July 1, as a means of alleviating the food problem.

WIVES OF ARMY MEN ARRIVE AT YOKOHAMA

YOKOHAMA, Monday, June 24—(AP) Escorted into port by aircraft and piped ashore by two bands, the first U. S. Army dependents arrived aboard the transport Ainsworth today.

There were 312 aboard, including 128 children. They reached a sunny, humid Japan two days after the first naval familes landed.

Mrs. Robert L. Eichelberger, wife of the U. S. Eighth Army commander; Mrs. Ennis C. Whitehead, wife of the Air Forces commander, and Mrs. George Atcheson, Jr., wife of the American member of the Allied council, led the arrivals.

There were only two enlisted men's families aboard; the others were dependents of officers or warrant officers.

JAPANESE SILVER HOARD DISCOVERED AT SENDAI

SENDAI, Japan, Monday, June 24—(AP) Twenty-nine 80-pound bars of silver were found buried in the woods on the outskirts of this north Honshu town in a search which also netted quantities of foodstuffs and brought arrest of "some Japanese," U. S. Eighth army officers reported today.

There was no announcement of the number of Japanese arrested or why. The silver bars were formerly the property of the Japanese navy; Japanese sources had reported their existence.

PRACTICE BOMB DROPPED AT BIKINI

Rehearsal Goes As Scheduled; Admiral Blandy Pleased

Aboard the U.S.S. Mount McKinley, Monday, June 24 (AP)—The "Queen Day" atomic test practice bomb was dropped at 9.11 A.M. Bikini time (5.11 P.M. Sunday, E.S.T.).

A ball of orange flame bursting from the practice bomb close to the center of the target fleet off Bikini puncutated the final rehearsal for the "Able Day" test scheduled later.

Correspondents aboard the flagship at a distance of slightly more than 10 miles from the practice bomb said the bomb appeared to explode between the battleship Nevada and the light carrier Independence at a height of 1,000 to 1,500 feet. Observers on the flagship were unable to see the B-29 which released the practice bomb.

Officers Pleased

Task force high command officers were well pleased with the experiment.

Maj. Gen. William E. Kepner, who followed closely the progress of the bombing plane, told reporters that the drop "was all right, very good."

Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, in charge of the test, asserted:

"Swell! I hope the real show is as good as the rehearsal."

Superficial Reports Expected

Aboard U.S.S. Appalachian, En Route to Bikini, June 23 (AP)—There is growing concern among correspondents aboard this press ship that the American public may receive only superficial reports by press and radio of damage to the guinea pig fleet in Bikini lagoon in forthcoming atomic-bomb tests.

One veteran editor expressed it this way:

"What conclusions will we be able to draw from the atomic explosion? Does it mean a new era in ship construction? Does it mean the day of surface craft is ended?

"There will be plenty of pretty word pictures about the explosion, but can we draw any real conclusions?"

Indications are that correspondents will be extremely limited in their movements around Bikini, both before and after the bomb is dropped. They already have been notified that "time and transport will not permit much individual initiative."

There will probably be a landing craft to carry the 150 news and radio writers aboard the Appalachian on a conducted tour of Bikini lagoon before the blast, but small boats for individual trips will be lacking.

Also, the manner in which the target ships are anchored in the lagoon is classified as "secret." So is the exact point at which the bomb will explode.

There is no indication, either, that any close inspection of the target fleet after the blast will be permitted.

ESTIMATE OF COST OF BIKINI TESTS DISPUTED BY NAVY

ABOARD U.S.S. APPALACHIAN, June 23 — (AP) The Navy defended today the expense of the atomic bomb tests and denied that the cost would soar above half a billion dollars, even though the operation compares in number of ships and personnel and supply problems with a goodsized wartime task force.

Critics of the test have estimated that the target vessels alone are worth $400,000,000 and that another $100,000,000 would be spent in additional costs.

But, the cost of the operation depends on how you do your bookkeeping. The Navy estimates the cost, outside of the expense by the critics.

"Many figures as to the cost of this test have appeared," said Cmdr. Lawrence Julihan, Arlington, Va. "None have emanated from a proper authority and usually have been gross exaggerations."

The Navy's official estimate of the cost will not be disclosed until Vice Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, atom task force commander, makes his final report. But Julihan said the entire Crossroads operation would cost less than one capital ship of the Iowa class, a $110,000,000 investment.

"What we learn may save many lives and ships and dollars in the future," he added.

In figuring the operation's costs, the Navy does not accept the estimates of $400,000,000 as a true value of the target ships. That was the approximate cost of construction.

Now most of the target vessels are considered worth little more than junk. If it were possible for the Navy to sell all 77 of the target ships for scrap at $10 a ton American taxpayers would realize only about $5,500,000 on the deal.

Many of the target ships were obsolete and destined for the scrap pile and would have been sold. But the majority, because of the expense of dismantling them, could not have been peddled even for junk, the Navy asserted.

NAVY NURSES WILL SEE BIKINI BOMB EXPLOSION

ABOARD U.S.S. APPALACHIAN, June 23. — (AP) Women will be at the Bikini atom bomb party, after all.

Almost everyone has thought it would be a strictly stag affair.

The Navy disclosed today that among the 42,000 persons who will have ringside seats, so to speak, at the test will be a group of nurses. They will be the first American women to see an atomic explosion.

The nurses, whose numbers press officers did not know, will be aboard the hospital ships Bountiful and Benevolence, which will stand by with other task force ships outside Bikini lagoon to give aid to any injured personnel in the fleet.

Three Decisive Battles Clinched Victory in Europe, Eisenhower Says in His Official Report on Invasion

WASHINGTON, June 23—(AP) General Dwight D. Eisenhower reported tonight that his European victory was clinched in three decisive battles by Allied might and teamwork and by German mistakes.

"The war was won before the Rhine was crossed," the Allied supreme commander advised the combined chiefs of staffs in a massive 123-page report on the sweep of his armies from Normandy to the Elbe.

Hitler and Field Marshal Von Rundstedt guessed wrong at D-Day, he said, by holding the bulk of their forces opposite England in wait for a second assault which never came.

Enemy Played Into Our Hands

Then, he related, "the enemy played into our hands by his insistence upon fighting the battle where he stood."

As the most decisive episodes of the history-turning eleven months between D-Day and V-E Day, Eisenhower listed:

1. Battle of the Normandy beaches, where the enemy was beset by difficulties of supply and communications "which were ultimately to prove his undoing." Because of air weakness and consequent lack of reconnaissance, the enemy was "completely misled by our diversionary operations, holding back until too late the forces in the Pas-de-Calais which, had they been rushed across the Seine when first we landed, might well have turned the scales against us."

2. Battle of the Falaise pocket, where the enemy "showed that fatal tendency to stand and fight when all the logic of war demanded a strategic withdrawal." By so doing, Eisenhower said, "he allowed the Seventh army to be encircled and ground to pieces, and the battle for France was decided among the bloody orchards and hedgerows of Normandy."

3. The battles west of the Rhine during February and March, where "the armies which had been intended to defend Germany were shattered beyond recovery."

Could Not Supply Armies

"Throughout the struggle, it was in his logistical inability to maintain his armies in the field that the enemy's fatal weakness lay," Eisenhower concluded. "Courage his forces had in full measure, but courage was not enough. x x x.

"For this state of affairs we had, above all, to be grateful to the work of the Allied air forces."

On the score of Allied might, it was noted that on the eve of the Rhine crossing Eisenhower had nearly 4,000,000 men in the armies under his command.

11,000 Planes Available

"In addition we had available nearly 11,000 fighter and bomber airplanes x x x and the striking and strangling force of two formidable naval fleets working as one," he added.

Behind the combat units were the efforts of 3,000,000 other men and women in uniform, and Eisenhower said in tribute that "no army or navy was ever supported so generously or so well."

As for Allied cooperation, he reported that the United States and Great Britain worked "not merely as allies, but as one nation, pooling their resources of men and material alike."

The Russians were more difficult.

"Up to the end of 1944 I had received no information on matters affecting the Russian grand strategy," he recorded.

But in the following January a staff group from supreme headquarters, Allied expeditionary forces, headed by Air Chief Marshal Tedder, Eisenhower's deputy, received from Marshal Stalin a "full explanation" of the Red army's plan for its forthcoming four-pronged offensive. That drive by 150 to 160 divisions turned out to be a success "even greater than had been anticipated."

Eisenhower noted incidentally that most of the 90 divisions which fought in armies under his command during the later stages of the battle for Europe were usually reinforced by tank, anti-aircraft and other attachments to 17,000 men, "well over twice the strength of Russian divisions."

Follows Report by Marshall

Covering the decisive period between D-Day and V-E Day, Eisenhower's report was similar in bulk to the earlier final report of Gen. George C. Marshall, his predecessor as War department chief of staff. It was accompanied by a separate atlas of maps charting the relentless advance against the Axis in the Pacific as well as in Europe, and was dated July 13, 1945 when SHAEF was dissolved.

The report detailed the telling blows struck by the U.S. and Royal Air forces, with the comment that "the overwhelming Allied superiority in the air was indeed essential to our victory."

Although the broad tactical plans for the "Overlord" operation—the invasion of the continent—were completed and approved by the combined chiefs in August, 1943, Eisenhower related that he won agreement to increasing the Normandy assaulf force from three to five divisions. D-Day originally was May 1, but it was delayed until June 6 chiefly by lack of sufficient landing craft and by weather.

D-Day for the southern France landing had to be delayed from July 1 to August 15 because of the same shipping shortage.

The scheme of maneuver against Normandy proposed in the advance plans, Eisenhower noted, was "practically identical with that which was followed during the campaign."

Landing Was Surprise

In the actual landing, he said "we achieved a degree of tactical surprise for which we had hardly dared to hope." For two months German Generals von Rundstedt and Rommel kept their greatest strength in the Pas-de-Calais district of France, opposite England, guarding against the threat of a second Allied assault which never materialized.

"Rommel's confidence in his mines and concrete was indeed to have disastrous results for the German army," Eisenhower observed.

In relating General George S. Patton's spectacular armored breakthrough from the beach area, Eisenhower reported that the French F.F.I. resistance forces were of great assistance in reducing Brittany, and said that British Field Marshal Montgomery's handling of one tactical situation was "masterly."

Eisenhower said in a chronicle of the German final Ardennes counter-offensive that he took a "calculated risk" in holding a 75 mile front between Trier and Monschau with no more than four divisions, feeling sure that any attempt by Von Rundstedt to break through there again as in 1940 would "ultimately be disastrous to Germany."

He said he put the American forces north of the Ardennes salient under Montgomery's command because it would have been "impracticable" for General Omar Bradley to handle forces both north and south of the bulge.

Battle Costly to Nazis

Although the Nazis' final effort "delayed our offensive operations by at least six weeks," Eisenhower noted that the enemy had paid with 220,000 casualties and "widespread disillusionment" by the end of the Allied counter-thrust.

During the Battle of the Bulge, Eisenhower disclosed he ordered General Jacob L. Devers to withdraw his 6th Army group forces back to the Vosges, giving up virtually all of hard-won Alsace.

This, however, entailed the loss of Strasbourg, and the French protested that this would bring "unfortunate political repercussions" and perhaps even the downfall of General de Gaulle's government.

Eisenhower said the French, although ill-prepared, were ready to make a fight for the historic city. He said he ruled against the French plea on military grounds but changed his decision when he became convinced that the withdrawal might bring "such grave consequencies in France that all our lines of communication and our vast rear areas might become seriously affected through interference with the tasks of the service troops and through civil unrest generally."

Crushed Colmar Pocket

Lt. Gen. A. M. Patch's Seventh Army and French forces, under Devers, beat off the Germans, subsequently crushed the dangerous Colmar pocket in Alsace and, in the Saar, along with Patton's Third Army helped inflict a defeat which Eisenhower said was the "most devastating" the Germans suffered except possibly the Tunisia debacle.

Of the fighting leading up to the Rhine crossing, the Allied commander said General Bradley's tactical operations as commander of the 12th Army group were "the equal in brilliance of any that American forces have ever conducted."

Jet Planes Were Threat

German jet-propelled fighter plane production, Eisenhower said, was "the most serious threat with which we were faced" in planning the 1945 campaign. It was countered by massive Allied air attacks on German fuel plants, fighter fields and aircraft factories.

The German failure to destroy the Remagen bridge across the Rhine presented the Allies with a "golden opportunity" which he was quick to seize.

"Because our main 'power' crossing of the Rhine was attempted x x x we were already in possession of two sizeable bridgeheads," he observed.

The Germans, he said, made the same error they had committed in France and west of the Rhine in electing to defend the Ruhr where 325,000 of Field Marshal Model's men were rounded up.

With the junction with the Russians and the penetration of the last-stand "national redoubt" in southern Germany, Eisenhower said "the German war machine which had sought to dominate the world lay overwhelmed and crushed to a degree never before experienced in the history of modern armies."

More important than weapons, Eisenhower said, was "the indomitable fighting spirit of the men of the Allied nations who wielded them."

"The courage and devotion to duty which they exhibited throughout the campaign, in the grim days of the Ardennes counter-offensive as well as in the excitement of the dash across France and later the advances into the midst of Germany, were unsurpassable," he said.

Partial Eisenhower Report

JUN 24 1946

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP).—Following is the "Summary of Operations in Northwest Europe" with which General Dwight D. Eisenhower opened his report to the Combined Chiefs of Staff on the final blows against Germany in World War II and the "Conclusions" which completed the Supreme Commander's account:

SUMMARY OF OPERATIONS IN NORTHWEST EUROPE

The broad strategy, behind our main effort against the German war machine included as a highly desirable preliminary the successful conclusion of operations in North Africa and their extension across Sicily to the Italian mainland. With these accomplished, with the Mediterranean "flank" freed for Allied shipping, and with the necessary special equipment built or in sight, we were at last in a position to prepare for the final cross-Channel assault which had been agreed upon since April, 1942, as our main operation against Germany. It was correctly believed that only on the historic battlefields of France and the Low Countries could Germany's armies in the west be decisively engaged and defeated.

America and England—the Western Allies—could not be sufficiently strong to undertake the assault against France until June, 1944, but the broad tactical plans for the operation were completed and approved by the Combined Chiefs of Staff in August, 1943, prior to my assumption of command of the European theater in February, 1944.

Bombing Intensified

As part of our basic strategy, and in accordance with the task given to the Strategic Air Force under the Casablanca directive in January, 1943, the bombing of Germany, begun early in the war by the British Bomber Command, was intensified in May, 1943, and continued with mounting strength to the end of the campaign. Neither the contemplated invasion of Europe nor the direct attack on the German industrial and economic system would be feasible until we had achieved supremacy over the German air force.

This struggle for air supremacy, which had been going on throughout the war, was given added impetus by a new directive (known as Pointblank) in January, 1943, which aimed at subjugating the enemy air force by the spring of 1944. In the event, German air might was thoroughly dominated by D-day and we were free to apply the immense strength of the Allied air forces in the manner we wished and to launch the invasion confident that our plans could not be seriously upset by the German air force. In addition, air bombardment had disrupted the German communications system, immeasurably aiding our ground forces by impeding enemy movements.

Our main strategy in the conduct of the ground campaign was to land amphibious and air-borne forces on the Normandy coast between Le Havre and the Cotentin Peninsula and, with the successful establishment of a beachhead with adequate ports, to drive along the lines of the Loire and the Seine Rivers into the heart of France, destroying the German strength and freeing France. We anticipated that the enemy would resist strongly on the line of the Seine and later on the Somme, but once our forces had broken through the relatively static lines of the beachhead at St. Lo and inflicted on him the heavy casualties in the Falaise pocket, his ability to resist in France was negligible. Thereafter our armies swept east and north in an unimpeded advance which brought them to the German frontier and the defenses of the Siegfried line.

Outdistanced Supply Lines

Here enemy resistance stiffened, due primarily to the fact that he had fallen back on long-prepared defenses. At the same time our own offensive capabilities were lessened because our forces had, in their extremely rapid advance, outdistanced supply lines which had been maintained only by herculean efforts. By mid-September our armies in the north and center were committed to relatively static warfare and faced the threat of stabilization. This was true also on our southern flank, where forces landed from the Mediterranean against the south of France in mid-August had swept north through the Rhone Valley to link with the central group of armies and close the Belfort Gap.

At this time we planned to attack quickly on the northern front in an effort to establish a bridgehead over the lower Rhine while the German armies were still reeling from our blows, but the air-borne operation launched at Arnhem was not altogether successful in this respect, although considerable ground was gained and our positions in this area improved. Coincidentally with approving the Arnhem operation it was directed that operations be undertaken to clear Antwerp as a supply port on the north, essential to our continued offensive action. This was accomplished in November.

While our forces moved slowly in attacks launched at selected points on the front to close to the Rhine, the enemy on 16 December launched a desperate and last counterattack designed to throw our campaign into disorder to delay our planned advance deep into Germany. The attack was not without its immediate effect upon us, but the sturdy defense by our forces followed by our rapid and continuous counterattacks brought home clearly to Germany's military leaders that the last effort had failed completely and that the Nazi war machine faced inevitable disaster.

Isolation of Ruhr

My plan was to destroy the German forces west of the Rhine along the entire length of the front in a series of heavy blows beginning in the north, and it was my expectation that the enemy would, as he had done in Normandy, stand without giving ground in a futile attempt to "fight it out" west of the Rhine. Moreover, the air forces were used intensively to destroy his mobility. By March, when our forces crossed the river north of the Ruhr, at Remagen, and at various points to the south, resistance on the eastern bank was again reduced to resemble that in France following the breakthrough, particularly because the enemy, mistaking our intentions, crowded a great part of his remaining forces into the Ruhr area.

Our attack to isolate the Ruhr had been planned so that the main effort would take place on the front of the northern group of armies with a seconodary effort on the central group of armies' front. This secondary effort was to be exploited to the full if success seemed imminent. Clearing the left bank of the Rhine throughout its length released the means required to strengthen this secondary effort. With the capture of the Remagen bridgehead and the destruction of enemy forces west of the Rhine, the anticipated opportunity became almost a certainty.

Our forces were now able to bridge the Rhine in all sectors and they fanned out in great mobile spearheads through western Germany, disrupting communications, isolating one unit from another, and in the area of the Ruhr completing perhaps the largest double envelopment in history, rendering that great industrial area useless to support what was left of the Nazi armies.

Surrender Negotiations

As our forces moved rapidly eastward with the main effort in the center, to establish contact with the advancing Russian armies at the Elbe, and in turn to swing swiftly north and south to cut off any remaining refuge, the German high command reluctantly recognized defeat and belatedly initiated negotiations which terminated with unconditional surrender on 7 May, 1945.

In these campaigns the United States of America and Great Britain worked as one nation, pooling their resources of men and material. To the Combined Chiefs of Staff, through whom the directives of the two governments were expressed, we constantly accorded our admiration for their well-devised system of command by which they applied the concerted national efforts. Their political leaders, the President of the United States and the Prime Minister, also contributed immeasurably to the success of our armies in the field; once they had committed themselves to a course of action they never failed to give us unstinted support.

CONCLUSION

In attempting very briefly to assess the factors underlying the Allied success in this campaign, I would stress the importance of three episodes as being the most decisive in insuring victory.

The first of these was the Battle of the Normandy Beaches. We sailed for France, possessed of all the tactical information which an efficient intelligence service could provide, but we had yet to take the measure of the foe we were to meet. We were embarking upon the largest amphibious operation in history against a coastline bristling with all the defenses modern ingenuity could devise, and behind the beaches lay the German armies of the west which had not been tried in full-scale battle since the dark days of 1940.

As we struggled first to gain and then to hold our footing in Normandy, we learned the strength and also the weakness of these armies. We learned that the German soldier was still the same stubborn fighter whom we had met in Africa and in Italy, but we saw, too, how slender was the thread upon which his existence in France depended. During the months of June and July all the difficulties of communications and supply which were ultimately to prove his undoing became manifest.

It was thus that we were enabled to establish ourselves on the Continent and to build up the great armies necessary to achieve the liberation of Europe. We learned also, at this time, how inadequate was the enemy's intelligence concerning the Allied intentions. Thanks to his air weakness and consequent lack of reconnaissance, he was completely misled by our diversionary operations, holding back until too late the forces in the Pas-de-Calais which, had they been rushed across the Seine when first we landed, might well have turned the scales against us.

Battle of Falaise Pocket

The second vital battle was that of the Falaise pocket. Here the enemy showed that fatal tendency to stand and fight when all the logic of war demanded a strategic withdrawal. By so doing, he allowed his 7th Army to be encircled and ground to pieces, and the battle for France was decided among the bloody orchards and hedgerows of Normandy. As the broken forces fled eastward we strained every effort to complete their overthrow before they could reach the shelter of the Siegfried line, but the logistical burden was too great, and we had to wait until the weary winter drew to a close before we could strike the final blow.

The third decisive phase in the campaign consisted of the battles west of the Rhine during February and March. Once again the enemy played into our hands by his insistence upon fighting the battle where he stood. In the lowland country between the Rhine and the Meuse, in the Eifel, and in the Saar, the armies which had been intended to defend Germany were shattered beyond recovery. The potential barrier of the Rhine lay practically undefended before us, and from that time onward there was no German force in existence capable of halting our forward march. The war was won before the Rhine was crossed.

Throughout the struggle, it was in his logistical inability to maintain his armies in the field that the enemy's fatal weakness lay. Courage his forces had in full measure, but courage was not enough. Reinforcements failed to arrive, weapons, ammunition, and food alike ran short, and the dearth of fuel caused their powers of tactical mobility to dwindle to the vanishing point. In the last stages of the campaign they could do little more than wait for the Allied avalanche to sweep over them.

Air Support Invaluable

For this state of affairs we had, above all, to be grateful to the work of the Allied air forces. Long before we landed in France, the heavy bombers had begun their task of destroying the centers of production upon which the enemy relied, and the fruits of this effort were evident immediately the land campaign began. Following the invasion, these strategic blows at the heart of German industry were continued, and the task was also undertaken of cutting the supply lines which linked the factories to the fronts.

Meanwhile the tactical aircraft, by their incessant bombing and strafing of the enemy before us in the field, broke his powers of resistance and prepared the way for the ground advances which struck toward the center of Germany. Those thrusts, moreover, were made with a rapidity which only the expedient of airborne supply could support. The overwhelming Allied superiority in the air was indeed essential to our victory. It at once undermined the basis of the enemy's strength and enabled us to prepare and execute our own ground operations in complete security.

It is difficult even for a professional soldier to appreciate the tremendous power which was achieved on the battlefields and in the skies of western Europe by the concerted efforts of the Allied nations. As stated earlier in this report, most of the ninety divisions which fought in the later phases of our operations were habitually reinforced to a strength of 17,000 men by tank, tank destroyer and anti-aircraft attachments.

Terrific Fire Power

An idea of their shattering impact upon the Nazi war machine comes from consideration of the terrific fire power which they represent, of the mass of heavier corps and army artillery which supported them, of the inexhaustible supply system that sustained them, and of the flexibility with which their efforts could be applied by means of the efficient communications system.

For behind the combat units the efforts of 3,000,000 of other men and women in uniform were devoted to maintaining them in action. We could, in effect, apply against the enemy on the continent a force thirty times as large as the Allied armies which defeated Napoleon on the battlefield at Waterloo.

In addition, we had available nearly 11,000 fighter and bomber airplanes whose mobile firepower could be applied at virtually any point we desired, as I have just described, and whose annihilating effects are evidenced by the wreckage of a powerful nation's cities, industries and communications, and by the destruction of the air forces which defended them. To this power was added the striking and strangling force of two formidable naval fleets working as one.

Mention has already been made of the skill and devotion of our service forces whose efforts, both in the field and at home, made an essential contribution to our victory. To them, and to the civilian workers of factory and farm who provided us with unstinted means, we are forever indebted. Our enormous material superiority gave us an unchallengable advantage over our foes. While Germany's own war potential crumbled, that of the Allies rose to heights unprecedented. No army or navy was ever supported so generously or so well. Never, during the entire campaign, were we forced to fight a major battle without the weapons that were needed.

Fighting Spirit

More important even than the weapons, however, was the indomitable fighting spirit of the men of the Allied nations who wielded them. The courage and devotion to duty which they exhibited throughout the campaign, in the grim days of the Ardennes counter-offensive as well as in the excitement of the dash across France and later the advances into the midst of Germany, were unsurpassable. It was the spirit that had enabled them to withstand the shocks of Dunkirk and Pearl Harbor which brought us at last to Lubeck to Torgau and to Berchtesgaden.

Underlying this invincibility of spirit was the confidence in Allied unity and the justice of the common cause which permeated all who were engaged, directly or indirectly, in the struggle. The comradeship which had been first exemplified in North Africa carried us to new triumphs in northwest Europe. Within my own headquarters the American and British personnel worked harmoniously together, obliterating all distinction of national outlook in their zealous service to a single organization, while in the field of battle the men of the Allied armies fought shoulder to shoulder under my supreme command.

Those civilian volunteers who shared the rigors and dangers of campaign that they might brighten the existence of our men have the assurance of our warmest gratitude.

The United States of America and Great Britain have worked, not merely as Allies, but as one nation, pooling their resources of men and material alike, in this struggle against the forces of evil engendered by Hitler's Germany. In the expeditionary forces which it has been my privilege to lead, both in the Mediterranean theater and in northwest Europe, an Allied experiment unprecedented in the history of the world has been carried out with decisive results.

Tribute to Helpers

In concluding this report it is with regret that I am unable to record here the details of my personal and official obligations and gratitude to those who served so devotedly at supreme headquarters and at the other headquarters which co-operated so loyally and effectively with us.

Nor can I make adequate recognition of the collaboration of those many individuals in civil and military positions in Great Britain and the United States with whom my duties brought me into contact, and whose efforts aided in a major degree the accomplishment of our common task. Yet I know that all these would have me pay a final tribute to the memory of two very senior and gallant officers who started the campaign with us and who lost their lives before its conclusion. These were Admiral Sir Bertram H. Ramsay of the Royal Navy, and Air Chief Marshal Sir Trafford Leigh-Mallory of the Royal Air Force.

At the beginning of the operation these officers were respectively my naval commander-in-chief and my air commander-in-chief. The former lost his life in an airplane accident near Versailles, France, while still serving in the same capacity. The latter, relieved from my command to take over the Allied Air Forces in Southeast Asia, was lost in an airplane accident near Grenoble, France.

The war service, the devotion to duty, and the sacrifice of these two outstanding men typify the irreplaceable cost of the campaign represented in the lives of thousands of officers and enlisted men and members of the women's services, of the American, British, and French forces.

Gratitude to Marshall

All of them died in the spirit of that unity which joined the Allies in our common ideals. To them, and to those who bear the wounds of battle, we, their comrades in arms, render most grateful and humble tribute.

Under the arrangements made by the Combined Chiefs of Staff for the control of the field forces, General of the Army George C. Marshall acted as their executive in transmitting to me their orders and instructions. Moreover, under that most distinguished Secretary of War, Henry L. Stimson, General Marshall was always my direct administrative superior in my capacity as a commander of United States Army Forces. To this great soldier-statesman, I owe a particular debt for his friendly counsel and constant support. There was nothing throughout the war so morally sustaining as the knowledge that General Marshall concurred in the plans I was adopting and the means I was taking to put them into effect.

AUSTIN WAITS TO PUSH TWO DEFENSE BILLS

Senator To Delay Taking U.N. Post Pending Action On Draft, Merger

Washington, June 23 (AP)—Senator Austin (R., Vt.) announced today he will delay taking over his duties as President Truman's representative on the United Nations Security Council in an effort to obtain Senate approval of Army-Navy merger legislation.

Austin said he intends to stay on as a senator until a compromise version of the draft act he helped frame becomes law and until an attempt is made to bring the merger bill to a vote.

Draft action is necessary by the end of this week if selective service is not to die, and there are reports the Administration is strongly urging early merger action.

Reason For Delay

Austin had not planned to take up the regular post of delegate to the United Nations until the end of his senatorial term, for fear of conflict with the constitutional prohibition against a lawmaker's going into an office which he has helped to create.

The plan, however, had been for him to perform most of the actual duties without the title, serving as the President's personal representative to advise Herschel Johnson, the deputy who took over the delegate's seat when Edward R. Stettinius resigned.

"We ought to get this unification question before the Senate for a showdown and decide the question one way or the other," he said. "Of course, there is going to be argument about it, but it is something to be decided. It must not be permited to drag along."

Stronger Position Seen

Austin contended that action bringing the Army, Navy and Air Force into closer relationship under a single Cabinet head, with three sub-Cabinet secretaries, would "strengthen the military posture" of the United States. This in turn, he said, would give this country's views added weight in international negotiations.

A merger bill sponsored by Austin and Senators Elbert Thomas (D., Utah) and Hill (D., Ala.) now is being redrafted to meet the specifications laid down by President Truman in settling differences between the Army and Navy over the proposal.

A Capitol official, who asked not to be quoted by name, said it was his understanding that James Forrestal, Secretary of the Navy, had written Mr. Truman indorsing the revised proposals. The President told his news conference last week he expected a letter from the navy chief similar to the indorsement previously given by Robert P. Patterson, Secretary of War.

Joining Austin in the demand for Senate action, Senator Hill said he can see no reason for putting off a decision until the next Congress.

Senator Robertson (R., Wyo.) and some other members of the Navy Committee have indicated an intention to fight the proposal, but Hill said that is to be expected.

"You never get any good legislation through Congress without having some controversy over it," he declared.

To Be Out Of City

However, Thomas, who would be in charge of the bill as chairman of the Military Committee, is expected to be out of town until July 1. Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.) said he would resist any effort to break into the schedule of appropriations bills, draft and OPA extensions due to occupy the Senate's time until that date.

The Administration pressure for action in this session, now expected to end in mid-July, reportedly has been coming from White House aides and department officials who want to see the question settled so the Army and Navy can plan more intelligently for the future.

But Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Col.), a supporter of the bill, said he doubts there is time left to get the bill through both houses before the scheduled quitting date.

URGES CIVILIAN ATOM CONTROL

McMahon Says Public Must Act Now For Sake Of Peace

JUN 24 1946

Washington, June 23 (AP)—Senator McMahon (D., Conn.) called on the public tonight to "speak out once again in support of civilian control" of atomic energy.

"Your future and the future of your country is at stake," he said in a broadcast speech. "You must speak now, or it may happen that forever after you will have no peace."

"The chairman of the Senate's Atomic Energy Committee is seeking defeat of a House Military Committee provision for military representation on the commission being set up to control domestic use of nuclear power.

Turned Down By Senate

A similar provision was turned down by the Senate after McMahon's own committee had adopted it over his opposition.

McMahon said Military Committee amendments to the Senate-passed bill "make it possible for the President to appoint two military officers to the five-man" commission and "make it compulsory that he appoint at least one military man."

"One of these two may be made chairman of the commission," McMahon said. "Another officer is to be named as head of the military applications division. The military men are to be given a green light to go ahead and make atomic bombs as they wish."

"Becomes Obvious"

The legislation "already provides for a military liaison committee of unspecified number," the Senator continued. "If to these uniformed men you now add two uniformed commissioners and a uniformed division head, it becomes obvious who is to control atomic energy in this country, under these amendments. . . .

"With the military in control of the project, all the possible beneficient applications of this most powerful force—its use for medical therapy, industry, agriculture and electric power—all these will be neglected and sidetracked so that the Army can go on making more and more bombs.

"Making all these bombs won't give us a nickel's worth of defense. Our security does not depend on whether we have atomic bombs, but rather on whether other nations have them."

Morse Backs McMahon Bill

New York, June 23 (AP)—Senator Wayne Morse (R., Ore.) called today for approval of the McMahon bill to regulate atomic energy in the United States and international control of "atomic energy as a weapon for making war."

In an address at Brooklyn College, Morse said that "if any one nation, including our own, is permitted to go its independent way in the manufacture of atomic bombs, world peace will be but a temporary period during which other nations race for time in preparation for atomic warfare."

COURT FEUD VIEWS SOUGHT OF JUSTICES

Capitol Hill Makes Quiet Attempt To Find Out What Action To Take

Washington, June 23 (AP)—A quiet attempt is under way on Capitol Hill to learn from Supreme Court members themselves what they think Congress should do about the feud between Justices Jackson and Black.

An influential legislator reported today that some of his colleagues are having informal talks with the other justices about the court controversy.

This informant, who asked not to be named, said the chief subject of the discussions is whether any legislation could be helpful in smoothing out court procedure and settling differences.

No Impeachment Talk

He asserted there has been no talk of possible impeachment proceedings against any member of the court. The House Judiciary Committee has decided that thus far there is no evidence which would provide grounds for such drastic action.

The committee made its decision shortly after Jackson issued his broadside attack on Black June 10 in a lengthy cablegram from Germany, where he is directing prosecution of the war criminal trials.

Jackson accused Black of imperiling the court's reputation by sitting in cases in which a former law partner appeared as counsel. Black has made no comment on the statement.

Proposal Up Today

Meanwhile, the Senate Judiciary Committee prepared to consider tomorrow morning a proposal which is an outgrowth of the Jackson-Black squabble.

The committee has been called to decide what action, if any, to take on a proposed constitutional amendment which would shake up sharply the present membership of the court.

The proposal, by Senators Eastland (D., Miss.) and Bridges (R., N.H.), would limit to three the number of justices whom any president could appoint.

Would Oust Four Members

The plan, which would require approval of Congress and three fourths of the states, would be retroactive. This would force off the bench four appointees of President Roosevelt—Justices Douglas, Murphy, Rutledge and Jackson.

Eastland told the Senate recently such action is needed because the court is "torn by the bickerings of a faction." He also asserted it would provide a "competent Supreme Court" by "unpacking" the present body, which he said is conducting a "social and economic revolution."

CONFLICT ON END OF MEAT CONTROLS SNAGS OPA ACTION

House Conferees Oppose Senate Plan on Decontrol.

THREE OTHER ISSUES

Length of Extension May Be Discussed at Meeting Tonight.

JUN 24 1946

WASHINGTON, June 23—(AP)—The last big controversy in OPA extension boiled down today to the Senate's insistence on dropping price controls from meat, poultry and dairy products, tobacco and petroleum at midnight next Sunday.

Three other fairly important points remained to be settled, but a member of the joint Senate-House committee working out differences in bills passed by the two branches said the specific decontrol proposals loomed above all other matters in dispute.

Amendment Added by Senate

The meat-poultry-dairy exemption originated in the Senate Banking committee. The tobacco amendment, which includes cigarettes, and the petroleum amendment, which takes in gasoline, were added on the Senate floor. Each was accepted without a roll-call vote.

The House singled out no items to be dropped from control and a firm majority of the seven House members on the conference group was reported lined up stoutly in opposition to the Senate's list.

Of the seven House conferees, only one, Rep. Patman (D-Tex) is from an important meat-producing state.

Taking note of this, a western senator expressed privately the belief that if the Hous delegation refuses to give ground at the showdown conference tomorrow night the House may force it to knuckle under.

This could come about if the House conferees reported a disagreement with the Senate. A majority of the House could vote to send them back with instructions to yield and accept the Senate provision.

Length of Extension Debated

The other principal matters in disagreement are the length of time the price control law should be extended past its June 30 expiration date, establishment of a decontrol board, and the size and duration of food subsidies.

One of the conferees said none of the three presented great difficulties.

The Senate voted a full year's extension, while the House held it to nine months. The House wants to quit paying food subsidies Dec. 31, while the Senate is willing to permit them until next May 1.

The decontrol board was a Senate idea. The board, independent of OPA, could override either the price administrator or the Secretary of Agriculture to force lifting of controls from specific commodities.

The House conferees announced agreement with the Senate yesterday on several provisions, including one which would give the agriculture secretary power to decide whether controls should be kept on particular farm crops, dependent on whether they were scarce or plentiful.

PRICE OF SUGAR BOOSTED BY OPA

WASHINGTON, June 23—(AP) Retail sugar prices will go up one-fifth cent a pound tomorrow, OPA said today.

At the same time, refiners' ceilings for both cane and beet refined granulated sugar will be increased 10 cents per 100 pounds.

OPA said the increase for cane sugar was allowed to cover higher costs to refiners brought about by wage hikes and because of reduced earnings caused by lower output. Beet sugar prices were permitted to rise to maintain the price relationship with cane sugar. Other home use sugars were excluded from the increase.

The refiners' new price for fine granulated cane sugar will be $6.10 per 100 pounds, up from $6.00. Beet sugar will rise from $5.90 to $6. The retail increase will amount to one cent on a five-pound package.

LIVING COSTS SOAR THIRD ABOVE 1939, SURVEY DISCLOSES

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(AP)

Living costs in the large cities of the country are a third higher than in 1939, a month before the war began, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today.

The consumers' price index as of May 15 was given by the bureau as 131.5 per cent of the 1935-1939 averages, compared with 98.6 per cent in August, 1939.

By way of comparison, the bureau said consumers' prices from the beginning of World War I to the high point in 1920 more than doubled.

The bureau, in a report showing that prices for essential commodities rose a half per cent from last April 15 to May 15 said increased costs for food, clothing, housefurnishings and miscellaneous goods and services contributed to the general increase.

The rise since the Pacific war ended in August, 1945, the report showed, has been 1.7 per cent with clothing and housefurnishing costs up 6.1 per cent and 4.4 per cent respectively and food up 1.7 per cent.

Effects of recently announced higher ceiling prices for numerous dairy, bakery and cereal products will not be reflected in the price index until June and July, the report said.

Noting that meats, butter, oleomargarine, shortening, bread and some canned foods were scarce in most large cities during May, the bureau said this condition made it impossible to obtain price quotations for the price index.

The bureau gave the price index for various commodities as of May 15 compared with August 1939 as follows:

All items 131.5 for May, 1946 and 98.6 for Aug., 1939; food 142.6 and 93.5; clothing 155.4 and 100.3; fuel, electricity and ice 110.3 and 97.5; housefurnishings 152.4 and 100.6; miscellaneous 126.3 and 100.4.

UNRRA Sending Italy More Raw Materials

Washington, June 23 (AP) — To speed the industrial rehabilitation of Italy, the UNRRA has increased its shipments of raw materials to that country and still further increases are contemplated, F. H. LaGuardia, UNRRA director, said today.

These shipments, he said, are in addition to food sent to Italy.

During May, the director recounted in a statement, the UNRRA delivered 200,000 tons of coal, chiefly from the United States, and expects to send 204,000 tons from the Eastern Hemisphere during June and 440,000 tons from the United States in July.

Rubber to provide tires for the country's stalled automobiles and trucks, tin for food containers, copper for the transport and machine-production industries, and hides and rubber soling for shoes are among other materials shipped or to be sent soon to Italy, LaGuardia said.

"Although I am gratified with the progress we are making in the field of industrial rehabilitation in Italy and elsewhere, I am confident that we shall be able to step up our shipments of industrial materials still further in the weeks ahead," LaGuardia said.

NAVY TESTS HARNESS USED IN CRASH LANDING

WASHINGTON, June 23 — (AP) The Navy is testing a "deceleration harness" shaped like a fencer's vest to save pilots from being killed in crash landings. The announcement said the light weight harness has not yet been tried in planes, but in tests has withstood over 10,000 pounds of impact—the equivalent of flying straight into the ground at 100 miles per hour. Volunteers on a special test rig at the Naval Medical Research institute, Bethesda, Md., barely grunted under the sudden application of 64 times the force of gravity.

The violent strain is absorbed by specially processed undrawn nylon which stretches under the impact. The Navy expects the idea to have commercial as well as military application, commenting that "loss of life in commercial airline crashes often results from passengers being thrown from their seats and fatally injured."

VETERANS EAGER TO BUY AIRCRAFT

WASHINGTON, June 23—(AP) Air-minded veterans are buying up most of the government's surplus airplanes now that they have a high priority.

Under an amendment to the surplus property act signed by the President last month, veterans were given a priority second only to government agencies.

In two sales of aircraft since then, the War Assets administration said today, veterans snapped up most of the desirable planes. In the first sale the agency offered 131 planes and veterans took 80. In the second at Norfolk, Vt., where 358 Stinson AT-19's were offered, nearly 1,200 veterans showed up and bought everything in sight, including 55 crated fuselages which had no wings.

SENATOR CHARGES SCANDAL IN SALE OF SURPLUS GOODS

JUN 24 1946

WASHINGTON, June 23—(AP) Senator Alexander Wiley (R-Wis) said today that the handling of surplus property is "scandalous," and got a prompt retort of "politics" from War Assets administration officials.

Writing to Rep. Slaughter (D-Mo) chairman of the Special House committee investigating war surplus disposal, Wiley pointed particularly to sales of $200,000,000 worth of electrical equipment, from $400,000,000 worth declared surplus. Included is radio, radar and communications equipment.

He said priority claimants, such as veterans and schools, had obtained only $2,120,000 worth "while private, commercial sources got $198,000,000 worth."

Furthermore, he said, "a commercial crowd has taken over WAA's handling of surplus electronics" and one independent contractor employed at $35 a day for consultation "wangled 130 receivers for his commercial company."

Wiley said veterans and schools and colleges, despite priority rights, "are being intentionally ignored by WAA" although they desperately need equipment. He estimated that "at the most" veterans obtained $50,000 worth and schools and colleges another $50,000 worth out of the total of $200,000,000 that has been sold.

Replying, Maj. Gen. Edmund B. Gregory, WAA chairman, told a reporter:

"Senator Wiley has access to certain information in our office from a disgruntled employe. He makes a political issue of it. This stuff isn't true at all.

"Priority purchasers do have a chance at this equipment. If they don't buy during the time period allotted for priority sales, then it goes to others. Some material is held exclusively for veterans.

"Most of our employes are honestly trying to do a good job. They work hard and conscientiously. But they get sick and tired of people accusing them of being dishonest."

Salvaged Army Lumber Available Within 60 Days

Dismantling of Surplus Camps to Supply 125,000 Homes

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP).—Wholesale dismantling of surplus Army camps and other projects to provide material for veterans' housing will begin soon, the government announced tonight.

The program is expected to make available enough lumber for 125,000 three-bedroom houses, it was estimated informally. The over-all quantity to be obtained is officially calculated at 1,500,000,000 board-feet or more.

The salvaged lumber is due to begin flowing into housing channels within sixty days. The Engineer Corps will have thirteen dismantling jobs well under way by Aug. 1, another fifteen by Sept. 1 and twenty more by Oct. 1, the War Assets Administration and the National Housing Agency announced.

Authority to flatten entire temporary installations and ordnance plants was granted by Lieutenant General Edmund B. Gregory, W. A. A. Administrator.

Wilson Wyatt, N. H. A. Administrator, issued a directive to channel the lumber, fittings and utilities into new homes "with the greatest possible speed."

To short-circuit priority claimants, the announcement said the W. A. A. will amend its regulations to provide only a ten-day period, instead of ninety days, in which Federal agencies, state and local governments and non-profit institutions may exercise their priority rights to buy surplus materials.

SURPLUS GOODS SALES RECOVER HALF VALUE

NEW YORK, June 23—(AP) Approximately 50 per cent recovery of acquisition cost in disposals of government surplus property for the first five months of 1946 was reported today by Col. Frank L. Seymour, regional director of the War Assets administration for New York state, northern New Jersey and Fairfield county, Connecticut.

Disposals totaled $81,726,000 in disposal value, Seymour said, compared with $164,801,000 in acquisition cost. Consumer goods accounted for 66 per cent of the total activity.

Welles Comments On Spanish Issue

Washington, June 23 (AP)—Sumner Welles, former Under Secretary of State, said tonight that the United Nations Security Council debate over Spain is "a struggle for position primarily between the Soviet Union and Great Britain, but in a large sense between the Soviet Union and the nations of the western world."

In his weekly broadcast over station WOL, Welles said that if the Franco Government is overthrown it is likely that civil war will follow and a Communist-dominated government will win control.

Three Likely Results

Should this happen, Welles said, three likely results would be:

British comunications with the Suez Canal and with Great Britain's military establishments in the Mediterranean might be cut off.

Communist influence in France, in Italy and North Africa might immediately be increased by direct support from such a new Spanish government.

There would be a strong inducement to such elements within the Soviet Union as are seeking immediate expansion of Soviet influence to take vigorous action against Turkey in order to secure without further delay a preponderant influence in the Dardanelles, and in order to consolidate those positions in the eastern Mediterranean which Russia desires to control.

Welles said he believes Spain is not an actual threat to world peace, but is a potential threat. He proposed a U.N. policy of "watchful waiting," permitting all 51 member states next September to decide what if any action to take against the present Spanish Government.

Red Propaganda Against U. S. Hints Revised Foreign Policy

JUN 25 1946

WASHINGTON, June 23 — (AP) New Soviet propaganda attacks on the United States are interpreted by diplomatic authorities here as evidence of a highly significant development in Russia's diplomatic maneuvers.

Both U. S. and foreign officials said today it appears that the main force and bulk of verbal and ideological assault now is turned against Washington. Formerly it was aimed at London.

This has given rise to a belief that Premier Stalin may be giving up his previous notion that while Russia would find it impossible to get along with Britain she should be able to work out all her problems with the United States.

Charges Attack on Workers

It is in this light that the latest article of the Soviet academician, Eugene Tarle, is being closely studied here. His complaints, in an article in Moscow Saturday, are that the United States is seeking to crush the working class in that it is trying to impose an "American peace" to conclude the war.

Two other illustrations of the shift appeared today.

A Tass dispatch took the tack that the American plan to help China modernize its army constitutes lend-lease under an assumed name to arm and supply the Nationalist forces. When the plan was announced last week emphasis was placed on provisions to train and arm Communist units too, and on the hope that Chinese unity would be achieved in time to start with both factions at the same time.

Along the same line Izvestia, Moscow government newspaper, gave prominence to a New York dispatch quoting The Daily Worker as saying U. S. authorities are suppressing the workers movement in Korea and helping American industrial firms move in to exploit Koreans.

Persons familiar with Moscow writings over the last several weeks say this is in line with accusations which the Russians have made before, but appears to mark a major intensification of the campaign.

Relations Were Cordial

From the time that the United States, Britain and Russia became allies against Germany until quite recently, relations between American and Soviet officials were generally much more agreeable than those between Soviet and British leaders. This situation has been changing slowly as the United States took an increasingly active role in affairs involving Russia all over the world.

Diplomatic informants here tell of a reported conversation about two months ago between Stalin and cabinet visitors from Czechoslovakia. The report, widely accepted as accurate, quotes the Russian leader as saying he was determined to get on with the United States but that he saw no prospect of getting along well with the British because he thought they were trying to organize Europe against him.

At the time this conversation first was reported, considerable significance was attached to it both in London and Washington with two interpretations given prominence. One was that Russia genuinely wanted American cooperation and friendship at any reasonable cost and the other that Stalin was simply engaging in a maneuver to weaken Anglo-American cooperation, where Russia is concerned.

Discrimination Against 250,000 Indians Is Charged in Plea.

RELATIONS IMPAIRED

Secretary-General Asked to Place Complaint Before General Assembly.

JUN 24 1946

NEW YORK, June 23 — (AP) India filed a formal complaint with the United Nations tonight charging the Union of South Africa with discrimination against approximately 250,000 Indians living in South Africa.

The complaint, filed by Sir Ramaswami Mudaliar, head of the Indian U.N. delegation, called on Secretary-General Trygve Lie to place the case before the General Assembly which meets Sept. 3.

Trade Agreement Ended

Sir Ramaswami said the difficulties between the two British states already had caused India to terminate her trade agreement with South Africa and recall her high commissioner. The situation is now so serious, he said, it threatens "to impair friendly relations between India and South Africa."

Meanwhile, it appeared almost certain that the General Assembly also would be called upon to act on Poland's charges that Franco Spain was a threat to world peace.

Polish circles indicated that Dr. Oscar Lange, Polish delegate to the Security council, planned two moves if the Security council acts according to expectations tomorrow and rejects his demand for a worldwide diplomatic break with the Franco regime.

1. He would make an effort to keep the Spanish case on the Security council agenda.

2. Regardless of what happened in the Security council, he would bring the case before the General Assembly.

Four Votes For Plan

The delegates agreed that Poland was not likely to muster more than four votes—Russia, France, Poland and Mexico — for an outright break with the Franco regime, and that her move to bring the proposal up tomorrow was doomed in advance.

Some delegates saw it as a move merely to get the council members on record on the question.

The Indian complaint will be the first to go directly to the General Assembly instead of the Security council.

Under the Charter, cases which threaten international peace are handled by the council, while those which merely threaten to impair friendly relations can be taken to the assembly.

The assembly, after considering the facts, has the authority to make recommendations to the states involved or to the Security council.

The difficulties between India and South Africa have been the subject of numerous conferences between the two countries for the past twenty years, the most important of which were held in 1926 and 1932.

The Indian complaint charged South Africa with "unilateral repudiation" of agreements reached at these two conferences.

"Discrimination against Indians reached a climax in the recent enactment of the Asiatic land tenure and Indian representation act, which is designed to segregate Indians into particular areas for residence and for ownership and occupation of fixed property," the complaint said.

Text of Indian Protest

N.Y. TIMES

Text of a Government of India protest against the treatment of Indians in South Africa, submitted to United Nations Secretary General Trygve Lie by the Indian chief delegate, Sir Ramaswami Mudaliar:

22 June, 1946.

Dear Mr. Secretary General:

I am directed by my Government to submit forthwith to you, as Secretary General of the United Nations Organization, the request of my Government that the question of the treatment of Indians in the Union of South Africa be included in the provisional agenda for the second part of the first session of the General Assembly, which is to be held on the third of September, 1946.

A brief resume of the case is given below:

1. Indians in South Africa, mostly residing in Natal Province, number about a quarter of a million as against two and a quarter million Europeans. They are mostly descendants of laborers who proceeded to South Africa between 1860 and 1911 under the arrangement between the Government of India and the then Government of Natal and of traders who migrated in wake of indentured laborers prior to 1913.

Although one of the conditions of the arrangement was that laborers would be allowed to live as free men, enjoying all rights and privileges of citizenship, Indian settlers in South Africa have progressively suffered discrimination and deprivation of elementary rights ever since 1885. Amongst their disabilities are lack of parliamentary and municipal franchise, restriction of rights of ownership and occupation of property, restrictions on trading, employment in public services, and travel and lack of educational facilities. Discrimination against Indians reached a climax in the recent enactment of the Asiatic Land Tenure and Indian Representation Act, which is designed to segregate Indians into particular areas for residence and for ownership and occupation of fixed property.

2. The Government of India, being a party to the arrangements which resulted in Indian emigration to South Africa, have felt continuing responsibility and have from time to time intervened on behalf of Indians with the South African Government. The latter have frequently sought the Government of India's comment and advice on proposals affecting Indians in South Africa. On two occasions, namely in 1926 and 1932, there were formal round table conferences between the two Governments. In the former year over the question of segregation of Indians, an agreement known as the Cape Town Agreement was concluded between the two Governments and in 1932 a joint statement was issued to the effect that the Cape Town Agreement was to continue and that there should be continued cooperation between the two Governments.

The principle of segregation was, however, again embodied in the Asiatic Land Tenure and Indian Representation Bill, but the suggestion of the Government of India for another round table conference to explore means of amicable settlement of outstanding questions was rejected by the South African Government. Passage of this bill into law constitutes unilateral repudiation of the Cape Town Agreement and of the joint statement of 1932.

3. Reactions to these measures have been so serious in India that the Government of India have had to give notice of termination of the trade agreement between the two countries and have recalled their High Commissioner for consultation.

4. A situation has thus arisen which is likely to impair friendly relations between India and South Africa and, under Articles 10 and 14 of the Charter, is submitted for the consideration of the General Assembly."

A detailed factual memorandum dealing with this subject is being sent to you by my Government.

I remain,

Yours sincerely,

A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIAR,
Leader of the Indian Delegation to the General Assembly, and Member, Government of India.

WINANT NOTES REFUGEE TASK

Hopes For New Oragnization By Time UNRRA ENDS

JUN 24 1946

New York, June 23 (AP)—John G. Winant, United States delegate to the United Nations Economic and Social Council, tonight said the United States "will do everything in its power" to see that the new international refugee organization is ready to operate when the UNRRA goes out of existence at the end of this year.

Winant listed the refugee question as one of the most urgent facing the world, along with the reconstruction of devastated areas.

Two Tasks Held Critical

"The world cannot be restored to economic health until substantial progress has been made on both these tasks," his statement said.

He pointed out that the Council had approved plans for the handling of both problems, but that these plans still had to be approved by the General Assembly and ratified by the participating governments.

Speaking of the Council's general achievements to date, Winant said "substantial progress" had been made despite many disagreements among the delegates.

Organizational Problems

"Four weeks spent on organizational problems at a time when human misery is so widespread and human need so pressing has a difficult and at times discou ing discipline," he said.

"But this council is the nearest thing the world has yet achieved to a combined chiefs of staff in the economic and social field, and staff co-ordination and organization are just as essential to the successful launching of a long-range campaign for peace as they are in a military campaign."

Paris, June 23--(AP)--Reports of a French-sponsored compromise on the deadlocked Trieste issue, which responsible French officials would neither confirm nor deny, were widely discussed today in diplomatic circles here today but received No Confirmation from responsible French officials

American and British sources likewise declined to comment on the reports, according to which Trieste would be kept as an international city under the United Nations for 10 years prior to a plebiscite as to whether it on its becoming Yugoslav or Italian.

The report, if true, might lead to an agreement among the "Big Four" foreign ministers meeting here on peace treaties for Italy and the Balkans and open the door to a general European peace conference next month.

Georges Bidault, French provisional president and foreign minister, repeatedly advanced the plan at Friday's closed session, when the Italo-Yugoslav border issue was being reexamined by the ministers.

It was also understood that U.S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes and Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov discussed the proposal at their small dinner party Friday night and that Byrnes talked it over with President Truman in their telephone conversation Saturday.

A CLOUD ALMOST OBSCURED THE TARGET AND PREVENTED THE DROPPING OF THE BOMB ON THE FIRST RUN. BLANCHARD SAID WOOD DROPPED A FASCIMILIE BOMB WITH A "SPOTTING CHARGE" WITHIN THIRTEEN SECONDS OF THE ESTIMATED DROP TIME ON THE SECOND RUN WHEN CLOUDS BROKE NICELY TO REVEAL THE TARGET.

IF THE SHIP'S SIX RADIOTELETYPE CIRCUITS ASSIGNED TO THE PRESS ARE OPERATING AT PEAK EFFICIENCY ON THE DAY OF THE BLAST, SOME 200,000 WORDS CAN BE CLEARED IN 24 HOURS.
NORMALLY, THESE CIRCUITS WOULD BE AMPLE TO HANDLE ALL NEWS REPORTS, BUT ON BOMB DAY THE RUSH OF COPY WILL BE TREMENDOUS.
BECAUSE THE MAJOR AMERICAN WIRE SERVICES SERVE VIRTUALLY EVERY DAILY NEWSPAPER AND RADIO STATION IN AMERICA AND HUNDREDS IN FOREIGN LANDS, THE NAVY ASSIGNED THEIR WRITERS FIRST PRIORITY IN FILING. INDIVIDUAL NEWSPAPER REPRESENTATIVES OR "SPECIALS" HOWEVER, FORESEE SUCH A CRUSH THAT PERHAPS THEIR STORIES MAY BE SQUEEZED OUT OR DELAYED SO LONG THEY WOULD BE OF LITTLE VALUE.
CONSEQUENTLY THE SPECIALS ARE ASKING THE WIRE SERVICES BE HELD TO A LIMITED WORDAGE AT THE OUTSET, AND THAT THE CIRCUITS THEN BE THROWN OPEN TO ALL COMERS ON A "FIRST COME, FIRST SERVED" BAIS. THE WIRE SERVICES ARE FIGHTING TO MAINTAIN THEIR UNRESTRICTED PRIORITY ON AT LEAST HALF OF THE SIX CIRCUITS.
WITHOUT THIS PRIORITY, THEY FEEL, HUNDREDS OF AMERICAN NEWSPAPERS NOT OTHERWISE REPRESENTED AT BIKINI WOULD BE DEPRIVED OF ADEQUATE COVERAGE.
BRITISH CORRESPONDENTS ALSO CONTENDED THAT THE BRITISH AGENCY, REUTERS, SHOULD BE GIVEN EQUALITY WITH THE AMERICAN SERVICES IN FILING COPY. THE STEERING COMMITTEE HEADED BY NAVY CAPT. BY HOWARD W.BLAKESLEE
ASSOCIATED PRESS SCIENCE WRITER
ABOARD THE USS APPALACHIAN ENROUTE TO BIKINI, JUNE 23--THE MOST UNUSUAL SAFETY FIRST JOB OF ALL TIME FACES THE NAVY IN THE BIKINI ATOM BOMB TESTS.
THE SAFETY IS THAT OF 30,000 TO 40,000 MEN IN 150 SHIPS, STEAMING IN AMPHITHEATER-LIKE FORMATION OF PERHAPS 40 MILES OUTSIDE OF THE LAGOON WHERE THE ATOM BOMBS EXPLODE, AND FOR MORE THAN 100 AIRPLANES IN FORMATIONS ALMOST UP TO THE STRATOSPHERE, EACH WITH SOME JOB TO DO ABOUT THE DEADLY ATOMIC CLOUD THEY WILL BE WATCHING.
AT BIKINI, FOR THE FIRST TIME IN THE WORLD'S HISTORY, THERE WILL BE A SAFETY FIRST JOB WITH WATER THAT MAY BE EMITTING RADIOACTIVE RAYS. AND THESE SAME RAYS FURNISH MOST OF THE OTHER SAFETY FIRST PRECAUTIONS THAT WILL BE APPLIED FOR THE FIRST TIME.
A NEW ANGLE OF RADIOACTIVE WATER DANGERS WAS BROUGHT UP AT A PRESS CONFERENCE BY MEXICO'S SOLE REPRESENTATIVE, O.GUZMAN.
"WILL," HE ASKED, "OUR DRINKING WATER BE RADIOACTIVE?"
HE REFERRED TO THE FACT THAT DRINKING WATER OF THIS AND OTHER SHIPS IS NORMALLY DISTILLED FROM SEA WATER. THE SECOND BOMB, WHICH WILL GO OFF UNDER WATER ON JULY 20, WILL RENDER SOME WATER RADIOACTIVE WITHIN THE LAGOON. SOME OF THIS RADIOACTIVE WATER WILL SPREAD OUTSIDE, ALTHOUGH PROBABLY NOT FOR MANY MILES.
GUZMAN WAS TOLD THAT AT BIKINI ALL DRINKING WATER WOULD COME FROM WATER CARRYING TANKERS. THIS MAY BE A SIGN OF THE FUTURE WHEN ATOMIC BOMBS ARE USED AT SEA AND IT BECOMES NECESSARY TO STOP DISTILLING SEA WATER IN CERTAIN AREAS BECAUSE OF RADIOACTIVITY.
ONE POSSIBILITY, REMOTE, BUT CERTAIN TO BE TAKEN INTO ACCOUNT IN THE ATOMIC AGE, IS THAT WATER DISTILLED FOR BOILERS, NOW A COMMON PRACTICE ON ALL SHIPS, MIGHT CARRY ENOUGH RADIOACTIVITY TO CAUSE THE BOILERS TO EMIT RAYS FOR A SHORT TIME. IN THE BIKINI TESTS NO SUCH RISK IS POSSIBLE, BECAUSE CREWS WITH GEIGER COUNTERS, THE INSTRUMENTS THAT DETECT RADIOACTIVITY OF WATER, WILL BE ABLE TO MAP EVEN THE SLIGHTEST SPREAD OF RADIOACTIVITY.

X X X X RADIOACTIVITY.
ANOTHER QUESTION WAS VOICED ANONYMOUSLY. IT WAS:
"WILL A BROADCASTER IN A PLANE START TALKING IN A DEEP BASS VOICE THEN HAVE HIS VOICE CHANGE TO A TREMBLE?"
THIS QUESTION COVERS THE SINGLE GREATEST FEAR OF THE CREWMEN OF THE ATOMIC FLEET. THIS FEAR IS OF X-RAYS FROM BOMB FLASHES. THEY ARE ASKING "WILL IT MAKE US STERILE?" USUALLY THIS QUESTION IS BASED ON MISUNDERSTANDING. MANY MEN THINK IT IS SYNONYMOUS WITH THE LACK OF POTENCY. THERE IS NO CONNECTION BETWEEN THESE TWO PHYSICAL CONDITIONS.
THE NAVY HAS TAKEN COMPLETE PRECAUTIONS TO PROTECT ALL PERSONNEL AGAINST THE SLIGHTEST CONTACT WITH X-RAYS. THIS PROTECTION IS ONE OF THE EASIEST OF ALL THE PRECAUTIONS. IT IS ONLY NECESSARY TO KEEP THE SHIPS AT A DISTANCE. AIR STOPS X-RAYS VERY QUICKLY. WHAT IS NOT GENERALLY UNDERSTOOD IS THAT X-RAYS IN THE FLASH OF THE BOMB, EVEN THOUGH THEY ARE STRONG ENOUGH TO CAUSE INSTANT DEATH, DO NOT EXTEND ANY FARTHER THAN THE HEAT FLASH AND THE BLAST THAT WOULD BE EITHER FATAL OR CAUSE SERIOUS BURNS OR WOUNDS.
ANY MAN WHO IS WITHIN A COUPLE OF MILES OF THE ATOMIC FLASH IS LIKELY TO BE TEMPORARILY STERILIZED. MANY JAPANESE MEN WERE STERILIZED AT HIROSHIMA AND NAGASAKI, AND A FEW WOMEN. FEMALES ARE NOT AS SUSCEPTIBLE TO X-RAY STERILIZING.
BUT NO MAN AMONG THE TENS OF THOUSANDS WATCHING THE BOMB WILL BE CLOSER THAN FIVE OR TEN TIMES THE ABSOLUTE SAFE DISTANCE.
SAFETY PRECAUTIONS GO MUCH FARTHER. EVERY FOOT OF EVERY TARGET SHIP WILL BE SEARCHED FOR STRAGGLERS OR STOWAWAYS WHO MIGHT BE LEFT BEHIND WHEN THE LAGOON IS CLEARED OF HUMAN BEINGS BEFORE THE BOMB IS EXPLODED.
IF ANY MAN SHOULD BE MISSING WHEN THE LAGOON IS CLEARED, THE BOMB TEST WILL BE POSTPONED UNTIL HE IS ACCOUNTED FOR.

A144FX
WIND DIRECTIONS ARE AMONG THE FIRST LINES OF SAFETY AGAINST ANY OF THE CONTENTS OF RADIOACTIVE CLOUDS FALLING UPON THE WATCHING SHIPS. IN A SHORT TIME RADOACTIVE PARTICLES IN CLOUDS EITHER LOSE THEIR RAYS OR DISPERSE SO WILDLY THAT THEY CAN NOT AFFECT HEALTH EVEN IF SOME OF THEM ARE PRECIPITATED BY RAIN.
THIS TYPE OF PRECIPITATION HAPPENED AFTER THE NEW MEXICO EXPERIMENT LAST JULY. HAIR ON THE BACKS OF SOME CATTLE TURNED GRAY, DUE TO THE SETTLING OF RADIOACTIVE PARTICLES. IN THE MIDWEST EASTMAN KODAK SCIENTISTS REPORTED THAT ENOUGH PARTICLES DESCENDED ON STRAW TO FOG PHOTOGRAPHIC FILM LATER PACKED IN THIS SAME STRAW. BUT PHOTO-

GRAPHIC FILM IS THOUSANDS OF TIMES MORE SENSITIVE TO RADIOACTIVE RAYS THAN IS MAN, AND RAYS FROM THE STRAW WERE COMPLETE HARMLESS TO HUMANS.

EVEN IF HEAVY RAIN PRECIPITATED SUCH PARTICLES ON THE DECKS OF THE BIKINI SPECTATOR SHIPS, HUMANS ABOARD WOULD ESCAPE HARM SIMPLY BY STEPPING INSIDE.

ON THE 100 OR MORE PLANES SAFETY WILL BE EVEN EASIER THAN ON THE SURFACE SHIPS. NO PLANE WITH HUMAN PASSENGERS WILL BE CLOSER THAN TEN MILES WHEN THE BOMB BURSTS AND THEIR SPEED WOULD ENABLE CREWS TO ESCAPE DANGER EVEN IF BY SOME MISTAKE THEY RAN INTO SOME RADIOACTIVE CLOUDS. THE REASON IS THAT RADIOACTIVITY FROM THE CLOUD IS NOT HARMFUL UNLESS THE EXPOSURE LASTS FOR SOMETIME, AND THAT IS A PERIOD LONGER THAN ANY PLANE WOULD TAKE IN GETTING OUT OF THE DANGER ZONE.

U. N., 7 to 4, Bars Break With Franco Spain; Poles Propose a Compromise

Polish Delegate Offers New Plan Concerning Spain

F. Carpenter

JUN 25 1946

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP).—Dr. Oscar Lange, of Poland, went down to a 7 to 4 defeat today in the United Nations Security Council on his demand for a U.N. break with Franco Spain but he salvaged something of his effort by keeping Spain before the Council at least until Wednesday.

NIGHT

The Security Council was firm in its refusal to approve Dr. Lange's resolution by which it would call upon every member of the United Nations to rupture diplomatic relations with Generalissimo Francisco Franco immediately and completely.

NEW PLAN PROPOSED

Only Russia, France and Mexico backed Poland today—just as they did when Dr. Lange first brought up his resolution April 19. The seven other members of the Council held their hands up when a negative vote was taken on the demand of Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, of Australia.

Dr. Lange, apparently determined to do everything he possibly could to keep the case before the Council, threw in a resolution which would retain the "situation in Spain under continuous observation" of the Council and keep it on its agenda until Sept. 1.

WOULD SET TIME LIMIT

"The Security Council will take up the matter again not later than Sept. 1, 1946, in order to determine what appropriate practical measures provided by the charter should be taken," his resolution added.

Sir Alexander Cadogan, British delegate, objected. He said he was willing to keep the case on the agenda, but suggested that the resolution be amended to provide the case remain on the Council books until the Assembly meets in September and drop the sentence calling for the Council to take it up by Sept. 1.

COMMITTEE NAMED

France and the United States expressed their agreement with Lange's proposal if it were amended and Russia gave unqualified support to it.

When the chairman, Dr. Francisco Castillo Najera, of Mexico, appeared about to postpone action, Dr. Lange proposed a drafting committee be appointed to shape a resolution which would be acceptable. Castillo Najera agreed and appointed Dr. Lange, Cadogan and Dr. Evatt to the committee.

SPANISH CASE 'BURIED'

He then adjourned the meeting until 3 P. M. E.D.T. Wednesday.

After the Council meeting, a representative of the Spanish Republican Government-in-Exile said: "This is the burial, with flowers, of the Spanish case."

The delegates apparently were in a mood for a swift vote when they convened at 3:05 p.m. It was the first council session since last week when Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet delegate, killed by a veto a proposal to refer the Spanish case to the General Assembly for its decision.

In the majority vote today were three powers holding the veto—Great Britain, United States and China, whereas last week Russia stood alone in its veto against the majority. The question of veto today was not raised however, since a simple majority killed the Polish resolution.

Dr. Lange submitted Poland's case briefly, with a remark directed toward Spain that even though the council was not unanimous in its action last week the members of the council were unanimous in their declarations against Generalissimo Franco.

Dr. Evatt asked the Polish resolution be re-read. He said a subcommittee appointed by the council April 29 had spent considerable time investigating the facts in the case and that the council had acted on results of the sub-committee's work.

He said the sub-committee did not find that Spain is an existing threat to peace; rather the present situation in Spain is "international friction" and a "potential danger."

Dr. Evatt said the facts did not prove the necessary basis for the proposed action and he would oppose Poland's resolution.

After the Russian, Mexican and French delegates spoke for Poland, Dr. Quo Tai-chi, of China, expressed his opposition. The vote then was taken.

China's action alone would have killed the Lange resolution since China is one of the five great powers with the right of veto. But the veto question was not brought up and China was backed up by six other members. (Poor)

U. N. Due To Reject Polish Plan On Franco

Only Four Votes Expected to Favor Diplomatic Break, But Alternate Proposals Are Predicted — India Charges South Africa With Discrimination

By Harrison

New York, June 24—(AP)—The United Nations Security Council was called into session today to act on Poland's demand for a world-wide diplomatic break with Franco Spain, but a check of the delegates indicated the demand would be rejected.

JUN 25 1946

DAY

As the delegates prepared to meet late this afternoon to debate the controversial question, it appeared that Poland would not be able to muster more than four votes out of the Council's total of 11—Russia, France, Poland and Mexico.

Polish delegate Oscar Lange, however was said by associates to be considering two other moves: An attempt to keep the Spanish case on the Council's agenda and steps to bring the case before the 51-nation General Assembly in September.

India Complains

As Poland fought for action against the Franco regime the United Nations was faced with these developments:

1. India filed a complaint against the Union of South Africa, charging discrimination against Indians living there and asking that the situation be brought before the General Assembly.

2. The secretary-general of the Arab League said in Cairo that the Palestine question would be brought before the U. N. either for action on the league's demands for Palestine independence or for final approval, in the event the British meet the Arab demands.

3. Poland was reported planning to offer a compromise atomic control plan when the Atomic Energy Commission meets tomorrow afternoon for further discussion of the plans offered by U. S. Representative Bernard Baruch and Soviet Representative Andrei A. Gromyko.

The Indian complaint was filed with Trygve Lie, U. N. secretary-general, by Sir Ramaswami Mudaliar, Indian delegate, who charged that the situation was so serious it threatened "to impair friendly relations between India and South Africa."

Trade Pact Broken

He said the long-standing differences between the two British states already had developed to such an extent that India had terminated her trade agreement with South Africa and recalled her high commissioner.

The Indian complaint said the situation, which had existed for more than 20 years, had come to a climax recently when South Africa passed legislation "designed to segregate Indians into particular areas for residence and for ownership and occupation of fixed properties."

Sir Ramaswami asserted that this legislation was a "unilateral repudiation" of agreements made between the two states in 1926 and 1932. He said approximately 250,000 Indians were affected.

The Indian complaint will be the first to go directly to the General Assembly instead of the Security Council. Under the charter, situations which threaten international peace are handled by the Council, while those which merely threaten to impair friendly relations can be taken to the Assembly.

Veto Blocks Action on Spain

The Security Council last week sought to send the Spanish case to the Assembly with recommendations that it call for a diplomatic break with the Franco regime or take other suitable action, but the move was blocked by a Russian veto.

It was pointed out afterwards, however, that there is nothing to prevent any member of the Assembly from bringing the question up when that body meets September 3.

If Poland decides to lead such a move, she is likely to get strong support from several Security Council members, particularly Russia, France and Mexico.

French Delegate Alexandre Parodi demanded in a radio broadcast Saturday night that the Spanish case be kept before the U. N, despite Russia's veto.

U. N. Charter Issue Raised

London, June 24—(AP)—India's complaint to the United Nations, charging South Africa with discriminating against 250,000 Indians domiciled there, "has raised complicated issues in regard to the U. N. charter," a spokesman for the British Foreign Office said today.

The spokesman declined to amplify, but said it was not a question of Indian sovereignty. Pressed to explain what complicated issues might be involved, he said he was unprepared to go into the matter at present. An official statement probably will come from Sir Alexander Cadogan, Britisher on the Security Council.

INFORMATION CENTERS FOR U. N. TO BE SET UP

LONDON, June 24 — (AP) Information centers to disseminate news about the United Nations will be set up in various parts of the world, Benjamin A. Cohen, assistant secretary general of the U.N., said today.

Cohen, head of the public information section of U.N., told a news conference that five such centers would be put into operation soon and that four would be established later. The localities have not yet been chosen, he said, but one will be in London and another in Nanking.

Cohen said that an examination of the world press had show that the only U.N. activities given prominent display in the newspapers of most countries were reports on Security council meetings.

Yugoslav Delegate To U. N. Is Dunked

Great Barrington, Mass., June 24 (A. P.).—It wasn't fish that Stoyan Gavrilovic, Yugoslav delegate to the United Nations, pulled out of a pond here when he went fishing yesterday.

Gavrilovic, who was chairman of the United Nations Site Selection Committee, rowed on a small, deep, artificial lake with a companion. When he leaned over to take a closer look into the water, the boat overturned. Both Gavrilovic and his fellow fisherman had to swim ashores.

British Police Place Browder Under Guard

R. Wheeler JUN 25 1946

LONDON, June 24 (AP).—Blueclad civilian security police held Earl Browder, former head of the Communist Party of America, incommunicado at Heathrow airport tonight pending his departure tomorrow by plane for New York on the way home from Russia.

Browder was guarded around the clock in a grey brick police barracks at the edge of the airport, 15 miles from downtown London. Security officers said he would be prevented from communicating with any one until the moment he took off in an American Overseas Airlines plane.

ACTION NIGHT

In explanation of the extraordinary action, a British Home Office spokesman said:

"It's very simple. He arrived Saturday night and was due to leave Sunday, but there was no seat for him on the plane. Then he was to leave today, but the flight appears to have been canceled.

"Since he has no permission to remain in this country, he must either wait for a plane at Heathrow airport or return to Paris. He is waiting at the airport."

The spokesman conceded that Browder "very possibly" was being prevented from communicating with any one other than the police, but declined to comment on whether this was not an unusual procedure for persons delayed in Britain. The Civilian Security Police, under the Home Office, has charge of immigration matters.

An official of the American Overseas Airlines said the Home Office had agreed to Browder's departure at 9 A. M. (4 A. M., E. D. T.) tomorrow, and that the American Communist was scheduled to arrive at LaGuardia field late tomorrow night.

'IS PERFECTLY HAPPY'

A spokesman for the U. S. Embassy, when asked under what authority Browder was being held, said that the United States often employed similar procedure at Ellis Island. He said Browder's transit visa allowed him merely to "touch down" in England. He added that Browder "apparently is perfectly happy. He has made no effort to get in touch with us."

A security officer also said Browder was comfortable and satisfied with his treatment.

Browder arrived in Moscow via Sweden and Finland, early in May, but did not register at the U. S. Embassy there until May 22. He told newsmen in the Russian capital that the purpose of his trip was to arrange for publication of Soviet books in the United States, and that he had signed contracts with a number of Russian publishers.

Browder Held Incommunicado

Arrested on Arrival in Britain on Saturday— To Be Shipped Here by Plane Tomorrow.

R. Wheeler

London, June 24 (A. P.).—Earl Browder, deposed head of the Communist party in the United States, was held incommunicado today by the British Security Police acting on specific orders of the Home Office. He was picked up on Saturday night on his arrival here from a six weeks' stay in Moscow. The authorities said he would be allowed to continue his trip to New York tomorrow.

DAY

"It is very simple," a Home Office spokesman said. "He arrived Saturday night and was due to leave on Sunday, but there was no seat for him on the plane. Then he was to leave today, but the flight appears to have been canceled. Since he has no permission to remain in this country, he must either wait for a plane at Heathrow airport or return to Paris. He is waiting at the airport."

The Security Police said: "No one is to be allowed to come near him for any purpose whatsoever."

Embassy's Viewpoint.

An officer at the airport said: "I doubt that you will even see him get on the plane."

Browder was lodged in the gray brick barracks of the Security Police at the airport.

The American embassy said it was advised that Browder had a transit visa authorizing him to stop in England en route home from Moscow. Asked under what authority Browder was being held incommunicado, an embassy spokesman replied that the United States often resorted to similar procedure at Ellis Island. Explaining that Browder's transit visa merely authorized him "to touch down" in England, he added: "Apparently Browder is perfectly happy. He has made no effort to get in touch with us."

Says Browder is Satisfied.

A Security Police officer said that, "to quote Browder's own words," he was comfortable and satisfied with his treatment. Browder, he explained, had "plenty of air, a comfortable bed and adequate meals," but was not allowed to see any one.

American Overseas Airways said that the Home Office had sought to get Browder on a trans-Atlantic plane leaving tonight but had agreed to his departure at 9 A. M. tomorrow when told that no reservation was available. The air line said that Browder would reach LaGuardia Field, New York, late tomorrow.

Mother of Quads Arrives in London

Three Surviving Babies With Her on Trip to Embassy for Interview on Visa to Join Father in U. S.

B. Wheeler

London, June 24 (A. P.).—Norah Carpenter brought her three babies to London today for a personal interview at the American embassy preparatory to leaving for the United States for her long-awaited marriage to the children's father, former S/S William Thompson of Pittsburgh. The two little girls and their brother, now nearly two and a half years old, had their first train trip on the journey from their mother's home in Heanor, Derbyshire. They arrived wearing almost identical clothes.

DAY

When Miss Carpenter gave birth to quadruplets early in 1944, Thompson, on duty with the American Army in England, promptly acknowledged being their father. One of the children later died. Thompson, who had a wife in Pittsburgh, promised Miss Carpenter that he and she would "always stick together and do all we can for the children."

The woman's arrival here and her expected receipt of a visa for the United States meant the end of waiting to give her babies a fair start in life. Since their birth Thompson has served his time with the American Army in Europe, and has returned to America, obtained a divorce and applied for permission to take the children to the United States.

The three children—Maureen, Madelein and Michael—bounced off the train in high spirits today the girls clutching dolls. Their abounding good health proved they had flourished in their tiny Derbyshire cottage. In London they rode in their first elevator—to the delight of Michael and the trepidation of his sisters.

"I knew it would be all right if we waited long enough," Miss Carpenter said quietly as she looked out of the window. "I knew Red (Thompson) loved me and the children, and that we would be together one day."

Financial Accord Signed By London and Warsaw

Pact Provides for Funding of Poland's War Debts

LONDON, June 24 (AP).—A British-Polish financial agreement setting forth terms for settlement of Poland's war debt to Britain was signed today. The occasion was marked by issuance of a Polish official's statement denying Poland was under Russian domination.

"The opinion that Poland does not wish to or cannot develop her economic relations in western Europe, being too closely linked to or dependent on the Soviet Union, is just a legend," said E. Drozniak, chairman of the National Bank of Poland. "We have already started discussions concerning a monetary and transfer agreement, and I think that in the near future talks concerning a trade agreement should be started."

The financial agreement provides that $12,000,000 of Polish gold reserves in Britain will be handed over to help meet Polish war debts.

Debts for civilian expenditures by the former Polish goernment in exile in London haee been cut frm $128,000,000 to $40,000,000. Payments by Poland of these debts, to begin in five years, will be made over a fifteen-year period.

The military debt of $188,000,000 will be held in abeyance, and the cost to Britain of equipping Polish forces will be handled on a lend-lease basis, with repayment not requested.

Briton Kidnaped in India

Political Agent Is Held by Mahsud Tribesmen

LONDON, June 24 (AP).—A Reuters dispatch from Peshawar today said that Major John O'Manney Stewart Donald, British political agent in South Waziristan, had been kidnaped two days ago by Mahsud tribesmen. Efforts are now being made to obtain his release, the dispatch said.

South Waziristan is one of five political agencies under British control situated between the Indian northwest frontier and Afghanistan.

British Exports Up Over '38 Average

Total 115% in May, Against 50% Last December

LONDON, June 24 (AP).—Great Britain's exports in May passed the 1938 average monthly volume for the first time since the war, H. A. Marquand, Secretary for Overseas Trade, said today.

The value of the country's May exports was £85,200,000 ($340,800,000), an increase of £15,800,000 ($63,200,000) over April, Mr. Marquand told a press conference.

He said that during the last six months the rate of export had more than doubled, rising from 50 per cent of the 1938 monthly volume for November and December of 1945 to 115 per cent in May, 1946.

British Empire Lead And Tin Seen Failing

London, June 24 (A. P.).—British Empire resources o flead and tin will be nearly exhausted in twenty years, W. R. Jones, dean of the Royal School of Mines in London, today told the Royal Society's Empire Scientific Conference. He said lead is scarce and costs about four times what it did a few yeais ago.

"This very serious world situation is very much realized in the United States, where a great deal of intensive prospecting is being carried out," Jones said.

British Cars to Cost More

LONDON, June 24 (AP).—Morris Motors, one of Great Britain's largest automobile manufacturers, announced today general price increases ranging as high as £54 ($216) which, it said, were necessitated by higher materials and labor costs. Upward revision of prices for Jaguar cars, a more expensive British make, also was announced.

Army Ends Hospitals in England

STOCKBRIDGE, England, June 24 (AP)—The last United States Army hospital in England was closed today. Col. W. D. Graham of Laguna Beach, Calif., the commandant, turned over the facilities of the Sixth Field Hospital to British authorities and prepared to depart for home tomorrow.

Big 4 Parley Rejects Austrian Bid for S. Tyrol

PARIS, June 24 (AP).—The Big Four Foreign Ministers Council rejected today Austrian claims to a portion of the South Tyrol, and failed to agree on the Franco-Italian frontier issues, free navigation on the Danube and disposal of Italian naval units, informants said tonight.

Attention centered on a suddenly called half-hour talk between U. S. Secretary of States James F. Byrnes and Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov at the American delegation headquarters.

SOUGHT BY MOLOTOV

The meeting was arranged at Molotov's request, American sources said. The topic of the discussions was not learned, but later an American informant said the United States and Britain were studying the French-sponsored compromise on Trieste, admittedly the key to Soviet-American accord on the projected treaties with Italy and the Balkans.

American sources, in speaking on the French proposal to internationalize Trieste under the United Nations and then hold a plebiscite after 10 years to determine its final sovereignty, said that sole criterion of the United States was workability of the plan.

UNSUCCESSFUL IN PAST

They said that other international settlements such as that proposed for Trieste have not worked. They believe the United States might support internationalization of the port, but not necessarily the entire area.

Byrnes planned to dine tonight with British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and his aides in a continuation of bilateral talks.

The American, British and French ministers urged the adoption of a joint statement in support of the principle of free navigation on the Danube, but Molotov objected on the grounds that the council could not take such action without participation of the Danube countries, informants said.

DIFFER ON ITALIAN FLEET

Molotov was said to have accepted conditionally a French-sponsored compromise on the disposal of Italian naval units involving eventual ownership of the newer vessels. The French list of ships to be left to Italy was midway between the American and British proposals and the Soviet list.

Byrnes announced tonight that American Military Government authorities had been instructed to restore to Hungary, Italy and Austria all goods and properties forcibly removed by German troops from those nations.

His announcement came on the eve of discussion by the foreign ministers of a projected treaty with Hungary. When this treaty was discussed in the April-May sessions Molotov criticized the American policy on Hungarian reparations.

American officials would make no estimate of the total value of the wealth to be returned, but it is known to include at least $20,000,000 in gold taken from Hungary.

AUSTRIA'S PLEA FOR TYROL SAID TO HAVE FAILED

Big Four Is Reported to Have Judged It as Not a Minor Change.

RAILROAD IS IMPORTANT ITEM

Consideration of French Plan Raises Hope for Accord in Trieste Dispute.

Paris, June 24 (AP)—An American informant said the Council of Foreign Ministers rejected today Austria's demand to take part of the Southern Tyrol from Italy but was unable to agree on the Italian-French frontier issue.

The Austrian demand would have given the new republic control of the strategic Pusterthal Railroad.

The ministers met for an hour and a half during the morning.

The United States, Russian, British and French Foreign Ministers planned to continue discussions of the French-Italian border late today. The French have demanded and received tacit approval at previous conferences for minor adjustments in the Alpine region.

Disposition of surplus Italian Naval units also was on the afternoon agenda.

Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov of Russia was declared to have sought a postponement of the French-Italian frontier issue while the American and British conferees insisted on an immediate decision.

Hope for solution of the troublesome Trieste problem, key to the Italian peace treaty, mounted today amid reports that the British, American and Russian delegations to the Foreign Ministers Council were considering a compromise plan put forward by France.

Calls For Plebiscite Later

While nothing official was announced concerning the plan, it was reported that France had proposed that the disputed Adriatic port be internationalized for a period of 10 years, after which a plebiscite would be held to decide whether the city should go to Italy or Yugoslavia.

It was understood that Georges Bidault, French provisional president and foreign minister, advanced the plan at a closed session last Friday, when the foreign ministers were re-examining the Italian-Yugoslav border issue.

It was not clear from unofficial reports of the French proposal how the compromise, if adopted, would affect the Italian-Yugoslav border question.

The Russians have proposed a line which run south from the Austrian border to the Adriatic far west of Trieste, while the other three ministers favor a frontier which would run a little east of the city.

The three Western allies have held that ethnically Trieste is Italian and should go to Italy, but the Russians say this would make an Italian enclave within Yugoslav territory if the Soviet line were accepted.

Might Accept Red Plan

If the Western allies accepted a plan to internationalize Trieste, it would appear that they did so to meet Russian objections and were thus ready to accept the Russian frontier line.

In an effort to speed up their work of drafting the Italian peace treaty the foreign ministers scheduled both morning and afternoon sessions today. The officially announced agenda included the Austrian-Italian and French-Italian borders and the disposal of surplus Italian naval units, but observers believed that the Trieste matter might possibly take precedence.

No fundamental disagreement has been reported on the Austrian-Italian or French-Italian frontiers, and these matters are not expected to offer any obstacle. Some discussion is expected, however, on the distribution of surplus Italian naval units.

De Gasperi Insists Italy Will Never Give Up Trieste

Says Country Cannot Accept Loss of Western Istria

ROME, June 24 (AP).—Premier Alcide de Gasperi declared today that Italy would "resist with all her strength" any peace settlement which would internationalize Trieste and cede western Istria to Yugoslavia. He said such a settlement would be "iniquitous," and he added: "We are weak and unarmed but we will not suffer outrage to our rights."

De Gasperi said lack of official information from the Foreign Ministers' Council in Paris permitted hope that alarm being felt here is "exaggerated."

"Should the unofficial reports be confirmed, however, Italy could not accept," he asserted. "Even if we are defeated in the first phase of the treaties, we shall not lose courage but will continue fighting on all fronts, including that of world public opinion, which cannot permit that a war waged in the name of liberty and international justice close with an oppressive and unjust peace."

De Gasperi's statement was made yesterday at a meeting here of members of the Christian Democratic party, but was not issued to the press until today.

De Gasperi said no Italian government could sign a treaty forfeiting Trieste. He declared also: "A compromise made by the big powers to reconcile their interests to the detriment of the small powers connot be the basis of new international co-operation but only the beginning of new misfortunes."

BIDAULT FORMS NEW CABINET WITH COALITION

Keeps Foreign Minister's Post—Communists Yield on Wage Issue

Paris, June 24—(AP)— France's third post-liberation coalition government was organized today by President George Bidault with eight ministers of his own party, the Popular Republican Movement (MRP), seven Communists and six Socialists.

Bidault—who kept the foreign affairs portfolio handed him by Gen. Charles de Gaulle a year and a half ago—staked his future and that of his party on a cabinet formed only after sizeable concessions by the Communists, who retreated from their insistent demand that trade union demands for 2 per cent wage increases be met.

Communists Yield

They agreed to Bidault's ceiling of 15 per cent salary boosts for low-wage brackets and a suggestion for for a worker-employer-government conference to study the whole problem of wages and prices.

The Communists also abstained from demanding one of the three key ministries in the government—interior, foreign affairs and national defense—which they had sought in vain to enforce upon General de Gaulle and threatened to ask of Bidault. Socialist Edouard Depreux got the interior post and the other two key portfolios went to MRP men.

Bidault's party also took over the finance, national economy, justice and information ministries. The French people will have an opportunity, at elections in October, to give their verdict on how they think the new government has run the country.

One newcomer to the government line-up was Alexander Varenne, one time governor of Indochina. He entered the cabinet as its only independent after his own party—the Democratic and Socialist Union of the Resistance—joined the Radical Socialists in refusing to participate. He was appointed, with Francisque Gay, an MRP leader, a minister of state.

Approval Due Wednesday

The new cabinet will meet tomorrow and will go before the constituent assembly for formal approval Wednesday. Socialist Felix Gouin, retiring president, entered the new cabinet as a vice president, together with Maurice Thorez, Communist party leader.

The government was formed after The Communists held the same an agreement by all three parties that October 15 would be the deadline for new general elections. The assembly is committed to the completion of a new constitution to be voted on by the French peple before that date.

posts they filled in Gouin's cabinet —armament, industrial production, labor, public health, veterans affairs and reconstruction. The Socialists held, in addition to the vital interior ministry—which controls the police—the portfolios of public works, agriculture, education and colonies. They relinquished the finance post to Robert Schuman of the MRP.

Bidault offered the food ministry to Yves Farge, a member of the "Group des Republicains et Resistants," which is affiliated with the Community party. His reply has not been received. The food ministry is one of the toughest posts in the cabinet.

3 SOLDIERS REFUSE AGAIN TO TESTIFY

Lichfield Witnesses Charge Courts Are 'Fixed' Since Transfer to Germany

BAD NAUHEIM, Germany, June 24 (AP)—A new strike of three soldier-prisoner witnesses occurred in the Lichfield trials today when one of them declared that "these are fixed courts since the trials have been moved to Germany."

Protesting that the sentences already passed on guards convicted of brutality to prisoners at the United States Army's prisoner barracks in Lichfield, England, were too light, the three refused to testify in the court-martial of Pfc. Thomas E. Warren of Plainview, Tex., a former Lichfield guard. "I don't believe justice is being done," William Pond of 2840 Zulette Ave., New York, said. "The men who beat me and almost killed me got fined $80."

The trials were opened originally in England, then transferred here. The strike caused Warren's trial to be recessed until tomorrow. The two other soldiers who refused to testify were Otto Holt of Gilman, Ill., and Simon Blocker of Chicago, who, like Pond, are general prisoners serving court-martial sentences ranging from seven to twenty years.

An angry clash between the prosecution and a member of the military court marked the trial of Col. James A. Kilian, former commander at Lichfield, on charges of cruel and unusual punishment of soldier prisoners. Major Joseph S. Robinson of New York, the prosecutor, accused Col. Hardin Sweeney of Omaha, a member of the court of bias and demanded his removal. Major Robinson withdrew the challenge after Col. Sweeney denied having any prejudice.

Major Robinson charged that Col. Sweeney had had a long friendship with Kilian and displayed a "hostile attitude" toward the prosecution. Col. Sweeney was put on the stand and questioned at length. He said that he had met Kilian in 1917 while both attended an officers' school at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., but denied any intimate acquaintance. "I have no bias whatever in this case," he said.

Sgt. Judson Smith of Cumberland, Ky., the first guard to be convicted in the Lichfield trials, testified in Kilian's trial that a prisoner serving fourteen days in solitary confinement in a totally dark cell on bread and water had once cried out to Kilian as he walked past, asking to see the commander. Kilian refused to see him, Smith said.

Smith testified, as he has in other trials, that guards were instructed by officers to "beat prisoners to the floor with their billy clubs" and to "work repeaters over."

Col. C. B. Mickelwait, the United States Army's European theatre judge advocate, told twelve American publishers and editors visiting the Lichfield trials that the Army held soldiers responsible for illegal brutality, even though done on orders from superior officers. The newspaper men, who are touring the theatre, left for Berlin after attending the trials and a luncheon given by Brig. Gen. T. F. Brosnahan, continental base-section commander.

Colonel Mickelwait told the editors the background of the trials. The editors questioned him about the Army's policy on illegal and cruel punishments if ordered by superiors, as most of the Lichfield defendants contended that they were.

"No one is justified in carrying out improper or illegal orders," Mickelwait answered, "although the facts must always be tested to see whether the defendant should have known the orders were illegal, and orders may be considered as mitigating circumstances."

touring Germany and Austria as guests of the War Department, arrived at Tempelhof airport today. The newspaper men planned to confer with officials of the economics division of the military government tomorow afternoon. They are scheduled to lunch with Lieut. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, deputy military governor, on Wednesday and to go to Munich on Friday.

MEMBER OF COURT IN LICHFIELD CASE ACCUSED OF BIAS

Bad Nauheim, Germany, June 24—(AP)—The prosecution today accused Col. Hardin Sweeney of bias and demanded his removal from the U. S. Military Court which is trying Col. James A. Kilian on charges of cruel and unusual punishment of soldiers in the U. S. Army stockade at Litchfield, Eng.

The demand was withdrawn, however, after an angry scene during which Sweeney himself took the witness stand and denied having any prejudice.

The prosecutor, Maj. Joseph S. Robinson of New York City, prefaced his challenge with the assertion that Sweeney had shown a "hostile attitude" toward the prosecution and had concealed a long friendship with Kilian, who formerly commanded the Lichfield guardhouse.

Sweeney, a tall be-ribboned regular Army veteran from Omaha, Neb., said he had met Kilian, whose home is in highland Park, Ill., while both were attending officers' school in Fort Leavenworth in 1917. He denied any intimate acquaintance with the defendant, however, and said he did not remember having seen Kilian since then until coming here for the trial.

"I have no bias whatever in this case," Sweeney declared, "those questions the trial judge advocate says were 'sharp' were merely attempts to bring out things I wish to know about the evidence. My oath requires me to reach a fair and honest decision and I intend to do that."

After half an hour of examination on the stand, Sweeney apologized for his "intimidation" remark and clutched Robinson's arm as they walked from the court room to begin a recess which Robinson requested "to decide whether or not to withdraw the challenge."

When court resumed Robinson announced that, "having heard Col. Sweeney's statement and having no reason to believe that he could not continue as a fair and impartial member of the court, the prosecution now withdraws its challenge."

NAZI SURPRISED BY APPEASEMENT

NUERNBERG, June 24. — (AP) Baron Constantin von Neurath one-time German foreign minister, said today that signers of the Munich pact could have halted Hitler's aggressions with a stern diplomatic reproof after the absorption of Czechoslovakia in 1938.

The aging ex-diplomat, describing the political events of the pre-war years to the International Military Tribunal trying him and other top-rank Nazis on war crimes charges, declared he was still surprised that France and Britain allowed the Fuehrer to get away with his Czech adventure.

Von Neurath engineered the meeting when Britain's Neville Chamberlain and France's Edouard Daladier set an appeasement policy with the Axis. The former German foreign minister said he thought it was a "genuine" peacemaking meeting.

When Adolf Hitler called in President Emil Hacha of Czechoslovakia and turned the German armies loose in that country, von Neurath said, the Munich signatories sent only "paper protests." "I had expected that they would at least have recalled their Ambassadors," he added. "The German pepole would have realized how serious the situation was, and Hitler would have avoided further aggressive action."

Earlier, von Neurath testified that the reoccupation of the Rhineland by Germany in 1936 had been accomplished by a single division and had been merely a "symbolic and defensive" gesture.

The aging witness pictured the Germany of the 1930s as a nation without arms and cut up by the Versailles Treaty in both east and west, "an impossible situation which could not continue." He said that the framers of that treaty had failed to realize that such a great people as the Germans would refuse to accept the physical separation of their former territories. Any attempt to regain them, he added, could not be the result of the wish of one man such as Adolf Hitler.

The German naval treaty with Britain in 1935 opened the door for scrapping the Versailles Treaty, von Neurath said, since Germany took the terms of that treaty to constitute tacit approval for relaxation of the overall military restrictions. The pact between France and Russia in 1936, he continued, impelled Hitler to take what he called the spontaneous step of marching into the Rhineland.

After further recital of considerable length, the witness was instructed by Justice Sir Geoffrey Lawrence, presiding member of the tribunal, to "get along" to the years of primary interest—when the German armies were pouring into one country after another.

ACCUSES FRENCH OF PLOTTING WAR

Nuernberg, June 24 (A. P.).—Baron Constantin von Neurath, former German Foreign Minister, testified today that the reoccupation of the Rhineland by Germany in 1936 was carried out by a single division and was merely a symbolic and defensive gesture, motivated by the discovery of secret plans of the French General Staff to move on Germany with simultaneous attacks from Russia and Czecho-Slovakia.

Army Bars Visits To Graves Abroad

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 24 (AP).—The U. S. Army graves registration command denied today reports that relatives of dead or missing soldiers would be permitted to visit Europe soon.

"There are definitely no plans for travel of next-of-kin from the United States to visit cemeteries in Europe, nor is there any likelihood that such travel can be authorized in the near future," an announcement said.

THIRD TO BE DEACTIVATED

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 24.—(AP) Gen. Joseph T. McNarney said today that the famous Third infantry division would be deactivated Aug. 7 as part of the changeover from military to "police force occupation" in the U. S. zone of Germany.

GERMAN ALLEGES BEATING IN U. S. JAIL

DACHAU, Germany, June 24 (AP)—Col. Joachim Peiper, German tank commander on trial for the massacre of American prisoners, startled the American military court today with the assertion that the chief prosecutor "admired" him.

He testified also that he had been beaten cruelly while a prisoner. He is one of seventy-four Germans on trial for excesses committed during the battle of the Ardennes "bulge," Germany's last offensive.

Peiper was specifically accused of ordering men of his Elite Guard armored regiment to slaughter unarmed Americans. He told the court that he had been beaten when he was brought in for interrogation.

"When an American sergeant left the room to get other prisoners, I was struck several times," he said. "I think the guards were Poles, since Poles were guarding the place."

Peiper said that Lieut. Col. Burton F. Ellis, the chief prosecutor, had told him: "I admire you and hardly know another soldier I estimate as highly. But you are sacrificing yourself for an ideal which no longer exists * * *. We are parting as friends but will meet again as enemies, and I shall have to paint you in most bloody colors. But you will understand I will only be doing my duty."

When Peiper's speech had been admitted, Col. Ellis asked the court to admit questions that he had previously been forbidden to ask. "Over my objection he testified as to what a wonderful person he was, and that certainly places his character at issue before the court," Col. Ellis said. His plea was denied.

BREMERHAVEN, Germany, June 24 (AP).—Thirty-one ships transporting dependents of American troops stationed in the European theater are scheduled to arrive here by Dec. 1, Army authorities said today.

RED PRESS ASSAILS U. S. ATOMIC PLAN

Pravda Repeats Russian Insistence on Right to Veto.

R. JAMES

MOSCOW, June 24 — (AP) — Pravda denounced today the American plan for international atomic control as "atomic diplomacy" reflecting "evident striving for world rule," and asserted that Russia never would surrender the right to veto any such proposal.

The official Communist newspaper, in a lengthy attack on the control plan [illegible] days ago by Bernard M. Baruch to the United Nations Security council, said "there is not and cannot be a surrender of this (veto) right."

U. S. Will Not Yield

An authorized American source in New York commenting on the Pravda article, declared that it appears the Russians "would rather have the atom alive than the veto dead." He said "it would be interesting to know why the veto is so important against the atomic bomb," and added that the United States "has no intention of releasing its secret unless adequate safeguards are set up.")

Pravda praised a Russian counter proposal, presented to the council last Wednesday by Andrei Gromyko, as designed to restrict the use of atomic energy to "peaceful purposes."

"Prohibition of production and use of atomic weapons—that in a few words is the essence of the Soviet proposal," the newspaper said.

"The Soviet plan reflects the unchanging Soviet politics of peace and defense and universal security. But the American plan, a product of atomic diplomacy, reflects evident strivings for world rule.

"But in our times, such striving cannot have success."

In contrast to the Gromyko proposal, which it described as "humane, clear and workable," Pravda said the Baruch plan providing for an international atomic development authority was "extremely perplexed" and would:

Fear U. S. Monopoly

1. 'Stretch to an indefinite period" the "monopoly of the United States" in the production of atomic energy.

2. Require all countries to 'show a blind trust toward the intentions of the United States, at the same time that the United States shows clear expressions of distrust not only toward her partners but also toward the international control organ."

3. Allow the United States to decide when it would permit the "international organ, by successive stages, to peep into the secrets of its 'atomic kitchen.'"

4. Enable the United States to "produce and store atomic bombs" pending disclosure of atomic information to other powers.

"If the United States announces the production of atomic weapons is forbidden, why does the United States government want to continue to make and store atomic bombs?" Pravda asked.

"On what basis does she pretend to stretch her monopoly in the realm of production of atomic energy to an indefinite period?

"Doesn't Washington understand that the main source of distrust toward the United States is the noise raised over the forthcoming tests of atomic bombs in the Pacific ocean?"

The newspaper also asserted that production of atomic bombs in the United States was not entirely in the hands of the government, but that some phases of production were leased to "private monopoly firms" such as E. I. duPont de Nemours. Pravda said the Delaware chemical concern was "tied by thousands of threads" before the war to I. G. Farbenindustrie, German chemical trust.

This alleged pre-war connection, Pravda said, "is not such as to create confidence."

(In Wilmington, Del., president Walter S. Carpenter, Jr., of E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co., said his firm had undertaken "its part in the atomic energy program at the urgent request of the United States government at a time of great danger for all the United Nations, including Russia" and had received a fee of only $1 for its work.

("As for I. G. Farben, the implication that the Dupont company had any connection with the German company of a nature detrimental to the United States or the United Nations is just as far from the truth as Pravda's comment that atomic research was 'sold to private monopolies,'" Carpenter added.)

Charges Defect in Plan

Pravda said Baruch's proposed relaxation of the veto principle, by which Russia, the United States, the United Kingdom, France or China may block any measure in the United Nations Security council, was one of the "actual defects" of the American plan.

"The American press twaddles about the necessity of 'rejection by the powers of their sovereignty,'" the newspaper continued. "The renunciation by the powers of their sovereignty would be' in favor of the United States.

"The past few months experience has shown sufficiently convincingly that the rule of unanimity by great powers is an unfailing condition for maintaining the quality of the sides of this (Security council) organ of the United Nations, upon which depends the adoption of responsible decisions. There is not and cannot be a denunciation of this rule."

Pravda continued, "during this period, which will be conditioned by the development or work of an international control organ, the United States intends to produce and store atomic bombs.

"Afterwards the United States intends by degrees—'by successive stages'—to share with the international control organ information about the production of atomic energy and permit it to spread its control."

Pravda Says Russia Will Retain Veto Power In Atom Control Plan

R. JAMES

Moscow, June 24—(AP)—Pravda declared flatly today that Soviet Russia never will surrender the veto power in any atomci control plan, and said the United States proposal for control of the weapon "reflects evident striving for world rule."

"In our times, such striving cannot succeed," Pravda said in its lengthy international review denouncing the proposal of Bernard M. Baruch to the United Nations Security Council as the "product of atomic diplomacy."

"The official Communist newspaper said that "there is not and cannot be a surrender to this right" of veto in atomic matters, such as the Baruch plan envisages if the United States is to share its secret of atomic fission in an effort to outlaw and control this $2,000,000,000 weapon.

Lauds Soviet Plan

The newspaper praised the Russian counter proposal placed before the Security Council by Andrei Gromyko calling for "prohibition of production and use of atomic bombs—that in a few words is the essence of the Soviet proposal."

"The Soviet plan reflects unchanging Soviet politics of peace and defense and universal security," Pravda said, terming Gromyko's suggestion "humane, clear and workable."

The Russian proposal has been published conspicuously and textually in Russia. Baruch's American plan never has been published fully or in its complete text in the Soviet press.

Pravda said the United States Government counted on naming the period, under its own judgment, during which it will permit an international agency "by successive stages to peep into the secrets of its 'atomic kitchen.'"

"The American plan amounts, as a matter of fact, to clinching the monopoly position of the United States in the production of atomic weapons for an indefinite period,"

Calls Plan 'Perplexed'

The Communist newspaper said the American proposal was an "extremely perplexed plan" and asserted:

"Each point calls forth doubtful questions and is pregnant with all possible complications."

The newspaper asks why the United States, if it announces that the production of atomic weapons will be forbidden, "wants to continue to make and store atomic bombs?"

"On what basis does she pretend to stretch her monopoly in the realm of production of atomic energy to an indefinite period?" the article continued.

"Why are all other countries obligated to show blind trust toward the intentions of the United States at the same time that the United States shows clear expressions of distrust not only toward her partners, but also toward the international control organ?

"Doesn't Washington understand that the main source of distrust toward the United States is the noise raised over the forthcoming tests of atomic bombs in the Pacific Ocean?"

These were some of the questions Pravda raised in its argument asserting the superiority of the Soviet plan over the American plan.

Pravda argued also that the production of atomic bombs in the United States was not fully in Government hands, but that separate stages of the production were leased to private "monopoly firms" such as E. I. du Pont de Nemours. The Delaware Chemical Company, Pravda charged, was before the war "tied by thousands of threads to the German chemical concern I. G. Farbenindustrie."

Pravda said this charge was "in general, not such as to create confidence."

Discusses Veto Power

Writing of the veto power by which either Russia, the United States, the United Kingdom, France or China may block any proposal in the United Nations Security Council, Pravda said the proposed relaxation of this principle (as applied to atomic matters) was one of the "actual defects" of the American plan. Pravda said the U. S. demand was not in accord with "one of the fundamental principles of the activity of the Security Council."

"The American press twaddles about the necessity of 'rejection by the powers of their sovereignty'." Pravda said in discussing the veto power. It contended "the renunciation by the powers of their sovereignty" would be "in favor of the United States."

"The past few months' experience has shown sufficiently convincingly that the rule of unanimity by great powers is an unfailing condition for maintaining the quality of the sides in this (Security Council) organ of the United Nations, upon which depends the adoption of responsible decisions. There is not and cannot be a denunciation of this rule."

In praising the Russian atomic plan, Pravda asserted that it envisaged the widest possible "use of atomic power for peaceful purposes and for improving the welfare of peoples."

Answers Pravda's Attack.

Wilmington, Del., June 24 (A. P.)—Walter S. Carpenter Jr., president of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company, said today that Pravda's attack on the du Pont company in an article on atomic energy "is a typical Communist mixture of untruth and distortion."

"Citizens of countries that have a free press," he said in a statement, "have known for a long time what Pravda deliberately covers up:

"That du Pont undertook its part in the atomic energy program at the urgent request of the United States Government in a time of great danger for all the United Nations including Russia, received a fee of $1 for doing it, and insisted that any patent rights growing out of its work belong to the Unted States Government.

"They know further that du Pont has already arranged to withdraw from the program not later than September 1 of this year, retaining no interests or rights therein.

"As for I. G. Farben, the implication that the du Pont company had any connection with the German company of a nature detrimental to the United States or the United Nations is just as far from the truth as Pravda's comment that atomic research was 'sold to private monopolies.'"

Mihailovitch Contends Accuser 'Sold' Partisans

G. PALMER

Interrupts Trial to Denounce Prosecution Witness

BELGRADE, June 24 (AP).—The trial of General Draja Mihailovitch by a Yugoslav military court was interrupted briefly today when the Chetnik leader shouted an accusation that the first prosecution witness had "sold" Partisan war prisoners to the Germans.

The witness, Vojin Skavovitch, said Mihailovitch had ordered that Partisan prisoners be turned over to the Germans, and that a group of 365 Partisans were delivered to the Nazis in November, 1941.

"You didn't hand them over," shouted Mihailovitch. "You sold them!"

After the trial was resumed, the court president asked Skavovitch what happened to the Partisans, and he replied: "I heard later they all were shot."

Another prosecution witness, Milan Grol, minister in the Yugoslav government in London and later a Vice-Premier in the Tito government, testified that the government at London was "not allowed to have direct contact with Mihailovitch. It had to go through the British."

Ruth Mitchell Has Her Say on Belgrade Trial

Admits She Had Contact With Gestapo—She Was Its Prisoner at the Time

HENDERSON, Nev., June 23 (AP). —Ruth Mitchell, sister of the late General William Mitchell, and a guerrilla fighter under the Yugoslav General Draja Mihailovitch, assailed Sunday what she termed the "mockery of justice now being conducted in Belgrade."

Answering charges of one of Mihailovitch's co-defendants, Dragomir Jovanovitch, police prefect of Belgrade during the occupation, that she was seen with the Gestapo and Chetniks, Miss Mitchell said:

"It is a great honor, one of the greatest ever bestowed upon me, to be called a traitor by that scoundrel, Tito (Yugoslav Premier Josip Broz). If ever there was a traitor to the Serbian people, it is Tito. For even now he is holding power by using the notorious Croat Ustashi, an organization of murderers trained by Mussolini. During the war they were responsible for the slaughter of Serbian peasants. Now they are cast in the role of patriots."

Miss Mitchell admitted she had been seen with the Gestapo on the occasion of her arrest and court martial for Chetnik activities. She was sentenced to death after thirteen months in eleven different Nazi prison camps. Pressure by the Swiss government won her release on a prisoner of war exchange.

Miss Mitchell attacked bitterly the American State Department for its "failure to force the Tito government to allow me and the American aviators aided by the Chetnik forces to testify at the trial."

Miss Mitchell went to the Balkans as a magazine correspondent to cover an Albanian regal function. She remained to write and eventually fight against the German invasion. For a time she worked for the British intelligence. After her capture in May, 1940, by the Germans she was condemned to death. A Belgrade prison chief offered to commute the sentence if she would fight for Tito, she said.

"That should clear up who collaborated with the Germans," she declared. "I have been sickened by the Belgrade travesty and I intend to continue my fight to enter Yugoslavia, for I would consider it a high honor standing trial beside Mihailovitch. If he is a traitor, so is every one of the democracy-loving Serbian people."

BREAK HELD NEAR IN VIENNA SHOOTING

Russians Cooperating With U.S. Officials in Inquiry Into Red Army Man's Attack on M.P.

L. Heinzerling

VIENNA, June 24 (AP)—A solution was near today as American and Soviet officials cooperated closely in the investigation of the wounding of two American military policemen who had tried to halt three Russian soldiers Saturday night in a stolen jeep.

The Americans were recovering in an army hospital, but a Soviet lieutenant [illegible] while resisting arrest by United States authorities investigating the shooting had only a fifty-fifty chance to recover.

Soviet physicians said the lieutenant had suffered a grave bullet wound in the abdomen. An occupant of the stolen jeep was in custody, but there was no indication that the wounded Russian was connected with the case.

Gen. Mark W. Clark, United States commander in Austria, visited the two soldiers in the hospital. He found one walking around the room. The other is expected to be able to leave his bed in about ten days.

The Americans were shot when they pulled alongside the stolen jeep in one of their own. A Russian reached out and fired at close range, hitting both Americans in the face. One was still suffering today from powder burns around his eyes.

Additional Russians were still being questioned. The Soviet police and investigators have worked with the American provost marshal from the outset. Russian judge advocates have participated in the questioning.

American officers had high praise for the cooperation they were receiving from the Russians, who gave assurances that all the men involved in the shooting would be turned over to American authorities.

TWO AMERICANS SHOT BY REDS RECOVERING

Solution Near of Fracas Over Stolen Jeep—Russians Aid Probe

L. Heinzerling

Vienna, June 24—(AP)—Russian and American investigators, working in close co-operation, were near to a solution today of the shooting of two American military policemen Saturday night.

The Americans, both recovering in an Army hospital, were shot when they attempted to stop a stolen American jeep in which three Russian soldiers were riding.

Russian police and investigators have worked with the American provost marshal on the case from the beginning. Russian judge advocates participated in the questioning of suspects. A number of Russians were still under questioning today and one of the occupants of the stolen jeep was in custody.

A Russian lieutenant was shot while resisting arrest by American military policemen ordered to pick up suspects in the case. He was in serious condition with a bullet wound in the stomach.

The two Americans were shot at close range. One of them suffered from powder burns around his eyes. They were shot when they pulled their jeeb beside the stolen jeep. A Russian reached out and fired at close range, hitting both soldiers in the face.

American officers praised Russian co-operation in investigating the case. The Russians have given assurances that all the men involved in the shooting would be found and that they would be turned over to American authorities.

The names of the two wounded Americans were withheld pending notification of their families.

The shooting capped a week of unrest involving Allied troops in Vienna. A Russian soldier was reported killed a week ago in the British zone of the city during a fight among British, French and Russian troops.

BORDER REPORTS DENIED

Morgan Says Line in Venezia Giulia Is Unchanged

JUN 25 1946

ROME, June 24 (AP)—Lieut. Gen. Sir William Morgan, supreme commander in the Mediterranean theatre, denied today persistent reports that the demarcation line between Zones A and B in Venezia Giulia was being moved approximately five and a half miles eastward.

He also denied reports that Yugoslav troops in American uniforms had been observed among the British and American units in Zone A. General Morgan said that there had been no change in the British and American policy of maintaining present positions in Venezia Giulia until the future of that territory had been decided and put into effect.

Red Newspaper Staffs Are Excommunicated

Rome, June 24 (A. P.).—Ansa, the Italian news agency, said today that the Most Rev. Carlo Margotti, Archbishop of Gorizia, has excommunicated the employees of four Communist newspapers in the Trieste area on the ground that they had campaigned against the church. Two Italian language newspapers and two Yugoslav publications were affected.

Food Rioting Breaks Out In South Italy Cities

Women Beat Bitonto Mayor in Protest on Poor Bread

NAPLES, June 25 (Tuesday) (AP).—A throng of irate women invaded the city hall at Bitonto yesterday and beat up the mayor because of the recent poor quality of bread in the city, as food rioting broke out in toeh municipalities in Southern Italy.

At Bari, war veterans demonstrated, demanding bread and work. About 2,000 unemployed farm workers staged a demonstration against land owners in Rutigliano, setting fire to the property of one of ithe owners.

Carabinieri dispersed the demonstrators in all the cities and restored order.

U. S. WRITER EXPELLED

Rumania Carries Out Russian Order on Markham

BUCHAREST, Rumania, June 24 (AP)—Reuben Markham, Christian Science Monitor correspondent, has been expelled from Rumania by a Russian order, it was announced today. He was reported to have left by plane for Greece.

The Russians issued the expulsion order a month ago, but permitted him to stay in the country pending decision "from a high level." Meanwhile, the State Department attempted to intervene in his behalf.

According to information here, the Russians notified Washington that their military commander in Rumania, who issued the original order, had "substantiated" all his charges against the correspondent. For this reason, they said, and because of Mr. Markham's "attitude toward the Rumanian Government," the Russian military commander was being upheld.

The Russian military command has charged that Mr. Markham, "in a political speech," said that war between Russia and the United States was inevitable. He denied making any political speeches.

At an interview prior to the stadium speech Szakasits said there was no complete freedom of speech and the press in Hungary, but asserted that when Hungarian decocracy was as old as that of the United States it would be just as complete.

9,850 LOYALISTS IN JAIL

15,000 Released Since Autumn, Spanish Cabinet Aide Reports

MADRID, June 24 (AP)—Raimundo Fernandez, Minister of Justice in the Cabinet of Generalissimo Francisco Franco, said today that only 9,850 of the "hundreds of thousands" of Loyalists imprisoned as a result of the Spanish civil war still were in prison.

Señor Fernandez reported to prison officials that 15,000 prisoners had been released since last September, leaving Spain's present prison population about the same as it was just before the civil war.

Citing the quality and quantity of food served political prisoners, other prison conditions and the care of prisoners' children, Señor Fernandez declared: "Our conscience tells us we have nothing for which to reproach ourselves. We are doing our painful duty with maximum feelings of humanity and can show the world our clean, stainless conduct. * * *"

Hungary Plans to Halt Its Runaway Inflation

Will Draft Black Marketeers for Forced Labor

DEBRECEN, Hungary, June 23 (Delayed) (AP).—Acting Premier Arpad Szakasits said today that black-market operators would be drafted for foreign labor and "reactionaries" would be eliminated in Hungary's fight against the most fantastic ination in the nation's history.

Addressing more than 100,000 persons in Debrecen Stadium, Szakasits said Hungarians would have to wor': horded and higher taxes would have to be levied to stabilize the currency.

Recently a ten-trillion-pengo bank note was placed in circulation with an exchange value of 26 cents in American money. Under pre-war exchange values, the note would have been worth two tr illion American dollars.

Greeks Suspend Parliament

Fights Had Threatened Between Republicans and Monarchists

ATHENS, June 24 (AP).—A session of the Greek Parliament was suspended tonight amid recriminations and threatened fights between republican and monarchist representatives.

The dispute began when a monarchist representative, Theodore Turcovassilis, speaking on the proposed plebiscite on the return of King George II said the late General John Metaxas was one of three factors which accounted for Greek victories in 1940 and 1941. The other two were the King and the people, he added.

Palestine Hunt Pressed For 3 Kidnaped Britons

JERUSALEM, June 24—(AP) British troops hunted in vain today for three British officers still being held by Jewish resistance [illegible] while the secret Jewish radio charged that the Arab league planned to install the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem as the head of a provisional Palestine government.

JUN 25 1946

The radio, operated by the Haganah defense organization, also appealed again for the British to stay the death sentences of two members of the extremist organization Irgun Zvai Leumi.

A secret plan to install the Mufti, now in exile in Egypt, as head of a Palestine government, was drafted at the recent conference of the Arab league council at Bludan, Syria, the radio asserted.

'BOMBS' BREAK UNEASY QUIET IN PALESTINE

Bursts Found to Carry Leaflets—Two More Britons Reported Freed

Jerusalem, June 24—(AP)—An air of uneasy quiet settled over Palestine today after a troubled weekend marked by the release of two of five British officers who were kidnaped in Tel Aviv on June 18 by Jewish resistance elements.

Tel Aviv was disturbed during the night by a series of sharp explosions later discovered to be the detonation of bombs which distributed anti-British propaganda leaflets as they burst. The leaflets, issued by the illegal resistance organization, Irgun Zval Leumi, contained statements made by two members of the organization now under sentence of death.

Earlier the illegal radio of the Haganah defense organization, "Voice of Israel," declared in a broadcast that peace would only come to Palestine after the admission of 100,000 European Jewish refugees, called for in the British-American committee report.

"The aim of the Jewish people is to build and not to destroy," the broadcast said, "but we unfortunately have to resort to violence and destruction so that the world will know that if justice is not given we will take it."

Two Reported Freed

Hebrew newspapers in Tel Aviv said last night they had received mysterious telephone calls, purportedly from an illegal Jewish organization, declaring that two more of the kidnaped British officers had been freed, but there was no immediate confirmation of this from British sources.

Two officers were released Saturday night in a garden near the Hotel Yarkon, where an armed gang seized them on June 18.

One was suffering from injuries which, a military announcement said, he suffered when slugged with an iron pipe while resisting abduction.

The other officer said that throughout their detention the two were kept chained in a basement carpeted with mattresses. They were guarded by four armed men. Before he was released, he said, one of his guards forced on him a one-pound note (about $4), "saying it was for 'wear and tear' and any inconvenience I suffered."

CHINA COMMUNIST DEMANDS RECALL OF U. S. TROOPS

19 MILES

NANKING, June 24 — (AP) A blunt charge of China's No. 1 Communist that the United States was responsible for China's internal strife shook the framework of peace negotiations here today.

The accusation was made in a statement issued from Yenan by Mao Tse-tung, chairman of the Communist party. He flatly asserted that the stationing of large U. S. forces in China was the "fundamental cause of the eventual outbreak and propagation of civil war in this [illegible]

Madame Chiang [illegible] American military and naval forces had become "a grave menace to national peace, security and freedom," and that the Chinese want them to go home.

The Communist leader's broadside against U. S. policy in China came at a delicate period in General Marshall's efforts to negotiate peace between the nation's warring factions. Some observers felt it virtually ended the American envoy's chances of bringing the Government and Communists together.

It came at a moment of special tension caused by the mobbing of a leftist "peace delegation" arriving from Shanghai to urge a permanent halt to internal strife.

Communists charged that Kuomintang (Government party) "secret police" had engineered the attack, in which a howling mob assaulted and beat the delegates as they stepped off a train at Nanking's railway station.

A delegation spokesman later said that although four delegates—including the leader of the group—had been hospitalized as a result of beatings, they would not abandon their efforts to see Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, General Marshall and the chief Communist negotiator Chou En-lai. (ADD)

The bitterness against Marshall is struggling w[illegible] emplified earlier today wh[en] howling mob assaulted and [beat] up a group of Leftist peace [dele]gates from Shanghai at the Na[n]king railroad station. The delegates were mobbed as they left the train and four delegates, one member of the Democratic League and three Chinese reporters were taken to a hospital as a result. The gendarmes made no arrests.

The Chinese Communists have charged that Kuomintang (National party) "secret police" engineered the attack to prevent the delegation from making a public appeal to Marshall, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and the Communist negotiator, Chou En-lai. The Government - controlled Daily News, however, said that the fight resulted from the efforts of some refugees from North Kiangsu province to persuade the delegation to assist them.

One Ray of Light.

Mah Su-Lung, head of the Shanghai delegation and one of those beaten by the mob, declared from a hospital bed that his group would stay in Nanking "until we accomplish our purpose of telling leaders of all groups that China must have peace."

Marshall himself was reported gravely concerned by the incident. One informant close to him and to the Government and Communist members of the Committee of Three said that the possibility that the attack may have been an attempt to sabotage peace discussions "is not above investigation."

The only ray of light in the whole tangled situation, meanwhile, was an unconfirmed report that Chiang has agreed to modify somewhat his demand that the Communists give up certain areas they hold in North China as a first step toward peace.

Chinese Red Calls U. S. Menace

Mao Denounces American Armed Forces as Threat to Peace and Freedom

Nanking, June 24 (A. P.).—The Chinese Communist leader, Mao Tse-tung, declared today that the Chinese people believe that the United States Army and Navy forces in China have become a grave menace to the peace, security and freedom of China.

Mao, the head of all Chinese Communists, issued a statement at his Yenan headquarters—by far the strongest criticism yet leveled at American activities in China—saying that the people felt the departure of American military forces to be long overdue. DAY

It came at a time when the efforts of Gen. Marshall, special American envoy, to bring the Government and the Communists together had reached a crucial stage.

Leftists Beaten Up.

Lange Working on Compromise

The Polish proposals, it is understood, are based on those presented to the General Assembly last January and are similar to the Russian plan, although Dr. Oscar Lange, the Polish delegate, has been working on a formula to reconcile the American and Russian proposals.

There were, however, considerable misgivings last night in in-

EGYPTIAN STRIKE CANCELLED

CAIRO, June 24. — (AP) A general strike of all workers in Egypt, scheduled for tomorrow by the executive committee of Egyptian labor unions, was called off today after the Ministry of Social Affairs agreed to appoint a committee to study workers' demands and grievances.

Anti-Foreignism Again.

Shanghai, June 24 (A. P.).—The anti-civil war movement today became tinged with anti-foreignism, for which Nation Government spokesmen blamed the Communists.

Students have demonstrated for peace for several days; and now crude posters have begun to appear. Some typical ones said: "Americans, you go sweet home," "G. I.'s, you get the hell out of China," "American Army and Navy must go," "No more lend-lease," and "How would you like a war started in your country?"

The Communist offered no immediate comment. In the past, they have frequently blamed American military aid to the Government for prolonging China's struggle.

CHINESE PRIESTS THREATEN STRIKE

Singapore, June 24 (A. P.).—Something new in labor troubles was reported today from upcountry Malaya. The Penang Buddhist Association of Chinese Priests announced that it would refuse to conduct prayers until granted $1.50 more a week for special prayer meetings. They now receive the equivalent of $10 a month, plus food and lodging.

British Seek To Avert Deadlock On India Plan

New Proposals Reported as Gandhi's Congress Party Prepares to Reject Outline for Interim Government —Five Killed in Nehru Demonstrations

New Delhi, June 24—(AP)—Faced by the virtual certainty that the All-India Congress Party would reject its plan for an interim government for India, the British Cabinet mission was reported today to have made new last-minute proposals to avert a breakdown in negotiations.

The new proposals reportedly were discussed at an hour-long meeting between Pethick Lawrence and Sir Stafford Cripps of the British delegation and Mohandas K. Gandhi and Sardar Patel, representing the Congress party.

Gandhi hastened from the conference to attend a morning session of the Congress working committee, which had been reported ready to adopt a resolution turning thumbs down on the British plan. The fact that the committee failed to release the expected resolution after a two and one-half hour session stirred speculation that an agreement might yet be reached on the form of government that is to rule India pending adoption of a charter of independence for this troubled land.

New Development Forecast

After the working committee meeting Maulana Abul Kalam Azad, Congress Party president, told newsmen:

"There is some new development today."

Asked whether the situation was hopeful he merely smiled and said: "It is for you to draw your own conclusions."

Kalan Azad had been obviously pessimistic over the outlook yesterday. Emerging from a three-hour working committee session he said wearily:

"The thing is now over as far as the Congress is concerned."

Mohandas K. Gandhi, the party's spiritual head, said later, at an evening prayer meeting:

"Let us not look to the British cabinet mission but let us ourselves become a cabinet mission and develop that power and authority. We cannot build freedom in a hurry, nor can we get it in a hurry. We have to work patiently and perseveringly."

Five Killed In Madura

In Madura, meanwhile, five persons were slain and 13 injured when police opened fire on armed crowds attacking pedestrians in a continuation of demonstrations protesting the arrest of Jawaharlal Nehru, president- elect of the Congress Party in aKshmir State last week.

Dispatches from Madura, in Southern India, said police bullets killed two and injured one, while the rioters killed three and injured 12, bringing the death toll in three days of demonstrating to seven. At 7 P. M. to 5:30 A. M. curfew was ordered for the city.

Nehru returned to New Delhi yesterday to attend the working committee sessions and for discussions with the cabinet mission and Viceroy Lord Wavell. He said he had no complaint to make against the Kashmir Police but criticized an order which barred him from entering the princely state.

A new element was introduced into the governmental situation, meantime, when Sardar Baldev Singh, Punjab minister and Sikh nominee for the proposed interim cabinet, received a mandate from his community to decline the post. Mahomed Ali Jinnah, president of the Moslem League, previously had demanded that the league consent be obtained before filling vacancies caused by such a refusal.

Baldev Singh's nomination had the approval of the Congress Party. Five Congress Party members, five Moslem League members and four representatives from minority groups in India would serve on the interim cabinet under the British plan.

BRITISH HEAR INDIA TURNS DOWN OFFER

London, June 24 (A. P.).—The Congress party's working committee rejected today the proposal for an interim government for India made by the British, Reuters reported from New Delhi. A decision whether to accept the long-term phases of the independence plan was expected tomorrow.

Hyderabad Seeks U S Machinery

KARACHI, India, June 24 (AP)—The State of Hyderabad plans to place orders for industrial machinery to a total value of £3,000,000 ($12,000,000) in the United States and Britain, Nawab Zian Yar Jung Bahadur, Hyderabad Public Works Minister, said today. The minister, who is heading an industrial delegation from the State to America and Britain, said, "We propose to convert Hyderabad into the Manchester of India."

Electricity And Gas Rationed In Australia

Sydney, Australia, June 24—(AP)—Rationing of electric power and household gas is being put into effect this week, due to coal shortages, in Australia's four most populous states. Train and tram service in New South Wales, Victoria, Queensland and South Australia also has been drastically cut.

The Commonwealth Coal Commissioner, Harold L. Williams, said the fuel shortage was due chiefly to depleted stocks resulting from widespread work stoppages at the mines.

JAPANESE COLONEL FACES CHARGES IN $30,000,000 THEFT

Batavia, Java, June 24—(AP)—Dutch authorities charged Japanese Col. Akira Nomura today with "illegal possession of property" in connection with the theft of a $30,000,000 cache of looted East Indian jewels, gold and cash, about $5,000,000 worth of which has been recovered.

E. Brunsveld van Hulten, Dutch prosecutor, said Nomura, a former Tokyo school teacher and director of the Japanese planning board in Java during the war, was believed to know where the bulk of the treasure was hidden. Nomura was taken from a prisoner of war camp to face the charges.

X-RAY SHOWS FRONTAL WOUND KILLED KING

23-Man Mission in Siam Leaves Major Verdict on Death Unanswered

Bangkok, June 23—(Delayed)—(AP)—An official source said today that an X-ray examination of the body of King Ananda Mahidol, who died of a gunshot wound in the palace June 9, had proved conclusively that the fatal bullet entered the front of the 20-year-old monarch's head.

30.21-3505

The first disclosures of an investigation conducted by a 23-man medical mission—appointed to still spreading rumors that the King had been a victim of foul play—made no mention, however, of any conclusions as to whether the ruler's death was an accident, suicide or murder.

An official source said a study of X-ray pictures of Ananda's skull, made during a six-hour examination of the body Saturday, established definitely that the King was not shot from behind, as many rumors concerning the King's alleged assassination claimed.

The first announcements of the King's death said Aananda, a firearms enthusiast, had been examining a weapon when it discharged accidentally, the bullet entering his skull. Later announcements, intended to quiet rumors casting doubt on the official version of the death, repeated that it was accidental.

Test Made On Cadavers

The effects of .45 caliber bullets on a number of cadavers at Sirirat Hospital also were studied by the commission, as a result of which the medical men said they were able to estimate the distance from the head at which the gun was fired. This estimate was not made public, but there were hints that the distance was not great.

One informed source said the commission found that gunpowder marks could have been sponged away and concluded that a cross-shaped wound on the King's forehead was caused by gun gases tearing away the flesh.

When the King's body was removed from the golden urn, in which tradition requires that it be kept for 100 days before the cremation rites, members of the medical commission prostrated themselves for 10 minutes before proceeding with their examination.

One of commission members was Dr. Edwin C. Cort, an American missionary doctor, a graduate of Johns Hopkins and an old friend of Ananda's father. He has been a medical missionary in Siam for 30 years.

TOJO BETRAYER STARTING WAR, TRIBUNAL TOLD

Japanese Newsman Says Action Violated Promise to Foreign Minister

Tokyo, June 24—(AP)—A Japanese newspaperman testified today that former Premier Hideki Tojo "betrayed" his own foreign minister when he plunged Japan into war with the United States.

Prosecution witness Tomin Suzuki told the International War Crimes Tribunal that less than two months before Pearl Harbor Tojo promised Foreign Minister Shigenori Togo he would support a policy of peaceful settlement of differences with the United States.

Suzuki said he had been surprised to see Togo, now on trial along with Tojo and 26 other Japanese leaders, enter the militaristic cabinet because "I always believed him to be an exponent of peace."

So Suzuki, who got into trouble with the authorities for opposing Japanese aggression, asserted he went around to see Togo, who told him he became foreign minister only because Tojo had assured him he wanted peace.

"I was still doubtful," said the former editorial writer for the prominent newspaper Yomiuri, "and I tried to learn if General Tojo would live up to his promise.

"Togo answered me by saying that he had known General Tojo for a long time and believed that even Tojo was aware that to bring a peaceful settlement it was necessary to keep such a promise."

Suzuki added that Togo, former ambassador to Germany and Russia "was thoroughly convinced that General Tojo would not betray him."

LENIENCY TO EMPEROR APPLAUDED IN JAPAN

TOKYO, June 24 (AP)—Thunderous applause shook the House of Representatives today when Premier Shigeru Yoshida said the Allies' attitude on the Emperor's war responsibility was "improving." [Apparently the Premier referred to the recent tendency displayed in the Tokyo war crimes trial and elsewhere to emphasize that the Emporor was not responsible for decisions made in his name.]

Mr. Yoshida took note of the applause and declared that it indicated the gratitude of the House toward the Allies.

In the House of Peers, on the other hand, a member asserted that all Japanese males (presumably including Emperor Hirohito) were responsible for the war and should get out of politics.

The author of this sweeping statement, Jinjiro Mizuno, then proposed petticoat rule for Japan and invited his colleagues to resign in favor of the women. To Mr. Yoshida he addressed the query:

"What is the attitude of the Government on this problem?"

Mr. Yoshida, presiding over an all-male Cabinet, replied gently that the Government was studying ways to improve the lot of Japanese women.

The first Communist ever to speak on the floor of the House of Representatives, Secretary General Kyuichi Tokuda of the Communist party, bitterly assailed Mr. Yoshida's Cabinet as "the enemy of the people."

RED SCORES YOSHIDA

Tokyo, June 24 (A. P.).—The first Communist ever to speak on the floor of Japan's House of Representatives bitterly assailed Premier Yoshida's Cabinet today as "the enemy of the people." The Communist law-maker, Kyuichi Tokuda, secretary-general of his party, also styled Japan's proposed new Constitution "a betrayal of the people."

Tokuda asserted that the Yoshida Cabinet was unable to solve the problems of food and unemployment and was trying to rush through the Gen. MacArthur-approved Constitution "in order to consolidate the power of the bureaucracy."

The Communist centered his criticism of the Constitution on the contention that "the Emperor system hasn't been revised, even slightly."

Yokohama To Have U. S.-Like July 4

Tokyo, June 24—(AP)—Parades, reviews and gun salutes will mark observance here and in Yokohama of the Fourth of July. A 48-gun salute is to be fired on the plaza of the Imperial Palace grounds here after a review of U. S. troops, probably by Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, Eighth Army commander.

Petticoat Rule for Japan

TOKYO, June 24 (AP).—Jinjiro Mizuno, member of the House of Peers, advocated today a petticoat rule for Japan, saying that all Japanese men were responsible for the war and should get out of politics. After proposing that every one resign in favor of the women, Mizuno turned in the House of Peers and asked Premier Yoshida: "What is the attitude of the government on this problem?" Yo[shida], presiding over a strictly [male] cabinet, refused to be pinned [down]. He replied that the government was studying ways to better women's position.

Food From U. S. Ready for Japs

Tokyo, June 24 (A. P.).—Approximately 22,250 tons of wheat, flour and bagged rice imported from the United States will be distributed in the Tokyo-Yokohama area in the next few days to relieve the food shortage.

Pacific Air System Formed

TOKYO, June 24 (AP)—The United States Army, Navy and Air Forces have coordinated to form the Pacific Air Routes System, which incorporates a flight-control system on designated airways and a plan for air-sea rescue applicable to military and civilian planes. The Pacific Air Command, announcing the new organizational set-up today, said that the system extended from the American coast to the Orient and from Alaska to the tropics.

TROOPS IN JAPAN RUSH TO WELCOME FIRST WIVES' SHIP

Yokohama, June 24—(AP) — The first U. S. Army dependents arrived in Japan today—183 wives, 128 children and one mother—and were given a riotous welcome at the dock.

The gangplank had just touched down when husbands and fathers swarmed aboard, brushing past scores of military police who had thought they were on hand to preserve order.

There were reunions all over the Army Transport Ainsworth, in the passageways, in the cabins, even on ladders between decks as families separated as much as two years got better acquainted.

It was mainly an officers' party, but the families of five enlisted men were aboard. Only 36 enlisted men in the whole U. S. Eighth Army of Occupation so far have asked transportation for their families. Apparently most of them hope they won't be here too long.

When a semblance of order was restored, families began moving down the gangplank to the music of two bands, which kept playing "Roll Out the Barrel" over and over, as though the needle was stuck.

Tonight the families were scattering throughout Japan.

Jap Who Tortured Yanks to Be Tried

Yokohama, June 24 (A. P.).—Genji (Water Snake) Mineno, prison camp guard charged with thrusting burning slivers beneath the fingernails of his American prisoners, burning them with hot pokers and pouring water into their noses, goes on trial tomorrow. The prosecutors will include Jesse Deitch of White Plains, N. Y.

RUSSIANS CLOSE CONSULATE IN SOUTHERN KOREA

Seoul, Korea, June 24—(AP)—Andrei Polianski, Russian consul, and members of his staff entrained yesterday for Pyongyang, headquarters of Russian-occupied North Korea, after closing their Seoul consulate. Three caretakers remain.

U. S. headquarters here declined comment on reasons for the closing.

There is no government of Korea to accredit foreign consulates, but the Russian establishment had operated here since shortly after the Soviet declaration of war upon Japan. The United States and Britain maintain only liaison agents in Seoul and no other governments are represented here. An American military government controls Southern Korea and Russians rule the north.

ROXAS CHARGES ICKES' CRITICISMS 'ENTIRELY FALSE'

Manila, June 24—(AP)—Pres. Manuel Roxas, in an unprecedented personal cable, today took former U. S. Secretary of the Interior Ickes to task for "completely false statements" in a recent radio talk.

Roxas defended his war record, said that he only surrendered to the Japanese after he was implored by General Wainwright to do so "to prevent hardships to other U. S. troops," and added:

"Your statement that I signed a declaration of war (against the Allies) is completely baseless, as inspection of the records will show.

"I withstood savage insistence by the Japanese for two years (before entering the Philippines government while it was under Japanese domination) and I only agreed to direct a food organization on the pleas and entreaties of hungry children and mothers . . .

"Filipino people who knew what transpired fully vindicated me even before General MacArthur made a formal statement disclosing my wartime role . . . I solicit your earnest support, not your inaccurate criticism. I hope your sense of fairness, which has been described to me, will lead you to give this reply careful and impartial consideration."

Pauley Wants Industries In Japan to Aid Orient

Says Needs of Weak Should Control Use of Reparations

MANILA, June 24 (AP).—Edwin W. Pauley declared today that the needs of weaker nations—not the claims of great powers—should guide the distribution of reparations to be exacted of Japan.

The American Reparations Commissioner told a press conference that "the industrial machinery of Japan must now be used to liberate the people of the Orient from economic bondage and misery."

Paule mentioned no nation by name, but declared that reparations negotiations were rapidly becoming "a scramble in a competitive sense." He said shipments of reparations machinery from Japan probably would begin within thirty days.

Pauley and his party will leave tonight for India en route to Europe.

HONDURAN EDITORS FLEE

They Report Others Jailed After Press Freedom Is Proclaimed

GUATEMALA, June 24 (AP)—The Guatemalan press said tonight that four Honduran newspaper editor-executives had arrived here, fleeing what they termed a "wave of terror" in Honduras, directed especially against newspaper men and students.

The executives were quoted as saying [illegible] editors were among a number of persons recently imprisoned in Honduras. The local newspaper Nuestro Diario said the refugees and the prisoners had been "fooled" by Honduran President Tiburcio Carias Andino's proclamation of freedom of the press several months ago.

Those arriving in Guatemala were Victor F. Ardon, director of Libertador of Comayague; Alejandro Flores Morales, director of Orientacion of Tegucigalpa; Pedro Antonio Moncada, director of En Accion of Tegucigalpa, and Vidal Mejia, director of Norte of San Pedro Sula.

The newspapers here listed as imprisioned Abraham Cunera, editor of Libertado, and Adolfo Miralda, director of Tribuna of La Ceiba.

Find Plane Lost in 1943

OTTAWA, June 24 (AP)—The wreckage of a Liberator missing with 24 Royal Canadian Air Force personnel aboard since Oct. 20, 1943, has been sighted by a search party scouring an area sixty miles north of Dorval, Que., Air Force headquarters said tonight. Further details were not immediately available.

EIGHT SUBMARINES WILL BE AFLOAT AS A-BOMB DROPS

ABOARD FLAGSHIP MT. M'KINLEY, Bikini, Tuesday, June, 25 — (AP) The Crossroads task force has virtually decided to leave all eight submarines surfaced for the first atom bomb test and sumberge most of them for the second trial.

Although no immediate explanation was made, it was assumed experts wanted to determine pressures on the decks, conning towers periscopes and guns from the air burst of the bomb, then subject the boats to the possible hull-crushing pressures produced by the explosion of the second bomb at about 25 feet depth.

The undersea craft took the skippers of the Bikini target submarines through so many tight scrapes in the war that they expect the boats to survive even this most violent depth charging.

Cmdr. Richard A. Waugh of Manhattan, Kas., senior sub officer at Bikini, commander of Submarine Squadron 11 and skipper of the Dentuda, says:

"Submariners are pretty cocky. They've taken a lot of depth charging, but they always expect to come back. And they expect their boats to come back from this patrol."

Then Waugh added that actually the submariners don't know what will happen. Only the tests can show. But the submariners can hope.

In general, the submarines have the same recording instruments for the test installed on most of the surface ships. Like other combatant vessels of the target array, they will carry some torpedoes and ammunition in simulated war condition.

Five of the boats — the Parch, Pilotfish, Dentuda, Apagon and Skate—are the new heavy-hull type boats.

Those to be put under water for the second test will be trimmed to neutral buoyancy, then pulled under by the weight of concrete blocks attached to bridles over bow and stern. In that way they will float free of the bottom but under the surface, as boats do under battle condition.

BIKINI TEST DROP HAILED AS SUCCESS

W. C. FAY

ABOARD THE U.S.S. MOUNT M'KINLEY, June 24—(AP) A sheet of orange flame blossomed over the target fleet in Bikini lagoon today, signaling the final practice drop before the atom bomb tests scheduled July 1.

The full dress rehearsal of A-day was a preview down to the minutest detail—save that the atomic bomb itself was not used. It was pronounced a success.

Burst Near Target Ship

The practice missile dropped by a Superfortress at 9:15 a.m. (5:15 p.m. Sunday, E.S.T.) burst above and between the bullseye target ship—the old battleship Nevada—and the light carrier Independence.

"It was swell," was the report from Vice Admiral William H. P. Blandy, commander of the atomic test force. "I hope the real show goes as well."

(A broadcast by CBS correspondent Don Mozley from Bikini, heard in San Francisco Monday, reported Mozley visited the Nevada after the rehearsal and found the ship's deck pitted by the practice bomb and some other minor damage. There was similar damage, Mozley said, aboard the Independence. No major installations were touched, however, he added, and radar beacons still were operating on the Nevada late in the afternoon.)

Plane Makes Three Runs

The final trial bomb, reasonably similar in size and shape to the real A-bomb but of negligible force, was dropped on the third run over the target by the Superfortress "Dave's Dream."

Maj. Woodrow P. Swancutt, pilot, and his crew of experts were balked in their first and second runs when clouds obliterated the target fleet, anchored in the lagoon.

The third turned the trick. Observers on this flagship 10 miles from the guinea pig ship could not see the B-29 as it swept high over the fleet on the final run. But there was no mistaking what had happened when a sheet of orange fire flared brilliantly for an instant against the blue sky, followed by a huge ball of greyish white smoke.

As the smoke cloud puffed upward, two accompanying B-29s dropped blast-recording instruments attached to parachutes. Next came the first of the planes that on "A-day" will trail the radioactive cloud rising over the lagoon.

There were 76 aircraft in the intricate rehearsal. Included were remote-controlled planes which will fly through the deadly radioactive clouds above the atomic bomb burst.

One tragedy marred the event. Before Swancutt's plane hopped off from Kwajalein, which like Bikini is in the Marshall islands, an Army Air forces captain walked into a propeller and was killed. His identity was not disclosed.

Flash-charged Substitute for Real Thing Goes Straight Home.

E. FAY

Aboard the U. S. S. Mount McKinley, June 24 (A. P.).—The final practice bomb exploded over the Bikini target fleet in a gigantic blossom of orange flame today—A full dress rehearsal for the real show a week hence.

The blinding feeble substitute for the atomic wrath to come, was let go on the third flight of a Superfortress high above the target fleet at 9:14 A. M., (5:14 P. M. Sunday, Eastern Standard Time.)

The first time the great bomber throbbed over it was a dry run. The second was supposed to be the real thing, but clouds obscured the target in the last minute or two. Observers on this flagship ten miles from the target fleet could not see the B-29 as it went roaring across the sky on the third and pay-off run.

DAY

NIGHT

Orange Fire Bursts Out.

But there, against the bright blue sky, the orange fire suddenly flamed forth for an instant brilliantly. Then a great ball of greyish white smoke drifted upward and began floating off to the southwest.

Two accompanying Superfortresses dropped blast-recording instruments on parachutes in split second timing after the explosion. And then the first of the aircraft designed to track the simulated radio-active cloud that will rise over the lagoon on "A Day" came winging over.

From the McKinley's upper decks, the larger target ships could be identified, even by untrained observers. The McKinley, together with an escorting destroyer, was closest in to the target.

Eight ships, which had remained in the lagoon overnight with the McKinley, sent out boats prior to the dropping of the atomic bomb on or about July 1.

According to Rear Admiral W. S. Parsons, some 7,000 instruments of measurement and record will be utilized to make the test among the most thoroughly analyzed scientific experiments ever held. These devices will record the detonation of the bomb graphically, photographically, electronically and radiometrically, and the data provided will be collected and interpreted in preliminary reports and the final analyses by the instrument group under Admiral Parsons. Publication of the official results may be delayed for many weeks.

To Measure Blast and Effects.

The first problem is to measure the bomb as a bomb, in the sense that TNT or any other high explosive would be measured by blast, pressure, shock, heat and fragmentation, apart from any effect it may have on the target.

The second problem is to record the bomb's effect on ships and the third problem of measurement concerns oceanographic factors of wave motion, seismic changes, wave patterns and changes in ecology (relations between organisms and their environment) among living things in the area. The fourth and last problem in measurement concerns the energy released by the atomic bomb in terms of electrical changes in the atmosphere, in radiation and radioactivity. Very few data will be released on these findings, it is emphasized.

As for the effects of the blast on the target ships Rear Admiral T. A. Solberg of the Bureau of Ships lists five sources of damage that may be expected. They are radiological effects. The effects of heat, air blasts, underwater shock, extreme pressure and wave effects will probably be the most photographed event.

There is a battery of more than 450 cameras here. Official estimates place the number of pictures to be taken at 50,000 stills and 1,500,000 feet of movie film. These pictures will be subject to strict military review before they can be released for publication and many pictures will never be released.

The logistics involved in Operation Crossroads provided quite a problem to the personnel of the joint Army-Navy task force, under the command of Vice-Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, whose staff, already at Bikini, totals some 42,000 persons. Of this total, some 12,500 are engaged in logistics. From the standpoint of logistics, the operation compares in size and detail with that of a full-scale amphibious invasion requiring mammoth quantities of supplies.

MODERN SHIPS OF FOE BASIC IN ATOM TEST

Nagato May Yield Answers on New Construction

Aboard Crossroads Flagship Mt. McKinley, Bikini, June 24—(AP)—Two former enemy ships may supply the United States Navy with some of the best answers on how modern naval construction stands up under atomic bombing.

Of the big ships among the 75 target vessels in the guina pig fleet at Bikini, the most recently built types include the German heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen and the Japanese light cruiser Sakawa.

The hulls of both ships are of welded steel construction, a type of building used by the United States throughout most of the wartime construction program but represented in only one of the large American combatant ships brought to the test.
